Five bodies of fortress crewmen were recovered Saturday, but none has been found since. Debris from the two fortresses have been found floating on the surface.

The names of the missing personnel have not been announced pending notification of next of kin.

O.P.A. Bill Passed By House 210-142, Senate Acts Today

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY

WASHINGTON, July 23—(AP) The house passed the new OPA bill 210 to 142 today after assurances from Democratic leader McCormack (Mass) that President Truman will sign it.

NIGHT

The senate plans to take it up tomorrow, with leaders hoping that it may be sent to the White House the same day. With the President's signature, the way would then be open for price ceilings to be restored after a three-week lapse.

In the final house showdown, 157 Democrats, 52 Republicans and one minor party member voted for the bill. Opposing were 119 Republicans, 22 Democrats and one minor party member.

The President meanwhile signed into law a congressional stipulation that no OPA money can be used for "propaganda" in behalf of price controls. The prohibition was put into a bill which cut $26,000,000 off the OPA appropriation for the year, limiting the agency's fund to $75,000,000.

House opponents of the OPA, shouting that its revival would "mean new scarcities and new black markets," put up a last-ditch but losing battle. A motion by Rep. Lea (D-Calif) which would have stricken everything but rent controls was defeated 220 to 135, with some Republicans supporting the administration.

Expect Signature

McCormack told the house Mr. Truman will sign the battered bill, although he vetoed a previous congressional attempt to trim OPA's powers and, morover, the new compromise measure bans price ceilings on major foods—meat, poultry, eggs, milk, etc.—for at least 30 days.

But it permits immediate restoration of controls on manufactured products, rents, and on foods not specifically exempted.

OPA could roll back to their June 30 levels any rent increases made by landlords since that date. An official told reporters the OPA plans to reestablish the June 30 ceilings in the areas which were under rent controls then.

The new legislation writes formulas for higher prices in many lines, but OPA is given at least 30 days in which to figure these new prices.

Three-Man Board

The measure creates a three-man control board, superior to OPA, to determine when various items shall be put under controls and when controls should be dropped.

Price control is banned under any circumstances before August 20 on meats, dairy products, poultry, eggs, grains, cottonseed and soybeans and food and feed products made from them; tobacco and petroleum and their products.

Other major provisions of the bill include:

Agriculture—OPA is stripped of final authority over price controls on agricultural items, and the power is placed with secretary of agriculture Anderson. The control board is superior to the agriculture secretary in determining whether the decontrolled foods are restored to price ceilings.

Manufactured goods—a new formula prescribed that price ceilings must be set high enough for producers, manufacturers and processors to take care of the average increase in costs in their industry since 1940. OPA is given some discretion in granting price increases, if old prices return a "reasonable profit."

Wholesalers and retails — OPA must allow "the current cost of acquisition of any commodity, plus such average percentage discount or markup as was in effect March 31, 1946." This would stop a large portion of OPA's so-called "cost absorption" program.

Subsidies—the bill cuts in half the administration request for $2,051,000,000 for use largely in holding down food prices.

Warns Congress

McCormack admonished that unless Congress restores price controls "the people will put in their own controls next November" at election time.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the banking committee declared "the people will rise up in wrath" if congress fails to revive OPA and said rising prices cause "labor troubles and a trail of evils."

Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) leading off for the opposition, declared that revival of OPA would "be a step backward to scarcities and black markets."

The bill worked out by a Senate - House conference committee, he said, "would put American enterprise back in the straight-jacket of bureaucracy. It would retard reconversion while promoting inflation."

Rep. Patman (D-Tex), an advocate of price controls, commented that "this bill is 50 percent better than the vetoed bill."

HOUSE RATIFIES BILL TO REVIVE PRICE CONTROLS

Sends Compromise Measure to Senate by Vote of 210 to 142.

TRUMAN MAY ACT TONIGHT

Move in Senate to Leave Only Rent Curb in Bill Loses by 220 to 135.

Washington, July 23 (A. P.).—The House today approved the new compromise OPA revival bill.

The roll call vote was 210 to 142.

The action sent the measure, worked out in a Senate-House conference committee, to the Senate for action there. The plan was to obtain Senate action later this afternoon so that the measure, if finally approved, might go to the White House by nightfall.

The House earlier decisively rejected a move to keep all price controls from the compromise bill, which would have left the measure as a simple authority over rents. The plan was defeated first on a standing vote of 159 to 120, and then rejected on a formal roll call, 220 to 135.

The move to limit controls to rents was made by Representative Lea (D.-Cal.). It was supported by a large bloc of Republicans and some Democrats, most of whom had spoken against the compromise. The vote on it came after Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts told the House that if Congress approved the compromise version it will become law. He indicated by his statement that President Truman had given assurances that he would sign the bill, thus reviving the OPA.

Bounced Overboard Man Swims In Bikini Day After Bomb Hit

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN, July 23—(AP) An unidentified man spent an hour and a half swimming in slighly radioactive waters of Bikini lagoon July 2, the day after the air atomic bomb was dropped.

Col. Stafford Warren told the story today. He is chief of radiological safety, and cited the accident as justification of the extreme cautions taken to keep all personnel away from everything except slight danger.

The swimmer had been bounced overboard by choppy waves from a small motorboat which was in waters only slightly radioactive. The coxwain failed to see the accident.

The man swam for an hour and a half, Warren said, thoroughly frightened, knowing the risk not only from drowning but from unseen rays. He was in a state of panic when taken to the Hospital Ship Haven. A blood count was Marshall Islanders Thus Thank U. S.

Natives Save for Many Months to Contribute $50 to Navy and $10.20 to American Red Cross.

Kwajalein, July 23 (A. P.).—Lojolon, heir apparent to the throne of the Western Marshall islands, today presented $50 to the United States Navy and $10.20 to the American Red Cross to express the appreciation of Wotje natives for having been returned to their island a year ago from Majuro. They had been removed for their own safety shortly after the capture of Wotje in February, 1944.

Commodore Ben H. Wyatt, naval commander of the Marshalls, said that the $50 would be sent to Navy Relief since the Government cannot accept money. Lojolon had asked that the money be given Navy personnel who aided in the return of the 383 Wotje inhabitants.

Brown Sees Step Backward.

Representative Brown (R.-Ohio) told the chamber that such a revival would "be a step backward to scarcities and black markets."

The Ohio member said he hoped the House would have "the courage" to vote down the compromise bill.

An effort by Representative Wolcott (R.-Mich.), opposing the bill, to exend the debate to three hours was blocked. The vote was due after one hour of discussion of the revival plan worked out by a Senate-House conference.

Brown said, amid jeers from the Democratic side of the House, that the proposed price control board probably would include Chester Bowles, the resigned economic stabilizer; Leon Henderson, the original OPA Administrator, "and I suppose Philip Murray," head of the C. I. O.

On the other side of the argument, Representative Spence (D.-Ky.), chairman of the House Banking Committee, said "the people will rise up in wrath" if Congress fails to revive the OPA and rising prices cause "labor troubles and a trail of evils."

Wolcott blamed President Truman for "wiping out" price controls by vetoing the first OPA bill. He asserted that the new compromise "is a bill not to control prices but to continue control of our economy."

Summary of New Bill.

The major provisions of the new compromise OPA bill as it went to the House and Senate for floor action follow:

1. Revives the OPA until June 30, 1947.

2. Prohibits price ceilings before August 20 on meats, dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soybeans, and food and feed products made from them; poultry and eggs, food and feed products made from them; tobacco and its products, and petroleum and its products.

3. Empowers a new three-man control board to be named by the President and confirmed by the Senate, to decide before August 20 whether those items will be restored to price control or left free of ceilings.

4. Provides that if this board fails to act, one way or the other, the OPA on its own initiative may restore controls on meat, dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soybeans, and food and feed products made from them.

5. Permits the OPA on direct authorization of the board, and only on that basis, to renew ceilings on poultry, eggs, food and feed products made from them, tobacco and its products and petroleum and its products.

6. Revives without change the Federal rent controls which expired June 30 with President Truman's veto of the original OPA extension bill.

7. Provides for "reasonable profit" to manufacturers in a pricing formula based on the industrywide average in 1940, plus industrywide average cost increases since then.

8. Fixes March 31, 1946—instead of June 29, 1946, as the Senate had voted—as the basis for percentage discounts and markups to be allowed wholesalers and retail distributors in setting their maximum prices.

9. Transfers price controls over farm commodities to the Secretary of Agriculture.

10. Grants an additional $1,000,000,000 for subsidies but prohibits any food subsidies after April 1, 1947.

11. Guarantees automobile and appliance dealers full pre-war margins and discounts until sales return to the 1939-41 average.

12. Kills the OPA's maximum average price regulation which was intended to assure a supply of low-priced clothing.

Rent Control Plans.

An official said that the OPA plans to re-establish June 30 rent ceilings if the pending bill to revive controls becomes law. The OPA official, who withheld the use of his name, told reporters that the former rent ceilings will be restored in 520 areas which were under controls when the law lapsed.

Revival legislation pending at the Capitol, he explained, gives the OPA no authority to order refunds in the case of any rent increases already collected by landlords for the period when rent controls were not in effect.

The OPA has made no final decision yet on what course it will follow on increases already collected for any period beyond the effective date of a revival law. Officials said the likelihood is that increases actually collected for the period beyond August 1 will have to be refunded.

Present plans are that eviction notices served prior to July 1 under OPA regulations will date from the day they were issued, despite the lapse of controls. For example, if a landlord obtained an OPA eviction certificate on July 1, the notice would date from that time even though rent controls lapsed July 1. In most areas the OPA required a six-month notice for eviction. In a few places only a three-month notice was required.

On eviction notices served under local law during the lapse of Federal controls, the OPA's tentative plans are to refuse to recognize these unless a court judgment actually has been executed before Federal controls are revived. This means landlords would have to proceed under OPA regulations. OPA officials expressed the opinion that where evictions already have occurred, the OPA will have no authority to restore tenants to dwellings they have been forced to vacate.

Truman Signs OPA Outlay.

President Truman signed into law today a bill providing $75,000,000 for OPA operations during the fiscal year which started July 1. The measure contains a prohibition of the use of "propaganda" by the agency in support of price controls.

The legislation also includes approximately $2,000,000,000 for the Veterans Administration and a new $465,000,000 contribution to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration. The UNRRA allocation contains a section permitting the Secretary of State to deny use of the funds in any countries which he finds do not permit "a reasonable number" of accredited press representatives to report on the agency's operations without censorship restrictions.

The legislation is known as the third deficiency appropriation bill. It carries a total of $2,652,860,866 in funds for various agencies.

Reds Ruined Industrial Life in Manchuria, Pauley Says

WASHINGTON, July 23 — (AP) Ambassador Edwin W. Pauley reported today that Russia has wrecked the rich industrial economy of Manchuria by removing vast amounts of machinery as war booty.

He also revealed that the United States has considered withholding German reparations deliveries from Russia as compensation.

Pauley, who made a preliminary report to President Truman yesterday on his 49,000 mile tour of Manchuria, Korea and Germany, told a news conference today that the estimated value of plants "incapacitated" by the Manchurian removals was more than $2,000,000,000. Most of the machinery had been put in Manchuria by the Japanese, but some was Chinese.

Two areas put out of production are the Fushun and Fushien coal mining centers, Pauley said. He disclosed that he is urging here the immediate delivery of Japanese steam power plants to the mines to save them from flooding in the September rainy season.

Manchuria today, Pauley declared, has been reduced to an agriculture economy, upsetting the "lives and welfare of 900,000,000 people" throughout the Far East who might otherwise have benefitted from the vast productive capacity of the region. It will be at least a generation, he estimated, before the loss is made up.

With respects to Germany, Pauley warned that the allies are in danger of "Repeating the tragic blunders of World War One" which enabled Germany to recover as a great power. Stating that he had in mind Foreign Minister Molotov's claim for $10,000,000,000 of German reparations, which probably would mean a Russian percentage of German production for years to come, Pauley said that any such incentive to build up German production must be avoided.

Would Withhold Reparations

Pleading that no nation or group of nations should "force a renunciation of the Potsdam agreement," the President's reparations expert declared:

"We must see to it that the nations of the world do not play the fatal game of power politics with Germany and place her in the position where she can offer the might of Europe to the highest bidder."

Pauley made it clear that the idea of withholding German reparations from Russia so far has only been made. But he said he believed such action could be taken without violating the Potsdam agreement which calls for deliveries of German plants and machinery from the American and British occupation zones in return for Russian-controlled raw materials.

At the moment, he recalled, the Russians actually are not getting any of these plants because they are being held up until the Russians deliver specified raw materials and foodstuffs. He estimated that 35 to 45 plants were delivered before the suspension and 144 others had been earmarked for delivery, with more still to be earmarked.

Pauley appeared at the news conference with a panel of the industrial and other experts who accompanied him on the tour that began May 4. He frequently referred to a big map of Korea to show where he had gone. On the map a brilliant red line marks the 38th parallel dividing the Russian zone from the United States zone of occupation.

Pauley called this an "iron barrier" and declared that it "must be dissolved and free commerce be reestablished between the northern and southern parts of that country."

His report to President Truman on conditions in Manchuria constitutes the first direct official American evidence of what has been widely discussed and generally accepted as true since before the Russians removed all their armies from Manchuria months ago.

Setting in Korea

Covering the three areas with which he was directly concerned in his survey, Pauley made these top points:

1. The Russians appear to be settling down in Northern Korea. Wives and children of occupation forces are in evidence and the troops are seeking such comforts as they can find for their stay. The Russians are running all the Korean factories, using native and Japanese labor, which they say they pay for. Pauley and his aides were forbidden to see about 40 per cent of the places they wanted to see on the ground of military security. They were unable to visit the large port area of Hungnan because the Russians said they were demobilizing troops there.

2. The fact that the Russians stripped Manchuria but not Korea of industrial equipment is the striking difference between the two areas. Asked whether the reason was that the Russians knew they intended to stay in Korea, Paulev told reporters to draw their own conclusions.

3. There is no basis on which to figure $10,000,000,000 of reparations for Russia from Germany, Pauley said. He declared the point had been gone over at the Potsdam Big Three meeting and the Moscow Conference on reparations last year and that he was against any such plan, as is the American government.

Text of Pauley's Report to Truman

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)— The text of Ambassador Edwin W. Pauley's statement on the results of his reparations survey at President Truman's request:

My report makes three chief findings—they are:

There are no substantial industrial removals from the Russian-administered territory of Northern Korea. Though many Japanese industries are still idle, they are intact, and many are operating full blast. In order, however, for Korea to be ready to go industrially, the iron barrier of the 38th Parallel must be dissolved and free commerce be re-established between the northern and southern parts of that country. Industries south of the 38th Parallel are dependent upon industries in the north and vice versa.

Korea can also be helped industrially by the receipt of light industries from Japan.

The situation in Manchuria is just the reverse of that in Korea so far as removals are concerned. On the basis of the sample we saw in cities like Mukden, Fushun, Anshan and Harbin, power, steel, mining, hydrogenation and other manufacturing plants were systematically stripped of much of their movable equipment during the months of Russian occupancy.

It is regrettable that this industrial machine could not have been left in its place. It was built almost on top of and as a part of the development of the natural resources of Manchuria.

These resources are the greatest of their kind in the entire Far East. The lives and welfare of 900,000,000 people should have benefited by these plants.

In my opinion it will be at least a generation before the peoples of this area will regain the opportunity they lost by reason of these removals.

The reparations program under the Potsdam Agreement has not been working satisfactorily, as has already been reported by Secretary James F. Byrnes. This failure has been due in part to the reluctance of certain countries to treat Germany as a single economic unit as agreed at Potsdam.

The original reparations program called for removal of German war potential by shipping out of Germany the excess industrial capacity which was created for war, and distributing these removables to the devastated Allied countries so as to speed up their recovery and help them to become stronger bulwarks of world peace.

Though many plants have been removed from Germany under this program, in accordance with detailed plans drawn last spring, the whole program is now held up because no zone commander can go forward until he knows whether Germany is in reality to be treated as a single economic unit, as was agreed at Potsdam, or whether he must plan to run his zone as an independent economy. Obviously, the amount and kind of machinery which should be removed as surplus will differ under the two systems.

Unless the occupying powers can get together in a vigorous effort to carry out the Potsdam Agreement, we may find ourselves repeating the tragic blunders of World War One.

After World War One the Allies, including the United States, financed the rebuilding of the very German war machine which was used against us in World War Two. We lost sight of the main goal—removing German war potential.

We can and we must avoid these mistakes this time. We must see to it that the nations of the world do not play the fatal game of power politics with Germany and place her in the position where she can offer the might of Europe to the highest bidder.

The Potsdam Agreement is the guarantee against such a tragedy. It is to be hoped that no one nation or group of nations will force a renunciation of the Potsdam Agreement.

DEFECTIVE SHELLS KILLED AMERICANS PROBERS ARE TOLD

General Doubts Responsibility Could Be Laid to Any One Manufacturer.

INVESTIGATE PARTY

Mead Would Punish Officers Who Attended Gay Affair in New York.

WASHINGTON, July 23 — (AP) Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, grimly acknowledged today that defective mortar shells had killed American soldiers but expressed doubt that the responsibility could be "pinned down" on any particular manufacturer.

His statement came as the Senate War Investigating Committee suddenly switched from a review of a munitions combine's parties and Washington influence to an inquiry into its shell-producing costs and efficiency.

It climaxed a day in which:

1. Chairman Mead (D-NY) demanded that the War Department "discipline" high-ranking officers who travelled to New York on military orders and attended a gay party at which Rep. May (D-Ky) was embraced by a pretty brunette. Waitt, who was among them, said he did transact official business there the following day.

Tried to Hush Testimony

2. A red-haired secretary, Mrs. Jean Bates, testified that her employers tried to hush her testimony before the committee.

Meanwhile, Chairman Mead told newsmen that the committee, in executive session late today, had instructed its investigators to request from the White House specific income tax records it needs in its inquiry. Mead said earlier that President Truman, his predecessor as chairman of the committee, had promised the committee use of income tax information if it was required.

Mead drew from Waitt the story of the defective shells, which the general conceded might never have been made public had it not been for the committee's inquiry.

Exploded in Muzzle of Mortar

Mead produced two letters from Army officers—"from widely separated parts of the country"—which reported that the 4.2 shell was so defective that it exploded in the muzzle of the mortars, killing some of the crews. This, they wrote, led to a special order requiring future firing by lanyard from a protected distance.

This, they added, reduced the effectiveness of the weapon, used to drop explosives from a high trajectory behind protective shelter, and cut down the effectiveness and speed of firing. Mead declined to disclose the offcers' names, explaining that they are still in the reserve.

His jaws clamped in obvious recognition of the seriousness of the report, Waitt conceded it was true —"Yes, indeed, I sweat blood over this thing. But we don't know whose shell went bad."

Mead said he was producing the records to counteract the "ballyhoo by witnesses who think that their case is strengthened by the claim: 'We delivered the shells.'"

Erie Had Big Contracts

A big contract for 4.2 mortar shells was held by Erie Basin Metal Products Company, one of the combine which handled in all $78,000,000 worth of war business, and other manufacturers also made the 4.2 shell.

Waitt raised this point, testifying that "It doesn't mean that the defective shell can be tied in with these contracts" held by the combine.

And it doesn't mean that they can be excluded," snapped back Senator Ferguson (R-Mich).

Waitt did not want to "guess" on the number of GI's killed by the defective shells but estimated "anyway ten or a dozen." He said there apparently were faults in the "specification or design" and that Chemical Warfare Service, without success, had attempted to trace it "back as far as we could."

"It might be well to require, hereafter, that the contractor be required to fire a few of these shells before he sends them on to the boys," Mead remarked.

"And the men who design them, too," added Waitt.

The committee, in the midst of this testimony, returned to Waitt for amplification of a report which he prepared a week ago commending the combine's performance on Chemical Warfare Service contracts.

Asked whether he would "Like to take the report back and see if you can find a few more facts," Waitt hesitated for a moment and then said: "I would."

He disclosed that Albert Jacobsen, a key witness in the inquiry and a $9,975 consultant in the service's legal division, had been "detached from his job" as a direct result of disclosures since the committee began its inquiry on "sick leave" and still drawing his pay.

"Why haven't you fired him?" Ferguson demanded.

The General replied that he is studying how that could be done under Civil Service rules and declared that "one of my first priority jobs is to settle Mr. Jacobson."

Jacobson prepared an earlier report on the combine's activities which Mead called a "whitewash job."

"He's still drawing taxpayers' dollars," said Ferguson. "If there hasn't been enough evidence produced in this hearing to discharge Mr. Jacobson, then what does it require?"

Much of Waitt's earlier testimony focused on his attendance at a wedding party in New York Jan. 2, 1942, for Natalie Garsson, daughter of Murray Garsson, one of the combine's promoters. Waitt acknowledged that his hotel bill was paid by Garsson and that he collected travel and subsistence allowance from the War Department for the trip.

Combined Business, Pleasure

He declared that he was planning a trip at that time to New York for consultations concerning "construction of the new war gas" and that he was only combining "business with pleasure" by taking in the wedding.

He said he presumed that Murray Garsson had invited him because he wanted to "put on a good show" with "a few generals" present at the wedding. He presumed, too, he added that other generals in Chemical Warfare Service and May, chairman of the House Military Committee, were invited for the same reason.

However, he said he could not explain how its was that Jacobson and the other officers who attended the party, among them Maj. Gen. William Porter, then chief of Chemical Warfare Service, were able to go to New York on official travel orders which recorded that the trip was necessary for military service. He did not know whether they had official business there, too, at the same time.

The committee received photographic copies of Hotel Pierre records which showed that the Garsson wedding guests checked in and out at about the same time, with Murray Garsson footing their bills.

A copy of May's bill for $25,95 also was introduced. It bore an erased-over "paid" notation. An item of the same amount, marked "Bad debt," was included in the hotel account paid by Murray Garsson.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif) commented it "appeared" that May's hotel bill had been unpaid until Garsson settled his account.

At one point, Waitt was asked: "Why should you try to help him (Garsson) put on a good show?"

"Why shouldn't I?" he replied.

He said that he had nothing to do at the time with the letting of war contracts, and that he had become acquainted with Garsson because the latter was a frequent visitor to the offices of the Chemical Warfare Service.

"I was just another general," he said.

Charged U. S. for Liquor

Committee Counsel George Meader produced renegotiation records to show that Erie Basin Metal products company had attempted to charge off to the government two liquor bills—one for $923 and the other for $1,400—which it had listed as purchased from Interstate Machinery company, an affiliate, and a $2,800 unexplained advance to Murray Garsson. The dates for these outlays fell in January and February of the year the wedding occurred, and Meader said there was some reason to believe that they were intended to cover the wedding costs. The items were stricken out in the proceedings to recoup excessive profits.

Waitt acknowledged that he had discussed with a Chicago procurement subordinate the treatment of the combine in the renegotiations after being "harassed and bombarded" by the Garssons with complaints that the combine was being "discriminated against."

He was in the midst of a discussion of a telephone call he said he had received from May in connection with the renegotiation proceedings when the committee recessed because of senate business without setting a date for its next meeting.

The story of the wedding on Jan. 2, 1944—sharpened by pictures of a comely brunette with her arms around May's neck, and sitting in a general's lap—was piled atop a series of fast-breaking developments in the committee's inquiry into what Mead has termed "war profiteeering at its worst." They included:

1. A report by pretty, red-haired Jean Bates, former secretary in the combine's Washington office, that Henry Garsson and Joseph Freeman, two of its top officials, had urged her to be a "bit hazy" in testifying on her recollections of what went on in the office.

2. A firm denial by former Rep. Dickstein (D-NY), now a justice of the New York Supreme Court, that he had ever done any "business" with Freeman or Murray Garsson. He said he had occasionally played a "friendly" game of pinochle with them, conceded he might have made some long-distance telephone calls to them, and acknowledged that he had once gone to Murray Garsson's defense on the floor of the House.

3. A written statement by Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) of the powerful House Rules Committee that he was not "in a position to contradict"—because he was so busy at the time—testimony that it was he who introduced the Garssons to A. B. Gellman, establishing a connection which led to the development of the combine.

Cite May's Absence

4. A formal notation in the committee's record that May had failed to answer a committee's summons for his appearance today. May announced in a press release yesterday that legislative chores prevented his appearance at this time, but said he would be willing to come "at an early date."

5. Committee acceptance of a suggestion by Senator Knowland (R-Calif) that it stand ready to hold evening sessions to accommodate May. Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) termed May's announcement "an unusual way of replying to a subpoena," drawing from Mead the observation that "he's been following an unusual procedure."

Garsson Paid Hotel Bills

6. Introduction of photostatic copies of records from the fashionable Hotel Pierre in New York purporting to show that Murray Garsson paid the hotel bills of officers who attended Natalie Garsson's wedding. Mead demanded that the Army promptly produce records to show whether the officers collected from the government the per diem allowance and transportation to which they were entitled under the travel orders.

7. Presentation of a batch of pictures showing the gay scene at the wedding — including an apparent abundance of bottled goods. A New York photographer, Raymond K. Martin, identified them, including one with the caption: "Mrs. Muriel Garsson Herron, maid of honor, embracing Congressman May." Another photograph was introduced showing her on the lap of Maj. Gen. William Porter, former chief of the Chemical Warfare Service. "Was that one faked?" inquired Ferguson. Snapped back the photographer: "I don't do business that way."

Mead put into the record another batch of pictures taken at a later wedding of Freeman, showing what he termed 'many of the same principals" as at the Garsson affair. He said it "Looked as though the show had gone on the road." Senator Brewster (R-Me) observed that the pictures were marked "Proofs" — a photographic expression for an unfinished copy — and Mead remarked that they constituted "proof" that the acquaintance between the officers and the munitions manufacturers was far closer "Than some of the testimony on the witness stand would lead us to believe."

Mrs. Bates told the committee that she was called to the Freeman home—away from her brother's birthday party—on the afternoon she appeared before an executive session of the committee to tell of her experiences.

Awaiting her there, she said, were Henry Garsson and Freeman —particularly anxious to know what she had told the committee about seeing Jacobson in the Washington office of the combine.

Jacobson, who resigned from the District of Columbia Bar Association under fire, got a $1,620-a-year job as a clerk-typist in the War Department and rose to a contract-approving post as legal consultant, had denied under oath that he ever visited the combine's office, or even that he knew its location. He subsequently switched his story to say that he had been there twice to pick up souvenir shells. Testimony has been introduced that May endorsed Jacobson's effort—thus far unsuccessful—to obtain reinstatement to the bar.

Mrs. Bates, chic in a big black hat and flowered print frock, related that she told Freeman and Garsson that she had informed the committee of seeing Jacobson in the office on two occasions, and said that they reacted with the exclamation:

"That's bad."

Asked to Be "Hazy"

She said both of them then asked her to "Go a bit hazy" when called back before the committee to testify under oath in public, and that she responded with a refusal to "perjure myself."

Garsson and Freeman, she continued, then "attempted to play upon my sympathy."

She quoted Freeman as saying that her testimony about Jacobson would send two "innocent men" to jail by the following Monday unless she did go "a little hazy." She inferred, she said, that they meant Jacobson and Freeman.

Freeman also appealed to her to consider the fact that his wife was soon to have a baby, pleading, "Just think of me being in jail and her having a baby." As he talked, she said, Freeman "patted me on the arms a couple of times and chucked me under the chin."

The men informed her, she said, that what she had told the investigators at the private session "Wouldn't hold any water," but that her testimony "Under oath really would count."

The records of the investigation show that Mrs. Bates told of Jacobson's two appearances at the combine office in her subsequent testimony under oath.

War Profits Investigation Chairman Asks if Generals and Colonels Were at Garsson Party.

JUL 24 1946

Washington, July 23 (A. P.).—Major-Gen. Alden H. Waitt testified today that defective shells killed American soldiers who fired them during the Battle of the Bulge but said "we don't know whose shells went bad."

Waitt was a witness in the Senate War Investigating Committee hearing on war profits of a Mid-West munitions combine. He had just been questioned about a gay New York party he attended during war-time as a guest of Murray Garsson, high official of the combine. Waitt said he traveled to the party at Government expense, but said he had transacted official business during this trip.

Senator Mead (D.-N. Y.), the chairman, read to the committee two letters from Army officers now in the reserve corps. These said that the 4.2 mortar shell was so defective that it exploded in the muzzle of the mortar, killing many of those who manned the weapon.

Mead declined to disclose the identity of the officers. The munitions combine under investigation was one of the manufacturers of the 4.2 shell, but there were others.

Mead demanded earlier that the War Department discipline high-ranking Army officers in the Garsson case. He specified those shown to have traveled on official military orders during wartime to a gay wedding party for the daughter of a munitions maker.

Mead's demand came as the committee received official War Department records that travel orders, entitling them to ride at governmental expense with per diem allowances, had been issued for six officers to allow them to be in New York at the time of Natalie Garsson's wedding.

Asked to Be Vague.

The investigation of the munitions work of the Garsson brothers, Henry and Murray, took another turn when red-haired Jean Bates, former secretary in the munitions makers' Washington office, took the stand again. She testified that Henry Garsson and Joseph Freeman, Washington office manager for the Garssons, had asked her to be vague in testifying before the committee, but she said that she met their proposal with a refusal to perjure herself.

Among the Army officers listed in the War Department travel orders were Brig.-Gen. Paul X. English, former head of the Chemical Warfare Service's procurement division, and Waitt, present chief of the Chemical Service. The orders read that their presence in New York was "necessary for military service." English since has left active duty.

General Testifies.

Called to the stand, Waitt acknowledged that while traveling at governmental expense he had attended the munitions maker's party, but contended that he had transacted official business on the same trip. Waitt said that he was invited by Murray Garsson.

The General testified that when he accepted, he obtained official orders to go to New York to transact governmental business on the Monday morning following the Sunday evening party. He said that he and his wife left for New York on Sunday morning and returned on Monday evening.

He did not know when he went, Waitt said, that Garsson was going to pay his New York hotel bill. When he asked for his bill at the desk, he told the committee, he was told "that's been taken care of."

The presentation of the records followed the introduction of copies of records of the Hotel Pierre, New York, where the wedding was held on January 2, 1944, showing that Murray Garsson, father of Natalie, had footed the hotel bills for the officers. The committee ordered its investigators to obtain records on whether the Government paid the per diem allowance to the officers on the strength of the travel allowances.

Mrs. Bates testified she met Henry Garsson and Freeman at Freeman's home. She said that Freeman had appealed to her to consider the fact that his wife soon was to have a baby.

"Just think of me being in jail," she quoted him as saying, "and her having a baby." Mrs. Bates added that Freeman "patted me on the arms a couple of times, and chucked me under the chin."

The men told her, she said, that what she had told a committee investigation "wouldn't hold any water," but that her testimony "under oath really would count."

Call for Records.

In ordering further War Department records, Mead said that the department "ought to be quick" about turning them up. Then he added that it also should be quick to see that the proper discipline is meted out to the officers.

"It is important, in time of war, when we are ordering troops to jump off landing boats, that there is no encouragement of this kind of extravagance," he declared. Among those shown to have received War Department orders was Albert Jacobson, legal consultant for the Chemical Warfare Service, a key witness in the committee's inquiry.

JUL 24 1946

Others were Cols. Lowell A. Elliott, Gordon B. Kauffman and E. J. Walsh.

Her Testimony.

Mrs. Bates testified that the conversation with her former employers took place on July 12—the day she appeared before an executive session of the committee to tell what she knew about the affairs of the combine. She said that Mrs. Freeman had called her away from her brother's birthday party to the Freeman home, where she met both Freeman and Garsson.

They asked her first what she had told the committee in private session, she said, then quickly got to the point of Jacobson, who has appeared before the committee twice. First he testified that he never had been in the combine's office and didn't know where it was located, but at a later hearing he corrected his testimony and said that he had gone to the office twice to pick up souvenir shells.

Mrs. Bates said that at the Freemans' home she informed Freeman and Garsson that she had told the committee that she had seen Jacobson in the office on two occasions — testimony which she subsequently gave under oath in open session.

Reaction to Disclosure.

"That's bad," she quoted Freeman and Garsson as saying, in reaction to her disclosure. Then she said that they suggested that "I go a little bit hazy" when called back to testify in public.

"Who suggested that?" asked Senator Ferguson. "Both of them," replied Mrs. Bates.

She said that after she informed them that she wasn't going to perjure herself then they "tried to play upon my sympathy." Asked how that attempt was made, she quoted Freeman and Garsson as both saying that the committee was attempting to get indictments, "and unless you go hazy, there will be two innocent men in jail" by the following Monday.

Reply to Question.

In response to a question, she said that she inferred that the two innocent men they mentioned were Freeman and Garsson. She said that she drew that inference because she had read Jacobson's denial that he ever had visited the office.

Soon after Mrs. Bates had finished, the committee called to the witness stand Raymond K. Martin, New York photographer. He testified that he took a series of pictures of a wedding reception and dinner on January 2, 1944, when Murray Garsson's daughter was married.

He identified copies of the pictures as they were handed to him by Chairman Mead, and read the captions affixed to them. The first was "Mrs. Muriel Garsson Herman, maid of honor, embracing Congressman May."

Other captions mentioned Jacobson, Elliott Porter and Waitt as among those present at the festivities. Before hearing the photographer, the committee engaged in a discussion of the failure of Representative May (D.-Ky.) to appear in response to a subpœna which had directed his attendance today at 10 A. M.

The investigating committee held out to May an offer to meet "morning, noon or night" so that he may testify without interference with his duties as a legislator. Mead extended the invitation to May after Ferguson suggested that an early morning or night session might accommodate the Kentucky legislator.

MAY FACES INQUIRY ON WYMAN AFFAIR

Washington, July 23 (A. P.).—Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) said today that he hoped to question Representative May (D.-Ky.) before the Senate's War Investigating Committee about the construction of Pearl Harbor defenses before the war. Senator Brewster (R.-Me.) disclosed earlier that the committee would investigate the activities of Col. Theodore Wyman Jr., Army district engineer in Hawaii at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack.

The Pearl Harbor investigating committee, in its report on Saturday, recommended a separate inquiry into delays in the construction of a Hawaiian defenses before the war. Both Ferguson and Brewster expressed a desire to learn from May the manner in which the House Military Committee conducted an inquiry into the same subject.

Ferguson told a reporter that the Senate committee previously had started an investigation into the Wyman case, but was sidetracked by the lack of testimony from a witness connected with a contractor engaged in the Pearl Harbor work. The witness, he said, was summoned, but the Senate committee received a call from House military committee aids saying that he was under subpoena by that group, and could not be released to testify before the Senators.

GEN. SMITH TO AID BYRNES AT PARLEY

Ambassador to Moscow Will Go to Paris Conference —Others Are Named

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes announced tonight that an eight-man delegation would assist him at the peace conference that opens in Paris Monday.

Mr. Byrnes said in a statement that Lieut. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, Ambassador to Russia, would come from Moscow to participate, along with W. Averell Harriman, Ambassador to Britain.

The Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, William L. Clayton, and his aide, Willard L. Thorpe, will sit on one of the subcommittees dealing with economic questions.

Assistant Secretary of State James C. Dunn, newly named Ambassador to Italy, will represent the United States in preparing the Italian peace treaty.

Others who will help Mr. Byrnes include Edwin W. Pauley, United States Reparations Commissioner, and Benjamin V. Cohen, State Department counselor. Jefferson Caffery, Ambassador to Paris, also will be considered a part of the delegation.

Mr. Byrnes is expected to leave for Paris by plane Saturday. Senator Tom Connally of Texas, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, who attended the last Foreign Ministers' Council meeting in Paris with Mr. Byrnes, will not attend the opening peace conference sessions, but will advise with Mr. Byrnes when the final treaty drafts are under consideration by the Council, the statement added.

ATOM CONTROL ACCORD SOUGHT

Conferees Attempt to Iron Out Differences.

Washington, July 23 (A. P.).—House and Senate conferees set out today to compromise differences over atomic control legislation, as a group of scientists contended that certain House proposals would "seriously hinder" development of atomic energy.

Speaker Rayburn (D.-Tex.) told a news conference that some kind of control legislation is necessary, and voiced confidence that the conferees will be able to work out a satisfactory measure.

The big issue is the extent of military influence in the domestic control setup. The House went farther than the Senate in that direction.

30. 24-4323

Sent Telegram to Rayburn.

The Association of Oak Ridge Engineers and Scientists at the Army's Manhattan atomic bomb project in Oak Ridge, Tenn., said it had protested, in a telegram to Rayburn, against certain security provisions proposed by the House. The telegram said:

"The threat to the personal security of the scientists and their families embodied in the proposed 'security' provisions will drive most competent scientists and engineers out of the Manhattan project. When this happens the Army will be seriously hindered in developing atomic energy for either peace or war purposes, as the Army has always had to depend on the scientists and engineers for every step in development and production."

The telegram asserted the House amendments to the Senate-approved bill, which vested control in civilian hands' were the result of "appalling ignorance of the facts of atomic energy." Irresponsible talk by some House members, the telegram added, has discouraged scientists from joining the Oak Ridge staff and has caused some staff members to begin looking for other jobs.

Members Not Identified.

The association did not identify these House members. Previously however, it had protested statements by Representatice Rankin (D.-Miss.) that there were spies in the Oak Ridge plant. At that time, in a telegram to Rayburn, the association said that if Rankin had such information he should turn it over to the FBI and the Army's security officers at Oak Ridge.

The House and Senate conference committee agreed today on several minor differences between the two chambers, but deferred until tomorrow consideration of controversial matters.

"We succeeded in adjusting many of the differences," Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.), head of the Senate conferees, told reporters. "We are working on the less controversial matters now."

Atom-driven Planes 'Practical'

Progress Reported in Studies—Fairchild Company Given Primary Contract.

JUL 24 1946

Washington, July 23 (A. P.).—Experiments aimed at powering airplanes with atomic energy were reported today to have progressed to the point where the idea appears practical.

That word came from officials of the Army Air Forces on the heels of official disclosure that the aeronautical engine industry is engaged in a co-operative effort to solve the problem.

Major-Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, deputy chief of air staff for research and development, announced the project. The Fairchild Engine and Aircraft Corporation, New York, has been given the primary contract, but other companies are working with it.

Lemay said in a statement that "no final solution" has been found and emphasized that it is impossible to estimate when the project may be completed.

Cite Progress.

Other AAF men, however, said enough progress has been made "so that we know that the project is not impractical." They asked not to be quoted by name.

In New York, J. Carlton Ward Jr., Fairchild president, said in a statement that the Navy is "a co-interested partner" in the project.

"The successful application of this power potential," he added, "voids all present barriers to aircraft performance."

From Secretary of War Patterson, meanwhile, came reports on other atomic projects. In a radio address last night, Patterson announced:

The first shipment of radio-active isotopes from the Army's Ridge, Tenn., plant will be made this week. They will be used in medical, biological and industrial research. Medical men have suggested that through isotopes—elements which have been exposed to atomic energy—it will be possible to determine exactly how medicines act within the human body.

Conducting a Study.

In the new Argonne National Laboratory at Chicago, being established by the Manhattan (Army atomic) District, biologists are conducting a study of how the white cells of the blood destroy the bacteria of infection.

At both Hanford, Wash., and Ook Ridge, experiments are planned in generating electric power from the energy released by the reaction of an atomic pile. Patterson said some engineers believe that in ten or twenty years electric power can be produced "at a reasonable cost and one comparing favorably with good practice in the electric utility industry."

Alien 'Blacklists' Available to Trade

Exporters, Importers May Use U. S. War-Time Data

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP).—Although the war-time "blacklists" of foreign firms has been dropped, the Commerce Department said today United States exporters and importers may use the lists to "check the 'political' standing of foreign firms."

Explaining its reason, the department said "the inclusion of a firm on the proclaimed list may have seriously affected its financial and credit standing and altered its position as a credit risk. Many such firms are identified in the minds of the local community as Fascist or Nazi sympathizers."

In wartime, American firms were forbidden to trade with foreign concerns on the list, which carried 5,000 names when it was withdrawn this month.

Guam Base Plan Approved

House Sends Land-Acquisition Legislation to Truman

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP).—A bill described by Representative W. Sterling Cole, Republican, of New York, a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee, as the first step toward fortification of Guam was passed by the House and sent to the White House today.

The bill, passed unanimously, would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to acquire title to certain lands and rights-of-way on the island of Guam.

JUL 24 1946

The House also passed and sent to the White House a bill authorizing the expenditure of $6,000,000 for the construction of various civilian facilities, principally public buildings, on the island which were damaged during the war.

$465,000,000 Bill For Relief Signed

Free Press Clause Hits at Russian Censorship

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP).—President Truman signed into law today a bill providing a new $465,000,000 contribution to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Adinistration.

The U. N. R. R. A. allocation contains a section permitting the Secretary of State to deny use of the funds in any countries which he finds do not permit "a reasonable number" of accredited press representatives to report on the agency's operations without censorship restrictions. This provision replaced a stronger "free press" clause which opponents said would be a slap at Russia's censorship practices.

The legislation is known as the Third Deficiency Appropriation Bill. It carries a total of $2,652,860,866.96 in funds for various agencies, including $75,000,000 for O. P. A. operations during the fiscal year which started July 1 and $2,000,000,000 for the Veterans Adinistration.

U.S. CAN BUILD UP WAR STOCKS

Truman Signs Bill But Attacks 'Buy American' Clause

Washington, July 23 (AP)—Legislation allowing the Government to stock up on vital materials for wartime was signed today by President Truman, but he criticized a "buy American" clause in it.

Mr. Truman said in a statement that the provision:

1. Would increase costs.
2. Would further deplete our "inadequate underground reserves."
3. Might conflict with our foreign economic policy.
4. Might hamper the bill's purpose of enlarging the stock of critical raw materials.

Reason For Signing

Mr. Truman explained he signed because of the "over-riding importance" of the Government having the stockpiling power.

Provisions of the 1933 "Buy American" Act are made applicable to stockpile purchases under the new bill. These require, Mr. Truman said, that only articles produced or made from United States materials shall be bought for public use. Exceptions may be made when "Buy American" purchases are determined to be "inconsistent with the public interest" or unreasonable in cost.

POLING HAILS GI MORALS

Says Morale in Germany Also Is Higher Than Charged

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling reported to President Truman today that the morale and the morals of United States troops in Germany were much higher than isolated incidents of misbehavior might indicate. Dr. Poling, minister of the Baptist Temple in Philadelphia and president of the World Christian Endeavor Union, talked with the President about his recent visit to London, Paris and Berlin.

"The Army is a cross-section of America," Dr. Poling said afterward, "and those who misbehave misrepresent the majority."

Dr. Poling said he deplored a tendency toward demobilization on the home front, asserting that the best understood language "is the language of strength." By that, he said he meant "physical, moral and spiritual strength."

TERMINAL LEAVE PAY BILL PASSES

Measure Gets Senate Approval by Voice Vote; Returned to House.

WASHINGTON, July 23. — (AP) The Senate tonight passed legislation granting an estimated $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 in terminal leave pay to enlisted men in the armed forces and those already discharged.

JUL 24 1946

The Senate approved the measure on a voice vote and returned it to the House—which had passed a similar bill unanimously—for consideration of changes. The chief of these is a plan, sponsored by President Truman, which provides for most of the payments to be made in bonds instead of cash.

Enlisted men now discharged would receive compensation up to 120 days pay, on the basis of 2 1-2 days leave for each months of service. Officers already are entitled to terminal leave pay.

Shout Down Amendments

Before final action, the Senate shouted down two amendments by Senator Pepper (D-Fla) which would have made it possible for the veterans to get their payments in cash, or in bonds cashable in six months.

The senate instead provided for making the bulk of the payments in interest bearing, non-transferrable bonds instead of the cash allotments the House had approved.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo) said the Treasury and Budget bureau had urged the bond plan "to prevent inflation."

When Senator Overton (D-La) observed that the United States "has done more for its veterans than any other nation," Johnson agreed, and added:

"We have the best veterans on earth. We want to reward them generously, for they have performed magnificently for us."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) protested that the bill calls for "an utterly unjustifiable expenditure of a huge sum." He argued that the GI bill of rights provides "liberal" treatment of former servicemen.

"We've come to the time when we cannot continue to spend federal funds in the way proposed here," he said.

He declared that because lieutenants and captains received both terminal pay and mustering out pay, the same "mistake" ought not to be made for all servicemen.

But Senator Knowland (R-Calif), who served in the Army as an enlisted man and officer, declared that GI's are entitled to receive the terminal pay to correct an "inequality" with officers.

Reject Hart's Plan

By a vote of 44 to 33, the Senate rejected an amendment by Senator Hart (R-Conn) which would have granted automatic promotions to American prisoners of war as well as subsistence allowances during the period of their captivity.

Johnson, opposing the amendment, called attention to the fact that President Truman vetoed similar legislation in the form of a separate bill, and declared there would be no surer way to kill the pending measure.

"Concealed Bonus"

The Senate also defeated, 67 to 12, an amendment which would have required veterans applying for terminal leave pay to deduct the amount of their mustering out pay. It was proposed by Senator Ball (R-Minn), who called the bill a "concealed bonus."

Ball declared that most of the payments would go to 'able-bodied young men between the ages of 25 and 30" and that such men "should be able, in this full employment period, to stand on their own feet and make their way without handouts."

"This is not an attempt to correct an injustice," he continued, "but rather an attempt to pay a 'little bonus' to 11,000,000 veterans in an election year."

In rejecting the Pepper quick-cash amendments, the Senate followed the advice of treasury officials and of Paul H. Appleby, acting budget director, who informed Johnson in a letter that the five-year bond plan would be "acceptable" to the President.

Johnson told the Senate he feared Mr. Truman would veto the bill if it provided payments in cash or in bonds cashable in six months.

He explained that the purpose of the five-year bonds is "to stagger the load on the treasury," and said the system had been endorsed by leading veterans' organizations.

"They think the dollar is at its low value today and there will be goods on the shelf to buy when the bonds become payable in five years," he added.

Pepper argued that many veterans need the cash now, to help pay school expenses and for similar purposes. Backing him up, Senator Chavez (D-NM) declared he recalled no senator worrying about inflation when officers—but not enlisted men—were paid for terminal league.

Senator Olin Johnston (D-SC) told reporters after the final vote that he did not think it was "treating the boys right" to deny them cash payments. He decided that within a year they will be given the right to cash their bonds.

Deny Truman Gave Chiang Helicopter

Washington, July 23 (A. P.).—White House aids said today that President Truman has never given Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek a helicopter, so far as they knew.

The pro-Government Central Daily News said yesterday at Nanking that the helicopter was given to Chiang for use in flying from the Yangtze River to Kuling, 3,500 feet up a mountain.

United States Air Forces in Nanking said they had no knowledge of a helicopter in that area.

Charles G. Ross, presidential press secretary, said he had no knowledge of such a gift, and added: "I don't think the President has any helicopters to give away."

Adm. Bernhard Retires

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP).—The Navy announced today the retirement of Rear Admiral Alva D. Bernhard, sixty, commander of naval air bases, 11th Naval District, San Diego, and Captain William N. Thornton, forty-nine, assistant industrial manager, 9th Naval District, Great Lakes, Ill.

HOUSE GOODS PRICES FOUND ABOUT SAME

Plants Generally Not Withholding Products, CPA Survey Shows

Washington, July 23 (AP)—Manufacturers generally have neither withheld goods nor markedly raised prices on household appliances during the OPA holiday, John D. Small, civilian production administrator, reported tonight.

A survey by CPA showed only about a two per cent average increase in prices of washing machines, vacuum cleaners and similar products, Small said.

Cites Fear Of Inflation

"The manufacturers of hard goods have shown laudable restraint and made a pretty good record for themselves," Small said. "An amazingly large number of business men are afraid of inflation and reluctant to make price increases."

So far, CPA's fears that firms would withhold finished goods in hopes of higher prices later were proved groundless by spot check of 200 companies throughout the nation, the administrator added.

Only in cotton "gray goods"—unfinished cloth—and in softwood lumber on the West Coast were supplies stated to have accumulated in volume sufficient to warrant action by the compliance division.

Act On Inventories

Such steps, to force inventories down to permitted levels, are now being taken, it was reported by CPA's compliance director, Morris S. Verner.

CPA last week threw inventory controls over a score of finished household products and building materials, ruling that manufacturers could not keep on hand more than 30 days' production. At that time a CPA official said there was little evidence of hoarding or withholding but "we want to avoid the possibility of it."

"A sampling in the Detroit area indicated that none of the companies checked was withholding products from the market, but each complained that it was having production difficulties because of material shortages or labor difficulties," Verner's compliance reports said.

Farm Equipment Checked

This check, he added, covered tires, office machinery, electric ranges, farm equipment, radios and similar goods.

Low inventories also prevailed in New York, New Jersey, Denver, Kansas City and St. Louis areas, the CPA official reported.

Some withholding of cotton grey goods was indicated in New England mills "due principally to price uncertainty and the increased cost of raw cotton," CPA investigators were told. Contracts for July deliveries were being carried out, but the mills "apparently did not intend to make later deliveries," the agency said.

Reports were received from the West Coast apparel industry that some raw cotton distributors were refusing to make shipments to textile mills, CPA said.

Increased inventories of softwood lumber were reported on the Pacific Coast and small lumber mills in northern California apparently were holding back some Douglas fir, CPA was informed.

Livestock price rises also were felt at some other leading stockyard terminals. Hogs were $1.50 a hundredweight higher at Omaha, Neb.; $1.00 higher at Sioux City, Ia., and Pittsburgh, Pa; 25 to 75 cents higher at Buffalo, N. Y.; and 50 cents higher at Indianapolis, Ind.

Cattle reached $25.00 at St. Louis, Mo.; $22.50 at Pittsburgh, and $22.00 at Indianapolis.

Twelve principal terminals handled an estimated 66,200 hogs today, compared with 79,945 a week ago, and 44,663 a year ago and 49,300 head of cattle today, compared with 72,624 a week, and 51,371 a year ago.

BEEF, PORK COSTS ADVANCE DESPITE BUYERS' STRIKE

CHICAGO, July 23—(AP) Despite a wave of buyer slowdown throughout the country, prices on live beef and pork today jumped to the highest levels since last Wednesday at Union Stockyards.

A $26.00 peak on prime cattle was only 35 cents under the all-time record set last week, and the $21.50 tidemark well established today on good and choice hogs was 50 cents under the modern record.

The price rise extended through much of the market, running to 75 cents and $1.00 a hundred pounds on hogs and 50 cents on cattle. Some lower grades which did not rise held at least steady with Monday's prices.

Supplies Diminish

Market analysts said diminished supplies accounted for the boost, house action approving OPA compromise legislation—news of which previously has served to depress prices—occurred after the market's close.

Michael Mann, executive secretary of the Chicago Industrial Union Council, credited a slowdown of purchases with deflating meat prices at the retail level.

He said a spot check of Chicago groceries and meat markets indicated the slowdown "is reducing runaway meat prices." Hamburger, he added, dropped from 45 cents at one store to 30 cents, compared with a ceiling proce of 23 cents. Corned beef declined from a $1.65 a pound Thursday to $1.39, compared with an 88-cent ceiling under OPA.

More White Bread Forecast

Prospective Bumper Corn and Wheat Crops Also May Bring More Beer.

Washington, July 23 (A. P.).—Prospective record-smashing crops of corn and wheat raised the possibility today of whiter bread, larger loaves and, perhaps, more beer, once the harvests are in. At the same time the bumper crop outlook put pressure on Government officials to decide soon whether to resume buying of grain for famine relief.

An official of the Department of Agriculture close to policy making told a reporter that it is possible there may be some easing of domestic restrictions on consumption of grains if the excellent crops prospects are realized. He asked not to be quoted by name.

Present regulations:

1. Prevent flour millers from producing for domestic demand more than 85 per cent of their 1945 output.

2. Require extraction of 80 per cent of wheat when flour is ground instead of the normal 72.

3. Cut bread loaf weights by 10 per cent.

4. Restrict use of grain in production of alcoholic beverages.

When the OPA died on June 30, the Department of Agriculture immediately stopped purchasing meat and wheat for foreign relief. The withdrawal was due in part to the desire not to add to demand at a time when there were no ceilings, and, in part, to not knowing whether foreign governments would pay the higher costs. Since then, the department has been waiting to see whether—and in what form—the OPA would be put back into operation.

In a special report yesterday, the department said the indicated corn crop, based on July 15 prospects, would total 3,487,976,000 bushels. The present record was set in 1944 when 3,228,000,000 bushels were produced.

The wheat crop is expected to hit a new top of 1,132,075,000 bushels, as compared with a record 1945 output of 1,123,143,000 bushels.

On the basis of prospects two weeks ago, the figures meant an indicated improvement in the corn crop of about 146,000,000 bushels and of 42,000,000 in wheat.

With the OPA's future still uncertain, the Department of Agriculture official said no decisions had been reached on relief buying. He added:

"However, if price controls go back on grain within the next few weeks, the set-aside (for Government buying) probably will be reinstated and the Government will pay up to the ceiling price even though it is higher than what existed June 30.

"In that case, it would decide whether grain handlers would have to set aside for the Government 50 per cent of the wheat they handled as previously or a revised figure.

"As far as meat purchases are concerned, there is some feeling that the department will not go bask into the market even if controls are re-established, except possibly to buy for UNRRA. The assumption is that foreign nations could do as well for themselves by buying direct from the packers.

"On the other hand if controls are not re-established on grains, the Government probably would not re-establish any set-aside system but instead buy in the open market."

576,721 NEW HOMES APPROVED FOR VETS

WASHINGTON, July 23 — (AP) Approval has been granted for construction of 576,721 houses and apartments with priority aid under the Veterans Emergency Housing program, Housing Expeditor Wilson W. Wyatt reported today.

The total covers the period from Jan. 15, when the housing priority was created, through June 28.

Of the authorized new dwellings, 160,087 were to be built for rent and 38 per cent of these were to command $50 a month rental or less. Of the houses to be built for sale, 35.5 per cent were to be priced at $6,500 or less.

ARMY B-25 CRASHES

Hartford, Conn., July 23 (A. P.).—The crew of an Army B-25 escaped unhurt when the plane crash-landed at Brainard Field during a heavy rainstorm last night. Turned away from Mitchel Field because of the weather, the plane, piloted by Lieut. F. J. Henke, smashed into a pair of runway flood lights and sheared off a cable carrying 2,700 volts of electricity in the airport's lighting system.

Brainard Field officials said that the plane was en route from Pittsburgh to New York after returning from Kansas where it aided in the search for a crashed C-47 Army transport plane. They said the plane's pilot reported circling Mitchel Field for more than an hour in the storm before being ordered to find a landing here.

The plane's damage was said to be light.

Foreign Trade School

Will Train Young Men for Service in Latin-America

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 23 (AP).—The American Institute for Foreign Trade, a non-profit school organized by ranking Army officers and western business men to train young men for governmental and commercial service in Latin-American countries, will open Oct. 1 at Thunderbird Field, where thousands of military pilots received flight instruction during the war.

The field, noted for its architectural beauty and elaborate landscaping, was purchased by the institute from the government through the War Assets Administration.

Finley Peter Dunne jr., of Weston, Mass., former Army Air Forces lieutenant colonel, who will be secretary-treasurer and director of student personnel, listed these primary objejctives:

1. To serve young men by preparing them to engage effectively in trade relations with neighboring countries.

2. To serve business and the government by providing specially equipped men for executive and other positions in inter-American trade.

3. To serve world peace by helping to foster understanding between the United States and other nations.

FREED SOVIET OFFICER DEPARTS FROM SEATTLE

SEATTLE, July 23—(AP) Russian Navy Lt. Nicolai Gregorvich Redin; his wife, Galina, and their baby daughter, Irina, bade Seattle goodby today. They were enroute to Portland to board a ship for home.

Lieutenant Redin was acquitted by a federal court jury last week of charges of espionage and conspiracy in connection with secret Navy plans and specifications for its new design destroyer tender, the USS Yellowstone, built here. He was attached to the Soviet Purchasing Commission here.

He told interviewers as he left his apartment today that one of the good things he experienced in the United States were his contacts with American businessmen and Navy officers. "The American people will always have a friendship with us," he added.

"I'll be there, too," Mrs. Redin smiled when an interviewer asked what might happen if Redin was interviewed by Stalin.

Shriners Open San Francisco Meeting With Dazzling Parade

San Francisco, July 23 (AP)—Fezzed and bedecked nobles of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine today officially opened their victory convention with a dazzling parade, followed by the convening of the Imperial Council's seventy-second annual session in the War Memorial Opera House.

President Truman, who for days has been denying persistent rumors he would be present in person, sent a message to fellow members of the order: "Fraternal greetings and my good wishes for a successful convention."

Presided Over Council

Howard M. McKinley, past potentate and director general, and Washington I. Kohnke, of the Islam Host Temple, were chosen to preside over the council session.

In addition to United States and Shrine standards, the flags of Canada and Mexico played a prominent part in the ceremonies.

The Canadian flag was formally received by Screen Actor and Producer Harold Lloyd, a Shrine imperial priest and and prophet of Al Malaikah Temple. Harvey A. Beffa, imperial marshall of Moolah Temple (St. Louis), received the Mexican flag.

Gov. Earl Warren, of California, and Mayor Roger Lapham rode with Shrine bigwigs in the parade and were on the program of addresses at the council session.

Others On Program

Others included Gen. H. H. (Hap) Arnold, retired chief of the United States Army Air Force; Robert B. Gaylord, Grand Generalissimo of the Grand Encampment; Francis V. Keesley, past grand master and treasurer of the grand lodge, and the new Imperial Potentate, George H. Rowe, of Ismailia Temple, Buffalo, N.Y.

The morning parade took two and a half hours to pass as a navy blimp cruised at low altitude, jet-propelled fighter planes swooped noisily overhead and a sky-writer kept necks craning.

Shrine headquarters estimated there were 15,000 paraders, 25,000 Shriners and some 100,000 visitors all told in the city for the first big postwar convention to be staged here in the prewar manner.

Breach Of Enemy Trading Act Laid To Some GI's In Germany

JUL 24 1946

New York, July 23 (AP)—American GI's in the occupied zones of Germany and Austria are acquiring "sleeper interests" in German property in violation of the Trading-With-the-Enemy Act, a State Department official said today.

"They buy into property that isn't blocked or hasn't been earmarked for reparations without registering title, with the idea of cashing in at a later date, say, five or six years from now, when conditions are better," he said at a press conference suggested by a State Department representative.

Germans Co-Operate Gladly

The spokesman declared GI's were using black-market funds, or funds shipped from home or the proceeds from commercial items shipped from the United States and converted into reichmarks.

"The Germans co-operate gladly," he added. "They are willing to sell 51 per cent of anything they own, because, to them, 49 per cent interest in an American-owned project is better than anything 100 per cent German-owned."

No action by the Government had been decided on, he said, because the deals were all under cover and could not be identified until titles were registered, which may not be for years.

Cracking Down On 'Carpetbaggers'

He said, however, the Government was cracking down on "carpetbaggers" by restricting the number of American visitors to Germany to something fewer than 100 per month.

Thousands of people who claim they held stock in German industry before the war now are petitioning the Government for permission to visit Germany for a first-hand inspection of their interests.

"Among these are carpetbaggers who seek privileges. They will be disappointed," he said.

The State Department official held only a bleak outlook for Americans who expected a return of profits from their prewar holdings or investments in the defunct Axis countries.

"Not for 30, or 50 years, if ever, will a normal flow of profits be returned," he said.

PALESTINE

LONDON, JULY 23-(AP)-THE JEWISH AGENCY IN LONDON ANOUNCED TODAY THAT AT LEAST FOUR PROMINENT JEWS WERE KILLED IN THE KING DAVID HOTEL BLAST. DESCRIBED AS GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS OF PALESTINE, THE FOUR WERE LISTED AS:

BRITAIN HAS MADE IT PLAIN -- AND HAS REITERATED -- THAT THE RESTORATION OF ORDER IS ESSENTIAL AND THAT SHE CANNOT SUPPORT THE INQUIRY COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATION FOR THE ADMISSION OF 100,000 JEWS UNTIL THIS PREREQUISITE IS FULFILLED.

THE NEWEST OUTBREAK OF VIOLENCE SIMILARLY IS REGARDED BY THE FOREIGN OFFICE AS HAVING STRENGTHENED THE POSITION OF THE ARABS, WHO MAINTAIN THAT THEIR SAFETY IS PROGRESSIVELY MENACED BY JEWISH IMMIGRATION. THIS IS PARTICULARLY REGRETTED BY THE FOREIGN OFFICE BECAUSE IT REINFORCES ARAB RESISTANCE TO ANY PROPOSALS FOR THE DISARMAMENT OF MOSLEMS IN PALESTINE.

YESTERDAY'S BOMBING BROUGHT SHARP EDITORIAL COMMENT FROM THE BRITISH PRESS, WHICH TOOK THE VIEW THAT THE INCIDENT WAS LIKELY TO DELAY A SATISFACTORY SOLUTION OF THE WHOLE PALESTINE PROBLEM.

The statement added that "it must not necessarily be assumed, however, that hope in respect of those persons need be abandoned as yet." The names were:

Geoffrey Walsh, Brig. Peter Smith-Derrien, D. G. Kennedy, Robin Platts, E. W. Keyes, G. T. Farley, F. W. G. Blankinsop, B. C. Gibbs, a man named Stockley, Julius Jacobs, Victor Levi, R. C. Musgrave, Levi Baum and A. J. Mantura.

JUL 24 1946

The government did not identify the missing persons as to jobs, but they are all secretariat officials. Jacobs has been acting financial secretary to the Palestine government for several weeks.

Five government typists also were listed as missing.

Jerusalem, July 23--(AP)--Charles G. Rosenbloom, Pittsburgh investment broker visiting Palestine as national chairman of the United Palestine Appeal, and his wife escaped the blast which yesterday destroyed part of the King David Hotel at which they were staying.

The couple were away from the hotel visiting friends when the explosion occurred.

"We didn't know anything about it until we heard it on the radio," Rosenbloom said. "Our room was in the rear of the hotel which still stands, and nothing among our belongings was damaged."

The Rosenblooms have been in Palestine since May 28. They expect to return to the United States sometime in August. They have been visiting Rosenbloom's cousins, one of whom, David Schlesinger, has been interned in the Rafa prison camp since the British arrested many Jewish leaders June 29.

LONDON, JULY 23-(AP)-REPORTS THAT RUSSIAN MARSHAD GEORGI ZHUKOV HAS BEEN DEMOTED TO A MINOR MILITARY POST ARE DESCRIBED BY THE LONDON OBSRVER AS "AN IMPORTANT EPISODE IN THE TUG OF WAR BETWEEN PARTY AND ARMY" IN THE SOVIET UNION.

IN A WORLD COPYRIGHTED COLUMN THE SUNDAY NEWSPAPER SAID THE UNCONFIRMED REPORTS WERE THAT ZHUKOM HAD BEEN DISMISSED FROM THE POST OF COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE RED ARMY GROUND FORCES AND DEMOTED COMMANDER OF THE GARRISON OF O

AND APPOINTED COMMANDER OF THE GARRISON OF ODESSA.

THE NEWSPAPER SAID A PRECEDENT FOR THE MOVE "SHOULD PERHAPS BE SOUGHT IN THE CAREER OF MARSHAL (MICHAIL NIKOLAEVICH) TUKHACHEVSKY WHO, FROM CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE RED ARMY, HAD BECOME COMMANDER OF SOME PROVINCIAL GARRISON JUST A FEW WEEKS BEFORE HIS TRIAL AND EXECUTION" WITH SEVEN OTHERS IN 1937 FOR TREASON. "HOWEVER, IT IS DOUBTFUL WHETHER THE SEQUEL TO MARSHAL ZHUKOV'S DEGRADATION WILL BE EQUALLY TRAGIC," THE NEWSPAPER COMMENTED.

AFTER REVIEWING ZHUKOV'S CAREER SINCE THE END OF THE WAR, THE OBSERVER REMARKED THAT CIRCLES CLOSE TO THE SOVIET HEADQUARTERS IN BERLIN HAD KNOWN FOR SOME TIME THAT THE MARSHAL WAS "FALLING INTO DISGRACE" AND THAT IT WAS SAID STALIN "CHARGED THE STURDY, STIFF AND BEMEDALLED CONQUEROR OF HITLER'S CAPITAL WITH RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE APPALLING BREAKDOWN IN THE DISCIPLINE OF THE SOVIET TROOPS IMMEDIATELY AFTER VICTORY, A BREAKDOWN THAT HAS COST RUSSIA A TREMENDOUS LOSS OF PRESTIGE."

"HOWEVER, THE ROOT OF THE TROUBLE HAD PROBABLY LAIN DEEPER," THE ARTICLE CONTINUED. "MARSHAL ZHUKOV'S PRESENT ECLIPSE IS AN IMPORTANT EPISODE IN THE TUG OF WAR BETWEEN PARTY AND ARMY, A TUG OF WAR THAT HAS SEEMED TO DOMINATE RUSSIAN POLITICAL LIFE EVER SINCE THE 'CEASE-FIRE', THOUGH IT HAS NEVER BEEN OPENLY SPOKEN OF INSIDE RUSSIA X X X

"IN THIS IT HAS HAD STALIN'S POWERFUL BACKING. THE TUG OF WAR HAS CERTAINLY NOT YET COME TO A DEFINITE END. THE NEW COMMANDER OF THE ODESSA GARRISON MAY NOT HAVE SPOKEN HIS LAST WORD -- YET. WILL THE WINGS OF HISTORY EVER AGAIN TOUCH HIS BROAD, PEASANT-LIKE BEMEDALLED CHEST?"

U.N.

BY MAX HARRELSON

NEW YORK, JULY 23-(AP)-DELEGATES TO THE UNITED NATIONS ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION WILL BEGIN DISCUSSIONS TOMORROW ON THE KEY PROPOSAL IN THE UNITED STATES ATOMIC CONTROL PLAN--CREATION OF AN ATOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY.

ALTHOUGH THIS PROPOSAL ALREADY HAS BEEN DISCUSSED BOTH FORMALLY AMD INFORMALLY, THE DELEGATES HAVE NOW REACHED THE STAGE WHERE THEY INTEND TO SEEK A YES OR NO DECISION ON THE BROAD QUESTION OF PRINCIPLE INVOLVED.

THE DISCUSSIONS WILL TAKE PLACE IN A CLOSED MEETING OF COMMITTEE NO.2, WHICH HAS BEEN SET UP TO MAKE SPECIFIC RECOMMENDATIONS TO THE ATOMIC COMMISSION ON QUESTIONS OF CONTROL. OTHER COMMITTEES ARE CONSIDERING PROBLEMS SUCH AS DEVELOPMENT OF ATOMIC ENERGY FOR PEACEFUL USES AND COMPLEX LEGAL ISSUES SUCH AS THE VETO.

AT THE INITIAL MEETING OF COMMITTEE NO.2 LAST WEDNESDAY, IT WAS DECIDED TO DISPOSE OF THE GENERAL QUESTION OF WHETHER TO CREATE AN ATOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY BEFORE DISCUSSING SOVIET RUSSIA'S PROPOSAL FOR AN INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION OUTLAWING THE PRODUCTION AND USE OF ATOMIC WEAPONS.

ALTHOUGH AT LEAST 10 OF THE 12 DELEGATES ALREADY HAVE EXPRESSED APPROVAL OF THE U.S. PLAN IN PRINCIPLE, SOME OF THEM EXPRESSED BELIEF THAT THE DISCUSSIONS MIGHT BE PROLONGED BY RUSSIAN OPPOSITION.

SOVIET DELEGATE ANDREI A.GROMYKO INDICATED LAST WEEK THAT HE WOULD SPEAK TOMORROW ON THE LENGTHY U.S. MEMORANDUM DEALING WITH THE QUESTION OF RELATIONS BETWEEN THE ATOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY AND THE ORGANS OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

THIS MEMORANDUM NOT ONLY GOES INTO THE WHOLE QUESTION OF WHAT POWERS THE AUTHORITY SHOULD HAVE AND HOW ITS REGULATIONS SHOULD BE ENFORCED, BUT ALSO PROPOSED THAT THE FIVE PERMANENT MEMBERS OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL SHOULD AGREE BY TREATY TO GIVE UP THEIR VETO RIGHTS LON ATOMIC MATTERS.

IN VIEW OF HIS PREVIOUS STATEMENTS, GROMYKO WAS EXPECTED TO TAKE SHARP ISSUE WITH SEVERAL OF THE U.S. PROPOSALS, PARTICULARLY THE SUGGESTIONS REGARDING THE VETO AND THE ENFORCEMENT OF ATOMIC REGULATIONS.

THIS MAY SPARK ANOTHER LENGTHY DEBATE.

ANOTHER FACTOR WHICH MAY PROLONG THE DISCUSSIONS IS A NEW U.S. MEMORANDUM, WHICH PROBABLY WILL BE SUBMITTED NEXT WEEK, OUTLINING THE TIMETABLE UNDER WHICH THE DIFFERENT STAGES OF THE CONTROL PLAN WOULD GO INTO EFFECT.

THIS INVOLVES ONE OF THE MOST CONTROVERSIAL QUESTIONS IN THE ENTIRE ATOMIC DISCUSSION--THE QUESTION OF WHEN THE UNITED STATES WILL STOP PRODUCING ATOMIC BOMBS AND TURN OVER SECRET ATOMIC INFORMATION TO THE AUTHORITY.

RUSSIA INSISTS THAT THE OUTLAWING OF ATOMIC WEAPONS SHOULD BE THE FIRST STEP IN ANY CONTROL PLAN, WHILE THE UNITED STATES MAINTAINS THAT A STRONG SYSTEM OF CONTROL SHOULD BE SET UP BEFORE SHE IS WILLING TO STOP PRODUCING THE LETHAL BOMBS.

A15 JUL 24 1946

WITH THESE ISSUES COMING UP FOR DEBATE, THE ATOMIC CONTROL PROBLEM CONTINUED TO OVERSHADOW THE SECURITY COUNCIL, WHICH HAS BEEN ENJOYING A LULL FOR ALMOST A MONTH SINCE ITS LAST DEBATE ON POLAND'S CHARGES THAT FRANCO SPAIN THREATENED WORLD PEACE.

THE COUNCIL MEETS TOMORROW AFTERNOON, BUT IT APPEARED THE SESSION WOULD BE CONFINED TO ROUTINE MATTERS. IT HAD BEEN EXPECTED THAT THE COUNCIL WOULD TAKE UP THE TERRITORIAL DISPUTE BETWEEN SIAM AND FRANCE, BUT SIAM HAS ASKED THAT THE DISCUSSIONS BE POSTPONED UNTIL A SIAMESE DELEGATION ARRIVES FROM BANGKOK.

THIS IS THE ONLY CASE ON THE ACTIVE AGENDA OF THE COUNCIL AT THE MOMENT. A COMMITTEE OF THE COUNCIL, HOWEVER, IS EXPECTED TO START DELIBERATIONS THIS WEEK ON APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP IN THE U.N. SO FAR APPLICATIONS HAVE BEEN RECEIVED FROM ALBANIA, AFGHANISTAN, OUTER MONGOLIA AND TRANSJORDAN. SIAM ALSO HAS INFORMED THE U.N. THAT SHE INTENDS TO APPLY SHORTLY.

OTHER U.N. DEVELOPMENTS:

THE INTERNATIONAL HEALTH CONFERENCE, CALLED BY THE U.N. ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL, COMPLETED A MONTH'S WORK AND SIGNED A NEWLY FINISHED CONSTITUTION FOR A WORLD HEALTH ORGANIZATION.

THE U.N. ANNOUNCED THAT IT HAD RECEIVED NO OBJECTIONS TO A PROPOSAL TO POSTPONE THE MEETING OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY FROM SEPT. 3 TO SEPT. 23 TO PREVENT AN OVERLAP OF THE PARIS PEACE CONFERENCE. AS A RESULT, THE ASSEMBLY MEETING HAS BEEN POSTPONED DEFINITELY UNTIL SEPT. 23.

THE U.N. ALSO ANNOUNCED THAT ITS STATISTICAL DIVISION WOULD TAKE OVER THE ACTIVITIES AND MOST OF THE STAFF OF THE ECONOMIC, FINANCIAL AND TRANSIT DEPARTMENT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AUGUST 1.

PARIS, WEDNESDAY, JULY 24-(AP)-A RUPTURE OF PRESIDENT GEORGES BIDAULT'S TRI-PARTITE GOVERNMENT WAS AVOIDED TODAY WHEN THE CABINET, AFTER SIX HOURS OF DELIBERATION, AGREED ON "GENERAL INCREASES OF SALARIES" FOR FRENCH WORKERS.

A COMMUNIQUE ISSUED AFTER THE MEETING MADE NO MENTION OF THE AMOUNT OF THE INCREASES.

THE CABINET DISCUSSED RECOMMENDATIONS OF A RECENT ECONOMIC CONFERENCE FOR A 25 PERCENT WAGE INCREASE FOR CERTAIN CATEGORIES OF WORKERS. BIDAULT AND HIS POPULAR REPUBLICAN MOVEMENT (MRP) PARTY PREVIOUSLY HAD OPPOSED INCREASES OF MORE THAN 15 PERCENT.

A GOVERNMENT CRISIS WAS THREATENED WHEN FRENCH LABOR UNIONS INSISTED THAT A GENERAL 25 PERCENT INCREASE BE CARRIED OUT.

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID THE MINISTERS HAD AGREED THAT FINDINGS OF THE CONFERENCE--COMPOSED OF EMPLOYER, LABOR AND GOVERNMENT LEADERS--WOULD ENABLE THE GOVERNMENT TO "ACHIEVE A SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE IN PURCHASING POWER WHILE SAFEGUARDING INTERESTS OF PUBLIC FINANCES AND THE NATIONAL ECONOMY."

IN CONSEQUENCE, THE GOVERNMENT DECIDED TO INCREASE SALARIES AND TO "ESTABLISH EQUILIBRIUM BETWEEN INDUSTRIAL AND AGRICULTURAL PRICES," THE COMMUNIQUE ADDED.

HONOLULU, JULY 23-(AP)-FOUR UTILITY COMPANY PRESIDENTS WARNED TODAY THAT HONOLULU MIGHT BECOME A "DEAD CITY" ON AUG. 1 IF AFL AND AFFILIATED UNIONS STOP WORK FOR ONE DAY IN PROTEST TO CLAUSES INSERTED IN THEIR UNION CONTRACTS.

THE UNIONS HAVE THREATENED TO STOP WORK ON AUG. 1 IN PROTEST TO THE HAWAIIAN EMPLOYERS' COUNCIL'S INSISTENCE ON WRITING INTO THE UNION CONTRACTS CLAUSES WHICH THE AFL CENTRAL LABOR COUNCIL SAID ARE "ILLEGAL AND CALCULATED TO DESTROY OUR UNIONS." THE CLAUSES WOULD PROHIBIT WORK STOPPAGE DURING THE LIFE OF THE CONTRACTS.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS AND GASOLINE OIL COMPANY DRIVERS HAVE SERVED NOTICE OF INTENTION TO PARTICIPATE IN THE WORK STOPPAGE. ALL AFFILIATED UNIONS HAVE BEEN ASKED TO DO THE SAME.

THE PRESIDENTS OF THE GAS, TELEPHONE, ELECTRICAL POWER AND BUS COMPANIES SAID IF THE WORK STOPPAGE OCCURED IT WOULD BE THE FIRST TIME ANY AMERICAN CITY "HAS EVER SUFFERED A COMPLETE PUBLIC UTILITIES STRIKE."

WAR CRIMES (320)

TOKYO, JULY 23-(AP)-CHINA'S VICE MINISTER OF NATIONAL DEFENSE BACKED DOWN TODAY AT TOKYO'S WAR CRIMES TRIAL FROM HIS TESTIMONY THAT JAPAN VIOLATED INTERNATIONAL LAW WHEN HER TROOPS MANEUVERED IN PEIPING'S OUTSKIRTS ON THE HISTORIC NIGHT OF JULY 7, 1937.

JAPAN HAS CLAIMED THAT THE MANEUVERS WERE INTERRUPTED BY SHOTS -- PRECIPITATING THE MARCO POLO BRIDGE INCIDENT WHICH SENT JAPAN AND CHINA TO WAR.

DAY JUL 24 1946

GEN.CHIN TEH-CHUN ADMITTED HE WAS IN ERROR AFTER THE DEFENSE FOR 27 ACCUSED JAPANESE WAR CRIMINALS ESTABLISHED THAT A BOXER PROTOCOL OF 1901 GAVE FOREIGN GARRISONS THE "RIGHT TO MANEUVER AND RIFLE PRACTICE WITHOUT NOTIFYING THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT."

CHIN CONDITIONED HIS RETRACTION BY SAYING THERE WAS A LOCAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN CHINESE AND JAPANESE COMMANDERS.

"WHY DID YOU ADVISE YOUR SUBORDINATES THAT NIGHT THAT THE JAPANESE

30.24-4331

WERE VIOLATING INTERNATIONAL TREATY?" ASKED DEFENSE ATTORNEY LT.COL. FRANKLIN WARREN, OF TUCUMCARI,N.M.

"I TOLD THEM THAT BECAUSE THE JAPANESE DID NOT KEEP THEIR PROMISE TO NOTIFY OF MANEUVERS IN ADVANCE," CHIN REPLIED.

"MAYBE I DID NOT HAVE REFERENCE TO THE LITERAL INTERPRETATION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW."

"WHAT MADE YOU BELIEVE THAT AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN TWO BATTALION COMMANDERS OF WHATEVER THEY WERE--A SORT OF GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENT--COULD BROACH INTERNATIONAL LAW?" PRESSED WARREN.

"THE AGREEMENT WAS MADE BECAUSE THE JAPANESE MANEUVERS WERE SO INTENSIVE, WITH REAL GUNFIRE, AND RESIDENTS MIGHT BE INJURED AND BECOME VIOLENT," :ES, 3/0)-8,3$.

"TH TENSIVE, WITH REAL GUNFIRE, AND RESIDENTS MIGHT BE INJURED AND BECOME VIOLENT," CHIN EXPLAINED.

"THE AGREEMENT BETWEEN COMMANDERS WAS NOT CONTRARY TO THE SPIRIT OF INTERNATIONAL LAW."

WARREN PLEADED TO THE COURT TO INSTRUCT CHIN TO QUIT MAKING SPEECHES AFTER A LONG, RAMBLING REPLY MET THE DEFENSE ATTORNEY'S QUESTION WHETHER JAPANESE RESIDENTS IN THE BRIDGE AREA HAD BEEN KILLED AND TERORIZED BY DISORDERLY CHINESE TROOPS.

TRANSLATION DIFFICULTIES ARE ENSNARLING TRIAL PROCEDURE. EACH QUESTION MUST BE PUT INTO ENGLISH BY THE ATTORNEY, INTO JAPANESE FOR THE DEFENDANTS, INTO CHINESE FOR THE WITNESS. CHIN'S REPLY, SPOKEN IN CHINESE, THEN IS PUT INTO ENGLISH FOR THE ATTORNEYS AND INTO JAPANESE FOR THEIR CLIENTS. AN ACTUAL TIME CHECK SHOWED 12 QUESTIONS AND AS MANY ANSWERS REQUIRED ONE HOUR.

TOKYO, WEDNESDAY, JULY 24-(AP)-CHAIRMAN GEORGE ATCHESON JR., OBJECTED TODAY TO A PROPOSAL BY THE RUSSIAN MEMBER OF THE ALLIED CONTROL COUNCIL TO CLAMP RIGID CONTROLS ON JAPANESE PUBLICATIONS.

THE UNITED STATES MEMBER TOLD THE COUNCIL "WE ALL HOPE, I THINK" THAT THE JAPANESE PEOPLE "WITH THEIR NEW-FOUND FREEDOMS" WILL LEARN "TO GIVE CRITICAL EXAMINATION TO FALSE POLITICAL IDEOLOGIES."

LT. GEN. KUZMA DEREVYANKO, THE RUSSIAN MEMBER, RECOMMENDED THAT THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT BE DIRECTED TO CONFISCATE WITHIN TWO MONTHS ALL FASCIST, MILITARISTIC AND ANTI-ALLIED PUBLICATIONS AND SET UP STIFF CONTROLS OVER PRINTED MATTER OF SUCH NATURE.

"IT DOES NOT SEEM TO ME," ATCHESON REPLIED, "WE HAVE A VERY SERIOUS MATTER HERE."

THE CHAIRMAN NOTED THAT THE HEAD OF SUPREME HEADQUARTERS' INFORMATION AND EDUCATION SECTION HAD REPORTED AT THE APRIL 30 MEETING OF THE COUNCIL THAT ORDERS HAD BEEN ISSUED REMOVING OBJECTIONAL TEXTBOOKS FROM SALE AS WELL AS FROM THE SCHOOLS.

ATCHESON QUOTED THE SECTION HEAD AS SAYING THEN THAT SUPREME HEADQUARTERS HAD NO INTENTION OF INDLUGING IN A BOOK-BURNING CAMPAIGN SIMILAR TO THOSE STAGED BY THE NAZIS AND THE JAPANESE THEMSELVES.

POINTING OUT THAT HITLER'S MEIN KAMPF IS NOT PROHIBITED IN ENGLAND OR THE UNITED STATES, ATCHESON ADDED THAT "WE COULD NOT REASONABLY DENY ANY INTERESTED JAPANESE STUDENT ACCESS TO A WELL-KNOWN CHAPTER OF HISTORY OR TO LESSONS TO BE LARNED FROM THAT CHAPTER."

"CERTAINLY," ATCHESON SUMMED UP, "WE WOULD NOT BE ENCOURAGING THE JAPANESE TO DEVELOP THEIR FREEDOM AND DESIRE FOR DEMOCRACY IF WE SHOULD ENDEAVOR ARBITRARILY TO REGIMENT OR RESTRICT THEIR THINKING, AS WAS DONE IN THE PAST."

TOKYO, JULY 23-(AP)-JAPANESE SOURCES SAID TODAY THAT THE DRAFT OF THE NEW CONSTITUTION, WHICH OUTLAWS WAR, WAS EXPECTED TO BE BROUGHT TO THE FLOOR OF THE LOWER HOUSE OF THE DIET NEXT MONDAY FOR A FINAL VOTE.

A SPECIAL HOUSE COMMITTEE HAS CONCLUDED ITS DELIBERATIONS ON THE CONSTITUTION DRAFT, THESE SOURCES ADDED, AND HAS NAMED AN 11-MAN GROUP TO EMBODY SUGGESTIONS.

DURING THE DELIBERATIONS SOCIAL DEMOCRATS WERE REPORTED TO HAVE CHALLENGED CERTAIN PROVISIONS CONCERNING LABOR, TAXATION, WOMEN'S RIGHTS AND THE FORMATION OF A HOUSE OF COUNCILLORS TO REPLACE THE PRESENT HOUSE OF PEERS.

PROGOVERNMENT LIBERALS AND THE PROGRESSIVES, IT WAS SAID, INDICATED THEIR APPROVAL WITHOUT MAJOR AMENDMENTS, AS DID MOST OF THE MINORITY PARTIES WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE COMMUNISTS. THIS LATTER GROUP HAS SUGGESTED ITS OWN DRAFT, FAVORING ABOLITION OF THE EMPEROR SYSTEM AND FORMATION OF A REPUBLICAN FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN,JULY 23-(AP)-A COLUMN OF WATER AND SPRAY SHAPED LIKE A GRACEFUL PINE TREE TWO OR THREE MILES HIGH IS PREDICTED BY CROSSROADS OCEANOGRAPHERS FOR WHEN THE FIRST UNDERWATER ATOM BOMB EXPLODES.

THESE MEN LEFT LITTLE TO CHANCE TODAY IN THEIR FORECASTS. THEY SHOWED PINE TREE SHAPES THOUSANDS OF FEET HIGH FROM EXPLODING TNT USED TO SIMULATE BABY ATOM BOMBS.

THEY PREDICTED THERE WOULD NOT BE ENOUGH STEAM TO MAR THE BEAUTIES OF THIS NEW ATOMIC SPECTACLE. THEY SAID THE WATER PLUME WILL NOT BE BOILING HOT.

ITS COLOR WILL BE THE FAMILIAR WHITE OF SPRAY AND MISTS LIKE NIAGARA. THEY REFUSED TO PREDICT WHETHER THE FIRST UNEARTHLY BRIGHT FLASH OF LIGHT UNDER WATER WOULD COLOR THE RISING BURST MOMENTARILY.

DR.M.P.O'BRIEN OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA STUCK HIS NECK OUT, AND SAID HE WAS DOING SO, AS HE TOLD WHAT IS LIKELY TO HAPPEN.

THIS ATOMIC WATER PLUME, HE SAID, WILL BE RELATIVELY NARROW. ITS RISING TIP WILL BE A SMALL AMOUNT OF ALMOST SOLID WATER, SHOOTING UP LIKE A PROJECTILE. IN THE TNT EXPLOSION, THAT TIP IS ALMOST ARROW-SHAPED.

THE ATOMIC ARROW WILL SHOOT UPWARD WITH AN INITIAL SPEED OF ABOUT 2,000 FEET A SECOND. ITS MOMENTUM WILL DETERMINE THE TOPMOST PEAK REACHED.

JUL 24 1946

BUT THE ARROW WILL NOT BE THE FIRST THING TO APPEAR. PROBABLY 1,000,000 TONS OF WATER WILL BE THROWN UPWARD, RISING DOME-SHAPED AT FIRST, THEN UP IN A SOLID-LOOKING COLUMN WITH A SLIGHTLY MUSHROOMING TOP FOR A THOUSAND FEET OR MORE.

OUT OF THAT THE ARROW WILL SHOOT AND BEHIND IT THE ATOMIC WATER TREE WILL GROW.

THIS PLUME WILL REACH ITS TOP IN 20 TO 30 SECONDS AND TAKE 15 TO 20 MINUTES TO FALL BACK DOWN INTO THE LAGOON.

THE SLOW FALL WILL BE CAUSED BY AIR BREAKING UP THE SPRAY, AND MUCH FINE MIST IN THE PLUME. O'BRIEN SAID THE PLUME WOULD BE ONLY A RELATIVELY SMALL AMOUNT OF THE MILLION TONS THRUST UPWARD BUT WOULD BE TRAVELING VERY FAST.

IN SPLIT SECONDS AFTER THE ATOM EXPLOSION, A CAVITY IS EXPECTED TO FORM IN THE LAGOON UNDER THE RISING WATER COLUMN. THIS HOLE IS LIKELY TO BE ABOUT 2,500 FEET ACROSS AT THE TOP AND HAVE THE SHAPE OF A SHALLOW SAUCER.

IT WILL BARE THE LAGOON BOTTOM MORE THAN 100 FEET BELOW FOR AN ESTIMATED ONE OR TWO HUNDRED FOOT DIAMETER.

A63FX

THIS ENORMOUS HOLE IS NOT TO BE MADE BY WATER SHOT INTO THE AIR. MOST OF THE HOLE WILL BE A RESULT OF THE SIDE PUSH OF THE EXPLOSION.

LOOKING AT THE TARGET ARRAY OF SHIPS, IT SEEMS, WITHOUT MEANS OF ACCURATE MEASUREMENT, THAT THOSE ON THE INNER CIRCLE CLOSEST TO THE BOMB MAY BE JUST BEYOND THE EDGE OF THE WATER HOLE.

THE BATTLESHIP ARKANSAS, HOWEVER, MAY BE IN THE HOLE. DR.KARL COMPTON SAID THE REASON FOR THINKING THIS IS THAT THE JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF SUGGESTED THAT THE "ARKY" BE MADE THE TARGET SHIP. THE FINAL DECISION WAS LEFT WITH THE CROSSROADS STAFF.

NORMAN J.HOLTER OF WASHINGTON TOLD OF A CLEVER SCHEME BY WHICH THE SCIENTISTS HOPE TO MEASURE THIS HOLE IN THE WATER.

ONE-INCH STEEL CABLES WILL BE ANCHORED TO THE BOTTOM BY SEVEN TONS OF ANCHORS. TWO OF THESE WILL EXTEND LIKE SPOKES ON OPPOSITE SIDES OF THE SPOT ABOVE THEM WHERE THE BOMB IS EXPECTED TO BURST.

INSTRUMENTS FASTENED TO THE CABLES LIKE OCCASIONAL BEADS ON A STRING WILL REGISTER WHEN NO WATER TOUCHES THEM ANY MORE. OTHER INSTRUMENTS WILL INDICATE THE DIAMETER OF THE TOP OF THE CAVITY, IT IS HOPED, BY REGISTERING THE DIMINISHED WEIGHT OF THE WATER ABOVE THEM.

SCIENTISTS DO NOT EXPECT THE ATOMIC WAVE TO SWELL OVER BIKINI ISLAND. BUT JUST IN CASE THEIR PREDICTIONS ARE TOO CONSERVATIVE, THEY HAVE ARRANGED TO RECORD THE STORY BY MEANS OF EMPTY BEER CANS.

THE CANS WILL BE SET ONE ABOVE ANOTHER ON POLES RISING 30 OR 40 FEET. IF THE WAVE PASSES OVER THE ISLAND, IT WILL FILL EACH CAN TO THE TOP OF THE WATER'S RISE. THE HEIGHT THE WAVE REACHED CAN BE DETERMINED BY NOTING THE HIGHEST CAN CONTAINING SALT WATER.

THESE OCEANOGRAPHERS EXPECT WAVES TO BE 50 FEET HIGH AT A DISTANCE OF HALF A MILE OUTWARD FROM THE BOMB BURST. BUT THEY SAY THEY MAY EASILY BE MISTAKEN--THAT THE WAVES MIGHT BE 100 FEET OR ONLY 25.

ALL AGREE THAT THE WAVES WILL DIMINISH VERY RAPIDLY IN HEIGHT. AT THE BIKINI SHORE THEY WILL BE HIGH ENOUGH, IN THESE CALCULATIONS, ONLY TO WASH 300 OR 400 FEET INLAND AT THE MOST.

INSIDE THE 3,000-FOOT CIRCLE AT THE EDGE OF WHICH BIG WAVES ARE PREDICTED THERE IS EXPECTED TO BE A GREEN SEA HELL THAT NOBODY CAN FORETELL. WAVES IN THERE, BY GUESS, MAY TOWER MORE THAN 100 FEET. BUT THERE WILL BE SO MANY KINDS OF DISTURBANCES GOING ON THAT WAVE HEIGHTS MAY BE RELATIVELY UNIMPORTANT.

A64FX

IT IS EVEN SUGGESTED THAT A BIG BATTLESHIP LIKE THE ARKANSAS COULD BE LIFTED BODILY HIGH ABOVE THE LAGOON SURFACE.

OCEANOGRAPHERS' PHOTOGRAPHS SHOW THAT THERE WILL BE A SERIES OF FIVE OR SIX CONCENTRIC WAVES FOLLOWING THE FIRST ONE. IT IS EXPECTED THAT THESE WAVES WILL DIMINISH SUCCESSIVELY IN HEIGHT AND DESTRUCTIVE POWER.

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN,JULY 23-(AP)-THERE IS NO ACTIVE VOLCANO UNDER BIKINI ATOLL.

THIS, CMDR.ROGER REVELL OF LA JOLLA,CALIF., SAID TODAY HAS BEEN DETERMINED BY SCIENTISTS PREPARING FOR THE WATERWATER EXPLOSION OF THE ATOM BOMB.

THIS MEANS, REVELL SAID, THAT THERE IS NO DANGER OF A CATACLYSM OF ANY KIND STARTING FROM VIBRATIONS IN THE ATOLL WHEN THE BOMB EXPLODES.

OCEANOGRAPHERS AND GEOLOGISTS HAVE FOUND EVIDENCE THAT THE ATOLL RESTS ON AN ISLAND THAT SANK BELOW THE SURFACE HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF YEARS AGO.

FORMERLY IT HAD BEEN BELIEVED THE ATOLL STOOD ATOP AN INACTIVE VOLCANO.

REVELL SAID THE CORAL IS FROM 7,000 TO 8,000 FEET DEEP. THERE IS A BARE POSSIBILITY OF THE BOMB CAUSING A SMALL LANDSLIDE UNDER THE WATER WHICH IN TURN WOULD CAUSE A SMALL TYPE OF TIDAL WAVE, CALLED A SONOMI.

AT A DISTANCE OF A FEW HUNDRED MILES HE EXPECTS SUCH A WAVE TO BE ONLY A FEW INCHES HIGH.

ABOARD THE USS MT.MCKINLEY, WEDNESDAY,JULY 24-(AP)-FOR THE FIRST TIME IN ITS SHORT VIOLENT HISTORY, THE ATOMIC BOMB WILL BE DETONATED UNDER WATER TOMORROW TO TEST THE HULLS OF 75 WARSHIPS ANCHORED IN BIKINI LAGOON. IT'S POWER WAS ANTICIPATED TO BE VASTLY GREATER THAN ITS AERIAL PRECEDESSOR.

THE CROSSROADS BLAST IS SCHEDULED FOR 8:35 A.M., (5:35 P.M. EASTERN STANDARD TIME, WEDNESDAY) PROVIDED NO LAST MINUTE UPSETS BY MAN OR NATURE INTERVENE.

JUL 24 1946

THE RIGID REQUIREMENT FOR ALMOST PERFECT WEATHER CONDITIONS WHICH MARKED THE FIRST BIKINI ATOMIC TEST ARE NOT SO DEMANDING THIS TIME. STILL, GOOD WEATHER IS FORECAST. THE PRIME REQUIREMENT IS WIND, BLOWING FROM THE EAST UP TO 20,000 FEET AND CAPABLE OF CARRYING RADIOACTIVE SPRAY AWAY FROM THE MEN WHO ARE CHARGED WITH DETERMINING THE A-BOMB'S EFFECTIVENESS.

SCIENTISTS AND NAVAL OBSERVERS WERE CHARY OF PUTTING THEMSELVES ON RECORD WITH PREDICTIONS. MOST OF THEM EXPECT A COLUMN OF WATER TO BE RAISED FROM THE TURQUOISE AND EMERALD WATERS OF THE LAGOON, FOLLOWED BY A SERIES OF GIANT WAVES OF DIMINISHING HEIGHT AND POWER.

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT HOWARD BLAKESLEE ABOARD THE U.S.S. APPALACHIAN SAID OCEANOGRAPHERS EXPECT THE WAVES TO BE 50 FEET HIGH AT A DISTANCE OF HALF A MILE FROM THE POINT OF DETONATION.

WHAT THIS WILL DO TO THE GUINEA PIG TASK FORCE IS STILL PURE GUESS WORK. WHILE THE GUESSES WERE NOT MADE PUBLIC, ONE SCIENTIST THOUGHT THE DETONATION WOULD BE 100 TIMES MORE POWERFUL THAN THE AERIAL EXPLOSION OF JULY 1.

BLAKESLEE QUOTED DR.M.P.O'BRIEN OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AS FORESEEING AN ATOMIC ARROW SHOOTING UPWARD AT 2,000 FEET A SECOND FROM THE ORIGINAL CONVULSION OF 1,000,000 OR MORE TONS OF LAGOON WATER.

A19KX

JUL 24 1946

A SAUCER-SHAPED CAVITY IS EXPECTED TO BE FORMED IN THE BOTTOM OF THE LAGOON, EXTENDING DOWNWARD POSSIBLY 2,500 FEET.

THE OLD BATTLESHIP ARKANSAS MAY WELL WIND UP IN THIS HOLE, AS WELL AS THE SUBMARINE PILOTFISH. THEY ARE AMONG THE NEAREST TARGET SHIPS.

RINGED AROUND THE TARGET EPICENTER AT MORE THAN 500 YARDS ARE THE CRUISER PENSACOLA, THE CARRIERS INDEPENDENCE AND SARATOGA, SIX OTHER SUBMARINES, AND A HALF DOZEN TRANSPORTS WITH SOFT UNDERBELLIES.

THE BATTLESHIP NEW YORK AND FOUR LCI'S (LANDING CRAFT INFANTRY) ARE ANCHORED AT A GREATER DISTANCE. AND THIS TIME THE BATTLESHIP NEVADA, WHICH SURVIVED HER FIRST TEST OF ATOMIC FRENZY, IS GIVEN AN HONORED POSITION WELL TO THE REAR.

WITH BIKINI

SAN DIEGO, CALIF., JULY 23-(AP)-NAVY ELECTRONICS LABORATORY EXPERTS REPORTED TODAY THAT FROM SCALE MODEL EXPERIMENTS PERFORMED IN SAN DIEGO BAY "IT NOW SEEMS CERTAIN THAT THE ATOMIC UNDERWATER BLAST (AT BIKINI) CANNOT SET UP A TIDAL WAVE."

JUL 24 1946

THE REPORT SAID THAT IN A "BABY CROSSROADS" OPERATION CONDUCTED DURING THE LAST MONTH INCREASINGLY LARGE CHARGES OF TNT HAD BEEN EXPLODED AT VARIOUS DEPTHS IN THE BAY.

WATER DISTURBANCES WERE RECORDED ON MEASURING GRIDS. THE LARGEST CHARGE, 2,040 POUNDS OF EXPLOSIVE IN SEVEN FEET OF WATER, SENT UP A PLUME OF MUD AND WATER 1,000 FEET. THE WAVES SET UP, THE REPORT INDICATED, WERE NOT WORTH BOTHERING ABOUT.

SAN FRANCISCO, JULY 23-(AP)-AN ABC BROADCAST FROM BIKINI, HEARD TODAY IN SAN FRANCISCO, REPORTED VICE ADM.W.H.P. BLANDY HAD ANNOUNCED THE UNDERWATER ATOMIC BOMB TEST WOULD BE HELD AS SCHEDULED AT 8:35 A.M. THURSDAY MORNING (4:35 P.M. WEDNESDAY, U.S. DATE).

THE BROADCAST SAID BLANDY HAD MADE HIS DECISION AFTER CONFERRING WITH HIS WEATHER OFFICERS.

WASHINGTON JULY 23-(AP)-THE STATE DEPARTMENT REITERATED TODAY THAT AMERICAN POLICY IN CHINA IS AIMED AT UNIFYING CHINESE FACTIONS INTO ONE DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT.

A STATE DEPARTMENT SPOKESMAN MADE THESE REMARKS AT A NEWS CONFERENCE WHEN ASKED TO COMMENT ON STATEMENTS BY MADAME SUN YAT-SEN, WIDOW OF THE FOUNDER OF THE CHINESE REPUBLIC. YESTERDAY SHE ASKED THE UNITED STATES TO WITHDRAW ITS FORCES FROM CHINA.

A STATE DEPARTMENT SPOKESMAN SAID "OUR POLICY REGARDING CHINA IS WHAT WE HAVE BEEN SAYING ALL ALONG--FOR UNIFICATION. THAT'S WHY GEN. MARSHALL IS THERE."

THE OFFICIAL RECALLED THAT UNDERSECRETARY OF STATE DEAN ACHESON REVIEWED AMERICAN POLICY TOWARD CHINA AT SOME LENGTH SOME WEEKS AGO. ACHESON THEN STRESSED THAT THE UNITED STATES WAS DOING ITS UTMOST TO PREVENT CIVIL WAR AND TO EVACUATE SURRENDERED JAPANESE FORCES.

(ADVANCE)-WASHINGTON, JULY 23-(AP)-WITH ITS DEMOBILIZATION PROGRAM NEARING COMPLETION, THE NAVY ANNOUNCED TODAY IT WILL CLOSE ITS 29 SEPARATION CENTERS SEPT. 1.

ANY REMAINING DEMOBILIZATION WILL BE HANDLED BY NAVAL STATIONS AND HOSPITALS, THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID.

SEPARATION CENTERS TO BE CLOSED ARE LOCATED AT: BOSTON, LIDO BEACH, LONG ISLAND; NEW YORK CITY; PHILADELPHIA; NORFOLK, VA.; BAINBRIDGE, MD; CHARLESTON, S.C.; JACKSONVILLE, FLA.; CAMP WALLACE, TEX.; NEW ORLEANS; NORMAN, OKLA.; MEMPHIS; GREAT LAKES, ILL.; MINNEAPOLIS, ST. LOUIS; SAN FRANCISCO; SHOEMAKER, CALIF.; SEATTLE; BREMERTON, WASH.; AND WASHINGTON, D.C.

SOME OF THESE CITIES HAVE MORE THAN ONE SEPARATION CENTER.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF., JULY 23-(AP)-BODIES OF TWO MARINES MISSING SINCE JUNE 8 ON A FLIGHT IN A RENTED MONOPLANE FROM SAN DIEGO TO SOMERTON, ARIZ., WERE FOUND TODAY BY MEXICAN TRACKERS IN A DRY RIVERBED 35 MILES NORTHEAST OF THEIR WRECKED PLANE IN THE BAJA CALIFORNIA DESERT, MAJ. R.R. AYRES, CAMP MIRAMAR PUBLIC INFORMATION OFFICER, ANNOUNCED.

THE BODIES OF PFC WILLIS J. BARTLETT, 18, OF SOMERTON, PILOT OF THE PLANE, AND CORP. CHARLES E. LYNN, OF EAST CHATTANOOGA, TENN., WERE FOUND ONE MILE APART. THE TRACKERS, RIDING HORSEBACK, PICKED UP THE TRAIL OF THE MEN AFTER THEY HAD ESCAPED APPARENTLY UNINJURED FROM THE LOST MONOPLANE.

Atom Bomb Sinks Battleship, Carrier, 2 Other Ships, in Bikini Undersea Blast; 4 of 8 Submarines Reported on Bottom

JUL 26 1946

BATTLESHIP SOLE MAJOR CRAFT SUNK IN UNDERSEA TEST

Arkansas, Oil Barge, Tank Landing Craft Go to Bottom.

SARATOGA HIT HARD

100-Foot Waves, Other Expected Spectacular Events Are Missing.

H Blakeslee

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN OFF BIKINI, Thursday, July 25.—(AP) The bulk of a target fleet of 75 ships rode today through the fury of the sub-surface atomic bomb, which sank the battleship Arkansas, an oil barge and a tank landing craft and sent a thick column of spray rocketing 9,000 feet skyward.

NIGHT

Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, task force commander, said in his first official report on this second test of an atomic bomb against a fleet that the aircraft carrier Saratoga and the Japanese battleship Nagato had been damaged but other surveys of damage could not be made because it was impossible yet to enter the radioactive waters of Bikini lagoon.

Saratoga Listing

When the spray, which obliterated all view of the fleet, fell away, the gallant old Saratoga—consigned to the "circle of death"—still was afloat but listing.

Two and one-half hours after the explosion, the Saratoga had settled 15 feet deeper into the water and observers believed she might sink.

(Broadcasts from the flagship Mt. McKinley quoted Admiral Blandy as saying he believed Saratoga was in a sinking condition and said smoke was billowing from her stern. Blandy ordered the big ship beached if possible.)

The battleship [illegible] York was down two feet ast[illegible]d the transport Fallon was [illegible]g.

Intense radioact[illegible]y in the Lagoon's waters was [illegible]dicated by a fast destroyer which went inside, within less than a mile of the target center, then turned and rushed out at high speed. However, planes circling overhead came down within 3,000 feet two hours after the explosion, indicating it was safe at that altitude.

Arkansas Vanishes

The battleship Arkansas, which like the "Sara" had been placed near the bomb, had vanished when Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead looked down through the clearing mists from an observation plane. Blandy later confirmed that she was sunk.

The only other major ship that appeared to be hurt, Blandy said, was the Nagato, which was listing slightly.

It appeared from this ship that the carrier Independence, which like the Nagato was about a mile from the explosion, also had developed a list.

It was impossible to determine whether the tremendous underwater shock or the terrible impact of the falling tons of water had done this violence.

While Blandy said there was no reason to doubt the efficiency of the first atomic bomb ever detonated under water, the fact remains that many of the spectacular events expected of it did not occur.

There was a thunderous roar when it let go, but there were, for instance, no 100-foot waves and the atomic geyser which shot up above the explosion came nowhere near the top predicted altitude of three miles.

Islet is Engulfed

The highest waves were 10 feet, not enough even to wash over low Bikini although a nearby islet was engulfed briefly.

Blandy said that at least two of six submerged submarines, whose sturdy hulls had been expected to crack like nutshells under the shock, could be seen from the air, still in their proper submerged position.

Two other submarines, the Parche and the Skate, left on the surface, were still afloat.

Likewise still riding in position were the battleships Pennsylvania, New York and Nevada—the latter the battered bullseye of the mid-air A-bomb explosion July 1.

Troop transports two miles from the explosion were not much hurt and possible were undamaged. Even those closer in, with their thin hulls, rode serenely.

Many observers aboard the Appalachian reported feeling an underwater shock from the bomb.

Others said they felt no shock whatever.

Feel Two Shocks

Those who felt it said the shock was less than from ordinary depth charges at considerable distances. They said there were two shocks in close succession. The second would have been an echo of the blast striking the bottom of the lagoon or a later wave circling out through the lagoon entrance.

The column shot up with incredible speed for nearly a mile, and then started to mushroom to two miles at the top with millions of stalactites of spray hanging down and plunging toward the sea.

Light Pink Near Tip

As seen across ten miles of sea these streamers were momentarily a light pink near the tips.

The steam base of the waterspout spread over the entire target fleet in less than a minute—a half mile high and pure white.

It spread faster than the waves, and the target ships did not appear to move as the misty curtain fell on all except the battleship New York.

Bow on to the press ship, the New York visibly began to careen to starboard. Then the fog hid her.

Waves were still small when they reached the beach.

The total height of the white water and mist cloud was mostly hidden behind natural clouds.

The mist of the clouds lost its whiteness after five minutes and began coming down as slightly dun-colored fog.

The cloud height in one minute and 12 seconds after the blast was 7,800 feet high. The greatest height at two and a half minutes was about 8,400 feet.

Water Descends as Haze

The water descended in the form of haze which turned slightly brown as seen from the angle of the Appalachian. One after another each of the big target ships appeared out of the clearing mist.

At precisely 8:35 a.m. today (4:35 p.m. Eastern Standard Time Wednesday) Dr. Marshall Holloway touched off the explosion by radio control from the Cumberland Sound eight miles outside the lagoon.

The "Voice of Abraham" on the USS Cumberland Sound announced the approach of the bomb explosion hour.

Fifty-eight ships carrying 40,000 observers ringed the horizon to the southeast of the target fleet and Bikini island.

Then precisely on the hour, Dr. Holloway pushed the button that sent the detonating radio impulses flashing to the small craft in the center of the target array from which the bomb was suspended.

Most of the target array, visible over the almost smooth blue sea with the naked eye, seemed from this ship to be standing virtually as straight in the water as before the explosion.

At the end of a half hour, the atomic mist appeared like distant rain seen on the horizon.

Real Rain Falls

It evidently was a real rain, for here and there it was darker than in other places. This atomic rain was still falling a half hour afterward. There appears to be no danger of a high radioactive cloud from this burst as after the first on July 1.

This cloud went only one-fourth as high, and falling water scrubbed out and down to the surface of the lagoon and sea the radioactive salt and other dangerous chemicals.

The greatest height of waves seen was five to seven feet near the shore.

The carrier Saratoga's stack appeared tilted, which was a surprise. It possibly was due to the force of water shot against her high superstructure by the bomb or the force of waves close to the target.

The noise of the explosion was fully as loud as the air bomb July 1. The Appalachian was about 10 miles from the target center.

As the first hour approached its close it became evident that great ships and small had been hurt.

The water damage to the Saratoga's superstructure grew in wonder as observers got closer.

The Saratoga showed a list. Around the inner ring of ships closest to the bomb were a dozen smaller craft. None of these was reported sunk.

But some apparently were considerably out of position. This recalled the sinking of the destroyer Anderson in the air burst. She was not reported sunk until the next day. For 24 hours she was merely carried as missing.

At 55 minutes after the explosion, one drone boat entered the lagoon. At one hour both submarines on the lagoon's surface, the Parch and the Skate, were still afloat. The Saratoga's stack was thrown down upon her flight deck.

Text of Blandy's Report On A-Bomb Blast Result

ABOARD U.S.S. MT. M'KINLEY, Thursday, July 25 — (AP) The text of Vice-Admiral W. H. P. Blandy's announcement on the atomic bomb results today:

I am speaking to you from the bridge of my flagship, the Mt. McKinley, that lies just off the eastern reef of the Bikini lagoon only a few miles from the center of the target area.

NIGHT

We can now see more clearly some of the results of the world's first underwater atomic explosion, which took place this morning at 8:35 a.m., local time.

The battleship Arkansas, a concrete oil barge, and a tank landing craft are the only ships known to be sunk.

Fate of Subs Unknown

But of six of the eight submarines that were submerged for the test we don't yet know whether any of them were sunk or not. None came to the surface, and two have been sighted from the air in their proper submerged positions.

The Saratoga is listing to starboard and is down by the stern, half of her smokestack is damaged and her after elevator has dipped on one side below the level of the flight deck.

The ex-Japanese battleship Nagato also has a very slight list.

We cannot immediately determine the full extent of damage to other ships since water in the lagoon near the targets is still radioactive, but there is no apparent damage other than that already mentioned.

We do not know the exact efficiency of this bomb yet but it appeared to be normal in every respect when it was detonated at its underwater location.

No Loss of Life

There have been no injuries or loss of life. Elaborate safety precautions are being continued to protect personnel of this joint task force.

Returning from my observation point nine miles from the center of the target array we watched the atomic bomb blast send a huge column of water towering into the air.

We estimate that this column was 5,000 feet high with a column of gas and vapor 9,000 feet high. The water column was 2,100 feet wide at its base and considerably wider at the top.

The huge wave formed as the result of the blast dissipated rapidly and was only about seven to ten feet high when it reached Bikini island. It did not inundate Bikini island itself but did overflow a small island near it.

Ships lying outside the lagoon were not affected in any way by either wave action or underwater shock.

Coral Shaken Loose

The shock apparently has shaken loose some dead coral from the slopes of the mountain which underlies Bikini atoll, but there have been no marine earthquakes or other phenomena which could affect other areas.

The effects of this test explosion are strictly local.

In this test, the first of its kind in history, we have not had to contend with the threat of fire but we have had an equally great problem of underwater hull damage. There are no fires on board the ships and there were no fires on the water.

There is a large oil slick on the water, however, apparently from the sunken Arkansas.

Radioactivity is a greater factor this time than in the air version because target ships have been drenched with contaminated water and spray and the vapor cloud fell over nearly all of them. This cloud is still visible lying on the distant horizon like a low fog bank.

The ocean currents in the lagoon do not diffuse the activity in the water as rapidly as the wind, and the transports will not be able to enter the lagoon as quickly as on July 1. The drone boats under remote radio control have already made reconnaissance patrols among the target ships and are bringing out water samples.

Close Air Watch

The course of events will be watched continuously from the air, and radiological patrols will inform us when we can proceed into the lagoon with safety.

I wish to say in conclusion that once again all units of this joint army, navy and civilian task force have done their jobs perfectly in carrying out the test.

Cooperation, as in the first test, has been perfect. I wish to congratulate all the personnel, military and civilian, who participated.

Outstanding groups so far have been the weather forecasters, the bomb preparation units, the Army and Navy air groups, the drones particularly, and the target preparation groups, especially those who submerged the submarines with no one on board.

Units yet to perform their functions are the radiological safety unit, the salvage group and the technical personnel who must now obtain the information from thousands of instruments. I know I can count on them to equal the performance of other units.

Later today I may be able to give you a more detailed report.

Caldron of Fire, Smoke, Steam Engulfs Area After Explosion, Says Reporter in Plane

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Correspondent
For the Combined American Press

NIGHT

ABOARD THE B-29, THE VOICE over Bikini Lagoon, Thursday, July 25—The fantastic power and heat of the world's fifth atomic bomb churned Bikini lagoon into a caldron of flame, smoke and steam today, pitched battleships about like toy boats, but failed to sink most of the capital ships arrayed in the death circle nearest the bomb.

From this plane it was impossible to locate the old battleship Arkansas. She is the only capital ship missing in the target array one hour after the blast. It apparently took less than 20 minutes for the Arkansas to go down. Somewhere between the time the atomic bomb burst and the water and mist was sent spiraling into the sky, the Arkansas disappeared.

Obviously she was badly hurt to sink in 20 minutes or less—if she is indeed sunk. But the miracle to those who watched was that so many of the ships stood up under the blast that was equal to about 60,000 depth charges weighing 600

The queen of the carriers, the Saratoga, appeared to be listing, but she was still afloat, along with the light carrier Independence, the battleship New York and the cruisers Pensacola and Salt Lake City.

Crew members aboard our plane gave great cheers when the mists cleared and showed the ships still standing.

The water had first erupted in a colossal geyser. The column looked perfectly rounded and was dark brown in color as it rose into the heavens. Mighty waves rose with the blast in the center of the lagoon but they did not roll over Bikini Island. In fact, from this ship it looked as though the waves were only two to three feet high when they reached Bikini.

Then came the second phenomena of the atomic underwater burst.

Suddenly from the base of this water column burst a gigantic dome-shaped mushroom of smoke, vapor, and water with a dirty brown bottom churning and boiling.

Concentric circles of vapor ran from this mass and vanished, and the great cloud of vapor that hung like a cap over the cloud mass vanished swiftly in the sun.

Giant Steam Mass Rises

All these things happened in the twinkling of an eye. Then from the surface of the sea rose a great mass of steam—banks of steam—that blotted out the fleet and covered it almost in entirety with white fleece through which it was impossible to see.

The smoke and mists cleared, and there stood the Nevada—still riding high in the water.

At first sight it appeared that virtually all capital ships were still standing. The center of the lagoon was a peculiar green color indicating that the atomic bomb had shattered the floor of the lagoon.

Twelve minutes after the blast the carrier Saratoga, one of the ships nearest to the bomb, was still visible but appeared to be listing slightly to starboard—the side facing the point of the bomb burst.

The Independence—the mighty "I" of the Pacific—still was afloat and the Nagato was there on top of the water.

We headed for Bikini Lagoon just after dawn today to see this first underwater explosion of an atomic bomb. No one knew just what to expect.

Capt. Louis W. Whittaker, Oklahoma City, commander of The Voice, said his crew had been briefed on what to expect—to look for a tremendous water column shot into the heavens.

He grinned and added, "This guy said maybe he'd see the Saratoga going right on up with the water." That is one thing we were told to watch for—the possibility of the explosions lifting battleships out of the water. Everyone felt this was a lucky day. And it was phenomenal luck to get good weather right on schedule during one of the worst weather periods in this part of the Pacific.

Kwajalein airfield was like an airfield in wartime as bombers prepared to take off on a raid over Germany. As the sun rose over the horizon big planes began taking off. Every minute one would roar down the runway and soar into the flaming sky, turn and head for a rendezvous point near Bikini.

And then it was our turn and the crew went to their stations. Our crew line-up was Captain Whittaker, commander; Lieut. Guy D. Fender of Stockton, Calif., pilot; Lieut. William L. MacMurdy of Riverside, Calif., navigator; Tech. Sgt. Don L. Mauel of Lincoln, Neb., engineer; Tech. Sgt. Darl Chamberlain of Lakeville, Ind., radioman; Master Sgt. Thomas Holmes Kirlyn of Upper Darby Pa., crew chief.

There wasn't the tension this time that everyone felt before test Able, July 1. Everyone was more relaxed, for some of the mystery is removed from the Atomic Bomb by putting it on exhibit before more than 40,000 pairs of eyes.

As everything was set for the big jolt tension began to mount in the plane. It was a tangible thing that started to take form when the pilot announced "ten minutes to H-Hour, ten minutes to H-Hour."

The last-hour drama of this test "Baker" began late Wednesday, when young Dr. Marshall Holloway, Cornell physicist, boarded the weapons craft with a party of scientists and technicians to make final preparations. The lagoon was virtually deserted.

This group prepared the bomb for detonation, and then at 3 A. M. Dr. Holloway checked the radio linkage that carried the impulses setting off the detonation mechanisms.

After instruments and mechanisms had been set, Dr. Holloway and his group were taken off the craft at 6 A. M. and sped to the Cumberland Sound.

There, about fifteen miles from the target array, Dr. Holloway took his place before the dark panel studded with push-buttons, ready to set off the explosion.

This ship is named The Voice because it was equipped with transmission facilities to deliver eyewitness accounts by voice and radio teleprinter to the United States.

This is a giant flying newsroom —an amazing workshop in the sky from which we can transmit stories via the Appalachian to San Francisco and then by wire to every newspaper office in the country.

Thrusting up through the center was a solid column of water and spray to a height of 9,000 feet, capped with a partly-formed atomic-bomb cloud in the familiar colors of peach and cream shown by the air burst of July 1.

W. H. P. Blandy decided, in view of improving weather conditions, to go ahead with the test on schedule. This calls for detonation at 8:35 A. M. (5:35 P. M., Eastern Daylight Time, Wednesday, U. S. date) or as soon thereafter as weather permits.

BIKINI APPEARS TO BE UNDAMAGED AFTER EXPLOSION

JUL 26 1946

NIGHT

By ELTON C. FAY

ABOARD USS MT. McKINLEY OFF BIKINI, Thursday, July 25—(AP) Bikini island appears to be more or less intact after the atomic bomb submarine explosion.

Five steel towers on the island were visible as this ship moved in toward the lagoon.

Navy Lieutenant H. P. Muether of Roseburg, Ore., who was watching through the television set, said waves hit Bikini beach three to five minutes after the explosion, which took place about three miles off shore.

He said that the waves rocked beached landing craft violently, but no more than a rough surf would have done.

The waves did not roll over the island.

Fails to See Blast

Lieutenant Muether said that he could see the blast on the television screen and then the mist obscured the scene. When it cleared he said that the picture of the target array was unrecognizable.

Vessels seen to be still afloat included the veteran aircraft carrier Saratoga, though part of her island superstructure seemed to be missing; the Japanese battleship Nagato, the U. S. battleship Nevada, and the hulk of the carrier Independence, which was badly damaged in the aerial atomic bomb burst 24 days ago.

Today's underwater bomb, exploding exactly as scheduled, hurled a tremendous mountain-like spray of water and debris of ships high into the sky.

The base of this mountain of spray was approximately a half-mile in diameter.

Three Men Aboard Target Ship Are Temporarily Unnoticed

ABOARD THE USS MT. McKINLEY, Thursday, July 25. — (AP) Three men aboard the target transport Gasconade in Bikini lagoon presumably spent an anxious time early this morning.

Lookouts aboard the Mt. McKinley noticed, as the flagship steamed toward the exit of the lagoon, a flag hoist of bunting flying from the Gasconade indicating men were still aboard, although they were supposed to have left hours before.

A tug was ordered to investigate. Watchers from the flagship could see men standing at the rail. They apparently awakened, realized they were still aboard the target ship with the explosion hour drawing night, and had no way of radio communications.

Therefore they did the only thing left—flew the bunting, knowing it would attract attention.

At 5:55 a. m., only a few minutes before the picket boat picked up the weapon ship party, the tug took the three ol[illegible] and hustled toward safety.

Vice Admiral [illegible] P. Blandy watched the w[illegible]e procedure through binoculars [illegible]is scowl boding trouble for who[illegible]ver slipped up.

Dr. Marshall Holloway, the Cornell physicist, who will push the last button on the remote-controlled firing mechanism, was among those who went aboard the barge in the midst of ships making up a fleet stronger than most navies of the world.

Use Picket Boat

The group travelled from their laboratory ship to the weapon vessel in a small picket boat. The men climbed on the barge to join a small crew and sentries guarding the craft.

Weathermen told Blandy that conditions, which were not good yesterday morning, had improved steadily through yesterday.

The admiral in command of "Operation Crossroad" then said he would continue with plans for the test, making postponements every 30 minutes if need be up to about 11 A. M. (8 P. M. today, Eastern Daylight Time).

If weather conditions by that hour are against the test, it will be postponed until at least July 27.

By last nightfall, all but nine ships—exclusive of target ships—had left the lagoon. These were assigned to pick up skeleton crews at dawn today on the target vessels, also the men who remained on the islands during the night to prepare recording equipment and make last-

Scientists Cock Atom Bomb For Bikini Blast Late Today

Craft With 'A' Missile Towed Into Lagoon—Cornell Expert Will Speed From It to Trigger Ship After Cocking.

E. FAY

Aboard the USS Mt. McKinley, (THURSDAY), July 25—(AP)—A small group of scientists and Rear Adm. W. S. Parsons boarded a barge in Bikini Lagoon shortly before last midnight to cock the trigger for today's underwater atom bomb test against 75 target ships.

The boarding followed a mid-eve-[illegible] ning meeting at which Vice Adm.

Lights showed on only a few of the 75 target ships last night. They were mere pin pricks of illumination in the sprawling black shadows of the bomb-menaced fleet.

Sky Overcast

Despite the weathermen's hopeful outlook, the sky last night was starless and overcast. The usually steady trade wind had died down to a virtual calm. That wind is necessary to carry away radioactive spray and clouds. Without it, Admiral Blandy would not order the bomb blown up.

The semi-final act of this second atomic drama in Bikini Lagoon within a month was performed with all the elaborate secrecy of wartime.

A mysterious small craft entered the lagoon in tow of a tug early yesterday and passed the line of target ships, many seared and blasted by the aerial A-bomb of July 1.

It moved on to the central location from which lines of target ships radiated outward as much as two miles like the spokes of a giant wheel.

A canvas concealed the bomb from the eyes of the crew that will submerge it.

Only Dr. Holloway, and other scientists from Los Alamos, N. M., will see it.

No one is certain what will happen, although scientists are fairly sure that monstrous waterspout will rocket into the sky to a height of two or three miles.

No one is sure how many, if any, of the 75 ships and 12 small craft anchored in the lagoon will survive the enormous underwater shock and sea turbulence generated by the bomb.

High Waves Expected

Oceanographers expect waves to be 50 feet high at a distance half a mile from the explosion. The 12 small boats and seven landing craft will be at or on Bikini beach to get the effect of the wave motion.

Also on the beach but not counted in the target array are some small craft that were blown ashore and wrecked by storms in the lagoon.

Closest to the explosion and possibly on the rim of the huge hole expected to be blown for a moment in the lagoon's waters are the battleship Arkansas, the submerged submarine Pilotfish, the famed aircraft carrier Saratoga and the cruiser Pensacola.

A few hundred yards farther out are the battleship New York, the cruiser Salt Lake City and the carrier Independence and Japanese battleship Nagato, both hard hit by the July 1 explosion.

The powerful German cruiser Prinz Eugen is about a mile from the center. On the outer hub of the target wheel is the Nevada, damaged bullseye battleship of the air bomb test, and the battleship Pennsylvania.

Two observation ships, the Panamint, carrying scientists and foreign observers, and the Blue Ridge, with its military observers, are expected late today or tomorrow from Kwajalein.

King Juda on Flagship to See Blast

Monarch of Bikini Says Many Older Inhabitants Will Return if Island Survives 'A' Bomb.

Aboard U. S. S. Mount McKinley, July 24 (A. P.).—King Juda of Bikini came out from the island today, where he had been sleeping in an Army tent, and boarded this flagship to watch the explosion that may destroy his island tomorrow.

He had slept the night before at the site of his old village, which he and his people vacated to allow for the atomic bomb tests.

Vice-Admiral W. H. P. Blandy authorized King Juda to decide whether he wanted to witness the underwater atomic explosion tomorrow. He decided to see the show.

Earlier, Blandy had told reporters that Juda might not see the blast, because only the joint chiefs of staff could grant permission. Presumably, there was no difficulty in getting permission.

Aboard ship he is not being treated as "royalty" or as "a very important person," categories used to designate high military and government officials.

King Juda is being given the same treatment as any other observer. Just where he will be quartered on the ship has not been announced.

Before leaving his native Bikini, the King visited the cemetery of his people. He said Navy Seabees had given it good care since his people left the island.

Juda told task force officials that if Bikini were intact after the sub-surface explosion, the older people of his tribe would like to return from their new home on Rongerik to the island, "because it is home to them."

"The younger natives," he said, "do not care where they live in the future."

SAILOR KILLED BY DRINK

Man on Bikini Flagship Takes Methyl Alcohol

ABOARD U. S. S. MOUNT M'KINLEY, July 24 (AP)—One crew man of this ship—flagship of the atomic-bomb test operations—died and six were seriously ill today from what officers believed were the effects of drinking wood alcohol.

Capt. Wayne Gamet, skipper of the Mount McKinley, said that a preliminary investigation had indicated that a crew man had procured fluid used for duplicating machines and containing methyl alcohol. The container was labeled "poison."

Investigators could not learn immediately how the others had obtained the poisonous liquid, but Captain Gamet was certain that no one intended to poison his shipmates. Ship's officers identified the dead man as Seaman, first class, James Richard Regan, of Homer, N. Y.

Reporters Go Thirsty As an Atom Precaution

ABOARD U. S. S. APPALACHIAN, July 24 (AP).—The use of fresh water on this press ship was limited today as a conservation measure, and all drinking water was shut off for two hours.

The reason was that Operation Cross Roads officials were taking precautions to insure an adequate supply if the submerged atomic bomb should cause near-by waters to become radioactive.

The Appalacian makes fresh water out of salt water, and the tropical heat has caused the ship's supply to be drawn on heavily in the last few days.

HEIGHT OF WAVES IS NO SURPRISE TO SCIENCE GROUP

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 24. — (AP) Dr. William Higinbotham, chairman of the Federation of American Scientists, said it was "not surprising" that waves generated by the sub-surface atomic blast today were only five feet high when they broke over Bikini beach.

"Predictions of a high wave made by scientists in advance of the test concerned the wave at the actual crater of the blast," he told a reporter.

High at Crater

"If waves breaking over Bikini were five feet high, the wave at the crater site must have been about 50 feet high—if we figure that the distance from the bomb site to the shore was about five miles."

He added:

"One would expect a wave to lessen in height in proportion to the distance travelled. It's like when you drop a stone in the water; the waves gradually lessen in height as they spread out."

Higinbotham, whose organization has been critical of the Navy's atomic tests, said:

"The one significant thing that science may expect to learn from the latest test is what happens to radioactivity in water." He said the test was "primarily of military significance."

He reiterated previous views of his organization that the third projected Navy test—a deep subsurface blast planned tentatively for 1947—has the most potential significance from both a military and scientific viewpoint.

Essentially Surface Blast

"While the test carried on today," said, "has been described as a submarine blast, it is essentially a surface test, because the bomb was detonated only slightly below the surface.

"Its effects should be the same as though the bomb was detonated directly above the surface—because a great deal of the energy must have gone out through the air.

"In contrast, if a deep subsurface test is held, a pressure wave will be transmitted entirely through water and we may see some queer effects."

Asked to elaborate, Higinbotham said:

"We might have shock waves reflected from the bottom of the ocean and doing a lot of damage in the immediate vicinity. Then, the shock waves may skip over great distances without doing much, and then suddenly upset a rowboat miles and miles away."

Called Not Conclusive

LOS ALAMOS, N. M., July 24 (AP).—The underwater atomic bomb blast at Bikini today is not a conclusive test of the destructive powers of atomic bombs against naval vessels, Dr. Maurice M. Shapiro, physicist and former chairman of the Association of Los Alamos Scientists, said today.

He said today's test would be "more like a surface burst than a real underwater expolision." The third test planned for next year he said, will be deep under water and should inflict maximum damage.

SEISMOGRAPH FAILS TO REGISTER BLAST

PASADENA, Calif., July 24—(AP) Powerful as was Bikini's under water atom blast, it didn't shake the Pacific's floor with strength comparable to an earthquake.

Seismologists at California Institute of Technology calculated that the shock, if registered, should reach here 11 minutes, six seconds after the detonation. That time passed without ever a quiver of the delicate reading seismograph in the laboratory's lobby.

Scientists said, howeevr, it possibly might have registered on more sensitive instruments, deeply set in rock. Photographic plates from these recorders will be developed, probably tomorrow.

Jewish Agency Heads Blamed For Palestine Terror by British

LONDON, July 24—(AP) British white paper tonight charged leaders of the Jewish Agency for Palestine with ordering underground acts of violence in a carefully planned program of sabotage which [illegible] British government to [illegible] measures.

The 10-page document, presented by the colonial secretary to Parliament, said evidence gleaned from intercepted communications showed that Hagana, a huge Jewish underground organization, and its permanent military arm, known as Palmach, worked under political control of prominent Jewish Agency members in the program of violence in Palestine carried out "under the guise of the Jewish resistance movement."

Since last autumn, the government charged, the lesser underground organizations — the Irgun Zvai Leumi and the extreme Stern Gang which originated as dissident Jewish factions—worked in cooperation with Hagana's high command on certain of such operations.

A spokesman for the Jewish Agency in London said the Jews had no immediate comment.

The government said the intercepted telegrams linked the Jewish leaders Moshe Shertok, Bernard Joseph, David Ben Gurion and others with armed attacks by the three Jewish "illegal para-military organizations," Hagana, Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern Gang.

This material was detailed, the document said, not as a complete statement of all the evidence in possession of the British government, but as showing the basis of British counter measures late last month when more than 2,500 members of the Jewish community were arrested in Palestine.

Shertok, Joseph and other arrested leaders of the Jewish Agency still are in confinement in the Latrun detention camp.

The Jewish Agency consists of both Zionists and non-Zionists and is recognized by the British and Palestine governments as the agency for the Jewish people in matters pertaining to Jewish immigration and the Jewish national home.

Hotel Blast Skipped

The government report, in preparation for some time, made no reference to the dynamiting of the King David hotel on Monday.

The white paper set forth an exchange of telegrams, beginning Sept. 23, 1945, and concluding May 12, 1946.

As far back as Nov. 1, 1945, the paper said, the underground groups were working together. A telegram from a Jewish Agency leader in London to one in Jerusalem was quoted as saying:

"We have come to a working arrangement with the dissident organizations, according to which we shall assign certain tasks to them under our command. x x x They will act only according to our plan."

This telegram was coincident, the government said, with widespread attacks by Palmach and the Stern Gang in which the Palestine railway line was cut in 153 places, three police launches were blown up and an attempt was made to dynamite the Haifa oil refinery.

Later, the white paper said, "Hamaas," the publication of the Stern group, declared that the most significant achievement on the night of the attacks was "that for the first time the attack was coordinated and concentrated." The publication was quoted as adding that "the Jewish resistance movement has embraced all the Jewish resistance forces with a view to their being guided by a single authority which would control the common fight."

Carefully Worked Out

This first coordinated outbreak of violence, the white paper said, "was carefully planned in advance as part of a deliberate policy."

"The Jewish Agency executive," it continued, "was not prepared to wait for a declaration of government policy, but decided to cause 'one serious incident' in order to influence that policy."

In support of this the paper quoted a series of code telegrams:

On Oct. 10, 1945, a telegram signed by Dr. Joseph, legal adviser and executive member in Jerusalem, was sent to Shertok, head of the agency's political department and then a member of the agency executive in London. It said the Eliezer Kaplan, head of the Jewish Agency financial department, had been opposed "to any real action on our part until we hear from you."

It added: "Should you agree to isolated actions, wire that you agree to sending a deputation to the Dominions. If Hayyim meant us only to avoid a general conflict, not isolated cases, send greetings to Chill for the birth of his daughter."

Two days later, Shertok replied: "David will not leave before fortnight. Meanwhile probably revisit Paris. Regarding Dobkin writing. David himself favored delegate Dominions. Please congratulate Chill on birth of daughter. Signed Shertok."

"The phrases about 'delegate Dominions' and 'greetings to Chill' meant that it was desired, whilst avoiding a general conflict, to indulge in isolated actions," the government paper declared.

JUL 25 1946

Attacks Second Warning

Later attacks on the Haifa Radar Station, the Palestine mobile force camps and airfields, between Feb. 20 and Feb. 25, 1946, "seem to have been intended as a 'second warning'", the paper said, "as the 'first warning' on Oct. 31-Nov. 1, 1945, had been disregarded."

The government said that Palmach, Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern group all participated in the fresh outbreak.

The paper said that Shertok ordered a broadcast by the illegal "voice of Israel" on May 12, 1946, in which it was announced that the Jewish resistance movement would make every effort to hinder the transfer of British military bases from other points in the Middle East to Palestine.

On June 16, the paper said, Hagana carried out attacks on road and rail bridges on the frontier, causing $1,000,000 damage, and the following night the Stern Gang attacked the Haifa railway workshops. On June 18, five British officers were kidnaped in Tel Aviv and a sixth was abducted on the streets of Jerusalem.

The paper concluded:

"1. That the Hagana and its associated force, the Palmach (working under the political control of prominent members of the Jewish Agency) have been engaging in carefully planned movements of sabotage and violence under the guise of the 'Jewish resistance movement.'

"2. That Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern group have worked since last autumn in cooperation with the Hagana high command on certain operations.

"3. That the broadcasting station 'Kol Israel,' which claims to be the 'voice of the resistance movement' and which was working under the general direction of the Jewish Agency, has been supporting these organizations."

BRITAIN CONNECTS JEWISH AGENCY WITH OUTRAGES

London, July 24 (A. P.).—The British Government tonight accused leaders of the Jewish Agency for Palestine of ordering acts of violence by underground forces in Palestine.

In a ten-page White Paper presented to Parliament by the Colonial Secretary, the Government published intercepted telegrams which, it said, linked Moshe Shertok, Bernard Joseph, David Ben-Gurion and other Jewish leaders with armed attacks by the three Jewish "illegal para-military organizations" Hagana, Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern gang.

The evidence, the White Paper declared, influenced the British to British to order the widespread police and Army operations in which more than 2,500 Jews in Palestine were arrested on June 29. (AP)

British White Paper Accusing the Jewish Agency of Planned Violence in Palestine

LONDON, July 24 (AP)—The complete text of a British White Paper entitled "Palestine: Statement of Information Relating to Acts of Violence," published today:

EXPLANATORY NOTES:

The following notes on the three Jewish illegal para-military organizations in Palestine are based on the report of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry. His Majesty's government have reason to believe that the figures given are on the conservative side.

The Hagana and Palmach—An illegal and well-armed military organization, organized under a central command with subsidiary territorial commands, in three branches, each of which includes women, viz.:

A static force composed of settlers and townsfolk, with an estimated strength of 40,000;

A field army, based on the Jewish Settlement Police and trained in more mobile operations, with an estimated strength of 16,000;

A full-time force (Palmach), permanent, mobilized and provided with transport, with an estimated peace establishment of 2,000 and war establishment of some 6,000.

Something in the nature of conscription is in force; a year's service being obligatory for senior school children, male and female, between the ages of seventeen and eighteen. The Jewish publication, "Haboker," stated that prior to Nov. 11, 1945, "every movement must submit to the Jewish Agency's recruiting department in Tel Aviv a roster of its members, male and female, who must enlist."

The Irgun Zvai Leumi (National Military Organization): —formed in 1935 from dissident members of the Hagana, operates under its secret command, with a strength estimated between 3,000 and 5,000.

The Stern Group:—Originated as a dissident faction within the Irgun Zvai Leumi when the latter decided temporarily to suspend activities in 1939. Its strength is said to be between 200 and 300 dangerous fanatics. They have been for some time fully co-operating with the Irgun Zvai Leumi, since both are equally committed to a policy of unrestrained extremism. (End of notes.)

PALESTINE: STATEMENT OF INFORMATION RELATING TO ACTS OF VIOLENCE.

The information which was in the possession of His Majesty's Government when they undertook their recent action in Palestine led them to draw the following conclusions:

(1) That the Hagana and its associated force, the Palmach (working under the political control of prominent members of the Jewish Agency), have been engaging in carefully planned movements of sabotage and violence under the guise of "The Jewish Resistance Movement";

(2) That the Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern Group have worked since last autumn in cooperation with the Hagana high command on certain of these operations; and

(3) That the broadcasting station "Kol Israel," which claims to be "The Voice of the Resistance Movement" and which was working under the general direction of the Jewish Agency, has been supporting these organizations.

The evidence on which these conclusions are based is derived in the main from three sources:

(I) Information which has been obtained showing that between Sept. 23, 1945, and Nov. 3, 1945, seven telegrams passed between London and Jerusalem, and a further telegram on May 1946. Copies of these have been interpreted and are here set out;

(II) Various broadcasts by "Kol Israel" between Oct. 31, 1945, and June 23, 1946, referring to specific acts of violence and sabotage; and

(III) Information on various dates derived from the pamphlet "Hamaas" (the publication of the Stern Group), from "Herut" (the publication of the Irgun Zvai Leumi) and from "Eshnav" (the publication of "The Jewish Resistance Movement"). Examples from these pamphlets are set out in this paper.

This evidence relates to the three widespread sabotage operations of Oct. 31-Nov. 1, 1945; Feb. 20-25, 1946, and June 16-18, 1946. All three paramilitary organizations participated in these actions, which not only caused very serious destruction but also loss of 1 life.

I. Attack on railways, police launches and Haifa refinery—Oct. 31-Nov. 1, 1945.

Note—The Palmach carried out widespread attacks on the Palestinian Railway System. The line was blown in 153 places in all, completely disrupting it. Other charges, though laid, did not explode. Three police launches were destroyed by explosives, two at Haifa and one at Jaffa. The same night, the Irgun Zvai Leumi attacked the Lydda station and yards causing damage to three locomotives, the destruction of one signal box, and the burning of an engine shed. Several casualties were inflicted, including the death of one British soldier. A further attempt was made on the same night by the Stern Group to blow up the oil refinery at Haifa.

This incident was carefully planned in advance as part of a deliberate policy. It was intended as a warning to His Majesty's Government of the consequences that would follow if they did not comply with the wishes of the Yishuv (the Jewish community in Palestine). The Jewish Agency Executive was not prepared to wait for a declaration of government policy, but decided to cause "one serious incident" in order to influence that policy. These facts can plainly be seen from the following telegrams:

To London from Sneh in Jerusalem—Sept. 23, 1945:

"It is suggested that we do not wait for the official announcement, but call upon all Jewry to warn the authorities and to raise the morale of the Yishuv. If you agree, ask Zeev Sharif for statistical material about this material is not yet required. It has also been suggested that we cause one serious incident. We would then publish a declaration to the effect that it is only a warning and an indication of much more serious incidents that would threaten the safety of all British interests in the country, should the government decide against us. Wire your views with the reference as before, but referring to statistical material about immigration during the war years. The Stern Group have expressed their willingness to join us completely on the basis of our programme of activity. This time the intention seems serious. If there is such a union we may assume that we can prevent independent action even by the I. Z. L. Wire your views on the question of the union, referring to statistical material about Jewish recruitment to the army. Sneh."

N. B.—Sneh is security member of the Jewish Agency Executive. I. Z. L. is the Irgun Zvai Leumi.

That the agency executive agreed to the above action is clearly shown in the following telegrams:

In London from Bernard Joseph in Jerusalem—Oct. 10, 1945.

"Eliezer Kaplan, basing himself on a word from Hayyim via N. W. B. W., says that we should undertake nothing before you give us instructions to do. He is opposed to any real action on our part until we hear from you.

"Other members, however, are of the opinion that it is necessary to back your political effort with activities which do not bear the character of a general conflict.

"It is essential that we should know at once whether such actions are likely to be useful or detrimental to your struggle.

"Should you be opposed to any action whatever, wire that we should wait for the arrival of Wisly.

"Should you agree to isolated actions, wire that you agree to sending a deputation to the dominions.

"If Hayyim meant us only avoid a general conflict, not isolated cases, send greetings to Chill for the birth of his daughter."

N. B.—Bernard Joseph is legal adviser to the Jewish Agency and a member of its Executive. Eliezer Kaplan is head of the Agency's financial department and a member of the executive.

Telegram No. 3.

From Moshe Shertok in London to Bernard Joseph in Jerusalem.—Oct. 12, 1945.

"David will not leave before fortnight. Meanwhile, probably revisit Paris. Regarding Dobkin written. David himself favored delegate dominions. Please congratulate Chill on birth of daughter. Signed Shertok."

N. B.—(1) Moshe Shertok is head of the Agency's political department and a member of the Executive.

(2) A reference to Telegram No. 2 will show that the phrases about "delegate dominions" and "greetings to Chill "meant that it was desired, whilst avoiding a general conflict, to indulge in isolated actions.

Telegram No. 4.

To London from Jerusalem.—Nov. 2, 1945.

"The executive refuses to give authority to the political department to act within the limits of Ben-Gurion's instructions. G. S. B. R. argues that he will oppose this as soon as Ben-Gurion's instructions. They did not dare to cancel the instructions, but insisted that we inform the Executive in advance of each action and that they should have the right of veto. We received agreement for the police boats and for the railway. All activities may thus be spoiled owing to pressure from the party on Bernard Joseph and on Eliahu."

N. B.—David Ben-Gurion is chairman of the Jewish Agency Executive.

For the operations of Oct. 31-Nov. 1 the Agency sought and obtained the co-operation of the "dissident organizations."

To London from Jerusalem.—Nov. 1, 1945.

"We have come to a working arrangement with the dissident organizations according to which we shall assign certain tasks to them under our command. They wil act only according to our plan. Sneh, Shaul Meiroff, Kn'ny and Bernard Joseph consider such an agreement as most desirable, but it is not being put into effect because the party is delaying it. Some of them are opposed to any sort of activity, and especially to any agreement with the dissidents. Information on the operations follows:

"The following activities were carried out on Wednesday night. Two boats were sunk in the Haifa harbor and a third at Jaffa. The boats had been used to chase immigrants. Railway lines were blown up in fifty centers, in all 500 explosions. Railway traffic was stopped from the Syrian frontier to Gaza, from Haifa to Samakh, from Lydda to Jerusalem. In all the activities no one was hurt, stopped or arrested.

The same night the I. Z. L. attacked the Lydda station, causing serious damage and some casualties. During the same night the Stern Group caused serious sabotage at the refineries at Haifa and one man was killed. The dissidents had previosly informed us of this and we did not object to Lydda, but were opposed to the refinery job. Had the agreement come into effect we could have avoided victims at Lydda and prevented the refinery operation. I regard the fact that the party and the Executive are withholding their approval as a crime.

"The activities have made a great impression in the country. The authorities are bewildered and have proclaimed a curfew of the roads at night. They are waiting for instructions from London. We are apprehensive of a general attack against the Hagana. We have taken the necessary security measures and are prepared for sacrifices. Confirm by telegram to Ada, enquiries about the health of her children."

"Hamaas," the publication of

of the Agency's political department and then a member of the Agency executive in London. It said that Eliezer Kaplan, head of the Jewish Agency financial department, had been opposed "to any real action on our part until we hear from you."

It added: "Should you agree to isolated actions, wire that you agree to sending a deputation to the dominions. If Hayyim meant us only to avoid a general conflict, not isolated cases, send greetings to Chill for the birth of his daughter."

Two days later, Shertok replied: "David will not leave before fortnight. Meanwhile probably revisit Paris. Regarding Dobkin writing. David himself favored delegate dominions. Please congratulate Chill on birth of daughter. Signed Shertok."

"The phrases about 'delegate dominions' and 'greetings to Chill' meant that it was desired, whilst avoiding a general conflict, to indulge in isolated actions," the government paper declared.

Later attacks on the Haifa radar station, the Palestine mobile force camps and airfields between Feb. 20 and Feb. 25, 1946, "seem to have been intended as a 'second warning,'" the paper said, "as the 'first warning' on Oct. 1, 1945, had been disregarded."

The government said that Palmach, Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern group all participated in the fresh outbreak.

the Stern Group, in referring to the above operation, stated:

"The events of Nov. 1 have given a striking expression of the firm resolution of the Jews to fight for the freedom of their homeland. The scope of the attack has proved that the Jews are capable of acting under the most difficult conditions.

"However, the most significant achievement on that night was that for the first time the attack was co-ordinated and concentrated. The Jewish resistance movement has embraced all the Jewish resistance forces with a view to their being guided by a single authority which would control the common fight."

"Hamaas" issue No. 2 of November, 1945).

These operations were widely publicized by the Jewish illegal broadcasting station, Kol Israel, as follows:

"The paralyzing of the railways all over the country through cutting the lines in 242 places serves as a warning to the government of the White Paper.

"The nights of heroism since Athlit (see foot note "A") are an expression of our strength and decision. We lament the British, Arab and Jewish victims who fell in the attacks on the railways and ports of Palestine. They are all victims of the White Paper. All our men returned safely with their equipment. None of our men is missing" (Nov. 2, 1945).

(A) On Oct. 10 the Palmach released over 200 illegal immigrants from the Athlit clearance camp. A British police tender was ambushed during the subsequent search for the escaped persons and one British policeman and two Palestinians were wounded.

A proof of the fact that the Kol Israel station was working with the agreement of the Jewish Agency, reference may be made to the following telegrams: (See also telegram No. 8).

Telegram No. 6.

To London from Sneh in Jerusalem—Oct. 12, 1945.

"With effect from Oct. 4 the broadcasts of the 'Voice of Israel' have been renewed. Two broadcasts were successful. Eliezer Kaplan and Bernard Joseph were invited to see the high commissioner this morning.

"The agreement for the renewal of the broadcasts and the Athlit . . . undertakings have been obtained with difficulty. In future I shall not inquire, but decide in conjunction with Shaul Meiroff and Kn'my."

Telegram No. 7.

To London from Jerusalem—Oct. 14, 1945.

"The Voice of Israel started to function as the broadcasting station of the Jewish Resistance Movement three days before we received your letter and your telegram.

"We also have had the same doubts and we voiced them before the broadcasts were started, but the expert says that there are no grounds for anxiety from the technical point of view."

N. B.—The phrase "grounds for anxiety from the technical point of view" probably refers to apprehension that the station, which is a mobile one, might be located.

II. Attacks on Haifa radar station, Palestine Mobile Force camps, and airfields—Feb. 20-25, 1946.

Note—On Feb. 20, 1946, the Palmach attacked the Royal Air Force radar station, Haifa, blowing it up and seriously wounding two R. A. F. non-commissioned officers and inflicting lesser injuries on six others.

Two days later the Palmach carried out co-ordinated attacks on Palestine Mobile Force Camps at Shaffa Amir, Kfar Vitkin and Sarona.

At Shaffa Amir serious damage was caused. One police officer suffered head injuries. Three British women and one child suffered from shock.

On Feb. 25, the Irgun Zvai Leumi and Stern Group followed this up with attacks on airfields at Lydda, Petah Tikvah and Qastina, destroying seven aircraft and damaging eight others.

These incidents seem to have been intended as a "second warning," as the "first warning" on Oct. 31-Nov. 1, 1945, had been "disregarded." These incidents were described in a Kol Israel broadcast of March 3, 1946:

"This last fortnight has been a renewed intensity in the struggle of the Jewish people against the forces which aim to throttle them and their natural aspirations for normal nationhood in their national home.

"The attack on the radar station on Mount Carmel was aimed at destroying one of the principal agents of the government in its hunt for Jewish refugees. The sabotage of the airfields (i.e., by Irgun Zvai Leumi and Stern Group) was the sabotage of a weapon which has been degraded from its glorious fight against the evil forces of Nazism to the dishonorable task of fighting against the victims of Nazism.

"Those three attacks are symptomatic of our struggle. In all cases the onslaught was made against the weapon used by the White Paper in its despicable battle to repudiate its undertaking to the Jewish people and the world, and not against the men who use this weapon. It is not our object to cause the loss of life of any Britons in this country; we have nothing against them because we realize that they are but instruments of a policy, and in many cases unwilling instruments."

In addition to the above

JUL 25 1946

Broadcast, ("Herut," the publication of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, and "Eshnav," the pamphlet published in the name of the Resistance Movement, made the following allusions to these extensive operation:

"Heavy tasks were imposed on all the forces of the nation. The soldiers of the Hagana were ordered to attack the forces in their lairs i. e. the Palestine Mobile Force.)

"No less difficult was the task imposed on the members of the national military organization . . . who were sent to attack the military airfields at Qastina and the central airfield at Lydda; and on the members of the Fighters for Freedom of Israel . . . who were ordered to attack the aerodrome at Kear Sirkin. The importance of this week's events lies in the fact that this was the first time that the military bases of the British rulers were shaken." (Herut" in issue No. 55 of February, 1946.)

(a) The national military organization is the Irgun Zvai Leumi and Fighters for Freedom of Israel is the Stern Group.

"A big week.

"The actions of this glorious week have been carried out with the support of the entire, united Jewish youth. This is a political achievement.

"The Palestine Mobile Force has been attacked by the Hagana; at two camps considerable damage has been injected. At Sarona the fighters retired after a continuation of the attack had proved useless. Here four of them fell.

"Lydda and Qastina airfields have been attacked by Irgun Zvai Leumi, whilst Lohemei Herut Israel (Fighters for Freedom of Israel) men chose as their aim the airfield at Kfar Sirkin." ("Herut" issue No. 56 of February, 1946.)

"The first warning on Nov. 1, 1945, by the Jewish Resistance was disregarded, and the whole Yishuv was compelled to carry out a second warning during the last fortnight expressed in the attacks on Palestine Mobile Force stations and airfields. ("Eshnav," issue No. 116 of March 4, 1946.)

III.—Attacks on road and rail bridges, railway workshops and kidnaping of British officers.—June 16-18, 1946.

Note:—During the evening of June 16, 1946, Hagana carried out attacks on road and rail bridges on the frontier of Palestine causing damage estimated at 250,000 pounds ($1,000,000). Four road and four rail bridges were destroyed or damaged during the night, and one road bridge across the Jordan was destroyed by a delayed-action mine, while attempts were being made to remove the charges. One British officer of the Royal Engineers was killed by the explosion.

The following evening the Stern Group carried out an attack on the Haifa railway workshops.

On June 18, 1946, five British officers were kidnapped while lunching at an officers' club in Tel Aviv and a sixth British officer was kidnapped in a main street of Jerusalem.

Indication that a further series of incidents might be imminent was given on May 12, 1946, when Kol Israel broadcast a warning which is considered "desirable" to lay before His Majesty's Government." The text of this broadcast was as follows:

"The Jewish resistance movement thinks it desirable to publish the warning it intends to lay before His Majesty's Government. The present British policy is executing a dangerous maneuver and is based on an erroneous assumption: Britain, in evacuating Syria, Lebanon and Egypt intends to concentrate her military bases in Palestine and is therefore concerned to strengthen her hold over the mandate, and is using her responsibility to the Jewish people merely as a means to that end. But this double game will not work. Britain cannot hold both ends of the rope: she cannot exploit the tragic Jewish question of her own benefit as mandatory power, while attempting to wriggle out of the various responsibilities which that mandate confers.

"From the Zionist point of view, the tepid conclusions of the commission bear no relation to the political claims of the Jewish people; but even so, in the execution of these proposals, the British government is displaying a vacillation at once disappointing and discreditable.

"We would therefore warn publicly His Majesty's government that if it does not fulfill its responsibilities under the mandate—above all with regard to the question of immigration—the Jewish people will feel obliged to lay before the nations of the world the request that the British leave Palestine. The Jewish Resistance Movement will make every effort to hinder the transfer of British bases to Palestine and to prevent their establishment in the country."

This broadcast is of particular significance by reason of the fact that it was given at the express request of Moshe Shertok, head of the Jewish Agency's political department and a member of its executive committee, and had also been passed to David Ben-Gurion, chairman of the executive committee.

This is made clear in the following telegram:

Telegram No. 8

To "Daniel" in London from Sneh in Jerusalem, May 12, 1946:

Please pass on to Ben-Gurion the text of the broadcast of Kol Israel sent herewith; with a note that the broadcast was made at the request of Hhertok."

The telegram then repeats textually the broadcast message of the same date.

There followed, on the night of June 16, 1946, the widespread and carefully planned attacks on vital communications and on the following night the attack on railway workshops. Kol Israel accepted full responsibility on behalf of "the resistance movement for the renewal of its activity as a result of the delaying policy of the British government."

Kol Israel broadcast on June 18, 1946:

"The action of blowing up the bridges expressed the high morale and courage of the Jewish fighters who carried out the attack. They had to pass long distances and to carry a large quantity of material for that purpose. The withdrawal was most difficult, since all the police and army were on their feet and aircraft were looking for the attackers; despite all this, the operation was executed and all objectives were reached according to plan without causing any loss of life to the guards.

"There were some casualties among the attackers in the north owing to an unfortunate accident which was caused by the fall of a rocket directly on to a lorry loaded with explosives and the whole load blew up and the persons there were killed. Honour to their memory. The army and police became furious and started to discharge their wrath of the peaceful people of the near-by settlements; many settlers of Beth Haareva, Matzuva and Eilon were arrested and taken to Acre.

"Many messages of heartfelt appreciation were sent by various personalties and journalists to the resistance movement for the renewal of its activity as a result of the delaying policy of the British government, the recent Bevin speech and the known announcement of Attlee.

"These objectives were chosen to disturb British bases and communications, to prevent the Arabs of the neighboring countries who talked so much about coming to fight the Jews in Palestine, and to mark the closing up of these frontiers before Jewish immigrants."

June 23, 1946:

"This is the Voice of Israel, the Voice of Jewish Resistance. Last week we had to destroy the bridges—these bridges are just as much use to us as the authorities but they had to be destroyed to show our feelings."

Conclusions:

The evidence contained in the foregoing pages is not, and is not intended to be, a complete statement of all the evidence in the possession of His Majesty's Government.

Nor are the specific instances herein referred to by any means a complete list of all the incidents of violence and sabotage which have taken place in recent months.

The fact is that in the first six months of 1946 there were nearly fifty separate incidents involving violence and, in many cases, loss of life. Material damage to a very great extent has been done to railway installations, police and R. A. F. stations, and coast guard stations. Roads have been mined and vehicles have been blown up.

The above operations were widespread in character and caused very extensive damage. Then they were almost immediately followed by the kidnapping of British officers.

It was no longer possible for His Majesty's Government to adopt a passive attitude. Unless the government were prepared to yield to threats of violence and to abandon all hope of establishing law and order, they were bound to take active steps against any persons or organizations who had made themselves responsible for the planning and carrying out of the outrages, which are dealt with in this paper.

JEWISH LEADERS CONSIDER STEPS TO END VIOLENCE

O. Carruthers

JERUSALEM, July 24 — (AP) Hebrew newspapers today denounced the Jewish underground Irgun Zvai Leumi which declared its "soldiers" had carried out the King David hotel bombing, and Jewish Leaders were reported planning meetings on steps to control extremists.

NIGHT

The leftwing Socialist newspaper Mishmar called the organization fascistic, and other newspapers declared that great harm had been done to the Zionist cause by the explosion. The toll of known dead had risen to 52, with 72 others missing and 46 persons still hospitalized.

Hagana May Act

Some unofficial Jewish informants said that Hagana, the vast Jewish underground organization, might take action against the Irgun Zvai Leumi. It was recalled that Hagana took reprisal steps against extremists after the assassination of Lord Moyne in 1944.

(A British white paper accusing the Jewish agency for Palestine of ordering acts of violence by underground forces said that since last autumn the Irgun Zvai Leumi and Stern Gang had "cooperated with the Hagana high command" in some of those actions.

(The white paper said the Irgun Zvai Leumi was formed in 1935 from dissident members of the Hagana, and had a strength of 3,000 to 5,000. The Stern group of 200 to 300 "dangerous fanatics" started in 1939 as a dissident group within the Irgun Zvai Leumi, it added.)

Tension engendered by an anonymous threat to police headquarters last night slackened somewhat today and the Palestine government resumed operations after being out of action nearly two full days.

British soldiers continued to hack away at the ruins of the hotel's east wing, which had housed British military headquarters and Palestine government offices. Six persons so far have been rescued alive from the ruins.

Meeting Is Called

Meanwhile, Jewish leaders were reported authoritatively to have called a meeting to discuss means of combatting Jewish extremist elements accused of participating in recent acts of violence in Palestine.

The Central committee of "Agudath Israel," representing religious orthodox Jews, condemned the bombing and declared the perpetrators should be excluded from the Jewish community.

The Palestine Post said it believed that "the profound shock administered to the Jews can be turned to good account" and that if "they are wisely allowed the return of their moderate leadership they will be able to take the steps necessary to eradicate the evil from their midst, as the government well knows they have done before now."

The prospective release of some of the Jewish leaders who have been detained since the British roundup of June 29 has been announced, but the identity of those to be released is not yet known. Among those still in Latrun detention camp are Jewish Agency members Moshe Shertok, Isaac Gruenbaum and Dr. Bernard Joseph.

VAST MANHUNT IS UNDER WAY IN PALESTINE

Arabs Threaten Action Unless British Halt Terrorism

Jerusalem, July 24—(AP)—Tension in Palestine, scene of a vast manhunt for Extremists who bombed the King David Hotel Monday, was heightened today by an Arab warning that if the British failed to halt terrorism the Arabs themselves would beforced to take a hand.

While rescue workers continued to dig through the debris of the hotel here in hopes of finding additional persons still alvie, British troops and Palestine police combed Jerusalem for leaders of the Jewish underground organization Irgun Zvai Leumi.

DAY

An announcement purportedly from that organization, reecived by the Associated Press last night, said that Irgun Zvai Leumi "soldiers" staged the bombing, which resulted in at least 48 persons killed, 55 injured and 72 missing. (INSERT)

The question most frequently asked in the Holy Land was what effect the explosion, which destroyed a wing of the hotel containing British military headquarters, would have on the admission of additional Jews to Palestine.

Arab Nations Protest

Egypt, Iraq and five other Arab countries asked the United Nations in New York take action to bring the ritish mandate under U. N. trusteeship. Prime Minister Attlee told the British House of Commons in London yesterday that the "insane act of terrorism" would not deter his government from seeking a "just and final solution" to the Palestine problem.

The Arab warning to the British accused Attlee's administration of "being too reluctant to use its full forces to wipe out terrorism and protect Arabs in Palestine."

If terrorism continues, the statement issued by the Arab executive said, 'Arabs will be forced to protect their sons and interests with their own resources and with all the strength they possess."

"The attack proves what Arab leaders long have maintained—that Jewish terrorism is a mere foretaste of the potetnial of Zionism in Palestine,'" the statement added.

The arrest last night of two wounded Jews brought to 29 the number of Jewish suspects now being held by police investigating Monday's bombing. Earlier, two other Jews—one wounded and one dead—were found by police in a schoolhouse in the old city. Police said they found two complete sets of Arab clothing, bloodstained and punctured by bullets, in the school.

Eyewitnesses have asserted that eight youths who planted milk cans containing explosives in the hotel were dressed as Arabs, but spoke Hebrew.

Statement in Hebrew

The statement signed by Irgun Zvai Leumi, admitting the placing of the explosives, was typewritten in Hebrew and delivered last night by messenger boy, in the usual method employed by the underground to make public its communiques.

The anunouncement, which described the loss of life as "tragedy," said the British ignored warnings that the hotel was to be bombed, and thus were responsible for the high death toll.

British military headquarters quickly denied that Irgun had given any advance word.

An Irgun claim that the French consulate was warned in advance was denied by a consulate spokesman, who said a telephone call about the blast was received five minutes after the explosion occurred.

The Irgun message said the blast was an attack on "the central British administration, the secretariat of the conquering government and the headquarters of the conquering army."

"According to a plan that was thought out beforehand, explosives were set to go off half and hour after they were brought into the building," the mtssoge said. (AP)

Eight Soviet minesweepers at Falmouth last week received 9,000 loaves of bread, and this delivery will be questioned in Parliament on Friday.

SENTRIES' ERROR ALERTS PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, July 24 — (AP) Sentries in adjacent government posts north of Haifa alerted all of Palestine for a time tonight when they mistakenly fired at each other.

Before the nature of the mix-up was determined, a police major in Jerusalem announced that "open warfare" had broken out in the Holy Land.

A police spokesman gave this account of the incident: Arab legion sentries at the Jalameh police post fired at noises in the dark. Their bullets whanged over the heads of sentries in an RAF camp nearby. The British sentries immediately returned the fire before learning of the mistake. No one was reported injured.

BREAD RATIONING STRIKE IN LONDON

JUL 25 1946

London, July 24 (A. P.).—Bakers complained today that bread rationing was causing waste, and some delivery men in London and elsewhere struck in protest against the added work of collecting coupons. Bread rationing, an experience which Britons had escaped during both world wars, was three days old. A strike of thirty-five delivery men in one London bakery threatened the spoilage of 12,000 loaves.

Delivery men continued their strike in Northern Ireland, but a few were returning to work. A delivery man in Essex killed himself, and the Coroner ruled that worry over the rationing was the cause. In Bristol, 180 worked their routes, but refused to collect coupons.

"There has been more stuff wasted in the three days of rationing in Plymouth than in twelve months," G. G. Pooley, Bakers' spokesman in that city, asserted. "We are finding it difficult to make the scheme work. The apathy of the public has made it very difficult."

NEW SHIPS LISTED

London, July 24 (A. P.).—Shipbuilding data issued today by Lloyd's of London showed 3,255,781 gross tons of merchant shipping under construction by the world's major shipbuilding nations, more htan half of it in Great Britain. The report did not include figures from Russia, Japan or Germany, linking the two defeated enemies and the Russian ally under the same footnote: "Returns not available."

About 10 per cent of the tonnage is being built in the United States, the report said, listing forty-seven steamships and twenty-three motorships totaling 386,583 gross tons under construction there. Britain, the report said, is building 193 steamships of 902,975 tons and 187 motorships of 840,420 tons, a total of 380 vessels of 1,743,399 tons. Lloyds said the British tonnage on the ways was the highest since June, 1922, when Britain was catching up on its losses during the previous war.

Argentina, with only one 730-ton motorship listed as under construction will get four British-built vessels of total tonnage 21,070. Brazil will get one 4,900-ton ship from Britain.

UNRRA May Require Billion Dollars In Food

London, July 24 (AP)—An UNRRA report tonight said that $1,100,000,000 worth of food imports may be required by European countries between August and the 1947 harvest.

Also needed, the report said, was an additional $750,000,000 for seed, fertilizers, fuel and other goods.

The report will be considered at the fifth session of the UNRRA Council to be opened in Geneva on August 5.

Gold Bullion Sent By Air From London To Belgrade

London, July 24—(AP)—Two giant four-engined airliners left London under conditions of great secrecy today for Belgrade carrying $12,000,000 of gold bullion.

Officials said it was the largest shipment of gold ever made in Britain on commercial planes.

A Bank of England spokesman said the gold had been stored here by private individuals of Yugoslavia during the war and it was now being returned to that country.

RUSSIA REJECTS U. S. ATOMIC PLAN

Reds Demand Full Control Be Vested in UN Security Council.

L Lauck

NEW YORK, July 24—(AP) Soviet Russia today flatly rejected the principal points of the United States plan for global supervision of atomic energy and reiterated a demand that full control be vested in the United Nations Security Council, where five powers hold the right

NIGHT

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate to the U. N. Atomic Energy commission, categorically refused to accept the proposals of Bernard M. Baruch, U. S. delegate, for elimination of the veto in atomic matters and for setting up an atomic development authority outside the council.

Proposals Not Acceptable

In discussing a U. N. memorandum which outlined these and other points, Gromyko declared:

"The United States proposals in their present form cannot be accepted in any way by the Soviet Union either as a whole or in separate parts." (INSERT)

Regarding the veto, Gromyko said:

"I should like to make again clear the position of the Soviet Union that we cannot accept any proposals that would undermine in any degree the principle of the unanimity of the permanent members in the maintenance of peace and security."

He then noted that it would be dangerous and maybe fatal to undermine this principle.

Under the U. N. charter, Russia, the U. S., Great Britain, France and China hold the power to veto in the council.

Gromyko was especially strong in his opposition to a U. S. statement that existing organs of the United Nations are not empowered to deal with questions relating to control, declaring that "the Soviet Union feels such conclusions cannot be justified."

Feels Power Exists

He added that the charter grants the council full powers and rights to deal with such matters and the council "is able and has full powers."

In discussing the plan for an atomic development authority which would make decisions relating to control, Gromyko said the Security Council should make all final decisions. He termed the A. D. A. proposal "of such a character that in reality such an authority would be independent of the "Security Council and would have almost full autonomy. This cannot be reconciled with the charter of the United Nations."

Gromyko also objected to a U. S. statement that all matters relating to atomic energy were of international and not national importance and jurisdiction.

"When the charter of the United Nations was prepared by the conference at San Francisco the question of sovereignty was one of the most important questions considered," he declared.

Sees U N Threatened

The Soviet delegate added that this principle of sovereignty was one of the cornerstones on which the U. N. structures lies and if it were touched the whole existence and future of the U. N. would be threatened.

He also noted that there was nothing in the U. S. plan setting forth relationships between the A. D. A. and the General Assembly and Gromyko contended that "would mean lessening the provisions by which the rights and functions of the General Assembly are assured."

"The powers of all organs of the ed, adding that the po

powers, authority and p

with the problems of atom should not be undermined.

The United States stand on the veto was clearly set forth by Baruch when he offered the U. S. plan. Baruch declared:

"There must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes."

After hearing Gromyko's long statement, which he delivered in English, Committee No. 2 of Atomic commission adjourned until Friday afternoon. (ADD) lished to assist the Security Council in these matters, but the Council should make all final decisions.

Sees Charter Breach

In respect to decisions relating to the control of atomic energy and to decisions to be made by an atomic development authority, as proposed by the United States representative, the United States memorandum drew up three categories — administrative matters, procedural matters and serious offenses. These proposals "are of such a character that in reality such an authority would be independent of the Security Council and would have almost full autonomy. This cannot be reconciled with the Charter of the United Nations."

The United States memorandum realizes, said Mr. Gromyko, that the broad functions and powers of the Atomic Development Authority in the field of control, inspection and in other fields are difficult to reconcile with the relevant provisions of the Charter insuring the sovereignty of member states of the United Nations. The United States proposed, therefore, that all matters related to atomic energy should be considered as matters of international and not of national importance and jurisdiction in order to make Article 2, Paragraph 7, of the Charter of the United Nations inapplicable to matters of atomic energy.

While the rights of the General Assembly were not minimized, on the other hand the United States memorandum denied the Security Council the rights it should have under the Charter. Such a situation could not be considered as normal. The position of the Soviet Government was that the power, authority and prestige of the Security Council should not be undermined in connection with the problem of atomic energy.

Mr. Gromyko declared further that the United States proposals also "change entirely the meaning of Article 51 of the Charter."

Veto Held Essential

On the question of the voting procedure in the Security Council, Mr. Gromyko said:

"On this question also I should like to make again clear the position of the Soviet Union that we cannot accept any proposals that would undermine in any degree the principle of the unanimity of the permanent members of the Security Council in the maintenance of peace and security."

Mr. Gromyko noted that he had already made the position of the Soviet Government on this question quite clear at the second meeting of the Atomic Energy Commission and that he thought it would be dangerous and maybe fatal to undermine this principle which was embodied in the Charter of the United Nations at San Francisco in recognition of its necessity for maintaining pesce and security. The great powers, said Mr. Gromyko, will provide the main means against aggression, as his was recognized in the San Francisco decision on the voting procedure in the Security Council.

In conclusion Mr. Gomyko said: "The United States proposals, referring to United States Memorandum No. 3, in their present form cannot be accepted in any way by the Soviet Union either as a whole or in separate parts."

Replying to Mr. Gromyko, the chairman, speaking as delegate of Brazil, appealed for consideration of the atomic problem in the interests of humanity.

The committee will meet again on Friday, July 26, immediately after the adjournment of the working committee of the Atomic Energy Commission, which meets at 3 P. M. at the Henry Hudson Hotel.

The committee adjourned at 1 P. M.

sidered least suited.

Preliminary consideration was given to a considerable number of sites ranging from two to forty square miles in area, a communique said, and the commission will meet again tomorrow to continue the discussions.

The purpose of the present meetings is to reduce the number of sites to be discussed with local authorities so that the final list to be submitted to the general assembly in September will have only a small number from which to make a final selection.

The commission also received a report from the Sites and General Questions committee, outlining the functions which may be accommodated in areas of various sizes.

her father that she telephoned Washington to do its utmost to help."

As for herself, Mrs. Cobin said she hoped and believed that the Army here was "doing all it can."

But since her arrival here July 10 to poin her husband, she said, her fears for his safety have grown.

Hopes He Is In Soviet Custody

"I hope," she said, "that he is in Russian custody. Then, I feel he'd more likely be safe. They are our Allies and could have no reason to harm him."

The 53-year-old Cobin and Lieut. George Wyatt, of Oklahoma City, Okla., were last seen at a railroad station in the northern section of Berlin, believed to be intending to board a train for Oranienburg in the Russian zone. The Russians have officially informed the Americans they don't know the officers' whereabouts, but "will return them if they are found in the Soviet zone."

American authorities say they have no other information.

U. N. Atomic Statement

Following is an account issued by the United Nations of yesterday's meeting of Committee 2 of the Atomic Energy Commission:

As requested by the committee at its previous meeting, the Secretariat submitted a list of topics contained in the different statement and proposals placed before the Atomic Energy Commission and falling within the terms of reference of Committee No. 2. On the suggestion of the chairman, the committee unanimously agreed to request all delegations represented on the committee to hand in to the Secretariat in writing any amendments or amplifications to this list of topics.

The committee then passed to the consideration of the establishment of an international atomic development authority. The first speaker was Mr. Andrei A. Gromyko, S.S.S.R., who said that he wished to make some observations on the substance of the United States memorandum No. 3 submitted to the former subcommittee No. 1 of the Atomic Energy Commission on 12 July.

Mr. Gromyko began his observations by stating that he attached great importance to the question whether or not the existing organs of the United Nations are empowered to deal with problems of control over atomic energy. Whereas the United States memorandum states that the existing organs of the United Nations are not empowered to deal with the questions relating to the control of atomic energy, the U.S.S.R. feels that "such conclusions cannot be justified." The United Nations Charter mentions no specific type of arms which might be used by an aggressor, but deals with this subject in general terms, and grants to the Security Council full power and rights to deal with such matters. That is, the Security Council "is able and has full power" to deal with these questions; the Atomic Energy Commission was established to assist the Security Council in these matters, but the Council should make all final decisions.

Mr. Gromyko stressed that "when the Charter of the United Nations was prepared by the conference at San Francisco, the question of sovereignty was one of the most important questions considered." This principle of sovereignty is one of the cornerstones on which the United Nations structure is built; if this were touched the whole existence and future of the United Nations would be threatened.

In respect to the relationship between the Atomic Development Authority and the General Assembly of the United Nations, said Mr. Gromyko, it is to be noted that there were no proposals in the United States memorandum which "would mean lessening the provisions by which the rights and functions of the General Assembly are assured." This is rightly so, stated Mr. Gromyko; the powers of all organs of the United Nations must be protected.

INCREASE IN WAGES FOR FRENCH WORKERS

PARIS, July 24.—(AP) French workers were guaranteed "general increases of salaries" today by a cabinet decision reached after a six-hour session which averted a threatened rupture of President Georges Bidault's month-old tripartite government.

A communique issued at the end of the session avoided mention of the size of the increases but stated that a recent economic conference —made up of employers, labor and government leaders — had made recommendations that would make it possible for the government to achieve substantial increases in purchasing power while safeguarding the interests of public finances and the national economy."

The conferences recommended 25 per cent increases for certain categories of workers, but Bidault and his popular Republican movement party had been on record as opposing increases of more than 15 per cent. French labor unions had insisted on a general 25 per cent increase, and a government crisis threatened.

Germans, Returned To Berlin By Reds, Appear Healthy

Berlin, July 24—(AP)—The first Berlin contingent among 120,000 German prisoners of war being released by the Russians rested in a quarantine pavilion today in the Soviet sector of [illegible].

American correspondents were refused permission to interview or photograph them, but the men appeared bronzed and much healthier than any prisoners previously returned from the Soviet Union.

Reporters and photographers from Berlin's German press were permitted to speak with and photograph some of the released men and the Russian-licensed press printed interviews with them on "how well we were treated."

Some Germans suggested that the release of the prisoners was timed to make political capital for the autumn elections scheduled in the Soviet zone and in Berlin. The Russians had permitted the first announcement of the Soviet-in[illegible] Socialist Unity party, before a women's conviction in the Soviet zone.

"These prisoners really look good," said one old German in the street. "Last year they came limping in from Russia, looking like corpses in rags, but these are live and healthy men, comparatively well-clothed."

Rigid Conduct Control Set Up For Yanks in Russian Zones

FRANKFURT, July 24 — (AP) Rigid control of the conduct of Americans visiting Soviet-influenced territories has been ordered by U. S. Army headquarters to prevent "embarrassment" to the United States and to avoid "prolonged detention" of Army personnel in those areas, it was disclosed today.

Applying both to military personnel and authorized American civilians, the directive declared all persons planning to leave for eastern Europe should be briefed by "officers and superior rank."

[illegible] Mailed

The order from Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, American commander in Europe, said "certain instances of misconduct" by Americans in eastern Europe had "resulted not only in embarrassment to this headquarters and certain high-level diplomatic representatives but also in the prolonged detention of individuals involved in incidents caused by this misconduct."

"It is essential that the conduct of U. S. personnel temporarily on duty in eastern, central and southeastern European countries be rigidly controlled.

"No one now known to be a responsible person of mature judgment will be selected or permitted to go into the above countries either on temporary duty or on leave status," the order declared.

"In the event that trouble of any kind arises, the nearest American embassy, legation or consulate should be contacted."

Army officers said the orders had been prompted by the prolonged detention of several Americans in eastern Europe. The Russians last week released two Americans detained for 15 days. Two others are missing from Berlin. Negotiations were said to be underway for the release of at least two U. S. soldiers reportedly held by Poland for trial on alleged offenses.

Details Are Secret

These officers said that details of the detention of Americans in eastern Europe, including the number held, were classified as "secret" and that the War department had prohibited the release of the information.

Headquarters authorities said unofficially that there had been "no tremendously serious" cases and that "most" detentions were caused by "soldiers getting rowdy and shooting up bars and being held by the local government."

"Orders had to be issued controlling the conduct of men because the United States doesn't always pack the punch in eastern Europe in securing the release of Americans for trial by American courts as it might in liberated western countries," one officer added.

McNarney's directive, it was learned, was distributed to all major commands in the European theater. American military attaches in Yugoslavia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Greece received copies.

CONTROL ORDERED OF U. S. PERSONNEL IN SOVIET ZONES

Frankfurt, July 24 (AP)—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's headquarters has issued a strict code of behavior for Americans entering Soviet-occupied territory in Europe to prevent "embarrassment" to the United States.

Rigid controls, it was disclosed, have been ordered to avoid "prolonged detention" of American Army personnel in "eastern, central and southeastern European countries."

Two Americans were released by the Russians last week after 15 days' detention, and two others are missing from Berlin.

"It is essential that the conduct of U. S. personnel temporarily on duty in eastern, central and southeastern European countries be rigidly controlled," the order said.

"No one not known to be a responsible person of mature judgement will be selected or permitted to go into the above countries either on temporary duty or on leave status," the order continued.

The directive, applying to military personnel as well as to authorized U. S. civilians, instructed that all persons scheduled to leave for Eastern Europe be briefed by "officers of superior rank."

"In the event that trouble of any kind arises, the nearest American embassy, legation or consulate should be contacted," the instructions said. (ADD)

FREE 2 YANKS, POLAND ASKED

High-Level Negotiations Under Way On Release

Frankfurt, Germany, July 24 (AP) High level negotiations between the United States and Poland were in progress tonight for the release of two of several Americans detained in Eastern European countries.

A number of Americans, it was learned, have been or are under "prolonged detention" in "eastern, central and southeastern European countries."

To prevent NIGHT embarrassment" to the United States, the United States Army has issued a strict code of behavior for Americans visiting areas in the Soviet sphere of influence.

Army Refuses Number

Day-long attempts to determine the number of Americans held for possible trial by countries east of American-occupied Germany met with repeated Army refusals to reveal any information.

One high officer declared: "The names and numbers of Americans held are classified secret or confidential. My personal opinion is that the American public has no right to know about the number of troops that might be held in eastern Europe."

At least two soldiers, however, were known to be held by the Polish Government for alleged crimes committed while in that country. United States proposals that the soldiers should be released for trial in American courts have been answered with Polish counterproposals and deliberations still are underway, it was disclosed.

Applying both to military personnel and authorized American civilians, the directive declared all persons planning to leave for eastern Europe should be briefed by "officers of superior rank."

One Is From Butte

One soldier was identified here only by the name of Dagley. The other was 20-year-old Private Melvin R. Best, of Butte, Mont., who has been detained by Polish authorities since his arrest in Katowice last December.

Best was jailed in connection with the killing of a Polish militiaman. He said that he was innocent of Polish charges and ohped he would be turned over to American military authorities.

An unconfirmed report said that almost completed negotiations for the release of Best and Dagley had failed and that they would be tried by Polish authorities.

Cases Called "Most Serious"

A headquarters officer said unofficially that Best and Dagley's cases were the "most serious" of the "prolonged detentions" in eastern Europe. He said there were no detentions in Yugoslavia and that "most Americans in the missions in the Balkans were well-behaved," but there had been a "number of instances of soldiers disgracing the American uniform in Czechoslovakia."

The Army's behavior directive applies both to military personnel and authorized American civilians. Also the order specifies that all persons planning to leave for eastern Europe should be briefed by "officers of superior rank."

The order from Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, American commander in Europe, said "certain instances of misconduct" by Americans in eastern Europe had "resulted not only in embarrassment to this headquarters and certain high-level diplomatic representatives but also in the prolonged detention of individuals involved in incidents caused by this misconduct."

"It is essential that the conduct of United States personnel temporarily on duty in eastern, central and southeastern European countries be rigidly controlled."

FRITZSCHE PICTURED AS MINOR OFFICIAL

NUERNBERG, July 24 — (AP) Hans Fritzsche was pictured by his defense counsel today as only a minor official in a vast propaganda machine, a man who never conferred with Hitler on foreign policy and therefore had been unable to participate in a conspiracy against peace.

In opening a final defense summary, Attorney Heinz Fritz said he believed it was not Fritzsche's official position as minister-director of the ministry of propaganda, which led to the indictment against him but rather "his broadcast speeches which made him and his name known—but only during the war."

Vatican Estimates Executions By Tito Regime

By W. King

Rome, July 24 (AP)—A Vatican source said today that an estimate that more than 200 priests had been executed in Yugoslavia since the end of the war was "not, according to Vatican information, exaggerated."

He commented in reply to questions about a New York Times dispatch quoting travelers from Belgrade as saying Premier Marshal Tito's anti-Catholic campaign of terrorism had resulted in the death of 230 priests, 198 without trial, from April, 1944, to May 15, 1946. Which includes both war and post-war periods.

NIGHT

Says Persecutions Continue

Churchmen inside and outside Yugoslavia said a minimum of 400 Catholic priests had been tried since the war ended. Because of secrecy surrounding most of the Yugoslav court hearings, it was impossible to say precisely how many had been put to death.

A ranking Vatican prelate, in close touch with church affairs in eastern Europe, said his information was that conditions were unchanged in Yugoslavia and that persecutions of the church were continuing.

Monsignor Ritiz, a Catholic priest who sided with Tito's Partisans during the occupation and now is minister in the Croatian Government, told newspapermen in Belgrade recently he did not know how many Catholic priests had been executed, but that most of those convicted were accused of collaboration with the Germans.

Collaboration Laid To Priests

Another official in Yugoslavia said approximately 400 Catholic priests had been tried for collaboration since the Germans left Zagreb, a center of Yugoslav Catholicism.

The persecution of the Church has been based on the Government's assertions that Catholic priests were organizing and supporting armed bands in underground warfare against the Tito regime.

Periodically, Yugoslav newspapers are filled with violent attacks on Archbishop Stepinetz, head of the Catholic Church in Yugoslavia.

The Yugoslav Government has based its attacks against the church on assertions that the clergy-supported units which fought against the Partisans during the war. Church schools are not allowed to operate. Church lands have been confiscated. The work of priests has been hampered.

Orthodox Church Also Affected

The Serb Orthodox Church, with its spiritual center in Belgrade, is affected no less by the Yugoslav anti-church program. But the charge of collaboration seldom is leveled against priests of the Orthodox Church.

Unlike the Orthodox Church, the Roman Catholic Church is fighting back against dictates of the Yugoslav Government. Throughout Croatia and Slovenia, where a crucifix hangs in a weather-beaten roadside shrine every few miles, the church still holds its popular following.

Under the new constitution, church weddings are illegal unless a civil ceremony also is held. The priest, however, still is an important figure at village and urban weddings.

OIL MONOPOLY THREE-POWER ISSUE IN ITALY

By Morin

Americans and British Seek Free Competition—Blocked by Government

Rome, July 24—(AP)—Oil, instead of acting as a lubricant, was gumming the wheels of British-American cooperation with Italy today and causing the hottest point of friction in relations among the three countries.

High-level politics, which can embrace Soviet Russia, were involved in the battle.

American Petroleum Company officials, who could not be quoted, said that Italy has re-created a government monopoly—originally organized by Mussolini and the Fascists 20 years ago—to control the prices and distribution of gasoline and all other petroleum products in Italy.

What the Americans and British want is free competition, with direct sales to consumers, instead of being forced to sell to the monopoly.

Since Italy has no oil of its own, they can simply decline to deal with the government organization, cutting off petroleum supplies, just as "oil sanctions" were once proposed. In reply, the oil men said, Italian officials have "delicately hinted" that Italy would necessarily turn to Russia for help.

Russian Fields

The Russians are in control of very large oil fields in the Balkans and Austria.

Both the State Department and the British Foreign Office have entered the picture, the sources said. In principle, the American and British Governments agree with the companies' position—that is, for free trade in oil for Italy. But in practice, they have warned the company that oil "sanctions" might pull the props from under the newly-formed Italian republic, and completely dislocate the rickety Italian economic structure.

So the situation at the moment is in a deadlock.

It has its roots in the Fascsit AGIP (Azienda Generali Italiana Petroli) formed by Mussolini in 1926. It was a monopoly. It provided a large source of revenue for the Fascist regime. And, more important, it made it possible for Mussolini to pile up an oil reserve, for military purposes.

Then the war came, the property owned by Britain's Royal Dutch Shell was immediately sequestered. When the United States entered, similar action was taken against holdings of Sovony-Vacuum, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and the Texas Company. Tankers, refineries, railroad rolling stock and everything else down to the last paper clip was then "sold" to the monopoly.

The property has since been restored to the American and British companies. But the Republican successor to the Fascist monopoly has appeared in CIP (Comitato Italian Petroleum.)

LaGuardia Praises Bread Rationing

Rome, July 24 (A. P.).—Fiorello LaGuardia, UNRRA director-general, declared today that Great Britain is "acting prudently, wisely and realistically" in rationing bread at this time.

LaGuardia spoke at a press conference immediately before taking off for a one-day round-trip flight to Milan.

La Guardia Visits Toscanini

MILAN, July 24 (AP)—F. H. La Guardia called on Arturo Toscanini at the musician's home today. The director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration came here from Rome, visited two factories, went to the Town Hall for a welcoming ceremony, then chatted for twenty minutes with Signor Toscanini before returning to Rome.

Reds Liken FBI Methods To Dread Czarist Okhrana

By R. James

MOSCOW, July 24. — (AP) Soviet Journalist David Zaslavsky assailed the Federal Bureau of Investigation today as the "American secret police," and charged that its prosecution of the Lt. Nicolai Redin spy case was "a criminal conspiracy" aimed at injuring Soviet-American relations.

NIGHT

Zaslavsky, writing in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, said the handling of the case by the FBI smacked of the dread Czarist Okhrana (secret police) "which resorted to forgery, provocation and perjury."

Redin Acquitted

Redin was acquitted July 17 in Seattle of espionage charges.

Journalist Ilya Ehrenburg, writing in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, told the Russian people that "America, which never knew feudalism, has established another hierarchy—a racial one." Continuing a presentation of his impressions of his recent visit to the United States, he said Americans had a caste system "entirely unofficial in the case of Jews, Italians and Chinese, but legalized in the case of Negroes."

Zaslavsky's article angrily attacked FBI Chief Edgar Hoover "and his accomplices" for the conduct of the Redin case.

"This conspiracy of secret police and bandits had as its goal the infringement of those friendly relations which the American and Soviet peoples had during the war against the common enemy and which still remain at present, despite all efforts of the American pro-fascist and reactionary," the article said.

Under the headine "Black Deed of the American Secret Police," Zaslavsky wrote:

"There is and was no 'case of Redin.' There is the case of the American secret police and it is known that part of the American press prefers to keep quiet about it. With this it determines its share of participation in a filthy conspiracy against democracy itself."

"Now we can see again the 'Okhrana,' which has long since disappeared from our lives, in the role of provocateurs and plotters against the people. The dirty work of the American 'Okhrana,' which is operating with impunity and insolence, is directed against the international collaboration of the states united in the struggle against fascism—humanity's worst enemy."

Treatment 'Shocking'

Zaslavsky said Redin had been treated "shockingly, in a way not permissible in any country, and certainly not in a country pretending to be democratic."

The article said the FBI handling of the case "was not only brutal, but clumsy and inept," but that the arrest of Redin became "a signal for a fierce anti-Soviet campaign by the reactionary press."

Ehrenburg's Izvestia article described what he called the American racial caste system as puzzling in a country which fought to defeat Hitlerism.

"The English, Scotch and Irish are the aristocracy," he wrote. "After them come the Scandinavians, the Germans, and then the French and Slavs. The Italians are many times lower. The Jews are even lower. The Puerto Ricans are below them, and last, at the bottom of the ladder, are the Negroes."

Ehrenburg said that "anti-Semitism in America was so common that many do not even notice it. It seems entirely natural to them to hire only Aryans in some enterprises or to deny Jews entrance into some hotels."

'Pravda' Angry at Redin Case; After Acquittal It Attacks Arrest

MOSCOW, July 24 (AP).—J. Edgar Hoover and the Federal Bureau of Investigation were attacked today in a "Pravda" article which declared that the arrest of a Soviet naval officer, Lieutenant Nicolai Redin, in Portland, Ore., last March was a "criminal conspiracy."

David Zaslavsky, writing under the headline "Black Deed of the American Secret Police," said:

"There is and was no 'case of Redin.' There is the case of the American secreta police and a known part of the American press, which prefers to keep quiet about it. With this it determines its share of participation in the filthy conspiracy against democracy itself. . . .

"The Soviet officer was seized in the streets, rudely pushed into an automobile, humiliatingly searched and kept semi-naked in a cold cell. He was treated shockingly, in a way not permissible in any country, certainly not in a country pretending to be democratic.

"If it had not happened in 1946 in the United States, Comrade Redin would have had every reason to believe he was under the paws of the Gestapo."

The article said that as the final proof of the "full senselessness of the provocation," the Russians already knew the secrets (of the destroyer tender Yellowstone which Redin was charged with trying to get through bribes, having previously been given possession of an American ship equipped with the devices in question.

[Redin, who was acquitted on July 17 in a Seattle Federal court of charges of espionage, arrived at Portland, Ore., Wednesday to board a ship for his return to Russia. "I have no ill will or bad feelings," he said, in referring to his three-week trial.]

The "Pravda" article said that as the final proof of the "full senselessness of the provocation," the Russians already knew the secrets (of the destroyer tender Yellowstone) which Redin was charged with trying to get through bribes, having previously been given possession of an American ship equipped with the devices in question.

The article concluded: "What pushed Hoover and his accomplices into this criminal conspiracy against a Soviett officer who deserved nothing from the American people except gratitude? This conspiracy of the secret police and bandits had as its goal infringing those friendly relations which the American and Soviet peoples had during the war against the common enemy, and which still remain at present, despite all efforts of American pro-Fascist reaction-aries."

Red Commentator Lashes FBI, Hoover For Redin Arrest

London, July 24—(AP)—Ace Moscow radio commentator David Zaslavsky loosed a tirade against the United State Federal Bureau of Investigation today for its part in the Lt. Nicolai Redin spy case, which Zaslavsky called a "filthy provocation by the American secret police." Redin was acquitted in Seattle, Wash., July 17 on espionage charges.

"What induced Hoover (J. Edgar) and his accomplices to embark upon this criminal plot against the Soviet officer, who deserves nothing but the gratitude of the American people?" Zaslavsky asked. Then he provided his own answer:

"This bandit's secret police plot had as its aim disruption of the friendly relations that were established between the Soviet and American peoples during the war against the common enemy, and which continues still, despite all the efforts of the America pro-Fascist reaction."

Redins Going Home.

Portland, Ore., July 24 (A. P.).—Lieut. Nicolai G. Redin, the young Soviet naval officer arrested here on espionage charges and later acquitted in Seattle, was back in Portland today with his wife and daughter to board ship and return to Russia. The Redins expect to leave aboard the Maxim Gorky now loading at nearby Longview, Wash., and due to complete loading here later this week.

Redin said he was "glad" to be homebound after four years in the United States.

"I have no ill will or bad feelings," Redin declared, in referring to his three-weeks' trial. "The American people will always have a friendship with us."

Russ Heap Honors On Iran Princess

Moscow, July 24 (AP)—Princess Achraf Pahlevi, sister of the Shah of Iran, departed for Tehran yesterday after 24 days of regal honors such as no person has received in Russia since the last Czar was executed.

The 26-year-old Princess was active during the war in the Iran Society of the Red Lion and Sun, which helped orphaned Russian children.

[During the Russian occupation of the northern part of her country the border province of Azerbaijan revolted and won semi-autonomous status after Russian troops prevented intervention by Iranian forces.]

She was invited to Moscow by the Russian Red Cross and entertained with brilliant and sumptuous banquets, luncheons, dinners and receptions. Soviet officials including Prime Minister Stalin and Deputy Foreign Minister Solomon Luzovsky were among those entertaining for the Princess. The president of the Supreme Soviet decorated her with the Order of the Red Banner of Labor, and the Russian Red Cross gave her a badge.

She left the Moscow airport between a guard of honor and to the strains of the Russian and Iranian anthems. The field was decorated with Russian and Iranian flags.

U.S. Citizen Reports He Is Held Up In Greece

Athens, July 24 (AP)—Thomas J. Chaconas, express agent, of Washington, D.C., reported today that he was halted and questioned by two extremist Rightists armed with sub-machine guns just outside Sparta three days ago.

Chaconas, football guard at the University of North Carolina in 1929, said the men pointed the guns at him before he stopped. They described themselves, Chaconas said, as "Xites," an extreme Right organization, and allowed him to proceed when he told them that he was an American citizen.

Chaconas is a veteran officer of 28 months service in the Southwest Pacific.

Pro-German Suspect Seized

HELSINKI, July 24 (AP)—Finnish State police announced today the arrest of Lieut. Col. J. Christian Fabritius, whom they identified as the leader of a pro-German underground movement established in Finland after the armistice with Russia.

Congressmen See Gen. Clark

Vienna, July 24 (A. P.).—J. Weldon Jones, adviser to President Truman and five Congressmen arrived today for conferences with Gen. Mark W. Clark. They were returning to the United States from the Philippines.

In the group were Senators Ellender of Louisiana and Butler of Iowa and Representatives Robinson of Utah, Crawford of Michigan and Miller of California.

DISPLACED RADIOS

WARSAW (AP)—German troops nearly stripped Poland of radio sets. Poland had 1,200,000 before the war. Now there are only 150,000. Germany is reported to have 5,000,000. The Polish Radio Conference is asking return of at least 1,000,000.

TURK DEMOCRATS CAPTURE 66 SEATS

Istanbul, July 24 (A. P.).—Former Premier Jelal Bayar's new democratic party won sixty-six seats in Turkey's National Assembly and independent candidates captured four complete but unofficial returns from Sunday's election showed today.

Among the new deputies in the next Assembly are Bayar himself and Marshal Fevzi Chaknak, former Army Chief of Staff, who ran as an independent.

The official People's party, which for the first time ran against opposition, retained 395 seats.

The democrats' greatest success was in Istanbul, where they captured eighteen of twenty-three seats.

Allies Seize Food in Trieste

TRIESTE, Italy, July 23 (Delayed) (AP)—Allied military police seized today six trucks loaded with wheat, sugar and other foodstuffs which they said were United Relief and Rehabilitation Administration supplies brought into Venezia Giulia illegally from the Yugoslav zone. The police charged the supplies had been brought across the line for distribution to families of workmen who participated in the 12-day general strike called early this month by Left Wing, pro-Yugoslav labor organizations to protest alleged "Italian aggression."

GAIN 50 MILES IN CHINA PUSH

500,000 Nationalists Driving Along 130-Mile Front

Nanking, July 24 (AP)—Nationalist armies reputed to total nearly 500,000 men today were reported driving along a 130-mile Yangtze River front between Nanking and Shanghai, and by Communist admission they had penetrated 50 miles into Red-held areas of Kiangsu [illegible]

The Communist New China News Agency described the movement as a "full scale" Kumintang offensive.

Block Threat To Nanking

A Government spokesman said that Nationalist troop concentrations in Kiangsu now were "ample" to block any possible threat to the seat of Nationalist Government at Nanking or to the commercial queen city of China, Shanghai.

In seizing an area more than 130 miles long and 50 miles deep Nationalist forces lost nearly 20,000 men, according to the Communist agency. Casualties were said to include elements of three divisions of the Kuomintang 49th Army, which struck northeast of Nanking toward Jukao on July 21.

Hope To Clear Jukao Area

The Government spokesman expressed hope that the Jukao area, defended by the new 4th Army, would be cleared of Chinese Communists soon.

In a dispatch from Harbin, Manchuria, John Roderick, Associated Press correspondent, said that a Communist demand to participate in management of the Chinese Eastern Railway which, under Sino Soviet treaty is jointly run by Russia and Nationalist China, was to be discussed in Nanking.

U. S. MARINES FREED SAYS CHINESE PRESS

PEIPING, July 24.—(AP) The Chinese press reported today that seven U. S. Marines, captured July 13 by Communists southwest of the port city of Chinwangtao, had been released, but the Marine corps said no such information had been received.

A special truce team headed by Col. Morris Martin of Sacramento, Calif., still was reported negotiating with the Communists for release of the men.

Chinese Reds Oppose Looting Of Manchuria

Will Act With Reparations Group in Asking Russia to Restore Machinery

J. Roderick

HARBIN, Manchuria, July 24 (AP).—(Delayed)—Chinese Communists hope Russia will restore Manchurian machinery removed by the Red Army, and they will concur with the Reparations Commission if that body files such recommendation, Communist leader Li Min-jeh said today in an interview.

"There are some who feel that the Chinese Communist party will back the Soviet Union in everything it does," he said. "But I want to tell you that the Chinese Communist is a Chinese patriot first, and no matter who interferes with the rights of China he will certainly be opposed to them."

Thus the Chinese Communist who, under the name of General Li Li-san, gained fame as a party leader fifteen years ago broke a long silence in this far northern Chinese city.

Li said he realized that Russia suffered "heavy losses"—he said there were betewen 100,000 and 200,000 casualties—in the brief conquest of Manchuria, but China also suffered terribly and should be compensated.

He added that he felt confident the Reparations Commission would make reasonable adjustments, and that the Communists would be satisfied either with the return of the machinery, estimated to be valued at $2,000,000,000, or charging off its worth against Russian reparations.

Li said that if it were charged off to Russian reparations, China would expect compensation from some other source.

"But I feel that the movement of the machinery is not the important problem at all," Li continued. "Of course the Soviet Union moved some machinery, but not a large amount compared with its war losses. Some people have tried to use the facts to provoke anti-Soviet feeling."

Li said that the only way peace can come to China is for the Communists and Kuomintang to unite.

Australian Coal To Be Nationalized

Canberra, July 24 (A. P.).—The Australian coal industry will be brought "as close to nationalization as is constitutionally possible" under a State-control plan agreed on by Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley and Premier William J. McKell of New South Wales.

The plan excludes both management and labor from representation on the supreme overall Commonwealth - State authority. Spokesmen said its purpose is to rehabilitate the industry by the opening up of new fields and the complete mechanization of mines now in operation.

Korean Parties Agree On Joint Action

Seoul, July 24 (A. P.).—A move aimed at speeding the day of independence for Korea, now jointly occupied by the United States and Russia, was announced today by the Emergency National Congress and the Representative Democratic Council.

Five-man committees have been appointed to smooth out party differences and both Russia and the United States will be asked to send liaison officers to the twice-weekly meetings in Duk Soo Palace.

protest to clauses inserted in their union contracts.

The unions have threatened to stop work on August 1 in protest against the Hawaiian Employers' council's insistence on writing into the union contracts clauses which the A. F. of L. Central Labor Council said are "illegal and calculated to destroy our unions." The clauses would prohibit work stoppage during the life of the contracts.

TANAKA PLAN LAID TO REDS IN TOJO TRIAL

Contention Outline of Conquest Work of Chinese Not Allowed as Evidence

Tokyo, July 24—(AP)—The International Tribunal today refused to permit the defense for Hideki Tojo and 26 other accused war criminals to present evidence intended to show that the notorious Tanaka Memorial, a pamphlet outlining a plan for world conquest, was written by Chinese Communists.

The presiding, Sir William Webb, halted Capt. Samuel Kleiman when the defense attorney attempted to prove that Russia used its consulate in Harbin to spread Communist propaganda in 1929.

Kleiman explained that he wanted to establish that the Tanaka Memorial was not written by Baron Tanaka, as the prosecution charges, but rather by Chinese Communists. Sir William refused to permit Kleiman to continue the cross-examination on that basis of China's vice minister of national defense, Gen. Chin Teh-chung.

Throughout the afternoon, the defense peppered Chin with questions aimed at showing that the Tanaka pamphlet, calling for four stages of world conquest, actually was a fraud perpetrated to inspire hatred of the Japanese. Chin admitted he "never had seen the original of the memorial" and that the pamphlet, widely circulated in China, had not been traced to Japanese origin.

The defense developed today that China's central government was powerless to transfer its generals in North China before the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war.

As a result of this condition, the defense maintained, Japan was forced to deal with local governments and, under old treaties, had the right to pour more troops into North China and Manchuria to protect her nationals and their property.

Attempt To Blame Britain, U.S. For Jap Attacks Halted

Tokyo, Thursday, July 25 (AP)—The international military tribunal today halted a defense attempt to blame powerful American and European commercial interests for the situation that caused Japan to become an aggressor in China.

Alfred W. Brooks, defense attorney, of Kansas City, sought to show that their had been growing apprehension in Japan over the economic and commercial interests of foreigners in the Orient. He was sharply interrupted by the presiding justice, Sir William Webb, who said:

"Mere economic developments of other countries could not justify Japan's resort to war."

Cross-Examining Chin

Brooks was cross-examining the Chinese Vice Minister of Defense, General Chin Teh-chun at the time.

The defense attorney persisted and Sir William spoke sharply.

"Economic aggression is not a crime."

Brooks contended it was vital to his case to know where China got arms and supplies that enabled that country to carry on the long civil strife of which, he said, "Japan bore the brunt in trying to protect its interests an dits nationals in China."

Earlier the defense questioned General Chin about the kidnapping of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek by young Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, who later released the Chinese president.

Relations Held Closer

The defense tried to show that after the incident relations between Chiang's Koumintang and Chinese Communists were closer and that they joined in an anti-Japanese movement. Chin denied knowledge of any such action by the factions.

Chin blamed Japan for an increase in Chinese Communist activity because he said, the Japanese occupied Peiping and Tientsin and forced students to join the Communists.

PROPAGANDA ISSUE DEFERRED IN JAPAN

Tokyo, July 24 (A. P.).—The Allied (advisory) Council for Japan heeded a Russian request today to delay action on a supreme headquarters' anti-publicity proposal, to which Russia had objected vigorously.

The council adjourned without voting on the proposal to restrict publication of recommendations or comments on agenda subjects until after they have been discussed in meeting. The Russian representative, Lieut.-Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, raised the objection and asked that the matter be passed until the next meeting, scheduled for August 7.

Earlier this month, just prior to a council meeting, the Russians issued a press release outlining extensive views on a labor policy for Japan—and were accused by the American chairman of using the organization to spread "propaganda."

In effect, observers pointed out, the proposed procedural rule would muzzle pre-meeting comment by any member on agenda subjects.

Both the British representative, W. MacMahon Ball, and the Chinese representative, Lieut.-Gen. Chu She-ming, agreed at today's meeting with proposals by Derevyanko to ban Fascist literature "in principle" and that the subject was one which should receive the attention of occupation forces.

AID FROM AIR, SEA FOR INJURED SEAMAN

TOKYO, July 24—(AP) A critically injured merchant seaman was brought to the naval aid station at Yokosuka today after receiving medical aid from sea and air for five days. He was not identified at once.

A member of the crew of the tanker Pulpit Rock, he suffered a fractured hip while the vessel was more than 1,000 miles off the coast of Japan.

A plane was dispatched, carrying a doctor, but could not alight because of rough seas. The doctor gave advice to the ship's crew by radio.

The next day the destroyer USS Hanson set out for the Pulpit Rock and contacted the tanker last Monday. Medical Officer Commander H. P. Weatherwax was transferred to the tanker and waited upon the injured man. Yesterday he and the patient returned to the destroyer on breeches buoy when the two ships reached quieter waters. The war vessel arrived in port today.

DIET SESSION EXTENDED

TOKYO, July 24.—(AP) The current extraordinary session of the Diet, still grappling with a proposed new constitution, was extended 30 days beyond July 28 by an imperial rescript of the emperor today.

JAPS WON'T CHANGE NAME

Tokyo, July 24—(AP)—The Japanese government has no intention of changing the name of the country or the designation of the Showa era, now in its 21st year. Such a reply was given in the Diet today in response to a question by Isaji Tanaka, independent.

Revision of Jap Police Force Urged

Tokyo, July 24 (A. P.).—A ten-point revision of Japan's one-time sinister police system was proposed to the House of Representatives today by the Home Ministry which would maintain control as in pre-war days. Lewis J. Valentine, New York's former Police Commissioner, who recently concluded a survey, urged decentralization.

NEW TOKYO GOVERNOR

Tokyo, July 24—(AP)—Seiichiro Yasui was invested today as Tokyo's imperial governor as successor to a man who was ousted after the people became restless over lack of food rations.

CLEVELAND CURATOR NAMED

Tokyo, July 24—(AP)—Howard C. Hollis, curator of Far and Near Eastern art of the Cleveland Art Museum, today was appointed chief of the arts and monuments section of General MacArthur's civil information and education section. He replaces Navy Lt. Comdr. George L. Stout, who is returning to his former civilian post with the Fogg Museum at Harvard.

BELL-BOTTOMS WIN NAVY VOTE IN JAPAN

Tokyo, July 24 (A. P.).—Those pocketless bell-bottom trousers still have devotees among sailors in Japan.

After a month's trial of the Navy's proposed new uniforms, some sailors reported to Vice-Admiral R. M. Griffin, commander of naval activities in Japan, they too closely resemble Army clothing.

Yeoman 1/C J. Hyde of 129 Stanley avenue, Yonkers, put it this way: "I don't know why they should change the uniform now. If they keep the new one, you won't know if a Navy man is a foreign national or who he is. In the old uniform you can tell a Navy man a mile away."

Japs Simplified Life With Father

They handcuffed Him and Locked Him Up in a Cage to Keep Him Out of the Family Larder.

Niigata, Japan, July 24 (A. P.).—Maashige Nakamura, 48 years old, was free from his cage today and probably eating to his heart's content.

Maashige had spent the late afternoons and evenings for the past two months in that cage, handcuffed. His wife and eldest son had figured that he ate too much and that a cage and manacles were the surest way to keep him out o fthe cupboard.

Even when their children did not get enough food, Mrs. Nakamura wailed to the police, Maashige over-ate. He would sneak from bed at night and rifle the foodstocks. So she and one son built the cage and got the handcuffs. When Maashige returned from work every afternoon they hustled him into the coop, handcuffed him and set before him the amount of food they judged he needed.

But Maashige's father came to visit him and called the police and now the old gentleman is urging Maashige to get a divorce.

HEAVY FILIPINO FIGHT

Manila, July 24 (A. P.).—The sound of 81-millimeter mortars used by the military police against revolting peasants in Bulacan province was heard twenty miles away in Manila suburbs today, even as peace reports filtered in from other provinces. The guns were directed against 200 Hukbalahaps (armed peasants) attacking an outpost where eighty suspected Huks, arrested in an earlier clash, were being held, authorities said.

Luis Taruc, Huk leader, was meeting with success in Pampanga province in a Government-approved tour to persuade his followers to return to their farms, correspondents with the peace party reported. Peasants in Nueva Ecija province also were ready for peace, reports indicated. Manila liberal leaders said some peasants hesitate to return home because they fear military police will renew reprisals.

FILIPINO SOLONS MIFFED

Manila, July 24—(AP)—Miffed Philippines congressmen, who complain that Roxas cabinet members are high-hatting the solons, announced today they are preparing a bill which would make members of congress outrank cabinet members in protocol at formal functions and also afford the congressmen lower automobile license numbers.

SEARCH ABANDONED

BALBOA, C. Z., July 24—(AP) The army said today that search for 15 soldier victims of a collision of two Flying Fortresses Saturday had been called off. Five bodies were recovered soon after the accident. Twenty crewmen were aboard the plane which fell into the sea of the Pacific coast of Panama.

SENATE APPROVES OPA MEASURE, 53 TO 26

JUL 26 1946

BILL IS PASSED AFTER LONG FIGHT, SENT TO TRUMAN

Weary Senators Adopt Compromise at Early Morning Session.

NEW ORDERS DUE SOON

Signature of President Will Restore Rent, Many Other Ceilings.

WASHINGTON, July 25 —(Thursday)—(AP) A weary Senate passed the revised OPA bill early today and sent it to President Truman, who is expected to sign it later in the day.

The vote was 53 to 26

New Orders Expected Today

The instant the President's signature makes the bill law, the rent and price ceilings in effect June 30 automatically will be restored except on meat, poultry, dairy products, grain, tobacco, petroleum and certain other items specifically exempt. The OPA, given another year to operate but restricted in its authority, will be prepared to issue some of its new orders by nightfall.

The Senate's approval, completing congressional action, was voted a few minutes after midnight (EST) after a late night session in which the foes of price controls fired fresh broadsides but held no hope of defeating the bill.

Senator O'Daniel (D.-Tex.), who filibustered eight hours against the original extension measure which Mr. Truman vetoed, assailed it for two and a half hours.

After he sat down, Senators Knowland (R.-Calif.) and Pepper (D.-Fla.) argued whether the President or Congress was to blame for the lapse of price controls on June 30. Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) protested at 10 p.m. that it was not time "for a speculative debate over who killed Cock Robin."

The White House announced that the President is set to act quickly, without disclosing what the action will be, and that he will accompany it with a message to Congress. But Congressional leaders indicated the measure as it stands is acceptable to Mr. Truman and that he will sign it, and at least two other factors appeared to support the prediction:

Supporting Factors

1. A member of the House Appropriations committee told a reporter the President will request an additional $25,000,000 for the OPA and the request may be made in the message tomorrow. Congress voted $75,000,000 to run the OPA for the year, a cut of some $30,000,000 below budget estimates. The committee member, who may not be identified, said Mr. Truman will contend that this will not be enough to run OPA until the new Congress convenes in January and has time to consider a supplemental fund.

2. High officials, also asking anonymity, reported Mr. Truman plans to name reconversion director John R. Steelman as Stabilization director, succeeding Chester Bowles, in addition to Steelman's present duties. This course was recommended by Bowles when he resigned.

The OPA, which then will be established for another year, already was at work on orders renewing temporarily most of the price ceilings which lapsed June 30. Exceptions will include a number of items specifically exempted from controls.

Senate leaders took final passage for granted, following the House's 210 to 142 vote of approval yesterday. And Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) indicated the measure is acceptable to the President.

Both friends and foes of price control were unenthusiastic, however—the former feeling that the bill does not go far enough, the latter that it goes too far. Additional debate along these lines delayed the final vote, despite the volumes already spoken on the controversy.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) expressed his dissatisfaction but announced that he was voting for the measure "rather than have no bill at all."

Bill Assailed

Senator Wherry (R-Neb) assailed it as "a conglomeration of a lot of compromises put together in a price control act that is no price control act at all." He added that it constitutes a "surrender of power to the bureaucrats to such an extent as we've never given before, even in time of war."

Barkley acknowledged that the measure as it finally emerged from a Senate- House conference committee is, with two or three exceptions, "in substance the same" as the bill that drew a veto. He explained, however, that it was necessary to make some concesions in order to get any bill at all.

The parliamentary situation precluded any changes in the bill, unless it were sent back to a joint conference with the house.

Some members expressed anxiety over the plight of grain elevator operators who bought at the current above-ceiling prices and who face a rollback in price after August 20, when ceilings will be restored unless the decontrol board blocks such action.

Barkley told his colleagues he had "positive assurance" that the price administrator will "go as far as possible toward bailing out these people caught in that situation."

To Restore Rent Control

The bill would restore full rent control, and a modified system for government control over other prices, until June 30, 1947. The Senate had voted to remove controls permanently from a long list of products, including many important foodstuffs. The conference committee modified this by specifying that those controls should remain off until after August 20. If the decontrol board does not act otherwise by that date, ceilings would be restored on meats, dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soybeans, and food and feed products made from them.

Poultry, eggs and tobacco would remain uncontrolled unless the secretary of agriculture and the decontrol board said ceilings should go back on. The board and the price administrator would have to act in unison to restore control over petroleum and its products.

The bill sets up a manufacturers' pricing formula slightly different from the Taft formula which drew sharp criticism from Mr. Truman in the first bill. Under the new formula, manufacturers, produc[illegible] and processors would allowed maximum would return, on an basis, the average dol[illegible] ommodity in 1940, plus subsequent increase in c[illegible]

Wholesalers and reta[illegible] have to be allowed their quisition costs plus the centage markups and which were in effect last

Subsidies would be held [illegible] 000,000, and food subsidies could not be paid after next April 1.

Dealers in automobiles, household appliances and other goods scarce during the war would have to be allowed their full pre-war discounts and markups until their sales got back to the 1939-41 average.

he asserted that disagreements between House and Senate had made it necessary to "make some concessions if we got any bill at all."

In reply to a question, Barkley said that he had received "positive assurance" from the OPA administrator that some program would be worked out to alleviate the situation of elevator owners and other grain purchasers who had bought at current, above-ceiling prices, but who faced the possibility of a roll-back of prices on August 20. He said the OPA administrator would "go as far as possible toward bailing out these people caught in that situation."

The majority leader replied in the affirmative when asked by Senator Tobty (R.-N. H.) whether he did not agree that "when, as and if they start to roll back these various prices there will be a considerable number of severe headaches."

Truman to Act Promptly.

Quick presidential action was promised today as soon as Congress sends the OPA revival bill to the White House. Charles G. Ross, press secretary, told reporters that President Truman will act very promptly and send Congress a message or memorandum—whether his action be veto or approval.

The President's message, Ross added, would be a written one and not a speech for radio delivery. (The President spoke on the radio when he vetoed the previous OPA bill.) Asked whether the President, in the event he signs the bill, will appoint its price decontrol board tomorrow, Ross said he thought it unlikely.

State Rent Control Due to End.

Albany, July 24 (A. P.).—New York State's residential rent control law will become inoperative, under legislative provision, if and when Federal rent control is restored. The OPA revival bill, now before the Senate for final action before going to the White House, would re-establish Federal rent control.

The New York statute, under which the State took over rent control when the OPA expired last June 30, provides that State control will terminate June 30, 1947. However, it also stipulates that State regulation will not be operative when a similar Federal law is in force. Thus, the State's temporary one-man commission would be dissolved. State Rent Control Commissioner Joseph McGoldrick has retained all of the OPA's regulations and ceilings.

Baldwin Stays Rent Action.

Hartford, Conn., July 24 (A. P.).—Gov. Baldwin said today that because he expects Congress to enact price control legislation, a special session of the Connecticut General Assembly to provide a rent control law "now seems unnecessary."

Baldwin's announcement followed a meeting of the Legislative Council and Republican and Democratic leaders called to fix the date of a special session to provide State rent controls before August 1. The Governor said that should Congress fail to act he would "call a special session immediately."

Barkley Sees OPA Headaches

Concedes Difficulty in Rolling Back Prices—Relief for Grain Elevator Men.

Washington, July 24 (A. P.).—Conceding that some "severe headaches" may be ahead in getting the OPA back into business again, Majority Leader Barkley today urged the Senate to give speedy approval to the new compromise legislation for reviving price controls.

He told his colleagues that the measure worked out by the Senate-House conferees and approved by the House yesterday is "with two or three exceptions, in substance the same bill that Congress passed previously and that the President vetoed." But, Ross would not forecast Mr. Truman's action which he timed as likely to come tomorrow. However, House Democratic Leader McCormack has said the President will approve the newest version of a trimmed-down OPA.

Record Vote in Senate On OPA Extension Bill

WASHINGTON, Thursday, July 25 (AP)—Following is the vote by which the Senate early today passed and sent to the White House a measure extending the OPA until June 30, 1947:

JUL 26 1946

O.P.A. Will Fix June 30 Prices On Many Items

Ceiling Orders Ready for Issuance; Rentals To Be Returned to Old Levels

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration expects to issue about 125 pricing orders promptly if pending legislation to revive its authority is approved.

Officials said June ceilings would be re-established on most items which are not exempted specifically from controls, but made it clear that ceilings would be temporary in mots cases. Under the bill the agency has from thirty to sixty days to apply new pricing standards which will raise ceilings on a large block of items.

Rent ceilings, too, would be restored in 520 areas at the levels in effect when Federal controls lapsed July 1.

While this was the general picture, an O. P. O. official who asked to remain anonymous, said that "a great many" of the 125 orders the agency is preparing provide for immediate increases over June 30 ceilnigs.

The official explained that these are increases which the O. P. A. was ready to grant when the price law lapsed, and that most of them will apply to industrial items, including lumber, cement and other building materials. They would be temporary adjustments granted under previous O. P. A. pricing standards.

Other orders being prepared call for elimination of former ceilings on a big list of items, mostly industrial equipment and materials and some minor consumer goods.

Summary of Measure

Still working on interpretations of many provisions of the pending bill, O. P. A. officials expressed these preliminary views on what the measure does:

1. Uncontrolled items: In no case could price controls be restored before Aug. 20 on meat, dairy products, cottonseed, soy beans, eggs, poultry, petroleum, tobacco and their products. This prohibition also applies to grain and to livestock and poultry feeds made from grain. (However, food products made from grain, such as flour, bread and breakfast cereals, will be subject to return to ceilings when the bill becomes law.)

The bill sets up an independent three-man decontrol board which could rule by Aug. 20 whether or not ceilings should be restored then on meat, dairy products, grain, cottonseed and soybeans. If the board failed to rule by that time, ceilings automatically would be re-established.

As for poultry, eggs, tobacco, petroleum and their products, ceilings could not be reinvoked even after Aug. 20 unless the board ordered it.

2. Rents: The bill specifically authorizes restoration of June 30 rent ceilings.

3. Subsidies: Expenditure of $1,000,000,000 during this fiscal year is authorized, principally to hold down retail food prices. However, no subsidies could be paid on major food items while they are ceiling-free. The decontrol board is given authority to fix the amount.

Meal Prices Rise

4. Restaurant Prices: Ceilings on meals would be restored but they probably would be higher than June 30 prices. An O. P. A. regulation provides for automatic adjustment of ceilings, based on the actual costs of raw food.

5. Profits: Dealers' pre-war profit margins on "reconversion" items, such as automobiles and household appliances, would be restored. In the case of autos, the O. P. A. has estimated that this would raise the price of popular priced cars an average of $75.

On other products, dealers' margins could not be trimmed below those which were in effect last March 31. The effect of this would be slight, according to the O. P. A., because margins have not been cut much since then.

The year 1940 is the new base period for fixing prices of manufacturers, producers and processors. The previous base was 1936-39.

6. Clothing and textiles: The bill eliminates the O. P. A.'s authority to require manufacturers to produce low-cost clothing. It establishes a new pricing formula for cotton and woolen textiles which, according to the O. P. A., would require generally higher ceilings. These would be reflected in higher prices for clothing.

O. P. A. Moves to Meet Arrears in Pay Rolls

New Fund to Bring Salaries to Date for Some Workers

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—Its appropriations approved, the Office of Price Administration moved today to meet its pay rolls, virtually on time.

Although the agency passed out of existence June 30 and its revival fate has been in doubt the last three weeks, only a part of its employees have missed any pay—and those but one week's salary.

Most employees were paid early in July for the latter part of June. About 15,000 field workers, however, who were to have been paid last Friday for two weeks—one in June and one in July—received only one week's check.

Today the O. P. A. paid its 3,000 Washington employees in full and on time for the forepart of July. The Treasury also wired funds to nine regional offices to pay field workers. Included were funds for the one week's salary due those shorted last week and full pay for 18,500 others.

In some areas where checks were due today, employees may be paid "a day or so late," an O. P. A. spokesman said. He added that workers whose pay day was Friday "should receive their checks on time."

President Truman signed a bill yesterday which provided $75,000,000 for O. P. A. operations during the fiscal year which began July 1.

LABOR UNIONS COOL TOWARD NEW OPA BILL

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP) The big labor organizations are cool toward the new OPA bill, but all signs point to the probability they will not urge a Presidential veto.

For the moment, the A.F.L. and C.I.O. are keeping silent. Spokesmen have dropped hints, however, that the lack of enthusiasm for limited price controls will not be translated into an outright request that Mr. Truman kill the measure.

The hard fact is that most labor leaders see no chance of getting a bill more to their liking and would rather have this one than none. Their talk is turning more and more to wage increases to offset anticipated price increases.

Chairman W. Willard Wirtz, of the Wage Stabilization board said in an interview that the board could predict what changes, if any, in wage policy will be necessary as a result of price rises which have occurred since July 1.

"We will just have to wait and see what happens to the cost of living," he added.

Wage Controls Unchanged

Wirtz said the OPA revival bill leaves wage controls "exactly where they were" before OPA lapsed July 1.

A backlog of cases handled in the interval will be cleared as soon as President Truman signs the measure—if he decides to do so, Wirtz said.

The board has been taking wage cases in Washington and in its regional offices, despite the absence of any control over prices, but not announcing any final action on them.

Under the stabilization act and executive orders setting out policy, the board must consider the possible inflationary danger if requested wage increases would boost prices. In the past 25 days, without any controls over prices, the board was rendered impotent.

Pending some change in wage policy, Wirtz said, the former guideposts for the board will remain unchanged. One of these is the government's estimate, still unaltered, that the cost of living has increased 33 per cent since January 1941. The board automatically approves increases to bring wages 33 per cent above January 1941 levels, when an employer wants to use that as an argument for higher prices.

The 18½-cent hourly wage increase, which has become the general pattern for basic industries since V-J day, likewise will remain unchanged for the time being, Wirtz said.

America and Russia at Odds Over Nazi and Jap War Booty

Pauley Says Red Seizures in Manchuria Have Upset Lives and Welfare of 900,000,000 Asians.

Washington, July 24 (A. P.).—A two-continent diplomatic clash between Russia and the United States appears to be shaping up today over German and Japanese war booty. At the root of the impending trouble are these factors:

1. The announcement by Edwin W. Pauley, Reparations Commissioner, that this country was considering a permanent halt to German reparations deliveries to Russia to offset "more than $2,000,000,000" worth of Manchurian industry incapacitated by Russian removals from that country.

2. The disclosure by other officials that the United States would oppose an expected Russian demand for a share in reparations from the Japanese mainland.

Reporting to a news conference late yesterday on his findings during a sixteen-country survey, Pauley charged that the Russian action in Manchuria had upset the lives and welfare of 900,000,000 people throughout the Far East for at least a generation.

In the light of this, he said that it was his personal opinion that the United States could extend its current ban on deliveries of German industrial equipment to Russia without violating the four-Power Potsdam agreement on reparations.

This pact provides that Moscow can claim up to 25 per cent of the former war plants marked for removal from the American and British zone. In return, the Russians were to provide specified guaranties of raw materials and food. But for the last two months, Pauley said, the shipments from the American zone have been held up until the Russians come across with their share.

The reparations official emphasized that the question of maintaining this ban was only under discussion, but in discussing the over-all situation in Germany, he declared: "Unless the occupying Powers can get together in a whole-hearted effort to carry out the Potsdam agreement we may find ourselves repeating the tragic blunders of world war I."

"We must see to it," he added, "that the nations of the world do not play the fatal game of power politics with Germany and place her in the position where she can offer the might of Europe to the highest bidder."

Senators Agree.

On Capitol Hill, Senators George (D.-Ga.) and Wherry (R.-Neb.) indicated agreement with Pauley's suggestion to balance the Manchurian and German reparations to Russia. But Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) said that he was unaware of any agreement prohibiting the U. S. S. R. from removing machinery from a conquered country, adding that he supposed the equipment was owned by Japanese nationals.

Pauley said that most machinery had been put in Manchuria by Japanese, but that some of it was Chinese. The officials who reported the expected Russian request for Japanese mainland reparations said that they are certain the American delegate on the Far Eastern Commission will oppose such a demand.

These officials are completely familiar with reparations problems, but asked not to be identified by name. The commission, an eleven-nation Allied tribunal entrusted with formulating a long-range policy toward Japan, has begun a preliminary study of the reparations issue.

M'MAHON EXPECTS FINAL ATOM BILL AGREEMENT TODAY

WASHINGTON, July 24 — (AP) Over the protests of scientists, Senate-House conferees agreed today on a death penalty for atomic energy workers who reveal secrets purposely to damage the nation.

The conferees, working out a bill for domestic atomic energy controls from the differing measures passed by the Senate and House, agreed at the same time to modify a House provision which would require the FBI to check on the workers' loyalty.

Major Points Wait

Still to be hurdled are the major points of difference—involving the issuance of patents and the extent of military representation in the contr[illegible] [illegible]tion.

After a two-hour session Senator McMahon (D-Conn), spokesman for the conferees and head of the special Senate committee that wrote the original bill, told reporters he hopes a final agreement on all differences will be reached tomorrow.

McMahon said the military versus civilian control issue was discussed without a decision. It involves the Senate proposal for a control commission of five civilians and the House's insistence that at least one commissioner be a member of the [illegible] forces.

JUL 26 1946

NIGHT

DAY

The agreement on the death penalty was a victory for the House conferees. The Senate had set the maximum penalty for intentional secrecy violations at 20 years' imprisonment and $20,000 fine. The death penalty which the House approved would be optional with juries, however, and would apply only where there was a clear intention to injure the United States.

Severe Penalties Opposed

Despite these stipulations, scientists who worked on the bomb project have objected to severe penalties, expressing fear that they might incur them unwittingly.

The conferees agreed to new language for the House-proposed FBI loyalty check. The House had approved a requirement that the FBI make an affirmative finding of good character before an applicant for employment by the commission could be put to work. As compromised, the provision would require the FBI to make loyalty tests of all applicants but would leave the decision as to employment in the hands of the commission.

The conferees also agreed to a provision requiring the attorney general to give his consent before prosecutions under the proposed law are undertaken.

Restored to the bill also was Senate language allowing the commission to exchange with other nations information on industrial uses of atomic energy after Congress declares that adequate international safeguards have been established against use of such energy for destructive purposes. The House had eliminated that language.

ATOMIC DEATH PENALTY KEPT

But Conferees Fail to Settle Major Issues.

Washington, July 24 (A. P.).—Senate and House conferees agreed today on the death penalty for major offenses against security under pending atomic energy legislation but failed to settle the issue of civilian versus military controls.

Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.), head of the Senate members working with a House group on differen[illegible] between the two chamber[illegible] reporters after a morning session that the conferees were in agreement that the death penalty should be provided in cases of security violations when there is clear intent to damage the United States. The House wrote in the death penalty as a substitute for the Senate provision for twenty years imprisonment and $20,000 fine for violations.

McMahon said the conferees also agreed on a revision of the House-proposed FBI loyalty check on all persons working in the field of atomic energy development under supervision of the proposed five-member control commission. The House adopted a requirement that the FBI determine the loyalty of such persons. The conferees agreed on a plan under which the FBI would make loyalty checks but the commission itself would make the final determination of employee loyalty.

Another provision agreed to by the conferees would prohibit any prosecution under provisions of the control law without the express approval of the Attorney-General. This would bar prosecutions by local District Attorneys unless the Attorney-General gave assent.

Major provisions still unsettled include Senate insistence that the control commission members be civilians and House recommendation that at least one of them be a member of the armed forces.

SNYDER WOULD CUT PHILIPPINES LOAN

Washington, July 24 (A. P.).—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder recommended today a $25,000,000 cut in the proposed $100,000,000 credit to the Philippine Government to cover the new Republic's anticipated budget deficit in the next twelve months.

He told the House Banking Committee he spoke for the National Advisory Council on International Finance in recommending the reduction. Besides Snyder as chairman, the council consists of the Secretaries of State and Commerce, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and the chairman of the Export-Import Bank.

The council, Snyder said in a statement, believes $75,000,000 is the maximum amount that the Philippine Government would need even when a considerable increase in national defense spending is taken into consideration.

He added that the council feels that "there are a number of measures which the Philippine Government could itself take to produce income in addition to the amount that is shown in their budget estimates."

Philippines President Roxas, with the "strong indorsement" of United States Ambassador Paul McNutt, asked $100,000,000 this year, but said that about $400,000,000 would be required to make up anticipated Philippine budgetary deficits over the next five years.

Snyder recommended establishment of a joint American-Philippine Commission to study future Philippine needs, saying information now avilable is insufficient.

Senators Favor Accepting Rule Of World Court

Committee Wants U. S. to Submit To Compulsory Jurisdiction of U.N.Body

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee unanimously approved a resolution today accepting on behalf of this country compulsory jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice created by the United Nations.

Adoption of the resolution would require a two-thirds vote in the Senate.

All members of the United Nations subscribed to the statute setting up the World Court. However, that statute contained a clause which made it optional whether the subscriber would submit to the jurisdiction of the court in all international disputes. Great Britain has accepted the court's jurisdiction. Russia and the United States, among the great powers, so far have not.

2,060 Negro G. I.s Sent From Germany to Italy

Truman Asked to Rescind Ban on Negro Enlistments

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The Army has transferred 2,060 Negro soldiers from Germany to Italy to bring Negro units in the Mediterranean to full strength, the War Department announced today.

They were declared surplus by the occupation forces in Germany, to which the Army halted transfer of Negro replacements, the announcement said. Enlistments of Negroes in the regular Army likewise has been suspended.

Aside from eleven men assigned to the Rome area command and members of two units staationed in Southern Italy, all the group sent from Germany were assigned to the peninsular base section, after being shifted by train from Germany to Leghorn, Italy.

JUL 25 1946

Reserve Board Member To Serve In Germany

Washington, July 24 (AP)—M. S. Szymczak, member of the Federal Reserve System Board of Governors for the last thirteen years, has been named director of trade and Commerce in the American Occupation Zone of Germany, the War Department announced tonight.

Szymczak accepted the appointment following a conference with President Truman earlier in the day, the War Department said. He will continue as a member of the reserve board.

Serving on a "loan" basis, Szymczak is expected to expedite development of foreign commerce and establish an export balance in Germany, thus easing the financial burden of the occupation, the War Department said.

Szymczak was Comptroller of Chicago before joining the reserve board. He was adviser to the Bretton Woods International Monetary Conference in 1944.

SAYS YUGOSLAVIA BALKS U. S. CITIZENS

Washington, July 24 (A. P.).—The State Department complained today that Yugoslavia has been making it difficult for persons who claim American citizenship to assert their rights there. A spokesman estimated that 500 to 2,500 American citizens are involved, of whom 60 to 65 per cent are American-born children of Yugoslavs who became naturalized American citizens and later returned to Yugoslavia.

A statement by the department said that despite repeated representations, some of these persons have been deprived of their identifying documents and prevented from going to the American embassy in Belgrade.

"Some such persons who were previously inmates of concentration camps have been threatened with deportation to an unknown destination," it added. To help in protecting American citizens in Yugoslavia, the department urgently requested all persons who know of American citizens in Yugoslavia to forward such information immediately by mail.

CPA Upholds Allocation Of Tractors To UNRRA

Washington, July 24 (AP)—The Civilian Production Administration today stood firm on its allocation of tractors to UNRRA, in spite of a complaint against the shipment of 14,500, largely to countries in the Russian sphere of influence.

The allocation "is necessary under the general policy and commitments of the Government," CPA said in a letter to G. C. Hoyt, vice president of the International Harvester Company.

Hoyt had requested that International Harvester be excused from supplying tractors to UNRRA pending "further consideration" of CPA's ruling that the machines be set aside for export.

The CPA directive requires that the shipments up to December 31 be divided principally among Poland, Yugoslavia, Albania, Czechoslovakia and Romania, Hoyt protested. He said American farmers need large numbers of tractors and France, Australia and other nations are counting on this country for farm equipment.

CPA's reply said the areas to which the tractors are being sent are afflicted with serious famine conditions. The only real way to meet the food crisis, it said, is to enable the people to rebuild their capacity to produce food.

MAY SETS FRIDAY FOR EXPLANATION OF WAR PLANT AID

Coffee Agrees to Face Senate Profit Investigation on Tuesday.

MORE FUNDS SOUGHT

Committee Seeks Additional $65,000 to Extend Scope of Probe.

WASHINGTON, July 24—(AP) The Senate War Investigating committee arranged today to hear Representative May (D-Ky) explain on Friday his wartime aid for a munitions combine and simultaneously ordered public hearings next week on Representative Coffee's (D-Wash) acknowledged receipt of $2,500 from a defense contractor.

Committee Counsel George Meader said that the "arrangements" for May's appearance were made through the Kentucky legislator's counsel, and that Coffee himself had asked for a "full and complete" inquiry in his case.

Coffee has described the $2,500 as a campaign contribution and has said that the Department of Justice has cleared him of any wrongdoing.

Seek Additional Fund

Both committee announcements came at the close of a 90-minute session behind closed doors during which the committee agreed to ask the Senate for an additional $65,000 to expand its hunt for corruption in the nation's unprecedented wartime expenditures.

Asked directly whether there was "any strings tied" to the arrangement for May to testify, Meader said that Warren MaGee, May's counsel "didn't mention any, and we didn't agree to any."

May, chairman of the House Military Committee, on three previous occasions, has insisted that he be given the right to have his attorney at his side with the power to call and cross-examine witnesses and subpoena records.

On its part, the committee has said only that it would extend to May the same privileges he grants to witnesses which appear before the House Military committee. In the past, these have not included the privileges May now seeks.

Name Linked to Combine

In the three sensation-packed weeks of public hearings before the Senate committee, May's name has been repeatedly linked to the activities—both business and social—of the munitions combine which chairman Mead (D-NY) has termed a "paper empire."

High-ranking army officers and Secretary of War Patterson have testified to his intervention in behalf of the closely linked network of 19 midwest concerns which received more than $78,000,000 of government business during the war.

May himself has acknowledged the aid. But he has said it was not for any personal profit, but solely to aid the war effort.

A complete War department report on defective mortar shells which killed GIs was promised today to the Senate War Investigating committee as it scanned new fields of inquiry.

Orders Shell Report

Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall directed the report to be prepared from performance data collected by the ordnance department but kept under cover thus far.

Officials said the committee will be given "full information" but declined to say whether the defective 4.2-inch shells would be traced to any specific manufacturers.

Eight plants produced 4.2 inch shells, including the Erie Basin Metal Products company, one of the firms in a combine under investigation. However, there has been no evidence that Erie Basin produced defective shells.

Senator Brewster (R-Me), a committee member, termed the committee's "expose" of a midwest munitions combine "only a peek under the tent in its plans to investigate the whole wartime show of corruption and influence." He added that "we've only scratched the surface."

New Evidence Sought

Committee aides were engaged in a search for additional evidence in the current inquiry, turning for help to the White House and asking the War department for more records.

From President Truman—once chairman of the committee—investigators sought rarely-invoked presidential authority to scrutinize income tax reports.

Before the War department, in addition to call for a report on the bad shells, was the committee's demand that it discipline high ranking officers who journeyed to New York on official army travel orders at government expense and attended a lavish wedding party for Murray Garsson's daughter.

Coffee to Appear On Tuesday

TACOMA, Wash., July 24—(AP) Representative John M. Coffee (D-Wash) said today he and Paul A. Olson, his former secretary, would appear before the Mead committee in Washington at 10 a.m. next Tuesday "with other witnesses and documentary material to corroborate their testimony" concerning a $2,500 chck received from a defence project contractor.

Coffee issued a statement saying he would present evidence that accusations made concerning the check during a recent Tacoma City election were "politically inspired and saturated with partisan bias." He said he referred to "charges as originally made in the Tacoma city election by Eivind Anderson, defeated by Olson in the city primaries, and Harry Cain, now Republican nominee for the U. S. Senate."

Anderson, the contractor from whom Coffee acknowledged receiving the check, also was named by the Mead committee counsel as a witness, but told newsmen it "was a surprise to him." He said he had not received an official request.

Coffee said the Tuesday appearance was agreed upon with Mead committee counsel. He reiterated "willingness to cooperate with the committee." He has insisted the check was a campaign contribution.

The congressman said he and Olson probably would leave by plane Saturday.

JUL 26 1946

Probe Hears GIs Died Firing Defective Shells

Chemical Warfare Officer Testifies Munitions Combine Among Firms Making Ammunition for Mortars Found Faulty Overseas — Wedding Party Expenses Studied

Washington, July 24—(AP)—A story of American soldiers killed by their own defective mortar shells today capped the Senate War Investigating Committee's inquiry into profits of munitions makers.

It was supplied by testimony from Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, and two lettered [illegible] identified reserve officers. They agreed there were deaths among GI's in Europe due to preamture explosion of 4.2-inch chemical mortar shells on the battle fronts.

Waitt said he did not know how many men died from defective shells, but estimated at least 10 or 12.

The War Department, he said, had been unable to trace the defective shells to any particular manufacturer although an effort was made to do so.

Telling the committee that he had "sweat blood" over the defect, Waitt expressed belief that the trouble was due to specifications and design.

He acknowledged that it "might have been" due to defective manufacturing, but declared that "I don't think really it's possible to pin this thing on any manufacturer."

Replying to questions, Waitt said Erie Basin Metal Products Co., was only one of a number of manufacturers of the shell.

Erie Basin was a member of the munitions group which members of the Senate committee have come to call the Garsson combine. Henry and Murray Garsson, brothers, were principal figures in it.

Committee Recess

With Waitt's testimony, the committee temporarily recessed its hearings pending word from Representative May (D.-Ky.) as to when he will testify. May did not comply with a committee summons to appear yesterday. He said he was too busy with legislative matters but hoped to appear soon.

The committee has heard testimony that the Kentuckian interceded with the War Department to give contracts to the Garssons, and cashed checks, as agent, which Garsson firms paid the Cumberland Lumber Co., Prestonsburg, Ky., for lumber which was never delivered. May has declared all his activities were in behalf of the war effort and that he did not profit.

Chairman Mead (D-N.Y.), read reports of the shell defects after Waitt had acknowledged being one of a group of high officers who attended, after traveling from Washington at Government expense, a gay wedding party given in New York by Murray Garsson in honor of hisf daughter and son-in-law.

Pictures which Mead placed in the record showed May, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, as one of the guests. The caption on one photograph described it as showing the sister of the bride "embracing" May.

Other Actions

With the hearings in recess, the committe ararnged an executive session to make its plans for the future. Awaiting action were these matters, among others:

1. The scope of an investigation into the activities of Col. Theodore Wyman Jr., whch was recommended by the Joint Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee.

2. A report by the investigative staff on a preliminary inquiry into charges that Representative Coffee (D-Wash.), received in 1941 a payment of $2,500 through his former secretary for a defense contractor.

3. The amount of funds to be asked of the Senate for carrying on the committee's work until the next session of Congress.

In connection with the investigation of the purported payment to Coffee, Senator Brewster (R-Me.) told reporters that the committee could not accept as satisfactory Coffee's statement that the money was a "campaign contribution."

Brewster cited a 1941 law prohibiting any government contractor from making any contribution "for any political purpose or use."

Coffee declared at Tacoma, Wash., yesterday that he had no intention of returning to Washington at this time unless the committee invites him to appear.

Mead demanded that 'discipline" be meted out to officers who attended the Garsson wedding party while traveling at government expense.

Waitt testified that he attended the party on a Sunday evening. He said he did "an honest day's work" in New York the next day which justified his use of official travel orders.

LOOSE ACCOUNTING OF WSA RECORDS DENIED BY QUINN

WASHINGTON, July 24. — (AP) J. M. Quinn, comptroller of the War Shipping Administration, took issue today with General Accounting Office assertions that the WSA's wartime accounting method was "inefficient."

Testifying before the House Merchant Marine committee, Quinn said his agency had employed a universally accepted accounting method and that operations fell behind "only because of wartime volume and insufficient accounting personnel."

He said there had been "no inefficiency or carelessness" in accounting procedures and that "the mistakes which were made were but human errors."

Questioned about a torpedoed tanker which had been cited as an example of "loose" accounting methods by Accounting Office witnesses at a preceding hearing, Quinn said the case did not indicate any looseness.

Error is Rectified

He said that while the tanker was being repaired in a Baltimore yard it also was armed and otherwise outfitted for war. He said it was customary to pay a company charter hire while a ship was being outfitted but not while a ship was undergoing repair. Since the tanker was being outfitted and repaired at the same time, he continued, the company was mistakenly paid for the whole period the ship was in the yard. When the error was discovered, he said, WSA got back $216,000.

Earlier, W. L. Slattery, construction finance director for the U. S. Maritime commission, whose accounting procedures also are under investigation by the committee, testified that the commission's bookkeeping records on ship construction had fallen behind activities but that the government had maintained an accurate check on costs.

Slattery's reference to bookkeeping procedures, however, aroused the ire of Representative Weichel (R-Ohio), who shoutd at the witness that everyone responsible for the commission's wartime accounting methods should be discharged "and fresh people put in their places."

Slattery was, general auditor for construction during the period Weichel complained of.

tivities on ship cohstruction had fallen behind, the Government had throughout the war an accurate check on costs through the commission's resident shipyard auditors and their staffs. He added that ultimately the commission will have also a complete accounting record of its activities.

Slattery, former comptroller for the Post Office Department, was the commission's general auditor for construction during the period under investigation—the fiscal years 1943 and 1944. He was promoted to his present position in February of this year.

SHIP HEARING HAS FLARE-UP

Representative and Board Aid in Heated Exchange.

Washington, July 24 (A. P.).—Representative Weichel (R.-Ohio) declared in a heated exchange with a Maritime Commission official today that every one responsible for the commission's wartime accounting methods should be discharged.

The blow-up came as Weichel, a former prosecuting attorney, was questioning W. L. Slattery, construction finance director for the commmission, at a hearing of the House Merchant Marine Committee.

Slattery replied acidly, "There are no vacancies so there's no place for you."

"I'm not looking for a job," Weichel snapped back, "but I think you should go out."

"Try it," Slattery responded.

The committee is investigating the wartime accounting procedures of the commission and the War Shipping Administration.

Truman Asks Congress for Funds To Meet Terminal Pay Demands

WASHINGTON, July 24—(AP) Anticipating congressional passage of the terminal leave pay bill, President Truman acted today to place the estimated $2,676,493,000 of cash or bonds in the veterans' hands without delay.

He requested an appropriation of that amount in a special message to congress, indicating he hopes it may be [illegible] before congress adjourn [illegible] NIGHT

A White House announcement explained that "the request was submitted before final passage of the bill in order to give appropriations committees as much time as possible to consider it."

Bills authorizing terminal leave pay to enlisted men already discharged and to those still in service rolled through both the House and Senate without a single vote recorded in opposition, although some congressmen criticized the proposal.

They were sent to a Senate-House conference during the day for an adjustment of differences. The conferees expect to work out the final draft by the end of this week.

The principal difference is a provision adopted by the Senate at the administration's request providing for most of the payments to be made in bonds which may not be cashed for five years after the veterans' discharge. House conferees said they will seek to eliminate this plan and provide for cash payments.

The text of the White House announcement follows:

The President today submitted to Congress a request for an appropriation of $2,679,493,000 to provide for the payment of terminal leave to enlisted members of the armed forces discharged prior to Sept. 1, 1946.

The request was submitted before final passage of the bill in order to give appropriations committees as much time as possible to consider it. The estimate is based on the measure as passed by the Senate, which provides lump sum payments in the form of cash and bonds to enlisted men for leave accrued at the rate of two and one-half days for each month of service, less actual leave taken. Payments are limited to a maximum of 120 days leave.

It was indicated that the average payment will approximate $165, the actual amount depending on length of service, leave taken in service, and pay grade at discharge.

Provides for Cash

The Senate bill provides for cash payments to enlisted men discharged prior to Jan. 1, 1943, as well as to those discharged after that date when the amount due is less than $50. Other former servicemen are to receive bonds in the highest multiple of $25 and cash in the amount of the difference. Bonds will be dated on the first days of January, April, July, or October following the date of discharge, and will be paid five years thereafter together with interest at two and one-half per cent for each year.

Although the task of processing the claims of more than 16,000,000 former members of the armed forces was admitted to be large and difficult, representatives of the war, navy and treasury departments expressed the belief that procedures could be perfected at an early date and the major portion of the payments could be made by June 30, 1947.

HOUSE OPPOSES BONDS FOR G. I. TERMINAL PAY

Senate's Plan Is Facing Fight When It Goes to Conference.

JUL 25 1946

BACKERS WANT CASH PAID

Lump Sum Payment to Be Sought in Place of Securities That Truman Suggested.

Washington, July 24 (A. P.)—House supporters of terminal pay for soldiers and sailors shouted an emphatic "no" today to the Senate's plan [illegible] bonds cashable only [illegible] years.

DAY

Rallying behind the cry that "if cash is good enough for officers, it's good enough for the enlisted men," the group planned to fight for restoration of the original House provision for lump sum payments. That fight will be made in a Senate-Honse conference to which the bill passed by the Senate late yesterday may be sent by nightfall.

Representative Sikes (D.-Fla.), chairman of the military subcommittee which wrote the House bill, and Representative Dwight L. Rogers (D.-Fla.), its co-sponsor, told reporters they will demand a reversal of the Senate's position.

"If cash is good enough for the officers it's good enough for the enlisted men," said Sikes, who probably will be one of the House conferees. "The main argument for payments in bonds, is that it would be inflationary to pay out so much cash at one time. It's a strange thing that the only time some people worry about inflation is when the G. I.'s are liable to get some cash. I didn't hear any cries of inflation when we voted to give several billion dollars to Great Britain."

Action by Voice Vote.

Rogers and Sikes both noted that the bond payment plan was not even considered by the House when it passed the bill without a dissenting vote on June 11. The Senate action yesterday was by voice vote.

The bond provision, suggested by President Truman after the House acted on its own bill, provides that payments generally are to be in bonds, unless the amount is less than $50. In that case the recipient would get cash. The bonds would be in $25 denominations, non-negotiable and payable at the end of five years at their face value plus interest accrued at 2½ per cent. Payments in amounts other than a unit of $25 would be in cash. A man entitled to $85, for instance, would receive $75 in bonds and $10 in cash.

Payments entirely in cash would be made to men discharged before January 1, 1943, and to survivors of men who have died since their discharge.

The Senate beat down proposals by Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) to permit negotiation or sale of the bonds after six months and to give the veteran the option of taking payment in bonds or in cash. Knocked down also was an amendment by Senator Ball (R.-Minn.) to deduct amounts already paid in mustering-out benefits. Ball claimed the bill was "a concealed bonus."

Cost Put at Three Billion.

Both the Senate and the House versions are estimated to cost up to $3,000,000,000, although under the bond proposal not all of that would be paid out in cash at once.

The Senate left unchanged these House provisions:

Payments to be made to all enlisted personnel of the armed forces who have served honorably at any time since September 8, 1939; amounts would be based on two and one-half days of furlough time for each month of service up to a maximum of 120 days and less deductions for furlough time actually received; payments would be made upon application filed up to September 1, 1947.

The Senate provided in addition that no service personnel shall receive payments for more than ninety days of unused furlough time accruing after September 1 of this year. The House bill contained no such provision, but declared a congressional policy that no terminal leave payments be made in future wars. The Senate limited to thirty days the accumulated leave payable in future wars.

Heretofore only officers have been paid for unused leave time up to a maximum of 120 days.

economic stabilization, lately run by Chester Bowles, into the office of Reconversion Director John R. Steelman. Bowles so recommended when he resigned.

The White House said that Mr. Truman hopes to make tomorrow his long-delayed appointment of the three-man economic council. It was created by the employment act and intended to steer the country toward long range full production, employment and purchasing power.

Tentative Choices

Privately administration officials named the following persons as Mr. Truman's tentative choices for the $15,000 jobs on the council:

Winfield W. Riefler, economist, during the war the U. S. minister to Britain in charge of economic warfare activities.

John D. Clark, former lawyer and director of several businesses, now dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of Nebraska.

Leon H. Keyserling, general counsel of the National Housing Agency.

Mr. Truman will have three other important selections to make if the pending OPA bill becomes law—and quickly. This is the three-member decontrol board with authority to decide whether major commodities shall come under price control.

Acquisition of the stabilization power would make Steelman top policy man over OPA and the National Wage Stabilization board. However, Steelman reportedly plans to assign to OPA Administrator Paul Porter as much control over price policy as is consistent with the limitations imposed on OPA by the bill.

Senators Support Clark's Rival For Judgeship Ex-Soldier Held

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The Senate Judiciary Committee decided today that it lacked jurisdiction to determine whether a former soldier had a prior claim to the job, and approved the nomination of Judge Harry E. Kalodner, of Philadelphia, to the United States 3d Circuit Court of Appeals.

The committee, Senator Pat McCarran, Democrat, Nevada, said the vote was 8 to 5. He declined to report individual Senators' votes.

In recommending Mr. Kalodner, now a United States District Court judge, for advancement to the higher court, Senator McCarran said: "The committee was of the opinion that the argument of former Circuit Court Judge William Clark that the position belonged to him under the Selective Service act was a matter for the courts to decided. We have neither jurisdiction over this matter nor the power to enforce any decision we might reach. We came to no conclusion on the questions of law involved."

Mr. Kalodner was nominated by President Truman on May 7. The position has been vacant since January, 1945. Since last August, however, Mr. Clark, of Princeton, N. J., has been suing the government for reinstatement to the 3d Circuit bench following his discharge from the Army several months before.

Mr. Clark contended, in a personal appearance before the committee and in briefs filed in the United States Court of Claims, that he had not resigned from the bench when he accepted a lieutenant colonel's commission in 1942 and went into the Army at the age of fifty.

He also served in the first world war, and was wounded and decorated in both wars, according to testimony at the hearing.

Mr. Clark contended that his seat on the bench had been "illegally" filled in 1943, and that he was now entitled to restoration to the first vacancy of like pay and seniority.

Government attorneys maintained in reply that Mr. Clark had resigned, even though the resignation had not been immediately accepted by the late President Roosevelt, and that regardless of whether the resignation was binding when belatedly accepted by the President, the Selective Service act does not apply to Federal judges.

U. S. Newsprint Supply Outlook Still Is Gloomy

No Immediate Let-Up Seen; Either, in Shortage of Paper and Paperboard

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—No improvement is expected in the tight newsprint supply situation in the near future, nor any immediate let-up in the shortage of paper and paperboard, the Commerce Department said today.

Between 185,000 and 190,000 tons of domestic newsprint-making capacity is scheduled to be diverted to output of other classes of paper by the end of this year, the department statement said.

Paper and paperboard supplies in the second quarter of 1946 were estimated at some 4,000,000 short tons at an annual rate. Third-quarter requirements were expected to match the second quarter's, with production somewhat lower in that quarter.

Low imports of wood pulp from Sweden in May and June were cited as the chief reason for the anticipated reduction in third-quarter output. Some paper mills were said to be faced already with the necessity of curtailing production because of inadequate supplies of overseas pulp.

Loss in domestic newsprint capacity resulting from diversion to other production will be compensated for eventually, the department said, by 150,000 tons of new newsprint capacity to be installed in the South by the end of next year or early 1948, and by increased production capacity in Canada and Newfoundland.

The department estimated that consumption of newsprint in the United States in the first five months of this year totaled 1,736,000 tons, an increase of 25 per cent over the corresponding period of 1945.

It was made possible, the department said, by larger imports from Canada and Newfoundland, increased domestic production and withdrawals from publishers' stocks.

Most Canadian mills have been working at close to practical capacity in the last few months. Maintenance of the present rate of output would increase Canadian production during the second half of 1946 by 60,000 tons over the first half's total production, the department said.

Newfoundland's newsprint production, it added, is at about pre-war levels, and a large percentage of it is being exported to the United States.

FORRESTAL RESIGNING, RUMOR STARTS AGAIN

WASHINGTON, July 24 — (AP) The recurring report that James Forrestal will soon resign as secretary of the Navy was revived today by his return from a round-the-world trip and no confirmation could be obtained.

The available facts are these:

(1) Forrestal has wanted to resign since last year;

(2) For the first half of this year there was no undersecretary— now Undersecretary John L. Sullivan, mentioned as the most likely successor, could take over;

(3) The Army-Navy merger, which Forrestal wanted to see blocked in its proposed form, is dead for this year.

WARNS ON BOGUS BILLS

Navy Urges Watch for $20 and $50 Notes From China Coast

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Counterfeit $20 and $50 bills of "excellent workmanship" are coming into this country from the China coast, Navy disbursing officers were warned today by Under-Secretary John L. Sullivan.

"These bogus bills are of such excellent workmanship that they will pass undetected without the most detailed scrutiny," Mr. Sullivan said.

The $20 bills of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, identified by "L" in the bank seal, have an error in the words "Treasurer of the United States," mispelling the last word "States."

The $50 bills of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, identified by a "B" in the bank seal, have a dot missing which should be to the right of the key handle in the seal and have "A4" on the face below the treasurer's signature. On the back in the lower right corner appear the small numbers "106."

PROBE THEFT OF GOLD COINS

WASHINGTON, July 24—(AP) The War department reported tonight that the army's provost marshal general was investigating the theft of gold coins in the orient valued at more than $50,000.

Two army officers are under investigation, a brief announcement said.

The coins were described as "oriental" and the theft took place in the Pacific theater.

COAST GUARD WINS RIGHT TO TROPHIES

WASHINGTON, July 24—(AP) President Truman today set aside an order issued by President James K. Polk, Feb. 9, 1849, under which trophies captured by the Coast Guard have been going to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

In an executive order, the President proved that flags, standards or colors taken by the Coast Guard while operating as a part of the navy in wartime, are to be placed in custody of the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn. The Coast Guard normally functions under the Treasury department.

Navy Separation Centers To Close

Washington, July 24 (AP)—With its demobilization program nearing completion, the Navy announced today it will close its 29 separation centers, including the one at Bainbridge, Md., on September 1.

Any remaining demobilization will be handled by naval stations and hospitals, the announcement said.

Other separation centers to be closed are located at: Boston; Lido Beach, Long Island; New York city; Philadelphia; Norfolk, Va.; Charleston, S.C.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Camp Wallace, Texas; New Orleans; Norman, Okla.; Memphis; Great Lakes, Ill.; Minneapolis; St. Louis; San Francisco; Shoemaker, Cal.; Seattle; Bremerton, Wash., and Washington, D.C.

Some of these cities have more than one separation center.

More Than a Million Veterans Get Schooling

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The number of World War II veterans in school or other form of training has passed the million mark for the first time.

The total at the end of June, the Veterans Administration reported today, stood at 1,022,725. Of that number 930,512 qualified under the G. I. bill, and the remaining 92,213 under the vocational training act, for which only veterans with a disability are eligible. Roughly 3,300,000 applications have been filed under the two acts.

Educational applications filed under the G. I. bill totaled 2,924,115. Of these, 56,896 were pending decision, and 9,066 had been disapproved. Of the 2,858,169 approved applications, 1,693,471 have not yet entered training.

Tragic Trail Of Young Marines

San Diego, Cal., July 24 (AP)—Two United States Marines struggled for a week against sand and blistering sun of the Baja California (Mexico) desert before they fell exhausted and died.

They had lost direction—wandering in a wide semi-circle around their wrecked plane, sucking cactus for water—staggering, falling, crawling—one dragging the other at the end.

This was the story of the tragic trail of Pfc. Willis J. Bartlett, 18, of Somerton, Ariz., and Corporal Charles E. Lynn, 25, of Chattanooga, Tenn., as reported by Mexican trailers who found the bodies yesterday.

The Marines had fallen 25 miles northeast of where their private rented plane flap-jacked in an apparent forced landing July 8. They had started out southeast. Had they continued in that direction they might have reached one of two small villages.

VAST ATOMIC ADVANCES FORECAST BY ENGINEER

SEATTLE, July 24 — (AP) The next 30 years may bring atomic propulsion, safe flights at speeds ranging from hovering to several times the speed of sound, unlimited world flying ranges, travel into outer space, "and other advances even more startling," Wellwood E. Beall, Boeing Aircraft company engineering and sales vice president, predicted today.

In the Boeing Magazine, marking the company's 30th birthday anniversary, he added, however, that such advances will be possible "only if the governments of the world can manage, somehow, to live peaceably together; if the tempo of research does not falter in the years to come, and if the continued awareness of the American public to the importance of aeronautics does not lag."

8 Transport Command Men Are Decorated

Fort Totten, N.Y., July 24 (AP)—Seven officers and one enlisted man of the Army's Air Transport Command were decorated at a parade here today by Brig. Gen. Haywood S. Hansell, commanding general of the Atlantic Division of the ATC.

The Legion of Merit went to Col James C. Jensen, of Fresno, Cal assistant chief of staff, operations section, Atlantic Division, ATC, for his work as commander of the Miami Army Airfield at Miami, Florida.

The Air Medal was presented to Capt. Keith Scribner, of Meridian Idaho, a budget and fiscal officer of the Atlantic Division, for his work with the AAF flying training program.

"My wife is a keen thinker on international subjects," Bay said just before they sailed. "She was the one who raised the question in the family of doing something to benefit others and not just ourselves.

"The President's offer of the embassy to Norway was a perfect answer."

Bay, millionaire banker and reorganizer of sick businesses, is still a comparatively young man.

"I am not," he emphasizes, "a broken down business man looking for a quiet place to pass my declining years. I feel that I am still in my prime. I have made a fortune. Now I want to devote the rest of my life helping other people—and the best way I know is to help promote better international relationships."

Bay pointed to the need for development of mineral resources in the north of Norway. His mother came from that area—from Hammerfest, which in the war was devastated by Nazi bombers.

Cities Must Live Again

"Such cities," he said, "must live again. They can't but rebuilt without the cooperation that comes from international trade and friendship.

"Multiply Hammerfest by the countless other towns that have suffered and you will see what I mean when I say I want to help promote international goodwill."

Bay was quick to add, "make no mistake. I am first of all an American and representing American interests. But internationally the interests of the United States and other nations must coincide.

"The winning of the peace depends to a much greater extent on economics than is generally recognized. Economic friction created by disparity in standards of living frequently starts ware.

COMMUNISTS IN U.S. TURN BACK TO MARX

Traditional Party Line of Militancy Ordered by National Board

New York, July 24—(AP)—United States Communists, as the result of a statement by their national board, today embarked upon a policy of hewing close to the traditional party "line" — a return to Communist militancy and "class-conscious Marxist-Leninst" theories.

The statement of conclusions promulgated by the national board was published yesterday in The Daily Worker, official party organ. The board met in plenary seessions July 15-18.

Members were directed:

"To organize mass actions against inflationary price rises and high rents; to initiate and co-operate in movements for the reopening of wage negotiations.

"To mobilize the party and labor for support of the candidates, platform and aims of the labor-progressive forces in the coming November elections.

"To launch a new drive for the breaking of diplomatic and economic relations with Franco Spain.

"To rouse the nation for withdrawal of all United States troops from China and the halt of American aid to the Chiang regime, which is waging civil war."

The statement also directed party members to achieve an "anti-Fascist coalition, led by the working class movement, for the resurrection of President Roosevelt's social domestic program and his foreign policy of friendly collaboration with the Soviet Union."

It also ordered that members help "to defeat the Hoover-Vandenberg-Taft clique" and "all candidates who fully support the reactionary Truman policies." Eventual creation of a third party was envisaged.

The statement said Eugene Dennis was unanimously elected general secretary of the Communist Party on the motion of William Z. Foster, national chairman.

ABOARD U.S.S. APPALACHIAN, JULY 24—(AP)—NATURE'S LOWLIEST CREATURES, THE BACTERIA, ARE EXPECTED TO INCREASE IN BIKINI ATOLL AS A RESULT OF DESTRUCTION FROM THE UNDERWATER ATOMIC BOMB.

THIS WAS PREDICTED BY CROSSROADS BIOLOGISTS. THE FORECAST FOLLOWS THE PATTERN OF ALL SUPPOSED BEGINNINGS OF LIFE ON EARTH EXCEPT HUMAN BEINGS.

LOWLY ANIMALS APPEARED FIRST, AND FROM THEM GREATER ANIMALS BUILT THEMSELVES ON FOOD SUPPLIE BY THE TINIER ONES. DESTRUCTION OF OTHER FORMS OF LIFE HERE WILL RESULT IN DECAY AND IN PRODUCTION OF ORGANIC MATTER ON WHICH BACTERIA FEED.

LARGE NUMBERS OF FISH ARE EXPECTED TO BE KILLED BY THE UNDERWATER EXPLOSION. THEIR COUNT WILL BE MADE BY PHOTOGRAPHING PARTS OF THE LAGOON WHERE DEAD FISH MAY FLOAT. HOWEVER, THE PREDICTION IS THAT THE ATOM BOMB WILL KILL ONLY A FEW LOW PERCENTAGE OF THE FISH IN THE HUGE LAGOON.

WHAT RADIOACTIVE WATERS AFTERWARD MAY DO TO KILL MORE FISH IS UNPREDICTABLE. IT IS KNOWN THAT FISH ARE BETTER ABLE TO WITHSTAND THESE RAYS THAN MAN.

30.24-4353

THESE DOES NOT APPEAR TO BE GREAT DANGER TO HUMAN BEINGS FROM RADIOACTIVATED FISH, EVEN IF THE FISH DO NOT DIE. THE FISH WHICH SURVIVE WILL LOSE THEIR RAYS FAIRLY SOON. THEY WILL NOT BECOME SWIMMING RADIUM.

IT IS POSSIBLE THAT TEMPORARY RADIOACTIVITY MAY INTERFERE WITH FISH PRODUCTION, OR EVEN THAT SOME OF THEIR DESCENDANTS MAY ACQUIRE CHANGED COLORS OR OTHER HEREDITARY DIFFERENCES DUE TO THE EFFECT OF THE RAYS ON THEIR PARENTS.

SCIENTISTS DIFFERED IN THE PRE-EXPLOSION HOURS AS TO WHAT WOULD HAPPEN WHEN THE BOMB EXPLODED. THEY WERE FAIRLY SURE, HOWEVER, THAT A MONSTROUS WATERSPOUT WOULD PIERCE THE SKIES TO A HEIGHT OF TWO OR THREE MILES.

CLOSEST VESSELS TO THE BOMB WERE THE BATTLESHIP ARKANSAS, THE HEAVY HULLED SUBMARINE PILOTFISH, THE CRUISER PENSACOLA, AND THE INVINCIBLE "SARA."

THE BATTLESHIP NEW YORK, CRUISER SALT LAKE CITY, THE LIGHT CARRIER INDEPENDENCE, AND THE JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO -- THE LATTER BEARING DAMAGE SUSTAINED IN THE JULY 1 ATOMIC AIR BOMB EXPLOSION -- WERE MOORED A FEW HUNDRED YARDS FARTHER OUT. MORE

DRONE PLANES AND AIRCRAFT MANNED WITH FULL CREWS WERE RAISED AT KWAJALEIN TO TEST THE RADIOACTIVITY OF THE AIR ABOVE THE EXPLOSION CENTER AND TO TAKE PHOTOGRAPHS. DRONE PLANES WERE TO FLY ABOVE THE EXPLOSION AT A HEIGHT OF 5,000 FEET. ONE PLANE, MANNED BY A CREW OF EXPERT AIRMEN, WAS TO FLY AT A HEIGHT OF 30,000 FEET DIRECTLY ABOVE THE SCENE.

DR.R.A.SAWYER, CHIEF OF THE SCIENTIFIC AND TECHNICAL STAFF OF THE OPERATION, PREDICTED SEVERAL DAYS AGO THAT THE UNDERWATER TEST MIGHT PRODUCE SOMETHING NEW IN SEA WAR. SHIPS, HE SAID, MIGHT BE SUCKED DOWN INTO THE HOLE LEFT BY THE MIGHTY GEYSER AND THEN TOSSED UP AT CRAZY ANGLES WHEN THE WATER RECEDED.

HE DID NOT PREDICT HOW HIGH THE SHIPS MIGHT BE BLASTED, BUT SOME OTHERS IN OFFICIAL POSITIONS HAVE ESTIMATED A HEIGHT OF 50 FEET.

(AT LOS ALAMOS, N.M. DR.MAURICE M.SHAPIRO, PHYSICIST AND FORMER CHAIRMAN OF THE ASSOCIATION OF LOS ALAMOS
SCIENTISTS, SAID WEDNESDAY THAT THE UNDERWATER BLAST WOULD NOT BE A CONCLUSIVE TEST OF THE DESTRUCTIVE POWER OF SUCH BOMBS AGAINST WARSHIPS.

("THE SUREST WAY TO SINK A SHIP WITH AN ATOMIC BOMB IS TO DETONATE IT DEEP UNDER WATER," HE SAID. "THIS IS ESPECIALLY TRUE WHEN THE OBJECTIVE IS TO DESTROY A NUMBER OF SHIPS AT ONCE.")

JUL 25 1946

AS I WRITE THIS, BIKINI LAGOON IS LONELY AND DESERTED. ONLY A FEW ANIMALS ARE ABOARD THE TARGET SHIPS SURROUNDING THE WEAPONS
CRAFT FROM WHICH THE ATOMIC BOMB IS SUSPENDED BELOW THE SURFACE OF THE WATER. THE DEPTH AT WHICH THE BOMB WILL BE EXPLODED IS A SECRET.

GALLANT OLD WARRIORS WHO WON HONORS IN BATTLE ARE STANDING BY WAITING FOR THE WORLD'S FIFTH ATOMIC BURST--AND BIKINI LAGOON
MAY BE THE GRAVEYARD OF MANY SHIPS BEFORE THE DAY IS OVER.

THROUGH FLEECY PUFFS OF CLOUDS WE CAN SEE THE TARGET FLEET IN THE LAGOON. ALL NON-TARGET SHIPS HAVE LEFT THE LAGOON AND ARE STANDING OFF BIKINI ATOLL WAITING FOR THE BURST.

THE VENERABLE OLD ARKANSAS PROBABLY WILL BE THE HARDEST HIT.
OTHERS IN THAT "CIRCLE OF DEATH" ARE THE SARATOGA, NAGATO, NEW YORK, INDEPENDENCE, AND PENSACOLA.

A19FX

ONCE AGAIN VICE ADMW.H.P.BLANDY'S LUCK IS PHENOMENAL.
THE DAY IS BEAUTIFUL AND WITHIN ANOTHER HOUR MANY SMALL CLOUDS SHOULD DISSOLVE IN THE HOT SUN.

IN JUST ANOTHER HOUR WE'LL LOOK DOWN ON ONE OF THE MOST INCREDIBLE SIGHTS OF MODERN TIMES -- A SUBMARINE EXPLOSION EQUAL
TO AT LEAST 20,000 TONS OF TNT.

A20FX

IN THE CENTER OF THE FLEET IS A PECULIAR LOOKING LITTLE CRAFT WHICH PRESUMABLY IS THE WEAPONS CRAFT FROM WHICH THE BOME IS SUSPENDED.
THAT IS ONLY SPECULATION, OF COURSE, BECAUSE THE WEAPONF CRAFT IS ONE OF THE SECRETS O THE TEST WHICH HAS NOT YET BEEN DISCLOSED.

WE ARE CIRCLING THE LAGOON AT ABOUT 7,000 FEET WAITING FOR THE SIGNAL WHICH WILL SEND US TO OUR POSITION NORTHEAST OF THE TARGET FLEET.

THE LAST-HOUR DRAMA OF TEST "BAKER" BEGAN LATE WEDNESDAY WHEN YOUNG DR.MARSHALL HOLLOWAY, CORNELL PHYSICIST, BOARDED THE WEAPONS CRAFT WITH A PARTY OF SCIENTISTS AND TECHNICIANS TO MAKE FINAL PREPARATIONS.

THE LAGOON WAS VIRTUALLY DESERTED AS THEY BOARDED THE CRAFT WITH ARMED GUARDS TO SEE THAT NO ONE ELSE BOARDED THE CRAFT.

A25FX

THIS GROUP PREPARED THE BOMB FOR DETONATION AND THEN AT 3 A.M.
HOLLOWAY CHECKED THE RADIO LINKAGE WHICH CARRIES THE IMPULSES SET-TING OFF THE DETONATION MECHANISMS. APPARENTLY THIS PRE-DAWN
TEST WORKED WELL, FOR TEST BAKER PROCEEDED ON SCHEDULE.

AFTER INSTRUMENTS AND MECHANISMS WERE SET, HOLLOWAY AND HIS GROUP WERE TAKEN OFF THE CRAFT AT 6 A.M. AND SPED TO THE CUMBER-LAND SOUND.

THERE, ABOUT 15 MILES FROM THE TARGET ARRAY, HOLLOWAY TOOK HIS PLACE BEFORE THE DARK PANEL STUDDED WITH PUSH-BUTTONS.

THIS MAY BE A PRE-VIEW OF THINGS TO COME -- A PREVIEW OF PUSH BUTTON ATOMIC WAR WEAPONS, SET OFF BY RADIO IMPULSES FROM A PUSH BUTTON CONTROL BOARD MILES AWAY FROM THE SCENE OF COMBAT.

IN A FEW MORE MINUTES HOLLOWAY WILL PRESS THE FIRST BUTTON ON THE BOARD AND THAT WILL BE THE BEGINNING OF A SERIES OF IMPULSES ACTIVATING THE BOMB.

METHODICALLY BY THE CLOCK HE WILL PRESS MORE BUTTONS. THEN, WHEN THE SECOND HAND OF THE CLOCK SHOWS IT IS 50 SECONDS BEFORE "MIKE" HOUR, HOLLOWAY WILL TOUCH THE LAST BUTTON AND THE RADIO IMPULSE WILL START THE ATOMIC CLOCK W ICH WILL AUTOMATICALLY TOUCH OFF THE TRIGGER MECHANISM.

A28FX

EVERYTHING IS IN READINESS NOW AND ALL THAT REMAINS TO BE DONE IS FOR THE YOUNG MAN AT THE PUSHBUTTON BOARD 15 MILES FROM THE SCENE TO BEGIN TOUCHING BUTTONS AT GIVEN INTERVALS.

IT IS ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE AND THERE IS A SENSE OF UREALITY ABOUT THIS WHOLE FABULOUS WORLD OF SCIENCE WHERE A MAN UNLEASHES FORCE EQUAL TO 20,000 TONS OF TNT MERELY BY TOUCHING HIS FINGER TO A BUTTON.

WITH 20 MINUTES TO GO MAJOR RUSSELL IREL, RIVERSIDE, CALIF., WARNED ALL PERSONNEL MUST HAVE THEIR PARACHUTES ON BEFORE THE EXPLOSION. SAFETY PRECAUTIONS ARE NOT RELAXED EVEN THOUGH WE WILL BE ABOUT 15 MILES FROM THE SCENE AT THE TIME OF THE EXPLOSION.

MAYBE ITS LUCKY IRELAND (CORRECT) CHECKED MY EQUIPMENT BECAUSE MY MAE WEST LIFE BELT WAS ON BACKWARDS.

"THE FORCE OF AIR BEING COMPRESSED INTO THE JACKET WOULD JUST ABOUT CRUSH YOUR CHEST," HE SAID.

AND THEN PILOT WHITAKER WENT INTO HIS ASSIGNED ORBIT TO CIRCLE FO THE FINAL FEW MINUTES OF WAITING.

"LOOKS ALL RIGHT TO ME FROM UP HERE," WHITAKER SAID. "THEY SAY ON THE RADIO IT IS THE POSSIBLE DAY. WE ARE GETTING MUCH BETTER VIEW THIS MORNING, THAN FOR THE LAST TEST.

AND NOW EVERYTHING IS SET FOR THE BIG JOLT.

A45FX

AND THEN TENSION BEGAN TO MOUNT IN THE PLANE. IT WAS A TANGIBLE THING THAT STARTED TO TAKE FORM WHEN THE PILOT ANNOUNCED "TEN MINUTES TO H-HOUR, TEN MINUTES TO HAHOUR."

OUT THERE IN THE BLUE LAGOON THE BOMB IS SUSPENDED IN A CAISSON BELOW THE SHIPS. IN A FEW MORE MINUTES THE TRIGGER MECHANISM WILL BRING CHARGES OF PLUTONIUM TOGETHER AND WE WILL WITNESS ANOTHER ATOMIC EXPLOSION.

EVERYONE IS IN POSITION NOW.

"FIVE MINUTES -- FIVE MINUTES BEFORE H-HOUR," SAID THE INTERCOM. IN THE DISTANCE THE BOAT IS MAKING A WHITE CIRCLE IN THE WATER FAR OUTSIDE THE LAGOON.

"FOUR MINUTES BEFORE H-HOUR."

"LET'S GET A DIAGRAM OF THE TARGET FLEET BELOW READY TO CHECK THE SHIPS AFTER THE EXPLOSION."

ABOARD U.S.S. MT MCKINLEY, THURSDAY, JULY 25-(AP)-THE CINDERELLA SHIP OF JOINT TASK FORCE ONE HAD HER DEBUT TODAY.

IT WAS A DEBUT WHICH LASTED A SPLIT SECOND AND ENDED IN COMPLETE DESTRUCTION.

UNTIL ONE HOUR AGO, LSM (LANDING SHIP, MEDIUM) 60 WAS THE MOST IMPORTANT SHIP IN THE TASK FORCE. SHE WAS THE ATOM BOMB SHIP, THE VESSEL FROM WHICH THE WORLD'S FIFTH ATOMIC BOMB WAS SUSPENDED.

SHE DISAPPEARED WHEN THE BOMB WAS DETONATED.

IN THE UGLY LITTLE LANDING SHIP, A FAMILIAR TYPE DURING AMPHIBIOUS OPERATIONS IN THE PACIFIC, WAS CARRIED SOME OF THE MOS IMPORTANT ELECTRONICS EQUIPMENT EVER DESIGNED. HER TRANSFORMATION WAS ENGINEERED BY THE OUTSTANDING SCIENTISTS AND SHIP DESIGNERS OF JOINT TASK FORCE ONE.

VICE ADMIRAL W.H.P.BLANDY, COMMANDER OF JOINT TASK FORCE ONE, REVEALED THE ROLE OF LSM 60 FOLLOWING THE DETONATION OF THE ATOM BOMB.

THE LSM, A CRAFT 203-FEET LONG AND 34 FEET WIDE, WAS CHOSEN FOR TWO REASONS: HER STABILITY AND PECULIAR CONSTRUCTION.

DESIGNED ORIGINALLY TO CARRY 12 MEDIUM TANKS, THE LSM HAS A TANK DECK FORWARD. FOR TEST BAKER, THE EQUIVALENT OF A BOMB BAY HAD BEEN CUT. THROUGH THIS OPENING IN THE TANK DECK THE CAISSON CARRYING THE ATOMIC BOMB HAD BEEN LOWERED BY MEANS OF SUPER WINCHES.

THESE SPECIALLY DESIGNED WINCHES HELD THE ATOM BOMB AT THE DESIRED DEPTH UNTIL DETONATION.

AUTHOR OF THE STRANGE DESIGN WAS CAPT. ARMAND MORGAN, U.S.N., PORTSMOUTH N.H., THE NAVY'S OUTSTANDING AUTHORITY ON SUBMARINE CONSTRUCTION. ASSISTING HIM WAS CMDR. J.S.BETHEA, PRESCOTT, ARIZ., WHO REMAINED AT BIKINI WITH THE LSM TO SUPERVISE RIGGING AND HANDLING SAFETY DURING SUBMERGENCE OF THE CAISSON.

THE LSM WAS MODIFIED FOR TEST BAKER UNDER STRICTEST SECRECY AT TERMINAL ISLAND WHERE HER ENGINES WERE REMOVED TO MAKE ROOM FOR THE SPECIAL HOISTING ENGINES POWERED BY ELECTRICITY.

REAR ADM.W.S.PARSONS, DEPUTY TASK FORCE COMMANDER FOR TECHNICAL DIRECTION, DESCRIBED THE DESIGN OF LOWERING WINCHES AS "VERY SPECIAL" AND SAID THAT THE EQUIPMENT HAD BEEN PLANNED WITH EMPHASIS ON RELIABILITY.

THE BOMB ITSELF WAS IN CHARGE OF A TEAM HEADED BY ROGER WARNER, BOSTON, A LOS ALAMOS SCIENTIST.

LSM 60 WAS THE "HOTTEST" THING IN BIKINI LAGOON UNTIL SHE DISAPPEARED TODAY, BLOWN TO BITTS BY THE DEVASTATING THING SHE HAD TENDED.

UNDATED A-BOMB.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

THE OLD BATTLESHIP ARKANSAS AND TWO SMALL CRAFT WERE SUNK IN BIKINI LAGOON THURSDAY (WEDNESDAY, U.S. TIME) BY THE SUBSURFACE BLAST OF THE WORLD'S FIFTH ATOMIC BOMB, VICE ADM. W.H.P.BLANDY ANNOUNCED OFFICIALLY.

MOST OF THE FLEET OF 75 TARGET SHIPS, HOWEVER, RODE THROUGH THE ATOMIC STORM THAT ROCKETED A GEYSER OF WATER TO A HEIGHT OF AT LEAST 5,000 FEET AND VAPORS ROSE TO 9,000 FEET IN A SPECTACULAR DISPLAY.

BLANDY, IN AN OFFICIAL BROADCAST TO THE UNITED STATES FROM HIS FLAGSHIP, THE MCKINLEY, SAID THE OLD CARRIER SARATOGA, NEAR THE TARGET CENTER, WAS LISTING TO STARBOARD AND WAS DOWN BY THE STERN.

A113KX

HE LISTED THE TWO SMALLER CRAFT SUNK AS A CONCRETE OIL BARGE AND A TANK LANDING CRAFT.

THE JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO HAD A "VERY SLIGHT LIST" HE REPORTED.

THE DEADLY RADIOACTIVE WATERS OF THE LAGOON STILL KEPT OBSERVER SHIPS AT BAY OUTSIDE, AND BLANDY SAID IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO DETERMINE DAMAGE TO OTHER VESSELS.

HE SAID THERE WAS NO REASON TO DOUBT THE EFFICIENCY OF THE BOMB, ALTHOUGH IT FAILED TO GENERATE THE HUGE 100-FOOT WAVES PREDICTED.

INSTEAD, WAVES SEVEN TO 10 FEET HIGH LAPPED THE SHORE OF BIKINI ISLAND AND SWEPT ENTIRELY OVER A NEARBY ISLET.

BLANDY SAID IT WAS TOO EARLY TO TELL HOW MANY OF THE SIX SUBMARINES SUBMERGED FOR THE TEST WERE SUNK BUT "TWO HAVE BEEN SIGHTED FROM THE AIR IN THEIR PROPER SUBMERGED POSITIONS."

OF THE SARATOGA, WHOSE DURABILITY OUTSHONE THAT OF THE ARKANSAS, WHICH ALSO WAS CLOSE TO THE TARGET CENTER, BLANDY SAID:

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT DON WHITEHEAD REPORTED FROM A PLANE OVER THE LAGOON EARLIER THAT THE GALLANT OLD "SARA" HAD COME THROUGH STILL FLOATING, THOUGH LISTING BADLY.

LONDON--FIRST ADD FIRST Lead PALESTINE X X X JUNE 25.

THE WHITE PAPER ACCUSED MOSHE SHERTOK, HEAD OF THE AGENCY'S POLITICAL DEPARTMENT AND A MEMBER OF THE EXECUTIVE IN LONDON, OF AGREEING TO "ONE SERIOUS INCIDENT" IN PALESTINE TO "RAISE THE MORALE" OF THE JEWISH COMMUNITY.

THE PAPER CITED A CODE TELEGRAM WHICH IT SAID SHERTOK SENT OCT.12, 1945, TO BERNARD JOSEPH, LEGAL ADVISER AND EXECUTIVE MEMBER IN JERUSALEM, AGREEING TO THE PLAN. THE PAPER SAID THE TELEGRAM READ:

"DAVID WILL NOT LEAVE BEFORE FORTNIGHT. MEANWHILE PROBABLY REVISIT PARIS. REGARDING DOBKIN WRITTEN. DAVID HIMSELF FAVORED DELEGATE DOMINIONS. PLEASE CONGRATULATE CHILL ON BIRTH OF DAUGHTER. SIGNED SHERTOK."

THE WHITE PAPER SAID THE PHRASES "MEANT THAT IT WAS DESIRED, WHILST AVOIDING A GENERAL CONFLICT, TO INDULGE IN ISOLATED ACTIONS."

A SPOKESMAN FOR THE POLITICAL DEPARTMENT OF THE JEWISH AGENCY IN LONDON SAID THE AGENCY HAD NO COMMENT WHATEVER.

THE WHITE PAPER SAID THE INFORMATION LED TO THESE CONCLUSIONS:

THAT THE HAGANA AND THE ILLEGAL MILITARY ORGANIZATION KNOWN AS PALMACH "CAREFULLY PLANNED MOVEMENTS OF SABOTAGE AND VIOLENCE UNDER THE GUISE OF THE JEWISH RESISTANCE MOVEMENT;"

THAT BOTH ORGANIZATIONS WORKED UNDER THE POLITICAL CONTROL OF MEMBERS OF THE JEWISH AGENCY;

THAT THE ILLEGAL IRGUN ZVAI LEUMI AND THE STERN GROUP HAVE WORKED SINCE LAST AUTUMN IN COOPERATION WITH THE HIGH COMMAND OF THE HAGANA ON CERTAIN OF THESE OPERATIONS; AND

THAT THE RADIO STATION KOL ISRAEL, WHICH CLAIMS TO BE "THE VOICE OF THE JEWISH RESISTANCE MOVEMENT," HAS BEEN WORKING UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE JEWISH AGENCY AND HAS BEEN SUPPORTING THESE ORGANIZATIONS.

THE WHITE PAPER SAID "EVIDENCE" ON WHICH THESE CONCLUSIONS WERE BASED WAS DERIVED PRINCIPALLY FROM SEVEN TELEGRAMS WHICH PASSED BETWEEN LONDON AND JERUSALEM BETWEEN SEPT 23 AND NOV 3, 1945; ANOTHER TELEGRAM OF LAST MAY; BROADCASTS BY KOL ISRAEL; AND INFORMATION FROM PAMPHLETS.

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT PRONOUNCEMENT SAID THE FIRST OF THE TELEGRAMS DEALT WITH ATTACKS ON RAILWAYS, POLICE LAUNCHES AND A HAIFA REFINERY ON OCT.31 AND NOV.1, 1945. THE PALESTINIAN RAILWAY LINE WAS DAMAGED IN 153 PLACES, COMPLETELY DISRUPTING TRAFFIC. SOME CHARGES WERE PLACED WHICH DID NOT EXPLODE.

"THREE POLICE LAUNCHES WERE DESTROYED BY EXPLOSIVES AND THE SAME NIGHT THE IRGUN ZVAI LEUMI DAMAGED THREE LOCOMOTIVES, DESTROYED ONE SIGNAL BOX AND BURNT AN ENGINE SHED," THE DOCUMENT SAID, "THERE WERE SEVERAL CASUALTIES, INCLUDING THE DEATH OF A BRITISH SOLDIER.

"THIS INCIDENT WAS CAREFULLY PLANNED IN ADVANCE AS PART OF A DELIBERATE POLICY. IT WAS INTENDED AS A WARNING TO HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT OF THE CONSEQUENCES THAT WOULD FOLLOW IF THEY DID NOT COMPLY WITH THE WISHES OF THE YISHUV (THE JEWISH COMMUNITY IN PALESTINE).

"THE JEWISH AGENCY EXECUTIVE WAS NOT PREPARED TO WAIT FOR A DECLARATION OF GOVERNMENT POLICY, BUT DECIDED TO CAUSE 'ONE SERIOUS INCIDENT IN ORDER TO INFLUENCE THAT POLICY.'"

NEW YORK, JULY 24-(AP)-THE CONTROVERSIAL PALESTINE QUESTION WAS SLATED TODAY FOR A PLACE ON THE CROWDED AGENDA OF THE UNITED NATIONS GENERAL ASSEMBLY WHICH MEETS IN NEW YORK SEPTEMBER 23.

ARKADY SOBOLEV, ACTING SECRETARY-GENERAL, DISCLOSED LAST NIGHT THAT EGYPT AND IRAQ, ACTING IN CONCERT WITH FIVE OTHER ARAB STATES, HAD ASKED ASSEMBLY ACTION TO HELP BRING THE STRIFE-TORN [illegible] MANDATE UNDER U. N. TRUSTEESHIP.

JUL 25 1946

THE PALESTINE DISCLOSURE CAME IN THE MIDST OF THESE DEVELOPMENTS:

SOVIET CIRCLES SAID THE PALESTINE QUESTION MIGHT BE RAISED BY RUSSIA DURING DISCUSSION OF TRANSJORDAN'S APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP IN THE UNITED NATIONS, SCHEDULED TO BE HELD WITHIN THE NEXT FEW DAYS BEFORE A COMMITTEE OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL.

COMMITTEE NO. 2 OF THE ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION WAS CALLED INTO SESSION AT 10 A. M. (EDT) TO BEGIN DISCUSSIONS ON THE U. S. PROPOSAL FOR CREATION OF AN ATOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY TO CONTROL ATOMIC ENERGY.

THE SECURITY COUNCIL WAS SCHEDULED TO MEET AT 3 P. M. FOR WHAT WAS EXPECTED TO BE A BRIEF SESSION ON ROUTINE MATTERS.

THE RUSSIAN INFORMANT DECLINED TO AMPLIFY HIS STATEMENT THAT THE PALESTINE QUESTION MIGHT BE INJECTED INTO THE DISCUSSION OF MEMBERSHIP APPLICATIONS. HE ALSO REFUSED TO DISCLOSE THE NATURE OF REMARKS WHICH HE SAID THE SOVIET REPRESENTATIVE WOULD MAKE ON TRANSJORDAN'S APPLICATION.

IT WAS RECALLED, HOWEVER, THAT BOTH THE SOVIET PRESS AND RADIO HAVE DECLARED THAT TRANSJORDAN IS INDEPENDENT IN NAME ONLY, SINCE BRITISH TROOPS REMAIN IN THE COUNTRY.

NO DATE HAS YET BEEN SET FOR CONSIDERATION OF MEMBERSHIP APPLICATIONS, ALTHOUGH AN ASSOCIATE OF EELCO N. VAN KLEFFENS, PRESIDENT OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL, SAID THE COMMITTEE MIGHT MEET LATER THIS WEEK. THE COMMITTEE HAS BEFORE IT APPLICATIONS FROM ALBANIA, AFGHANISTAN, OUTER MONGOLIA AND TRANSJORDAN.

THE PALESTINE QUESTION WAS SUBMITTED TO THE UNITED NATIONS IN THE FORM OF A BRIEF NOTE, ACCOMPANYING COPIES OF ALMOST IDENTICAL COMMUNICATIONS WHICH THE GOVERNMENTS OF EGYPT AND IRAQ HAD PRESENTED TO THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT A MONTH AGO.

A18

THE NOTE CALLED THE ATTENTION OF THE SECRETARY-GENERAL TO THE CONTENTS OF THE COMMUNICATION TO BRITAIN AND ASKED THAT HE SUBMIT "THE PROPOSALS THEREIN SET FORTH TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE UNITED NATIONS AT ITS NEXT MEETING."

IT ALSO ASKED THAT THE COMMUNICATION BE CIRCULATED AMONG THE 51 MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS, WHICH SOBOLEV SAID HE HAD DONE IMMEDIATELY.

THE "PROPOSALS" REFERRED TO WERE THAT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT ENTER INTO NEGOTIATIONS "AS SOON AS POSSIBLE" WITH THE SEVEN ARAB STATES "TO END THE PRESENT SITUATION IN PALESTINE AND TO INSTALL A NEW REGIME IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS AND THE AIMS EXPRESSED IN THE CHARTER OF THE UNITED NATIONS."

U. N. SOURCES SAID THIS MEANT NEGOTIATIONS FOR A TRUSTEESHIP FOR PALESTINE.

BOTH EGYPT AND IRAQ ASKED BRITAIN NOT TO RE-OPEN JEWISH IMMIGRATION INTO PALESTINE AND TO MAINTAIN PRESENT LEGAL MEASURES CONCERNING THE RESTRICTION OF LAND SALES TO JEWS.

BRITISH SOURCES SAID BRITAIN HAD INDICATED THAT THE QUESTION OF A TRUSTEESHIP FOR PALESTINE STILL WAS OPEN, BUT THAT BRITAIN WAS NOT READY TO NEGOTIATE ON THE ISSUE NOW BECAUSE DISCUSSIONS WERE CONTINUING ON THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE JOINT BRITISH-AMERICAN COMMITTEE OF INQUIRY.

THE EGYPTIAN NOTE TO BRITAIN SAID:

"THE ACTUAL CONDITIONS RESULTING FROM THE MANDATE IMPOSED UPON PALESTINE AND ITS PRACTICAL APPLICATION ARE CONTRADICTORY TO THE PROVISIONS LAID DOWN IN THE (U. N.) CHARTER AND TO THE RECOGNIZED RIGHTS OF THE INHABITANTS OF THAT COUNTRY AT THE TIME WHEN THE LATTER WAS DETACHED FROM THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE.

"IT IS FELT, THEREFORE, THAT AN END SHOULD BE PUT TO THE EXISTING SITUATION AND THAT A NEW REGIME SHOULD BE INSTALLED, INSPIRED BY THE SPIRIT AND THE PRINCIPLES OF THE CHARTER. THIS IS CONSIDERED ALL THE MORE NECESSARY IN VIEW OF THE FACT THAT THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE UNITED NATIONS, AT ITS FIRST SESSION, TOOK THE DECISION TO ENTRUST TO THE NATIONS DIRECTLY CONCERNED THE TASK OF INITIATING CONSULTATIONS WITH A VIEW TO THE [illegible] OF THE AGREEMENTS REFERRED TO IN THE CHARTER."

U.S. ARMY OFFICERS SAID THE PROLONGED DETENTION OF SEVERAL AMERICANS IN EASTERN EUROPE HAD PROMPTED HEADQUARTERS TO ISSUE THE CODE.

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD DIPLOMATIC NEGOTIATIONS ARE UNDER WAY FOR THE RELEASE OF AT LEAST TWO U.S. SOLDIERS DETAINED BY THE POLISH GOVERNMENT.

OFFICERS SAID THAT DETAILS OF ALL DETENTIONS OF AMERICANS IN EASTERN EUROPE, INCLUDING THEIR NUMBER, WERE CLASSIFIED "SECRET" AND THAT STRICT ORDERS HAD BEEN RECEIVED FROM THE WAR DEPARTMENT PROHIBITING THE RELEASE OF INFORMATION.

THE MOST SERIOUS CASE WAS SAID TO BE THE DETENTION OF PVT. MELVIN RICHARD BEST, WHO HAS BEEN A FOOTBALL IN AMERICAN-POLISH NEGOTIATIONS FOR MONTHS. BEST WAS ARRESTED BY THE POLES LAST DECEMBER ON A CHARGE OF KILLING A POLISH MILITIAMAN, JOHN KOWALSKI.

MOST DETENTIONS WER CAUSED BY "SOLDIERS GETTING ROWDY AND SHOOTING UP BARS," A HEADQUARTERS OFFICER SAID.

"ORDERS HAD TO BE ISSUED CONTROLLING THE CONDUCT OF MEN BECAUSE THE UNITED STATES DOESN'T ALWAYS PACK THE PUNCH IN EASTERN EUROPE IN SECURING THE RELEASE OF AMERICANS FOR TRIAL BY AMERICAN COURTS AS IT MIGHT IN LIBERATED WESTERN COUNTRIES," ONE OFFICER SAID UNOFFICIALLY.

THE DIRECTIVE WAS DISTRIBUTED TO ALL MAJOR COMMANDS IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER AND COPIES WERE SENT TO AMERICAN MILITARY ATTACHES IN YUGOSLAVIA, POLAND, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, HUNGARY, BULGARIA, ROMANIA AND GREECE.

MOSCOW, JULY 24-(AP)-THE RUSSIAN REPORTER ILYA EHRENBURG WROTE IN IZVESTIA TODAY THAT THE UNITED STATES HAD A LEGALIZED RACIAL CASTE SYSTEM IN THE CASE OF NEGROES AND AN ENTIRELY UNOFFICIAL RACIAL CASTE SYSTEM IN THE TREATMENT OF JEWS, ITALIANS AND CHINESE.

EHRENBURG HAS JUST RETURNED FROM AN EXTENSIVE, UNRESTRICTED TOUR OF THE UNITED STATES.

"AMERICA, WHICH NEVER KNEW FEUDALISM, HAS ESTABLISHED ANOTHER HIERARCHY--A RACIAL ONE," HE WROTE.

"THE ENGLISH, SCOTCH AND IRISH ARE THE ARISTOCRACY. AFTER THEM COME THE SCANDINAVIANS AND GERMANS, AND THEN THE FRENCH AND SLAVS. THE ITALIANS ARE MANY TIMES LOWER. THE JEWS ARE EVEN LOWER. PUERTO RICANS ARE BELOW THEM AND THE LAST AT THE BOTTOM OF THE LADDER ARE THE NEGROES."

EHRENBURG SAID THE UNITED STATES TO HIM WAS A "PUZZLING PLACE WHICH HELPED TO DEFEAT HITLERISM, BUT WHICH TAKES ANTI-SEMITISM AS A NATURAL PHENOMENON AND DEPRIVES NEGROES OF ALL HUMAN RIGHTS."

HE SAID THAT IF A MAN HAD A "COLORED" GRANDFATHER, HE WAS REGARDED AS "COLORED" AND FORCED TO SUBMIT TO VARIOUS RESTRICTIONS.

AT NASHVILLE,TENN., THE REPORTER SAID AN UNIDENTIFIED MAN TRIED AT LENGTH TO CONVINCE HIM THERE WERE LOWER AND HIGHER RACES, REPEATING "ALL THE THEORIES OF ROSENBERG AND OTHER IDEOLOGISTS OF THE THIRD REICH."

"MY COMRADES WANTED TO VISIT CALIFORNIA AND CHICAGO, BUT I PICKED OUT THE SOUTHERN STATES," EHRENBURG WROTE. "THUS, AFTER THE SKYSCRAPERS OF NEW YORK, I SAW THE CABIN OF UNCLE TOM AND CAN SAY TH CABIN HAS CHANGED BUT VERY LITTLE."

"ANTI-SEMITISM IN AMERICA IS SO COMMON THAT MANY DO NOT EVEN NOTICE IT," HE WROTE. "IT SEEMS NATURAL TO THEM TO HIRE ONLY ARYANS IN SOME ENTERPRISES OR TO DENY JEWS ENTRANCE INTO SOME HOTELS.

The article further quoted the report as saying 11 nuns and 10 seminarists were eith shot dead or "massacred" and that many others who were arrested had no been heard from. The report said those executed had been charged with being "reactionaries" or of "cooperating with fascists."

The report claimed that a program of anti-religious education was being carried out in the schools. The agrarian reform law was cited a one means of acquiring church property, with the state confiscating al

"historical" importance were allowed to retain up to 75 acres, the re

NANKING, JULY 24-(AP)-A GOVERNMENT SPOKESMAN SAID TODAY THAT TROOP STRENGTH IN THE COASTAL PROVINCE OF KIANGSU NOW IS AMPLE TO WARD OFF ANY POSSIBLE THREAT TO NANKING AND SHANGHAI AND EXPRESSED CONFIDENCE THE HOTLY CONTESTED TAIHSING-JUKAO AREA, NORTHEAST OF NANKING, WOULD BE CLEARED OF CHINESE COMMUNISTS WITHIN A SHORT TIME.

BUT THE MINISTER OF INFORMATION, PENG HSUEH-PEI, STILL PARRIED REQUESTS OF CORRESPONDENTS TO VISIT "FRONT LINES" ACROSS THE YANGTZE RIVER FROM NANKING BY SAYING COMMUNIST INFILTRATIONS MADE TRAVEL HAZARDOUS.

PENG, AT THE SAME TIME, SHRUGGED OFF THE STARTLING STATEMENT THIS WEEK OF MADAME SUN YAT-SEN, WIDOW OF CHINA'S "GEORGE WASHINGTON," IN WHICH SHE APPEALED TO THE UNITED STATES TO WITHDRAW TROOPS AND SUPPLIES IN THE INTERESTS OF BRINGING ABOUT A COALITION GOVERNMENT IN CHINA.

"MADAME SUN YAT-SEN, ALTHOUGH A KUOMINTANG (GOVERNMENT PARTY) MEMBER, IS VERY INDEPENDENT," PENG SAID CRISPLY.

"HER VIEWS DO NOT REPRESENT THE VIEWS OF THE KUOMINTANG."

BOTH THE COMMUNISTS AND THE THIRD PARTY DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE HAILED MADAME SUN'S STATEMENT.

JUL 25 1946

GOVERNMENT AND THE COMMUNISTS ALIKE CLAIMED POSSESSION OF THE STRATEGIC CITY OF JUKAO WHICH IS LINKED TO NANTUNG, ACROSS THE YANGTZE FROM SHANGHAI, BY A GOOD ROADWAY. PENG SAID THAT KUOMINTANG REINFORCEMENTS TOOK THE CITY TWO DAYS AGO. THE COMMUNISTS INSISTED THEIR FORCES STILL HELD OUT THERE.

BOTH SIDES CLAIMED THEIR OPPONENTS HAVE LAUNCHED NEW OFFENSIVES IN THE NORTHERN AREA. THE COMMUNISTS SAID THE KUOMINTANG 58TH ARMY SEIZED CITIES WEST OF HSUCHOW IN A STRONG ATTACK AIMED AT CONTROL OF THE KIANGSU-ANHWEI BORDER. A KUOMINTANG SPOKESMAN SAID THAT THE COMMUNISTS WERE INCREASING ACTIVITIES IN SHANTUNG PROVINCE, INCLUDING ATTACKS ON TOWNS 20 MILES NORTH OF TSINGTAO.

THE COMMUNIST NEW CHINA NEWS AGENCY CLAIMED THAT RED FORCES ANNIHILATED THE 150TH DIVISION OF THE KUOMINTANG 49TH ARMY. EARLIER, A SPOKESMAN SAID THAT TWO DIVISIONS OF THIS FORCE WERE WIPED OUT.

THE COMMUNIST YENAN RADIO CRITICIZED A PURPORTED AGREEMENT OF CHIANG KAI-SHEK WITH HEADQUARTERS OF THE U.S. ARMY FORCES IN CHINA PERMITTING AN AERIAL MAPPING OF ALL CHINA.

THE BROADCAST SAID A DOCUMENT OUTLINING SUCH AN AGREEMENT WAS CAPTURED DURING THE BATTLE FOR ANSHAN IN MANCHURIA AND THAT IT WAS A "SHAMEFUL VIOLATION OF CHINESE SOVEREIGNTY."

A COMMUNIST RAID ACROSS THE YANGTZE AGAINST THE NAVAL BASE OF KIANGYIN, MIDWAY BETWEEN NANKING AND SHANGHAI, HAS BEEN REPULSED, THE GOVERNMENT'S CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY SAID TODAY.

THIS WAS THE FIRST INTIMATION BY THE GOVERNMENT'S AGENCY THAT THE COMMUNISTS HAD CROSSED THE YANGTZE FROM STRONG POSITIONS NORTH OF THAT GREAT RIVER ARTERY.

THIS ACCOUNT, WITHOUT CONFIRMATION ELSEWHERE, SAID THE ATTACKERS CROSSED THE RIVER MONDAY NIGHT BUT WERE BEATEN OFF BY A GOVERNMENT SHORE PATROL. KIANGYIN IS 85 MILES NORTHWEST OF SHANGHAI AND ABOUT THE SAME DISTANCE EAST OF NANKING.

ELSEWHERE IN THE TROUBLED EASTERN SEABOARD PROVINCE OF KIANGSU, THE SITUATION APPEARED STABILIZED. A GOVERNMENT SPOKESMAN CLAIMED A "COMMUNIST THREAT" TO NANKING AND SHANGHAI HAD BEEN DEFINITELY BLOCKED.

COMMUNIST SOURCES DENIED THAT THEIR FORCES AT ANY TIME MENACED EITHER OF THESE KEY CITIES, SAYING THEY WERE STRICTLY ON THE DEFENSE.

ANOTHER PRO-GOVERNMENT REPORT FROM SHANTUNG PROVINCE TO THE NORTH CHARGED THE COMMUNISTS HAD RENEWED AN "OFFENSIVE" WITH A SEABORNE ATTACK ON WANGKUCHUANG, ONLY 23 MILES FROM THE PORT OF TSINGTAO, WHERE UNITED STATES MARINES STAND GUARD.

THE SOVIET CONSUL GENERAL DECLINED TO GRANT FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS AN INTERVIEW WHICH WOULD HAVE INCLUDED THE QUESTION, "WHAT MEASURES HAVE BEEN TAKEN TO PROTECT THE SOVIET CITIZENS IF HARBIN IS ATTACKED BY THE NATIONALISTS?"

THE LATEST SKIRMISHES TO BE REPORTED IN MANCHURIA, OCURRING ON THE SUNGARI RIVER AT A POINT APPROXIMATELY 75 MILES SOUTH OF HARBIN, ENDED IN A SETTLEMENT LAST WEEK OF RIVAL COMMANDERS. THE TWO MET UNDER A LARGE TREE, EXCHANGED COURTESIES, ATE DINNER AND SIGNED A PROMISE NOT TO FIGHT ANY MORE IN COMPLIANCE WITH CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S CEASE FIRE ORDER OF JUNE 7.

CHINESE

BY JOHN M.HIGHTOWER
ASSOCIATED PRESS DIPLOMATIC REPORTER

WASHINGTON, JULY 24-(AP)-MOUNTING EVIDENCE OF UNDECLARED CIVIL WAR IN CHINA SEEMED ALMOST CERTAIN TODAY TO KILL FOR THIS YEAR AMERICAN PLANS TO HELP DEVELOP A MODERN, MILLION-MAN CHINESE ARMY.

BOTH SENATE AND HOUSE LEADERS AGREED PRIVATELY THAT LEGISLATION TO AUTHORIZE THE UNITED STATES TO HELP ORGANIZE, TRAIN AND EQUIP SUCH AN ARMY HAS PRACTICALLY NO CHANCE OF PASSAGE IN THE FEW DAYS THAT REMAIN BEFORE CONGRESSIONAL ADJOURNMENT.

THERE WAS SOME BELIEF AT THE CAPITOL THAT A LAST MINUTE APPEAL BY SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES MIGHT BRING ACTION. BUT THERE WAS NO INDICATION AT THE STATE DEPARTMENT THAT ANY SUCH MOVE IS BEING PLANNED.

THE MILITARY AID BILL IS ONE OF THE KEY PIECES IN THE GOVERNMENT'S CHINESE POLICY BUILT ON THE ASSUMPTION THAT GEN.GEORGE C.MARSHALL, PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S SPECIAL PEACE MAKER, WOULD SUCCEED IN HIS EFFORTS TO UNIFY THE NATIONALISTS AND COMMUNISTS FORCES.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS ARE STILL HOPEFUL. BUT THE FLOW OF REPORTS DURI THE LAST TEN DAYS OR SO TELLING OF INCREASING MILITARY OPERATIONS BY BOTH THE COMMUNIST FORCES AND THOSE OF CHIANG KAI-SHEK HAVE STARTED DISCUSSIONS AMONG SOME AUTHORITIES OF WHAT THE UNITED STATES MIGHT BE ABLE TO DO IF UNRESTRAINED CIVIL WAR SHOULD BE DECLARED.

AT THE MOMENT, WHILE UNITED STATES POLICY REMAINS UNCHANGED, THE TALK SEEMS TO BE ALONG TWO MAJOR LINES:

1. WHETHER THE UNITED STATES SHOULD CONTINUE TO GIVE ITS FULL SUPPORT TO CHIANG KAI-SHEK, IF WORST COMES TO WORST, OR;
2. WHETHER IT SHOULD ADOPT SOME OTHER ATTITUDE, POSSIBLY INVOLVING RECOGNITION OF THE COMMUNISTS AS LEGITIMATE BELIGERANTS.

ALREADY, UNDER THE SPECIALLY PROLONGED AUTHORITY OF THE OTHERWISE EXPIRED LEND-LEASE ACT, ASSISTANCE TO CHIANG HAS DROPPED OFF TO TINY FACTION OF WHAT IT ONCE WAS. WHAT AID IS CONTINUING IS BASED MAINLY ON THE THEORY THAT CHIANG NEEDS HELP IN COMPLETING THE REPATRIATION OF JAPANESE TROOPS AND IN OCCUPYING THE AREAS FROM WHICH THEY HAVE BEEN REMOVED.

A14WX

ORIGINALLY THE PROPOSED MILITARY AID AUTHORIZATION WAS SUPPOSED TO TAKE THE PLACE OF LEND-LEASE IN HELPING CHINA BECOME AN EFFECTIVE POWER AND THUS A CORNERSTONE OF PEACE IN ASIA.

BUT THE BASIC REQUIREMENT FOR SUCH ASSISTANCE WAS GENERAL MARSHALL'S PLAN FOR AMALGAMATING THE NATIONALIST AND COMMUNIST FORCES INTO A SINGLE CHINESE ARMY, WITH 50 DIVISION DRAWN FROM THE NATIONALISTS AND 10 FROM THE COMMUNISTS. THUS EVEN IF THE PENDING BILL WERE PASSED, THE MILITARY AID WOULD NOT BE GIVEN UNTIL THERE WAS ACTUAL COOPERATION.

NOT ONLY HAS MILITARY ASSISTANCE BEEN CONDITIONED ON THE ACHIEVEMENT OF UNITY, BUT FULL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE LIKEWISE HAS BEEN MADE DEPENDENT ON THAT POINT. FOR MONTHS THE GOVERNMENT HAS STOOD READY TO MAKE A $500,000,000 LOAN TO CHINA PROVIDED THE CHINESE COULD PUT AN END TO THEIR INTERNAL STRIKE.

ALSO FOR MONTHS IT HAS BEEN ASSUMED HERE THAT MARSHALL HAS HAD THE COOPERATION OF CHIANG KAI-SHEK IN HIS WORK. HENCE THE GREATEST SINGLE CAUSE OF PESSIMISM AMONG OFFICIALS FAMILIAR WITH THE CURRENT SITUATION ARE THE REPORTS THAT CHIANG HIMSELF FAVORS THE VIEW OF EXTREMISTS WHO BELIEVE THEY COULD WIN AN ALL-OUT WAR WITH THE COMMUNISTS.

THE STATEMENT OF MADAME SUN YAT SEN EARLIER THIS WEEK THAT REACTIONARIES IN BOTH CHINA AND THE UNITED STATES ARE SEEKING WAR, AND HER APPEAL FOR THE UNITED STATES TO WITHHOLD SUPPORT FROM THE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT APPEAR TO HAVE DRAMATIZED THE SITUATION AT THE CAPITOL.

SENATOR PEPPER (D-FLA) TOLD A REPORTER HE WOULD NOT WANT TO VOTE FOR THE MILITARY AID BILL IF THE "EQUIPMENT WHICH COULD BE SUPPLIED UNDER IT IS TO BE USED IN A CIVIL WAR TO CRUSH THE ANTI-GOVERNMENT FORCES."

PEPPER SAID, HOWEVER, IT MIGHT BE WELL TO ENACT THE LEGISLATION TO GIVE MARSHALL DISCRETION TO USE THE EQUIPMENT OR NOT.

ON THE HOUSE SIDE, WHERE THE BILL HAS BEEN FAVORABLY REPORTED BY THE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE, CHAIRMAN BLOOM (D-NY) SAID THAT HE WOULD WORK TO GET IT CLEARED BY THE RULES COMMITTEE FOR PROMPT HOUSE ACTION.

BUT OTHER LEADERS SAID THEY SAW LITTLE CHANCE OF PASSAGE AT THIS SESSION.

IN THE SENATE THE BILL IS BEFORE A FOREIGN RELATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE WITH NO EVIDENCE OF ANY INTENTION TO SPEED IT TO THE FLOOR.

WASHINGTON, JULY 24-(AP)-THE "BLACK BOOK", A DOCUMENTED VOLUME DEALING WITH NAZI CRIMES AGAINST THE JEWISH PEOPLE, WAS DISTRIBUTED TODAY TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

THE BOOK, SPONSORED BY WORLD JEWISH ORGANIZATIONS, IS DESIGNED TO "KEEP ALIVE THE FLAME OF INDIGNATION" AGAINST NAZI GERMANY, REP. CELLER (D-NY) TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE.

CELLER SAID THAT THE BOOK "IS A REMINDER OF THE HORRIBLE TREATMENT EXPERIENCED BY JEWS AT THE HANDS OF THE NABIS."

HE SAID THAT EVIDENCE CONTAINED IN THE BOOK, RELATING PERSONAL EXPERIENCES OF MANY OF THE AFFLICTED WHO MANAGED TO ESCAPE DEATH, HAD BEEN USED BY ASSOCIATE JUSTICE ROBERT H. JACKSON OF THE SUPREME COURT AT THE NUREMBURG WAR CRIMINALS TRIAL "WITH TELLING EFFECT."

HE ADDED THAT IT WAS THE HOPE OF THE JEWISH BLACK BOOK COMMITTEE, WHICH PREPARED THE VOLUME, THAT IT WOULD BE READ "BY EVERY LEADER IN EVERY WALK OF LIFE TO KEEP ALIVE THE FLAME OF INDIGNATION THAT NAZI BRUTALITY HAS OCCASIONED." HE SAID NAZIS CAUSED THE DEATHS OF MORE THAN 6,000,000 JEWS.

COPIES HAVE BEEN PUBLICLY PRESENTED TO THE MAYORS OF NEW YORK, BUFFALO, YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO, WITH FURTHER PRESENTATIONS PLANNED TO THE MAYORS OF LOS ANGELES, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, CLEVELAND, BOSTON, PHILADELPHIA "AND OTHER CITIES," CELLER SAID.

THE BOOK IS SPONSORED BY THE WORLD JEWISH CONGRESS, THE VAAD LEUMI OF PALESTINE (JEWISHING GOVERNING COUNCIL OF PALESTINE), THE JEWISH ANTI-FASCIST COMMITTEE OF SOVIET RUSSIA AND THE AMERICAN COMMITTEE OF JEWISH WRITERS, ARTISTS AND SCIENTISTS.

PLANS ARE BEING MADE, CELLER SAID, FOR DISTRIBUTION IN SOUTH AFRICA, CANADA, AUSTRALIA AND ENGLAND WITH LATER TRANSLATIONS INTO SPANISH, HEBREW, RUSSIAN, AND YIDDISH ALSO TO BE UNDERTAKEN.

Britain Plans Arab-Jewish Conference

British Seek Aid To Split Land: Arabs

London, July 25 (AP) — Arab sources in London said today that the British Government is exerting all possible influence on America in an effort to sell a plan to split Palestine into communal units of Jews and Arabs.

These sources said they were informed that recent violence in the Holy Land had convinced Britain there was no hope of establishing a peaceful state in which neither Jews nor Arabs would dominate.

DAY

At the same time, the Arabs say Britain is embarrassed by findings of the British-American committee of inquiry, which specifically recommended against partition of Palestine.

"Half-Way House" Discussed

As an alternative, Arabs say they are informed the British are striving to win American acceptance of a "half-way house," in which Palestine would be divided into Jewish and Arab areas similar to American counties.

Each communal unit would have local autonomy, the Arabs say, except where general co-ordination of service or defense required general authority of the mandatory power.

Executive Meeting Monday

The Jewish Agency, in London, meanwhile, said it had no knowledge of possible solutions under discussion by British-American negotiators in London, but said the agency's Executive — meeting in Paris next Monday—would decide on alternative policies which might apply according to future developments.

The Jewish view was represented as being that the human problem of settling 100,000 Jewish refugees was paramount, and after this was done it would be possible to hold discussions of Jews, Arabs and British for an amicable final settlement. (MDA)

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 25.—Great Britain announced today plans for an early conference of Arab and Jewish leaders on problems of Palestine and European Jewry, but the Jewish Agency declared it will boycott any talks which make immigration into Palestine of 100,000 Jewish refugees contingent upon Arab consent.

Arab sources at London reported the current Anglo-American conference here has reached virtual agreement on a plan to divide Palestine into communal units of Jews and Arabs, similar to American counties. They said they understood no decision had been reached yet on immigration. Under the reported plan, each communal unit would have local autonomy, except where general co-ordination of service or defense required general authority of the mandatory power [Britain].

British government spokesmen, without elaborating, said the conference might be called as a result of an agreement between Britain and the Arab League that the league be consulted before a decision is reached on implementation of the Anglo-American inquiry committee recommendation that 100,000 Jewish refugees be admitted to Palestine immediately.

A Foreign Office spokesman said invitations were issued today to the Arab League States of Egypt, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia to send representatives. "Other interested parties, including Arabs and Jews in Palestine," also will be invited.

No date has been fixed, but the spokesman said it was hoped the conference would be completed before the United Nations Assembly convenes Sept 23 at New York. The United States government will be invited to send observers to the conference, he added.

The Jewish Agency announced its threat of a boycott in a letter from Dr. Nahum Goldman, of the agency, to Henry F. Grady, State Department representative for President Truman's Cabinet committee on Palestine now in London for the current conference on the Holy Land.

The letter said the matter of admission of 100,000 immigrants into Palestine must be decided immediately without awaiting a decision on major policy for the Holy Land. Dr. Goldman said that if, for one reason or another, the matter is made subject to Arab consent, the Jewish Agency will be unable to participate in the negotiations.

Tension In Palestine Apparently Increasing

Jerusalem, July 25 (AP)—British Army headquarters today ordered all Jewish-owned shops, dwellings, restaurants, and entertainment establishments throughout Palestine placed out of bounds to British troops, and tension appeared increasing.

The radio station of the huge Jewish underground Hagana declared it expected British troops and police now would try to destroy the Jewish resistance movement in what it called the "second phase" of the Government's "attack on Palestine Jewry."

The "Voice of Israel" broadcast declared this second phase already had been planned before the bombing of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem Monday. The death toll in that bombing had risen today to 64, with 55 persons still reported missing.

The British arrested 2,500 Jews in a roundup June 29 and seized hidden arms in raids.

Meanwhile, a Jewish Agency spokesman sharply challenged British charges that some of its leaders had ordered sabotage and violence in Palestine, while an Arab official demanded that the Jewish Agency be dissolved. (ADD)

Bombing Toll Rises to 63

Hope Abandoned For Missing in Jerusalem Hotel

G. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, July 25—(AP)—The death toll of Monday's bombing of the King David Hotel rose to 63 and the last of missing dropped to 55 today as medical officers and engineers at the scene abandoned hope that any victims were still alive in the rubble.

Fatigued but grimly determined soldiers continued, nevertheless, to plow through a slowly diminishing pile of debris. Six persons had been rescued previously from the ruins.

Forty seven persons still are confined to hospitals.

Battle-hardened soldiers who had seen action through most of the war declared there was "nothing worse than this," after extricating the mutilated bodies of the victims.

Tension rose sharply following the issuance of the British white paper blaming the Jewish Agency for Palestine for certain acts of violence by underground forces. There was no crystallized reaction as yet, however.

Reports last night that explosions had occurred along the coast of Haifa were attributed today to night target practice by British naval units.

Rumors of underground attacks on Haifa police stations, which caused an uproar throughout Palestine around midnight, stemmed from a "mistaken identity" shooting affary in which police and military sentries fired at each other in the dark. No one was injured.

Counts In White Paper Denied By Jews

Jerusalem, July 25 (AP)—A spokesman for the Jewish Agency for Palestine said today that the organization "challenges the British Government to prove" that the agency was responsible for the composition, authorization or dispatch of any of the telegrams mentioned in the White Paper which blamed the agency for certain acts of violence by underground forces.

"By adducing a jumble of alleged telegrams stated to have been sent nine months ago, of extracts from broadcasts by the 'Voice of Israel' station and of items culled from publications of terrorist groups, the British Government claims to have obtained proof of co-operation between some members of the Jewish Agency and Hagana and of co-ordination in some cases btween Hagana and terrorist bands," the spokesman said.

"Not a single one of the alleged telegrams emanated from the Jewish Agency in Palestine," he added.

Communists Stage Protest On Food

London, July 25 (AP)—Forty angry women marched from a Communist Housewives League meeting to the swank Criterion Restaurant in Picadilly today, jumped up on chairs, and waved signs declaring "Plenty of grub if you can pay."

The demonstration, which ended quickly and peaceably, was similar to another by member of the same group at the Ministry of Food, and came as British bread rationing in its fifth day was blamed for the "cracking up" of bread deliveryman for extra work and worry over rationing coupons.

To Get Canadian Wheat

John Strachey, food Minister, meanwhile, announced the agreement by which Britain will buy 600,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in the next four years, but he said i twould have "no direct bearing" on how long bread rationing would last.

BEVENS DEFENDS TYROL CONTROL GIVEN ITALY

LONDON, July 25—(AP) Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin defended in the Houses of Commons tonight his agreement at the Paris four-power foreign ministers council permitting Italy to retain the South Tyrol.

Facing critics, including members of his own party, the British foreign secretary said the solution for the Tyrolean problem was "an Anschluss" southward, merging the economic and trade interests of Austria and Italy. Bevin asked what was to prevent Italians and Austrians from having joint public utility companies, and said he had put that question to both countries.

Several members spoke sharply against denying Austria's claim to the territory which was hers before the First World War. (ADD)

Soviet Grain Receipts Rise

LONDON, July 25 (AP).—Russian farmers have delivered more than 250,000,000 pounds of grain to state elevators—ten times the amount delivered by the same date last year, Moscow radio said today.

YANKS STUDY LONDON

London, July 25 (A. P.).—A party of American students of archeology will spend the next few weeks digging among ancient ruins of bombed Britain. They arrived in London today, and will do their first work on Roman remains exposed in Southwark, the principal borough of London on the south side of the Thames.

British archeologists have discovered medieval ditches and a Roman house in the region of London, where all the Roman roads once converged to cross the Thames at the original London Bridge. They also have laid bare in London what may prove to be a whole Roman street.

The American students, who will be joined by a party of Dutch archeologists, also will work in Canterbury and Southampton. Ranging in age from 19 to 24 years, they include Lane W. Barton of East Orange, N. J., and John Stern of New York city, both from Harvard; David C. Huntington of Princeton, N. J., a Princeton student; and Francis Eastmann Wood of Newark, N. J., from Yale.

Eire to Request Membership in U. N.

Dublin, July 25 (A. P.).—The Irish Parliament today unanimously empowered Prime Minister De Valera to seek membership for Eire in the United Nations. De Valera said the application would be made soon and that the United Kingdom would be the sponsor.

He believed, he added, that Eire would have a better chance of avoiding future war by joining the U. N., which he described as "not so valuable as it might be, but the best that can be got at the moment."

Next Step in Atom Control Controversy Up to Soviet

L. HAUCK

NEW YORK, July 25—(AP) The next step in the debate over a United Nations atomic energy control system appeared to be up to Russia tonight in the face of Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko's flat refusal to accept key points of the U. S. plan, including elimination of the veto.

Gromyko was expected to take the floor at another closed committee meeting at 3 p.m. (EDT) tomorrow to open discussions on his plan calling for immediate outlawing of atomic weapons.

Willing To Listen

While continuing to press for adoption of the Baruch proposals, a spokesman for the U. S. delegation said: "We will now let Gromyko carry the ball for a while and listen to what all the delegates have to say about his proposals."

The Russian plan is built around an international convention to outlaw the production and use of atomic weapons. It differs sharply from the U. S. view that weapons should be banned only after effective controls have been set up.

Advisers to Bernard M. Baruch, U. S. delegate to the Atomic Energy Control Commission, remained confident that their plan could be sold to the nations. They disagreed particularly with Gromyko's contention that the proposed atomic development authority would weaken the U.N. structure and hoped to present more "Convincing arguments" on this point at a later stage.

In his statement yesterday Gromyko rejected U. S. suggestions for surrender of the veto power on atomic matters and the granting of control powers to the proposed atomic development authority. He reiterated that the core of the system should be the Security Council, where the Big Five holds the power to veto.

Want Individual Control

Russia also wants control to be handled by individual nations under terms of a treaty while the United States favors international supervision.

Meanwhile, it was learned authoritatively that Dr. Eelco N. Van Kleffens, new chairman of the council, would summon a special committee on membership next Wednesday. He was said to have prepared a schedule calling for starting actual consideration of applications Aug. 5. The council has until Aug. 20 to report.

Albania, Outer Mongolia, Transjordan Afghanistan have applied. Siam is expected to formalize its bid soon, and Sweden, Iceland and Ireland are considering applications.

It also was learned that a Siamese delegation would leave Bankok next Tuesday to present Siam's border dispute with French IndoChina to the council. Indications were that the delegation would pause in Washington for consultations and that the matter actually would not reach the council for another two weeks.

U.S. Holds Firm For Baruch's Atom Plan

H. HASSELSON

New York, July 25 (AP)—An authorized source said today that the United States would continue to press for adoption of the Baruch atomic-control plan despite Russia's declaration that she could not accept the key United States proposals.

This source said the United States delegation did not consider yesterday's statement by Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko as Russia's final position on the atomic control question, but regarded it merely as an "argument" against the Baruch plan.

"We believe our plan can be sold," the informant continued. "We believe the facts will bring everybody in line with our view."

U.S. Position Same

He added that the United States position had not been changed as a result of Gromyko's declaration and said there was no indication that it would change.

"We haven't any alternative suggestions in mind," the informant said.

Russia's position was made known at a closed session of the Atomic Commission's Committee No. 2 when Gromyko spoke at length on United States Memorandum No. 3, dealing with the relationship between the proposed atomic development authority and the United Nations.

This memorandum covered such vital questions as the surrender of the veto on atomic matters and the powers which the Atomic Development Authority would have.

Reference To Memo

"The United States proposals in their present form cannot be accepted in any way by the Soviet Union either as a whole or as separate parts," Gromyko said, referring to the memorandum.

He said flatly that Russia would not surrender her veto rights or give up her sovereignty to the extent of permitting international inspection of atomic facilities.

Gromyko declared that the Atomic Development Authority, as proposed by the United States representative, Bernard M. Baruch, was of "such a character that in reality such an authority would be independent of the Security Council and would have almost full autonomy."

A member of the United States delegation said the delegation was not surprised by Gromyko's attitude and that more statements like this were expected.

Not Seen As Crisis

He said Gromyko's position was in keeping with previous Russian statements and, for this reason, the United States delegation did not feel that the declaration created anything "resembling a crisis."

Meanwhile, Committee No. 2 will turn temporarily from the Baruch plan to Russia's proposals when it meets tomorrow afternoon. At that time, Gromyko is expected to present arguments in favor of his plan for an international convention to outlaw the production and use of atomic weapons.

Meanwhile, Acting Secretary General Arkady A. Sobolev said he did not consider an Egyptian note on the Palestine question as an "official request" to put the question on the agenda of the assembly.

The Security Council has decided to postpone from August 1 to August 20 the deadline for reports from its committee on membership on applications for membership.

Truman Still Backs U.S. Atomic Plan

Washington, July 25. (AP)—President Truman today reiterated his advocacy of the American plan for control of atomic energy internationally, notwithstanding Russian rejection to it at a United Nations commission meeting earlier this week.

Asked at his news conference for reaction to the Russian views stated by Ambassador Andrei Gromyko, the President said he had no comment except that he was still behind the American plan.

A communique on today's closed meeting said the commission would make arrangements to discuss these potential sites with the local representatives of the towns and counties concerned.

The exact boundaries of the 15 potential sites still on the list have not yet been defined, it was stated, and many adjustments may have to be made as a result of the proposed discussions with local authorities.

The communique said the commission hopes to obtain the fullest possible information on the local effect of any particular selection on the communique concerned before making its final recommendations.

UN Picking List of Sites For New Home

New York, July 25—(AP)—The United Nations Headquarters Commission was called into session today to examine a list of potential sites for permanent UN headquarters in Westchester County, N. Y., and Fairfield County, Conn., with a view to reducing the number of sites to be discussed with local authorities.

The commission tackled this problem yesterday on the basis of a lengthy list submitted by the Sites Committee and decided to continue its study at another closed session today.

A communique said "a considerable number of potential sites ranging from two to 40 square miles in area were suggested in this (Sites Committee's) report and received preliminary consideration by the commission."

Sir Angus Fletcher, chairman of the commission, said that each potential site would be given thorough consideration.

By this means, he said, as well as by further investigation by the planning staff and the sites committee, "it is hoped that the list of sites will be reduced to a small number and so facilitate the task of the General Assembly in making its final selection."

The commission also announced that it had received a report from the Sites and General Questions Committee, outlining the functional activities which could be accommodated in the various sized areas listed in the General Assembly's resolution of last February—two, five, 10, 20 and 40 square miles.

The conclusions of the report were that:

1. A two-square-mile area could contain only the principal office buildings, including restaurants and daytime facilities for visitors.
2. A five-square-mile area could contain the entire official buildings district, including delegation offices and a part of the community area.
3. A 10-square-mile area could accommodate almost all functions, provided topography is selected that is favorable to building development. Some housing probably would have to be located outside the area, as well as accompanying services.
4. A 20-square-mile area could accommodate practically all functions except the "protective belt."
5. A 40-square-mile area could contain all functions except those designated "external."

U. N. Commission Reduces List Of Possible Home Sites to 15

NEW YORK, July 25 — (AP) The United Nations Headquarters commission announced tonight that it had narrowed the number of potential sites for permanent U. N. headquarters down to 15, all in Westchester county, N. Y., and Fairfield county, Conn.

The possible sites now on the list include three in each of the five categories of size: two, five, 10, 20, and 40 square miles. This number will be screened again after further study and reduced to one in each category.

From the five sites, the General Assembly will be able to make its final choice in September according to the number of square miles it considers necessary.

BIDAULT SAYS US LOAN 'MORE THAN EXPECTED'

PARIS, July 25 — (AP) President Georges Bidault told the Foreign Affairs and Finance Commissions of the constituent assembly today that the American loan to France was "perhaps less than we needed, but more than we had hoped for."

He and Leon Blum, who negotiated the $1,750,000,000 credit, urged the commissions to report favorably on the loan to the assembly, which must ratify it to make it effective.

Paris Wages, Prices Rise

Paris, July 25 (AP)—Paris food prices, transportation fares and advertising rates jumped today and Paris newspapers, fearing a run of inflation, told the news in bold headlines.

Although the basic price of meat had not been established, bread went up from about 6.72 cents to 11.76 cents for two pounds and milk from about 7.5 cents to 9.2 cents per quart.

The increases generally were attributed to 15 to 30 per cent salary raises going into effect throughout the country. In the newspaper field, where a 30 per cent pay-roll increase was made retroactive to June 1, advertising rates are going up about 20 per cent.

Railroad fares have been increased 10 per cent and freight rates 30 per cent, while hotel rates went up 50 per cent last month.

Eisenhower's Gift Auto Traded In by DeGaulle

Cadillac Swapped for Three Smaller French Cars

PARIS, July 25 (AP).—General Charles de Gaulle has swapped a luxurious Cadillac, presented to him in 1944 by General Dwight D. Eisenhower as a personal gift, for three smaller French automobiles, a Paris dealer said today.

The dealer, Walter Wainey, said he took the Cadillac in a trade for a sixteen-horsepower Delahaye, a thirteen-horsepower Hotchkiss, and an eleven-horsepower Citroen after De Gaulle, "who has extremely simple tastes, asked me several days ago if I would exchange the Cadillac for something less imposing."

De Gaulle, fighting French leader now in retirement after serving for a time as Provisional President, ordered the Delahaye given to a French relief agency, Watney said, and is keeping the Citroen for himself and the Hotchkiss for his wife.

REICH REPORTED ARMING RUSSIA

Allies Hear Reds Employ German War Plants.

Berlin, July 25 (A. P.).—Reliable reports from the Russian zone of Germany indicated today that former German war plants there are producing arms material despite the Potsdam agreement, which calls for complete demilitarization and destruction of the Reich war potential.

American and British authorities have been receiving such evidence from beyond the zonal frontier for months. They have had no opportunity to confirm it. They expressed no alarm, however, at what they termed a contravention of allied agreements.

Responsible informants said that it was significant that the Russians so far have refused to allow any quadripartite economic mission to enter their zone to see how far demilitarization has proceeded.

Russia Seen as Weak.

"We take these reports that former Nazi plants now are forging war goods for the Russians as a sign of how seriously the war must have affected Russian economy and how weak the Russians must feel in relation to the West, particularly because we have the atom bomb," said one informant.

"To the Russians, it apparently seemed essential immediately to begin rebuilding the strength of their armed forces by the quickest means. With a shortage of man power at home, it would be much easier for the Russians and the results would be quicker to leave the factories where they were, instead of dismantling them, and capitalizing on the highly skilled German labor which is on the spot."

Personnel Increased.

The reports coming from the Russian zone, unconfirmable but checked as closely as possible by interested American and British authorities said:

An armor plate factory in Saxony has increased its personnel from a wartime peak of 4,000 men to 6,000.

In Leipzig, the Hugo Schneider works is manufacturing land and sea mines. The Koerting electrical works is making searchlights and transformers and the Meyer and Wichert steel works is making tank tracks.

In some Thuringian newspapers, advertisements have appeared ordering all airplane technicians, designers, draftsmen, mechanics and even pilots to register with the authorities.

The Junkers works as Dessau was reported manufacturing 280 airplane engines a month.

Says Reds Block Inquiry.

Washington, July 25 (A. P.).—American officials said today that the United States is pressing at every opportunity for an Allied commission to investigate the extent of disarmament in all zones of Germany, but so far the Russians have stood firmly against any such survey.

Lichfield Guard Says Protest Meant Being Shipped to Front

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, July 25—(AP) A former Lichfield guard testified today that an officer threatened to ship him to the front lines for protesting when other guards jabbed American soldier-prisoners with clubs.

"We're used to guards protesting around here and our usual treatment for that is to ship them to the front lines," the officer was quoted by Cpl. Howard Jones, of Muskogee, Okla., 22-year-old University of Chicago student who served a month as guard in the Army's Lichfield, England, guardhouse in 1944.

Jones was the first witness against Capt. Joseph A. Robertson, of Toledo, Ohio, whose trial opened today. Robertson is accused of aiding and authorizing cruelty to prisoners while commander of a company operating the Lichfield guardhouse. The guardhouse sometimes contained as many as a thousand soldiers involved in court martial charges.

The officer to whom he protested was identified by Jones only as a "Lieutenant Bronstein."

Jones testified that prisoners were jabbed with clubs, deprived of meals, and punished in other ways at the camp.

The defense protested that such evidence failed to involve Robertson who was not named by the witness, but the prosecution promised to show later that Robertson relayed to guards instructions from the Lichfield commander to "be as tough as you like" on prisoners.

The prosecution declared it would prove that punishment of soldiers under the "get rough policy" at Lichfield "became more severe" after Robertson's company took over the guardhouse administration.

The military court, meanwhile, took action to obtain defense witnesses whom Robertson complained the War department had failed to provide despite his repeated requests.

The court sent a letter urging that five officers and two enlisted men requested by Robertson be brought from the United States "at the earliest practicable date" to testify in his behalf.

Court Told Lichfield Worse Under Robertson

Bad Nauheim, Germany, July 25 (AP)—The prosecution opened its case against Capt. Joseph A. Robertson today with a declaration that punishments of prisoners at the United States Army's Lichfield guardhouse "became more severe" after his company took over guardhouse administration.

The military court trying Robertson on charges of cruelty was disclosed to have sent a letter urging that five officers and two enlisted men requested by Robertson be brought from the United States "at the earliest practicable date" to testify in his behalf.

Assembly Never Sent

Most of the witnesses, the defense contended, once were assembled at Camp Kilmer, N.J., for transportation to Germany, but "for some unknown reason" were never dispatched.

Robertson, 42-year-old former cleaning-shop proprietor of Toledo, Ohio, was commanding officer of the guardhouse at Lichfield, England, in November, 1944.

Robertson has testified in other Lichfield trials—in which nine enlisted guards and two officers have been convicted—that the Lichfield commander, Col. James A. Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., told him to "be as rough as you like" on prisoners.

"More Severe" Under Him

"Robertson will concede that that policy might be interpreted to go so far as even to kill a prisoner," said the prosecutor, Capt. David M. Proctor, of Kansas City, Mo.

Proctor charged Robertson transmitted Kilian's statement of policy to other Lichfield officers, who passed it on to guards.

"This policy was in effect before the 316th (Robertson's outfit) arrived, but al punishments became more frequent and more severe after its advent," said Proctor.

Defense Lawyer Claims Hess Made Sacrifice to Gain Peace

NUERNBERG, July 25—(AP) A defense attorney declared today that Rudolf Hess flew to Great Britain May 10, 1941, in a sacrifice of power and personal freedom made for the German people, peace and the entire world.

Dr. Alfred Seidl told the international military tribunal that the Hess mission was one of humanity and not, as the prosecution charged, "to campaign against Russia in a move [illegible] Germany's rear."

Seidl spoke at great length about the unjustness of the Versailles treaty, the difficulties with Poland over the Polish corridor and the Free City of Danzig, and Hitler's complete domination of everything in Germany, and of the tribunal's charter.

Not until near the end of his summation did he discuss Hess and his defense.

The tribunal sat 30 minutes past its usual quitting time to allow Seidl to finish the last of the defense summations, clearing the way for U. S. Prosecutor Justice Robert H. Jackson to begin final prosecution summaries when the court reconvenes tomorrow morning.

Hess was absent from the morning session because of abdominal cramps. He appeared at the afternoon session when Seidl began summation but left the court at the midafternoon recess.

Seidl said that no criminal acts as an individual had been imputed to Hess, and that Hitler's complete power "should exclude assumption of a common plan of conspiracy." He declared that Hess had only honorary rank in the SS and SD and that his posts carried no command or authority.

German politician, ruling it contained irrelevancies and objectionable references to the Versailles treaty.

The International Military Tribunal told Alfred Seidl, the lawyer, that his plea would be accepted only if certain deletions were made. His original summation was rejected early this month on the same grounds.

Jackson Delays Rebuttal

Justice Robert H. Jackson, United States prosecutor, delayed his prosecution rebuttal until tomorrow. He did not wish to start his address on one day and have to postpone its conclusion until the next.

The Hess summation was expected to be heard later in the day, at the conclusion of the final plea for Hans Fritzsche, former deputy propaganda minister.

Fritzsche's attorney, Heinz Fritz, said in summing up that his client depended entirely on official German handouts as news sources and that, while it had been established that Dr. Joseph Goebbels was a notorious liar, it had not been shown that Fritzsche was either a liar or a fanatic.

He said Fritzsche made headway in his job because he was qualified as a journalist and because he "talked better than many others"—not because he was a conspirator against peace.

Hess's Defense Again Refused At Nuernberg

ONE DEAD, 6 HURT IN MUNICH RIOT

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 25—(AP) Rioting involving Jewish displaced persons and Germans near Munich last night led to the death of one Jew and injury of at least six other persons before American troops restored order, the U. S. Third Army announced tonight.

Five of the injured were German civilians.

From 50 to 100 Jews from the Wolfrathausen displaced persons camp, 15 miles south of Munich, and scores of German civilians participated in the clash, the announcement said.

American constabulary troopers and military police broke up the disorders after pushing back into the camp a number of Jews who paraded and demonstrated in the town of Wolfrathausen.

One Jew was killed and another wounded in shooting which started at a road block set up by German police near the town, the Third Army said, giving this account:

The police stopped a car containing displaced persons and, while they were attempting to check the Jews' passes, four men "came out of the woods near the road block and surrounded the police in an effort to take their carbines." The men were "believed to be comrades of the displaced persons."

After the shooting, 50 to 100 Jews came out of the camp and attacked German civilians in the town.

Detained Yanks' Names Kept Secret

Frankfurt, Germany, July 25—(AP)—U. S. Army officials stood firm today on their refusal to disclose the number and names of Americans being detained in European countries which are under Russian influence.

It was learned, however, that several Americans have been or still are under "prolonged detention" in eastern, central and southeastern Europe, and that high level negotiations are underway with Poland for the release of two U. S. soldiers held for alleged crimes in that country.

One soldier detained in Poland was identified here only by the name of Dagley. The other was Pvt. Melvin R. Best, Butte, Mont., who was arrested in Katowice last December in connection with the killing of a Polish militiaman.

United States proposals that the pair be released for trial in American courts have been met with Polish counter-proposals.

One high U. S. officer, in declining to reveal the number of other Americans held, said this information was classified as secret or confidential.

"My personal opinion is that the American public has no right to know about the number of troops that might be held in eastern Europe," he added.

The Army has ordered rigid control of the conduct of Americans visiting Soviet-influenced territories to prevent "embarrassment" to the United States and to avoid additional cases of "prolonged detention." The order, made public yesterday, applies to American civilians as well as military personnel. It specifies that all persons planning to leave for eastern Europe must be briefed by "officers of superior rank."

Meanwhile, relatives of Capt. Harold Cobin, who has been missing since July 4 when he apparently went on an unauthorized trip into the Russian occupation zone of Germany, were reported to have petitioned the War and State Departments to take all possible steps to find him.

Mrs. Mary Cobin, his wife, who arrived in Berlin July 10 to join her husband, said that her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Elliott, New York City, "felt so worried about her father that she telephoned Washington to do its utmost to help."

Cobin, 53 and Lt. George Wyatt of Oklahoma City, Okla., were last seen at a railroad station, and apparently intended to go to Oranienburg, in the Russian zone. Russian officials have informed U. S. officers that they do not know the whereabouts of the pair.

Jew Killed in Riot in Germany

U. S. Troops Restore Order as Displaced Persons Fight Police and Civilians.

Frankfurt, July 25 (A. P.).—One Jew was killed and six other persons, including five German civilians, were injured last night in fighting between Jewish displaced persons and German police and others near Munich, the United States Third Army announced tonight. American troops were called to restore order.

Scores of German civilians and from fifty to 100 Jews from the Wolfrathausen Displaced Persons Camp, fifteen miles south of Munich, were involved.

A shooting fray on a road outside Wolfrathausen started the riot, which then spread rapidly to the town, the Third Army said. Jews from the camp began a parade and demonstration which finally was broken up by American Military Police and United States Constabulary troopers.

The announcement said that the fighting began when the German police set up a road block near Wolfrathausen and stopped a car containing displaced persons, in order to check their passes. While the Germans were doing so, the announcement continued, four men "came out of the woods near the road block and surrounded the police in an effort to take their carbines." These four men were "believed to be comrades of the displaced persons," it was stated.

A Jew was killed and another was wounded in the resultant gunplay, the announcement continued, and added: "Later, between fifty and 100 Jews from the Wolfrathausen camp staged a parade and demonstration in the streets of the town, attacked German civilians and wounded five. United States troops were called to the riot area and pushed the rioters back into the camp."

Gas Kills U. S. Woman in Reich

Frankfurt, July 25 (A. P.).—Army headquarters announced today that Miss Katherine F. Cline, 31 years old, of Baltimore, a clerk in the State Department office here, had been found dead in the gas-filled kitchen of her Frankfurt apartment on Tuesday.

A note from Miss Cline addressed to her sister, Mrs. Charles A. Schweiger of Baltimore, was found in the apartment, the announcement said.

Corporal Beaten To Death

Frankfurt, Germany, July 25 (AP). The provost marshal's office of the United States 3d Army said today Corporal Paul L. Hige, 37, Fairbury, Neb., was beaten to death in Kitlingen Saturday night.

Hannegan And Party Arrive In Frankfurt

Frankfurt, Germany, July 25 (AP). Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan and other members of his world-touring joint congressional commission arrived here today for brief conferences with Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, European commander.

The party, including W. Stuart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War for Air, and Lieut. Gen. John K. Cannon, Army Air Force training commander, planned to leave Frankfurt late today for Berlin, where the party will talk with Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American deputy military governor of Germany.

COMMUNISTS BACK ITALIAN PREMIER

ROME, July 25—(AP) The Communists made it rough for Premier Alcide De Gasperi in the constituent assembly today but finally joined with the premier's Christian Democrats and the Socialists in giving a large vote of confidence to the Italian Republic's first government.

Out of 448 deputies, 388 voted for the government and 53 against it. There were seven abstentions.

Earlier the entire assembly, on a standing vote, unanimously approved a resolution urging the government to continue its defense of what was described as "The right of Italy to a just and honorable peace." The resolution, passed amid cries of "Long Live Italy" was in effect an endorsement of De Gasperi's foreign policy.

The vote of confidence came after the premier had spent more than two hours answering criticisms of the government made at a recent assembly session.

Believing his coalition government would not likely be voted down only a few days before the opening of the Peace Conference in Paris, De Gasperi went after his critics without gloves.

Three times he stirred the Communist benches to roars of protest which assembly President Giuseppe Saragat was powerless to gavel down.

These came when the premier stated or implied that:

1—Disorders growing out of present strikes were "dangerously" similar to those which served as a pretext for the rise of fascism in the early 1920s, and the action of striking labor unions at Mantua in blockading highways and requiring passes from union headquarters to enter and leave the city was no better than that of Fascist "action squads."

Must End Suspicion

2—The Communists must clear themselves of suspicion of taking orders from Russia before they could criticize his efforts to reach an understanding with western European nations having dominantly Catholic parties like the Christian Democrats.

3—It was only natural that the Catholic church should look with disfavor upon Italian Communists in view of the persecution the church was undergoing in areas occupied or influenced by Soviet Russia.

The premier promised to continue his fight to save Italy's present borders. He warned, however, that agitation created by the four-power foreign ministers decisions to cede some frontier areas to France and to internationalize Trieste only created "irritation" in Britain which still remembered Mussolini's unprovoked declaration of war in 1940.

Duce's Estate Confiscated On Behalf Of Italians

Rome, July 25 (AP)—On the third anniversary of the fall of Fascism, the properties of Benito Mussolini have been confiscated on behalf of the Italian people.

Overruling pleas of Il Duce's widow, Donn Rachele, and of his children that they would be left without means of support if the entire estate were taken for Il Duce's sins, the tenth section of the Supreme Court agreed with the Finance Ministry's contentions that everything should be taken.

The court gave no indication of the size of the estate.

May Give Some Assistance

However, it reserved the right to investigate the economic status of the family and, if its situation proved desperate, make provision for it.

during the court session, formally denied dispatches from Naples published here that Mussolini's youngest children, Romano and Anna Maria, had opened a cabaret in a fisherman's hut at Ischia.

Nephew Reported Released

Meanwhile, dispatches from Naples said that Vito Mussolini, nephew of the former Duce, who was sentenced to twelve years last December for his part in the Fascist regime, was released from Procida prison last night under the terms of the recent "amnesty of the republic."

Rally Banned In Trieste

Rome, July 25 (AP)—The Italian News Service Ansa said in a Trieste dispatch that the Allied Military Government had banned a demonstration scheduled for today by the Italo-Slav Anti-Fascist Union, a pro-Yugoslav organization, because of "present disturbed conditions" in the Adriatic city.

Ansa said the AMG had explained that all demonstrations would be prohibited until conditions became more settled. The ban was criticized bitterly by the Left-wing press.

AMG policies in Trieste were also criticized in Rome last night, when Palmiro Togliatti, leader of the Italian Communist party, told the Constituent Assembly that Allied seizure of locked-out shipyards at Monfalcone "did not help Italo-Yugoslav relations."

A dispatch to Il Messagero said that police at Gorizia used tear-gas bombs and clubs yesterday to break up an unauthorized demonstration there of approximately 1,000 Slavs who gathered for a sendoff to a delegation entraining for Ljubljana.

Twenty persons were treated for slight injuries, the dispatch said, while ten were arrested.

WARSAW REGIME ACCUSES ANDERS

Warsaw, July 24 (Delayed) (A. P.).—A Foreign Ministry spokesman declared today that N. S. Z. terroristic activities in Poland were being financed and directed by Gen. Wladyslaw Anders and his aids operating from the Polish center at Regensburg in the American zone of Germany. Anders was using large sums of American money and equipment, he said.

Anders commanded the Exiled Polish Army against Germany during the war. The Poles fought mainly in Italy under Allied Headquarters.

The spokesman said that the Polish security police have charged that Anders was sending agents into Poland to organize anti-Government activity, and that many had parachuted into the republic. He asserted that the police recently seized one, Edmund Zieron, who was accused of maintaining an outpost in Czecho-Slovakia from which saboteurs and spies from Anders were flown into Poland. The spokesman cited a long list of officers associated with Anders and the former Polish Government in Exile at London who, he said, were active in liaison work with terror bands in Poland.

The spokesman asserted that one, Mieczyslaw Blaczkiewicz, had been arrested recently and had told questioners that Anders gave him $8,000.

Poland Abandons Taxpaying in Kind

WARSAW (AP)—The government is abolishing the "deliveries in kind" system under which millions of peasants were required to pay their taxes in provisons instead of money.

The plan, devised after the provisional government came to power a year ago, caused much discontent among peasants. Government officials, too, never succeeded in making full collections.

The council of ministers, announcing abolition of the system, said the collected foodstuffs had contributed greatly to keeping large towns and cities supplied.

With the end of it, peasants can sell their goods in the "free market."

Russians Have Faults, Too

Moscow, July 25 (AP)—The reporter Ilya Ehrenburg, who has written a series of articles critical of the United States, stated in Izvestia today that Russia and the Russians have their faults too.

He listed these as bureaucracy, occasional rudeness and technical backwardness. Telephone service, he said, sometimes isn't too good.

Ehrenburg's comments were made in a report on impressions of his trip to the United States, where he visited New York and the Southern States and asserted that he found race prejudice America's "fiercest and most shameful illness."

He said he liked American literature and architecture and that the Russians could learn something from Hollywood, despite "the stunning triviality" among its movie productions.

World Executive Of Lutherans Meets

Stockholm, July 25 (AP)—The Lutheran World Convention Executive opened its first regular post-war meeting today at Upsala with Sweden's Archbishop Erling Eidem presiding. The three-day session was aimed at restoring the convention as a world cooperative agency.

American Representative Clifford Ansgar Nelson, of St. Paul, Minn., said he had been traveling since April in Czechoslovakia, Austria, France and Germany to assist Baltic refugees settle in Alaska or Canada.

Nelson said he believed the Lutheran Church had a good hold on Europe's people, but needed spiritual and material help, which the convention intends to supply. In the past five years the convention used $50,000,000 for similar work in Europe.

PRIEST KILLINGS O.L.D. ACCUSATIONS YUGOSLAVS CLAIM

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 25—(AP) The Yugoslav Ministry of Information asserted today that reports that Premier Marshal Tito had launched a terroristic anti-Catholic policy of killing priests were "old accusations renewed to coincide with the Paris peace conference."

(A Vatican source said yesterday that an estimate of more than 200 priests being executed in Yugoslavia since the end of the war was "not, according to Vatican information, exaggerated." More than 400 priests were said to have been tried in recent months.)

A spokesman for the information ministry asserted:

"Certain circles abroad always have tried to spread propaganda that Tito advocates an anti-Catholic policy, and today they are timing their charges to coincide with the Paris Peace Conference in hopes of making the people believe there are disorders in Yugoslavia."

The spokesman said some priests had been executed since Tito took power, but asserted that "they were tried as war criminals, not as priests."

The official said a recent dispatch saying 230 priests had been killed since April, of whom 198 had no trial, was a "figment of someone's imagination."

Denies Persecution

He denied there was any religious persecution under Tito's regime and quoted from a recent speech in which the president of the Slovenian government asserted: "There is no religious persecution in Yugoslavia, there never was and there never will be." Slovenia is overwhelmingly Catholic.

The ministry said many Catholic priests fought on the side of the Ustachi against Tito's partisans and that there were times after the puppet forces fled the scene of battle that the priests continued to fight.

Many Killed in Battle

"They were killed in battle," the spokesman said. "They were not the victims of religious persecution."

He asserted that a Catholic priest Ivan Majstorovic, was formerly governor of an Ustachi concentration camp at Jasenovac where he said 800,000 persons were killed by the "independent state of Croatia," a creation of the German occupation forces.

"Twenty days after the liberation of Zagreb, everyone in the Jasenovac camp was slaughtered and their bodies were dumped into the Sava river," the spokesman said. "There was no mystery about the death of Majstorovic. He was tried in Zagreb as a criminal, convicted and executed. Neither this nor any other cases of criminals being brought to justice can be twisted into stories of religious persecution."

Istanbul General Applies Gag To Press

Istanbul, July 25 (AP)—The military commander of Istanbul, acting to break tension which has been building up since Sunday's election, announced today that "action" would be taken against any newspaper disturbing the "tranquillity of the public."

The immediate effect of the warning was that few papers were expected to publish a formal statement by Jelal Bayar, leader of Turkey's opposition Democrat party, asserting Government election officials falsified the returns and that party supporters were "menaced, beaten and wounded."

Democrats Lose Heavily

Democratic party spokesmen at Ankara said protests were pouring in from widespread areas against the election results, which gave the Democrats only 66 of the new National Assembly's 465 seats. One observer said the protests carried a tone of "effervescence and nervousness."

The greatest tension was reported from Izmir, where 1,000 Democrats were expected to attend a protest mass meeting today, despite a warning from the Governor not to assemble.

Izmir, which the Democrats claim is one of their strongholds, failed to get a single Democrat among sixteen elected deputies.

Gen. Asim Tinaztepe, military governor of Istanbul—which is still under a state of siege—declared in a proclamation that the military until now had "tolerated and taken no action against critical publications in order to grant free elections."

Then he added:

"Now that elections have taken place with order and security we will not tolerate publications which may disturb the tranquillity of the public. Action will be taken against such publications."

An editor asked the General to define explicitly to what limits papers might go and Tinaztepe replied the proclamation spoke for itself.

CHOU HASTENS TO MARSHALL

Summons To Communist Hints New China Parley

Nanking, Friday, July 26 (AP)—Possibility of a resumption of negotiations to terminate China's expanding civil strife brightened today as Gen. Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator, speeded back to the capital from Shanghai at the request of Gen. George C. Marshall, Special American Envoy.

Hears Railroad Is Sought

Before leaving Shanghai, Chou said in an interview that the Communists wanted an unconditional truce with no time limit. Once this is achieved, he added, the way would be paved for a reorganization of the Government, long sought by the Communists.

Chou said he had heard indirectly that the central government would insist on taking over the South Lunghai railroad from the Communists as a condition for a new truce.

"If this is so, civil war will continue and expand," the Communist general said.

Ridiculing reports that the Communists intended to attack in the direction of Nanking and Shanghai, Chou said his party's attitude was to press for a cessation of hostilities and arrange for dispatching truce teams into the field.

Armored Trains Patrol

Armored trains, however, began a patrol of the Shanghai-Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo railroads, a Shanghai dispatch said.

These steps were taken following the alleged appearance of several hundred Communists near the industrial town of Wusih on the Shanghai-Nanking railroad. The band reportedly vanished under pursuit of railway guards.

The Communist radio at Yenan reported Thursday that fierce fighting continued in Shantung, Kiangsu, Shansi and the Anhwei border region. It charged that 500,000 Government troops in several central provinces sought the "total extermination" of some 50,000 Communist-led troops, mostly veterans of the war against Japan.

SAY CHIANG'S MEN ADVANCE 50 MILES

Nanking, July 25 (A. P.).—Chinese Government troops were conceded by the Communists today to have penetrated fifty miles into Communist areas north of the Yangtze River in Kiangsu Province—north of the great cities of Nanking and Shanghai. Contending that 500,000 Government men were involved and that 20,000 had been lost in the operation to date, the Communists said that this was a full-scale offensive by the Government along a 130-mile front.

A Government spokesman, however, said merely that there were ample National troops in the area to block any Communist threat to this capital and Shanghai.

Intentions Denied

[In Shanghai, Communist Gen. Chou En-lai declared emphatically that his forces had no intention of attacking in the direction of Nanking or Shanghai.

[He ridiculed rumors that the Communists were infiltrating into areas near Shanghai. He said he had assured Mayor K. C. Wu there was "not a shred of truth" to Kuomintang reports that the Communists planned to organize 10,000 armed peasants for an uprising within Shanghai.

[Meanwhile, as a safeguard against any Communist crossing of the lower Yangtze from the north, the Central Government has instituted patrols of armored trains and increased railway guards.]

Divided China Foreseen

Further news from the reported front was lacking or questioned.

There was a growing belief in Nanking that China might be divided for years to come.

If General Marshall decides that his peace mission cannot be accomplished, there are many well-informed sources which assert the only immediate answer is one of these two:

A war of extermination between the Government and Communists, or an uneasy continuation of the status quo, with the Communists ruling about one third of China's population and the Chiagn Kai-shek government the remainder.

JUL 26 1946

May observers predict that Chiang may, in the end, choose the latter course, hoping to rebuild China to a point where the public itself will demand unification.

2 MORE JAPS TO DIE FOR KILLING YANKS

Shanghai, July 25 (A. P.).—An American military commission today sentenced two Japanese to death and six to long terms in prison for the mass murder of fourteen American flyers shot down over Formosa late in 1945.

Sentenced to death were Col. Seiichi Furukawa, chief of the Judicial Department of the Japanese Tenth Area Army, and Lieut.-Col. Naritaka Sugiura, chief of the Japanese military tribunal which tried the Americans. Lieut.-Gen. Harukei Isayama, chief of staff of the Tenth Area Army, was sentenced to life imprisonment, as was also Capt. Yoshio Nakano, the judge at the trials of the Americans. Of the four others, one was sentenced to forty years, two to thirty years' and one to twenty years' imprisonment.

The murdered Americans included Aviation Machinist's Mate Donald K. Hathaway of Long Island City.

China Reds Free 7 Abducted Marines

Tientsin, China, July 25 (AP)—Seven United States Marines who were captured July 13 by some 80 armed Chinese Communists were released last night to a special executive headquarters truce team, the Marine commandant announced today. They were unharmed.

The Marines were seized by the Chinese at a small village 22 miles southwest of the port of Chinwangtao, where they had gone to obtain ice.

Marine headquarters for the first time described the captors as Communists.

DAY

Names Named

The Marines were identified as Sergt. John J. Herndon, Pfc. William O. Wick, Pfc. George A. Sullivan, Pfc. Robert P. Wright, Jr., Pfc. Wallace R. Maisel, Private James W. Shipley and Private Arthur Maldonado. Home addresses were not given.

They were turned over to the truce team at Niching, about 50 miles southwest of Chinwangtao, and were returned to their base today.

Search by land, sea and air was conducted for six days after the Marines were seized. The hunt was called off to permit the truce team to negotiate with the Communists.

Marine headquarters offered no explanation of the incident. High Marine officers previously expressed the theory the Communists seized the men in an effort to make the Marines "lose face" in China.

8000 Longshoremen Strike in Singapore

Singapore, July 25 (A. P.).—Eight thousand longshoremen walked out today in a one-day protest strike against failure of authorities to improve their living conditions. Meanwhile 15,000 striking Singapore naval base workmen called a mass meeting to discuss whether to end the walkout paralyzing work at Britain's largest Pacific naval repair center. Eleven hundred lightermen ended a ten-day walkout and began unloading vitally needed foodstuffs.

INDIES PACT NEAR

Batavia, July 25 (A. P.).—A conference attended by Dutch and Indonesian representatives at Malino, Celebes, neared a close today with the conferees in apparent agreement on the formation of a United States of Indonesia as a basis for the eventual independence of the Dutch East Indies.

DAY

All areas of Indonesia were represented, except Java and Sumatra. The Indonesian Republicans of Java have denounced the conference as a meeting of Quislings.

The conferees decided that the United States of Indonesia should be composed of four parts—Java, Sumatra, Borneo and the Great East, this last comprised of all other Indonesian areas east of Borneo. Under the conference plan the U. S. I. would continue within the framework of the Dutch Government in order to develop the internal structure necessary for freedom and independence within a suggested five or ten-year period.

The recommendations of the Malino conference will go before another conference at The Hague early in September.

Doctor Depicts Jap Atrocities

Tokyo Trial Hears Surgeon Tell of Burning of Gasoline-drenched Nanking Civilians.

Tokyo, July 25 (A. P.).—Six weeks of rape, bayonet attacks and burning of gasoline-covered Chinese after the capture of Nanking on December 12, 1937, were described by Dr. Robert O. Wilson, a surgeon at the Nanking University Hospital, who appeared as a witness for the prosecution at the Tokyo war crime trial today.

"A man came to the hospital with a bullet in the jaw and two-thirds of his body burned," said Dr. Robert O. Wilson, surgeon at Nanking's University Hospital. "He had been seized by Japanese soldiers, shot, covered with gasoline and set afire. He died two days later. Another man, severely burned about the head and shoulders, was the only survivor of a large group bound together, drenched with gasoline and set afire."

His testimony marked the first prosecution move to bring atrocities into the case against Hideki Tojo and twenty-six other accused top-flight war criminals.

Dr. Wilson said that a woman, repeatedly attacked by Japanese soldiers, received a gash across the back of her neck which severed all muscels down to the vertebrae leaving her head precariously balanced on her body. She blamed a Japanese officer.

"One day, when I was having lunch, a neighbor rushed in and said that Japanese soldiers were attacking women at their home," the witness said. "I went to the gatehouse and found three Japanese with bayonets outside, and inside two Japanese soldiers in the act of raping two Chinese women. I took the women to the University of Nanking for refuge."

He testified that opium sales were greatly increased by the Japanese after the occupation. The prosecution charges that opium was a weapon used by Japanese to keep the Chinese in hand.

The international tribunal today sharply squelched a defense attempt to blame American and commercial interests for the start of the war. Sir William Webb, president of the tribunal, quickly interrupted Alfred W. Brooks, defense attorney from Kansas City, when he argued "there was a growing apprehension among Japanese and other Asiatics over the economic aggression of these commercial interests."

JAPANESE TO BEGIN DISSOLVING TRUSTS

Tokyo, July 25 (A. P.).—Supreme Headquarters empowered the Japanese Holding Company Liquidation Commission today to begin dissolution of the great Japanese financial companies that provided the sinews of war.

Under the order for "decentralization of the economic power of Japan," the Japanese Commission shortly will begin breaking up forty-one holding companies with more than 100 subsidiaries. The houses comprise the backbone of Japan's Zaibatsu families, which control the nation's wealth and industry. Their securities have a book value of 5,000,000,000 yen.

The commission will sell the securities and buy ten-year-nonnegotiable bonds with the proceeds. These bonds will be held in escrow for the families which established the holding companies.

Japan Resuming Export of Cotton

Tokyo, July 25 (A. P.).—Stockpiled staple cotton fabrics, 50,000,000 yards at prices comparable to those of Britain and the United States, will be ready for export from Japan next month, Supreme Headquarters textile expert, said today. An additional 35,000,000 yards will be available the following month. The goods will go only to the Orient and the Southwest Pacific.

Cotton is flowing into Japan from the United States at the rate of 22,000 bales a week, providing Japanese textile mills with raw materials sufficient to raise production to 65,000,000 yards in September. Of this amount at least 50,000,000 will be available for export.

MacArthur Praised By Two Bishops

Tokyo, July 25 (A. P.).—Catholic Bishops John F. O'Hara of Buffalo, N. Y., and Michael J. Ready of Columbus, Ohio, en route to the United States, left a joint statement, released today, praising the "humane statesmanship" of Gen. MacArthur and the efforts of the Japanese in remolding their country.

"We were impressed," the statement added, "by the spirit shown in the reconstruction accomplished to date and the wisdom with which plans are being made for the future of Catholic church activities."

Navy Surplus Goes To Jap Women

Yokosuka, July 25 (AP) — The United States Navy and the Shinsei Women's Society of Yokosuka are combining forces to battle food shortages.

DAY

The Navy is supplying surplus and surveyed foods and the women are rationing it to the townspeople.

Candy, nuts, flour and edible waste foods which the Navy rejected for its own use are being trucked by the Navy to stores already acquired by the women.

Education In Democracy

The president of the Shinsei Society early last month approached Navy Base Commander Capt. B. W. Decker, of Washington, D.C., with a proposal for education in democracy of the society's 12,000 women members.

Decker agreed to their plan and sent six truckloads of rejected navy food which the women distributed satisfactorily.

The co-operation has one noticeable effect—membership in the Shinsei Society has leaped to 40,000.

Army Employes Hit Conditions in Manila

Manila, July 25—(AP)—American civilian employes of the U. S. Army are complaining to the embassy and the Army that living conditions are not as good as they were promised when they were recruited for overseas service.

George Claybaugh, Topeka, Kas., engineer who acted as spokesman for the employes, said they had been promised modern homes, low mess costs, officers' club privileges and recreational facilities.

Instead, he said, they arrived here to find husbands and wives were forced to live apart in gloomy barracks in a muddy area more than ten miles from Manila, that there were no recreational or transport facilities, and no place where husbands and wives could even meet in off hours.

Filipinos Reach Accord On Agrarian Reform

Manila, July 25 (AP)—At the end of a four-hour meeting on agrarian reform—crux of an armed peasant revolt—a Malacanan Palace spokesman announced today that President Roxas reached "complete agreement" with landowner and peasant representatives.

Details were not disclosed. The spokesman said the President plans to send a message to the Philippine Congress embodying the conference's recommendations.

NIGHT

yesterday's first underwater atomic explosion.

Six hours after sending the battleships New York and Nagato, the light carrier Independence, heavy cruiser Pensacola, destroyer Hughes and transport Fallon, were damaged.

Enter Lagoon After 8 Hours

Observer ships carrying scientists and navy men, eager to assess the full damage of the guinea-pig fleet, re-entered the lagoon yesterday, some less than nine hours after the underwater blast was touched off.

Crews were alerted, however, to move out to high seas again should radioactive waters drift south from the northeast section of the lagoon where the bomb was detonated. Two tugs attempting to beach the mortally wounded "Sara" were frustrated by radiation of lagoon waters.

Preliminary damage assessments showed, however, that the fifteen target ships sunk or damaged were all close to the detonation center.

First Box Score

The first box score showed these vessels sunk:

The 33-year-old battleship Arkansas, 26,100 tons, which closed a distinguished fighting career by participating in bombardments at Normandy and Iwo Jima.

The 19-year-old aircraft carrier Saratoga, 33,000 tons standard displacement, largest of the world's carriers until the huge new Midway class came off the ways in the closing days of World War II.

LSM 60 (landing ship, medium), the suicide ship which carried the atom bomb to its final destination.

Yard oiler, of concrete construction.

An LST (landing ship, tank).

Resting on the bottom of Bikini lagoon were these submarines

10 Bomb Target Ships Are Known To Be Sunk

Radioactive Waters Still Deter Observers From Study Of Damage To Other Vessels

H. BLAKESLEE

Aboard U.S.S. Appalachian, Bikini, Friday, July 26 (AP)—To what extent the atomic bomb laid a deadly grip on 75 target ships anchored in the radioactive waters of this lagoon was still being determined today.

This much was known—ten ships including the battleship Arkansas and aircraft carrier Saratoga were resting on the bottom, sunk by which had been submerged prior to the blast:

The heavy hulled Pilotfish, closest of all target vessels to the point of detonation; the heavy hulled Apogon, the light hulled Skipjack and Searaven, and one other—either the light hulled Tuna or heavy hulled Dentuda.

One of two surfaced submarines appeared undamaged after the blast. It was either the heavy-hulled Parche or Skate.

Two Battleships Listing

Among the damaged ships, the pagoda-masted battleship Nagato and the venerable battleship New York were listing.

The light carrier Independence, still scarred from the July 1 atomic aerial burst; the heavy cruiser Pensacola, the destroyer Hughes, and transport Fallon likewise were listing. The Hughes had settled four feet.

There was no way to estimate the blast pressure on ships' hulls until official observers had free access to lagoon waters.

At Kwajalein, Rear Admiral Ralph A. Oftsie, member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Evaluation Board, pointed out that until divers complete their investigation it will be impossible to determine whether a captal ship such as the Arkansas was sunk by pressure exerted from underneath on the comparatively weak bottom or from abeam on her far stronger side armor. He had just flown over Bikini.

Saratoga Of Prime Interest

The sinking of the carrier Saratoga, which in fighting trim probably displaced around 50,000 tons, likewise was a prime interest to naval designers. Originally laid down in 1920 as a battle cruiser, the doughty Sara had warship compartmentation and maximum watertight integrity in her battle cruiser hull.

Members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Evaluation Board, which included Vice Admiral John H. Hoover and Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell, after their preliminary flight over Bikini boarded a destroyer last night to await re-entry into the lagoon for a close-up view of the damage.

Drone planes, guided into the miasmic atomic mist to photograph and otherwise record the atomic cloud, all returned to their bases.

Expect Excellent Pictures

Excellent technical photographic studies were expected as a result of brilliant sunshine and blue sky which prevailed for hours after the burst.

How long radiation would keep inspection parties from the inner ring of the atomic death circle was not at once determined. By mid-afternoon yesterday only three transports near the outer fringe of the target vessels had been boarded and found free of contamination.

It was thought that three to five days might elapse before close-up target ships would "cool off" to a point where inspection parties could stay aboard.

A B-29 carrying John P. Merrill, Hartford (Conn.) radiologist, some 15,000 feet over the explosion area and 7 miles distant from the mushrooming atomic cloud at the instant it developed, recorded no radioactivity at that altitude. The concussion, however, shook the Superfortress as though it had been exposed to a burst of flak, Merrill said.

Records Shock On Plane

A similar shock struck the B-29 in which Brig. Gen. Roger Ramey was cruising at 30,000 feet directly over the atomic cloud. He estimated the jar at 3 "G's" on the gravity scale. A shock of 4 "G" intensity is considered possibly sufficient to damage a B-29 seriously.

Clouds along a 30-mile front were contaminated with fissionable particles after the explosion and slowly drifted to the northwest with planes tracking their course.

Col. Stafford Warren, radiological safety chief, believed that a deadly rain of radioactive particles from contaminated clouds possibly could become a major weapon of atomic war if the bomb was detonated near a large city.

BLAST TOSSES VESSELS ABOUT JUST LIKE TOYS

Arkansas and Saratoga Lost—Five Submarines Also on Bottom.

NEW YORK DEVELOPS A LIST

Independence and Pensacola Damaged at Bikini Along ith Jap Battleship.

H. Blakeslee

Aboard U. S. S. Appalachian, Bikini Lagoon, July 25 (A. P.).—The first underwater atomic bomb, exploding with an awesome roar that thundered upward into a beautiful cloudy geyser, destroyed the battleship Arkansas and sank the huge old aircraft carrier Saratoga and seven lesser vessels today.

DAY

Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead, in the best position to view the blast from a B-29, said that it was so powerful that the Arkansas was shoved far out of her original anchorage just before she plunged and other target vessels near the center of the fleet of seventy-five were tossed about like toys.

First to go in the mighty plutonium blast that was the second chapter of the Army-Navy "Operation Crossroads" was the old 26,100-ton battleship Arkansas. She and two small craft, a yard oiler and a tank-landing ship, simply disappeared in the pink-fringed mist at 8:35 A. M. (5:35 P. M. Wednesday, New York time).

Seven hours and thirty-two minutes later the 33,000-ton Saratoga, war-worn old carrier, settled protestingly to the bottom of the Bikini lagoon. Her prow nosed upward as if her stern were resting on the bottom, then disappeared.

Five Subs on Bottom.

A little later five submarines of the six that had been submerged in the lagoon were found to be resting on the bottom. Whether they were crushed or had sunk through some defects in their air lines was not known.

Probably the most powerful man-made force ever loosed—perhaps even stronger than the bomb that razed most of Nagasaki last August—the atomic bomb did not immediately sink as many of the seventy-five target vessels as observers had expected.

The true extent of the damage is still unknown, however. Ships still were "hot" with radioactivity many hours later. Navy men and scientists edged ever closer and re-entered the lagoon with sensitive instruments, trying to determine the danger and ascertain the full damage as soon as possible.

The radioactivity was so great that two tugs which went to the rescue of the Saratoga, under orders from the task force commander, Vice-Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, to try to beach her, had to turn back and let the gallant old lady die alone.

New York Is Listing.

The battleship New York and the Japanese battleship Nagato were listing, evidently damaged, as were the destroyer Hughes, the transport Fallon, the heavy cruiser Pensacola and the carrier Independence.

A reef and ten miles of blue Pacific separated this ship from the target fleet when the bomb went off. Observers had their glasses on the mast of a small landing craft that was above the submerged atom bomb.

A voice on the ship's loud speaker droned off the seconds and the world's fifth atomic bomb was set off by remote radio controls.

An almost incredibly white dome of water rose where the slim mast had stood. It glowed momentarily. Then it spread, at first wide and flat, to perhaps half a mile in breadth. Suddenly it shot upward with lightning speed.

At the top of the dome, the water spread in a great wide column with a rounded top. In two seconds the top widened like a grotesque mushroom, whose thick stem by that time was nearly a half-mile wide at the base, which in turn was boiling upward.

The air mushroom spread out to more than a mile wide. All this time the entire display was dazzling white.

JUL 26 1946

Great Sprays Descend.

Then from the widening edges of the mushroom umbrella pure white points of water, V-shaped, began streaming down toward the ships. Many of these sprays were far larger than any of the big battleships.

At this moment must have been occurring one of the almost incredible phenomena of atomic energy. Water thrown against the Saratoga crushed her massive stack, knocking half of it to the flight deck.

A series of waves spread from the spot where the bomb was detonated. They raced out toward the ships outside the lagoon and some poured over a small island off Bikini's shore. The main island was not inundated. Blandy estimated the wave was seven to ten feet high at Bikini island—lower than had been expected.

Ships rocked. The hot force of the bomb's concussion was felt by some observers outside the lagoon. Parts of target ships' equipment, mattresses and the like, undulated on the waves.

Slowly the mist began to clear. Some of the target ships became visible again.

Smoke Pours From Saratoga.

Men who had expected many of the ships to be gone were amazed to see them floating where they last had seen them.

But all efforts to find the Arkansas, a concrete yard oiler, a tank landing ship and the medium landing ship over the bomb were futile. They simply had disappeared.

Smoke began pouring from the Saratoga. It was possible to see that she was listing by the stern.

The supporting ships began moving in toward the lagoon.

Hours later a plane reported that the Saratoga was going down. Blandy, boss of the crossroads operation, sent tugs into the lagoon to try to beach her, but in vain.

A destroyer had raced into the lagoon and out again earlier.

Elton C. Fay, Associated Press reporter aboard the flagship Mount McKinley, said that patrol teams later entered the lagoon in gunboats and transferred to launches. They were seen skirting the edges of the array.

Less than nine hours after the explosion, this ship entered the lagoon, but anchored some distance from the targets.

Death-Dealing Shower.

Col. Stafford Warren, the radiological safety chief, said that half a dozen target ships on the outer rim of the array were free of contamination when patrol teams got there. He said it might be several days before the ships near the center of the fleet could be boarded safely.

The colonel said that a rain of death-dealing fission particles came down in the lagoon immediately after the millions of tons of lagoon water skyrocketed upward.

Later, clouds along a 30-mile front became contaminated with fissionable products. This cloud bank drifted to the northwest. It was tracked by airplanes. Warren pointed out that rain from clouds of this nature could be deadly.

Most Powerful of Five Atomic Bombs Exploded Creates Scene of Exquisite Beauty at Bikini

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

Aboard USS Appalachian, Bikini Lagoon, July 25—(AP)—A thing of exquisite beauty rather than awfulness — that was the underwater atomic bomb, quite possibly the most powerful of all five thus far exploded.

Ten miles of violet-blue sea lay between this ship and the target fleet in Bikini Lagoon. The sky was full of fleecy clouds. Bikini Island's green palms stood out clearly.

From the Appalachian the target scene was like a framed painting.

Many held their breaths as the seconds ticked off.

Then it came, an almost incredible white dome of water rising where once stood a tall radio mast marking the submerged bomb. Some said this water dome glowed momentarily with the light of the bomb.

The dome spread at first, wide and flat, to perhaps a half mile in breadth. Then it bellied upward with a speed that seemed to match the flight of a big artillery shell.

At the top of the dome the water speeded up, not in a plume but in a great, wide column with a rounded top. In two seconds this top spread like a grotesque mushroom whose stem was by that time nearly a half-mile wide.

Its base below was boiling outward in all directions.

The air mushroom spread out to more than a mile wide. All this time the entire display was dazzling white. The billions of points of water and mist forming it scintillated.

There was no sign of solid green water, but only the whitest of spray.

Then, from the widening edges of the mushroom umbrella pure white points of water, V-shaped, began streaming down toward the ships of the target fleet. Many of these falling sprays were far larger than any of the big battleships. They raced downward like pointed knives.

They were tinted a delicate mother of pearl.

Among them observers saw fragments of a ship, probably the bomb barge, or the radio mast.

At ten miles distance the background was brilliant enough to outline something as small as a mast.

At this moment an almost incredible feat of atomic energy must have been occurring, for water was thrown with such force against the old carrier Saratoga that half her stack was knocked to her flight deck.

Simultaneously another strange thing happened. Out beyond the edges of the white boil at the base of the water mushroom, where ships were lying seemingly untouched and serene, thin, whirling clouds of mist appeared.

These clouds were more than mast high. They were semi-transparent. Each one started from the side or end of the ship closest to the bomb. They eddied briefly, like smoke, over their particular ships, and then disappeared.

JUL 26 1946

Radioactivity Greater in Air Than in Water, but Bars Tugs From Helping Saratoga.

By ELTON C. FAY.

Aboard U. S. S. Mount McKinley, July 25 (A. P.).—Today's underwater blast of the atomic bomb appeared to be more lethal to heavy ships than the air burst of July 1.

No capital ships fell victim to the air burst, which sent down two destroyers, a cruiser and two transports. Today the battleship Arkansas was an immediate victim and the gallant old carrier Saratoga succumbed seven hours after the explosion, along with seven lesser ships.

Second in interest to the bomb's effect on big warships was the amount and duration of radioactivity caused by the submarine detonation. Radioactivity defeated attempts by tugs to beach the "Sara" before she sank, but in mid-afternoon inspection parties boarded three transports near the fringe of the seventy-five target vessels and found them free of contamination.

DAY

Air Badly Contaminated.

Capt. George M. Lyon, Navy radiological safety officer, said that signals from a drone boat near the center of the target area two hours after the blast showed some radioactivity present in the water, but not in spectacular amounts. On the other hand, a patrol plane flying 4,000 feet above the lagoon reported considerable contamination in the air, rising from the water.

For the first few hours, the lagoon contained comparatively broad areas of radioactively safe waters at the outer perimeter of the targets. Radiological safety patrol teams entered the lagoon in gunboats, thtn transferred to launches. They were seen skirting the edges of the array.

Several Days Needed.

Col. Stafford Warren, radiological safety chief, said that a half-dozen target ships at the outer edge were reported to be free of any contamination. Although it probably is safe to move just inside the logoon entrance, three to five days may have to pass before inspection parties can get close to the inner targets and stay there, Warren added.

The Colonel said a rain or death-dealing fission particles came down in the lagoon during the period immediately after millions of tons of lagoon water skyrocketed from the effect of the blast. Subsequnently clouds along a thirty-mile front became contaminated with fissionable products. This cloud bank drifted off to the northwest, tracked by planes. Warren pointed out that such a lethal rain could be a major military weapon in wartime, if the bomb exploded near a big city.

Artificial Rainstorm.

Tide and winds are expected to increase the general contamination in the lagoon.

Dr. J. O. Herschfelder, Los Alamos, N. M., scientist and faculty member of the University of Wisconsin, said that the explosion created a literal bowl of spray and mist over the entire target, hollow except for the outer walls and roof.

This quickly was replaced by a violent, artificial rainstorm as the lagoon water began roaring back to the surface.

The mighty blast created another spectacle visible only through polarized glasses. Three hours after the explosion, a series of curious salmon-pink clouds could be seen on the horizon. They were not true clouds, Herschfelder explained, but made up of droplets of water formed under pressure. They were not radioactive, he added.

The bomb bay of one Flying Fortress Drone, only 6,000 feet overhead at the instant of the explosion, was damaged. She kept flying, however, her mother plane steering her back toward Eniwetok.

Major-Gen. William E. Kepner, Army commander of the operation, said the entire air operation was perfect and that all Drone planes were heading safely for bases on carriers or at Eniwetok.

Blast Might Awes B-29 Observers

By Don Whitehead

[Associated Press staff writer who witnessed the underwater explosion of the atomic bomb from a B-29.]

Kwajalein, July 25 (AP)—Those who watched today's explosion of the atomic bomb from close range were impressed tremendously by its power.

"Frankly," a high-ranking naval officer said, "if there had been men on the ships and they had seen tons of water hurled from the lagoon to pour down on the ships and then seen mists and steam and water rushing toward them, I don't believe they would have been fit for further battle."

The Seconds Tick Away

I was in a B-29 press ship. Looking out of the top turret with other observers before the blast, I saw the lagoon placid and deserted except for the ghost fleet.

"Fifteen seconds until H-hour," a voice said over the intercommunication system. We waited for the seconds to tick away.

Suddenly water in the center of the fleet erupted in a column a half mile in diameter. It shot toward the heavens like a giant pile driver to a height of several thousand feet. Then, as thousands of tons of water fell back toward the lagoon, there was another burst at the bottom of the dirty brown column.

Concurrent Phenomena

This second burst mushroomed into a great dome-shaped cloud of water and steam and vapor. The top of this dome was white but the bottom was dirty brown, similar to the water column. A shock wave, hurtling out in a giant circle, was plainly visible.

From this giant, dome-shaped cloud shot concentric circles of mist reaching out about a mile. They dissolved as suddenly as they had appeared. Over the top of the dome was a filmy cap which also quickly dissolved.

Vapor, Smoke, Clouds

At the base of the dome, a great blanket of vapor and smoke shot out in all directions to blanket the entire fleet. As it dissolved, there arose from the depths of the lagoon cottony clouds of steam created by the tremendous heat of the bomb released under water.

Unlike the atomic mushroom clouds from the New Mexico, Hiroshima and Nagasaki bomb bursts and the July 1 air burst over Bikini, this atomic cloud had only a stubby stem. Its mushroom rose only a few thousand feet, then slowly drifted north before it was broken up by winds.

Mists Lift, Fleet Is Counted

For twenty minutes there was suspense over the fate of the target fleet. Then the mists began to rise and hulls of ships came into view. Youthful members of our plane crew cheered when they saw the silhouette of the Saratoga (which later sank), Nevada, New York, Pennsylvania and Pensacola still afloat.

But the target fleet was in disarray. Ships were scattered from original anchorages. It was difficult to identify them. But it was evident one was missing—and then we saw it was the Arkansas. Ships in the death circle in the center of the fleet looked as if some giant had risen from the depths and, with a swipe of his hand, had tossed them about like toys.

Respect Replaces Fear

Once again the joint task force has carried out an operationally excellent experiment. Now the scientists and technicians have sufficient information to keep them busy for months, plotting the atomic future.

This much is certain—those who studied the results of "Test Able" and watched the force of the atom unleashed in "Test Baker" may have lost some of their fear of atomic power, but they have not lost respect for this cosmic weapon, controlled by the United States.

Atom Blast Awes Nero

Kwajalein, July 25 (AP)—Col. Sam Nero, Billy Mitchell's bombardier in the 1921 controversial bombing of the Alabama and the 1923 sinking of the New Jersey and Virginia, was awed by the sight of today's underwater atomic bomb blast.

"The geyser was 1,000 times bigger than the heaviest underwater explosion I ever saw before," said Nero, of Chesapeake City, Md.

'It Was A Nice Shower Bath For Navy'

Kwajalein, July 25 (AP)—Commodore Ben H. Wyatt, deputy military governor of the Marshall Islands, observed today's underwater atomic bomb blast at Bikini. His description of it was brief:

"It was a nice shower bath for the Navy."

Like Firecrackers, In Kwajalein Lagoon?

Kwajalein, July 25 (AP) — A crackle like the popping of a string of small firecrackers was heard by a listener with his ear thrust into Kwajalein lagoon five minutes after the Bikini A-bomb exploded today.

John H. Waddell, Crossroads technical adviser, on high speed photography, who placed his ear under water, thought it may have been the sound of the atomic blast.

Waddell submerged his ear at the approximate time of detonation, figuring that since lesser underwater explosions had a long range of audibility, he should be able to hear this one.

Five minutes later, at the time he estimated it would take the sound to travel the 200 miles to Kwajalein, he heard for twenty seconds a mild popping like small firecrackers or the ticking of a dollar watch.

Plane Badly Jolted 8½ Miles Away

Kwajalein, July 25 (AP)—The B-29 carrying Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, of Denton, Texas, was jolted by two severe shocks at about 8½ miles distance from the atomic-bomb detonation point, he said upon returnnig to Kwajalein today.

Ramey's plane, flying at 30,000 feet, was directly over Bikini lagoon at the time of the explosion.

The shocks which reached the plane a few moments later registered about three units on a theoretical scale. Four units on such a scale would be enough to wreck a B-29, Ramey estimated.

Ramey, commander of the 20th Bomber Command, said it looked from the air as if the explosion "left a great mess," but he declined to assess the damage because "there was too much smoke and stuff." However, he termed the operation apparently a complete success.

Sunken Arkansas Had Notable Career

Kwajalein, July 25 (AP)—The old 26,000-ton battleship Arkansas, sunk by the atomic bomb in Bikini lagoon, had poked her blunt bow into historic incidents and far places during her 33 years afloat.

She took President Taft down to see the Panama Canal the year she was commissioned, 1912. She was a unit of the Allied Grand Fleet in the first World War, and her guns tossed shells at the enemy on two sides of the world during World War II—preinvasion bombardments of Normandy and Iwo Jima.

'A' BOMB NAMED 'HELEN OF BIKINI'

Aboard U. S. S. Appalachian, July 25 (A. P.).—The name "Helen of Bikini" was painted on the side of the underwater atomic bomb. Who named it was not known.

Dr. Bradley Dewey, of the advisory board, who saw the bomb in its canvas shroud before it was put in place, suggested it be named "Moby Dick," after the celebrated fictional whale, with the added inscription, "Thar she blows." Senator Hatch (D.-N. M.) wrote on the covering, "Made in New Mexico."

JUL 26 1946

Weather Luck Called Phenomenal

Aboard U.S.S. Mount McKinley, July 25 (AP)—Phenomenal weather luck made today's atomic bomb test possible precisely at the moment scheduled weeks ago. The same was true of the July 1 test.

Brilliant sunshine and blue sky held for hours after the explosion. Excellent technical photographic studies thus were possible.

Japanese Had 'Sunk' Saratoga 7 Times

Aboard U.S.S. Mt. McKinley, July 25 (AP)—At least seven times the Japanese claimed they had sunk the 33,000-ton Saratoga, the oldest aircraft carrier in the United States Navy.

Ironically, she went down in a former Japanese-owned lagoon.

On two occasions the enemy's claims were almost right. A torpedo crippled her once. Kamikaze (suicide) planes banged her up on another occasion.

The Saratoga started out as a battle cruiser but was converted to a carrier during construction to meet terms of the Washington naval treaty in the early 1920's.

Storm, Bomb Linked By Frightened Belgians

Brussels, July 25 (AP)—A violent thunder storm caused near panic last night in parts of Brussels, where some persons linked it up with the Bikini atomic bomb test.

Lights were put on and neighbors held excited conversations until doubters finally won the day—or night—and everybody went back to bed.

Jap Proposes Typhoons Be Bombed

Tokyo, July 25 (AP)—This professor has an idea whereby the atomic bomb, which helped bring Japan to her knees, might benefit the occupied country—drop it on a typhoon.

Prof. Sakihei Fujiwara, chief of the Japanese Meteorological Bureau, suggested to United States Army authorities that the A-bomb be dropped on Japan-bound typhoons when they are near Okinawa, diverting them.

The Army's reaction to the suggestion—if any—was not indicated.

All 4 Drone Planes Land Safely; One 'Hot'

Roi Island, Marshalls, July 25 (AP)—Rear Admiral C. A. F. Sprague reported today that all four navy Hellcat "drone" planes used in today's atomic-bomb test had landed safely, one of them "hot" with radioactivity.

Two others that flew through the atomic cloud show no signs of radioactivity. Their photographs should be undamaged. Sprague gave no report on the fourth plane.

The drones are pilotless. They are controlled from a mother plane.

Atomic Aftermath: One Seismograph Record

Adelaide, Australia, July 25 (AP)—Apparent concussions from today's atom-bomb explosion at Bikini were recorded by the seismograph at Adelaide Observatory.

Government Astronomer George F. Dodwell said the recording was most noticeable sixteen minutes after the explosion, which would correspond with the sixteen minutes after the explosion. He said the reading "differs in character from the usual earthquake recording and it seems definite it was caused by the explosion of the bomb."

Seismographs at Sydney, about 700 miles nearer Bikini, failed to record any disturbances.

Bikini Box Score

By The Associated Press

Ships sunk by underwater atomic bomb:

Battleship Arkansas, carrier Saratoga, one concrete yard oiler, one tank-landing ship. (Plus medium landing-ship from which bomb was suspended).

Ships seen listing and evidently damaged:

Battleships New York and Nagato, carrier Independence, cruiser Pensacola, destroyer Hughes, transport Fallon.

Seen resting on bottom, damage undetermined:

Five submarines which had been submerged.

Bikini Reports Are Scrambled By Sunspots

New York, July 25 (AP)—International radio communications were disrupted for several hours today with sunspots scrambling the airwaves.

Dr. Athelston F. Spilhaus, professor of meteorology at New York University, explained that sunspot activity runs in cycles with short-period variations. He said the present activity was not a major cycle of unusual intensity and should last no longer than 24 hours.

Transmission from Bikini was blacked out more than five hours due to atmospheric conditions.

Curtain In Mexico

The radio control office of the Communications Department in Mexico City said a communications curtain suddenly was drawn around the Mexico capital, but that the blackout apparently had no connection with the atom-bomb tests inasmuch as similar radio nulls are experienced two or three times a year.

R.C.A. said it experienced a blackout but late in the day was reporting reception from London.

The Associated Press radio from London was out from 12.15 P.M. (E.D.T.) until 4.45 P.M., and AP transmission to Latin America was cut off from 10.20 A.M. until about 6.40 P.M.

Ship-To-Shore Static

Mackay radio reported static in its ship-to-shore beams.

In Pasadena, Cal., Dr. Seth B. Nicholson, of the California Institute of Technology, said that today's sunspot is the third largest in the 75 years that sunspot records have been kept. He predicts that it might well increase before the sun's rotation carries it out of range August 2.

The largest ever recorded was last February and the second in size was noted in 1926.

Use of Goats at Bikini Recalls Barlow's Ill-Fated Bomb Test

BALTIMORE, July 24—(AP) Goats and explosions are nothing new to people around here.

The gigantic blast at Bikini, with a contingent of goats awaiting the result and a possible trip to Valhalla, recalled an experiment at Aberdeen proving ground in 1940.

Lester P. Barlow, Connecticut inventer, had interested Congress and army authorities in his claim that the 200 pigs used in the atomic test at Bikini.

The porker got his start here with Vernon M. Reppert, secretary-treasurer of the Missouri Spotted Poland Breeders Association, and headed West at the age of three months for an important assignment in vocational agriculture research.

Whether Buckner will hold some sort of a celebration honoring the hog for his contribution to the atomic world hasn't been decided, but he certainly has been the talk of the town since Reppert was notified of his distinction.

Reppert sold High Linden to Linden, Cal., Union High School, for vocational purposes. While conceding that all hogs would have the same physical reaction to radio active rays, Reppert expressed the opinion that the Navy selected High Linden's offspring for the historical experiment because of their good manners and mild disposition.

"Spotted Poland Chinas as a breed," he said, "are sweet tempered and easy to handle. They don't jump, run or root."

claimed that a half ton of it would kill or stun every living thing within a radius of a quarter of a mile.

A much-publicized first test of gimite with live goats tethered in the area around the bomb never came off because members of Congress who were to witness the event were late in arriving, and Barlow angrily claimed thet gimite had lost much of its power through evaporation because of the delay.

Later the test was carried out with the goats again in attendance. Not a single goat was injured.

Ordance authorities admitted, however, that Gimite's explosive properties were somewhat more powerful than those of T.N.T.

Pappy of 200 Aided Bikini Test

Missouri Town Proud of Poland China Porker Whose Offspring Were Used in Bomb Experiment.

Buckner, Mo., July 25 (A. P.).—This town of 600 people swelled with pride today—the name of one of its former residents had been added to the list of Missourians who have made good. High Linden Dude, who comes from a long line of well-bred, easy-going, spotted Poland China hogs, has been identified as the pappy of a liquid oxygen explosive he had developed would surpass all others in destructiveness.

He called the explosive gimite (after Glenn L. Martin, with whom he was associated at the time) and

BRITAIN-CANADA ANNOUNCE 4-YEAR WHEAT CONTRACT

H. Montgomery

OTTAWA, July 25—(AP) A four-year wheat contract between Canada and the United Kingdom for nearly $1,000,000,000, and containing provisions aimed at meeting American objections, was announced today.

The deal, the largest grain contract ever negotiated, provides that its terms "shall be subject to any modification or amendment which may be necessary to bring it into conformity with any international agreements or arrangements hereafter entered into to which both governments are parties."

This escape clause was understood to have been inserted after negotiations broke down a month ago following American objections that such a deal would be against the spirit of multilateral free trade.

The contract provides for sale of 160,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat to the United Kingdom at $1.55 per bushel for the two crop years 1946-47 and 1947-48; 140,000,000 bushels at not less than $1.25 in 1948-49; and 140,000,000 bushels at not less than $1.00 in 1949-50.

Well Below U. S. Price

The current Canadian price is $1.55, well below the American price, which runs around $2.00 in Chicago and Kansas City and $2.30 in Minneapolis.

In general, the United States government's policy is opposed to such contracts running more than one year because of their setting of prices so far in advance regardless of markets in the unpredictable future.

However, in addition to the escape clause which would enable the contract to conform with any future international agreements, the contract embodies another feature in accordance with American policy. This is that such deals between governments be based on commercial considerations.

Trade Minister James A. Mackinnon in announcing the deal to parliament took pains to state that the contract "is based upon commercial considerations of mutual interest."

He said that "it ensures to the United Kingdom substantial quantities of wheat during the expected period of shortages at prices below those which would be payable were there to be a free market at the present time."

On the other hand, he said, "in the later period of the contract Canada receives the advantages of a guaranteed market, though for a diminished quantity, and the assurance of at least the stated minimum prices."

"In determining the actual price in the last two years regard will be had to the extent to which the agreed price for the first two years falls below the world price for that period," he said. "Our farmers are therefore protected from crippling losses should there be a world slump in wheat prices."

Not Competitors

The United States and Canada are not likely to be great competitors in the world market. Canada expects to produce about 450,000,000 bushels this year, and has a 50,000,000 bushel carryover. Using 140,000,000 bushels herself, she is left 360,000,000 for export, with 160,000,000 going to Britain.

Plans are to maintain production of about 450,000,000 bushels, but to build the carry-over up to a normal of about 80,000,000 bushels this would leave for export, including to Britain, between 280,000,000 and 300,000,000 bushels if crop conditions are normal.

This would leave Canada with between 120 and 160 million bushels for export to countries other than Britain. Against this, the United States normally has far lower net exports. In the years before the war, with production running between 650 and 750 million bushels, exports totalled only between 25 and 50 million bushels, although they ran to 100 million in 1938.

Canada to Admit 4,000 Poles

OTTAWA, July 25 (AP)—Louis St. Laurent, acting Prime Minister, announced in the House of Commons today that 4,000 single veterans of the Polish Army that fought in Italy would be selected for immigration to Canada "shortly."

Distrust Shown In D.C. On British Wheat Deal

Washington, July 26 (AP)—American officials viewed with a good deal of dislike and suspicion today a newly announced British deal for 600,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in the next four years with a guaranteed floor under prices.

And on Capitol Hill Senator Wherry (R., Neb.) spoke for a lawmaker group of undetermined size which saw the agreement, in final analysis, as a purchase of Canadian grain with American dollars from the recently granted $3,750,000,000 loan.

Wheat state senators for the most part expected little effect on the American market, even though the agreed prices are well below those current in this country, and still further below the free market price in Argentina.

American Objections

The objections and suspicions voiced to a reporter by officials who would not speak for quotation by name, centered around the idea that the deal raises doubts that the British actually intend to support American plans for expanded world-wide trade unfettered by special arrangements among pairs or groups of nations.

It was understood here that the British had agreed to abide by the decisions of the International Emergency Food Council which allocates food on a world-wide basis, so that some of the British-bought Canadian wheat could be sent to needier countries if the board so ruled.

Senators Reed (R., Kan.) and Gurney (R., S.D.) agreed with Wherry in pointing out that the deal gives Canadian producers a guaranteed price for about a third of their crop. In this country farmers are guaranteed 90 per cent of parity for the next two years. At present this comes out to about $1.50 a bushel.

Truman Signs New OPA Bill; Sees New Taxes

Plans to Call Special Session if 'Measure Falls Short.'

SIGNS 'RELUCTANTLY'

Claims Present Law Is No Guarantee Against Inflation.

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP) President Truman signed the new price control act "with reluctance" today—and with a notice to Congress that if it proved inadequate, he will call a special session to strengthen it and perhaps raise taxes.

NIGHT

The bill was signed into law at 4:05 p.m. At that moment the rent and price ceilings which lapsed June 30 went back into force, except on items specifically exempted.

Sends Message to Congress

Two hours later the President sent a message to Congress to place on the record a statement that the measure "falls far short" of being one with which his administration could guarantee "stable prices."

But he said that "while the present measure by no means guarantees that inflation can be avoided," it offers enough promise that he was willing to accept it and try.

Then, he declared that because of its "defects" and "the months of delay" by Congress in passing it, "it is all the more apparent that more extensive use of the power to allocate scarce materials may be required and that sterner fiscal and monetary measures than would otherwise be called for may prove to be necessary."

Asks for Co-Operation

He called upon consumers and businessmen to cooperate with the government's efforts in "the battle against inflation," and delivered this closing remark:

"If it appears that all the efforts of the government and the people will not be enough under the present legislation, I shall have no alternative but to call the Congress back in special session to strengthen the price control laws and to enact such fiscal and monetary legislation as we need to save us from the threat of economic disaster."

The President clearly had a possible tax rise in mind in this connection. Discussing the measures necessary to fight inflation, he mentioned "further reduction of federal expenditures" and then went on:

"If, despite such measures, inflation still threatens, consideration must be given to the formulation of a more rigorous tax policy. Such a tax program would, I realize, be unpalatable at a time when we are doing our utmost to increase production, but if it is the only alternative to the ravages of inflation, we would have no choice."

Objects to Amendments

The reading of the Presidential message in the Senate evoked clearly audible snorts from the Republican side at those portions where Mr. Truman explained his view that the measure was an improvement over the one he vetoed June 29. Much of the message was devoted to the presidential view that the evils which he saw in amendments by Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Wherry (R-Neb) have not been remedied.

The President reiterated his opposition, however, to the provision retained in the final act which gives the secretary of agriculture instead of the OPA the final say on agricultural prices.

On the provision for a decontrol board, the chief executive said he had not been opposed to the creation of such an agency. He promised to appoint "men in whose judgment and fairness the Congress and the country will have complete confidence." He had told a news conference earlier that he would choose them from outside the OPA in order not to have a packed jury.

The measure conditionally exempts a number of food and other items from ceilings, lays down a formula under which ceilings on many manufactured goods must be upped, and establishes a decontrol board with authority superior in some respects to that of the OPA. The board will be appointed in a day or so and Mr. Truman said he will go outside the OPA to select its three members, in order he said, to assure an unpacked jury.

Revived Until June 30

But the bill revives the OPA until next June 30, restores rent control on as firm a basis as before, and provides an extensive measure of price curbs.

All the rent and price ceilings and other OPA orders which died with the old law June 30 were automatically restored at the moment the bill became law, except those specifically exempted.

Upon signing the bill, Mr. Truman also issued an executive order constituting Dr. John R. Steelman stabilization director in succession to Chester Bowles, who resigned on the eve of the first extension bill's veto. The order transfers the Office of Economic Stabilization to the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion which Dr. Steelman also heads.

"I pledge the administration to do its full part in this struggle," the President's message continued. "But it must not be forgotten that the battle against inflation is not the government's battle alone—it is the people's battle as well.

"Consumers must vigorously resist exorbitant prices. Black markets cannot be suppressed solely by enforcement measures. Businessmen must, as controls are progressively removed, exercise self-restraint and forego the opportunity for short-run gain from profiteering in favor of long-run advantage in stable prices and fair profits."

OPA Administrator Paul Porter issued this statement:

"OPA will do its best to make this bill work, and we think it will work.

"Decisions on specific problems will be announced as rapidly as possible."

142 Pricing Orders

The agency had planned to issue immediately 142 pricing orders, some granting temporary increases mainly on industrial materials and equipment, and others eliminating former price controls on a variety of other products.

These were put over until tomorrow when, in view of the late hour of the President's action, OPA was unable to meet a filing deadline at the Federal register. Government orders must be published in the register before they can be made effective.

The President sent his 2,000-word message to Congress a little more than two hours after he signed the OPA bill at 4:05 p. m.

At that moment the American economy went back under price control.

Seek More Funds

The President also requested Congress to provide more than the $75,000,000 already appropriated to run the OPA for the year. A member of the House appropriations committee reported that Mr. Truman asked $25,000,000 additional. The OPA budget as submitted to Congress originally called for $105,000,000.

The restoration of controls came after most of the security and commodity markets had closed but traders generally had anticipated the action. Little effect had been manifest on the stock exchanges and the grain and livestock markets. Those two commodities are exempt from ceilings, for the present at least. Cotton futures in New York slumped the daily permissible limit of $5 a bale on selling partly inspired by prospective new ceilings, and textile markets were quiet pending the establishment of new ceilings.

Secretary of Commerce Wallace reported, however, that an upward price trend "seems assured" regardless of any control law. His comment was made in a statement describing continued economic advances in June.

Mr. Truman announced his action at his news conference, the start of which was held up for 10 minutes past the scheduled hour of 4 p. m., while he signed the bill in the presence of Paul Porter, OPA administrator, and other officials.

Signs "Reluctantly"

It was in reply to a question that he said he signed "reluctantly," giving reporters permission to quote him on the word. But he declined to comment further, declaring that his message to Congress explained everything. It did not become available until later.

Mr. Truman had characterized the bill as "terrible" before a Senate-House conference committee worked it into its final form. The committee modified the formula designed to guarantee that manufacturers' and processors' prices will cover increased costs. It also changed the flat exemptions from ceilings which the Senate had voted for meat, poultry, dairy products, grain, tobacco, petroleum and other items, making it possible for them to be restored after Aug. 20 if the decontrol board and the Secretary of Agriculture see fit.

But some provisions of the original extension bill which was vetoed June 29 reappeared unchanged in the final version, on which the Senate finally completed Congressional action early today. One of these deprived the OPA of final say on agricultural price ceilings and gave it to the Agriculture Department. Another sets up the powerful decontrol board. Still another abolishes the maximum average price order by which OPA sought to compel clothing manufacturers to produce a certain proportion of cheap garments.

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP)—The new price control law became effective immediately with President Truman's signature at 4:05 p. m., today, to run until next June 30.

All rent and price ceilings and other orders of the OPA which were in effect June 30 were automatically restored except:

1. Ceilings on meat, poultry, eggs, dairy products, grain and feed, soybeans, cottonseed, petroleum and its products, and tobacco and its products; and

2. The maximum average price order which required clothing manufacturers to turn out a certain proportion of cheap wear.

The OPA will be required, however, to raise many of the ceilings within 60 days and to change some of its former practices.

Consumer Resistance Cited

These increases have occurred in spite of the restraining influences at work to keep prices down. I had requested that the price line be held while the Congress considered the enactment of legislation to extend the Price Control Act. The consumer resistance to increases in the prices of goods makes further control unnecessary.

The behavior of prices and rents in the last four weeks has given the country a frightening foretaste of what would happen to the cost of living without price and rent control. Even though many factors were operating to restrain prices during this period, prices nevertheless have risen steadily and ominously. The Bureau of Labor Statistics index of twenty-eight basic commodities in the primary markets has shown an increase of 24.8 per cent in the twenty-six days since June 28, 1946, as against an increase of only 13.1 per cent in the three years and forty-two days between the signing of the hold-the-line order on May 17, 1943, and June 28, 1946.

Of this increase, only about 2 per cent can be attributed to the removal of subsidies. These, it must be remembered, are prewholesale figures. The impact of the increases has not yet been fully felt by consumers. Retailers have for the most part held to their OPA prices so long as their old inventories lasted tax policy. Such a tax program would, I realize, be unpalatable at a time when we are doing our utmost to increase production, but if it is the only alternative to the ravages of inflation we would have no choice.

I pledge the Administration to do its full part in this struggle, but it must not be forgotten that the battle against inflation is not the Government's battle alone—it is the people's battle as well. Consumers must vigorously resist exorbitant prices. Black markets cannot be suppressed solely by enforcement measures. Business men must, as controls are progressively removed, exercise self-restraint and forego the opportunity for short-run gain from profiteering in favor of the long-run advantage of stable prices and fair profits.

If it appears that all the efforts of the Government and the people will not be enough under the present legislation, I shall have no alternative but to call the Congress back in special session to strengthen the price-control laws and to enact such fiscal and monetary legislation as we need to save us from the threat of economic disaster.

TWO OPA BILLS ARE COMPARED

Parallels and Differences in Vital Sections Noted.

Washington, July 25 (A. P.).—Here is a comparison of the new OPA bill and the one President Truman vetoed June 29:

Length of OPA extension: To June 30, 1947, in both bills.

Rent Control: Full authority for OPA to continue rent control under both measures.

Specific Decontrols: New bill provides that meat, dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soy beans and food and feed products made from them shall remain uncontrolled until August 20, but ceilings may be restored then unless a three-member decontrol board decides they should remain uncontrolled. Poultry, eggs, food and feed products made from them, tobacco and its products shall remain free of controls unless the Secretary of Agriculture and the decontrol board act affirmatively to restore them, but this may not be done until August 20. Petroleum and its products similarly are to remain uncontrolled unless the Price Administrator and decontrol board decide to restore controls. The vetoed bill did not provide special treatment for any specific commodities.

Pricing Formulas Compared.

Manufacturers' Pricing Formula: Under the new bill, ceilings for producing, manufacturing and processing industries would have to return on an industry-wide basis, the average dollar price of a given product in 1940, plus the average increase in cost since. A ceiling would be considered legal if it reflected the average current cost plus "a reasonable profit." The vetoed bill said that ceilings must reflect to individual producers, processors and manufacturers their own prices in the first half of October, 1941, plus the average industry-wide increase in unit costs since then.

Wholesalers' and Retailers' Markups and Discounts: The new bill provides that maximum prices applicable to wholesalers and retailers must allow current acquisition costs plus such percentage markup or discount as was in effect March 31, 1946. The old bill made last January 1 the determining date.

Provisions common to both bills:

The Secretary of Agriculture rather than the Price Administrator is to say what farm commodities are to be controlled. (The decontrol board would have overriding authority over both.)

Subsidies are trimmed from $2,000,000,000 asked by the OPA to $1,000,000,000; no food subsidies can be paid after April 1, 1947.

Automobile and appliance dealers would be allowed their full pre-war discounts and markups until their sales return to the 1939-41 average.

"Map"—the OPA's maximum average price order designed to keep low-priced clothing on the market—is abolished.

Provisions of New OPA

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 25—The new price-control law became effective immediately with President Truman's signature at 4:05 P. M. (Eastern Standard Time) today, to run until next June 30.

All rent and price ceilings and other orders of the OPA which were in effect June 30 were automatically restored except:

1. Ceilings on meat, poultry, eggs, dairy products, grain and feed, soybeans, cottonseed, petroleum and its products, and tobacco and its products; and

2. The maximum average price order which required clothing manufacturers to turn out a certain proportion of cheap wear.

The OPA will be required, however, to raise many of the ceilings within sixty days and to change some of its former practices.

The measure lays down a formula under which ceilings on many manufactured goods must be increased, and establishes a decontrol board with authority superior in some respects to that of the OPA.

The new law requires OPA to fix ceilings which would reflect 1940 average industry-wide prices on each product, plus cost increases which have occurred since that time.

Industry advisory committees must take the first step toward any price revision. They are required to submit "comprehensive" cost information to support petitions for price increases. The OPA has thirty to sixty days after receipt of such information to grant or deny a petition.

If the OPA fails to act within this time, the industry could take its petition to the emergency court of appeals for a ruling. This is a special court set up under the price control bill to hear complaints against OPA regulations.

N.A.M. REPEATS ANTI-OPA VIEW

New Act Fails To Remove Objections, Wason Asserts

New York, July 25 (AP)—Continued opposition to the Office of Price Administration was expressed tonight by Robert R. Wason, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, in a statement which added that "manufacturing industry of course can be counted on to step up its production as fast as the new OPA allows and to keep its prices as low as wages and other costs permit."

Noting that amendments in the renewal act "do not remove manufacturers' objections to the wartime act," Wason said:

"N.A.M. still opposes OPA, despite some attempts to encourage production written into the new law by Congress, because it restricts the freedom of the American people and substituted the price judgments of a few superbureaucrats for the judgments of 40,000,000 American housewives who have given us a four-week demonstration of their own ability to control prices."

Asks Competitive Market

Reiterating the belief that "a free and fully competitive market in this country is the only way to full production," the N.A.M. head said the OPA was created "to restrict production of civilian goods" and "that is exactly what it . . . must continue to do."

Stating that "retailers may be counted upon to give full compliance and co-operation to the restored OPA," Lew Hahn, general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, said the public and business should appreciate Congress' "effort to insure that price control shall be realistic and reasonable."

From the language of the act, Hahn said, "Congress has completely justified the campaign of the N.R.D.G.A. to secure price regulations which would encourage and not prohibit needed production.

"Whether the bill resulting from the congressional effort to speed production brings out more goods or not will depend on OPA administration."

A.& P. Pledges Co-Operation

Hahn urged appointment of a man "thoroughly familiar with retail distribution" as a member of the price decontrol board.

John A. Hartford, president of A.& P. grocery chain, said "The A.& P. will continue its traditional policy of keeping the cost of food as low as possible. We will cooperate wholeheartedly with OPA, as we have from its inception."

Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., expressed assurance that "every effort will be made to bring to the people of America a sufficient supply of essential foods at the lowest possible prices," and added:

"We hope the Administration will be realistic and practical in administering the act, thereby encouraging the greatest production of goods, which in the long run is the best deterrent against inflation.

Meats, Butter Cited

"The present availability of meats and butter at lowering prices is the best proof of this."

George A. Renard, executive secretary of the National Association of Purchasing Agents, which represents 10,000 buyers for corporate consumers (rather than the ultimate consumers), said:

"The new law will be as good or as bad as the Administration makes it. The revived OPA will start to work with two strikes on it, and much will depend on how well the agency can handle the problem of price rollbacks and how it treats the Barkley amendment."

HIGHER MEAT PRICE IN FALL PREDICTED

Agriculture Department Says Charges May Be 15 to 35% Above Levels in June

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The Agriculture Department estimated today that meat prices, despite larger supplies, will be 15 to 35 per cent higher this fall and winter than in June.

The report said the increase might be only 15 to 20 per cent if price controls on most cost-of-living items were restored and consumer prices in general rose only moderately.

It added, however, that the meat cost rise might run to 35 per cent if the general cost of living climbed by 20 per cent.

The Office of Price Administration has estimated that subsidies, ended June 30, held meat prices down by five to ten cents a pound.

The department estimated fall and winter meat supplies at 18 to 20 per cent above spring and summer levels, but said high incomes would keep both demand and prices up well into 1947.

It figured that the peak meat prices would be reached in this summer's season of low production.

The department forecast 1947 meat production might be 1,000,000,000 pounds under the 1946 levels and about 3,000,000,000 pounds less than the 1944 record output, which was 24,000,000,000 pounds.

MAY STRICKEN ILL; UNABLE TO FACE PROBERS TODAY

Counsel Reports Kentucky Legislator Has 'Serious' Heart Attack.

GARSSON RESIGNS

Quits as Head of Munitions Firm Now Under Senate Investigation.

WASHINGTON, July 25 — (AP) Counsel for Representative May (D.-Ky.) reported late today that the House Military chairman had suffered a heart attack necessitating postponement of his appearance tomorrow for questioning about his relations with a midwest munitions combine.

The first announcement came from Chairman Mead (D.-N. Y.) of the Senate War Investigating committee just after a closed hearing at which the senators sought more information on a story that May appealed to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on behalf of a munitions maker's son who was facing court martial for disobedience.

Condition Serious

Later May's lawyer, Warren Magee, told a reporter his information came by telephone from the May apartment and indicated that the lawmaker's condition was serious.

"I was told that the doctor had absolutely forbidden Mr. May to get out of bed," Magee said, "and that it would be impossible for him to testify tomorrow."

The attorney said his informant (he believed he was talking to May's daughter) seemed quite upset and he did not press her for details.

"My information," Magee said, "is that he is suffering from a serious chronic heart condition aggravated by strain and overexhaustion."

The lawyer referred further inquiries to May's physician, Dr. Henry M. Lowden, who was not immediately reachable.

Tonight Dr. Lowden said the 71-year-old legislator had been suffering from a heart ailment and under his treatment for several years.

"Recently," he said, "due to physical and nervous strain his condition has been aggravated.

"I saw him this afternoon and found it necessary to confine him to his bed for a time. His condition was not so good."

It probably will be "several days" before May is active again, Dr. Lowden said, perhaps "a week or so."

Sell Witnesses Transcript

Simultaneously with the disclosure of May's collapse, the Mead committee gave permission for newspapers and wire services to buy a transcript of this afternoon's testimony by the Army witnesses. Previously it had been planned to keep what they had to say secret.

The first of those witnesses was Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, who had been identified by the committee as the bearer of the first of two letters which May addressed to General Eisenhower, in reference to Capt. Joseph H. Garsson, son of Murray Garsson of the munitions combine. Porter was accompanied to the hearing by William N. Porter, former major general and once chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, reported by the committee to have had young Garsson transferred into that branch of the Army.

The transcript showed Waitt as being questioned first, in considerable detail, about a wedding party in New York for Murray Garsson's daughter, which he attended and at which previous witnesses said May also was a guest.

The general insisted repeatedly that he had War Department business in New York.

Under questioning by Senator Connally (D.-Tex.) and others, Waitt acknowledged that he went to New York on Army travel orders. He said he needed information on the progress in building a new plant for a secret war gas—that he wanted speed and went to see the officials of the company concerned to get speed. The plane itself, he said, was in California.

Sen. Connally broke in: "I know it is a normal stunt in the Army when a couple of officers want to go hunting in North Dakota for them to get travel orders to go and inspect something in North Dakota and then go to on the hunt. It occurred to me that you were attempting to use a device to have the government pay for the trip."

The senator pursued the point:

"Is that why you went, or did you go to the party? You had the travel orders because you knew you were going to this party on that date and you made your travel arrangements to fit the party."

General Waitt: "I went up on Sunday, probably rather than on Monday or Tuesday, because of the party. x x x I did my business."

Senator Connally: "Did the Garssons pay any of your travel expenses up there?"

General Waitt: "No, sir."

Senator Knowland (R.-Calif.) wanted to know: "Did all the members of the Chemical Warfare Service staff have the same business?"

General Waitt: "I didn't know."

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.): "You were the only one?"

General Waitt: "I had that business. I don't know what the others had to do."

Other Officers Present

The Committee has had testimony that a number of other officers were at the party.

At one point in the discussion of travel practices by high Army officers, Connally commented that "it is a scandal in the Army. x x x I think it is an absolute shame and an outrage and a graft on the government."

Asked who paid his hotel bill on the trip in question, Waitt said he was a guest of the father of the bride.

He said he made several trips to New York on official business connected with speeding the gas plant, seeing officials of the American Cyanamid company.

While the testimony of Waitt and Porter came out piecemeal from the Commercial Transcription company, the Mead committee laid plans to go ahead with its meeting at 9 a.m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow, the hour set for May's appearance. Senator Ferguson said May's condition might improve enough in the meantime for him to appear.

However, Senator Mead, in announcing his information from Magee at a news conference, said he was told May would have to "remain quiet for several days."

Reports that May was ill had circulated earlier when he did not appear at a Senate-House conference on differences over legislation for domestic control of atomic energy.

Release Several Documents

Along with release of this afternoon's private testimony, the committee released several documents from the War department. Among them:

1. A memorandum from Col. Hubert D. Hoover, assistant judge advocate general, to Col. Oscar B. Abbott, legislative and liaison division, on Captain Garsson's trial by court martial.

2. A memorandum from General Jacob L. Devers to Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall, on the effectiveness of the 4.2 mortar shell.

3. A letter from Waitt to Col. Harold Brooks, chief of the personnel division, Chemical Warfare Service, in which he acknowledged that he carried a letter addressed by May to Eisenhower discussing clemency for young Garsson.

4. A memorandum from Waitt on the effectiveness of the 4.2 mortar shell of a type turned out by a Garsson plant. Mead said that it was only a "partial and preliminary" report, and declared that the committee had rejected it with instructions that a more detailed one be furnished "quickly".

29 Soldiers Killed

Waitt's report on the 4.2 inch shell said he found records showing that out of some 3,000,000 expended, 47 exploded prematurely in use, killing 29 soldiers and injuring 83 others.

He added, however, that the companies under investigation made only the shell body and that the premature blasts were the result of fuse defects—not by body defects.

Waitt reported that the 4.2 shells "rendered a great service to the American Army in all theaters."

General Devers asserted that "instances of defective ammunition and of casualties resulting therefrom were rare considering the character and extent of their service." He said the 4.2 inch chemical mortar was "one of the most effective close support weapons that we had."

The report on young Garsson's trial repeated previous information from the Army that he refused to place his Chemical Mortar company in an assigned position, contending that the position was tactically unsound; that he was relived of command; that other officers agreed with his estimate of the position, and that his successor was not required to go into the designated spot.

It was related in the report that defense witnesses, under whom Captain Garsson had served, testified that he had served with credit and displayed "marked cooperation, initiative, skill and leadership."

Young Garsson was convicted and sentenced to dismissal on Ap. 7, 1945, with a recommendation that the sentence be suspended.

Upon review by the judge advocate general of the Sixth Corps clemency was recommended, but the clemency recommendation was omitted when the record was forwarded after review to General Eisenhower.

The final action reported was that of Eisenhower's European headquarters in suspending the sentence.

DR. GARSSON QUITS COMPANY

Arms Combine Promoter To Sell Batavia Interests

Chicago, July 25 (AP)—Dr. Henry M. Garsson, promoter of a munition combine under investigation by a Senate committee, announced tonight that he and all other present officers and directors of Batavia Metal Products, Inc., and subsidiaries had tendered their resignations.

The Batavia company has been identified as one of the principal firms in the combine.

Meanwhile, it was learned from Charles F. Farmiloe, clerk of Circuit Court of Kane County, that "about seven" civil actions seeking "more than $40,000" from the Batavia company and a subsidiary, the Challenge company, had been filed since July 10.

To Sell Batavia Interests

Dr. Garsson said in a statement released by a public relations counsel that he had entered into an agreement with Fred M. Echoff, of Chicago, a director and representative of Rausch Industries, Inc., of Detroit, for the acquisition of his entire interests in the company.

Dr. Garsson said that "it is expected that within a few days a new board of directors will be elected and Ray R. Rausch, of Detroit, will become president of the company."

Usefulness Impaired

The statement said that Dr. Garsson was "severing his relationship with Batavia Metal Products, Inc., because he felt his usefulness to the company has been impaired by recent publicity and to insure that the employés of the company at Batavia, Ill., and at Centerville, Iowa, amounting to more than 1,200 people, may continue to be employed and that the company may look forward to continued successful operation of its business.

Rausch, according to the statement, was associated with Ford Motor Company for 25 years and was vice president and director in charge of all Ford production at the time he left the Ford organization in January this year.

Farmiloe said most of the suits filed in Kane county, home of Batavia Products, were collection cases on contracts. The largest, he said, was one filed by R. L. Wagner, St. Charles (Ill.) plumbing contractor seeking payment of a claim of $20,593.

The suits, he said, were "about equally divided," half against the Batavia company and half against the Challenge firm.

Receivership Suits Filed

The latest suits were two filed today by the Crane Company, manufacturers of plumbing equipment, asking that a receiver be appointed for the Batavia company and for the Challenge company.

A Crane attorney said that as a result of the transfer of ownership announced by Dr. Garsson, dismissal of the two suits will be sought tomorrow.

The Crane suits said that the Batavia company owned $292.33 for merchandise purchased between February 12 and June 1, 1946, and the Challenge company owed $2,505.85.

Attorney Albert M. Blum, representing Crane, said he had conferred with a Rausch representative and had been assured Crane's bills would be paid. Blum said he would file the motion for dismissal of the suits tomorrow.

May Revealed as Intervening In Capt. Garsson's Army Trial

War Department's Records Show Kentucky Congressman Twice Asked Eisenhower to Help Disobedient Officer.

Washington, July 25 (A. P.).—The War Department said today that Representative May (D.-Ky.) twice intervened with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during the court-martial of Capt. Joseph H. Garsson, son of a Mid-Western munitions maker under congressional investigation.

In response to inquiries, the department said that the House Military Committee chairman sent two letters to Eisenhower in behalf of young Garsson, court-martialed on a charge of willfully disobeying a regimental commander.

The letters went to Eisenhower in the European theater. They were handled in the routine manner, the department said, and had "no influence whatever in the disposition of the case."

Capt. Garsson was brought to trial last April 2 in Europe. The War Department said that the court found him guilty, and sentenced him to dismissal, but recommended clemency. Garsson eventually was relieved from active duty last January 22.

The department said that a summary of the facts in the case showed that Capt. Garsson was ordered to place his chemical mortar in a certain area near Gries, France, on January 2, 1945. He protested, saying that the position was tactically unsound.

Colleagues Back Captain.

On the following day, the regimental commander of the 143d Infantry (not further identified) ordered Garsson to move into the position. Garsson refused that order, as well as a second one from the commander. He then was relieved of his command, and the charge of willful disobedience was filed.

An investigating officer, on February 28, recommended an administrative reprimand, rather than a trial. However, in March, the commander of the Sixth Corps ordered the court-martial.

Evidence at the trial discloses, the department said, that officers testifying for the defense backed up Garsson's assertion that the position at Gries was tactically unsound. They also testified that the officer who replaced Garsson was not required to occupy the position.

Clemency Recommendation.

With the recommendation for clemency, the report of the case went to the Sixth Corps headquarters, where the corps judge-advocate indorsed the clemency recommendation. The Sixth Corps commander, however, forwarded the case to Eisenhower's headquarters without such a recommendation.

There, Brig.-Gen. Edward C. Betts, staff judge-advocate, and his assistant reviewing officer, urged the suspension of the sentences "in view of the circumstances and the previous creditable record of the accused." On May 15, Eisenhower confirmed the sentence, but followed Bett's recommendation and suspended its execution. Capt. Garsson returned from Europe on October 22, 1945.

Eisenhower told Washington reporters today that he could not recall having seen a letter from Representaive May asking him to intervene in the Garsson court-martial, adding that he was told this morning that the letter did not reach his desk and might have gone directly to the Judge Advocate-General's office.

Eisenhower talked with reporters after a call on President Truman. He was asked if there was any disciplinary action contemplated by the War Department against Army officers drawn into the senatorial inquiry. He replied that, as a matter of policy, the Inspector-General inquiries into all cases in which officers or privates are involved.

Correspondence Released.

In the current case, he said, he had no specific information on such an investigation, but "if we hear anything about either a private or a general, an investigation is undertaken by the Inspector-General." The Senate committee released correspondence which showed that May wrote to Eisenhower twice in Capt. Garsson's behalf. The Captain is the son of Murray Garsson, a promoter of the munitions combine which the committee is investigating.

May Letters to Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP).—Following is the text of the correspondence between Representative Andrew J. May, Democrat, of Kentucky, and General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower as made public by the Senate war investigating committee:

April 12, 1945.

Dear General Eisenhower:

I am writing you about a matter which is of such a nature that probably I should not even call it to your attention. But regardless of the terrible responsibilities you have, I know the principles of justice would stand high with you under any circumstances.

For that reason I am writing you relative to a young officer who has come into some difficulty in connection with orders from his superior officer. I have reference to Captain Joseph H. Garsson, headquarters, 38th Chemical Mortar Battalion, A.P.O. 758. I have been informed that some kind of court martial proceedings have been ordered against this soldier and his father is one of my warm personal friends. That, of course, is my interest in the matter.

I would appreciate it if you would direct some one representing you to look into the charges, whatever they are and see that a proper and fair consideration is given to this soldier, who I understand with this minor exception has an excellent record. I hope you will not regard me as intruding where I should not.

We here in Congress are deeply enthused and inspired by the thrilling victories you are achieving for Allied armies, and we are particularly proud of our generals and fighting men of the American forces. Good luck to you and to them.

With best wishes I am sincerely yours,

JUL 26 1946

JUL 26 1946

A. J. MAY
Chairman House Military Affairs Committee.
April 22, 1945

Dear Congressman May:

Your letter of April 12, has just come to my desk. I am sending it to the proper authorities who will make an investigation concerning the charges brought against Captain Joseph H. Garsson.

Sincerely,
Dwight D. Eisenhower.
May 12, 1945

Dear General Eisenhower:

I appreciate very much your courtesy in acknowledging my letter of April 12, 1945, as promptly as you have with reference to Captain Joseph H. Garsson, a warm personal friend of mine and a young man in whom I have been personally interested for a number of years for whose integrity and honesty I do not hesitate to vouch.

I have kept in touch with Captain Garsson during his military career and was intimate with him prior thereto, and know that on one occasion he requested his commanding officer to permit him to go back into combat after he had been assigned to headquarters where he would not have been subjected to any of the hazards of military conflict.

I assure you that this young man is patriotic, has ability and courage and I hope when you have all the facts you can make a final report completely exonerating him of any wrongs or lack of proper military discipline and obedience to his commanding officer. I am confident when all the facts are disclosed you will feel more like commending him than censuring him.

Within the hour we have received some tremendously interesting war news from the battlefronts: the complete collapse and unconditional surrender of the German armies in Italy, the announcement of the fall of Berlin by Stalin, and the surrender of the German forces in Austria, all of which demonstrate the wisdom of the General Staff when they selected you as the Allied military leader.

With renewed confidence and added faith in your military generalship and your military as well as diplomatic statesmanship, I am cordially and sincerely yours,

A. J. MAY,
Chairman Committee on Military Affairs, House of Representatives.

REACH AGREEMENT ON ATOM CONTROL

House Conferees Give in to Senate Plan for Civilian Supervision.

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP) House conferees gave in today and agreed to the Senate plan for undiluted civilian control of atomic energy with a virtual monopoly for the government on patents and inventions in the field of the new power.

The measure now heads into a probable rough reception in the House where a powerful group wants military representation on the proposed five-man domestic control commission, and opposes the ban on private atomic patents.

"Must" Legislation

The House gets first crack at the conference agreement, then the Senate will act. The measure is rated as "must" legislation to be cleared to the White House before the 79th Congress adjourns, probably next week.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) of the Senate conferees summed up the committee's work on the bill as "satisfactory."

The last meeting of House and Senate agents late today brought settlement of two important points:

1. The House members agreed to accept the Senate's provision on patents. This provides that inventions and discoveries in the field of atomic energy and fissionable materials shall not be patentable. To spur development, however, a patent compensation board would be authorized to make awards to inventors.

2. The Senators took a House amendment which McMahon interpreted as allowing the armed forces —with the President's permission— to manufacture the casings or containers for atomic weapons, but not the fissionable material that goes into them. The atomic energy commission would have a monopoly on the production of fissionable material, but could arrange for the operation of facilities under management contract.

Two Disputes Likely

Each of the two points holds the possibility of further dispute in the House.

A potent group in that body contends the ban on private patents would discourage inventions to utilize the new power source industrially.

In addition, McMahon's interpretation of the section specifying the military's share in the actual production of atomic weapons differed widely from the one accepted in the House. Many there assumed that the President could authorize the Army or Navy to make the actual bombs.

Both Houses had agreed that the President could authorize the commission from time to time to deliver to the armed forces such fissionable materials or weapons as he deemed necessary in the interest of national defense.

75 Million Loan For Philippines Is Advanced

House Committee Insists on Yearly Interest of at Least 2% on Credit

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The House Banking Committee today approved a $75,000,000 loan for the Philippines to meet the budgetary requirement of the new republic.

The committee wrote into the bill a stipulation that the Treasury, in drawing up the loan agreement, must require interest of at least 2 per cent yearly on the loan.

As introduced by Representative C. Jasper Bell, Democrat of Missouri, the legislation called for a $100,000,000 credit to cover an anticipated budget deficit in the current fiscal year. However, Treasury secretary John W. Snyder and William L. Clayton, Assistant Secretary of State, advised the committee yesterday that $75,000,000 would be sufficient.

The legislation now goes to the House for consideration. Administration leaders hope to complete action on the bill before Congress adjourns next week.

A bill authorizing the return of $6,269,750 worth of securities to the Philippine government was passed today by the House and sent to the President.

The funds were received in 1938 as security for military equipment loaned to the Philippine Commonwealth government to train troops.

Another Philippine bill was sent to Mr. Truman today by the House. It directs that war-damaged property must be rebuilt or repaired before any cash payments are made to claimants. If this is impractical, the bill states that the requirement can be waived if the claimant agrees to reinvest his payment "in such manner as will further the rehabilitation or economic development of the Philippines."

Armament Talks with Argentine Ruled Out by State Department

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP) The State department doesn't want United States military or naval leaders to discuss armament questions with Argentina, it was learned today.

However, officials insisted that the department's opposition to such discussions had not come to an issue in connection with the South American tour of Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr.

Reports from South America had stated that Halsey was barred by the department from visiting Buenos Aires, where he would presumably have conferred with Argentine government leaders.

In response to inquiries about this report, Lincoln White, department press officer, said today that Halsey's itinerary "was worked out by the State and Navy departments and both sides fully agreed on it."

Specifically, he told a questioner that Halsey never even asked whether he would or could go to Argentina.

The State department in general is opposed to such visits to Argentina, authorities said, because any ranking military or naval man going there would almost inevitably have to discuss the prospects for Argentine acquisition of American arms.

The department is intent upon making clear to the Buenos Aires government that the only way to get such arms is for the Argentines to rid themselves completely of Nazi persons and influences and legally adhere to various inter-American agreements.

The American government is advocating standardization of armaments throughout the hemisphere in connection with proposals for a long-term defense pact. However, legislation to permit such standardization has not yet been passed by Congress.

WALLACE FOR PUSHING LATIN AMERICA TRADE

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, said today he saw great possibilities for considerably expanded trade between Latin America and the United States, and hoped it would contribute to higher living standards throughout the hemisphere.

"If we have higher living standards we will have better industrial markets all around," Wallace declared in an interview.

He expressed belief some of the pre-war German and Japanese trade in Latin America will be taken over by the United States, while Latin-American countries themselves, he said, will build industries to take care of a substantial part of those supplies they obtained from Germany and Japan.

Secretary Wallace said the revival of the OPA in the United States would greatly protect Latin-American countries against internal inflation. An outspoken supporter of the $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain, he asserted it would also help expand United States-Latin-American trade.

"World trade as a whole will be helped," he said, "because the agreement enables Britain to remove some of the restrictions that prevailed during the period of exchange shortage."

He said he had plans to visit Mexico as the guest of President Avila Camacho early in September.

TRUMAN COMPLETES ECONOMIC SET-UP

Webb New Budget Director; Clark-Keyserling on Advisory Council.

WASHINGTON, July 25 — (AP) President Truman all but completed the administration's new economic high command set-up today with selection of James E. Webb as budget director and these other announcements:

1. Appointment of John Davidson Clark of the University of Nebraska and Leon H. Keyserling of the Federal Housing Agency as members of the three-man economic advisory council. The third member is to be named later.

2. Transfer of the functions of the Office of Economic Stabilization, headed by Chester Bowles, until Bowles resigned in the recent Congressional OPA fight, to the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion under John R. Steelman.

3. Plans to go outside OPA for the members of the new decontrol board, set up to give OPA instructions on where price ceilings may be imposed. The President said he was doing that to make sure the jury wouldn't be packed.

4. Assignment of George W. Taylor, former chairman of the old War Labor Board, as chairman of the OWMR advisory council.

Webb, from Oxford, N. C., and formerly an assistant to undersecretary of the Treasury O. Max Gardner, succeeds Harold D. Smith. Smith left the budget office to become vice president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

Since Smith resigned Paul Appleby, assistant budget director, has been filling in.

Marine Corps Veteran

The 39-year-old Webb was a Marine Corps Major during the war. His work largely was with an aviation wing in training and in military organization and administration.

Webb came to government service last March with Gardner, his former law partner.

Born Oct. 7, 1907, in Cranville, N. C., where his father was superintendent of schools, he was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1928 with Phi Beta Kappa honors.

He studied law in spare time while working as a law clerk, then took a flight training course at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., and served a year on active duty as a Marine flier.

From 1932 to 1934 he was secretary to Rep. Edward W. Pou (D-NC), and studied law at night at George Washington University here. He was admitted to the District of Columbia bar in 1936.

From 1936 until well into the war he was successively personnel director, assistant to the President, Secretary and Treasurer, and Vice President of the Sperry Gyroscope Company during that concern's war expansion.

Lauded by Warren

Comptroller General Lindsay Warren said today the Webb appointment "means that a highly capable man will fill this very important position. x x x His knowledge of the legislative branch, his fine business experience and equipment and his personality, should stand him in well for his difficult days ahead.

As Budget Director, Webb will be the White House's spokesman on fiscal affairs.

Truman Urges House to Speed Bill on Housing

Writes to Rayburn, Spence and McCormack Asking It Be Brought to Floor

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP).—President Truman today called on Democratic House leaders to spur action on the Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill providing for a long-range housing program.

The appeal was made in separate letters to Speaker Sam Rayburn, of Texas; the House majority leader, Representative John W. McCormack, of Massachusetts, and Representative Brent Spence, of Kentucky, chairman of the House Banking Committee.

The Senate passed the legislation several weeks ago. Housing Administrator Wilson W. Wyatt told reporters this week that "lobbying" has been effective in keeping the bill in the House committee.

Letter to Rayburn

President Truman's letter to Speaker Rayburn:

"Dear Sam:

"Representatives of groups have waited upon me and members of my Administration indorsing and urging the early passage of S. 1592, the general housing act of 1946, which is essential to provide houses at costs and rentals within the reach of the majority of veterans.

"On repeated occasions I have not only expressed myself as favorable to the legislation, but requested its speedy enactment. I have today written Chairman Spence of the House Banking and Currency Committee, urging the earliest practicable consideration of the measure.

"I trust that you will exert your very best efforts in bringing about immediate consideration of this legislation, which is so essential to the welfare of the veteran and housing generally."

Letter to McCormack

To Representative McCormack:

"Dear John:

"I am enclosing a copy of a letter which I have today written to Chairman Spence of the Banking and Currency Committee, which I believe is self-explanatory.

"I urge you to exert your best efforts to see that this legislation, vital to the veteran and housing generally, is given the earliest practicable consideration. Time is truly of the essence."

Letter to Spence:

To Chairman Spence:

"Dear Mr. Chairman:

"I urge upon you and your committee the earliest practicable action on S. 1592, the general housing act of 1946, which is essential to the over?all housing program and particularly necessary at this time to make effective the veterans' emergency housing program.

"The veterans' emergency housing program involves two equally important tasks: (1) to expedite the production of building materials and finished homes, which is being done under the veterans' emergency housing act of 1946, and (2) to make sure that these houses are made available in sufficient volume at sales, prices or rentals which the majority of our veterans and their families can afford, which cannot be achieved without passage of S. 1592.

"It is my considered judgment that S. 1592 is urgently needed. I am confident that if this bill reaches the floor the Congress, recognizing the need and the equity of adequate housing for the veteran, will pass the bill in question.

"Time is of the essence. I therefore urge again the earliest practicable action on this matter by you and your committee."

Congress Honors Gen. Billy Mitchell

Votes Medal to Sister of Prophet of Air Power

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP).—Congress paid belated tribute today to the late Brigadier General William Mitchell, better known as Billy Mitchell, prophet of air power who was court-martialed for his outspoken views.

The House passed and sent to President Truman a Senate-approved bill authorizing posthumous award of a special medal to the flyer's sister, Mrs. Martin Fladoes, of Milwaukee, Wis.

The measure declares that the medal shall be presented to Mrs. Fladoes "in the name of the people of the United States . . . in recognition of his (Mitchell's) outstanding pioneer service and foresight in the field of American military aviation."

General Mitchell was a controversial figure in this nation during the early twenties, because of his advocacy of a separate air force. He insisted that airplanes could sink warships—a contention that got him in hot water with the Navy. To prove his point, he got permission in 1920 to conduct tests against captured German vessels. The Army bombers sent a battleship and other vessels to the bottom.

Critics were quick to point out that the ships were stationary and the result wouldn't be the same in war. The controversy was only fanned by the experiments.

HART OPPOSES AAF MERGER CAMPAIGN

Washington, July 25 (A. P.).—Senator Hart (R.-Conn.) complained to the Senate today that President Truman had silenced naval officers' opposition to armed services merger plans but had not taken any action whatever about the Army Air Force propagandizing activities.

Hart, former commander of the American Asiatic fleet, told his colleagues in what he said would be his last major address as a member, that the Air Power League has been misrepresentative of the facts in working for a separate Army Air Force. The Connecticut Senator has announced his retirement at the end of this session.

He said the Navy fears that if unification is achieved under the present plan endorsed by President Truman, the Army and the Air Force, spread over the country, will always be in a stronger political position than the Navy.

Specifically protesting the merger plan to put control of all land based planes in the Army, Hart asserted:

"Despite any probable good will of the Army and an Air Force split off from the Army, the political position of those services will be used toward the disadvantage of the Navy," Hart said. "That disadvantage would be coupled with the other of being the numerical minority of one to two."

Leave-Pay Funds Getting Attention

Washington, July 25 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee signaled full steam ahead today on President Truman's request for $2,679,493,000 to pay enlisted men for unused furlough time.

While a Senate-House conference committee sought to decide whether the bill authorizing the terminal payments should provide for all cash or part in bonds, Chairman Cannon (D., Mo.) called a meeting of the Appropriations Committee for tomorrow to approve the actual money.

Noting that without an appropriation measure the authorizing legislation wouldn't mean much, Cannon said: "We expect to have our bill ready for the House by Monday."

The President sent his request for the funds to the committee late yesterday.

He estimated that average payments would be $165, with a total of $1,183,068,000 for the Army, $736,130,000 for the Navy and $60,295,000 for the Coast Guard.

Of the full amount, Mr. Truman estimated $2,658,658,000 would be needed for actual payments and $20,835,000 for administrative expenses.

The President's request assumed that Congress would eventually enact the plan providing for payment in bonds of all amounts in excess of $50.

NAME GEN. BEIGHTLER FOR REGULAR ARMY JOB

WASHINGTON, July 25 — (AP) President Truman today nominated Maj. Gen. Robert Sprague Beightler of the National Guard to be a brigadier general in the regular army of the United States.

Beightler is a native of Marysville, Ohio.

In a memorandum to the president of the Senate, the President said:

"Gen. Beightler's name is well known for his distinguished service as commander of the 37th Infantry Division in the Pacific. However special legislation will be necessary for his appointment as he is not a regular army officer.

"I hope you will arrange for the necessary modification of the law to meet this situation."

Officers Suspected In $50,000 Theft

Washington, July 25 (A. P.).—Two Army officers are under investigation in connection with the theft of $50,000 in gold coins in the Pacific Military Theater. This was disclosed by the War Department, which declined to give details.

"Additional facts will be released," Col. James R. Pierce of the Public Relations Bureau said, "just as soon as their release will not jeopardize the case."

Army Opens Jet Fighter School

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP).—The Army Air Forces has opened a pilot training course for jet fighter planes at Williams Field, Chandler, Ariz., the War Department announced today. War-experienced fighter pilots make up the first class training in the P-80 Lockheed Shooting Star.

ARMY MAY ALLOT C-54S TO AIR LINES

Washington, July 25 (A. P.).—Chairman James M. Landis of the Civil Aeronautics Board said today he is hopeful that something can be done about temporary assignment of Army C-24 transports to international airlines.

Landis declined, however, to make public a letter on the question from Secretary of War Patterson.

Use of Army planes was proposed in an emergency created by the grounding of all Lockheed Constellations pending determination of modifications to insure their airworthiness. The grounding was ordered after a Constellation crashed on a crew-training flight near Reading, Pa., July 10.

The Air Co-ordinating Committee, representing all Government departments and agencies concerned with flying, recommended last week that the Army make some of its Douglas Skymasters available, and that the CAB determine the needs of the three airlines involved and allocate the planes.

PRICE OF NEWSPRINT MAY RISE $6.80 A TON

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The future price of newsprint under the revived OPA was somewhat uncertain tonight, but one official said that an increase of at least $6.80 a ton seemed "logical."

For the time being, however, the ceiling has again become $67, the figure in effect before OPA was suspended.

An OPA official, who cannot be named, acknowledged that the situation was "tangled." He outlined it this way:

When price controls lapsed on July 1, OPA was considering an increase of $4 a ton over the $67 ceiling. Soon after controls lapsed, Canada revalued its dollar and raised the price $6.80 a ton, making it $73.80.

OPA's problem now is whether to grant $4, or to make the increase at least $6.80 to take account of the Canadian monetary move.

The decision rests with Paul Porter, OPA chief, who has not made known his attitude. Another official, however, said it seemed logical the increase would have to be at least $6.80, otherwise Canadian mills might halt shipments. Canada is the source of 75 per cent of this country's supply.

HOUSE BODY VOTES EXTENSION OF RFC

Washington, July 25 (A. P.).—The House Banking Committee voted today to extend the life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to June 30, 1947.

Chairman Spence (D.-Ky.) told reporters they can be assured RFC will be continued further after that date. But, he said, a decision on a longer extension was deferred because of an understanding the committee would go into the legislation thoroughly next year.

The Senate has passed a bill prolonging RFC's life to June 30, 1952. When the House acts on the legislation approved by the Banking Committee, House and Senate conferees will seek a compromise on the differences.

Without an extension, the corporation would expire January 22, 1947.

The Banking Committee at the suggestion of the RFC put into its bill an amendment giving RFC authority to purchase loans guaranteed or insured under the provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights.

'46 Issue Defined By Congresswoman

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Looking towards the November elections, Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas (D., Cal.) declared today that this year's campaign issue is insurance of a lasting peace of "co-operation and accommodation."

Mrs. Douglas told the House that members returning home after congressional adjournment will be asked some "very searching questions" by constituents and that one of the chief ones will be: "What is the issue in this political campaign?"

Answering her own question, she said:

"The issue is peace, not peace at any price, but a peace for which we are willing to work and think and vote here at home and in the United Nations. It must be a peace, not of capitulation, which is no peace, but of co-operation and accommodation."

Declaring that the United States, through possession of the secret to the atomic bomb, has "the heaviest responsibility" for making a lasting peace, Mrs. Douglas said that "all other issues are part of, and affect, the big issue," and continued:

"Today, as we prepare to adjourn for five months, we have been too late with too little in preparing for peace. God grant us time to catch up when we come back, those who do come back. . . .

"Today, living on a planet that is small and getting smaller it is literally true that we must have a world full of peace or no world at all. Man's destiny demands it."

47 GI Brides-To-Be Detained On Liner To Raise $500 Bonds

San Francisco, July 25 (AP)—The bonds of matrimony (at $500 a bond) were strained pretty thin today for a half a hundred New Zealand brides-to-be. But everything turned out well.

Failure to have at hand $500 for bond to insure admittance to the United States—under a new immigration law — prompted the detention of the brides-to-be aboard the liner Mariposa upon arrival here to meet American servicemen fiances.

Few Have Required Money

The girls were pretty indignant—and tearful—when they were locked up in the liner's lounge while immigration officials, steamship company men, the Red Cross and assorted finances pondered the $500 headache.

But by midafternoon Red Cross and immigration authorities managed to rally aid, and tonight some of the girls already had gone down the gangplank into the arms of intended husbands.

Two days before their arrival, the girls were informed that it would be necessary to post a $500 bond before they could be admitted to this country. Most of them didn't have that much money.

The Red Cross, working in cooperation with the Immigration Service, notified each of the intended husbands of the requirement. They responded quickly.

Six hours after the Mariposa docked, arrangements had been made for bonds for 43 of the girls. The Red Cross said bonds for the remaining four were being arranged.

Bond Returnable

The $500 bond, returnable upon marriage within three months of arrival, is required under a new law which became effective June 29 The girls boarded the Mariposa on July 7 without knowledge of the new law.

"It's a dirty trick," said Joy Buckeridge, a small, good-looking brunette who's going to Union City, N.J., to marry Jack Pinajain.

Among the arrivals were June Hindmarsh, of Papakura, who is going to Glen Haven, Wis., to marry Dale Knapp, and Lalus Castle, of Aukland, en route to Atlanta, Ga., to marry Stephen Heybach.

The Mariposa also brought 151 brides and 75 children of American former service men, 71 army and navy personnel and 532 other passengers.

It was the Mariposa's last voyage under War Shipping Administration charter. The ship will be returned to her owners, the Matson Line, August 1.

Aleutians Navy Base Under Quarantine

Seattle, July 25 (A. P.).—A diphtheria quarantine of the Adak Island Navy Base in the Aleutians was reported yesterday from Alsaka Sea Frontier headquarters at Kodiak.

The quarantine was imposed after seven positive cases and thirteen suspected cases were diagnosed late last week, said the announcemnt, which added: "The situation is considered well under control."

TO MOON VIA ATOM

Chicago, July 25 (A. P.).—R. L. Farnsworth, president of the United States Rocket Society, says that Army Air Forces reports on the practicability of atomic energy for powering airplanes should result in rockets reaching the moon within the next two years.

Officials of the Army Air Forces in Washington this week reported that experiments aimed at powering airplanes with atomic energy had progressed to the point where the idea seemed practical.

Farnsworth today said that rocket enthusiasts "have known for years that atomic power was the answer to the fuel problem presented by the necessity of obtaining a speed of seven miles per second in order to escape the gravitational pull of the earth."

"Utilization of atomic power in planes will make planes of great size perfectly feasible," he said. "It also means that any means of locomotion can be powered in this manner. The next, and inevitable, step is the use of the atom to power interplanetary rockets. You should see a rocket on the moon within two years, if not sooner."

Donovan Urges World Intelligence

Utica, July 25 (A. P.).—World intelligence should be the first line of defense, says Major-Gen. William J. Donovan, who directed the United States Office of Strategic Services in world war II.

Donovan told the annual conference of the New York State Association of Police Chiefs last night that "in these days of atomic energy and biological warfare" the real question was not how or where, but when war might come.

"No policy is better than the information on which it is based," he said.

Col. R. A. Quist, commandant of the British Army 16th general hospital where Mowrer is recuperating, personally operated on the writer. He said the operation was necessary "only to make sure the wound was thoroughly clean and that there was no danger of infection."

The Colonel estimated Mowrer would be in condition for removal to the Hadassah hospital "in five ~~mm~~ or six days." Presently, it is safer to keep Mowrer at the army hospital until the wound starts healing properly, Col. Quist said.

(ADVANCE)-LONDON, JULY 25-(AP)-GREAT BRITAIN AND THE NETHERLANDS SHORTLY WILL REQUEST THE ALLIED CONTROL COMMISSION TO PERMIT SHARPLY-INCREASED MANUFACTURE OF JAPANESE TEXTILES FOR EXPORT TO MALAYA AND THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC.

QUALIFIED SOURCES, IN CLOSE CONTACT WITH RUBBER, TEA AND TIN PRODUCTION, SAY TEXTILES RANK SECOND ONLY TO FOOD AS THE DESPERATE NEED OF FAR EASTERN WORKERS; AND THAT JAPANESE PRODUCTION IS VITAL.

DUTCH SOURCES SAY PEACETIME CONSUMPTION OF INEXPENSIVE TEXTILES TOTALLED 670,000,000 YARDS A YEAR IN THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES ALONE, AND ESTIMATE THAT SOME 750,000,000 YARDS WOULD BE CONSUMED IN THE NEXT TWELVE MONTHS IF IT WERE AVAILABLE.

MOST OF THE N.E.I. PURCHASES OF TEXTILES CAME FROM JAPAN BEFORE THE WAR, BUT THE DUTCH NOW SAY THEY MUST BUY WHEREVER TEXTILES CAN BE FOUND.

AN EQUALLY URGENT NEED IS REPORTED FROM BRITISH AREAS OF THE FAR EAST, WHERE SCARCITY OF BOTH TEXTILES AND RICE HAVE SENT LIVING COSTS SKYROCKETING, AND THROWN WAGE SCALES OUT OF BALANCE.

A QUALIFIED BRITISH SPOKESMAN SAID INCREASED PRODUCTION BY JAPANESE MILLS WAS DESIRABLE ON TWO COUNTS--FIRST TO GET BADLY NEEDED MATERIAL, AND SECOND AS A SOURCE OF REPARATIONS PAYMENTS.

THIS SOURCE SAID IT WAS NOT A CHOICE BETWEEN HIGH-COST AND LOW-COST TEXTILES, BUT BETWEEN LOW-COST TEXTILES AND NONE AT ALL. NATIVE WORKERS, HE EXPLAINED, CANNOT AFFORD HIGH-COST TEXTILES; AND TO RAISE WAGES TO MEET WESTERN PRODUCTION COSTS WOULD MEAN COMPLETE DISLOCATION OF PRICES ON FAR EASTERN RUBBER, TEA, COFFEE, SUGAR AND TOBACCO.

BOTH BRITISH AND DUTCH REPORT THAT PRODUCTION COSTS NOW ARE FROM TWO TO THREE TIMES ABOVE PREWAR FIGURES, AND ARE EXPECTED TO REMAIN SO INDEFINITELY AND TEXTILES EVEN LOWER LEVELS.

Paris, July 25--(AP)--French sources said tonight upward of 1,500 delegates were expected to participate in the general European peace conference opening in Luxembourg Palace next Monday.

Informants busy with arrangements for the delegates said nearly all the 21 nations had swelled their delegations to double the 750 persons which were first expected.

Russia, it appears, will have the largest mission, about 300; The United States delegation will number about 200, the french said, while yugoslavia will bring 170 delegates and czechoslovakia 60.

The French have tentatively set the opening of the conference for 3 p.m. monday when 17 nations will be given the opportunity to be heard on the draft treaties prepared by the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

The first plenary session will be opened with a welcome address by French President Georges Bidault. French sources said they expected the first clash of the conference immediately after Bidault's speech when the delegates prepare to elect a [redacted] president.

JUL 26 1946

The four-power foreign ministers council favor rotation of the presidency among their four countries, but the invited nations are expected to demand either that a permanent president be elected or the position be rotated among all member nations of the conference.

The French said they expected a minimum of 12 plenary sessions, many of which will be given over to opening remarks by leaders of all the delegations during the first days of the parley.

Other immediate subjects of discussion will be to decide if and when [redacted] countries--Italy, Germany, Austria, Bulgaria--will be invited to the conference.

Romania, hungary, finland and bulgaria--will be invited to the conference. The requests of other countries for participation--Turkey, Mexico, Egypt, Albania and Luxemburg--will also be taken up.

French sources said they expected a bitter fight to develop over whether a two-thirds majority or a simple majority vote shall govern conference decisions.

Because the session hall will only be able to seat 314 persons, the french said each country would be limited to 10 delegates during the full sessions.

By Edwin B. Greenwald

Istanbul, July 25--(ap)--The military commander of Istanbul ordered the indefinite suspension of two morning newspapers today shortly after issuing a proclamation warning that the Turkish Army would not tolerate publications which disturbed the "tranquility of the public."

Simultaneously, word was received from Izmir that possibly 100,000 persons were expected to attend a mass meeting there tonight in protest against the announced results of Sunday's national election--the first in the history of the Turkish Republic in which opposition parties were allowed to participate.

One of the suspended papers was the long-established Yeni Sabah, publiches by Cemalettin Saracoglu, while the other was the newly-founded Gerchek.

Both opposed the people's [redacted] party in the election and published a statement by Jelal Bayar, leader of the [redacted] opposition Democratic Party, accusing President Ismet Inonu's government of irregularities in the election.

The People's Party supports the government.

There was no [redacted] comment from the military, but a notice to Yeni Sabah said the paper had trespassed the directive of the military commander., Gen. Asim Tinaztepe.

Sofia, July 24 (delayed)--(ap)--Speaker Vassil Kolarov told the Bulgarian Parliament today that opposition parties will have the same freedom as the fatherland front parties in the forthcoming elections for a constituent assembly.

Reporting on conversations he had in Paris with U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, Kolarov said:

"The main reason for the new existing conditions between our countries is Bulgaria's regime which, according to Byrnes and Bevin, does

FOURTH NIGHT LEAD ATOMIC

BY HOWARD BLAKESLEE

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN OFF BIKINI, THURSDAY, JULY 25-(AP)-THE ROARING BLAST OF AN ATOMIC BOMB, EXPLODED UNDERWATER FOR THE FIRST TIME, SANK THE GREAT BATTLESHIP ARKANSAS AND TWO SMALLER CRAFT IN BREATHLESS MOMENTS TODAY AND DEALT MORTAL WOUNDS TO THE GIGANTIC AIRCRAFT CARRIER SARATOGA.

THE SARATOGA WENT DOWN MORE THAN SEVEN HOURS AFTER THE EXPLOSION, CHURNING THE WATER ANEW AS HER BULKHEADS COLLAPSED SLOWLY, ONE BY ONE.

AN OFFICIAL NAVY SPOKESMAN SAID THE BUOYS OF FIVE OF THE SIX SUBMERGED SUBMARINES IN THE TEST FLEET INDICATED THEY WERE RESTING ON THE BOTTOM, BUT IT COULD NOT BE DETERMINED IF THEY WERE CRUSHED OR HAD MERELY SETTLED BECAUSE THEIR AIR LINES WERE DAMAGED.

(BROADCASTS FROM THE SCENE SAID THE SARATOGA TOOK HER FINAL PLUNGE MORE THAN SEVEN HOURS AFTER THE BOMB EXPLODED AT 8:35 A.M., THURSDAY, BIKINI TIME--(4:35 P.M., WEDNESDAY, EASTERN STANDARD TIME.)

THE BOMB, TOUCHED OFF BY RADIO FROM BENEATH A MEDIUM LANDING SHIP, SENT A MASSIVE COLUMN OF WATER HURTLING MORE THAN A MILE INTO THE BLUE PACIFIC SKY, AND A THICK, OBSCURING CLOUD OF SPRAY AND STEAM THAT ROSE TO 9,000 FEET.

A2FX

BEHIND THAT CURTAIN, THE ARKANSAS, A CONCRETE OIL BARGE AND A TANK-LANDING SHIP SIMPLY VANISHED. OTHERS OF THE 75 SHIPS IN THE TARGET ARRAY IN THE SHALLOW BIKINI LAGOON APPEARED TO STAND THE BLAST SURPRISINGLY WELL, BUT AS OBSERVERS DREW NEARER, THEY SAW THAT THE SARATOGA WAS GOING DOWN, SLOWLY BUT STEADILY, EMITTING SMOKE AND STEAM, WITH HER HEAVY STACK CRUSHED; THAT THE JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO WAS LISTING, AS WERE THE BATTLESHIP NEW YORK, THE CARRIER INDEPENDENCE, THE DESTROYER HUGHES AND THE TRANSPORT FALLON.

ATTEMPTS BY TWO TUGS TO SAVE THE SARATOGA BY BEACHING WERE THWARTED BY THE DEADLY RADIATION OF THE LAGOON'S WATERS. #

30.24-4389

AFTER THESE MIST GHOSTS -- THERE IS NO EXPLANATION FOR THEM AT PRESENT -- CAME THE GREAT SURPRISE.

AT THAT MOMENT A FAT, RISING CLOUD OF SPRAY WAS FULLY LAUNCHED. THEN FROM SOME UNSEEN SOURCE, CAME A PUSH AT THE BASE OF THE COLUMN THAT SPREAD IT IN ALL DIRECTIONS.

THE COLUMN BECAME A WALL OF WHITE FOG, MOVING WITH INCREDIBLE SPEED. ITS TOP REMAINED FLAT AS IT RACED OUTWARD, OBLITERATING THE SIGHT OF THE TARGET FLEET EXCEPT FOR JUST THE OUTLYING SHIPS. IT TOPPED ITS FLIGHT AND STOOD AS A BASE FOR WHAT WAS HAPPENING ABOVE. OVERHEAD BY THIS TIME THE MUSHROOM WAS EXPANDING TO THE SHAPE OF DESERT BUSH -- WITH ONE PECULIARITY. ITS TOP WAS ALWAYS SLIGHTLY ..KED, LIKE A LOW-GABLED ROOF. IN THIS BUSH-LIKE FORM THE CLOUD ..E TO 8,000 FEET, AND THERE STOPPED.

AFTER THAT, THE ATOMIC CLOUD BECAME A PLAIN RAIN CLOUD IN APPEARANCE, ALTHOUGH WHAT IT RAINED COULD PROPERLY BE CALLED A COSMIC SHOWER. THIS ATOMIC STORM MOVED OFF IN THE DISTANCE, HANGING MEDIUM LOW LIKE A SUMMER SHOWER ON THE DISTANT HORIZON.

A49FX ADD ABO BRRALACHIAN (ATOMIC - DESC[illegible] TIVE) XXX

FOR MORE THAN TWO HOURS IT WAS VISIBLE IN THE DISTANCE. ITS CONTENTS WERE THE MOST POISONOUS IN THE EARTH'S HISTORY. THE COSMIC RAIN WAS HEAVILY CHARGED WITH X-RAYS, LARGELY FROM THE SEA SALT.

THIS SAME CLOUD AND THE FAST-MOVING FOG THAT ENVELOPED THE SHIPS POURED THOUSANDS OF POUNDS OF POISON RAIN AND DEADLY MIST ON THE DECKS OF THE TARGET SHIPS FOR A RADIUS OF PROBABLY MORE THAN TWO MILES.

SOME INKLING OF WHAT THIS WILL MEAN TO SEAMEN WHO MAY HAVE TO FIGHT WITH ATOMIC WEAPONS PROBABLY WILL BE OBTAINED SOME DAYS FROM NOW WHEN THE 500 ANIMALS ABOARD THE SHIPS ARE STUDIED.

A MAN-MADE WATERSPOUT FROM THE WORLD'S FIFTH ATOMIC BOMB EXPLOSION SANK THE 29,000-TON BATTLESHIP ARNAKSAS ALMOST INSTANTLY TODAY (THURSDAY) AND SMASHED THE GALLANT OLD 33,000-TON AIRCRAFT CARRIER SARATOGA SO BADLY THAT SHE PLUNGED TO THE BOTTOM OF BIKINI LAGOON MORE THAN SEVEN HOURS LATER.

A CONCRETE OIL BARGE AND A TANK-LANDING CRAFT ALSO WERE SUNK BY THE BOMB, WHICH WAS EXPLODED UNDERWATER IN THE SECOND HALF OF THE NAVAL TESTS DUBBED "OPERATION CROSSROADS."

THE FORMER JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO WAS DAMAGED, AS WAS THE BATTLESHIP NEW YORK, THE DESTROYER HUGHES AND THE TRANSPORT FALLON.

A DETAILED SURVEY OF OTHER POSSIBLE RESULTS WAS DELAYED BY THE INTENSE RADIOACTIVITY OF THE LAGOON WATERS.

ABC CORRESPONDENT CLETE ROBERTS, WHO HAPPENED TO BE BROADCASTING FROM THE MT. MCKINLEY, FLAGSHIP OF VICE-ADM. W.H.P. BLANDY AT THE TIME THE SARATOGA WENT DOWN, SAID ONE END OF THE HUGE OLD CARRIER STILL WAS VISIBLE ABOVE WATER AND HE BELIEVED SHE WAS RESTING ON THE BOTTOM BUT WAS TOO BIG TO BE ENTIRELY COVERED BY THE SEA IN THAT SHALLOW LAGOON.

THE ARKANSAS SIMPLY DISAPPEARED IN THE GIGANTIC CLOUD OF STEAM THAT SURROUNDED THE TARGET FLEET. THE SARATOGA DIED SLOWLY, AFTER ATTEMPTS TO BEACH HER FAILED BECAUSE NO TUG COULD REACH HER THROUGH THE RADIOACTIVE "WALL" OF DEATH. #

Buenos Aires, July 25--(ap)--Silvano Santander, a Radical Party deputy, declared tonight in a Chamber of Deputies debate that presumably "many members of the Nazi hierarchy who escaped from Europe without leaving any trace" have penetrated Argentina.

He said the doors were open to them either "publicly or privately" and that undoubtedly they entered the country "with the complicity of some members of the previous government."

(President Juan Peron, the present Argentine chief executive, was a strong figure in the preceding regime of Edelmiro Farrell).

Santander also charged that the Nazi penetration both "before and now" reached the Argentine army and "it is directed by a part of the official Roman Catholic Church."

Rodolfo Mujica, a retired Army Lieutenant colonel now serving as a deputy from Buenos Aires, denied that there was any Nazi penetration of the Argentine Army.

Santander--a co-author of a resolution asking the creation of a five-man commission to investigate anti-Argentine activities--also charged that German funds financed the Nationalist Liberating Alliance.

The NLA actively campaigned for [redacted]-Peron during the national election last February, but the president has publicly disclaimed the group's support.

JUL 26 1946

During the debate on his proposed resolution Santander said that the NLA "spread fear and confusion in the streets, fomented racial hatred and as with all nationalist organizations is paid by German gold which disgracefully exists in abundance in our country."

Referring to the German estates in Patagonia, Santander said they comprise more than half the farm property of that region and are worth more than the combined British and United States owned estates there.

These german estates, he continued, "never have been molested or controlled" by Argentina's board for the control and disposition of enemy property.

The debate between Santander and [redacted]

Rujica threw the chamber into disorder and further discussion of the proposed resolution was postponed until tomorrow.

(ADVANCE) NEW YORK, JULY 25-(AP)-JOHN FISCHER, WHO SPENT NEARLY THREE MONTHS IN RUSSIA AS A MEMBER OF A UNRRA MISSION, SAYS THAT "A SENSE OF FEAR QUITE PLAINLY IS ONE OF THE DOMINATING FACTS" OF THE SOVIET UNION, AND "IT IS SHAPING - OR WARPING - THE ENTIRE SOVIET FOREIGN POLICY."

"THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY, IT SEEMS TO ME, TO CURE THE RUSSIANS OF THEIR FEAR OF FOREIGN ATTACK," HE WRITES IN THE [illegible] ISSUE OF HARPER'S MAGAZINE. "THAT IS FOR THE UNITED STATES TO PULL THROUGH THE NEXT 15 YEARS WITHOUT A MAJOR DEPRESSION AND WITHOUT GOING 'FASCIST'."

FISCHER, A MEMBER OF HARPER'S EDITORIAL STAFF, WENT TO RUSSIA WITH A MISSION TO SUPERVISE RELIEF DISTRIBUTION IN THE UKRAINE. AN EDITORIAL NOTE WITH HIS ARTICLE SAYS THE MEMBERS "WERE GRANTED EXCEPTIONAL FREEDOM OF MOVEMENT, OBSERVATION AND CONVERSATION WITH RUSSIANS (WITH THEIR OWN AMERICAN INTERPRETER)."

"THE MOST OBVIOUS SYMPTOM OF THIS PERVADING FEAR" FISCHER WRITES, "WAS THE RED ARMY--STILL MOBILIZED FOUR AND A HALF MILLION STRONG IN SPITE OF RUSSIA'S DESPERATE NEED FOR MAN POWER. IT SHOWED, TOO, IN MANY LITTLE INCIDENTS."

THE ANALYZER COMMENTS: "IT SEEMS CURIOUS THAT ANY GOVERNMENT SHOULD FEEL THE NEED FOR SUCH LAVISH PRECAUTIONS--ESPECIALLY A GOVERNMENT WHICH HAS JUST CRUSHED ITS MORTAL FOREIGN ENEMIES AND APPARENTLY IS POPULAR WITH ITS OWN PEOPLE. (IN THOSE PARTS OF RUSSIA WHERE I WORKED, AT ANY RATE--I COULD FIND NO EVIDENCE OF SERIOUS DISAFFECTION. UKRAINIANS XXX APPEARED HONESTLY CONVINCED THAT THEIR GOVERNMENT, FOR ALL ITS SHORTCOMINGS WAS THE BEST IN THE WORLD.)"

FISCHER FOUND THAT "THE PATTERN OF FEAR IS A COMPLEX ONE." ONE ELEMENT HE DEFINES AS "SHEER PERSONAL ANXIETY."

THE MEN IN THE KREMLIN: "REMEMBER HOW THEY ROSE TO POWER, AND DON'T INTEND TO LEAVE THAT ROUTE OPEN TO ANY OTHER GROUP OF DETERMINED CONSPIRATORS."

A133

HE REFERS ALSO TO THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY: "NAKED PLAINS STRETCH EAST AND WEST WITH NO BARRIER TO PROVIDE A DEFENSIBLE FRNTIER. XXX THE RESULT IS A SUSPICION OF FOREIGNERS, A SECRETIVENESS, AN OBSESSION WITH SECURITY."

THE AUTHOR'S THIRD POINT IS RUSSIA'S GENERAL CONDITION. FISCHER SAYS THE BOSS OF THE UKRAINE TOLD HIM THAT THE FACTORIES, HOMES, FARM MACHINERXCPESTOCK, AND SKILLE

SAYS THE BOSS OF THE UKRAINE TOLD HIM THAT THE FACTORIES, HOMES, FARM MACHINERY, LIVESTOCK, AND SKILLED WORKMEN LOST IN THE WAR COULD NOT BE REPLACED FOR AT LEAST 10 YEARS AND "AFTER LOOKING AT THE TANGLED MOUNTAINS OF SCRAP METAL WHICH ONCE WERE THE INDUSTRIAL CENTERS OF DNEPROPETROVSK, KHARKOV, ZAPOROZHE, THAT ESTIMATE IS CONSERVATIVE."

THE IMPORTANT POINT, IN THE AUTHOR'S ESTIMATION, IS THAT, "EVEN IF THE ATOM BOMB NEVER HAD BEEN INVENTED, THE SOVIET UNION TODAY AND FOR SOME YEARS TO COME CANNOT BEGIN TO MATCH THE MILITARY AND INDUSTRIAL POTENTIAL OF THE UNITED STATES. AND TO THE MEN OF THE KREMLIN THIS FACT IS PROFOUNDLY ALARMING."

IT'S ALARMING BECAUSE ONE OF THE BASIC MARXIST ARTICLES OF FAITH IS THE THEORY "THAT THE CAPITALISTIC WORLD CAN NEVER ESCAPE FROM ITS FATED CYCLE OF BOOMS AND DEPRESSIONS; THAT EACH NEW DEPRESSION IS WORSE THAN THE LAST AND EVENTUALLY THE CAPITALIST RULING CLASS TURNS IN DESPERATION TO FASCISM, IMPERIALISM, AND AGGRESSIVE WAR AS THE ONLY WAY OUT OF ITS ECONOMIC TROUBLES."

THUS, THE UNITED STATES, AS THE CITADEL OF CAPITALISM AND THE ONLY REMAINING NATION CAPABLE OF CHALLENGING THE SOVIET POWER "IS REGARDED BY EVERY GOOD COMMUNIST AS A MENACE", THE AUTHOR SAYS, AND "THE RUSSIANS HAVE LITTLE CONFIDENCE THAT THE UNITED NATIONS WOULD BE ABLE TO HOLD AN AGGRESSIVE AMERICA IN CHECK, ANY MORE THAN THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS COULD STOP HITLER."

HE CONCLUDES:

"IF WE CAN FIND SOME DEMOCRATIC METHOD OF CONTROLLING THE VIOLENT UPS-AND-DOWNS OF OUR ECONOMY --IF WE CAN HOLD ON TO FULL EMPLOYMENT AND OUR FREEDOM AT THE SAME TIME--THEN WE WILL HAVE PROVED BEYOND QUESTION THAT THE COMMUNIST FOREBODINGS ARE ALL WRONG."

NEW YORK, JULY 25-(AP)-THE DAILY NEWS SAID IN A COPYRIGHTED DISPATCH FROM WASHINGTON TODAY THAT IT HAD LEARNED "OFFICIAL WAR DEPARTMENT RECORDS REVEAL THAT AT THE CLIMAX OF THE EUROPEAN WAR, REP.MAY (D-KY) PERSONALLY APPEALED TWICE TO GEN.DWIGHT D.EISENHOWER TO INTERVENE IN THE GENERAL COURT-MARTIAL OF THE SON OF 'MY WARM PERSONAL FRIEND,' MURRAY W.GARSSON."

THE MUNITIONS COMBINE NOW UNDER INVESTIGATION BY THE SENATE WAR INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE IS HEADED BY MURRAY W.GARSSON AND HIS BROTHER, HENRY GARSSON. MAY IS UNDER SUBPOENA TO APPEAR BEFORE THE COMMITTEE AND EXPLAIN HIS ALLEGED CONNECTION WITH THE GARSSON CONCERNS.

THE NEWS SAID THAT THE WAR DEPARTMENT RECORDS HAVE BEEN MADE AVAILABLE TO THE HEAD COMMITTEE AND WOULD BE PLACED BEFORE MAY "WITH A REQUEST FOR AN EXPLANATION" AT A SPECIAL SESSION TOMORROW MORNING.

[illegible]

THE OFFICER FOR WHOM MAY, CHAIRMAN OF THE HOUSE MILITARY AFFAIRS COMMITTEE, ALLEGEDLY INTERVENED, THE NEWS CONTINUED, WAS "CAPT. JOSEPH H.GARSSON, THEN 26, COURTMARTIALED IN FRANCE FOR 'WILFULL DISOBEDIENCE OF A LAWFUL COMMAND.'"

IT ADDED:

"GARSSON WAS CONVICTED AND SENTENCED ON APRIL 7, 1945, TO DISMISSAL FROM THE SERVICE. HOWEVER, AFTER TWO STRONG RECOMMENDATIONS OF JUDGE ADVOCATES FOR CLEMENCY, EXECUTION OF THE SENTENCE WAS SUSPENDED AND CAPT.GARSSON SUBSEQUENTLY WENT ON THE INACTIVE LIST.."

THE NEWS SAID THAT THE WAR DEPARTMENT SAID LAST NIGHT "THAT MAY'S LETTERS TO EISENHOWER WERE HANDLED IN THE 'NORMAL ROUTINE' MANNER BY THE SUPREME COMMANDER'S STAFF JUDGE ADVOCATE, THE LATE BRIG. GEN.EDWARD BETTS, AND HAD NO INFLUENCE ON THE OUTCOME OF THE COURT MARTIAL."

"IN ADDITION TO THE EVIDENCE OF MAY'S INTERFERENCE IN BEHALF OF YOUNG GARSSON," THE NEWS SAID, "THE FILES ARE HEAVILY LADEN WITH NOTATIONS THAT THE CAPTAIN'S EARLY ARMY CAREER WAS GUIDED BY MAJ. GEN.WILLIAM N.PORTER, THEN CHIEF OF THE CHEMICAL WARFARE SERVICE, WHICH LET MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WORTH OF CONTRACTS TO THE MUNITIONS FIRM HEADED BY MURRAY GARSSON AND HIS BROTHER, HENRY.

"ADDITIONALLY, IT WAS LEARNED THAT MAY'S FIRST APPEAL TO EISENHOWER, WRITTEN APRIL 12, FIVE DAYS AFTER THE COURT-MARTIAL, WAS DELIVERED TO ETO HEADQUARTERS BY MAJ.GEN.ALDEN WAITT.

"BOTH WAITT AND PORTER, AS WELL AS MAY, WERE GUESTS AT THE FAMOUS

THE PAPER SAID THAT "THE ARMY FILES SHOWED THAT CAPT.GARSSON WAS ORDERED COURT-MARTIALED FOR REFUSING TO TAKE HIS CHEMICAL MORTAR COMPANY INTO WHAT HE BELIEVED TO BE AN UNTENABLE POSITION BECAUSE HE BELIEVED HIS MEN WOULD BE KILLED. THE OFFICER WHO SUCCEEDED THE CAPTAIN WAS NOT REQUIRED TO TAKE THE COMPANY INTO THE POSITION. GARSSON PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN DECORATED AND WOUNDED."

"THE TRIAL WAS HELD FROM APRIL 2 TO APRIL 7, 1945," THE NEWS SAID. "OFFICERS OF FIELD RANK, TESTIFYING FOR THE DEFENSE, AGREED THAT THE AREA GARSSON HAD REFUSED TO ENTER HAD BEEN TACTICALLY UNSOUND AND THE YOUNG OFFICER'S JUDGMENT WAS CORRECT.

"HE (GARSSON) HAD BEEN AWARDED THE BRONZE STAR FOR MERITORIOUS LEADERSHIP IN ACTION. X X X "BUT CAPT.GARSSON WAS FOUND GUILTY AS CHARGED."

THE NEWS SAID THAT "MAY KNEW CAPT.GARSSON WAS IN TROUBLE BUT APPARENTLY DID NOT KNOW THE TRIAL HAD BEEN HELD."

IT QUOTED A LETTER FROM MAY TO EISE[illegible] READ IN PART REGARDING THE COURT-MARTIAL:

"I HAVE BEEN INFORMED THAT SOME KIND OF COURT-MARTIAL PROCEEDINGS HAVE BEEN ORDERED AGAINST THIS SOLDPUC (GARSSON), AND HIS FATHER IS ONE OF MY WARM PERSONAL FRIENDS. THAT, OF COURSE, IS MY INTEREST IN THE MATTER.

"I WOULD APPRECIATE IT IF YOU WOULD DIRECT SOME ONE REPRESENTING YOU TO LOOK INTO THE CHARGES, WHATEVER THEY ARE, AND SEE THAT A PROPER AND FAIR CONSIDERATION IS GIVEN TO THIS SOLDIER WHO I UNDERSTAND WITH MINOR EXCEPTIONS HAS AN EXCELLENT RECORD."

MAY SENT A SECOND LETTER ON MAY 2, THE NEWS REPORTED, WHICH SAID IN PART:

"I ASSURE YOU THAT THIS YOUNG MAN IS PATRIOTIC, HAS ABILITY AND COURAGE, AND I HOPE WHEN YOU HAVE ALL THE FACTS YOU CAN MAKE A FINAL REPORT COMPLETELY EXONERATING HIM OF ANY WRONGS OR LACK OF PROPER MILITARY DISCIPLINE AND OBEDIENCE TO HIS COMMANDING OFFICER."

22 TOP NAZIS' DEATH ASKED

Jackson Charges They Are As Guilty As Hitler

G.K. HODENFIELD

Nuernberg, Germany, July 26 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, United States prosecutor, demanded today the conviction of 22 top Nazis as ruthless conspirators to wage aggressive war, and charged they were just as guilty as Hitler because they "put a loaded gun in his eager hands."

The British prosecutor, following Jackson in a summation to the international military tribunal, demanded that the Nazi leaders be put to death as "common murderers."

Jackson opened the prosecution's summation for the Allied nations against Hermann Goering and his 21 codefendants after eight months of trial.

Defense Called "Double Talk"

He assailed their defense pleas as "Nazi double talk" and declared:

"If you were to say of these men that they are not guilty, it would be as true to say there had been no war, there are no slain, there has been no crime."

The chief British prosecutor, Sir Hartley W. Shawcross, asserted the prisoners were guilty of "12,000 murders"—a band of men who participated in and directed "the cold, calculated, deliberate attempt to destroy nations and races . . . through murder conducted like some mass production industry in the gas chamber and ovens" of horror camps.

Scarcely An Empty Seat

For the first time in several months, there was scarcely an empty seat in the courtroom as Jackson spun out his charges in barbed and caustic tones.

Letting his eyes rove over the hierarchy of the Nazi regime that Hitler boasted would last a thousand [illegible]s—Goering, von Ribbentrop, [illegible]eicher, Schacht, Keitel, Jodl and the rest—the American prosecutor declared:

"What these men have overlooked is that Adolf Hitler's acts are their acts. It was these men among millions of others. And it was these men, leading millions of others who built up Adolf Hitler and vested in his psychopathic personality not only innumerable lesser decisions but the supreme issue of war or peace.

Intoxicated Him With Power

"They intoxicated him with power and adulation. They fed his hates and aroused his fears. They put a loaded gun in his eager hands. It was left to Hitler to pull the trigger, and when he did they all at that time approved."

In the dock, with earphones pressed to their heads, the accused listened to Jackson's every word—displaying their interest with a mixture of frowns and grins.

Rudolf Hess, the third ranking German before he parachuted into Scotland and started his incredible insanity hoax, was the only defendant missing beside Martin Bormann, who is being tried in absentia.

Goering, Raeder Argue

Once when Jackson was relating how the German Army, Navy and Air Force grew, Goering and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder started a heated argument that military police had to break up.

Other defendants, whose lives were in the balance, were:

FRANZ VON PAPEN, the wily old diplomat.

JULIUS STREICHER, the anti-Semitic publisher.

JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP, former Foreign Minister.

FIELD MARSHAL WILHELM KEITEL.

COL. GEN. ALFRED JODL.

GRAND ADMIRAL KARL DOENITZ.

HJALMAR SCHACHT, former economics minister and Reichsbank president.

WALTER FUNK, Schacht's successor.

ALFRED ROSENBERG, Nazi party philosopher.

HANS FRANK, occupation governor of Poland.

WILHELM FRICK, Minister of the Interior.

CONSTANTIN VON NEURATH, former "protector" of Bohemia and Moravia.

SS GENERAL FRITZ SAUCKEL.

ALBERT SPEER, munitions minister.

HANS FRITSCHER, propagandist.

ARTHUR SEYSS-INQUART, Hitler's ruler in Holland and earlier in Austria.

ERNST KALTENBRUNNER, once head of the secret police.

BALDUR VON SCHIRACH, youth leader.

Dismisses Unanimous Defense

Dismissing with irony the "almost unanimous" defense of the group that "nobody knew anything about what was going on," Jackson said:

"They have been given the kind of trial which they, in the days of their pomp and power, never gave to any man."

The Supreme Court justice limited his summation to the charge of conspiracy, thus leaving it to the British, Russian and French prosecutors to deal with these other counts of the indictment:

Crimes against peace, war crimes, and crimes against humanity.

Jackson told the tribunal that "the pillars which uphold the conspiracy charge may be found in five groups of overt acts:"

1. Seizure of power and subjugation of Germany to a police state.
2. Preparation for and actual waging of wars of aggression.
3. Warfare in disregard of international law.
4. Enslavement and plunder of populations in occupied countries.
5. Persecution and extermination of Jews and Christians.

"The central crime in this pattern of crime, the kingpin which holds them all together, is the plot for aggressive war," Jackson declared.

He said "a glance over the dock will show that, despite quarrels among themselves, each defendant played a part which fitted in with every other, and that all advanced the common plan."

Jackson Puts War Guilt Squarely On 22 Nazis

'Adolf Hitler's Acts Their Acts,' Justice Says in Summation Demanding Entire Nuernberg Group Be Convicted as 'Conspirators' to Wage Aggression

Nuernberg, Germany, July 26—(AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson demanded on behalf of the United States today that all the 22 Nazi leaders on trial on war crimes charges before the International Military Tribunal be convicted as "conspirators" to wage aggressive war.

Opening the prosecution's summation for the Allied Nations against Hermann Goering and his 21 co-defendants after eight months of testimony and debate, Jackson declared:

"Adolf Hitler's acts are their acts. His guilt is the guilt of the whole dock and every man in it."

Jackson was followed by the chief British prosecutor, Sir Hartley W. Shawcross, who declared the prisoners were guilty of "12,000,000 murders."

He declared they participated in and directed "the cold, calculated, deliberate attempt to destroy nations and races, to disintegrate the traditions, the institutions and the very existence of free and ancient states through murder conducted like some mass production industry in the gas chambers and the ovens" of death camps.

For the first time in several months, there hardly was an empty seat in the courtroom.

Rudolf Hess, the third-ranking German before he parachuted into Scotland and started his incredible insanity hoax, was the only defendant missing beside MartinBormann, tried in absentia but often termed dead.

Goering Remarks Enjoyed

Most defendants appeared to enjoy Jackson's remarks about the fortunes in art treasures which Goering looted. The former Reichsmarshal just shook his head as if he were a man amazed.

Other defendants, whose very lives were in the balance, were former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop; Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel; Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl; Grand Adm. Karl Woenlz; Hjalmar Schacht, former economics minister and Reichsbank president; Walther Funk, Schacht's successor; Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi Party philosopher; Hans Frank, occupation governor of Poland; Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior; Constantin von Neurath, former "protector" of Bohemia and Moravia; SS Gen. Fritz Sauckel; Munitions Minister Albert Speer; propagandist Hans Fritsche; and youth leader Baldur von Schirach.

Goering, "half militarist and half gangster," was, "next to Hitler, the man who tied the activities of all the defendants together in a common effort," Jackson said, adding:

"The parts played by the other defendants, although less comprehensive and less spectacular than that of the Reichsmarshal, were nevertheless integral and necessary contributions to the joint undertaking."

From the moment the Nazis came to power in 1933, Jackson asserted, "everyone of the defendants worked like beavers" to prepare for war which they knew would be a war of German aggression.

Dismissing with irony the "almost unanimous" defense of the group that "nobody knew anything about what was going on," the chief American prosecutor said "they all speak with a Nazi double talk."

"They have been given the kind of trial which they, in the days of their pomp and power, never gave to any man," he noted.

The Supreme Court justice limited his summation to the charge of conspiracy, thus leaving it to the French, British and Russian prosecutors to deal with these other counts of the indictment: Crimes against peace, war crimes, and crimes against humanity.

Of the 24 Nazi leaders indicted last Fall, Martin Borman, Hitler's Deputy Fuehrer, is missing and was tried in absentia. Robert Ley hanged himself in prison, and the trial of Gustav Krupp von Bohlen, the Ruhr industrialist, was postponed indefinitely because of his mental illness.

Jackson told the tribunal that "the pillars which uphold the conspiracy charge may be found in five groups of overt acts:"

1. Seizure of power and subjugation of Germany to a police state in which "the party was the state, the state was the party, and terror by day and death by night were the policy of both."

2. Preparation for and actual waging of wars of aggression, for which the Nazis made "feverish but stealthy efforts, in defiance of the Versailles Treaty" from the moment they came to power.

3. Warfare in desregard of international law, including the "starving, beating, murdering, freezing, and mass extermination admittedly used against the eastern soldiery" and the shooting of British and American airmen.

4. Enslavement and plunder of populations in occupied countries.

5. Persecution and extermination of Jews and Christians, which resulted in the killing of an estimated 6,000,000 Jews in "the most far-flung and terrible racial persecution of all time."

"The central crime in this pattern of crime, the kingpin which holds them all together, is the plot for aggressive war," Jackson continued.

Hitler Plan Traced

Tracing in detail Hitler's plan to dominate Europe by force and outlining the evidence that humanitarian provisions of the Geneva the start of World War II, Jack- Convention were discarded from son recited one by one the role played by each of the group on trial.

"Each part of the plan fitted into every other," he said. "The slave labor program meshed with the needs of industry and agriculture, and these in turn synchronized with the military machine.

"The elaborate propaganda apparatus geared with the program to dominate the people and incite them to a war their sons would have to fight. The armament industries were fed by the concentration camps. The concentration camps were fed by the Gestapo. The Gestapo was fed by the spy system of the Nazi party."

Jackson ridiculed contentions by some of the defendants that none of the Nazis wanted war, that rearmament was undertaken only to make Germany's voice heard in the family of nations and that the wars were defensive against a "bolshevik menace."

"Even if it could be shown — which it cannot be — that the Russian war was really defensive, such is demonstrably not the case with those wars which preceded it," the prosecutor said.

"If these defendants may now cynically plead self-defense . . . it reduces non-aggression treaties to a legal absurdity."

As for attempts of defense counsel to pin Nazi guilt on Hitler, Himmler, Goebbels and other leaders presumably dead, Jackson said the defendants "had access to Hitler, and often controlled the information that reached him and on which he must base his policy and his orders."

Nowhere," Jackson went on, "do we find an instance where anyone of the defendants stood up against the rest and said, 'This thing is wrong and I will not go along with it.' . . .

"All over Germany today, in every zone of occupation, little men who carried out these criminal policies under orders are being convicted and punished. It would present a vast and unforgivable caricature of justice if the men who planned these policies and directed those little men should escape all penalty."

Shawcross, starting a summation that will require perhaps eight hours, declared the guilt of the German captives "is not in doubt." He read the British case from a manuscript as thick as a novel, and in many cases, more lurid.

He accused the defendants of the crime of war itself—"total and totalitarian war, waged in defiance of solemn undertakings and in breach of treaties." He recalled the "great war aims set forth and emphasized by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to establish loosing of an aggressive war as an international crime and to set up legal machinery to deal with the men accused of committing it."

Early in his summation, Shawcross reviewed the testimony of Frank, who had testified before the judges of the United States, Russia, France and the United Kingdom that "thousands of years will pass and this guilt of Germany will not be erased."

"It may be that the guilt of Germany will not be erased, for the people of Germany share it in large measure," the British ney declared.

"But it was these men who, with a handful of others, brought that guilt upon Germany and perverted the German people. For such crimes, these men might well have been proceeded against by summary executive action and, had treatment which they had been parties to meting out against so many millions of innocent people been meted out to them, they could hardly have complained.

"But this tribunal is to judge their guilt, not on any moral or ethical basis alone, but according to law. The effects of this trial will reach out far beyond the punishment of a score or so of guilty men."

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Following is a partial text, as released by the War Department, of Justice Robert H. Jackson's summing up at the Nuremberg war crimes trials:

Mr. President and members of the tribunal:

An advocate can be confronted with few more formidable tasks than to select his closing arguments where there is great disparity between his appropriate time and his available material. In eight months—a short time as state trials go—we have introduced evidence which embraces as vast and varied a panorama of events as has ever been compressed within the framework of a litigation. It is impossible in summation to do more than outline with bold strokes the vitals of this trial's mad and melancholy record, which will live as the historical text of the twentieth century's shame and depravity.

It is common to think of our own time as standing at the apex of civilization, from which the deficiencies of preceding ages may patronizingly be viewed in the light of what is assumed to be "progress." The reality is that in the long perspective of history the present century will not hold an admirable position, unless its second half is to redeem its first.

To Redress Blight of This Era

These twoscore years in this twentieth century will be recorded in the book of years as one of the most bloody in all annals. * * * If we cannot eliminate the causes and prevent the repetition of these barbaric events, it is not an irresponsible prophecy to say that this twentieth century may yet succeed in bringing the doom of civilization.

Goaded by these facts, we have moved to redress the blight on the record of our era. The defendants complain that our pace is too fast. In drawing the charter of this tribunal we thought we were recording an accomplished advance in international law. But they say that we have outrun our times, that we have anticipated an advance that should be but has not yet been made. * * * The defendants, who except for the charter would have no right to be heard at all, now ask that the legal basis of this trial be nullified. * * *

Of one thing we may be sure. The future will never have to ask, with misgiving, what could the Nazis have said in their favor. History will know that whatever could be said they were allowed to say. They have been given the kind of a trial which they, in the days of their pomp and power, never gave to any man. * * *

Issue Beyond Normal Justice

But justice in this case has nothing to do with some of the argument put forth by the defendants or their counsel. We have not previously, and we need not now, discuss the merits of all their obscure and tortuous philosophy. * * * The intellectual bankruptcy and moral perversion of the Nazi regime might have been no concern of international law had it not been utilized to goosestep the herrenvolk across international frontiers. * * *

We charge unlawful aggression but we are not trying the motives, hopes or frustrations which may have led Germany to resort to aggressive war as an instrument of policy. * * *

We may admit that overlapping ethnological and cultural groups, economic barriers, and conflicting national ambitions created in the Nineteen Thirties, as they will continue to create, grave problems for Germany as well as for the other peoples of Europe. We may admit, too, that the world had failed to provide political or legal remedies which would be honorable and acceptable alternatives to war. We do not underwrite either the ethics or the wisdom of any country, including my own, in the face of these problems. But we do say that it is now, as it was for some time prior to 1939, illegal and criminal for Germany or any other nation to redress grievances or seek expansion by resort to aggressive war.

The Crimes of the Nazi Regime

The strength of the case against these defendants under the conspiracy count, which it is the duty of the United States to argue, is in its simplicity. It involves but three ultimate inquiries: First, have the acts defined by the charter as crimes been committed; second, were they committed pursuant to a common plan or conspiracy; third, are these defendants among those who are criminally responsible?

The charge requires examination of a criminal policy, not of a multitude of isolated, unplanned or disputed crimes. The substantive crimes upon which we rely, either as goals of a common plan or as means for its accomplishment, are admitted.

The pillars which uphold the conspiracy charge may be found in five groups of overt acts whose character and magnitude are important considerations in appraising the proof of conspiracy.

(1) The seizure of power and subjugation of Germany to a police State

The Nazi party seized control of the German State in 1933. "Seizure of power" is a characterization used by defendants and defense witnesses, and so apt that it has passed into both history and every-day speech. * * *

It was made a treason, punishable with death, to organize or support a political party other than the Nazi party. * * *

The result was the removal of all peaceable means either to resist or to change the Government. Having sneaked through the portals of power, the Nazis slammed the gate in the face of all others who might also aspire to enter. Since the law was what the Nazis said it was, every form of opposition was rooted out, and every dissenting voice throttled. Germany was in the clutch of a police State, which used the fear of the concentration camp as means to enforce non-resistance. The party was the State, the State was the party, and terror by day and death by night were the policy of both.

(2) The preparation and waging of wars of aggression

From the moment the Nazis seized power, they set about feverish but stealthy efforts, in defiance of the Versailles Treaty, to arm for war. * * *

These new weapons were put to use, commencing in September, 1939, in a series of undeclared wars against nations with which Germany had arbitration and non-aggression treaties, and in violation of repeated assurances. * * * I shall show you, in discussing the conspiracy, that by any test ever put forward by any responsible authority, by all the canons of plain sense, these were unlawful wars of aggression in breach of treaties and in violation of assurances.

(3) Warfare in disregard of international law.

It is unnecessary to labor this point on the facts. Goering asserts that the rules of land warfare were obsolete, that no nation could fight a total war within their limits. He testified that the Nazis would have denounced the conventions to which Germany was a party, but that General Jodl wanted captured German soldiers to continue to benefit from their observance by the Allies. * * *

We need not, * * * for purposes of the conspiracy count, recite the revolting details of starving, beating, murdering, freezing and mass extermination admittedly used against the Eastern soldiery. Also, we may take as established or admitted that lawless conduct such as shooting British and American airmen, mistreatment of Western prisoners of war, forcing French prisoners of war into German war work, and other deliberate violations of The Hague and Geneva Conventions, did occur, and in obedience to highest levels of authority.

(4) Enslavement and plunder of populations in occupied countries.

The defendant Sauckel, plenipotentiary general for the utilization of labor, is authority for the statement that "out of 5,000,000 foreign workers who arrived in Germany, not even 200,000 came voluntarily." * * *

Those who will enslave men cannot be expected to refrain from plundering them. Boastful reports show how thoroughly and scientifically the resources of occupied lands were sucked into the German war economy, inflicting shortage, hunger and inflation upon the inhabitants. * * * International law at all times before and during this war spoke with precision and authority respecting the protection due civilians of an occupied country, and the slave trade and plunder of occupied countries was at all times flagrantly unlawful.

(5) Persecution and Extermination of Jews and Christians.

The Nazi movement will be of evil memory in history because of its persecution of the Jews, the most far-flung and terrible racial persecution of all time. Although the Nazi party neither invented nor monopolized anti-Semitism, its leaders from the very beginning embraced it, incited it and exploited it. They used it as "the psychological spark that ignites the mob." After the seizure of power, it became an official State policy. * * *

Of course, any such program must reckon with the opposition of the Christian church. This was recognized from the very beginning. Defendant Bormann wrote all gauleiters in 1941 that "National Socialism and Christian concepts are irreconcilable," and that the people must be separated from the churches and the influence of the churches totally removed. Defendant Rosenberg even wrote dreary treatises advocating a new and weird Nazi religion. * * *

I pass now to the inquiry whether these groups of criminal acts were integrated in a common plan or conspiracy.

The Common Plan or Conspiracy

The prosecution submits that these five categories of premeditated crimes were not separate and independent phenomena, but that all were committed pursuant to a common plan or conspiracy. The defense admits that these classes of crimes were committed, but denies that they are connected one with another as parts of a single program.

The central crime in this pattern of crime, the kingpin which holds them all together, is the plot for aggressive war. The chief reason for international cognizance of these crimes lies in this fact. * * *

The plans of Adolf Hitler for aggression were just as secret as "Mein Kampf," of which over 6,000,000 copies were published in Germany. He not only openly advocated overthrowing the Treaty of Versailles, but made demands which went far beyond a mere rectification of its alleged injustices. He avowed an intention to attack neighboring states and seize their lands, which he said would have to be won with "the power of a triumphant sword."* * *

Immediately after the seizure of power the Nazis went to work to implement these aggressive intentions by preparing for war. * * *

In April, 1933, the Cabinet formed a Defense Council, the working committee of which met frequently thereafter. * * * On May 21, 1935, the top-secret Reich Defense Law was enacted. Defendant Schacht was appointed plenipotentiary general for war economy with the task of secretly preparing all economic forces for war and, in the event of mobilization, of financing the war. * * *

A secret program for the accumulation of the raw materials and foreign credits necessary for extensive rearmament was also set on foot immediately upon seizure of power. * * *

Hitler's Pledges Recalled

This tribunal knows what categorical assurances were given to an alarmed world after the Anschluss, after Munich, and after the occupation of Bohemia and Moravia, that German ambitions were realized and that Hitler had "no further territorial demands to make in Europe." The record of this trial shows that those promises were calculated deceptions and that those high in the bloody brotherhood of Nazidom knew it. * * *

The defendants Goering, Keitel, Raeder, Frick and Funk, with others, met as the Reich Defense Council in June of 1939. The minutes, authenticated by Goering, are revealing evidence of the way in which each step of Nazi planning dovetailed with every other. These five key defendants three months before the first Panzer unit had knifed into Poland, were laying plans for "employment of the population in wartime," and had gone so far as to classify industry for priority in labor supply "after 5,000,000 service men had been called up."

They decided upon measures to avoid "confusion when mobilization takes place," and declared a purpose "to gain and maintain the lead in the decisive initial weeks of a war." They then planned to use in production prisoners of war, criminal prisoners, and concentration camp inmates. * * * The Geneva Convention would have been thrown overboard openly except that Jodl objected because he wanted the benefits of Allied observance of it while it was not being allowed to hamper the Germans in any way. * * *

Thus, the war crimes against Allied forces and the crimes against humanity committed in occupied territories are incontestably part of the program of making the war because, in the German calculations, they were indispensable to its hope of success. * * *

A glance over the dock will show that, despite quarrels among themselves, each defendant played a part which fitted in with every other, and that all advanced the common plan. It contradicts experience that men of such diverse backgrounds and talents should so forward each other's aims by coincidence.

Goering's Hand in Everything

The large and varied role of Goering was half militarist and half gangster. He stuck a pudgy finger in every pie. He used his SA muscle-men to help bring the gang into power. In order to entrench that power he contrived to have the Reichstag burned, established the Gestapo, and created the concentration camps. He was equally adept at massacring opponents and at framing scandals to get rid of stubborn generals.

He built up the Luftwaffe and hurled it at his defenseless neighbors. He was among the foremost in harrying the Jews out of the land. By mobilizing the total economic resources of Germany he made possible the waging of the war which he had taken a large part in planning. He was next to Hitler [illegible] who [illegible] activities [illegible] all the defendants together in a common effort.

The parts played by the other defendants, although less comprehensive and less spectacular than that of the Reichsmarshal, were nevertheless integral and necessary contributions to the joint undertaking, without any one of which the success of the common enterprise would have been in jeopardy. * * *

The dominant fact which stands out from all the thousands of pages of the record of this trial is that the central crime of the whole group of Nazi crimes—the attack on the peace of the world—was clearly and deliberately planned. The beginning of these wars of aggression was not an unprepared and spontaneous springing to arms by a population excited by some current indignation. * * * Nor were the war crimes and the crimes against humanity unplanned, isolated, or spontaneous offenses. * * *

Nothing was permitted under the Nazi iron rule that was not in accordance with the program. Everything of consequence that took place in this regimented society was but a manifestation of a premeditated and unfolding purpose to secure the Nazi state a place in the sun by casting all others into darkness. * * *

Obsession on Communism

But some of the defendants argue that the wars were not aggressive and were only intended to protect Germany against some eventual danger from the "menace of communism," which was something of an obsession with many Nazis.

At the outset this argument of self-defense falls because it completely ignores this damning combination of facts clearly established in the record: First, the enormous and rapid German preparations for war; second, the repeatedly avowed intentions of the German leaders to attack, which I have previously cited, and third, the fact that a series of wars occurred in which German forces struck the first blows, without warning, across the borders of other nations. * * *

One of the chief reasons the defendants say there was no conspiracy is the argument that conspiracy was impossible with a dictator. The argument runs that they all had to obey Hitler's orders, which had the force of law in the German State, and hence obedience cannot be made the basis of a criminal charge. In this way it is explained that while there have been wholesale killings, there have been no murders. * * *

What these men have overlooked is that Adolf Hitler's acts are their acts. It was these men among millions of others, and it was these men leading millions of others, who built up Adolf Hitler and vested in his psychopathic personality not only innumerable lesser decisions but the supreme issue of war or peace.

They intoxicated him with power and adulation. They fed his hates and aroused his fears. They put a loaded gun in his eager hands. It was left to Hitler to pull the trigger, and when he did they all at that time approved. * * *

Their Guilt in the War

Hitler ordered everyone else to fight to the last and then retreated into death by his own hand. But he left life as he lived it, a deceiver; he left the official report that he had died in battle. This was the man whom these defendants exalted to a Fuehrer. It was they who conspired to get him absolute authority over all of Germany. And in the end he and the system they created for him brought the ruin of them all. * * *

It is against such a background that these defendants now ask this tribunal to say that they are not guilty of planning, executing, or conspiring to commit this long list of crimes and wrongs.

They stand before the record of this trial as blood-stained Gloucester stood by the body of his slain King. He begged of the widow, as they beg of you: "Say I slew them not." And the Queen replied, "Then say they were not slain. But dead they are." * * *

If you were to say of these men that they are not guilty, it would be as true to say there has been no war, there are no slain, there has been no crime.

Russia Asserts Visitors Receive Every Freedom

Denies Charge by President That Americans 'Never Get Return Engagement'

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—President Truman's statement that although the United States has royally entertained Russian newspaper men and professors, "we never get a return engagement," brought from the Moscow radio tonight a sharply worded comment that "such assertions do not correspond to facts."

In what it termed a "sufficiently convincing denial of . . . allegations made by Mr. Truman," the broadcast said American visitors to Russia have been accorded "every possibility of free intercourse . . . and unrestricted freedom of movement."

The comment by Tass, Soviet news agency, was in answer to President Truman's statement in a letter to Senator Owen Brewster, Republican, of Maine, dated May 27, replying to a suggestion of Portland (Me.) Young Men's Christian Association directors that the exchange of visits by American and Russian government officials and students would help to dispel distrust and would stimulate better relations between the two countries.

Restrictions Charged

Mr. Truman's letter, released by Senator Brewster last Saturday, said: "We have been unable to get either newspaper publishers or professors from this country any travel rights anywhere in Russia. The members of our embassy staff are not allowed to go anywhere without being accompanied.

"We have had Russian newspaper men, and Russian professors and a great many other people of that nature over here, and have entertained them royally, but we never get a return engagement. We can't very well invade the country unless they want us to."

The Tass reply to the Truman charges, according to the Moscow radio, was:

"Tass is authorized to state that such assertions do not correspond to the facts. It is sufficient to note that in recent times alone, the Soviet Union has been visited by a number of American public figures, press representatives and persons prominent in the cultural world. For instance: writer Lillian Hellman; John Strom, chairman of the American Association of Agricultural Publishers; Edwin Smith, chairman of the American-Soviet Friendship Council; a delegation of editors of American papers and many other public figures and American delegations.

"These public figures, delegations, according to their desires, visited Leningrad, the Caucasus, the Ukraine, Byelo-Russia and other districts of the Soviet Union. They visited numerous enterprises, state farms, collective farms, newspaper offices, institutions and public organizations.

"United States scientists participated in the jubilee session of the Academy of Sciences of the U. S. S. R. Many of them, as for instance Professors Colthof, Langmuir, Shapley, Macbane and others, made reports at the sessions of the academy's branches.

Wallace Reaction Noted

"As is known, many American state and public figures who have visited the U. S. S. R. (Mr. Henry A. Wallace, former Vice-President, Strom and others) noted in their reports in the press and over the radio that during their sojourn in the U. S. S. R. they were given every possibility of free intercourse with everybody they wished to meet, unrestricted freedom of movement in the U. S. S. R.

"These facts testify that representatives of American science and culture, as well as of other countries, were and are given full and many-sided opportunities of acquainting themselves with the life of the Soviet Union, with questions of the cultural and economic state system of the U. S. S. R. they are interested in. These facts speak for themselves, being a sufficiently convincing denial of the above-mentioned allegations made by Mr. Truman."

SAYS BRITISH PLAN LESS AID TO UNRRA

London, July 26 (A. P.).—The Daily Graphic said today that Britain will cut substantially her contributions to UNRRA and may recommend that the whole UNRRA scheme be wound up in the near future.

The newspaper said that "in Cabinet circles there is considerable support for the opinion that this form of international charity, if allowed to continue much longer, will defeat its own ends.

"Already Britain has contributed services and supplies to the value of 155,000,000 pounds ($620,000,000). It is felt that we cannot continue to draw on our resources to this extent."

Britain's attitude will be officially set forth at the UNRRA council session in Geneva on August 5.

Pact Reported in Paris.

Paris, July 26 (A. P.).—An authority said today that Jewish and Arab representatives have formulated a provisional program for settlement of the Palestine problem through the creation of two independent states, Jewish and Arabic. The authority, who said he had read the draft plan, added that both states would be declared permanently neutral under the United Nations, and that the plan has already been submitted to London and Washington for study.

The plan, it was stated, stipulates (1) that mandated territory, both east and west of the River Jordan, the present boundary between Palestine and trans-Jordan, shall be declared permanently neutral territory under the United Nations; (2) that two independent States, Judea (Jewish) and Abdullah (Arabic) shall be established in that territory, with the boundaries to be determined by agreement between the Jews and the Arabs; (3) that Christian Holy places shall be jointly administered, on an equal basis, by representatives of the Roman Catholic, Protestant, and Greek Orthodox churches; and (4) that in event of failure to reach agreement on any boundary point, the issue will be arbitrated by a United Nations committee composed of three or five nations, none of which shall have political, economic or strategic interests in the territory.

The authority said that the present boundary between Palestine and Trans-Jordan would probably be redrawn under the plan; that the actual demarcation would be left to formal negotiation between representatives of the Arabs and the Jews. He added, however, that preliminary agreement had been arrived at under which portions of Western Palestine, with an Arabic population of 600,000, would be placed within the boundaries of the proposed Arab State. This includes the areas around Jenin, Nablus and Ramallah.

The United Nations would be requested to undertake the protection of both States, according to the plan. No other armed forces of any Power would be stationed in either country, nor would either permit its territory to be used in the time of war or peace for the transportation of troops or supplies or the establishment of military, naval or air bases. At the same time the Jews and Arabs would agree that neither should maintain any armed forces beyond the number required for normal policing and maintenance of internal order.

Jewish Immigration Speed Declared Vital

Paris, July 26 (AP)—The Jewish attitude toward an Anglo-American plan for the partition of Palestine, an informant close to the Jewish agency said tonight, will depend mainly on its provisions for the immediate immigration of 100,000 European Jews to the Holy Land.

This spokesman said he did not know, officially, what was in the Anglo-American cabinet committee's proposal. He recalled unconfirmed reports that it provided for the creation of three separate political units in Palestine, one Jewish, one Arabic and one a British protectorate.

This report, he said, stipulated that fifteen per cent of the total land would be allocated to Jews, 45 per cent to Arabs and 40 per cent to the British-protected area.

"If these reports are true," he said, "the area allotted to the Jews would be too small. It would not contain the 100,000 European Jews who are waiting to go to Palestine. It would provide no security for a small Jewish state in a sea of Arabs, and it would not be workable, economically. Therefore, the Jews would oppose it.

Flandin Is Convicted And Then Pardoned

Versailles, France, July 26 (AP)—A jury in the High Court of Justice tonight convicted Pierre Etienne Flandin on charges of collaboration with the Nazis, but the court immediately pardoned him after sentencing him to five years of national indignity.

He was a prewar Premier of France and Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Vichy Government.

The court's sentence would have deprived Flandin of his right to vote, hold public office, participate as a director of any public or private concern or to have a voice in the French press or radio.

Flandin's rights were restored because of his patriotic actions after resigning from the Vichy Government.

RED EXPROPRIATION EXTENDED IN REICH

Berlin, July 26 (A. P.).—The expropriation of former Nazi-owned industries and businesses in the Soviet zone of Germany, which began in Lower Saxony, has been extended to Brandenburg and Thuringia, it was announced today. There will be no plebiscite on the question in these two provinces as there was in Saxony, however.

U. S. TROOPS WOUND 7 ATTACKING 'DP'S'

2 Organized Outbursts in Our Zone in Germany Quelled—Laxity Curbed in Austria

B. O'REGAN

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, Germany, July 26 (AP)—The United States Third Army announced tonight that Jewish displaced persons had made two organized attacks on American soldiers in southern Germany last night and that seven Jews had been wounded by American bayonets and bullets.

The Army said American troops had fired on a group of 150 Jews who attempted to storm a United States enlisted men's barracks in Windsheim, Bavaria, and that American soldiers, with bayonets fixed, restored order after "an angry mob" of Jews had attacked American military policemen in the Wolfrathausen DP camp, spitting upon and slapping the soldiers.

Six Jews were wounded in Wolfrathausen, fifteen miles south of Munich, the Army said, and one Jew was hurt in Windsheim.

The Windsheim incident began, the announcement said, "when an unarmed American soldier in charge of an engineer water point was attacked by three Jews. The soldier succeeded in beating off his assailants and ran for weapons and help. He returned with an officer and two other enlisted men, all armed."

At the same time, the report continued, "a mob of some 150 Jews was advancing toward the barracks building. When ordered to disperse, the displaced persons replied with threats. In the resulting disorder, American soldiers fired a few shots and one displaced person was wounded."

Troops were preparing to leave the camp at Wolfrathausen last night after having quelled a riot the night before between Jews and Germans in which one Jew was killed and six persons were injured, when the new trouble began.

"Screaming 'American Gestapo' and 'American S.S.,'" the Army said, "Jewish displaced persons again broke out of the Wolfrathausen camp Thursday night and spit on and slapped United States military police who were preparing to leave after quelling a riot there earlier."

G. I.'s Wound 6 Jews in Riot

U. S. Troops Quell Disorders at Displaced Persons Camp in Germany.

Frankfurt, July 26 (A. P.).—American troops wounded six Jews last night in a new outbreak of rioting in a Jewish displaced persons camp at Wolfrathausen, United States Third Army headquarters said tonight.

A Jew was killed and six German civilians were wounded in riots Wednesday night involving Jews of the camp, German police and German civilians. American troops restored order at the time.

The Third Army gave this account of the new outbreak:

"Screaming 'American Gestapo' and 'American SS,' Jewish displaced persons again broke out of the Wolfrathausen Camp Thursday night and spit on and slapped United States Military Police who were preparing to leave after quelling a riot there earlier."

"Have you ever said you'd do your best to get Col. Kilian?" he asked, but the court ruled out the question.

Philip A. Damon Jr. of Pittsfield, Mass., said that while on duty he saw prisoners hit by guards and "double-timed into exhaustion." Sgt. John M. Newlands of Hartford, Conn., said he saw an American soldier prisoner's head pushed against a brick wall so hard "his nose was smashed and he was bleeding from his eyes, nose and mouth."

France Buys U.S. Ammunition

FRANKFURT AM MAIN, July 26 (AP).—United States Army headquarters said tonight that 260,000 tons of American ammunition had been sold to France for $7,500,000.

LICHFIELD OFFICER IS CALLED 'SWELL'

Bad Nauheim, July 26 (A. P.).—A prosecution witness at the Lichfield trial of Capt. Joseph A. Robertson of Toledo described Robertson today as "a pretty swell fellow." The witness was Cpl. Robert Henney, also of Toledo, who once did a brief tour of duty at the United States Army guard house at Lichfield, England, where Robertson stands accused of authorizing cruel punishment of prisoners.

Henney told a Toledo Blade reporter early last year of seeing a Lichfield prisoner beaten with a rubber hose by a guard, and it was this story that started the whole official inquiry which, in turn, led to the trials. Today he repeated the statement on the witness stand.

On cross-examination, Robertson's attorney brought in the name of Col. James A. Kilian, former Lichfield commandant, also on trial in a companion case.

Six Poles Sentenced For Shooting Yanks

Usingen, Germany, July 26 (A. P.).—United States Military Government officers said today that six Poles had been sentenced to prison terms of from twenty to thirty years for shooting Sgts. William E. Morrow and George Young. Both victims have returned to the United States after recovering from multiple wounds.

Parliament Moves For Delegation To Next U.N. Meeting

E. FISCHER

Vienna, July 26 (AP)—Parliament defied a Russian warning today by voting to include some Soviet-claimed industries in an Austrian nationalization program, and decided to seek United Nations aid to uphold the Potsdam-promised integrity of Austria as a nation.

The Parliament unanimously approved nationalization of 81 key industries, including some claimed by Russia as German reparations. A Russian note had warned the Government against interfering with these, among them the Zistersdorf oil fields in Soviet-occupied territory.

NIGHT

United Nations Help Is Aim

It also voted to ask the United Nations for permission to send a delegation to its next meeting to put the country's case before that body.

At stake, Austrian sources said, was whether the Russians will leave enough of eastern Austria to make a nation, and whether the drain of steadily increasing claims will enable her ever to achieve industrial recovery or actual independence, as promised at Potsdam. Austria is not a member of the United Nations.

Meanwhile, the Allied Council for Austria argued through a day-long deadlock over Soviet demands for relief payments by Austria, and Russian failure to deliver anywhere near the promised quantities of oil from Zistersdorf needed for recovery operations.

JUL 27 1946

Contents Of Russian Note

The Parliament vote repudiating the Soviet claims came three hours after Chancellor Leopold Figl had read a Russian note which declared:

"The German properties in eastern Austria are at the disposal of the Soviet military command, and any infraction of its (the command's) orders and regulations in connection with these properties will be prosecuted vigorously by the same."

Russia's Industrial Claims

The Russians had claimed thirteen industries in that area, including the great Zistersdorf oil fields, the Danube Shipping Company, and banking, mining and manufacturing companies.

The Russian note said that these thirteen were considered Russian property.

The Soviet has claimed them on the grounds they were German assets subject to seizure under the Potsdam agreement. The United States has objected to this view, holding that properties which were taken forcibly from the Austrians by the Germans after the Anschluss in 1938 should not be considered German assets.

The Soviet note said the Russians viewed the nationalization movement "with satisfaction," but wished to remind the Chancellor that German assets in the Soviet zone of occupation belonged to Russia.

No Immediate Reaction

There was no immediate reaction here to the vote by the one-chamber Parliament. But under the Allied control agreement, any Austrian legislation is subject to approval of the Allied Control Council. Austrian legislation becomes null and void if all four occupying powers disapprove. If only one power disapproves, the bill in question becomes law after 60 days.

The bill was supported by the four Communist members of Parliament. All Austrian parties were agreed on the general principle of nationalization, but the Communists wished to nationalize hundreds of firms.

The Austrians contend that 54 per cent of the Danube Shipping Company stock was Austrian-owned, 46 per cent was foreign-owned, and that none was held by Germans. They also contend that, before 1938, among the various companies interested in the Zistersdorf oil fields and refineries, there was only one in which as much as 50 per cent of the stock was German-owned.

Slovak Puppet Leader Is Ordered Executed

Prague, July 25—(Delayed)—(AP)—The National Court of Bratislava today ordered the execution of Anton Vasek, former puppet head of the Slovak state, following his conviction on charges of sending 50,000 Jews to death in concentration camps.

The prosecution sought to show at the trial that Vasek worked with the Gestapo in rounding up Jews and transporting them to the camps.

Lie Visits in Amsterdam

AMSTERDAM, July 26 (Reuter)—Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations, arrived in Amsterdam by air today from Copenhagen. Mr. Lie said his visit was unofficial. He will go to Paris on Sunday.

BELGRADE SAYS TERROR STORIES ARE PROPAGANDA

Belgrade, July 26—(AP)—Reports published abroad that Premier Marshal Tito had launched a terroristic anti-Catholic policy which has resulted in the deaths of hundreds of priests were characterized by the Yugoslav Ministry of Information today as "old accusations renewed to coincide with the Paris peace conference."

"Certain circles abroad always tried to spread propaganda that Tito advocates an anti-Catholic policy," a ministry spokesman asserted, "and today they are timing their charges to coincide with the Paris peace conference in hopes of making the people believe there are disorders in Yugoslavia."

The spokesman added that some priests had been executed since Tito took power, but asserted "they were tried as war criminals, not as priests."

(A Vatican source said this week that reports that more than 200 priests had been executed in Yugoslavia since the end of the war were "not, according to Vatican information, exaggerated.")

ITALIAN ASSEMBLY GIVES DE GASPERI CONFIDENCE VOTE

Rome, July 26—(AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi and his coalition government won a substantial vote of confidence in the constituent assembly last night, but only after Communist members gave him two difficult hours. The vote was 388 to 53, with seven abstaining.

De Gasperi, answering criticisms directed at the Italian Republic's first government, went after his critics hammer and tongs and three times stirred the Communist benches to such roars of protest that the presiding officer was unable to quiet them down.

When he concluded, however, the assembly, amid shouts of "Long Live Italy," approved a resolution endorsing the premier's foreign policy and then gave the government its vote of confidence.

3 MORE SS MEN DIE FOR KILLING YANKS

Livorno, Italy, July 26 (A. P.).—Three German SS men were hanged today for the wartime torture and killing of seven Allied soldiers, of whom five were Americans. Major August Schiffer, Under-Officer Albert Storz and Lieut. Heinrich Andergassen died on the gallows in the stockade of the disciplinary training center at Peninsular Base Headquarters.

They were convicted by an American military commission on January 15 and condemned to be hanged specifically for causing the death of Capt. Roderick Hall of South Norwalk, Conn., in Schiffer's torture chamber at Bolzano.

Schiffer, a former Berlin house painter who described himself as a "persuaded Nazi," and the junior officers who served as his trigger men also were convicted of murdering two British soldiers and four American flyers after torture in an attempt to learn secrets of American bombing by radar. The American victims, in addition to Hall, were Lieut. Charles Parker of Milldale, Conn., Lieut. George W. Hammond of Neman, Ga., Lieut. Hardy D. Harron of Kenly, N. C., and Sgt. Medard D Tofova of Yola, Cal.

U. S. Bishop Heads Relief in Reich

Vatican City, July 26 (A. P.).—The Vatican News Service said today that the Most Rev. Aloysius J. Muench, Bishop of Fargo, N. D., had been appointed head of the Pontifical Relief Mission for Germany, and that he crossed the Brenner Pass from Italy yesterday.

La Guardia Reaches Belgrade

BELGRADE, July 26 (AP)—Fiorello H. La Guardia, director of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, arrived today from Italy and was greeted by Yugoslav, British and American officials. He planned to leave for Zara later in the day, where he may confer with Premier Tito.

Youth Groups Are Said To Be Soviet Targets

J. GUTMAN

Budapest, July 25 (AP—Delayed)—A Hungarian informant said today the Russians had instructed Hungarian officials to "go even harder" on Hungarian Boy Scouts and Catholic Youth groups.

This reaction was said to have resulted from American objections to Russia's "unilateral action" in forcing the Hungarians to disband some 400 Boy Scout, Catholic Youth and similar organizations a few days ago.

From "Higher Up"

American informants said Russian Lieut. Gen. V. P. Sviridov, acting chairman of the Allied Control Commission, told the Allied Council yesterday the demands he had made, resulting in the disbandments, were orders from "higher up."

The Americans protested that Sviridov's list of demands, charging the organizations with being "Fascist" and accusing Catholic clergy of anti-Soviet propaganda, was delivered to the Hungarians in his capacity as council chairman without prior consultation with his Allies.

Three Hungarians Sentenced to Die

Budapest, July 26 (A. P.).—Three of fifty-six persons convicted of taking part in a pogram at Kunmadaras last June were sentenced to death today by a people's court. The remainder received prison terms ranging from four years to life.

Two persons were killed and twenty-seven injured in two fights in the Kunmadaras market place, according to the testimony brought out at the trial. Three defendants were acquitted.

50 Reports of Rockets Over Sweden This Month

Missiles Believed Launched in Various Russian Areas

STOCKHOLM, July 26 (AP). — The Swedish defense staff has received more than 50 reports this month from observers who said they saw "fire balls" skimming through the sky. Swedish newspapers say "Sweden is a testing range for rocket missiles."

Some of the reports said the missiles looked like "swans without a head," "seagulls" and "jetplanes but with a sound weaker than usual."

Some Swedes believe the launching rounds are on the southeastern side of the Baltic Sea. Others say the missiles come from the area of Petsamo or Karelia. (All these areas are Russian-controlled.)

Military searchers have been unable to recover any of the missiles to determine their origin, because they landed in lakes or other inaccessible places.

All reported missiles and their courses are being recorded on a map.

RED SAYS POLICY IRKS U.S. VOTERS

Moscow Writer Assails Both Vandenberg and Connally.

Moscow, July 26 (A. P.).—The Red Star's commentator, Vladimir Ochorsky, said today that millions of American voters were disgruntled with the post-war policies of their leaders in both foreign and domestic affairs and stayed away from the polls at recent primary elections. "Progressive" American voters were offended because leaders of both the Democratic and the Republican parties worked against efforts to retain in foreign affairs the "solidity of collaboration of the great Powers.

Senators Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) and Connally (D.-Tex.) were declared typical. Both of these senators, Ochorsky said, were supporting the "line of active expansionist politics with the aim of establishing the rule of the United States over the whole world." Where a trend in American politics could be detected, Ochorsky said, a loss of ground was indicated for the Democrats.

In another attack on American policy the Ukrainian Pravda, published at Kiev, printed a cartoon showing a Chinese labeled "Kuomintang" shielded from the hot sun of reality by the protecting figure of a gigantic Uncle Sam.

The cartoon caption said: "The American Government, supporting the reactionary leadership of the Kuomintang (Chinese Central Government party), has decided to train an army of 1,000,000 men for the Central Chinese Government and continues lend-lease for China, although the war has ended."

Also today Ilya Ehrenburg, still writing in the Soviet press about his recent trip to America, declared that in the United States "the South is on the eve of decisive events—either the slave-owners will withdraw or the Negroes will begin a struggle for equality." He described Mississippi as a place where whites "shiver with fright thinking about the mass of unfortunate angry people who become tired of singing Halleluyah while awaiting their turn to be hanged."

He said he based his prediction of forthcoming decisive events on the fact that many Negroes in the United States Army saw in Paris and Rome that they were not looked upon "as if they had the plague and have returned home more bitter."

British Seize 376 In Palestine Hunt

O'CONNOR FROM NYT

Jerusalem, July 26 (AP)—Police announced tonight they had rounded up 376 Jewish men and women suspected of connections with terrorist activities in a 24-hour sweep through Palestine.

Many of those detained had been released only recently from detention camps after the British raids on June 29. Most were taken in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Haifa.

Rescue workers, meanwhile, drew five more bodies from the ruins of the King David Hotel, blasted on Monday, raising the death toll to 76, with 34 persons still listed as missing.

In Jaffa, Jamal Bey Husseini, deputy chairman of the Arab executive committee, exhorted 400 parading Arab youths to "resign yourselves to the necessity of defending your country in its time of peril."

"The future of Palestine lies with the Arabs of Palestine," he said, "and we must be willing to accept the responsibilities of guiding our country's destiny."

Earlier Dr. Izzat Tannous, declared that the Arab boycott of Jewish goods would be enforced more rigidly, and that "from now on any Arab dealing with a Jew is an enemy of his people. He'll be treated as such."

Severe sanctions and "punitive measures" will be taken against Arabs found to be disobeying the boycott, an Arab weapon against zionism, said Dr. Tannous, head of the national economic committee handling the program. Several fines already have been levied and the punishments inflicted.

BOMB SCARE CAUSES PANIC IN JERUSALEM

200 Jews Are Seized in New Police Roundup and Sent to Detention Camp.

C. DAWSON

PALESTINE PACT IS REPORTED

Authority in Paris Says 2 States Under U. N. Are Agreed On by Moslems and Hebrews.

Jerusalem, July 26 (A. P.).—A false bomb alarm spread panic in the heart of jittery Jerusalem today as the British police continued their drive against terrorists and rounded up more than 200 Jews: These included many who had been released in the past twelve months and were today rearrested in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Haifa and sent to the Latrun detention camp.

The panic resulted from a rumor that police headquarters were to be blown up in a few minutes. Some one shouted the Hebrew word for "bomb," and the busy streets around headquarters and the General Post Office were quickly emptied by runners from all directions. The sudden arrival of police reinforcements in armored cars increased the excitement. It was some time before the tension was eased with the announcement that the alarm was false.

Arab Boycott Made Severe.

Meanwhile today, as a million Arabs of Palestine observed the Mohammedan Sabbath as a day of mourning for the Arab victims of Monday's bombing of the King David Hotel, other Arabs outlined plans for a rigid tightening of the boycott of Jewish goods.

The toll of Monday's bombing rose to seventy-one dead and the missing list fell off to thirty-nine as soldiers entered the fifth day of combing through the rubble of the smashed hotel wing.

Already launched as a weapon against Zionism, the boycott will take the form of "severe sanctions," and "punitive measures will be taken" against Arabs found dealing with Jews, said Dr. Izzat Tannous, head of the National Economic Committee which is handling the boycott.

Tannous said that a number of Arab merchants in Jerusalem, Haifa, Jaffa and other cities of Palestine had been fined and their Jewish-made merchandise confiscated. He added: "From now on any Arab dealing with a Jew is an enemy of his own people. He'll be treated as such."

One wealthy Arab merchant was fined $800 last week and that nearly $1,000 worth of Jewish made textiles found in his possession were confiscated, Tannous added.

ARMY SUSPENDS 2 TURK PAPERS

Istanbul, July 26 (A. P.).—The military commander of Istanbul ordered the indefinite suspension of two morning newspapers today shortly after issuing a proclamation warning that the Turkish Army would not tolerate publications which disturbed the "tranquility of the public."

One of the suspended papers was the long-established Yeni Sabah, while the other was the newly founded Gerchek.

Both opposed the People's party in the election and published a statement by Jelal Bayar, leader of the opposition Democratic party, accusing President Ismet Inonu's government of irregularities in the election. The People's party supports the Government.

A crowd estimated at 50,000 howled a loud protest at Izmir last night against Government-announced election returns which gave the opposition Democratic party only sixty-two out of 465 National Assembly seats. Izmir, although reputed a Democratic party stronghold, failed to place a single Democrat among the announced winners. Although the crowd decried what a party orator termed "irregularities" in the count, the people dispersed quietly without disorder after the mass meeting.

JAVA EVACUATION HALTED

Unrecognized Regime Links Step to 'Allied Hostilities'

BATAVIA, Java, July 26 (AP)—British authorities announced today that they had been advised by Indonesian Republican headquarters that the air evacuation of Netherland and Eurasian internees still held in Indonesian camps in the interior of Java would be "stopped until further notice."

The announcement followed a protest by the unrecognized Indonesian Republican Government against "continued Allied hostilities, including the use of armed Japanese troops in the Bandung area, the sinking of an Indonesian ship and Netherland air activity over the evacuation routes."

Lieut. Gen. Sir Montagu Stopford, British Southeast Asia commander, dispatched a note to Indonesian headquarters asking for an explanation of the halting of evacuation procedure, which he described as "most unfortunate."

There still are approximately 35,000 internees awaiting evacuation from the interior of Java.

MARSHALL TRIES TO END CHINA WAR

NANKING, July 26—(AP) All indications tonight were that Gen. Marshall, special American envoy, was engaged in a last minute effort to halt China's expanding civil war.

After conferring for two hours with Gen. Chou En-Lai, the chief Communist peace negotiator, Gen. Marshall braved hazardous weather to fly to Kuling for a conference with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Chou had flown to Nanking at Marshall's request for a conference shortly after the Communist general said in an interview at Shanghai that the Communists wanted an unconditional truce with no time limit.

A spokesman said Marshall and Chou exchanged views over the fighting in North Hiangsu, the situation on other fronts, and recent assassinations at Kunming. The spokesman would not say what proposal, if any, Chou had made to hasten peace. He did say, however, that Chou considered the situation "very grave."

Chou continued his discussions at dinner tonight with U. S. Ambassador John Leighton Stuart.

The Communist radio at Ehan meanwhile conceded that the new Communist Fourth army had withdrawn from Jukao, an important town on the north bank of the Yangtze river and near its mouth. The broadcast claimed the withdrawal was orderly and was made after annihilation of more than 20,000 nationalist government troops attacking the city.

MARSHALL FLIES TO MEET CHIANG

MILKS

Nanking, July 26 (A. P.).—Gen. Marshall, President Truman's special envoy to China, flew to Kuling today to see Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek under circumstances which strongly suggested his mission was to halt the fighting rapidly spreading toward full scale civil war. The importance of the conference at the summer capital with the Chinese Government's leader was pointed up by the fact that Marshall disregarded weather so bad that a transport plane turned back on the same flight.

Marshall left after a two-hour conference here with the Chinese Communists' chief negotiator, Chou En-lai, who came from Shanghai at Marshall's request. A Communist spokesman declined to indicate what proposal Chou had made, but said the negotiator considered the civil war situation "very grave." The Communists, while refusing to concede that Kuomintang forces won the first phase of the battle of north Kiangsu, admitted the Government had scored initial successes there.

Chou will continue his discussions tonight with United States Ambassador John Leighton Stuart. Indications are that Stuart is concentrating on the political aspects, thus leaving Marshall free to concentrate on a military settlement.

8 Japs Sentenced For Killing Yank Fliers In Formosa

Shanghai, July 25—(AP)—A three-man American military commission has sentenced eight Japanese, two of them to death, in the mass murder of 14 American fliers downed over Formosa late in 1945.

Sentenced to death yesterday were Col. Seiichi Furukawa, former chief of the judicial department of Japan's Tenth Area Army and Lt. Col. Naritak Sugiura, who was chief of the Japanese military tribunal which tried the 14 Americans.

Lt. Gen. Hazukei Isayama, who was chief of staff of the Tenth Area Army, was sentenced to life imprisonment as was Capt. Yoshio Nakano, the judge at the trials of the Americans.

Of the four others, one received a 40-year prison term, two 30 years and one a 20-year sentence.

China Relief Agency Shake-up Looms

Shanghai, July 26 (A. P.).—Government investigation into activities of the Chinese National Relief and Rehabilitation Administration at this port metropolis were started today, inspired by UNRRA criticism of CNRRA's inability to handle its end of relief shipments. Observers looked for a shake-up with CNRRA.

TRIBUNAL TOLD HOW JAPANESE RAPED NANKING

Systematic Slaughter of Civilians Is Described by Witnesses

Tokyo, July 26—(AP)—Rampant Japanese soldiers, seeking to terrify the conquered Chinese of Nanking, systematically marched hordes of civilians to the outskirts of the city and cut them down with machineguns in 1937, the International War Crimes Tribunal heard today.

Three Chinese described scenes of wholesale murder and rape in the trial of Hideki Tojo and 26 other alleged warmongers.

More than 200,000 civilians were slaughtered in the "rape of Nanking," Dr. Hsu Chuang-ying, University of Illinois-educated Nanking professor estimated.

Throw Bodies In Pond

Fifteen hundred Chinese youths, he said, were marched off at once and killed with machineguns. Their bodies were thrown into a pond.

"It would be impossible to tell the number of women and girls raped, the number of persons injured and the buildings ruthlessly destroyed," Dr. Hsu said.

He declared there was "absolute no excuse" of the reign of terror except that the Japanese "carried on a psychological war to strike terror into the Chinese people and to tear them loose from everything they held dear and sacred."

A Nanking policeman, Wu Chang-teh, described how civilians were forced through the gates of the walled city 100 at a time. They were cut down with machineguns set up outside the walls and their bodies fell into a moat.

Feints Death Slump

Wu said 1,600 civilians ahead of him were mowed down in such a manner. When his turn came he fell forward in a death feint, and later fled in the darkness.

A former silk merchant, Shan Teh-yi, testified he was one of 1,000 Chinese forced to sit on the banks of the Yangtze, hands bound together, facing 10 Japanese machineguns.

"We were ordered to stand up," he related. "I slumped to the ground just before they did the shooting, and was covered with corpses. I fainted. At nine that night I climbed from the corpses and escaped."

"A man came to the hospital with a bullet in the jaw and two-thirds of his body burned," Dr. Robert O. Wilson, surgeon at Nanking's University Hospital testified yesterday.

"He had been seized by Japanese soldiers, shot, covered with gasoline and set afire. He died two days later. Another man, severely burned about the head and shoulders, was the only survivor of a large group bound together, drenched with gasoline and set afire."

His testimony marked the first prosecution move to bring atrocities into the case against Hideki Tojo and 26 other accused top flight war criminals.

He testified that opium sales were greatly increased by the Japanese after the occupation. The prosecution claims that opium was a weapon used by Japanese to keep the Chinese in hand.

The international tribunal sharply squelched a defense attempt to blame American and commercial interests for the start of the war.

Sir William Webb, president of the tribunal, quickly interrupted Alfred W. Brooks, defense attorney from Kansas City, when he argued "there was a growing apprehension among Japanese and other Asiatics over the economic aggression of these commercial interests."

Reports Arkansas Sank in 2 Minutes

Kwajalein, July 25 (A. P.)—Col. William H. Blanchard of Chelsea, Mass., commander of the 509th Bombardment Group reporting on his aerial view of today's atom bomb test said the Arkansas went down in two minutes.

[Previous reports had placed the time required for the battleship to sink in Bikini lagoon at ten minutes.]

"First there was a great white patch where she had been," Blanchard said. "Then the water was streaked with oil.

"It looked as if there were a 100-foot wave. Several ships were swung around. The pressure wave first appeared as a giant doughnut, just as in the first Bikini test July 1, and then it grew fatter and fatter."

A-Bomb Blast Held Fatal To Ships For Half A Mile

BLAKESLEE

Bikini Test Results Considered Conclusive Proof Any Vessel Within That Range Is Doomed—Blandy Says Explosion Would Have Killed All Above Deck

Aboard the USS Appalachian, July 26—(AP)—The atomic bomb, which has twice proved conclusively it is sure death to ships of all categories within a half-mile radius, probably would have killed all men on decks had crews manned the target vessels in Bikini Lagoon for yesterday's underwater test.

That [redacted] calm, careful judgement of [redacted] Adm. W. H. P. Blandy, commander of Operation Crossroads."

"It is probable that personnel on deck would have been goners, if not immediately, at least later on," he said today in a post-blast assessment of the weapon which yesterday:

Sank the 26,100-ton Battleship Arkansas and the 33,000-ton carrier Saratoga; so grievously wounded the Japanese Battleship Nagato that she still is developing a list; left the Destroyer Hughes in imminent danger of sinking; sank some lighter craft; and spread so much radioactivity that 24 hours later 36 square miles of water are contaminated.

Results Are Similar

Don Whitehead, of the Associated Press, after a flight over the lagoon today, said yesterday's bomb proved it is a "killer" of ships within a half-mile radius—the same radius of "sudden death" in the July 1 air burst test as well as of the death circle imprinted on the New Mexico sands last year.

In the two Bikini tests, no ship within that radius has survived and the power of the bomb has extended beyond it.

The radioactivity within the lagoon bars a thorough check, but it is definitely known that yesterday's thunderous explosion accounted for the Arkansas, the Saratoga, a concrete yard oiler, a tank-landing ship and the medium landing-ship from which the bomb was suspended.

Aerial observers had said positions of buoys indicated that five of submarines submerged for the test were sunk but Admiral Blandy said today the evidence was inconclusive.

Charles McMurtry, of the Associated Press, flying over the lagoon today in a C54, reported back that "two or three" submarines were sunk.

McMurtry, whose plane flew as low as 400 feet, said he saw no sign of animal life but added it has not been disclosed whether any of the 1,500 animals in the test were placed above decks.

Blandy said that, had the ships been manned yesterday, in addition to loss of life on the decks it is highly probable that many of those below decks would have been injured by "the physical shock of the blast."

Drone Plane Damaged

The admiral also observed:

The unmanned drone airplane 6,000 feet directly over the bomb burst was damaged even though this explosion had to travel through a cushion of water to reach the air.

The bomb was about equal to others of the Nagasaki type. (This refers to the atom bomb which wrecked one-third of that Japanese city during the war.)

Transports and other lightweight ships failed to sink in any numbers because they were farther away from the center of the explosion than the Arkansas and Saratoga.

The animals, now isolated by radioactive waters from attention, have a ten days supply of food and water on the target ships—if they are alive.

Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, commander of the Army's part in the test, said the drone airplane missed the blast 6,000 feet below by only six seconds. This was good timing as the drone was allowed ten seconds margin. The blast broke down the bomb bay doors and simpled the metallic sides of the plane.

Rear Adm. W. S. Parsons, deputy commander of technical direction, said that without a doubt the drone was injured by the air blast from the underwater bomb rather than by water shooting upward. The water column's final height was 5,000 feet under Parson's expectations.

"After the water column had risen to about 1,000 feet, the blast from the bomb caught up with and overwhelmed the rising water and spread it out," he explained.

There was more of a blast in the air than had been expected. The reason for this was unexplained. It probably means the depth of the water over the bomb did not confine this nuclear giant as well as had been calculated.

Admiral Blandy, when asked, "Is it true you arranged the target ships to permit the sinking of the Arkansas and Saratoga?" answered:

"Apparently."

Then he quickly amplified, "We were not planning to sink any particular ship by name."

Blandy emphasized that the perils of bomb-created waves are not to be minimized.

One landing ship at Bikini Beach was swamped by one or more of the 20 waves that rolled ashore despite the fact that these waves were reported as less than 10 feet high.

Men doomed to die from the effects of an atom bomb might save their ship from sinking, Admiral Blandy pointed out.

He said that had there been men on the Carrier Saratoga, those not killed immediately by the blast likely could have saved her from sinking since seven and a half hours went by before she plunged. But Blandy added it was quite probable that those same men would have died later.

Twenty-six hours after yesterday's atomic underwater blast there was no visible sign on or around Bikini Lagoon of destruction to animal life, plants or trees.

A few bugs zoomed around as usual. Birds appeared undisturbed. On the afternoon of the bomb explosion, some observers reported seeing birds flocking over the target and concluded they might be after dead fish.

But no birds were seen over the target area this forenoon.

Four miles south of the target area not a single dead fish was to be seen on the surface. The ocean currents, however, flow away from the present observation point and whatever killed fish are on the surface would [redacted] be miles away from the ships.

Scientists did not expect the blast would kill more than a small percentage of fish and said also they are not so easily damaged by radioactive rays as are humn beings.

Nagato Appears on Its Way To Watery Grave at Bikini

Jap Battleship Develops Increasing List—Blandy Says Crews Would Have Perished Had They Been on Target Ships.

BLAKESLEE

Aboard the U. S. S. Appalachian Off Bikini, July 26 (A. P.).—The 32,720-ton Japanese battleship Nagato developed an increasing list today, pointing her toward a probable watery grave in Bikini lagoon to which yesterday's submarine atomic blast already has consigned the battleship Arkansas and aircraft carrier Saratoga.

Late this afternoon, hours after Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy had pronounced the aged but heavy-hulled battlewagon in bad shape, her pagoda-like superstructure showed an even more precarious slant.

Blandy's report on the Nagato was made at a press conference in which he said the underwater blast probably would have killed all men on the decks of all the target vessels had crews risked their lives in the man-made catastrophe.

DAY

Blandy Assesses Blast.

"It is probable that personnel on deck would have been goners, if not immediately, at least later on," he said in assessment of the explosion which thus far has shown these results:

Immediately sank the 26,100-ton Arkansas; caused the 33,000-ton "Sara" to go down nearly eight hours later; so grievously wounded the Nagato that she began a steady list; caused the destroyer Hughes to start settling in the water, so that she was beached today by a tug; sank lighter craft including some submarines and spread so much radioactivity that twenty-four hours later thirty-six square miles are contaminated.

Don Whitehead of the Associated Press, after a flight over the lagoon today, said the bomb had proved it has tremendous destructive force possibly fatal to ships within a half-mile radius and considerable power beyond that deadly circle.

Aerial observers had said positions of buoys indicated that five of the submarines submerged for the test were sunk but Blandy said today the evidence was inconclusive.

Charles McMurty of the Associated Press, flying over the lagoon today in a C54, reported that two or three submarines were sunk.

McMurtry, whose plane flew as low as 400 feet, said he saw no sign of animal life, but added it has not been disclosed whether any of the 1,500 animals in the test were placed above decks.

Blandy said that, had the ships been manned yesterday, in addition to loss of life on the decks it is highly probable that many of those below decks would have been injured by "the physical shock of the blast."

The admiral also observed:

The unmanned drone airplane 6,000 feet directly over the bomb burst was damaged even though this explosion had to travel through a cushion of water to reach the air.

Equal to Nagasaki Type.

The bomb was about equal to others of the Nagasaki type. (This refers to the atom bomb which wrecked one-third of that Japanese city during the war.)

Transporas and other lightweight ships failed to sink in any numbers because they were farther away from the center of the explosion than the Arkansas and Saratoga.

The animals, now isolated by radioactive waters from attention, have a ten days supply of food and water on the target ships—if they are alive.

Major-Gen. William E. Kepner, commander of the Army's part in the test, said the drone airplane missed the blast 6,000 feet below by only six seconds. The blast broke down the bomb bay doors and dimpled the metallic sides of the plane.

Rear Admiral W. S. Parsons, deputy commander of technical direction, said that without a doubt the drone was injured by the air blast from the underwater bomb rather than by water shooting upward.

"After the water column had risen to about 1,000 feet, the blast from the bomb caught up with and overwhelmed the rising water and spread it out," he explained.

Air Blast Surprises.

There was more of a blast in the air than had been expected. This probably means the depth of the water over the bomb did not confine this nuclear giant as well as had been calculated.

Blandy, when asked, "Is it true you arranged the target ships to permit the sinking of the Arkansas and the Saratoga?" answered: "Apparently."

Then he quickly amplified, "We were not planning to sink any particular ship by name."

Blandy emphasized that the perils of bomb-created waves are not to be minimized. One landing ship at Bikini Beach was swamped by one or more of the twenty waves that rolled ashore despite the fact that these waves were reported as less than 10 feet high.

Animal Life Intact.

Bikini, July 26 (A. P.).—Twentysix hours after yesterday's atomic underwater blast there was no visible sign on or around Bikini lagoon of destruction to animal life, plants or trees.

A few bugs zoomed around as usual. Birds appeared undisturbed. Four miles south of the target area not a single dead fish was to be seen on the surface. The ocean currents, however, flow away from the present observation point and whatever killed fish are on the surface would now be miles away from the ships.

The targe fleet still is isolated by radioactive rays. Yesterday one of the men in a small boat photographing the Saratoga from close up was exposed to about fifty Roentgens of radiation.

This much is the normal medical dose when doctors use X-rays for treatment. A few other men may have been similarly exposed, but the exposures are not considered likely to be serious since the boats got away quickly.

GREAT HOLE TORN IN LAGOON FLOOR BY BIKINI BLAST

Aboard a C-54 over Bikini lagoon, July 26—(AP)—The underwater atomic bomb packs a lethal wallop over a radius of probably two-thirds of a mile, cameramen and others aboard this plane were convinced during a six and a half hour flight today over the shipwrecked scene of yesterday's test.

A great hole on the bottom of the lagoon in the target area, after amazed observers, some of whom witnessed yesterday's detonation.

After the detonation, the lagoon at the center of the target array was a vivid green as though the water had been dyed. This was caused by the shattering and pulverizing of coral. Today currents had carried away much of the coral, leaving a great milky streak running from the approximate place where the Saratoga sank northwestward a mile or more. The streak slowly grew in width and hid the fate of at least two submarines.

Old Cruiser Still Floats

Somewhat surprisingly, the veteran old heavy cruiser Pensacola, anchored on the inner target circle, appeared undamaged from the underwater blast. Her superstructure still was twisted and the stacks bent from the effects of the air burst but she was on even keel.

There was considerable radioactivity in the northern sector which became much greater at lower altitudes.

ICELANDERS ARGUE OVER U. S. TROOPS

Reykjavik, July 26 (A. P.).—The question of the withdrawal of United States troops from Iceland was raised again in the Althing (Parliament) last night as delegates voted to authorize the Cabinet to apply for membership in the United Nations. Prolonged debate was evoked by an amendment which would have made the application for membership contingent upon the immediate withdrawal of United States forces.

The amendment finally was defeated, 36 to 9, after Prime Minister Clafur Thors said negotiations were about to begin with the United States for the abrogation of the military protection agreement of 1941. Several members also argued that the question of United States troops should not be coupled with that of U. N. membership.

After the amendment was voted down, the Althing passed the application bill, 36 to 6, concluding three days of debate.

U.S. Charges Russian Army Stripped Hungary of Food, Vitally Needed Materials

RUSSIAN ACTIONS HIT FOR CAUSING ECONOMIC CHAOS

Letter to Molotov Requests Cooperation in Reviving Defeated Nation.

PACT BROKEN

U. S. Declares Soviet Fails to Live Up to Yalta Agreement.

WASHINGTON, July 26—(AP) On the eve of Secretary Byrnes' departure for the Paris peace conference, the United States tonight sharply accused Russia of creating economic chaos in Hungary by stripping her of vital food and industrial materials.

It disclosed also a direct appeal to Foreign Minister Molotov for Soviet cooperation with America and Britain in rehabilitating the former satellite of Germany.

Letter Sent to Molotov

The State department made public a letter which Ambassador W. Bedell Smith delivered to Molotov Tuesday containing the appeal. The letter also declared that the Red army had been stripping Hungary of foodstuffs while the Russian government had removed $124,000,000 worth of manufacturing equipment and is currently absorbing 50 per cent of Hungary's industrial production.

The strong protest may foreshadow a fight over Hungarian reparations at the peace conference.

The blast at Russia was given out by the department shortly after Byrnes held a news conference at which he made these major points on American foreign policy operations:

1. The United States intends to pull its troops out of Italy within the specified 90-day period after final signing of the Italian peace treaty. Byrnes does not consider the necessity of maintaining supply lines to Austria is any excuse for keeping Allied forces (American and British) in Italy once the treaty is effective. Presumably, Byrnes will apply the same reasoning to try to get Russian forces removed from Bulgaria after the signing of a Bulgarian treaty.

Palestine Partition Urged

2. The Anglo-American cabinet meeting on Palestine has recommended a plan for the partition of Palestine. Presumably, this means settling Jews and Arabs in different zones under a federalized British control administration. Byrnes, Secretary of War Patterson, and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder conferred with President Truman late this afternoon on the plan, which Byrnes said Britain already has approved.

3. The United States will dispatch a special mission to Spain and Portugal on Aug. 7 to negotiate for recovery by the Allies of German assets in those countries.

4. Byrnes has no present plans for discussing German and Austrian problems during the Paris peace conference which opens Monday but may later decide to take up those problems with foreign ministers Molotov, Bevin and Bidault in separate, informal meetings of the Big Four.

Byrnes to Consider Proposal

5. Byrnes has promised Reparations Commissioner Edwin W. Pauley that he will consider Pauley's proposal to withhold German reparations from Russia as compensation for Russian removals of industrial equipment from Manchuria.

Byrnes is scheduled to take off for the Paris Peace conference about noon tomorrow. In response to a suggestion from the Washington Post that the capital stage a demonstration as Byrnes departs on the historic mission, President Truman will lead a parade to the airport.

Byrnes said that one of his first actions in Paris will be to confer with the American members of the Joint Committee on Palestine and make final decisions about American policy on the partition plan.

The peace conference is slated to review Big Four proposals for treaties for Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Italy and Finland.

The Bedell Smith letter to Molotov flatly rejected a whole series of Soviet claims that Russia was not interfering with economic conditions in Hungary.

Yalta Pact Recalled

The letter, presented on direct instructions from Washington, sharply reminded Molotov that Premier Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt had agreed at the Yalta conference to work together to help the former Axis satellite states solve their "pressing political and economic problems." Smith frankly implied that the Russians were not living up to this agreement.

Russian reparations demands and the Red Army's policy of living off the country were blamed as the causes of Russia's removals of materials from Hungary.

Smith disputed contentions which he said had been made previously by the Moscow government, that Hungary's plight was in any way due to the failure of the United States to restore to Hungary property which the Germans had stolen and which now is in the American zones of Germany and Austria.

He called "grossly exaggerated" the Russian estimate on this point, that the United States is holding Hungarian property worth $3,000,000,000.

Points Outlined

Smith made these principal points in his lengthy letter to Molotov:

1. Russian reparations from Hungary "absorb between 80 and 90 percent of the current output" of Hungarian heavy industry such as coal, iron, metal and machine production. Altogether, "half of the current output of Hungarian manufacturing industry, which is operating at only one-third of the prewar level, is absorbed by reparations and other requirements of the occupying power."

2. The United States has "reliable information" that the Red Army in Hungary took 4,000,000 tons of wheat, rye, barley, corn and oats in 1945, mostly during the first six months. This figure is more than half the total Hungarian production of these foods in prewar 1938.

In the second half of 1945, Smith wrote, the Red army took out of the stocks of food available for the urban population nearly all the meats, one-sixth of the wheat and rye, more than 25 per cent of the legumes, nearly three-quarters of the lard, one-tenth of the vegetable oil and one-fifth of the milk and dairy products. "Extensive requisitioning" was continuing as late as April, 1946.

Discrepancy Cited

"My government finds it impossible to reconcile this information," Smith said, "with the statement of the Soviet government that 'the Soviet command in Hungary has neither carried out nor is carrying out any requisitions.'"

3. The United States has reliable estimates that the total Hungarian war damage amounted to $345,000,000 "of which $124,200,000 was due to removals by Soviet forces."

The letter raised the possibility at one point that the United States might reopen the question of Hungarian reparations, based upon the Russian claim for $300,000,000 in reparations payments.

"As pointed out in the original letter of March 2, 1946," Smith told Molotov, "the United States government, at the time of the signing of the Hungarian armistice, reserved the right to reopen the question of Hungarian reparations."

In agreeing to the reparations arrangements in the first place, Smith wrote, the United States believed that Hungary would be able to pay the Russians with "careful management."

"It did not foresee," the letter continued, "that Hungary's production capacity and national income would be cut to half or less in the space of a few months, and that the reparations payable by Hungary in 1945, for example, would equal 24 per cent of the national income. Likewise, it did not foresee that Hungary would be required to surrender large quantities of goods and services over and above its reparations obligation."

Text of U. S. Note to Soviet on Hungary

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The text of the State Department's announcement on Russian activities in Hungary:

In the Crimea Declaration on liberated Europe, the heads of Government of the U.S.S.R., Great Britain and the United States undertook "to concert during the temporary period of instability in liberated Europe the policies of their three Governments in assisting the peoples liberated from the domination of Nazi Germany and the peoples of the former Axis satellite states of Europe to solve by democratic means their pressing political economic problems."

In following closely the economic recovery problems of the countries of Europe, the United States Government became seriously concerned several months ago over the alarming deterioration of the Hungarian economy. This concern has mounted in the intervening months, during which the Hungarian economic situation has become progressively worse, culminating in the present chaotic inflation.

Since December, 1945, the United States Government has taken the initiative in proposing that the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States consider means whereby the three Powers, as contemplated in the Crimea Declaration, could assist Hungary to rebuild its shattered economy. These proposals, however, have been rejected by the Soviet Government.

U. S. Offers Rebuffed

In a meeting of the Allied Control Commission in Budapest in December, 1945, the United States representative recommended the establishment of a subcommittee of the control commission to consider questions of Hungarian industry, finance and economics. This approach was unavailing.

Subsequently, in a note to the Soviet Government on March 2, 1946, this Government again raised the issue by reviewing the grave economic plight of Hungary, by calling attention to the overburdening of that country with reparations, requisitions and the costs of maintaining large occupation forces, and by requesting the Soviet Government to instruct its representatives in Hungary to concert at an early date with the United States and British representatives there in devising a program which would bring to an end the process of disintegration in Hungary, and at the same time provide a framework within which the rehabilitation of the country and its reintegration with the general European economy might be accomplished.

In a reply dated April 21, Mr. A. Y. Vishinsky, the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, rejected the United States proposal on the ground that the working out of an economic rehabilitation plan for Hungary fell within the competence of the Hungarian Government. Mr. Vishinsky also denied that the cost to Hungary of Soviet reparations and occupation was in any way responsible for the deterioration of economic conditions in Hungary, and alleged that the failure of the United States to return to Hungary from the United States-occupied zones in Germany and Austria displaced property estimated in value at $3,000,000,000 was one of the principal reasons Hungary's present economic difficulties.

Russia Takes Half of Output

In connection with this exchange of notes concerning the economic situation in Hungary, the American Ambassador in Moscow, upon instructions from this Government, has now delivered a further note to the Soviet Government under date of July 23, 1946, the text of which is as follows:

"July 23, 1946.

"His Excellency
"V. M. Molotov,
"Minister for Foreign Affairs of the U.S.S.R.,
"Moscow.

"Excellency,

"My Government has directed me to communicate to you the following reply to Mr. Vishinsky's letter of April 21, 1946, relating to the economic situation of Hungary:

"My Government is unable to agree with the Soviet Government that 'the fulfillment by Hungary of its reparations obligations and the presence of occupations troops in Hungary do not and cannot exercise any serious influence on the economic situation of the country.'

"My Government wishes to bring to the attention of the Soviet Government the fact that half of the current output of Hungarian manufacturing industry, which is operating at only one-third of the pre-war level, is absorbed by reparations and other requirements of the occupying Power. In the case of heavy industry, coal, iron, metal and machine production, which is very urgently required for Hungary's rehabilitation, reparations alone absorb between 80 and 90 per cent of the current output. Except for some bridge and railway construction necessary to facilitate the movement of goods, Hungarian heavy industry is producing practically nothing for domestic requirements.

Soviet Requisitions Itemized

"With reference to the economic burden placed upon Hungary by the Soviet occupation forces, I am instructed to inform the Soviet Government of reliable information in the possession of my Government to the effect that 4,000,000 tons of wheat, rye, barley, corn and oats were taken by the Red Army in Hungary in 1945, mostly during the first six months. This figure may be compared with 1938 Hungarian production of approximately 7,189,000 tons of these foodstuffs. Of stocks of food available for the support of the Hungarian urban population in the second half of 1945, the Red Army absorbed nearly all of the meats, one-sixth of the wheat and rye, more than a quarter of the legumes, nearly three-quarters of the lard, one-tenth of the vegetable oil, and one-fifth of the milk and dairy products.

"According to the most recent reports received, extensive requisitioning of foodstuffs was taking place as late as April, 1946. My Government finds it impossible to reconcile this information with the statement of the Soviet Government that 'the Soviet Command in Hungary has neither carried out nor is carrying out any requisitions.'

"My Government has noted that, in the opinion of the Soviet Government, 'the real reasons for the severe economic and financial situation in Hungary are the expenditures incurred by her in the war against the United Nations and the ravaging of the country by the Germans and the former Hungarian rulers.'

"I am instructed to mention for the information of the Soviet Government that, on the basis of reliable estimates, it has been calculated that the total war damage to Hungarian manufacturing industry, including removals, amounted to $345,000,000, of which $124,200,000 was due to removals by Soviet forces.

Claims of Russia Refuted

"Note has also been taken of the view of the Soviet Government that 'one of the main reasons for the difficult economic situation in Hungary * * * is the fact that a large quantity of Hungarian property and valuables continues to this day to remain in the American zone of occupation on the territory of Austria and southern Germany, where this property was shipped by the Salassy Government during the period of the advance of the troops of the Red Army.' The Soviet Government mentions a figure of about $3,000,000,000 as the estimated value of this property.

"In connection with this estimate, I am instructed to direct the attention of the Soviet Government to official Hungarian statistics, which estimate all Hungarian war damages attributed to Germans and Italians, including destruction within the country and removals from the country, and including damage to real estate, at $1,250,000,000. Since the property removed from Hungary is only a part of this total, and since only a part of the removed property ever reached the American zones, it is clear that the estimate cited by the Soviet Government is grossly exaggerated. This conclusion is indicated also by the fact that the Hungarian Government's estimate of total national wealth in 1943, excluding houses and buildings, amounted to only $4,400,000,000.

"Since the Hungarian Government is only now, at the request of my Government, in the course of preparing complete lists of Hungarian property believed to be located in the American zones of Germany and Austria, my Government is not yet in a position accurately to determine the total value of such property. The most important single item of Hungarian property in the American zones appears, however, to be the gold which was removed from Hungary to Austria by former officials of the Hungarian National Bank, and which the United States Government understands amounts to approximately $32,000,000.

U. S. to Restore Gold

"With respect to the status of Hungarian property located in the American zones of Germany and Austria, the Soviet Government will be interested to learn that my Government has notified the Hungarian Government of its intention to return to Hungary the looted gold in its custody, and to expedite restitution of identifiable looted property.

"Restitution of commercial inland water craft on the Danube will be deferred pending the outcome of discussions between the United States military authorities and the Soviet authorities in Vienna with a view toward establishing principles of freedom of movement of vessels on the Danube under the flags which they now fly without danger of seizure. This program of restitution is in accordance with and in implementation of the statement made by the Secretary of State to the Hungarian Premier in Washington.

"As pointed out in the original letter of March 2, 1946, the United States Government, at the time of the signing of the Hungarian armistice, reserved the right to reopen the question of Hungarian reparations. My Government agreed to the armistice as a means of facilitating the speedy termination of hostilities. It believed that with careful management, Hungary might have been able to pay $300,000,000 in reparations.

"It did not foresee that Hungary's production capacity and national income would be cut to half or less in the space of a few months, and that the reparations payable by Hungary in 1945, for example, would equal 24 per cent of the national income. Likewise, it did not foresee that Hungary would be required to surrender large quantities of goods and services over and above its reparations obligations.

U. S. Asks 3-Power Program

"My Government has noted the position taken by the Soviet Government with respect to the formulation by the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom and the United States, of a program which would assist the rehabilitation of Hungary and its reintegration with the general economy of Europe. The Soviet Government may be assured that it is not the policy of the Government of the United States to force acceptance by Hungary of any economic program.

"The United States, in proposing tripartite discussion of an economic program for Hungary, had in mind the discussion of aid and assistance which the three Powers could give to Hungary, once the economic obligations of that country were carefully defined and scheduled so as to permit their discharge without depriving the people of Hungary of their means of livelihood. The United States has no desire to impose a plan for Hungary's economy, but does desire to lend assistance to Hungary through a concert of policies such as was envisaged in the declaration made by the three Powers at the Crimea Conference.

"Hungarian Government officials have, in fact, requested such assistance of the three Powers. The Hungarian Finance Minister submitted to the Soviet economic adviser of the Control Commission a report on the Hungarian economic and financial situation under date of Dec. 3, 1945. This report concluded with the following statement:

"'The only way that we can see out of our serious financial and economic difficulties is a plan of reconstruction, to be carried out with the assistance of the Allied Powers, the objective of which would be to raise production to a substantially higher level than at present and restore equilibrium in the country's economic and financial affairs.

"'Since, however, we cannot work out a plan of reconstruction until it is known what support we may count upon from the Allied Powers, there is an urgent necessity that the Allied Powers should send a commission which, with the cooperation of the Hungarian Government, would examine the economic and financial situation of the country and the methods by which assistance could be given.

"'We should expect from the work of the commission a statement of what measures and what foreign assistance are necessary, in the present economic state of the country, with its present burdens and requirements, in order that the country may recover economically and be able to meet the triple obligation arising from reparations, other obligations under the armistice agreement and pre-war foreign debts.'

"The Soviet chairman of the Control Commission refused to accept or to consider this report, nor would he agree to a proposal of the United States representative that there be established a subcommittee of the Control Commission to discuss questions of Hungarian industry, finance and economics.

U. S. Again Asks Soviet Help

"In view of the position taken by the chairman, my Government cannot conclude that the willingness of the Soviet chairman 'to acquaint himself with such considerations as may be advanced by the representatives of the United States * * * concerning Hungary's economic situation' constitutes a satisfactory procedure for the solution of these problems.

"I am instructed again to call attention to the obligation freely undertaken by the Soviet Union at the Yalta Conference, in which the three heads of state agreed 'to concert the policies of their three Governments, in assisting * * * the peoples of the former Axis satellite States of Europe to solve by democratic means their pressing political and economic problems.'

"Pursuant to this agreement, the United States Government again requests that instructions be sent to the Soviet representative in Hungary to concert with the American and British representatives there in halting the present economic disintegration and to provide a framework within which the rehabilitation of that country, and its early reintegration with the general economy of Europe, will be possible.

"Finally, an immediate consideration is that the prompt issuance of such instructions would have a salutary effect on the financial stabilization program which the Hungarian Government is initiating on Aug. 1, and in the interest of which the United States Government is returning to Hungary monetary gold reported to be valued at about $32,000,000."

British Approve Plan To Partition Palestine

Byrnes, Truman to Discuss Proposal for Independent Jewish, Arab States.

WASHINGTON, July 26 — (AP) Secretary of State Byrnes said today the Anglo-American cabinet committee on Palestine had recommended a partition plan for Palestine which the British government has approved and the United States government is considering.

Byrnes told a news conference that he hoped to discuss the plan with President Truman tonight or tomorrow morning before he leaves about noon for the Paris peace conference opening next Monday.

He gave no details of the plan other than to say that it was part of the whole set of proposals worked out for the projected admittance of 100,000 Jews to the Holy Land.

Reports of Land Split

Before Byrnes spoke there were reports in Paris that it was planned to split the disputed land into independent Jewish and Arab under United Nations mandate.

There was similar partition talk in London.

While Brynes did not explain what partition of Palestine would mean, presumably it would entail setting aside a specified area for Jewish occupation and another area for Arab occupation with some sort of federalized government under British control over all.

Byrnes said that his talk on Palestine with President Truman would be preceded by a late afternoon conference today with Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder who with him compose President Truman's cabinet committee on Palestine.

No Decision Until Monday

In addition, Byrnes declared that no formal decision of the United States government would be made until after he has had opportunity to confer in Paris Monday morning with the three American members of the British-United States committee. The American section is headed by former Assistant Secretary of State Henry Grady.

The partition proposal, Byrnes told the news conference, was not initially put forward by the United States government. He assumed though he did not know, he said, that it was originally a British proposition. However, he explained that it had been unanimously approved by the full six members of the Anglo-American committee.

Byrnes was asked whether Britain had informed the United States that it intended to call conferences of Jews and Arabs prior to actually carrying out whatever Palestine plan is finally agreed upon. He said he had no information to that effect.

Would Send Observers

The United States has not been requested to send representatives to such conferences, he declared, and he added he probably would not favor sending representatives although he would agree to send observers.

Byrnes explained that the British plan had been received by him only yesterday and said he had erred in giving out through the State department's information officer a report that there were two alternative plans. Actually there is but one long set of proposals in three installments, he said.

President Truman received the message from Byrnes late yesterday and Secretaries Patterson and Snyder got their copies only this morning, Byrnes said.

The President is being advised daily of the work of the Anglo-American conference at London.

OPA HIKES PRICES, LIFTS CONTROLS ON MANY ARTICLES

Ceilings Raised for Coal, Shoes, Chinaware, Rubber Heels, Building Materials.

AGENCY HAS BUSY DAY

Way Held Open for Manufacturers to Apply for Higher Prices on Goods.

WASHINGTON, July 26 — (AP) Reborn OPA today poured out price orders in large batches, raising or removing ceilings on thousands of items and making its first day of new life the busiest of its turbulent career.

Most goods simply reverted to the ceilings of June 30, under the OPA revival act signed "with reluctance" by President Truman last night.

Prices Raised

But OPA celebrated the end of its 25-day lapse of activity by wielding its congressionally-shorn powers in a tremendous show of vitality.

Prices were raised on shoes, coal, oil burners, rubber heels, cotton rugs, chinaware, galoshes, and a long list of building materials.

Ceilings were swept away completely from major types of industrial machinery, the output of which amounts to $2,000,000,000 annually; from a wide range of household items like awnings, fruit jar rings, medicine droppers, rubber floor mats and some clocks; from nearly all the furs not previously exempted; and from thousands of building hardware and equipment items.

For other manufacturers—such as those making stepladders, razor blades, glass light shades and automatic pencils—the way was open to apply for higher prices on their lowest-cost lines.

More Increases Expected

All these actions were pending when OPA expired. Still to come are a flood of increases authorized under the OPA act now in force.

Gasoline price increases were signaled while OPA's mimeograph machines chattered. In New York, Socony-Vacuum Oil company announced an increase of nine-tenths of one cent a gallon on gasoline and solvents, effective Saturday in New York and New England.

Kerosene and distillate fuels will rise seven-tenths of one cent and industrial fuel oils 30 cents a barrel, the company added.

Petroleum is exempt from price control indefinitely—along with eggs, poultry and tobacco—unless the three-man decontrol board provided [illegible] orders a restoration of ceilings.

Oil Price Boosted

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced a [illegible]-cents-a-barrel increase on all grades of crude oil purchased in the mid-continent and Rocky Mountain fields. Four other companies followed suit.

OPA meanwhile buckled into the job of figuring higher prices demanded under the new law. Autos may be among the first to go up. Officials said that popular-priced cars may rise an average of about $100, rather than $75 as predicted earlier by the agency. The regulation may be ready in a day or so, to meet requirements that dealers' pre-war profit margins be restored.

Price Administrator Paul A. Porter warned, however, that OPA will in general "not rush to the rescue of sellers who paid high prices in anticipation of unloading at still higher prices."

June Level Sought

Porter said in a statement that Congress has expressed its views that price and rent levels should be restored to those of June 30, and in general this is the case, he added.

Despite the exemption of many foods from ceilings, "approximately 40 per cent of all foods remain under control," he said.

All agricultural products now under ceilings will remain under them until at least Sept. 1, when the secretary of agriculture certifies which items are in short supply.

A prediction that food price rises which have occurred in the 25 OPA-less days are likely to become permanent was voiced by Senator Taft (R-Ohio). He termed the new bill "far more inflationary" than the one Mr. Truman vetoed on June 29.

President's Action Criticized

"The net result of the President's action has been to bring about the very inflation he pretends to abhor," said the Republican author of one of the original OPA amendments to which Mr. Truman objected.

Taft also demanded an immediate announcement that beef and grain ceilings will not be restored. These, along with dairy products, cottonseed and soy beans, are to go back under control Aug. 21 unless the decontrol board rules otherwise.

Other senators cracked back sharply at the President's warning last night that the bill may prove inadequate and that he may later call Congress into session to write stern[illegible] price rules and boost taxes to combat inflation.

If legislators are recalled to Washington after visiting with their constituents, predicted Senator Wherry (R-Neb), they will wipe OPA off the map.

Tax Rise Plan Assailed

Senator George (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Finance committee, declared it was unrealistic to talk now of tax increases—"and I think the President and the Treasury must know that."

President William Green of the AFL issued a statement saying his organization is "deeply disappointed" by the new OPA law.

"Unless industry and business exercise more self control than they have to date and voluntarily hold the line on prices, conditions may become insupportable to labor," he said. "Unrest will spread and a new strike wave may hit the nation."

The next major move is up to the White House, and Mr. Truman has stated it will come in a day or so. This is the naming of the decontrol board with power to overrule OPA on ceilings and to decide on restoration of those ceilings eliminated by Congress at least until Aug. 21.

Increases Are Temporary

The price boosts granted today are temporary and subject to revision under the standards of the new law, which call for higher prices in many instances.

Directly affecting consumers were these increases, all effective at once:

Five cents a pair on rubber heels in shoe repair shops.

Five and one half per cent on household oil burners.

Ten per cent in retail ceilings on rubbers, galoshes and other rubber footwear.

Six or eight cents a ton on coal for household use, to cover freight rate increases.

One cent to six cents a pair on some work gloves.

From three and one half to seven per cent increases on cotton rugs.

Shoe Prices Boosted

Eight per cent on certain shoes. Since these types account for 30 per cent of all production, the general level of shoe prices rise 2.4 per cent.

Up to 21 per cent on lower priced auto seat covers.

One to three cents on each piece of inexpensive chinaware.

All the increases were designed to offset higher costs of labor and materials, or to stimulate production of scarce items.

Of larger impact on the basic economy was the wholesale suspension of price control on a huge list of industrial machinery and equipment items.

The list fills three pages and covers all heavy machine tools, many lighter machine tools, oil drilling and producing equipment, most mining machinery, many farm equipment items, and certain electrical and testing machines.

Hardware Decontrolled

Overboard also went controls on thousands of mechanical building equipment items, including certain hardware, screening, air conditioning, valves and pipe fittings, piping and plumbing equipment.

Meanwhile, a formal request for an additional $26,000,000 for operation of OPA reached Congress.

In asking for the additional money, President Truman said the $75,000,000 already appropriated for OPA for the current fiscal year was "insufficient" to permit effective operation until the new Congress convenes in January.

The additional funds, he said, should permit OPA to operate until next February, when more money can be provided by the new Congress.

Text of OPA Price Increases,

Other Actions

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 26—Following is the text of an announcement on price increases, decontrols and other actions issued by the Office of Price Administration on its first day since extension:

Price Increases

Wearing Apparel and Materials

1. Waterproof Rubber Footwear—Average increase of 10 per cent in retail ceiling prices. (OPA-6620.)

2. Rubber Heels—Ceiling prices in shoe repair shops increased five cents a pair.

Rubber Soles Sold to Shoe Repair Trade—Manufacturers' and wholesalers' ceilings raised 10.5 per cent. (OPA-6621.)

3. Certain work Gloves—Additional manufacturers' increase resulting in some cases in an increase in retail ceiling prices of from one cent to six cents a pair. (OPA-6618.)

4. Shoes—Manufacturers' and manufacturing-retailers' ceiling prices for shoes exactly like those made in the base period in any price line increased same as recent increase on low-cost base period shoes. Will amount to about an 8 per cent increase at retail for these types of shoes. Shoes covered amount to about 30 per cent of total footwear production. (OPA-6624.)

Industrial and Manufacturing Materials

1. Paperboard Used in Making Tags, File Folders, etc.—Manufacturers' ceilings increased 4 per cent.

Paperboard Used for Milk Bottle Tops, Drinking Cups, Trays, Plates, Pails, Butter Cartons and Similar Food Containers—Manufacturers' ceilings increased 9 per cent. (OPA-T-4768.)

2. Five Grades of Paperboard: Pulp-Lined Box Boards, Cream-Faced Gypsum Liner, Jute Liner, Bogus Corrugated Medium and Chestnut Corrugated Medium—Manufacturers' ceilings raised $2 to approximately $7 a ton. (OPA-T-4770.)

3. Industrial Wirebound Boxes—Interim increase of 16 per cent in producers' ceilings. (OPA-T-4756.)

4. Groundwood Specialty Papers When Sold in Sheet Form—Increases of 5 cents per hundredweight for actual sheeting operation, with increases ranging up to 30 cents per hundredweight in the additional charges permitted for trimming, packing and sealing. (OPA-T-4781.)

Steel Shipping Containers of 12½-Pound and 25-Pound Capacity—Manufacturers of these containers used by producers of white and red lead will receive the same 10 per cent ceiling price increase announced March 26 for other steel shipping containers. (OPA-T-4782.)

Fuel

1. Coal and Other Solid Fuels to Domestic Consumers—Increased 6 to 8 cents a ton, as result of a July 1 increase in railway freight rates. (OPA-6622.)

2. Bunker Fuel—Increases ranging from 48 cents to 77 cents a ton to take care of higher costs to suppliers as a result of recent producers' ceiling increases for bituminous coal. Increased freight rates may be added. (OPA-T-4755.)

Lumber and Building Materials

1. Three-inch Gypsum Partition Tile and Gypsum Hollow Block—Manufacturers' increase of approximately 2 cents per square foot over March, 1942 levels on production and sales in certain shortage areas. (Bulletin board story.)

2. Peeler Grade Logs Sold to Manufacturers of Softwood Plywood—Ceiling prices increased $7.50 per thousand feet log scale in keeping with premium payment program announced by national housing expediter on June 19, 1946. (OPA-T-4762.)

3. Southern Pine Car Material and Framing—Ceiling prices increased $8 and $5 per thousand board feet to restore customary differentials and help increase short supplies. (OPA-T-4761.)

4. Fiber Insulation Board Products—Manufacturers' ceilings increased slightly over 10 per cent. Increases range from $2 to $13 per thousand square feet. (OPA-T-4759.)

5. Insulating Fire Brick—Increases of 20.1 per cent and 21.6 per cent to cover average total costs. Used mainly for industrial purposes, such as relining open hearth furnaces. (OPA-T-4758.)

6. Packaged Cement—Additional producers' ceiling prices increased 5 cents per barrel in portion of United States East of but not including States of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico. (OPA-T-4765.)

7. Vitrified Clay Sewer Pipe and Allied Products in West Central and Rocky Mountain Areas—Ceiling prices raised approximately 24.5 per cent over March, 1942. (OPA-T-4773.)

8. Primary Lead—Interim increase of 1¾ cents per pound contained in each gallon of 100 per cent pure lead pigment paint. (OPA-T-4729.)

1946

30-24-4401

9. Electric Temperature Controls for Automatic Water Heaters—Given same 15 per cent price increase authorized May 24 for other types of electric temperature controls. (OPA-T-4790.)

10. Vitrified Clay Sewer Pipe and Allied Products—Ceiling prices increased 13.2 per cent for States in the trade's Southern area. (OPA-T-4794.)

11. Convector Radiators—Maximum prices increased 10 per cent over March, 1942. (OPA-T-4795.)

12. Domestic Oil Burners—Maximum prices raised 5.5 per cent, the second increase since VJ-Day. (OPA-T-4798.)

13. Chemical, Industrial and Constructional Lime—Ceiling prices increased $1 per net ton for producers east of the Rocky Mountains. Resellers may pass on the increase. (OPA-T-4792.)

14. Wire Nails and Fence Wire—Resale prices put under the same percentage mark-up provisions governing the reselling of other types of merchant wire products, instead of dollar-and-cent mark-ups as heretofore. (OPA-T-4796)

15. Cork Insulation Board (or Corkboard)—Ceiling price increased $1.70 per hundred board feet. (OPA-T-4797)

16. Lithopone—Ceiling price increased 15 cents per hundred pounds. (Lithopone is a raw material used primarily in the production of paint products.) (OPA-5-4793)

17. Construction Services and Sales of Installed Building Materials—Ceiling prices may be increased by dollar-and-cent amount of compensation paid by employers for employe insurance and pension benefits, except where prices established by area orders. (OPA-T-4775)

18. Hardwood Grade Lumber Produced in North Central Hardwood Lumber Region—Ceiling prices uniformly increased 6 per cent. Increases do not apply to timbers or construction items. (OPA-T-4752)

19. Chemical Cordwood Sold in Southern New York and Northern Pennsylvania—Producers' ceiling prices increased 10 per cent, to be borne by chemical plants. (OPA-T-4751)

Household Equipment and Furnishings

1. Thermostats For Domestic Gas and Electric Kitchen Ranges—New price increase factor of 19 per cent over October 1941 prices for manufacturers. (OPA-T-4760)

2. Commonly Used Tools and Kitchenware—"Hardship" price increases to be applied automatically by individual firms in fourteen industries, where necessary to yield percentage profit margin given today for this industry. (OPA-T-4749)

3. Cotton Rugs—Manufacturers allowed increase from 3.5 per cent to seven per cent in profit factor. (OPA-4791)

4. Inexpensive Chinaware—Ceiling prices increased on individual pieces from one to three cents each. (OPA-6617)

Foods

1. Fresh Fruits and Vegetables—Ceiling prices for fruits and vegetables shipped by air may include cost of air shipping until December 31, 1946. (OPA-T-4725?)

Machinery and Equipment

1. Grain Machinery and Equipment—Producers' interim price increase factor of 8 per cent over base date maximum sales prices. (OPA-T-4789.)

Miscellaneous

1. Inexpensive Automobile Seat Covers—Some consumer prices will be increased by as much as 21 per cent as result of raising of some of the cut-off points in the "low-end" adjustment order and the making of repricing provisions automatic at the manufacturing level. (OPA-6616.)

Other Actions

1. Certain resellers of clay building brick and tile enjoying preferred buying status permitted to pass-through increased costs. (OPA-T-4766.)

2. Sales and deliveries of distribution transformers may be made subject to later price increases when agreed to by purchasers. Price increase pending completion of industry survey. (OPA-T-4769.)

3. Temporary differentials allowed manufacturers for producing Kraft wrapping paper in sheets and counter rolls, scheduled to end July 1, continued indefinitely. (OPA-T-4771.)

4. Method of computing ceiling prices by tire and tube repair material industry during transition period simplified. Provision made for relief of individual hardship cases. (OPA-6619.)

5. Import prices for foreign leather placed under control for first time. (OPA-T-4757.)

6. Interim price increase for shook used in Western wooden agricultural containers extended indefinitely, scheduled previously to expire on June 30, 1946. (OPA-T-4772.)

7. Manufacturers of synthetic resins, plastic materials and substitute rubber may now apply for individual adjustments in their ceiling prices where increased costs threaten continued production. (OPA-T-4778)

8. New mark-up on basis of division factor of .935 may be applied by manufacturers in direct-to-retail sales of both unshrunk and pre-shrunk wool fabric in cut lengths. (OPA-T-4779.)

9. Manufacturers of stock screen goods may apply for individual adjustment of ceiling prices where they can show hardship. (OPA-T-4748.)

10. Ceiling prices have been established for importers' sales of all brands of Norwegian kippered snacks in natural pack. Product was not imported during the war. (OPA-6615.)

11. Calculation of increased contract prices prior to decontrol on construction materials now out from under price control by applying the percentage increase to the rounded pruce, sanctioned by OPA. (OPA-T-4767.)

12. Razor blades, standard Stillson pipe wrenches, illuminating glassware (bowls, reflectors, shades), and mechanical pencils added to "low end" order that permits manufacturers to apply for increased prices on goods in their lowest price lines. Also included were stepladders and oilers. (OPA-T-4763.)

13. Same provisions permitting resellers of radio parts to pass on percentage amount of any individual increases in suppliers' prices have been extended to resellers of specialty transformers and integral and fractional electric motors. (OPA-T-4764.)

14. "New small manufacturer" ceiling prices on baby carriages, velocipedes, scooters and other wheel goods, revoked. Ceilings in line with those for old-line firms will be substituted. (OPA-6625.)

15. Changes made in pricing provisions for manufacturers of photographic equipment. (OPA-T-4784)

16. Manufacturers of fountain pens and pencils given arrangement whereby they may calculate wholesale and retail ceiling prices for new models once their own ceilings have been approved. (OPA-T-4780)

17. All parts for Government surplus radio receiving and sending sets and other electronic and communication materials included in the order setting maximum prices for resales of these items. (OPA-T-4783)

18. Small volume manufacturers of parts for household cooking and heating stoves, vacuum cleaners, washing machines and refrigerators may now qualify for reconversion pricing granted large volume manufacturers of these parts. (OPA-T-4776)

19. Manufacturers of slide fasteners made eligible for reconversion pricing and provided profit factors in applying for price adjustments. (OPA-6623).

20. Auto repair shops meeting specified conditions are authorized to use a newly approved trade manual to determine prices for repair jobs. (OPA-T-4774)

21. Distribution yard sales of mahogany lumber put under formula ceilings that will result in uniform prices, differing only by certain freight charges. (OPA-T-4754)

22. Recent percentage increases in manufacturers' ceiling prices for metal stampings may be passed on by resellers. Manufacturers of various machines and machine accessories buy these items from resellers. (OPA-T-4753)

23. Effective dates of several actions which fell in period during which price control act was inoperative, changed. (OPA-6631.)

24. Manufacturers of certain machinery items suspended from price control required to continue to notify OPA of price changes. (OPA-T-4799.)

Rent

1. Landlords who collected security deposits from tenants in rent control areas during period after July 1, 1946, given until thirty days to refund the deposits. (OPA-6634.)

Decontrols

Suspensions

1. Thousands of mechanical building equipment items including specified items of hardware, screening, miscellaneous cast and sheet metal, heating and winter air-conditioning, controls, valves and pipe fittings, piping accessories, mechanically operated commercial regrigeration and summer air-conditioning and plumbing equipment. Only a few of the items will be used in the veterans' housing program. (OPA-T-4800.)

2. All but two of the furs remaining under control. Those decontrolled by this action are in medium-priced bracket and include muskrat, pony, South American spotted cat, Indian lamb, Lincoln lamb, Indian and African kidskin, hare and squirrel. Remaining under ceiling are mouton lamb and rabbit. (OPA-6614.)

3. Low-temperature asbestos insulating and gasket material, glass used for decorative purposes in commercial and public buildings, several cork composition products, basic granular refractories used for lining furnaces, expanded metal and industrial sands. (OPA-T-4723.)

4. Extensive list of industrial machinery and equipment, annual sales totaling over $2,000,000,000. Includes certain electrical equipment, machine tools, petroleum drilling and producing equipment, mining machinery, automatic testing and maintenance equipment and farm equipment. (OPA-6627).

5. Obsolete gaskets, packings and oil seals containing rubber, and many other items made of rubber, such as air mattresses and pillows, bands and cushions for artificial limbs, portable bathtubs, horse and mule shoes, medicine droppers and bulbs, fruit jar rings, etc. (OPA—T-4787).

6. Several non-ferrous metals used in making bearings and castings, florists wire, ice cream cans, etc., and non-metallic minerals used mainly in production of consumer items such as glass, pottery, china and paper. (OPA—6633).

7. Rentals of decontrolled consumers durable goods. Includes power lawn mowers, musical instruments and some sporting equipment. (OPA—T-4786).

8. Charges of water contract carriers operating on the Great Lakes. Common carriers not affected. (OPA-T-4785.)

Exemptions

1. Gold and most gold-filled sterling silver fountain pens and mechanical pencils, items account for only $500,000 of the annual $140,010,000 pen and pencil sales. (OPA-6626.)

2. Photography services of photostating, blueprinting, microfilming. Also custom baked enamel finishing of wooden bobbins (sold only to commercial users) and the service of cleaning Kentucky blue grass seed. (OPA-T-4788.)

3. Several types of clocks, machine-attached snap fasteners, household television sets, low-back chairs used mostly as piano chairs, rubber floor mats and runners, automobile seat-bed units and awnings. (OPA-6628.)

4. Non-prefabricated buildings originally purchased apart from the land from any Government disposal agency and resold as buildings. These are mostly temporary buildings constructed during the war emergency. (OPA-T-4777.)

Approximately 40 per cent of all foods remain under control, the Administrator said. It is erroneous to assume that all agricultural commodities are removed from price control until the Secretary of Agriculture certifies on Sept. 1 items which are in short supply. The act exempts livestock, milk, cottonseed, soybeans, poultry and eggs or food or feed products manufactured in whole or substantial part from them, along with grains and livestock or poultry feeds made from grains.

Until Sept. 1, Mr. Porter emphasized, all agricultural commodities now under ceilings will remain under ceilings unless decontrolled. OPA will very shortly announce special actions to cover changes in subsidies and other factors relating to coffee, flour, cornmeal and wet corn milling products.

Under the major OPA food regulations, all sellers go back to their June 30 ceilings until notified of changes in their suppliers' ceilings.

Pre-June Adjustments

Today and for the next few days OPA is announcing a number of ceiling price increases, decontrol actions, and miscellaneous actions which were under consideration on June 30 before the old price control act expired. These actions are based on standards in existence at that time and do not relate to the new law just signed by the President. Any adjustments for the commodities affected required by the new act will be made as promptly as possible.

Cost-Plus Prices

OPA Statement of Policy

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 26—The text of a statement issued today by the Office of Price Administration follows:

Price Administrator Paul A. Porter today emphasized that under the Price Control Extension Act of 1946 signed by the President yesterday, all ceilings go back to where they were on June 30. Except where the new law specifically makes other provisions, these restored ceilings will serve as the basis for any adjustments made necessary as a result of the new act or because of any adjustments in process on June 30.

All industries and businesses, buyers and sellers covered by OPA price schedules, regulations or orders on June 30, Mr. Porter pointed out, are now automatically subject to these same regulations as if the new act had become law on June 30.

Foods

OPA today issued a supplementary order providing methods by which sellers operating under cost-plus regulations shall figure their prices. The action relates to all manufacturers, processors, service suppliers, wholesalers and retailers whose ceilings are set through application of mark-ups to the cost of goods and covers those situations where goods were delivered to them July 1 to July 25.

These sellers, like all other sellers, must in general go back to June 30 as a basis for their calculations. The supplementary order provides that they must determine their lawful ceilings for sales on the basis of their last costs incurred before June 1, 1946, or on their suppliers' ceiling price as authorized by any OPA action issued before Aug. 15, 1946, and in effect at or before the time the goods are sold. However, the costs used for pricing purposes must not in any case exceed the actual costs paid by the sellers.

Sellers pricing their goods on the basis of their suppliers' ceilings must obtain written statements of these maximum prices from their suppliers before they may deliver these goods.

The fact that some price increases for particular commodities were about ready for issuance on June 30 is the reason for the provision allowing sellers to use ceiling prices fixed for suppliers by OPA before Aug. 15.

In a number of instances increases put into effect during the period following June 30 are those which OPA would have authorized if the act had not expired. OPA expects that all such actions will be issued by Aug. 15, and considers that sellers operating under cost-plus regulations should be allowed to reflect these increases, when granted, in their own ceilings.

Major Food Mark-Ups Excluded

Today's supplementary order does not apply to commodities priced under the major food mark-up regulations. These regulations already contain similar provisions covering reimposition of ceilings on commodities which have been suspended or otherwise temporarily removed from price control.

The order is entitled Supplementary Order 171—how sellers are to treat costs incurred during the period July 1 to July 25, 1946, effective July 26, 1946.

Commenting generally on the re-establishment of price and rent ceilings at June 30 levels, OPA Administrator Paul Porter said:

"When it appeared certain that the country faced a period during which there would be no legal price control, we very quickly advised business and industry that price increases that might occur during the interlude without a statute would not afford a basis for permanent increases.

"President Truman, in his radio message to the country on June 29, called upon business men, producers and landlords to adhere to existing regulations, pointing out that it would be contrary to their own interest to embark upon a reckless inflation.

"The Congress, likewise, has indicated its intent that we should return to the price and rent levels in existence on June 30.

"Accordingly, we shall follow the general principle that we shall not rush to the rescue of sellers who paid high prices in anticipation of unloading at still higher prices.

"Problems arising from re-control of major food products will be dealt with as and when they occur."

PROFIT QUIZ TURNS TO TAX RETURNS

Physician Tells Senators Congressman May Is Too Ill to Testify.

WASHINGTON, July 26—(AP) The Senate War Investigating committee laid plans today to look into income tax returns of all officials of the Cumberland Lumber company—for which Representative May (D-Ky) was fiscal agent—along with those of principals in the Garsson muntions combine.

Chairman Mead (D-NY) told newsmen of the project shortly after the committee had heard testimony from May's physician that it would be "inadvisable" for the House military affairs chairman to respond to a subpoena in his present physical condition.

Condition Aggravated

May was described by the physician, Dr. Henry M. Lowden, as suffering from a heart condition which "has recently become aggravated." He had a date with the committee at 10 a.m. today to tell about his relations with officials of the munitions group which handled $78,000,000 in war contracts, but Dr. Lowden said he would be unable to appear for 10 days at least. May has acknowledged aiding the combine with its Washington dealings but has denied he made any personal profit or did anything more than seek to speed the war effort.

Mead told reporters President Truman, whom he visited this morning, had agreed to make available to the committee, through the Justice department, the income tax returns of persons concerned in the war profits inquiry into the munitions group.

Asked whether the files the committee will ask to examine include those of May, Mead replied:

"It would include all of the officials of the Garsson companies and all of the officials of the Cumberland Lumber company, of which Andrew J. May was the fiscal agent in Kentucky."

May on the House floor and in unsworn testimony given the committee in private session and made public at his request, has denied he profited from the lumber operation. He said he only helped the Henry Garsson and Murray Garsson interests, at their request, find timberland to buy, and assisted with management, without compensation, when it appeared that on his advice they may have gotten into a losing deal.

The committee has heard testimony that the Cumberland company, organized for the venture, received advances of $48,000 from units of the munitions combine for lumber which witnesses said never was delivered.

In May's absence, the committee went on with other phases of its war profits inquiry, receiving a new report on the background of Murray Garsson, one-time investigator in the Labor department.

Knew Al Capone

A Department of Labor file on the former official included a memorandum, undated and unsigned, concluding that he had attempted to use his official position to force his way into a high paying Hollywood movie job.

The memorandum discussing Garsson also declared under "Chicago cases:" "Very friendly with Al Capone in Chicago. Talked with him at Cook county jail by himself."

There were frequent references in the memorandum to friendship between Garsson and various movie stars and executives and to other celebreties whom Garsson, or an individual named "G" had investigated as an immigration official.

"I knew that he associated with many connected with the movie industry," the unnamed writer of the memorandum said, "and thought myself that by reason of his attitude against movie stars, he was trying to drive them out and drive down wages or he was trying to break into some executive position with the studios and hoped to do so through his official position.

Job Refusal Told

"Heard him state that he had refused a position with the movie industry, that he had refused an offer of $50,000, that he was playing for more.

"I honestly believe that he was using his position to that end and hoped either by his actions, force the industry to hire him to keep him quiet."

Under the heading "Los Angeles cases," the Labor department memorandum on Murray Garsson named these persons as having been questioned and investigated: Gilbert Roland, Barry Norton, Leopold McLaglen, brother of Victor McLaglen, Ivan Lebedoff, and Marquis Falaise, former husband of Gloria Swanson.

More Stars Questioned

"A large number of the big movie stars were examined by Garsson alone and no record made," the memorandum said. "Almost all of the aliens examined were found lawfully admitted."

Another notation read:

"Marquis de la Falaise, husband of Gloria Swanson. 'G' interviewed the marquis and informed him in harsh terms that he was an alien and he had to get out or be deported. Later Marquis came to me and it was determined he was lawfully admitted and was told as far as he was concerned he was lawfully admitted and he would not be questioned."

The memorandum spoke of a claimed friendship with Mrs. Ida Coverman, "secretary to MGM studios." It added that Garsson had also claimed to be friendly with Norma Talmadge.

Other comments:

"Entry of mother of Anna Eten, actress. Temporarily admitted on passport visa obtained through representations of Garsson.

"May have been instrumental in assisting Victor McLaglen to become citizen x x x may have tried to have brother deported.

Case Dropped

"Lila Lee asked only perfunctory questions in my presence and nothing more done upon representations of attorney was present. Miss Lee, citizen of the United States x x x dropped by Garsson.

"Greta Nilsson, star questioned and found O.K."

Other notations spoke of association with Buron Fitts, Roger Machetti, lawyer in Los Angeles, Victor Lustig, "Sheehan" of the Fox studios, the "Selznick interests," George Raft and Wallace Beery.

Pursuing other phases of its work, the Senate committee made further plans for public hearings beginning next Tuesday into an alleged payment of $2,500 by a defense contractor, Eivind Anderson of Tacoma, Wash., to Representative Coffee (D-Wash.) through Paul Olson, Coffee's former secretary. Committee aides disclosed that in addition to Coffee, Olson and Anderson, witnesses would include Clyde E. Philip, Seattle contractor, former Senator Holman (R-Ore.) and Dick Rushlight of Portland, Ore.

In a letter made public by the office of Senator Mitchell (D-Wash.), Representative Coffee told the Senator, a member of the committee, that he was "extremely anxious" for an investigation on the $2,500 check.

He declared that a Justice department investigation had "exonerated Olson and myself from the slightest implication of any wrong doing."

Coffee alleged that "the prime purpose of bringing up this matter again is political in nature."

He told Mitchell that his office and that of former Senator Holman (R-Ore.) together had made representations to the War department which prevented award of a construction contract, on which Anderson was low bidder, to another contractor.

Anderson was profuse in his gratitude, Coffee continued, and "volunteered to Olson the statement that in due course he intended to forward a campaign contribution which he described as 'long overdue,' as an indication of the high regard he entertained for my work as a representative x x x

"Olson told Anderson that if and when he should make such a contribution, it should be made payable to him as my campaign manager, and, of course, should be a personal check x x x.

"In 10 days or so, Anderson wrote and enclosed a personal check for $2,500 made out to Paul A. Olson."

The committee, which received word last night that May was ill, met today shortly after the 10 o'clock hour, which was set after May failed to respond to a summons for 11 a.m. last Tuesday. May contended at that time that his appearance would interfere with his House duties.

Physician Testifies

Mead made the formal inquiry whether May was present, and May's lawyer, Warren Magee, rose to advise the investigators officially as to his client's condition.

At Magee's suggestion, the committee then invited Dr. Lowden to testify at an executive session. Later, in a statement in which he said Magee and the physician concurred, Mead said:

"In Dr. Lowden's opinion, it is inadvisable for Mr. May to appear as a witness before the committee in his present condition.

"Dr. Lowden estimates that, if recovery is as expected, Mr. May will be able to appear before the committee in 10 days to two weeks, but even then should not be questioned at lengthy intervals—not more than two hours per day."

Capt. Garsson Says Army Officers Ordered 'Take Care' of Him

BATAVIA, Ill., July 26 — (AP) Joseph "Bud" Garsson, former Army captain and son of Murray Garsson, a principal in the Senate war profits investigation, said today that throughout his Army career his commanders were under instructions to "take care of Garsson."

He told a news conference that while he was at Edgewood arsenal in 1942, he had a chance to go overseas as a staff sergeant.

"My application was blocked," he said. "The executive officer told me, 'We've got a standing order that you are not to go overseas.'"

Garsson said that through his own efforts, however, he was sent to Europe and spent more than 300 days in combat. He received the Bronze star for meritorious service in France.

He stated he was unaware of it if Representative Andrew May interceded in his behalf when he faced a court martial in France for disobedience of a command. He said he "once shook hands" with May when he was passing through Washington.

Garsson said he resented interference with his Army career but felt that "anything done for me in the Army through influence of my father was done because a normal father's reaction is to protect his son and possibly further his career."

He said he believes his father did not ask May to use his influence except in the court-martial case, but added he believes the influence came "through generals in the chemical warfare branch."

In Europe in 1944, young Garsson stated, the commander of the 83rd Chemical battalion told Garsson he had orders from "higher headquarters to take care of Garsson."

"At Anzio I served under the finest officer I ever met," Garsson said. "He was Gen. Robert T. Federicks. But apparently even he had orders to see that I didn't get into any dangerous places. He caught me out on patrol several times and told me to get back—that was not my job. After he was wounded at Rome, he apparently left word to 'take care of Garsson.'"

Young Garsson is in charge of Railroad sales at the Batavia plant.

MURRAY GARSSON ATTACKS INQUIRY

Calls Senate Investigation A 'Smear' Campaign

Havana, July 26 (AP) — Murray Garsson, munitions maker whose wartime earnings are under scrutiny of a United States Senate Investigating Committee, declared in an interview today that "this is a smear campaign" and "my company made no millions."

"If I were a Jesse James and a Robin Hood in one, I would still deserve praise for the accomplishments of my firm in the war effort," declared the 56-year-old industrialist as he lay in bed in his Hotel Nacional suite beside a night table covered with medicines. He said the medicines were for a heart ailment.

Garsson declared he was anxious to recover so he could return to the United States to defend himself. He will appear before the Senate committee, he said, as soon as his doctors and his attorney, Wayne Johnson, approve.

Denies Millions Made

"All talk of war profiteering is ridiculous; my company made no millions, as is charged; our profit was less than six per cent of the invested capital," Garsson declared, referring to the Erie Basin Metal Products Company, in which he said he had an interest of one third.

The Batavia Metal Products Company—also involved in the Senate investigation — made no profit at all, he added.

"I don't know what they are talking about," Garsson said when questioned about other companies—up to a total of 19—linked to his firm by the congressional investigators.

"This is a smear campaign, which is not proving anything in connection with the war effort, and again I repeat that there was no profiteering nor any 'paper empire,'" Garsson declared.

Wife Deeply Concerned

His wife hovered near by, deeply concerned, she said, because doctors have given orders that her husband be as free of worry as possible.

Garsson expressed the opinion that his firm should be granted the Congressional Medal for its contribution to the war effort.

"Our company rejected 200,000 shells equipped with burstle tube built by other concerns and which, when submitted to a testing method devised by Dr. Henry Garsson, proved to be defective," Garsson asserted, adding that "if those shells, which had already been approved by Government inspectors, had gone to the front they might have caused the death of many American soldiers."

Regarding reports that Representative Andrew J. May had indorsed checks issued by his company, Garsson said that May had helped his company but derived no profit from such aid.

House Members Demand Withdrawal From China

Says U. S. Paid $300,000,000 to Move Chiang's Troops

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP).—Representative Hugh De Lacy, Democrat, of Washington, declared today the United States has transported nine Chinese National government armies into Manchuria to fight Communist forces. He said that this, along with supplying "vast quantities of arms and supplies" to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces, has cost American taxpayers "well over $300,000,000."

Representative De Lacy made his statements in a House speech in which he urged immediate withdrawal of American forces from China and a halt to the program of aiding that nation militarily.

He declared the present policy supports "a powerful, oppressive, landholding, grafting clique, maintaining itself by terror, by force of arms and by wily anti-Soviet diplomacy."

He added that the "conclusion to which we are reluctantly driven" is that the chief result of General George Marshall's efforts to achieve peace in China "has been to win time for Chiang's clique to pile up supplies and get their armies moved into position, by American ships, for further fighting."

Supporting Mr. De Lacy's contentions, Representative Ellis Patterson, Democrat, of California, told the House that General Marshall's mission has been a "failure."

30.24-4403

Representative Charles R. Savage, Democrat, of Washington, also criticized in a House speech what he called America's policy of playing a "one-sided" game in China.

CONGRESS PLACES ATOMIC AUTHORITY IN CIVILIAN BOARD

Military Men Barred from Five-Member Federal Control Board.

APPEASEMENT CHARGED

Press Secretary Declares Truman Is Gratified by Passage of Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 26—(AP) Congress finally sent a bill for all-civilian domestic control of atomic energy to President Truman today and the White House said it was "one hundred percent in line" with the President's views.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, reported that the Chief Executive "is naturally highly gratified" and will sign the measure promptly when it actually reaches his desk.

Truman Letter Recalled

Ross called reporters' attention to a letter Mr. Truman sent Feb. 1 to Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) of the Senate Special Atomic committee, outlining principles on which he believed domestic development and control of the new power should be centered.

The main item in that list was a control commission "composed exclusively of civilians" but without bars against former military personnel. Such a commission is provided in the bill as passed.

The House put its final stamp of approval on it today after a fight in which critics cried in vain that it represented "appeasement" of "potential aggressors." The Senate ratified it a short time later.

Appeasement Charged

The "appeasement" cry was raised in protest against the all-civilian character of the board. The House had voted for at least one military member, and not more than two.

It sets up a five-member civilian control commission; gives the government, through the commission, a virtual monopoly on inventions and patents in the field of atomic energy; provides the death penalty for major violations of security with intent to injure the United States, and directs that a member of the armed forces head the division of military application under the commission.

The House, besides voting for military representation on the control commission, had revised the Senate's patent section to provide for eventual restoration of patents and inventions to their original owners. It yielded on both points upon recommendation of a Senate-House conference committee.

Eisenhower Approves

The vote that approved the compromise was far from unanimous, but no one demanded a roll-call.

It came after Representative Thomason (D-Tex), one of the McMahon bill's supporters, told the House that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had approved the compromise version.

Eisenhower, Thomason said, told him "the Army didn't want a man on the commission."

But Representative Thomas Martin (R-Iowa) heatedly assailed the compromise.

"Foreigners are laughing up their sleeves at you for appeasing them," Martin told his colleagues. "This is no time to set the stage for the first Munich of World War III. This is what you're doing."

"Skim Milk" Version

Representative J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ), one of the House conferees, called the compromise "nothing more than a skim milk version of the bill that passed the House."

The security of the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atom bomb project, Thomas said, will be turned over "to a lot of civilians."

"We are going to do the very thing a potential aggressor against the United States would want us to do," Thomas declared. "We House conferees never had a chance; the cards were stacked against us at the start."

Representative Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn) supported the compromise as the best possible bill under the circumstances. She had supported the original McMahon bill.

Back Door For Socialism

The compromise, Mrs. Luce asserted, opens "the front door to peace" although it opens "the back door to socialism."

Congress, she said, must rely on President Truman to see to it that the patents provisions are not abused.

Mrs. Luce expressed belief that legislation would back up the United Nations' position on international agreements for the control of atomic energy.

Referring to complaints that the legislation would result in leakage of the atom bomb secret to other nations, Mrs. Luce said that Russia would have all the atom bombs it wants within five to 15 years.

CONGRESS SENDS REORGANIZATION BILL TO TRUMAN

WASHINGTON, July 26—(AP) A raise in pay for the nation's lawmakers and sweeping changes in their methods of working became virtually assured tonight as a congressional reorganization bill was sent to President Truman.

The bill, on which the Senate completed congressional action this afternoon, would raise pay of senators and House members from $10,000 a year to $12,500, plus a $2,500 tax-free expense allowance.

The Senate had originally voted for a straight $5,000 salary increase, but accepted the House plan for a $2,500 raise plus the allowance. The latter plan will net the legislators some $840 more than the original Senate proposal, because of the tax-free feature.

Approval Expected

Mr. Truman is expected to sign the bill since he has suggested that Congress members had a raise coming to them.

The measure also makes the legislators eligible for pensions by allowing them to make contributions to the Federal retirement system.

It reduces the number of Senate committees from 33 to 15, House committees from 48 to 19. Each chamber would have a single committee on armed forces, instead of separate military and naval committees.

Lobbyists would have to register their names, employers and expenses so Congress could keep a better check on them.

Another major change calls for the appropriations and taxing committees of both chambers to get together at the beginning of each year to recommend a Federal budget, specifying the maximum amount that should be spent.

Step Forward Seen

Senator LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.), one of the bill's authors, said passage was "a great step forward in making Congress more efficient and more responsive to the will of the people."

"I would like to emphasize," he told reporters, "that this doesn't mean a legislative millennium. It is only a beginning on which we will have to improve constantly as we go along."

LaFollette said that in a world-wide conflict between ideologies "if democracy is to survive the legislative arm of our government, which is the policy-making branch, must be made ever more efficient."

The revamping measure increases the advisory staffs of the congressional committees, allowing them to retain "specialists" at salaries ranging from $5,000 to $8,000.

Most of the reorganization plans are to become effective next Jan. 2, when the 80th Congress convenes. This includes the higher salary and expense account provisions. House members currently get the $2,500 tax-free expense allowance, having voted it for themselves earlier this year, though senators had until now declined to go along on this idea.

TRUMAN SELECTS NATIVE GOVERNOR FOR PUERTO RICO

Washington, July 26—(AP)—Jesus T. Pinero, resident commissioner for Puerto Rico, is about to become the island's first native governor since the United States wrested the possession from Spain in 1898.

President Truman, announcing his nomination of Pinero at a news conference yesterday, said it meant he wants Puerto Ricans to have a greater voice in their own government.

When confirmed by the Senate, Pinero will succeed Rexford Guy Tugwell, who resigned to become professor of political science at the University of Chicago.

Pinero, 49, is a former member of the island House of Representatives. He was elected President commissioner, to represent Puerto Rico in the U. S. House of Representatives, in 1944.

TRUMAN APPROVES TRANSFER OF USES

WASHINGTON, July 26—(AP) President Truman today signed the $1,155,015,670 labor-Federal security appropriation bill containing a section returning the United States Employment service to state operation next Nov. 15.

The bill appropriates $140,456,443 for the Labor department, $696,183,527 for the Federal security agency, and $318,375,700 for related agencies for the fiscal year that started July 1.

Delay in completing action on the measure had caused some employes of the Labor department to go without pay checks this week.

In addition to restoring the USES to state control in November, despite the President's earlier request for Federal operation until next July, the legislation changes the legal definition of agricultural workers.

It stipulates that agricultural workers shall be those so defined in the Fair Labor Standard act rather than in the Social Security act, the change affecting the status of processing workers in some cases.

The C.I.O. Food and Tobacco Workers strenuously objected to the latter definition, saying that nearly 1,000,000 persons would be excluded from the protection of the Wagner act if the strict definition of agricultural workers was used.

The Labor department said that because of the lateness of the hour today, it would be impossible to distribute pay checks before Monday and that probably the approximately 32,000 department employes and thousands of others in the Federal Security agency and the National Labor Relations board would not be paid until Tuesday.

SEN. HART SAYS TRUMAN UNFAIR IN MERGER ACT

Senate Told Navy Officers Silenced But Air Corps Men Not Censored

Washington, July 26—(AP)—Senator Hart (R-Conn.) complained to the Senate yesterday that President Truman had silenced naval officers' opposition to armed services merger plans but had not "taken any action whatever about the Army Air Corps propagandizing activities."

Hart, former commander of the American Asiatic Fleet, told his colleagues in what he said would be his last major address as a member, that the Air Power League has been "misrepresentative of the facts" in working for a separate Army air force. The Connecticut Senator has announced his retirement at the end of this session.

He said the Navy fears that if unification is achieved under the present plan endorsed by President Truman "the Army and the Air Force, spread over the country, will aways be in a stronger political position than the Navy."

Specifically protesting the merger plan to put control of all land-based planes in the Army, Hart asserted:

"Despite any probable good will of Army and an air force split off from the Army, the political position of those services will be used toward the disadvantage of the Navy," Hart said. "That disadvantage would be coupled with the other of being the numerical minority of one to two.

"Is there any wonder that, in that situation and in the climate which have existed, the Navy fears for its future under an organization in which it would no longer have free and direct access to the President and to the Congress?"

Hart said that the Air Power League had been informed by the Treasury that financial contributions to it would not be subject to tax if it did not "engage in propaganda or otherwise attempt to influence legislation." He charged the league had engaged in such propaganda and had endorsed the proposed armed services merger.

KRUG SETS UP SAFETY CODE FOR U. S. MINES

Uniform Standards Begin Monday in Government-Operated Pits

Washington, July 26—(AP)—A uniform safety code for Government-operated soft coal miners was announced today by Secretary of Interior Krug. It is effective at 12:01 A. M. (local time) next Monday.

Such a code was demanded by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, as a condition to resumption of work after the Government seized the mines last May 22.

It will remain in effect, Krug announced, as long as the mines are operated by the Government under the strike settlement agreement he made with Lewis covering wages and working conditions. More than 4,500 mines are covered.

The code sets up more than 300 separate safety standards covering such matters as timbering, blasting, explosives, ventilation, coal dust hazards, protective clothing, and many other phases of coal mining.

It directs, for instance, that all mines must be examined for gas at least once a day within four hours before workers enter the mine.

The code calls for periodic inspections by Federal agents who will report violations to Administrator Ben Moreell, Federal coal mines administrator who is charged with enforcement.

Lewis's stand in last Spring's contract negotiations with mine owners was that they should accept findings and recommendations of Federal inspectors in safety matters.

Such Federal reports previously have been merely advisory, with state safety laws prevailing.

AIR TREATY IS RATIFIED BY SENATE

Action Apparently Assures World Acceptance of Civil Organization

Washington, July 26—(AP)—World acceptance of a new body to oversee the technical phases of flying appeared assured today with Senate ratification of a treaty for United States membership in the International Civil Aviation Organization.

The organization was conceived at Chicago in 1944, but until the Senate acted on a voice vote yesterday only nine countries had formally accepted membership. The treaty provides that 26 are needed to bring I. C. A. O. into being.

President Truman advised the Senate that many nations were believed to be holding back until the United States had made a decision. Enough ratifications to complete the process will be deposited next March 1, according to a general understanding, and one month later I. C. A. O. will take over the work now being done by a provisional body.

The temporary body came into being in June, 1945, and now has 48 member countries. Its headquarters are in Montreal where I. C. A. O. also will remain.

The major activity of the world organization will be the supervision and fixing of standards for airways, airports, navigation ground aids, communications, meteorology, search and rescue, accident investigation and certification of aircraft and personnel.

I. C. A. O. will replace organizations established at Paris in 1919 and Havana in 1928, neither of which had wide enough acceptance to accomplish the task planned for I. C. A. O.

COLLEGES FACE FLOOD OF GI APPLICATIONS

First Estimates Seen Far Too Low—Peak Now Expected in 1949-50

Washington, July 26 — (AP) — So many former GIs want to go back to school that the Government may have to quadruple its veterans' training program.

This prediction by educators is based on Veterans Administration reports that applications are flooding in at the rate of about 17,000 [illegible].

Approximately 3,300,000 veterans already have applied for college and other training under the GI Bill and other legislation, Dr. Francis J. Brown, told a reporter today. He is executive secretary of the President's newly appointed commission on higher education.

"Experts close to the situation estimate 4,000,000 men eventually may participate. This is four times as many as Government experts believed would take advantage of it."

Dr. Brown, a consultant for the American Council on Education, said this means the "temporary" enrollment problem confronting colleges will become a chronic one, because veterans have nine years in which to obtain their education under the GI Bill.

Committee Calls Meeting

The President's higher education committee, composed of 30 members representing educators, business, agriculture, the Army and Navy, will meet here Monday and Tuesday.

Their primary assignment is to turn the college emergency program, for accommodating a flood of students this Fall, into a long-range program.

"We estimate the peak of enrollment will be in 1949-50," said Dr. Brown.

"The temporary buildings which many colleges have at their disposal probably will not last longer than four or five years.

"In that time the colleges and universities will have to undertake a program that will give them permanent, adequate housing and other facilities for additional students.

"The peak of college enrollment was 1,490,000 in 1939-40. We estimate this will be doubled by 1950."

Mitchell Medal Voted to Son

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The House today passed and sent to the Senate a measure providing that a proposed medal in honor of the late William Mitchell, Army flier, be awarded to his son, William Mitchell Jr. A measure passed yesterday provided that the medal go to a sister, Mrs. Martin Fladoos of Milwaukee, Wis.

RUSSIA URGES BAN ON ATOM WEAPONS

Gromyko Reiterates Demand for Convention to Outlaw Atomic Warfare.

NEW YORK, July 26—(AP) Russia today reiterated its demand that the production and use of atomic weapons should be outlawed almost immediately by an international convention as a first step toward setting up world control of atomic energy.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate to the United Nations Atomic Energy commission, told a committee of the group in explaining his plan that "one of the first steps toward realization of control over atomic energy is the prohibition of the production of atomic weapons."

This viewpoint clashed with the Baruch plan, which calls for such outlawing only after adequate safeguards have been set up.

"We ask why nations should produce stockpiles of atomic weapons if we all agree that atomic energy should be used only for the benefit of mankind," Gromyko said.

The Soviet delegate said he could see no serious obstacles to his suggestion "for the destruction within three months after its conclusion (the international convention) of all stockpiles of atomic weapons and of unfinished atomic weapons."

He then added: "The only obstacle could be the wish not to place all discussions on a practical basis with the purpose of finding a practical solution to the problems."

Gromyko also restated his demands that nations themselves should have the power to punish violators.

Declaring that his proposed convention provided that signatory states should within six months of its conclusion enact legislation providing for severe punishment of violations, he said:

"This is wholly in accordance with the seriousness of the task as well as within the principles of the sovereignty of member states and with the principles of the United Nations."

On this point, the plan set forth for Bernard M. Baruch, U. S. delegate, stated that control should be on an international and not national basis.

John M. Hancock, who represented the United States at the closed meeting of the committee, commented that all delegates were agreed on the outlawing of the weapon but that apparently "we still disagree" as to whether there should be a separate treaty providing only for the outlawing of the weapon and ending of production.

GROMYKO SEEKS SHOWDOWN ON RED ATOM PLAN

To Open Debate in U. N. Commission Despite Much Opposition

New York, July 26—(AP)—Soviet Russia, in the face of overwhelming opposition, prepared today to seek a showdown on her proposal for an international convention outlawing the production and use of atomic weapons.

Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, who two days ago rejected the key points of the U. S. atomic control plan, was scheduled to open debate on his own proposal before a committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission this afternoon.

The Russian plan already has been discussed both formally and informally by the 12 delegates and so far has been supported only by Poland. It appeared, therefore, that the proposal had little or no chance of approval.

A majority of the delegates, led by the United States, have taken the position that a strong system of control must be established before the United States could be expected to give up her advantage as the only nation known to have atomic bombs. Herbert V. Evatt, Autralian minister for external affairs and first chairman of the atomic commission, recently described the Soviet propoal as "impossible."

Sticks to His Plan

Gromyko, however, has continued to stick to his own plan and, at his request, it was placed on the agenda of atomic commission committee No. 2, which is charged with the task of drafting an atomic control plan.

A U. S. spokesman, emphasizing that the American delegation had in no way changed its position as a result of Gromyko's opposition to the Baruch plan, said: "We will now let Gromyko carry the ball for a while and listen to what all the delegates have to say about his proposals.

The Russian plan provides that:

Atomic weapons should be outlawed by an international convention.

Each nation should be responsible for seeing that the convention is not violated by production of atomic weapons within its borders.

The Security Council should be charged with the punishment of nations who violate the treaty's provisions.

The exchange of scientific information on atomic energy should be carried on by a committee of the atomic commission, which would continue to act as a subsidiary of the Security Council.

There was no indication whether any vote on the Soviet plan would be taken at today's session. Some delegates said the session might be confined to discussion, just as Wednesday's meeting was devoted to discussion of the U. S. plan.

Gromyko's Statement on Atomic Weapons

The statement delivered yesterday by Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet representative, in Committee 2 of the Atomic Energy Commission, was made public in translation by the United Nations department of public information as follows, in what was called a condensed text:

At the second meeting of the Atomic Energy Commission I proposed in the name of the Soviet government the conclusion of a convention outlawing the production and use of atomic weapons for purposes of mass destruction. The Soviet government attaches great importance to the conclusion of such a convention.

It is impossible to consider practically the control over atomic energy without considering at this time the question of the conclusion of a convention outlawing the production and use of atomic weapons. There are no serious obstacles to the conclusion of such a convention if the countries on the Atomic Energy Commission really and sincerely wish to take practical steps toward the control of atomic energy and for its use for peaceful purposes only. The only obstacle could be the wish not to place all discussions on a practical basis with the purpose of finding a practical solution of the problem.

The task is made easier by historic precedents: Civilization gives the example that countries, if they wish, can conclude conventions against the use of weapons for mass destruction. Such a convention was concluded with regard to gases and other poisonous substances and liquids.

The task of concluding such a convention is not so complicated if we really desire to prevent the use of atomic energy as a weapon.

The Soviet draft convention contains also concrete points: For instance, Paragraph B, Article 1, which provides that the production of atomic weapons be forbidden and that their production as well as their use shall be considered a serious offense against humanity. Thus one of the first steps toward the realization of control over atomic energy is the prohibition of the production of atomic weapons.

The main task of the Atomic Energy Commission, according to the resolution of the General Assembly, is to insure that atomic energy should not be used for purposes of mass destruction. If all countries agree to this, we ask how is the production of atomic weapons to be reconciled with this purpose? It is impossible to reconcile production of atomic weapons with the task of using atomic energy for peaceful purposes only and with the spirit and the principles of the United Nations.

The draft convention contains also concrete provisions providing for the destruction, within three months after its conclusion, of all stockpiles of atomic weapons and of unfinished atomic weapons. This also is a practical proposal, a step toward the solution of the problem of the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes only. We ask why nations should produce stockpiles of atomic weapons if we all agree that atomic energy should be used only for the benefit of mankind.

The draft convention contains

a provision that signatory states should within six months of its conclusion enact legislation providing for severe punishment for violations of the convention. This is wholly in accord with the seriousness of the task as well as with the principle of the sovereignty of member states and with the principles of the United Nations. It further underlines what great importance the United Nations attach to provisions for insuring the use of atomic energy only for the benefit of mankind and of science and not to the detriment of humanity. The conclusion of such a convention would, without doubt, make a very favorable impression on all peace-loving states and would promote good neighbor relations between nations.

In connection with the proposal for a draft convention some details would possibly have to be elaborated by this committee or by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Soviet proposal has, compared to those of other countries—which may, on the surface appear to be radical but cannot carry us to our goal—the merit of being a practical one, providing for the immediate and practical steps toward the control over atomic energy. The eyes of all peace-loving nations are focused on the work of the Atomic Energy Commission, and the peoples of the world expect this commission to suggest to the Security Council practical measures for the control of atomic energy. Such practical measures are contained in the Soviet proposal.

U. N. SITE GROUP HOLDS N. Y. PARLEY

NEW YORK, July 26 — (AP) Representatives of the United Nations Headquarters commission today conferred at White Plains, N. Y., with officials of four Westchester county townships in another of a series of meetings to sound out local opinion on the possibility of locating permanent U. N. headquarters in that area.

At the conclusion of the meeting Sir Angus Fletcher, chairman of the commission, announced that within a few days he would communicate with County Executive Herbert C. Gerlach the commission's tentative list of potential sites in Westchester and ask for early meetings with the local authorities concerned.

Similar procedure will be followed in Fairfield county, Conn., through Henry Hunt of Connecticut's Intergovernmental Cooperation committee.

The purpose of these meetings will be to enable the commission to be informed on local problems and points of view and to assist in reducing the number of potential sites from 15 to the final five which will be submitted to the General Assembly in September for consideration.

Attending today's meeting were representatives of the townships of Lewisboro, Poundridge, Bedford and Harrison, and the Westchester Board of Supervisor's special committe on U. N. sites.

The U. N. group submitted a list of questions on local opinion which are to be answered by the local officials concerned when specific sites are chosen.

Among the questions were the following:

"1. Is there any special legal aspect attached to a definite area of which the United Nations should be aware?

"2. What would be the reaction of the population to the United Nations if they were established there?

"3. What roughly is the size of the population involved in a definite area? Number of families? Persons?

"4. In the case of a final decision to adopt an area, would the population affected be willing to sell the required property by agreement or would there be a portion of that population who would refuse to do so?

"5. Would some affected families like to go on living inside the site for some time if they were permitted to do so by the United Nations?"

Kerensky Returns To United States

San Francisco, July 26—(AP)—Alexander Feodorovith Kerensky, head of the Russian Government for 100 days after the 1917 revolution, was back in the United States today, holding to his oft-repeated prediction that the present Soviet regime would collapse.

He arrived here yesterday after nearly 10 months in Australia and last last night for his home in New York. His wife died in Australia last April.

Kerensky was elected premier of the first Russian Government after the Czar's abdication, and he fled his homeland in 1918.

"I shall return when the elementary rights of a human being are guaranteed there," he said yesterday. "I wont say in two years or five, but it can not be much longer."

HOLLYWOOD UPSET BY TAX-LEAK DRIVE

Movie Stars Watch Millions As U.S. Starts Crackdown

Hollywood, July 26 (AP)—Hollywood was in a billion-dollar dither today as the long anticipated Government crackdown on "collapsible" movie-producing companies seeking income-tax relief was revealed in Washington.

Famous stars, directors and producers who might be subject to the Federal probe remained silent while their attorneys studied disclosure that the Government is seeking to plug tax leaks running into "many millions."

At Washington, internal revenue officials said they expected court battles which eventually would reach the Supreme Court.

"Personal Appeal" Contributed

As viewed here, the inquiry was aimed at so-called individuals and combinations who set up corporations, produced a single picture, reaped rich dividends and lower taxes under the corporate tax laws, and then liquidated.

Some stars, it was said, contributed their "personal appeal," or box-office value, in lieu of actual cash assets in the companies.

Among those who have formed companies are Cary Cooper, Bette Davis, John Wayne, Ginger Rogers, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Bing Crosby, Pat O'Brien, Constance Bennett, Hedy Lamarr, John Garfield and Joan Fontaine, as well as some writers and directors. Whether they are of the one-picture variety or on a permanent basis, remains to be seen.

Studios Put Up Money

Top directors in the field include Sam Wood, Frank Borzage, Frank Capra, Dudley Nichols, Fritz Lang and Leo McCarey.

A spokesman for one big-name independent producer, who declined use of his name, said it had been a practice for "four or five" years to form a corporation, make a picture, and dissolve the corporation. In this instance, the procedure was practiced several times in the last five years.

Speaking off the record, an attorney for one group of stars said several studios, in response to demands by stars, helped them set up corporations. The star's asset was his personality, while the studio put up the actual money, loaned studio space, crews and even directors. As a stockholder, the studio earned a dividend, was paid for loaning its facilities and distributing system, and the star cashed in much heavier than he would have under his normal high-taxes straight salary.

Big Enough To Push Demands

Internal revenue sources in Washington said Hollywood personalities under this procedure paid a capital-gains levy of about 25 per cent instead of heavier income taxes, which, in the big money field, would amount to 90 per cent.

In Hollywood, the so-called major companies viewed the development with some pleasure. More and more their top stars and directors have or were threatening to branch out as "independents."

The bigger stars, in some instances, were big enough to push their demands, even while under ironclad contracts to a studio. Others promptly went "independent" as soon as contractual obligations ended.

SECOND NIGHT LEAD PALESTINE (150)

BY ED CREAGH

LONDON, JULY 26-(AP)-THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE TONIGHT DECLINED TO COMMENT ON U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES F.BYRNES' ANNOUNCEMENT THAT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAD APPROVED A PARTITION PLAN FOR PALESTINE, AS ARABS AND SOME JEWS IN LONDON JOINED IN OPPOSING THE PLAN OF SPLITTING THE HOLY LAND INTO SEPARATE PROVINCES OR COMMUNITIES.

(BYRNES ANNOUNCED IN WASHINGTON THAT THE ANGLO-AMERICAN CABINET COMMITTEE ON PALESTINE HAD RECOMMENDED THE PARTITION PLAN. THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT, HE SAID, ALREADY HAD APPROVED THE PLAN, WHILE THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT IS CONSIDERING IT. HE DID NOT EXPLAIN THE DETAILS OF THE PLAN.)

IT WAS REPORTED FROM PARIS THAT REPRESENTATIVES OF ARAB AND JEWISH INTERESTS HAD PROPOSED CREATION OF INDEPENDENT ARAB AND JEWISH STATES UNDER UNITED NATIONS MANDATE.

ONE AUTHORITY IN PARIS SAID HE HAD READ THE DRAFT OF THE PROVISIONAL FOUR-POINT PLAN FORMULATED BY JEWISH AND ARAB REPRESENTATIVES IN DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS.

ONE SOURCE SAID THAT "CIRCLES CLOSE TO THE JEWISH AGENCY" PARTICIPATED IN THE FORMULATION OF THE PLAN, BUT IT WAS NOT LEARNED WHAT GROUP OF ARABS HAD WORKED WITH THEM. HE SAID THAT OFFICIALS OF THE JEWISH AGENCY WOULD DISCUSS THE PLAN AT THEIR MEETING IN PARIS NEXT WEEK.

THIS INFORMANT, ETC., SIXTH GRAF PREV.

MDG22PED

AAA

THIS INFORMANT SAID THE DRAFT HAD BEEN SUBMITTED TO LONDON AND WASHINGTON FOR STUDY. HE SAID THE AGREEMENT WAS BASED ON THE CREATION OF TWO INDEPENDENT STATES--ONE JEWISH AND ONE ARABIC UNDER UNITED NATIONS MANDATE.

THE PLAN, HE SAID, CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING STIPULATIONS:

1. MANDATED TERRITORY, BOTH EAST AND WEST OF THE RIVER JORDAN--THE PRESENT BOUNDARY BETWEEN PALESTINE AND TRANS-JORDAN--SHALL BE DECLARED PERMANENTLY NEUTRAL TERRITORY UNDER THE UNITED NATIONS, WITH NO ARMED FORCES OF ANY OTHER POWER STATIONED IN EITHER COUNTRY

2. TWO INDEPENDENT STATES, JUDEA (JEWISH) AND ABDULLAH (ARABIC) SHALL BE ESTABLISHED IN THAT TERRITORY, WITH THE BOUNDARIS TO BE DETERMINED BY MUTUAL AGREEMENT.

3. CHRISTIAN HOLY PLACES SHALL BE JOINTLY ADMINISTERED, ON AN EQUAL BASIS, BY REPRESENTATIVES OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC, PROTESTANT AND GREEK ORTHODOX CHURCHES.

4. IN EVENT OF FAILURE TO REACH AGREEMENT ON ANY BOUNDARY POINT, THE ISSUE WILL BE ARBITRATED BY A UNITED NATIONS COMMITTEE.

A5

THE INFORMANT SAID THE PRESENT BOUNDARY BETWEEN PALESTINE AND THE ARAB STATE OF TRANS-JORDAN PROBABLY WOULD BE REDRAWN UNDER THE PLAN, BUT THAT PRELIMINARY AGREEMENT HAD BEEN REACHED UNDER WHICH PORTIONS OF WESTERN PALESTINE, WITH AN ARABIC POPULATION OF 600,000, WOULD BE PLACED WITHIN THE PROPOSED ARAB STATE.

THE ARAB OFFICE IN LONDON AND THE ORGANIZATION OF NEW ZIONISTS IN STATEMENTS HERE BOTH REJECTED ANY PARTITION IN ADVANCE--THE JEWS SAYING IT WOULD HALT IMMIGRATION INTO PALESTINE, THE ARABS THAT THE WAVE OF JEWISH IMMIGRATION WOULD PUSH THEM OUT.

THE MAIN ZIONIST BODY FOR PALESTINE--THE JEWISH AGENCY--WITHHELD COMMENT ON THE PARTITION REPORT. IT WAS EXPECTED TO OPPOSE SUCH A SOLUTION AS IT DID ALONG WITH THE ARABS WHEN THE BRITISH ROYAL COMMISSION RECOMMENDED PARTITION IN 1937.

THE ARAB OFFICE IN LONDON, A SEMI-OFFICIAL BODY WHICH REPRESENTS ARAB INTERESTS, SAID IN A STATEMENT THAT "IT IS TO BE HOPED NOBODY IS UNDER THE DELUSION SUCH A PLAN (FOR PARTITION OF PALESTINE) WOULD BE ACCEPTABLE EITHER TO THE ARAB PEOPLE OR TO ANY OF THE ARAB GOVERNMENTS."

IT DECLARED THAT THE ARAB GOVERNMENTS "WOULD SUPPORT THE ARABS OF PALESTINE TO THE FULL IN THEIR OPPOSITION TO PARTITION OR CANTONIZATION AND THEIR CONTINUED DEMAND FOR INDEPENDENCE."

A. ABRAHAMSON OF THE ORGANIZATION OF NEW ZIONISTS SAID THAT UNDER THE PARTITION PLAN, THE TERRITORY ALLOTTED THE JEWS WOULD BE TOO SMALL.

"OUR ORGANIZATION HAS BEEN AND REMAINS AGAINST ANY FORM OF PARTITION," HE SAID. "ANY PROPOSAL FOR PARTITION IS DESIGNED TO LEGALIZE THE ILLEGAL WHITE PAPER WHICH PROPOSED TO STOP JEWISH IMMIGRATION AND DEBAR JEWISH SETTLERS."

HAMMERING HOME THIS POINT, THE AMERICAN PROSECUTOR DECLARED THE DEFENSE HAD MADE ATTEMPTS TO PIN NAZI GUILT ON HITLER, HIMMLER, GOEBBELS AND OTHER LEADERS PRESUMABLY DEAD.

BUT THE DEFENDANTS, HE SAID, "HAD ACCESS TO HITLER, AND OFTEN CONTROLLED THE INFORMATION THAT REACHED HIM AND ON WHICH HE MUST BASE HIS POLICY AND HIS ORDERS."

"NOWHERE," JACKSON WENT ON, "DO WE FIND AN INSTANCE WHERE ANYONE OF THE DEFENDANTS STOOD UP AGAINST THE REST AND SAID, 'THIS THING IS WRONG AND I WILL NOT GO ALONG WITH IT.' XXX

AT ONE POINT HE DECLARED THAT "THE PLANS OF ADOLF HITLER WERE JUST AS SECRET AS 'MEIN KAMPF' OF WHICH OVER 6,000,000 COPIES WERE PUBLISHED IN GERMANY. HE AVOWED AN INTENTION TO ATTACK NEIGHBORING STATES AND SEIZE THEIR LANDS."

AND AT ANOTHER POINT, JACKSON ASSERTED:

"THE NAZI MOVEMENT WILL BE OF EVIL MEMORY IN HISTORY BECAUSE OF ITS PERSECUTION OF THE JEWS, THE MOST FAR-FLUNG AND RACIAL PERSECUTION OF ALL TIME."

IN CLOSING THE AMERICAN PROSECUTOR LOOKED AT THE DEFENDANTS, THEN SAID:

"THEY STAND BEFORE THE RECORD OF THIS TRIAL AS BLOOD-STAINED GLOUCESTER STOOD BY THE BODY OF HIS SLAIN KING. HE BEGGED OF THE WIDOW, AS THEY BEG OF YOU: 'SAY I SLEW THEM NOT', AND THE QUEEN REPLIED, 'THEN SAY THEY WERE NOT SLAIN, BUT DEAD THEY ARE, XXX' IF YOU WERE TO SAY OF THESE MEN THAT THEY ARE NOT GUILTY, IT WOULD BE AS TRUE TO SAY THERE HAS BEEN NO WAR, THERE ARE NO SLAIN, THERE HAS BEEN NO CRIME."

A175 STR HARTLEY DECLARED THAT THE GUILT OF NAZI GERMANY'S LEADERS, AS MEN WHO PLANNED AND USED A WORLD WAR IN DEFIANCE OF TREATIES AND PLEDGES TO KEEP PEACE, IS NOT IN DOUBT.

ARGUING FOR CONVICTION OF THE GERMAN CHIEFTAINS FOR THE CRIME AGAINST PEACE WHICH HEADS THE LONG INDICTMENT, SIR HARTLEY ASSERTED: "IT IS SAID PLAINLY NOW THAT THESE DEFENDANTS ARE CHARGED ALSO WITH THE COMMON MURDERS, THE RESULTS AMPUTATION OF THE INDICTMENT AND AND OUTRAGES OF THE WAR IN THE CRIME AGAINST PEACE. IN THE LIGHT OF THE LONG CATALOGUE OF TREATIES AND PLEDGES WHICH MAY BE IMPOSED ON THESE INDIVIDUALS, THE CRIMINALITY OF THEIR CONDUCT ALONE IS AT STAKE HERE THAN THE FATE OF THESE MEN."

AND JOINING THE CHARGE OF THIS CRIME AGAINST PEACE WITH THE PENALTY TO THE FULL PART OF THESE PROCEEDINGS TO ESTABLISH FOR ALL TIME THAT INTERNATIONAL LAW HAS POWER, TO DECLARE THAT A WAR IS CRIMINAL AND TO DEAL WITH THOSE WHO AID AND ABET THEIR STATES IN ITS COMMISSION.

SIR HARTLEY CONCLUDED ONLY HALF OF HIS SUMMATION AND WILL RESUME TOMORROW.

BLANDY'S PARTY STAYED A HALF-HOUR IN THE DANGEROUS AREA, AND IT WAS ANNOUNCED THAT ALL PERSONS ABOARD HIS GUNBOAT HAD BEEN EXPOSED TO ABOUT FIVE PER CENT MORE THAN THEIR DAILY TOLERANCE OF RADIO-ACTIVE RAYS.

AT ONE POINT THE GEIGER COUNTERS REGISTERED SUCH A RAPID INCREASE IN RADIOACTIVITY THAT COL.STAFFORD WARREN, RADIOLOGICAL SAFETY OFFICER, SHOUTED UP TO THE BRIDGE, "FULL SPEED!" AND THE BOAT HASTENED AWAY.

BLANDY'S PARTY INCLUDED REAR ADM.W.S.PARSONS, DEPUTY CHIEF OF THE TASK FORCE; MAJ.GEN.W.E.KEPNER, CHIEF OF AIR OPERATIONS, AND A SMALL GROUP OF CORRESPONDENTS.

TO THE SENSES, THE LAGOON APPEARED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS, ITS WATERS CRYSTALLINE BLUE, BUT THE GEIGER COUNTERS TOLD THE TALE OF PERIL IN THIS AREA WHERE ONLY "DRONE" BOATS HAD BEEN BEFORE.

ONE DRONE, WITH ITS MOTHER PLANE OVERHEAD, PLOWED THE WATERS NEAR THE GUNBOAT OF THE INSPECTION PARTY.

IN THE CENTER OF THE TARGET ARRAY THERE WAS A BROAD BLANK SPACE WHERE THE ARKANSAS AND SARATOGA HAD STOOD. THERE WAS NO FLOATING WRECKAGE, BUT AN OIL SLICK AND BUBBLES MARKED THE SARATOGA'S GRAVE.

THE OLD JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO WAS KEELED OVER FURTHER, AND THERE WAS THE DEFINITE POSSIBILITY THAT SHE MIGHT SINK.

THE BATTLESHIP NEW YORK HAD SUCH A SLIGHT LIST THAT BLANDY SAID IT MIGHT NOT BE DUE TO THE BOMBING.

OF TWO TANK-LANDING CRAFT WHICH HAD BEEN LISTED AS SUNK, THE INSPECTION PARTY FOUND ONE FLOATING BOTTOM UP AND THE OTHER NESTLED IN A HIDDEN POSITION BESIDE A LANDING SHIP.

HEAVY OIL SWIRLS HALF-COVERED THE REEF NORTHWEST OF BIKINI ISLAND. ONCE LANDING CRAFT, A RUBBER LIFE RAFT AND SEVERAL LARGE BUOYS WERE STREWN ALONG THE REEF. LARGE OIL SLICKS MARKED THE OCEAN IMMEDIATELY OUTSIDE THE LAGOON, PRESUMABLY CARRIED OVER THE REEF AT HIGH TIDE.

HUGE BUBBLES AND A LONG, SLENDER OIL STREAK MARKED THE SARATOGA'S RESTING PLACE. ANOTHER LONG SLICK TRAILED NORTHEAST FROM THE ARKANSAS' GRAVE.

ABOUT 9 A.M., AFTER IT BEGAN TO LOOK AS IF OUR VULTURE-LIKE HOVER OVER THE LAGOON WOULD BE UNPRODUCTIVE, A GREAT WHITE AIR BUBBLE ROSE A FEW HUNDRED FEET OFF THE STARBOARD BOW OF THE CARRIER INDEPENDENCE. BUOYS MARKED THAT AS THE SPOT WHERE A SUBMERGED SUBMARINE HAD BEEN ANCHORED.

CAMERAMEN WERE ALERTED. THE BUBBLE UNDOUBTEDLY MARKED THE SPOT WHERE A SUBMARINE WAS SINKING. THE BUBBLING CEASED ABOUT 11 A.M., AND ALL ABOARD AGREED THAT ANOTHER VICTIM HAD BEEN ADDED TO THE A-BOMB'S TERRIFIC POWER.

THE SUBMARINE PILOTFISH PRESUMABLY WAS A VICTIM. THE WATER WAS TOO OILY NEAR THE TARGET CENTER WHERE SHE WAS PLACED TO SEE BELOW THE SURFACE BUT YESTERDAY LT. CMDR. CHALRES H. CARR, OF FAIR HAVEN, MASS., REPORTED SEEING HER RISE TO THE SURFACE THEN QUICKLY SINK A FEW MINUTES AFTER THE DETONATION. A THIRD AND POSSIBLY FOURTH SUBMERGED SUBMARINE ALSO PROBABLY ARE LOST.

THE MILKY STREAK HID THE RESTING PLACE OF ONE; THERE WAS NO SIGN OF THE OTHER IN THE CLEAR, BLUE WATER.

TWO SURFACED SUBMARINES STILL WERE AFLOAT NEAR THE INDEPENDENCE BUT THE SKATE'S STERN APPEARED NEARLY AWASH AND SHE LISTED 10 DEGREES TO STARBOARD. THE OTHER, NO. 384, APPEARED UNHARMED.

TWO SUBMARINES PLAINLY WERE VISIBLE AT APPROXIMATE PERISCOPE DEPTHS OR A LITTLE DEEPER. ONE WAS NO. 136--OR POSSIBLY 196-- AND THE OTHER'S NUMBER WAS UNREADABLE THROUGH THE WATER.

THE INDEPENDENCE, WHICH TOOK SUCH A TERRIFIC BEATING FROM THE ATOMIC AIR BURST, APPEARED NOT TO HAVE BEEN DAMAGED FURTHER. TWO NAVY FIGHTER PLANES GLEAMED ON THE FLIGHT DECK NEAR THE BOW. THEY WERE UNDAMAGED. TWO CORONADO SEAPLANES MOORED NEAR THE GERMAN CRUISER, PRINZ EUGEN, ALSO WERE UNDAMAGED.

SOMEWHAT SURPRISINGLY, THE VETERAN OLD HEAVY CRUISER PENSACOLA, ANCHORED ON THE INNER OARGET CIRCLE, APPEARED UNDAMAGED FROM THE UNDERWATER BLAST. HER SUPERSTRUCTURE STILL WAS TWISTED AND THE ST BENT FROM THE EFFECTS OF THE AIR BURST BUT SHE WAS ON EVEN KEEL.

SMALL BOATS HAVE NOT YET BEGUN TO ENTER THE TARGET CENTER. A DRONE BOAT, CONTROLLED FROM NAVY PATROL BOMBERS, ENTERED THAT AREA SEVERAL TIMES AND GATHERED WATER FOR TESTS. INSPECTION PARTIES APPEARED TO BE BOARDING SOME SHIPS ON THE SOUTHERN FRINGE OF THE TARGET AREA, INDICATING THAT RADIATION THERE WAS NOT AS GREAT AS IN THE NORTHERN DANGER ZONE.

THERE WAS NO SIGN FROM THE AIR OF ANIMALS ABOARD ANY SHIP. IT WAS NOT DISCLOSED WHETHER ANY OF THE 1,500 SCHEDULED TO UNDERGO YESTERDAY'S TEST WERE ABOVE DECKS. WITH THE POSSIBLE EXCEPTION OF THE HUGHES, ALL DAMAGED SHIPS APPEARED TO HAVE REACHED A STATIC POSITION AND PROBABLY NO MORE WILL SINK.

AS THE PLANE LEFT THE LAGOON, A RAINBOW SEEMED TO PAY A FINAL SALUTE TO THE VALIANT SARATOGA. MOST BEAUTIFUL OF THE DOZEN SEEN DURING THE MORNING, THIS RAINBOW APPEARED TO RISE DIRECTLY FROM TH SARA'S BUBBLE-MARKED GRAVE.

ATOMIC (250)

BY DON WHITEHEAD.

OVER BIKINI LAGOON, JULY 26-(AP)-BOTH IN THE AIR AND UNDER THE WATER, THE ATOMIC BOMB IS A "KILLER" OF SHIPS WITHIN A RADIUS OF A HALF MILE.

THIS WAS THE APPROXIMATE DEATH CIRCLE IN THE AIR BURST OF THE ATOMIC BOMB JULY 1 AND ALSO IN YESTERDAY'S UNDERWATER TEST. NO SHIPS SURVIVED WITHIN THIS CENTRAL AREA RECEIVING THE FULL FORCE OF THE BLAST.

OBSERVERS WHO STUDIED THE TARGET ARRAY FROM THE AIR TODAY SAW A SIMILARITY BETWEEN THE AREAS OF DESTRUCTION IN THE TWO EXPLOSIONS.

JUL 26 1946

THE AERIAL BOMB WAS DROPPED FROM 1,500 TO 2,000 FEET ASTERN OF THE TARGET SHIP, THE BATTLESHIP NEVADA, ON THE RIM OF THE DEATH CIRCLE. THE NEVADA STOOD UP, BUT FIVE SHIPS WITHIN A HALF-MILE RADIUS WERE SUNK, AND THE CARRIER INDEPENDENCE WAS SO BADLY BATTERED AND CHARRED BY INTERNAL FIRES SHE WAS USELESS.

SHIPS OUTSIDE THE CIRCLE HAD THEIR SUPERSTRUCTURES BADLY DAMAGED BY THE BLAST, AND RADIOACTIVITY RELEASED BY THE BOMB WOULD HAVE KILLED OR SERIOUSLY INJURED A LARGE PERCENTAGE OF THE CREW MEMBERS.

IN YESTERDAY'S TEST THE SARATOGA AND THE ARKANSAS WERE THE TWO LARGE SHIPS NEAREST THE LANDING CRAFT FROM WHICH THE BOMB WAS SUSPENDED UNDER WATER.

JUL 27 1946

THE ARKANSAS PLUNGED TO THE BOTTOM IN LESS THAN 20 MINUTES, INDICATING HER HULL WAS OPENED SO THAT WATER CASCADED IN TO CARRY HER DOWN SO FAST THERE WOULD HAVE BEEN FEW SURVIVORS HAD THE SHIP BEEN MANNED.

THE SARATOGA BEGAN LISTING IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE EXPLOSION, AND THEN WENT DOWN.

THE NAGATO IS LISTING, AND OTHER SHIPS IN THE LAGOON ARE OBVIOUSLY BADLY BATTERED -- BUT THE ARKANSAS AND SARATOGA WERE WITHIN THAT HALF-MILE RADIUS.

THIS AREA OF DESTRUCTION JIBES WITH FINDINGS IN THE DESERT OF NEW MEXICO AFTER THE FIRST ATOMIC BOMB EXPLODED. THERE THE BOMB LEFT ITS SAND IMPRINT IN THE SHAPE OF A GIANT SAUCER A HALF-MILE IN RADIUS.

Arabs Flatly Turn Down Any Partition of Palestine

Refuse to Meet Jews in Parley as Proposed by British.

LONDON, July 27—(AP) The Arab Executive, in Palestine tonight rejected any partition of Palestine, and asserted that it would not meet with Jews in any conference, as suggested by Britain.

Jewish spokesman also denounced the idea of dividing Palestine into federally-governed Arab and Jewish provinces, proposed by the British-American cabinet committee and advanced by Britain as a basis for negotiations.

Bars All Aspects

The Arab Executive in a resolution adopted in Jerusalem declared it "refuses to accept the idea of partition in any of its aspects."

"Whereas the Arabs of Palestine have repeatedly refused to sit with the Jews in any conference, therefore be it resolved that the Arab Excutive now refuses to sit with Jews or participate with Jews in any manner in any conference."

The British foreign office, disclosing Britain's acceptance of the proposal as a basis of negotiations, announced that invitations to a conference had been sent to the seven Arab league states and that it was hoped the negotiations, with Arabs and Jews participating, could be concluded before the United Nations General Assembly convenes in September.

But a Jewish leader in London denounced the projected conference as an attempt to avoid having the Palestine issue raised before the league of nations, and an Arab leader in Jerusalem declared that adoption of any partition scheme would mean "perpetual war in the Middle East."

A Paris dispatch indicated that Jewish policy with regard to the proposal would not be outlined until the Jewish agency meets next week.

'Deal' is Hinted

Sources close to the Jewish agency in Paris indicated that immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine, as recommended by the British-American Inquiry committee, might by the price of acceptance of any partition plan.

David Ben Gurion, chairman of the Jewish agency, told a Paris news conference that Jewish leaders would consider any plan put forward by Britain and the United States to solve the Palestine problem, but added that in no event would Jews in the Holy Land surrender their arms or disband their underground organizations.

He said the Jews would press for 100,000 immigrants regardless of what decision was reached politically on Palestine, adding that he believed violence would end at once in Palestine if the 100,000 were admitted promptly.

The proposal to divide Palestine arose from discussions of members of the British-American cabinet committee, the foreign ofice said that neither a date nor a basis for representation had been fixed for the projected conference, but that the discussions did not necessarily wait upon the end of the Paris peace conference.

Plan to Fight Proposal

In Cairo, the Arab League announced that "Arabs will refuse a partition scheme" with the same force with which they rejected proposals for a Jewish national state or the immigration of Jews. Dr. Yacoub Khoury, head of the Palestine Arab association, said Arabs would use all means to fight the proposal and that "this scheme cannot be achieved unless America makes use of the atom bomb."

When the joint British-American attempt to reach a solution in Palestine began last November, the British government announced that discussions with both Jews and Arabs would be held before final decisions were made.

In Jerusalem, Dr. Hussein Khalidi, secretary of the Arab Executive said that Palestine Arabs would "flatly and definitely to sit at any round table with the Jews, as we have refused time and again."

"We have yet received no invitation to such a conference, and you that we will notetaoin the only information is from the press," he said, 'But I can assure you that we will not engage in any round table talks with Jews concerning Palestine. x x x We will not negotiate with Jews because we do not consider them legal participants in any discussion of the future of Palestine."

Regarding the proposed division of Palestine, A. Abrahamson, member of the World Executive of the new Zionist organization, said in London, that "we are absolutely against it. We regard it as evasion."

He branded the projected conference as "an attempt to avoid having the Palestine question come up before the United Nations," and said "the proposal to discuss the matter in advance is being pursued in the hope of making it unnecessary to bring the question up before the United Nations."

He urged Jewish refusal to participate so that the entire question could be placed before the U. N. assembly.

The three American members of the cabinet committee on Palestine were expected to discuss the proposal Monday in Paris with James F. Byrnes, United States Secretary of State.

London Planning Palestine-Split Negotiations

London, July 27 (AP)—The Foreign Office today announced British acceptance, as a basis for negotiation, of a proposal to divide Palestine into Jewish and Arab provinces under a federal government.

Negotiations on the plan for federation, a spokesman said, would be conducted with Arabs and Jews in London, with a view to completing them before the meeting of the United Nations Assembly in September.

The proposal is the outcome of discussions by members of a British-American Cabinet committee on Palestine, which the Foreign Office said completed work yesterday.

Recommended Grant Reported

An American member of the committee refused to comment on reports that the committee had recommended a $50,000,000 United States grant to finance development projects in Palestine on behalf of the Arabs.

The committee's recommendations, this member pointed out, have been submitted to Washington, and in so far as American members are concerned any disclosures must come from there. The British Foreign Office denied any knowledge of a recommendation for a grant.

Announced By Byrnes

United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes disclosed in Washington yesterday that the Cabinet committee had adopted a plan for the division of Palestine.

Jewish sources in Paris declined to speculate whether these refugees could be accommodated in areas allotted to Jews under the British-American Cabinet Committee partition scheme, a point on which Secretary Byrnes was silent.

The plan reported by Byrnes appeared to have no connection with a proposal disclosed yesterday by sources close to the Jewish Agency, which said that independent talks between certain Jewish and Arab leaders had evolved a provisional four-point program based upon the creation of seperate Jewish and Arab states, each under United Nations mandate.

No Date For Parley

The basis of representation and date for the conference with Jews and Arabs has not been fixed, a Foreign Office spokesman said.

Well-informed Jewish sources in Paris said Jewish acceptance of the plan might depend upon whether 100,000 Jews are admitted to the Holy Land immediately.

Arabs Threaten Force

CAIRO, July 27 (AP).—The Arab League announced today that "Arabs will refuse a partition scheme" with the same force with which they have rejected proposals for a Jewish national state and the immigration of Jews.

Dr. Yacoub Khoury, head of the Palestine Arab Association, said Arabs will use all means to fight the proposal, and that "this scheme cannot be achieved unless America makes use of the atom bomb."

White Paper Challenged

Paris, July 27 (AP)—David Ben Gurion, chairman of the Jewish Agency, attacked today the authenticity of the telegrams referred to in Britain's recent White Paper on Palestine and said British policy was aimed at "destroying the Jewish community in Palestine."

Ben Gurion indicated that the Jewish Agency would issue a "black paper" to list what he said had been acts of "British violence" and "terrorism" in Palestine.

Reviewing eight telegrams quoted in the White Paper in an attempt to link the Jewish Agency executive with incidents in Palestine, Ben Gurion said:

"Only one contains the names of the sender and the addressee. If the British Government knows who sent and received the other seven, why do they not also contain the names?"

Termed Not "Evidence"

The Jewish Agency chairman said the telegrams would not be considered by any lawyer in England to constitute "evidence" and added:

"I won't go so far as to say they are forgeries. But they are very queer, and I know many people in the British CID [Criminal Investigation Department] in Palestine who are not above doing such things."

Ben Gurion then described two meetings with George Hall, British colonial secretary in London, on June 19 and 20 which, he emphasized, was only nine days before the mass arrest of Jews in Palestine.

Hall Was Friendly

"Hall could not have been more friendly," Ben Gurion said. "His manner was one of the greatest cordiality. He strongly expressed his confidence in me and my friends. . . .

"I have only two alternatives—either it was a superb piece of acting, which I don't believe, or else he simply had no knowledge of the alleged evidence or of the decision that had been taken to assault the Jewish Agency and the people of Palestine."

Ben Gurion charged that the British Middle East policy was shaped and directed by "Fascistic, reactionary, feudalist groups."

BAND ATTACKS IN PALESTINE

Barracks Holding 3 Of 6 Arrested After Blast Are Targets

Jerusalem, July 27 (AP)—An armed band made an unsuccessful attack tonight on the military detention barracks in Jerusalem where police are believed to be holding 376 Jews arrested in a roundup of suspects following the dynamiting of the King David Hotel.

Shots were exchanged between sentries and the attackers, and British troops and police immediately threw a cordon around the entire Talbieh quarter. Soldiers were under "shoot-on-sight" orders.

Quarter Predominantly Arab

Every person on the street in the quarter, which is predominantly Arab and has not been under curfew, was ordered into his home. No passes were valid.

The attack followed by five days the dynamiting of the King David Hotel, headquarters of the Palestine Government and the British military establishment, in which the toll has now risen to 80 dead and 25 missing.

It could not be learned immediately whether there had been any casualties in the exchange of shots or whether any arrests had been made.

A military source refused to divulgate further information, but said that "Talbieh will be a very good place to stay out of tonight."

On Heels Of Arab Refusal

The attack came as the Arab Executive in a full session flatly rejected the British-American cabinet committee proposal to divide Palestine into federally governed Arab and Jewish provinces, and refused "to sit with Jews or participate with Jews in any manner in any conference."

Meanwhile, General Sir Miles C. Dempsey, British Army commander in the Middle East, visited the scene of the wrecked Palestine Government offices and conferred with Lieutenant General Sir Alan Cunningham, high commissioner.

It was expected Dempsey would make a personal investigation of security measures in Palestine in view of the widespread criticism of protective measures following Monday's dynamiting of the hotel. Dempsey was expected to return to Cairo tomorrow.

No new arrests of Jews had been made, police said, since 376 were taken into custody yesterday.

Confiscation Planned

Military and police tightened precautionary measures throughout Jerusalem.

Occupants of some 30 small Jewish business places located near the post office, the police administration and the district commissioner's office were ordered to evacuate their premises preparatory to confiscation by the Government.

The stores have been behind a barricade of barbed wire and the whole area, under heavy police guard since the police building was bombed last September, has been closed entirely since Monday's blast.

British General Inspects Bombed Hotel

Jerusalem, July 27 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey, commander of British troops in the Middle East, inspected the bomb-ruined King David Hotel today, amid speculation that he might make a personal study of security precautions in Palestine.

Existing protective measures were widely criticized following the terrorist raid Monday on the hotel.

Dempsey's trip from Middle East headquarters at Cairo was not officially explained. After examining the ruined hotel, he conferred with the High Commissioner of Palestine, Lieut. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham. A request for a press conference with Dempsey was rejected.

The bodies of two more British officials were recovered from the ruins, increasing the known death toll to 78. The list of missing dropped to 27.

Britain Recruiting Palestine Police

By Romney Wheeler

London, July 27 (AP)—A police officer looked up from a pile of papers and grinned happily:

"The bombing of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem won't hinder our recruiting. The kind of young men we're interested in aren't deterred by that sort of thing."

The officer was James Munro, superintendent of the Palestine police force. The papers were part of of the flood of applications and inquiries which are flooding the Crown offices in Whitehall as the result of an intensive recruiting campaign.

10,000 Inquiries Received

The trilingual, semi-military peace agency of the Holy Land is seeking 2,000 recruits in Britain. Munro estimated that 10,000 inquiries had been received since the campaign began July 1.

Posters offering £20 ($80) a month and full board, keep and uniforms are being plastered all over England in an effort to "sell" the opportunities of the Palestine force to ex-service men and others in the 18-28 age bracket.

Not all who apply are accepted. Munro said each applicant must be single, must be of English stock, must have good education and ability to learn languages as well as to do police work. Higher posts are filled solely from the ranks, and no man can advance until he is proficient in Arabic or Hebrew or both.

No Jews Or Arabs

Men of Jewish or Arab extraction are not accepted, Munro said, and must join the so-called Palestinian force which normally is recruited in Palestine.

Before the war there were about 3,000 in each force. The 2,000 new enlistments are expected to bring up the British force to 5,000, which even then will be smaller than the Palestinian unit's present strength.

Political negotiations over the future of Palestine have small interest for Munro.

"We are there to keep the peace," he said. "We'll go on keeping the peace, no matter what international arrangements are decided on."

British Suggest U.S. Give Arabs $200,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 27—(AP) The British government has proposed that the United States grant about $200,000,000 to the Arabs in Palestine to help them achieve cultural parity with the Jews, diplomatic authorities reported today.

They said the proposal is part of the Palestine settlement plan which Secretary of State Byrnes received Thursday from the joint Anglo-American committee at London and which he discussed last night with President Truman with undisclosed results.

As a part of the plan, it was learned, the British declared their willingness to accept the principle of the immediate admission of 100,000 Jews to Palestine but say that carrying out this project depends on various steps to handle the whole Palestine situation.

One step proposed is the creation or "partition" of separate Jewish and Arab zones.

Another proposal, according to the diplomatic informants who may not be identified, is that President Truman agree to ask congress for 50,000,000 pounds, slightly more than $200,000,000, for the Arabs.

American reaction to the plan has not been made known.

This $200,000,000 might not be the only American financial contribution. One of the first points on which the United States and Britain had tentatively agreed was that the United States should finance the transportation, feeding and initial housing of the 100,000 Jewish refugees.

Japan Losing More Industries Soon

Tokyo, July 27 (AP)—At least half a dozen more industries that Japan will lose as reparations will be taken over by the occupation forces shortly, Allied headquarters said today.

They most probably will include machine tool plants, shipyards, steel works, coal-burning electric generating plants, aluminum and magnesium plants and caustic soda factories.

130 Already Taken

Already 130 aircraft plants, arsenals and technical laboratories have been placed in Allied custody as the result of Edwin A. Pauley's recommendations for the de-industrialization of Japan.

So far no equipment has left Japan as reparations. No action has yet been taken on the suggestion of Pauley, head of the Far Eastern Commission, that electric generating and mining machinery be sent to Manchuria to replace that seized by the Russians.

More Jap Textile Exports Are Sought

London, July 27 (AP)—Great Britain and the Netherlands will shortly request the Allied Control Commission to permit sharply increased manufacture of Japanese textiles for export to Malaya and the Southwest Pacific.

Qualified sources, in close contact with rubber, tea and tin production, say textiles rank second only to food as the desperate need of Far Eastern workers, and that Japanese production is vital.

Dutch sources say peacetime consumption of inexpensive textiles totaled 670,000,000 yards a year in the Netherlands East Indies alone, and estimate that some 750,000,000 yards would be consumed in the next twelve months if it were available.

Must Buy Anywhere

Most of the Netherlands Indies purchases of textiles came from Japan before the war, but the Dutch now say they must buy wherever textiles can be found.

An equally urgent need is reported from British areas of the Far East, where scarcity of both textiles and rice have sent living costs skyrocketing, and thrown wage scales out of balance.

A qualified British spokesman said increased production by Japanese mills was desirable on two counts—first, to get badly needed material, and second, as a source of reparations payments.

Low-Cost Or None

This source said it was not a choice between high-cost and low-cost textiles, but between low-cost textiles and none at all. Native workers, he explained, cannot afford high-cost textiles, and to raise wages to meet Western production costs would mean complete dislocation of prices on Far Eastern rubber, tin, tea, coffee, sugar and tobacco.

Both British and Dutch report that production costs are now from two to three times above prewar figures, and are expected to remain so until rice and textiles find lower levels.

'RED' PROPOSED TRUCE FOR CHINA FACES REJECTION

Harold Nicks

NANKING, July 27. — (AP) A new Communist-proposed unconditional truce for China, which apparently carried the blessing of U. S. Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart, faced flat rejection today by the National government.

The government will reject unconditional cessation of hostilities unless an agreement for reorganizing China's armies and restoring railroad communications is effected at the same time, minister of information Peng Hsueh-Pei told a press conference in Shanghai.

The spokesman's statement came shortly after Ambassador Stuart had declared it "useless to discuss permanent unification of China and other political questions until we are able to end the fighting."

Stuart, who said he had his "own ideas" on breaking the civil war deadlock, was prepared to fly to Kuling, Chiang Kai-Shek's summer capital, for weekend conferences with the Generalissimo and U. S. General George Marshall, special envoy of President Truman.

While Stuart was hopeful of cracking the deadlock after conferring last night with the chief Communist negotiator, General Chou En-Lai, he said results would depend on the reaction he received from Chiang. Stuart is a close and trusted friend of the Generalissimo.

Reports from the field continued to be anything but optimistic, however. Associated Press Correspondent Tom Masterson in Peiping reported that both Communist and Government military commanders in Manchuria had failed to respond to an American proposal that rival armies be withdrawn 20 miles from areas of conflict.

U. S. Envoy Is Hopeful

NANKING, July 27 (AP)—United States Ambassador John Leighton Stuart, hopeful of renewing peace negotiations with a plan of his own, prepared today to fly to Kuling to join Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Gen. George C. Marshall in week-end talks.

Dr. Stuart told newspaper men he and Gen. Marshall had not rejected Communist peace proposals but were "just in the exploratory stage, trying to find a means of procedure acceptable to both sides."

"I find many reasons for hope," he went on, "particularly since the difficulties are not a question of fundamentals but rather of details of procedure."

Dr. Stuart abandoned a trip to Peiping to go to Kuling. This switch in plans followed a talk with the Communist negotiator, Gen. Chou En-lai, who dined at the embassy.

The Ambassador said he had his "own ideas" on how to break the deadlock.

"I tried them out on Chou En-lai last night," he continued. "What will result from these ideas will depend on the reaction of Marshall and Chiang Kai-shek when I confer with them at Kuling.

"It is useless to discuss permanent unification and other political questions until we are able to end the fighting."

The Ambassador said he had reports that United States businessmen in China, particularly in Shanghai, were considering leaving en masse because the tangled political situation prevented successful operations.

"I hope they postpone their decision a short time until something can be worked out," he said. "I appreciate their situation but I believe something will be done soon to relieve it. Once we are able to turn the corner things should improve."

CHINA UNRRA AIDE NAMED

Edgerton Will Go to Shanghai to Straighten Out Affairs

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—The assignment of Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, one of the Army's top supply administrators, to try to bring order out of the disrupted United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration services in China was announced tonight.

General Edgerton, now assistant War Assets Administrator, will leave for Shanghai in mid-August to take over as director of the UNRRA office in China. He will replace Benjamin Kizer, who resigned in May.

Fiorello H. La Guardia, UNRRA director-general, has complained to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of alleged inefficiencies and irregularities in China relief operations. UNRRA shipments are being held up until the situation is straightened out.

ROLF NUGENT DEAD; UNRRA SUPPLY AIDE

Deputy Chief of Bureau, 45, Was in Japan on Loan From Russell Sage Foundation

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—Rolf Nugent, deputy chief of the UNRRA Bureau of Supply, died today (Tokyo time) while swimming near Yokohama, Lowell W. Rooks, acting UNRRA director, was notified today. His age was 45. Mr. Rooks said it had not been determined whether Mr. Nugent drowned or died of a heart attack.

On loan from the Russell Sage Foundation, Mr. Nugent joined UNRRA early in 1944 as economic adviser to the deputy chief for the supply bureau. After serving in London and Bari, he returned to Washington late in 1945. At his death he was on a Far Eastern survey of surplus property.

Honor Given By King Of Luang-Prabang

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Special permission to wear the Order of a Million Elephants was voted Howard F. Smith, assistant surgeon general, today by the Senate Finance Committee.

The decoration was bestowed by the King of Luang-Prabang, in French Indo-China.

"Hm-m-m-m," commented Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), a member of the committee, "sounds like next November."

Filipinos Pay Tribute To Quezon

Manila, July 27 (AP)—The Philippines republic entered an official 24-day period of mourning today as the United States aircraft carrier Princeton arrived in Manila harbor with the body of former President Manuel Quezon.

President Manuel Roxas went aboard the carrier for an official call, later repaid at Malacanan Palace by United States Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, official American escort with Quezon's body.

United States Ambassador Paul V. McNutt also boarded the carrier to pay his respects.

Filipinos lined the sea wall to pay homage to Quezon. Official ceremonies culminating in a state funeral August 1 were to start this afternoon.

U.N. MILITARY UNIT SECRET

After 6 Months, Nothing Is Known Of Progress

Harold Nicks

New York, July 27 (AP)—The United Nations Military Staff Committee, potentially one of the most powerful groups in world history, apparently is marking time with a sharp eye on global developments.

Charged with setting up an international land, sea and air force to maintain peace in the world, the committee operates in such strict secrecy that after six months of sessions here virtually nothing is known of the progress, if any, made by the generals and admirals.

The chiefs of staff of the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and China have seats on the committee and all have top-ranking generals and admirals in their delegations.

Council Awaits Reports

The veil of mystery has kept even other groups of the United Nations in the dark. The Security Council, its parent body, still awaits reports from the committee.

The United Nations press section puts out a brief notice every time the committee changes its chairman under a rotation plan, but most of the time the United Nations shies away from the group in awe.

This much is known:

1. The committee meets usually once a week.

2. Delegations have submitted various memorandums, which have been discussed, but no definite decisions have been made known.

3. Much of the committee's time is spent arguing over words which have a shade different meaning when translated to another language.

Nothing Until After Parley

4. Apparently nothing is going to come out of the committee until the peace treaty conferences in Paris end.

A report to Trygve Lie, secretary-general, on the United Nations, by a group of planning experts didn't even mention the committee, which the charter says "shall advise and assist the Security Council on all questions relating to the Security Council's military requirements for the maintenance of international peace and security, the employment and command of forces placed at its disposal, and the regulation of armaments, and possible disarmament."

These same experts did lay down some duties for the council's "enforcement measures divisions," which is supposed to advise the council on political aspects of military matters and among other things prepare for publication a yearbook on armaments.

A spokesman for that embryo division said it can't do anything until the military staff committee does something and they can't find out what the committee is doing.

Questions Loom For Gromyko

New York, July 27 (AP)—Several delegates to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commisison indicated today that Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko would face a barrage of questions next week as to how he proposes to prevent illegal production of atomic weapons.

The delegates were agreed that the production and use of atomic weapons should be outlawed, as Gromyko demanded yesterday, but they were generally dissatisfied with his one brief proposal on the question of enforcement and punishment.

This proposal was that each state that signs the suggested international convention banning atomic weapons assume the responsibility for enforcement within its own borders.

Punishment Provision

"The draft convention," he said, "contains a provision that the signatory states should within six months of its conclusion enact legislation providing for severe punishment for violators of the convention.

"This is wholly in accord with the seriousness of the task as well as with the principle of the sovereignty of member states and with the principles of the United Nations."

This was his only reference to specific measures to control the great projects which the delegates envision for the development of atomic energy for peaceful uses.

Elaboration Wanted

Each of the speakers who took the floor in the closed meeting to comment on Gromyko's declaration indicated they would try to get him to elaborate on this question when the delegates, meeting as Committee No. 2, get together next Wednesday.

John M. Hancock, representing the United States, said the outlawing of weapons was of great importance and that all the delegates agreed on that but, he said, he would be interested in a further expression by Gromyko on how his plan is to become a working project—how it is to be made really effective.

The Netherlands delegate, Dr. Eelco N. van Kleffens, also declared all the delegates were agreed that atomic weapons must be outlawed, but he added:

"The question is whether, in order to be effective, that principle should simultaneously be properly implemented by a system of controls, or whether we can dispense with such controls."

"Sound In Principle"

Van Kleffens expressed the belief that "the Russian proposal, although quite sound in principle, needs considerable elaboration if it is to have practical effect."

Capt. Alvaro Alberto, of Brazil, chairman of the commission and a supporter of the United States position that a strong system of controls should be set up before atomic weapons are outlawed, said there was no disagreement on the principle of the Soviet plan, but that "the time is the important thing—and so is the how."

The question the delegates want to go into at the next meeting is whether Russia considers that the only controls necessary are the ones mentioned by Gromyko—controls by the individual states.

A Starting Point

At one or two points in his statement with his phraseology indicated that he considered his present proposals only a starting point and that Russia might be willing to go further if her plan were accepted.

He left no doubht that he was still firmly opposed to a strong international control system such as that proposed by the United States, and indicated that he felt his own plan offered effective and practical measures of control.

"The eyes of all peace-loving nations are focused on the work of the Atomic Energy Commission," Gromyko said, "and the peoples of the world expect this commission to suggest to the Security Council practical measures for the control of atomic energy. Such practical measures are contained in the Soviet proposal."

In discussing his proposal, Gromyko indirectly questioned the motives of the United States, as the only nation known to be producing atomic bombs.

"We ask why nations should produce stockpiles of atomic weapons," he said, "if we all agree that atomic energy should be used only for the benefit of mankind."

Some Vessels Boarded

Boarding parties were put on some of the vessels, but there still was only limited small-boat activity near the target array. Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, atom test commander, said he could not predict when inner targets might be boarded. It would still be two or three days, he said, before the support fleet moved into former anchorages at the eastern end of the lagoon.

Blandy met today with members of atomic test evaluation boards but issued no new statement on the destruction wrought by the underwater blast.

Ship Toll Listed

Reports from Associated Press correspondents who viewed the fleet from sea and air showed at least thirteen vessels sunk or damaged, including:

SUNK—The battleship Arkansas, carrier Saratoga, an oil tender, two or three submarines.

DISINTEGRATED — The landing ship from which the bomb was suspended.

LISTING—The Japanese battleship Nagato, battleship New York, a transport, a destroyer.

BEACHED—The transport Fallon, destroyer Hughes.

OVERTURNED—An LST (landing ship, tank).

Subs Still A Mystery

The condition of several submarines, lying on the bottom of the lagoon, remained a mystery. The grimy battleship Nagato, listing badly, appeared to have dipped no farther today and was not considered in immediate danger of sinking.

The transport Fallon was beached near the destroyer Hughes, also pushed ashore to preserve the valuable instruments aboard. A fireboat washed down the destroyer's decks today to reduce radioactivity, but no one boarded her.

Associated Press Correspondent Charles McMurtry reported from a C-54 flying over the lagoon that the submarine Tuna had been surfaced, apparently for quick examination. From the air, the Tuna appeared to be undamaged.

Water Is Oil-Streaked

McMurtry said he was told the submarine Skate's apparent list was not caused by the underwater blast but was the result of damage suffered from the aerial bomb burst on July 1.

He reported a small streak of oil near the stern of the battleship Pennsylvania, but said she appeared to be on even keel. Several long oil streaks still trailed from the target center through the lagoon, he said, but the thick, milky stream created by the coral unheaval on the lagoon's bottom had dissipated.

Admiral Blandy, who took a perilous trip through the target fleet Friday, said he believed the Hughes was "disabled, unseaworthy and probably would have sunk." He told correspondents he could not say whether the Fallon would have gone down.

Tugs Beach Ship Badly Battered By A-Bomb

Aboard U.S.S. Mount McKinley, Off Bikini, July 27 (AP)—The transport Fallon, badly battered by the force of Thursday's underwater atomic bomb, was pushed up on the sands of Enyu Island today by tugboats which braved radioactive Bikini lagoon to save the ship for study.

Shifting winds and currents sent radioactivity soaring in the inner target area, hampering salvage operations and delaying attempts to assess overall damage more thor-

SHIP HULKS TO BE SUNK

Blandy To Order Scuttling Of Useless Target Craft

Aboard U.S.S. Mount McKinley, Bikini, July 27 (AP)—Bikini Lagoon is destined to have an iron bottom, Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy indicated today, with worthless atomic-bomb ships to be scuttled after thorough examination.

Blandy, commander of the unprecedented "Operations Crossroads" tests, said remaining small craft probably would be scuttled within the lagoon and that big ships would be disposed of at sea "with orthodox weapons."

The Navy thus would get in some target practice, he intimated, adding, "there would be no use cluttering up what may be a strategic anchorage some of these days." In the useless big ship class is the former Japanese battleship Nagato.

Nagato's List Easing

The Nagato still was listing today and some observers believed she might yet sink from damage by the last a-bomb, but others noted that the rate of list had slowed and thought she would stay afloat. Blandy said he intended to refer each vessel to Washington before ordering it sunk or returned to Pearl Harbor or California, even though the chief of naval operations has given him on-the-spot authority to dispose of target ships as he sees fit.

Blandy said he intended to stay in Bikini lagoon with his flagship, Mount McKinley, at least until the middle of August to direct inspection of remaining ships of the target fleet.

Only the most cursory examination has been possible thus far due to radioactivity of water and targets.

The Nevada Now Listing

ABOARD THE U. S. S. MOUNT McKINLEY, Off Bikini, Sunday, July 28 (AP)—Bikini Lagoon was so dangerously radioactive today, three full days after the underwater atomic bomb explosion, that no one was permitted to make close-range inspection of the damaged target fleet.

Only fast-moving patrol boats made quick dashes to the edges of the invisible radiation "walls" that hemmed in the targets.

To the list of apparently damaged ships was added the battleship Nevada, which was seen to be listing. This red-painted bullseye of the aerial atomic bomb of July 1 had been placed on the outer ring of targets for the July 25 detonation.

Latest unofficial opinion in Joint Task Force 1 was that none of the four wounded battleships, Nevada, New York, Pennsylvania and Nagato, was now in danger of sinking.

An undetermined number of the target vessels is due to be scuttled or otherwise sunk after all available data have been gleaned from their virtually worthless carcasses, Admiral Blandy indicated.

Yesterday Admiral Blandy met with members of the Presidential and Congressional atomic test evaluation boards.

Late in the day a fireboat washed down the decks of the beached destroyer Hughes to reduce radioactivity, but no one boarded her.

Sees Great Potential

Dr. Lawrence, whose cyclotron led the development of the atomic bomb, predicted that "many of us alive today could see the the growth of a very substantial atomic-energy industry," if enough money and effort is expended on the program.

He was presented with the Holley Medal of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers for his invention of the cyclotron and other contributions to nuclear research.

War Dept. Pledge Of Aid

Another speaker, Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, director of the newly formed army Research and Development Division, pledged that the War Department would do its part toward continuation of nuclear-energy research pending formation of civilian agencies for atomic control.

General Aurand said Maj. Gen. A. C. McAfee, now at Bikini, has been appointed the Army member of the secretariat of the joint research and development board, an agency set up by the Secretaries of War and Navy to co-ordinate work being carried on in the interim between the dissolution of the Office of Scientific Research and Development and formation of the projected National Science Foundation.

Signature Certain, Says Ross

Mr. Truman has yet to sign the measure, but Charles Ross, his press secretary, said his signature is certain.

The board it provides for will have control over all atomic-energy developments in the United States. The legislation also gives the Government, through the commission, a virtual monopoly on inventions and patents in the field of atomic energy, provides the death penalty for major violations of security with intent to injure the United States, and directs that a member of the armed forces head the Division of Military Application under the commission.

There is every indication that Mr. Truman will send quickly to the Senate not only his choices for commission members, but for the post of general manager, which also is subject to confirmation.

Lawmakers generally said they have no idea who the President has in mind. But the names of former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, O. Max Gardner, Under Secretary of the Treasury; Dr. Vannevar Bush, scientist, and David E. Lillienthal, TVA chairman, were among many being mentioned as possible appointees.

McMahon said he had no individual to suggest to the President.

Atomic Board Commanding Public Confidence Is Urged

Russell's Suggestions

Senator Austin (R., Vt.), a member of the committee, said he thinks science, business and national defense should have representation. He added that he did not mean that any military man should be named to the all-civilian commission, but that some individual familiar with security needs should be chosen.

Senator Russell (D., Ga.), another committee member, observed that one scientist, one diplomat and one "hard-headed business man" ought to be in the group.

Security Said To Depend On Vast Atomic Industry

Los Angeles, July 27 (AP)—America's security depends on development of a vast atomic-energy industry, says Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, Nobel prize winner and inventor of the cyclotron.

"Just as our great industrial growth—the automobile industry, the electrical industry and the chemical industry and all the rest—gave us the wherewithal for rapid technological mobilization for war production, so a large-scale atomic-energy industrial development is now essential for our future security," he said last night at a joint dinner meting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the Los Angeles Council of Founder Societies.

Washington, July 27 (AP)—President Truman got advice from Congressmen today to appoint a cross-section of American science, business, diplomacy and national defense to the domestic atomic-control commission.

One of those tendering it was Chairman McMahon (D., Conn.) of the Senate's Special Atomic Committee. He said before going to the White House that he would urge Mr. Truman to "pick men in whom the whole country will have confidence" to wield the unprecedented powers granted a five-member board under legislation approved yesterday by Congress.

ATOM JOB SEEN FOR MARSHALL

Senators Told Truman Considers Him For Post

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Senators heard reports today that President Truman had considered naming Gen. George C. Marshall a member of the proposed commission on domestic control of atomic energy.

A Senator who asked not to be identified said the former Army chief of staff had been mentioned by Mr. Truman in preliminary discussions recently of the personnel of the five-member board. This group would be given unprecedented powers under a control bill sent to the White House yesterday.

Speculation Continues

As speculation on appointments continued even in advance of the President's expected approval of the measure, there were these other developments:

1. Senator Austin (R., Vt.) said the bill gives American representatives on the United Nations Commission considering international controls a "clear mandate" not to divulge any information to other nations about nuclear fission until Congress determines that effective international controls are in operation.

Chairman McMahon (D., Conn.), of the Senate Special Atomic Committee, agreed with Austin's interpretation.

Kilgore Cites "Threats"

2. Senator Kilgore (D., W.Va.) said in a formal statement that "militarism and monopoly" remain the two chief "threats in the field of atomic energy development." He added that the personnel of the new commission seemed likely to meet with a mixed reception in Congress, but even some of those who have advocated strict civilian control indicated they would find it difficult to oppose the President's selection.

As the bill went to the President, it left the road open to the appointment of retired military personnel. However, General Marshall is extremely busy just now attempting to bring peace to the warring factions in China and there was some doubt that Mr. Truman would be willing to withdraw him from that task before its conclusion.

Long List Of Names

The President was said by lawmakers to have under consideration a long list of names, but to have made no decision yet.

Speculation on Capitol Hill listed among possible appointees Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., former Secretary of State; Joseph P. Kennedy, former Ambassador; O. Max Gardner, Under Secretary of the Treasury; David E. Lilienthal TVA chairman, and Dr. Irving Langmuir, Dr. James Conant, Dr. Edward U. Condon and Dr. Vannevar Bush, scientists.

McMahon, whose appointment with the President to discuss the bill was postponed from today until Monday, said he will urge that outstanding men be chosen.

Regarded As Significant

Senator Austin's assertion that the bill bars the dissemination of information to other nations until effective controls are working was regarded as significent. He has been named by President Truman as the American representative on the World Security Council, which will deal with the question.

McMahon said the effect of the bill's provision well be to strengthen the hand of Bernard M. Baruch, the American representative on the council's Atomic Commission, in dealing with Russian demands that security enforcement be entrusted to the individual nations, rather than to a world organization.

Measure Is Quoted

The measure before Mr. Truman provides "that until Congress declares by joint resolution that effective and enforceable international safeguards against the use of atomic energy for destructive purposes have been established, there shall be no exchange of information with other nations with respect to the use of atomic energy for industrial purposes. . . ."

McMahon said this covers information about the atomic bomb by preventing any divulgence before Congress acts of information on the fissionable process.

McCormack Accuses Tito In Death of 250 Priests

Tells House U. S. Must Aid 'Persecuted Yugoslavs'

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).—Demanding a firm policy toward Yugoslavia, House Democratic leader John W. McCormack, of Massachusetts, asserted today that Premier Josip Broz (Marshall Tito) "and his Communist associates" have caused the death of 250 priests and seek destruction "of holy men and women whose only crime is faith in God."

In an address prepared for delivery in the House, he asked: "Are we to watch in idleness while war, the reaper, in the guise of Tito sows his seed of death?" He said of Tito, "I know that he orders the imprisonment of nuns, for no crime, which in fact means death through cruelty."

"We, as a nation, must be firm, through our all-powerful State Department, in our dealings with national governments who would make a plaything of religion or a foible of Christianity," McCormack said also.

"The people of the United States cannot slumber while such conditions exist in any nation. America can and must, by firm governmental policies executed by our State Department, aid the persecuted Yugoslavs, prevent terrorism within her boundaries, refuse to deal with tyranny."

Truman Fills 3 Decontrol Board Posts

Names Roy L. Thompson Chairman, Daniel Bell and George H. Mead

O.P.A. Ceilings Off On Many Products

All Items Containing 20% of Meat, Poultry or Eggs Free of Curbs

JUL 28 1946

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 27.—President Truman today named the men of "judgment and fairness" who will form the decontrol board set up under the new price control act. They are:

Roy L. Thompson, chairman. He is a Southern banker and economics professor and has been president of the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans since 1938.

George H. Mead. He is a Middle Western industrialist, organizer and board chairman of the Mead Pulp and Paper Company, of Dayton, Ohio. He was chairman of the Industrial Advisory Board under the National Recovery Administration and later an industry member of the War Labor Board and member of the advisory board of the Office of War Mobilization.

Daniel W. Bell. A veteran Treasury Department official, he finally became Acting Director of the Budget and Treasury Under Secretary, resigning to take a position with a Washington bank.

Will Have Final Say

These men, subject to Senate confirmation, will have the final say on what items shall or shall not be under price ceilings. They will be paid at the rate of $12,000 a year.

The decontrol board is charged with determining whether meat, dairy products and the other items conditionally exempt from ceilings shall continue free of control after Aug. 20.

Price Administrator Paul Porter said in a statement the public will have confidence in the appointees.

"I am gratified in the type of public-spirited men who have accepted appointment to this board," he said. "The public will have confidence in their decision, and the work of the Office of Price Administration and Stabilization will be immeasurably strengthened because of the caliber of the individuals who have agreed to serve."

The Senate referred the nominations to its Banking Committee, which may act Monday. Senator Kenneth Wherry, Republican, of Nebraska, critic of O. P. A., commented that he considered Mr. Bell a good choice but knows little about the other two and has no immediate reaction. Senator Albert W. Hawkes, Republican, of New Jersey, told reporters he thinks all three are "New Dealish." Senator John L. McClellan, Democrat, of Arkansas, praised the three selections.

Mr. Truman, in his message to Congress after signing the bill Thursday, had promised that the board members would be "men in whose judgment and fairness the Congress and the country will have complete confidence." He told his news conference, too, that he aimed at an unpacked jury.

The Office of Price Administration meanwhile gave industry and consumers their first clear view of sweeping exemptions which removed about half of all food products from price control under the O. P. A. revival act.

Many Ceilings Lifted

Mr. Porter said ceilings are off all items containing 20 per per cent or more by volume of meat, poultry and eggs, dairy products, or cotton seed and soy bean derivatives. The law bars ceilings on anything made "in substantial part" from these farm products, and the O. P. A. decided 20 per cent is "substantial."

This lifts the price lid from most mayonnaise, salad dressings, margarin and vegetable shortenings; animal gelatin and lard; canned chicken and powdered eggs, butter, cheese and ice cream; soy-bean food products and soy flour and bread.

The O. P. A.'s torrent of new price increases slowed to a trickle, meanwhile, the major boost being a $2 increase on pig iron.

Earlier in the day Mr. Porter told consumers that the new price law would "prevent runaway inflation," but food and clothing prices will climb.

"About half the foods you buy are back under the old price ceilings, but, after Aug. 20, there's still no way that some of the food price increases you've been experiencing lately can be stopped by law," the O. P. A. chief said in his weekly broadcast over the American Broadcasting Company network.

"Clothing prices will be a problem, too," he added—a milder forecast than that voiced privately by some of his aids, who said they expected increases up to 15 to 20 per cent on wool and cotton garments.

Under the O. P. A.'s interpretation of the ceiling exemptions ordered by Congress, grains and all animal and poultry feeds made from grain are ceiling-free—but not grain foods for humans, such as breakfast cereals, bread, corn syrup, oatmeal, corn flour and corn meal. All forms of tobacco are uncontrolled.

Meat products having less than 20 per cent meat content remain under ceilings. As examples the O. P. A. named meat stews, corned beef hash, chili con carne, soups, tamales, pork and beans, spaghetti and meat balls.

To Restore Ceilings Aug. 21

Mr. Porter emphasized that ceilings will be restored Aug. 21 on all the exempt items except poultry, eggs, tobacco and their products, unless the price decontrol board rules otherwise.

Major items like fresh and canned fruits and vegetables, sugar, coffee, tea, cocoa and beer, which were under ceilings June 30, remain under them, Mr. Porter said.

Besides ordering a dozen price increases—all of which were pending when the O. P. A. started its twenty-five-day holiday—the agency observed its second day of rebirth by announcing:

That community food price ceiling lists, rendered obsolete by the new price act, are revoked. New ones, effective Aug. 1, will be issued for posting in grocery stores.

That all 685 industry advisory committees, which are business groups set up to advise the O. P. A. on pricing policy, are automatically reinstated.

That price ceilings on new cars revert to June 30 levels, pending issuance soon of new and higher ceilings. On used cars the ceilings are those of June 30 less the 4 per cent automatic decrease which was to have gone into effect July 1. All deliveries of new or used cars after July 25 must be at or below O. P. A. ceilings, it was ruled, even if agreement was made during the interim for an above-ceiling price.

The revised ceilings on new cars—which some officials say will reprseent a $100 increase on—lar-priced cars—are based on a requirement of the new law restoring dealers' pre-war profit margins, which the O. P. A. had reduced. Officials had previously calculated that the coming increase in automobile prices would be about $75, but this estimate has been increased. The new ceilings are expected soon.

That the O. P. A. believes current ceilings on iron and steel scrap are adequate and will grant no increase "in the foreseeable future" despite industry reports to the contrary.

These were among today's price actions, effective at once:

A 10 per cent increase for switches, plugs and other wiring devices. The increase is 20 per cent for some low-priced sockets, connecters and other items.

A boost of 5 per cent in manufacturers' ceilings for bolts, nuts, screws and rivets. The action orings total increases since April 1 to 12 per cent.

Increases ranging from 16 to 27 per cent in the prices of electric motor-generator sets.

A 15.5 per cent boost for manufacturers of beverage and bottling machinery.

A 10 per cent rise in producers' ceilings on ammonium sulfate, a fertilizer ingredient, in all but eleven Western states. The new ceiling is $30 a ton.

An increase of $5.50 a ton in importers' ceilings on nitrate of soda and nitrate of soda-potash, two important fertilizer materials obtained from Chile.

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).—The text of a statement by the Office of Price Administration on how foods and tobacco are affected under new price-control act follows:

Clarification as to how foods and tobacco and their by-products are affected by exemption provisions of the price control extension act of 1946 was made today by the Office of Price Administration.

Products that are removed from ceilings are generally those foods or feeds containing 20 per cent or more by volume of commodities that have been specifically exempted from price control under the new act. If they contain less than 20 per cent of the exempted item, they remain under ceilings.

On all but two groups of exempted items—poultry and eggs and their by-products and tobacco and tobacco products—ceilings will be restored on Aug. 21, 1946, unless the decision of the decontrol board is that they not be brought back under ceilings. On the two above exceptional groups action of the decontrol board to restore ceilings will be required before they may go back under price control.

Exempted

A listing of exempted commodities follows:

MEATS

All livestock and all edible meats such as beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton.

Specified edible products such as canned meats, natural casings, animal gelatin and all products from livestock going into animal feeds and feeds made from these products.

FATS AND OILS

Cottonseed and soy-bean oils.

Specified food products and feed by-products of cottonsed and soy bean oils such as most mayonnaise, salad dressings, oleomargarin and vegetable shortenings.

Specified edible fats and oils made from livestock, for instance, lard and edible beef fats such as are used in some shortenings.

Specified foods or feeds made from fats, oils and greases derived from livestock.

(And fat or oil that is sold to an industrial user for production of an inedible product, such as paint, remains under price control.)

POULTRY AND EGGS

Poultry, such as chickens, turkeys and ducks, and eggs.

Specified food products such as canned chickens and powdered eggs and freed by-products made from poultry or eggs.

DAIRY PRODUCTS

All dairy products excluding casein, which is inedible, and including milk, butter, cheese and ice cream.

List of O. P. A.-Exempt Items

30-24-4417

Specified food or feed by-products made from dairy products.

GRAINS

All grains: wheat, corn, barley, oats, rye, grain sorghums, flaxseed, soy beans and mixtures of these grains.

Specified by-product animal or poultry feeds made from these grains.

COTTONSEED AND SOY BEANS

All cottonseed and soy beans.

Specified food or feed products made from them—among soy-bean food products, such items as various canned meat substitutes, soya flour and soya bread.

TOBACCO

All leaf tobaccos.

Specified tobacco products such as cigarettes, cigars, pipe tobacco and chewing tobacco.

Not Exempted

The following are examples of products that will remain under price control:

(1) Processed meat products containing less than 20 per cent meat; corned beef hash, meat stews, frankfurters and beans, chili con carne, tamales, soups, pork and beans an dspaghetti and meat balls.

(2) Food products from grains: Breakfast cereals, corn syrup, bread, flour, corn meal and oat meal are exempt from price control when used as animal or poultry feeds).

(3) Oils:

Peanut oil, corn oil, linseed oil, olive oil, imported vegetable oils, inedible tallows, greases and fish oils, cottonseed and soy-bean oil products sold for non-edible purposes, such as for soap.

(4) Canned foods packed in oils: Sardines, tuna and certain imported delicacies.

(These remain under price control regardless of the percentage of soybean or cottonseed oil involved.)

(5) Fresh and processed fruits and vegetables:

All that were under price control on June 30, 1946.

(6) Hay and all grains not specifically exempt from price control, such as rice.

(7) All other food items that were under price control on June 30, 1946, not specifically exempted, such as sugar and syrups, canned fish, certain fresh and frozen fish, malt beverages, other alcoholic beverages excepting wine, candy, jams, jellies and preserves; coffee, tea and cocoa; other imported foods.

JUNE 30 CEILINGS PUT ON NEW CARS

Rise of From 15 to 20 Per Cent in Price of Clothing Predicted by Officials

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27—The Office of Price Administration announced today that new automobiles are back under June 30 ceilings pending issuance of a higher price schedule. Used car ceilings are down 4 per cent from the June 30 level.

OPA officials forecast a clothing price rise of 15 to 20 per cent as the agency worked on new price orders.

In reimposing automobile ceilings, the OPA announcement said all deliveries of new and used cars after July 25 must conform to ceiling prices "even in cases where the buyer agreed during the interim, when price controls were off, to pay in excess of the ceiling and made a down payment."

Ceilings of used cars were dropped 4 per cent as of July 1, a reduction which became effective automatically with the OPA revival act. This was the regular semi-annual reduction to take account of depreciation.

$100 Increase Predicted

The forthcoming ceilings on new cars—which some officials say will approximately $100 higher on popular price models—as based on a requirement of the new lay restoring dealers' pre-war profit margins which OPA had reduced.

Officials previously calculated that the coming increase in automobile prices would be about $75. Now officials have raised this to $100. The new car regulations are expected soon.

Barred by the new law from restoring ceilings on meat, milk and some other foods, OPA turned to clothing as its gravest immediate worry.

Lacking control over raw cotton, and now required to pass along to the consumer any rise in costs of cotton or woolen material, price men said privately that they foresaw cost-of-living trouble.

Early Clothing Action Due

Garment increases, therefore, may be among the early rises authorized under the new pricing standards set by Congress.

Enforcement plans were intensified. One official said, however, that the slash in OPA's appropriation to $75,000,000 had clouded previous plans to double the compliance force of 5,000 agents and aides.

The plans will be carried out if Congress heeds President Truman's request that $26,000,000 additional be appropriated for the agency.

Asking the money yesterday, Mr. Truman said that even with these additional funds OPA would have only enough money to operate until February, when more money can be provided by the new Congress. The $75,000,000 appropriation represented a reduction of $67,200,000 from budget estimates.

Walters Leaves OPA at Chicago

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — Paul A. Porter, price administrator, tonight accepted the resignation of Rae E. Walters, who has served for two years as administrator for the seven-State Chicago region. Altogether he served four years with the OPA without pay. Mr. Porter thanked Mr. Walters for his "long devoted duty" and noted that he served for two years on a voluntary basis before becoming chief of the Chicago office. Mr. Walters is returning to his grain and feed business in Harlan, Iowa.

Gas-Price Increase Spreads

Tulsa, Okla., July 27 (AP)—Standard Oil Company of Indiana today joined Socony-Vacuum Oil Company in pointing the way to a general price rise for gasoline and other fuels which oil men estimated will range from a half cent to a cent per gallon to the public.

Indiana Standard increased the tank-car price on gasoline 1 cent per gallon in thirteen Middle Western states and kerosene a half cent. Socony-Vacuum yesterday raised gasoline prices nine tenths of a cent in New York and the New England states, with a seven tenths of a cent rise for kerosene and distillate fuels.

Other refiners are expected to follow soon with similar increases as a result of the 25-cent-per-barrel increase for crude posted by virtually every purchase of oil in the midcontinent and Rocky Mountain states.

WAR PROBERS HEAR OF NEW PROFITS CASE

Effort Also Is Begun To Learn If Army Protected Young Garsson

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Senate war profits investigators turned their scrutiny today on a reported sale of Washington influence on war contracts to a firm that did not [illegible] the help it p[illegible].

Another focus of Mead committee interest was a report that superior officers had instructions to shield the son of a munitions manufacturer from harm during his war service.

Members disclosed that these reports had been turned over to the staff of the War Investigating Committee with instructions to determine the truth or falsity of both reports.

May Slightly Better

Meanwhile, the condition of Representative May (D., Ky.) was announced as "slightly improved." May was unable to testify yesterday because of illness.

At the same time Senator Mead (D., N.Y.), chairman of the investigating group, announced that Lindsay C. Warren, the comptroller general, has been summoned to a public hearing Monday to explore the possibilities of checking on improper war profits through facilities of the General Accounting Office.

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) disclosed that a Detroit concern had been mentioned in the reported transaction with a Washington purveyor of "influence."

"Exposure" Is Urged

"If there's anybody in my state that was in on these deals," he said, "I want it exposed just the same as anybody else, and it doesn't make any difference what his politics were or are."

From another member of the committee, who declined to be quoted by name, it was learned that the committee had received a report that an individual had offered to obtain a war contract for a fee and had then reneged on his part of the transaction after getting the money.

This member said that the contract was reported as not involving the companies in the Garsson munitions combine currently under investigation by the committee, but he added that some of the same individuals mentioned in that investigation were concerned in the "entirely new" report.

Person Not Named

Committee members said the report did not say whose "influence" the Washington man had purported to use in obtaining contracts, but declared that this was one of the things they would seek to bring out in the investigation.

The second of the two new lines of inquiry resulted from a request by Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.). It was based, the Senator said, on a published statement by Joseph Garsson, formerly a captain in the Chemical Warfare Service, that throughout his army career his commanding officers were under instructions to "take care of Garsson."

Garsson is the son of Murray W. Garsson, one of the promoters of the munitions combine. The father so far has failed to comply with a committee summons on the ground that he is in poor health and must remain in Havana, Cuba.

Kilgore told George Meader, chief counsel of the committee, to find out from young Garsson "who it was that said Garsson was to be taken care of."

"Who Gave Orders?"

"Then we can call in these gentlemen and find out who gave them their orders," Kilgore said.

The West Virginia Senator said he believed the former captain should be called to the witness stand, "or at least interviewed," to find out who was responsible for the orders concerning him.

Kilgore added that the matter "goes to the morale of the troops" and "to the question of what influence the Grassons have" in the Army.

Ferguson similarly said it is "very important" because "it certainly affects the morale of the Army."

Says He Was Shocked

"I was really shocked," he said, "to read his statement—that a man in the Army should think that he had an opportunity for special privilege."

In its hearings Monday the committee will ask Warren to present a statement "clarifying exactly what the General Accounting Office is empowered to do and what it cannot do in connection with policing and auditing the expenditure of public funds in World War II for war procurement," Mead announced.

"The committee is also anxious," he said, "to ascertain what audits are being conducted for the protection of the public in payments to war contractors on the part of the General Accounting Office and what deficiencies exist in the operation of existing statutes and regulations designed to insure the proper expenditure of public funds for national defense."

B. F. FIELDS NAMED IN WAR WIRE DEAL

House Group Told of Scheme to Sell Veterans' Housing Screen Surplus at Profit

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—Benjamin F. Fields, who has been linked with Washington operations of the Garsson munitions combination in testimony before the Senate War Investigating Committee, was named in a House committee's hearings today as having offered Government surplus screen wire for sale at a commission.

Testimony to this effect was given the special House committee on disposal of surplus property by Leonard S. May of the May Hardware Company of Washington.

Mr. May told the committee that he was not related to Representative Andrew J. May of Kentucky whose name has come up often in hearings of the Senate committee's inquiry into war profits.

The hardware dealer testified that early last month a representative of Mr. Fields called his firm and asked whether it was interested in buying 539 rolls of bronze screening. The reply was "yes," and Mr. May inspected the screening in an Army depot at Richmond, Va., he added.

Mr. May said that arrangements were made to buy it, but that the deal was canceled when the firm was informed that the check should be made out to Mr. Fields rather than to the War Assets Administration.

Also, he said, Mr. Fields insisted on payment before delivery.

Mr. May told reporters after the hearing that Mr. Fields' price was $8,085 plus $1,617 as his commission.

Representative Clifford Davis, Democrat, of Tennessee and Ross Rizley, Republican, of Oklahoma announced plans to inquire further into such sales, saying they had reports that screening and other materials supposedly frozen for veterans' housing were being sold to brokers.

Mr. May said he was told at Richmond that the screening was not for sale, having been reserved for veteran's housing. However, he added, he was permitted to examine it because a man with him had had "the number of the Government release order."

Mr. May identified this man as Robert Cummings, whom he described as an agent for Gerald Stack. He said that Mr. Stack was apparently an associate or employe of Mr. Fields.

Mr. Cummings told him, Mr. May said, that Mr. Stack's office had received a tip that the surplus equipment at Richmond was available for sale. Mr. May told Representative Rizley, a member of the committee, that he never learned the identity of the tipster.

Big War Scandals Are Predicted

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Representative Ellsworth (R., Ore.) predicted today in a statement that if Republicans win control of the House or Senate, or both, in this year's elections, war scandals will be divulged that will shake the Capital to its "very foundations."

He said the present inquiry by the Senate War Investigating Committee into the affairs of Henry M. Garsson and his associates in a munitions combine "is actually just a dress rehearsal for what is to come."

"Even if the political control of the Congress does not change, further scandals will be revealed," Ellsworth said. "However, if the Republicans obtain control of either the House or Senate, or both, the May affair and even the famous Teapot Dome scandal will have about the same relative rating in comparison to future revelations as a firecracker would to an atomic bomb."

UNRRA Expected To Terminat In First Quarter Of Next Year

Washington, July 27 (AP)—The United States, Canada and Britain were reported by diplomatic informants today to have agreed to stand by their decision for ending the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration completely after the first quarter of 1947.

The decision, which in effect reaffirms policies of the nations from which UNRRA draws its chief support, was made informally through conversations among William L. Clayton, United States Assistant Secretary of State; Ambassador Lester B. Pearson, of Canada and Roger Makins, member of the British Embassy staff.

This Government has been determined for months to stop asking UNRRA funds from Congress, which supplies 72 per cent of the agency's total. Future relief operations probably will be handled on a national basis, with the United Nations to take over such activities as handling of displaced persons in Europe, reconstruction in bankrupt areas and health problems.

Belief that the emergency relief problem involved in food shortages is approaching an end was expressed last night by Clayton to spokesmen for seventeen national organizations interested in famine relief.

Clayton said improved harvests on every continent have made extension of UNRRA beyond next year unnecessary.

Senate O.K.'s Beightler

Washington, July 27 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the House today a bill authorizing the appointment of Robert S. Beightler, wartime commander of the 37th National Guard Division, to the rank of brigadier general in the regular Army.

Army Medical Branch Praised By Eisenhower

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower praised the Army Medical Department on its 171st anniversary today as "one of the greatest of the factors that produced the morale to defeat the Axis."

He said "unbounded appreciation and admiration" were given by combat soldiers to medics who went under fire bearing only stretchers and first aid kits. And in an address at anniversary exercises in the Army Medical Center, Eisenhower added:

"These sentiments were best expressed by the unanimous insistence of our front line regiments that their medical detachments be awarded a battle badge equivalent in its implications to the one that decorated the combat infantry.

"A greater military accolade than this, no department, no service, no unit could receive."

Krug Reveals Broad Plan to Develop Alaska

New Industry, Agriculture To Be Sought; Secretary to Visit Area in August

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).—An "aggressive and comprehensive program" for development of the "vast economic potentialities of Alaska" is being drafted by the Department of the Interior, Secretary J. A. Krug sad today.

The program was designed to encourage new business, industry and agriculture in the territory "to support many times its present population of approximately 80,000," Mr. Krug said in a statement.

Accompanied by key officials of the department's agencies concerned with Alaskan affairs, Mr. Krug will begin an inspection trip in the region Aug. 11. During his ten days in Alaska, Mr. Krug said, he will discuss with local business, government and labor leaders the following points:

1. A program of complete and reliable information relative to Alaska's position and prospects; early settlement of questions concerning the availability of public lands, and a campaign to induce business interests to invest capital in the territory.

2. Making the territorial government a full partner in putting that program into effect, with a greater measure of self-government.

3. Industrial development with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation establishing an office in Alaska to make small-business loans; expansion of road construction, rehabilitation of the Alaska Railroad, and construction of more power projects.

4. Development of the tourist industry by making public land available along the Alaska Highway and encouragement of private investment in the tourist industry such as adequate hotel facilities at Mount McKinley National Park and at Glacier Bay.

5. Agricultural development through a farming program with the Department of Agriculture to work out the establishment of an Alaskan Research Administration to advise on the forms of agricultural endeavor, the size of farms and marketing conditions.

6. A public-works program for expansion of schools, hospitals, water systems, sewage-disposal systems and small-boat harbors.

7. Improvement of the government's administrative services.

The appointment, recommended by Dr. John R. Steelman, Reconversion Director, does not require Senate confirmation. It is non-salaried. Mr. Nelson now is president of the Independent Motion Picture Producers Association.

The President will await Mr. Nelson's recommendations before deciding whether to ask for legislation proposed by the armed services. This legislation would transfer government-owned plants and tools from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the War and Navy Departments without compensation. It also would authorize both services to lease plants to private parties under special terms.

The survey will determine, the White House said, which government-owned plants can be kept in readiness for use by the armed services and which can be sold or leased to private industry.

Taft Ridicules Truman Economy

Roanoke, Va., July 27 (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) told Virginia Republicans today that President Truman's "attempt to pose as a champion against inflation can only be insincere when we see the Government supporting wage and salary increases in every field and every expenditure of public money which anyone has suggested."

"It is ridiculous for the President to talk about beginning a policy of economy when, following his recommendations made under PAC pressure, we face a deficit of $10,000,000,000 during this fiscal year," the Republican Senator said.

"The real cause of inflation is Government spending and general increases in wages and other costs encouraged by the President."

Taft appeared as the guest speaker at a State Republican convention called to name a candidate for the unexpired term of the late United States Senator Carter Glass.

Truman Names Nelson To Study War-Plant Plan

Proposal to Keep Some in Readiness To Be Surveyed

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).—President Truman today named Donald M. Nelson, former War Production Board chairman, to make a study of a proposed $3,500,000,000 Army-Navy plan to keep some war plants in readiness for operation.

Capt. Joy B. Hancock New Head Of WAVES

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Capt. Joy B. Hancock, of Wildwood, N.J., yesterday became the third director of the Women's Reserve of the Navy.

She received her commission as captain and director of the WAVES from Vice Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of navy personnel, at a ceremony attended by high ranking navy officers.

Captain Hancock succeeds Capt. Jean T. Palmer, of Omaha, Neb., who will join the staff of Barnard College, New York, after her release from active duty. Captain Palmer had succeeded Capt. Mildred McAfee Horton when the latter retired to inactive duty.

ARMY TRIALS PLAN GAINS

Royall Party Backs Enlisted Men on Courts-Martial

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—The unofficial Army and Navy Bulletin reported today that the War Departmenth as given qualified approval to a proposal that enlisted men be permitted to serve on courts-martial. It was made by the Doolittle board which investigated relations between officers and men.

The Bulletin said that a House Military Affairs subcommittee, which has been studying the administration of military justice, recommended that enlisted men serve and that Kenneth C. Royall, Under-Secretary of War, advised that the War Department had no objection provided it was convinced that the public and the enlisted men themselves desired the change.

Mr. Royall, the publication said, rejected another proposal that the Judge Advocate General's department be separated from the Army's administratives ystem, and disapproved several of the sixteen recommendations said to have been put forward by the subcommittee.

FHA Warns Vets Of Speculation

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Housing Commissioner Raymond M. Foley said today that "land speculation is a threat to the veterans emergency housing program."

"Price rises on both homes and building lots have been excessive," Foley said, and appended a particular warning to veterans against "the dangerous speculation of buying lots in unproved raw-land subdivisions."

Advising veterans "don't buy blindly," he suggested they keep in mind that the FHA "does not accept purely speculative land values, nor does it insure the financing of homes built on tracts of land which are not adequately provided with utilities and facilities necessary for a livable community."

Long-Range Plan Assailed

Meanwhile, Arthur B. Binns, president of the National Home and Property Owners Foundation, contended today that the Administration's proposed long-range housing program would "drain valuable labor and material" from veterans' housing.

Urging the House Banking Committee to defeat legislation for the program, he said, "this bill is the delegation to the Federal bureaucrat of permanent control of shelter."

"To drain available labor and material now from individual veterans' housing under way into huge rehabilitation projects and welfare housing would delay available housing for veterans," he added.

Leaders Pessimistic

The Banking Committee reopened hearings on the bill under urging from President Truman that it act before adjournment. House leaders said, however, that they saw little chance of getting the measure through.

The bill, sponsored by Senators Wagner (D., N.Y.), Ellender (D., Ala.) and Taft (R., Ohio), has passed the Senate.

It is aimed at promoting construction of 15,000,000 new dwelling units in the next ten years through an increased public housing program and an expansion of FHA mortgage insurance.

The measure also provides for Federal loans to help cities rehabilitate "blighted" and slum areas.

END OF FRICTIONS VITAL TO PEACE, ASSERTS BYRNES

More Compromise May Be Necessary to Avoid War, Warns Secretary.

LEAVES FOR PARIS

3,000 at Airport to Witness Special Departure Ceremonies.

WASHINGTON, July 27—(AP) Secretary of State Byrnes set out today for the peace conference opening Monday in Paris, leaving behind for later broadcast a statement that "the hope of avoiding some new and terrible war" depended on quick removal of frictions left over from the recent conflict.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) drew the assignment to read Byrnes' statement over the NBC network six hours after the secretary left by plane with assurances from President Truman that he has the support of the entire country "in his efforts to get a just peace for the world."

3,000 See Departure

Byrnes left Washington airport in the President's own plane at 12:20 p. m. On hand to see him off in addition to Mr. Truman were the other members of the cabinet, congressional leaders and Chief Justice Vinson. A crowd estimated at 3,000 witnessed the departure ceremonies which Connally opened by hailing Byrnes as a "great ambassador of peace."

Byrnes told the airport crowd he hoped that peace treaties for former German satellite states in Europe would be completed and signed at the end of the 21-nation conference.

Before leaving Byrnes authorized Connally to read his 700-word statement on NBC's "University of the Air" series on American Foreign policy.

In this statement Byrnes called for the earliest withdrawal of Allied occupation troops consistent with world security, settlement of "explosive" boundary disputes, final decisions on reparations—over which the United States is currently engaged in argument with Russia—and maximum progress in providing people everywhere with "more food and houses and clothing."

"Not until these things are accomplished will the people themselves begin to remember how precious peace really is and to make felt their universal determination not to commit atomic suicide," the secretary said.

Quick Action Favored

"It seems to me that the hope of avoiding some new and terrible war depends upon how quickly we can remove the dangerous sources of friction left in the wake of the last war."

Thus far progress in peace-making has been "the product of compromise," Byrnes said and he declared there is "no use to pretend that more compromises will not be necessary if we are to go the rest of the way."

"But the compromises we have reached and those I hope we will reach will be compromises intended to reconcile honest conflicts of opinion and not to secure selfish advantage for ourselves or others."

Byrnes departed on the President's personal plane amid more fanfare than has marked any of his previous six trips to Europe in the year he has been secretary.

Mr. Truman wished him "Godspeed" and told a crowd of onlookers, estimated by police officials at about 3,000, that the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government were all well represented in the ceremonies arranged to start him on his journey.

"If that is not a wholehearted send-off, I have never seen one," the President said, and the crowd applauded.

"That means," Mr. Truman continued "that the country is behind Mr. Byrnes in his efforts to get a just peace for the world, a peace founded on the Atlantic charter, and the charter of the United Nations on which this country squarely stands, now and from this time forward."

30-24-4419

"Good luck, Mr. Byrnes," the chief executive called.

Byrnes said he is "hopeful that we will be able, at the end of the peace conference which meets on Monday, to sign the first peace treaties."

All Work Together

In his speech he emphasized two points:

1. That President and Congress, Republican and Democrat are all working together on questions of international policy and establishment of peace.

2. That the United States will not resume "isolation."

Persons familiar with Byrnes' views know that he has at times been very concerned lest the difficulty of making peace and the compromises which he contends have to be adopted should discourage the American people and bring new isolation sentiment. Today, he told the airport crowd:

"We are all working together not as partisans of any political party, or of any branch of government; we are working together as Americans. We are of one mind that America must never return to isolation. However difficult may be the path of international cooperation, we know there can be no security in isolation."

He added that the American people must be united always on foreign policy issues because "the world cannot rely upon the cooperation of a divided America whose foreign policy is guided by temporary political expediency."

Treaties Only Start

As for the peace treaties themselves, Byrnes said they are "only a start" and that the real peace "must come from the hearts of men and from their willingness to share the blessings of peace with all their neighbors."

Less than 24 hours before, the State department had released a protest to Russia against machinery removals and seizures of industrial production and foodstuffs in Hungary. The proposed peace treaty for Hungary includes a reservation that the United States has the right at the Paris conference to reopen the whole question of Russia's insistence that Hungary pay $300,000,000 of reparations.

BYRNES AND MOLOTOV HEAD FOR NEW CLASH

JUL 26 1946

Secretary Off Today for Paris Peace Talks Amidst Tension Over Soviet Demands on Hungary for Reparations.

Washington, July 27 (A. P.).—A sharp conflict already is shaping up for the Paris peace conference between Secretary of State Byrnes and Russian Foreign Minister Molotov over Soviet reparation demands on Hungary.

The United States is insisting that a new economic deal in Hungary is essential to establishment of a firm peace in Europe. It has protested strongly Red Army seizures of Hungarian foodstuffs and Soviet removals of Hungarian factories as well as current industrial production, contending the result is economic chaos in the Balkan nation.

The protest, made public by the State Department last night, highlights the difficulties confronting Byrnes as he sets out today for Paris and the twenty-one-nation conference, opening on Monday, which will write peace treaties for the former enemy States of Hungary, Italy, Bulgaria, Romania and Finland.

President Truman arranged to see his Secretary of State board his plane at the Washington Airport. There was more than the usual fanfare scheduled for the departure, for the White House said that Byrnes's fellow Cabinet members and Chief Justice Vinson also would join in the send-off.

To Discuss Palestine.

In Byrnes's plane party were Mrs. Byrnes, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Will Clayton, State Department Counselor Ben Cohen, and Byrnes's secretary, Miss Cassie Connor.

Byrnes briefly reviewed some of his Paris projects at a news conference. He said that he planned on Monday to confer with the three American members of a Joint Anglo-American Committee on Palestine. The aim is to fix American policy on the committee's proposal for partitioning Palestine between Jews and Arabs in connection with the plan for immigration of 100,000 Jews.

It was learned from informed persons that the British are ready to accept the principle of the immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews, as urged by Mr. Truman, but feel the project cannot be carried out until after further conferences with Jewish and Arab leaders.

On another aspect of his Paris mission, Byrnes said that he expected American troops to be withdrawn from Italy within ninety days after the Italian peace treaty is signed.

Both Sides to Be Heard.

Byrnes also said that at the aris conference both minority nd majority views can be fully resented. He explained this is ecause procedures are proposed which would prevent any majority in a committee from overriding minority opinion and preventing its presentation to the full conference.

On most major issues, he made clear, the United States is already committed to act with the other great Powers—Russia, Britain and France—as a result of compromise agreements made in the recent Foreign Ministers conferences. However, on issues on which no final commitment has been made the United States will have the right to fight for its own solution. This may mean conflict with Russia on several points of Balkan policy, particularly such matters as free navigation of the Danube.

In the case of Hungary, the treaty worked out by the Foreign Ministers provides for reparations payments of $300,000,000 to Czecho-Slovakia, but the United States has specifically reserved the right to demand a revision of this section. Last night's disclosures of the protest to Russia mad it appear certain that such a demand would be made.

Overtures Rejected.

The State Department released the text of a letter delivered by Ambassador W. Bedell Smith to Molotov last Tuesday. This revealed that over many months the United States has been trying to get Russia to join with this Government and Britain in helping the Hungarian Government achieve economic stability. Russia has repeatedly rejected these overtures.

In a series of strongly worded assertions, Smith told Molotov that Russia's reparations and occupation policies are wrecking Hungary's economy and insisted once more that Molotov instruct his representative on the Allied Control Commission at Budapest to join American and British members in helping stabilize conditions for Hungary's rehabilitation and "its early reintegration with the general economy of Europe."

Acting on instructions from Washington, Smith flatly rejected Russia's arguments that its reparations policies and the activities of its troops were not upsetting the Hungarian economy. He also disavowed any American responsibility for conditions there, citing evidence to show the United States controls relatively very little Hungarian property and is arranging now to restore that looted by the Germans, including $32,000,000 of gold.

Truman and Byrnes Farewells

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).—The completed text of President Truman's informal remarks at the Washington Airport today on the departure of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes for the Paris Peace Conference, and statements by Mr. Byrnes, follow:

Truman's Remarks

Senator Connally, Senator Vandenberg, Secretary Byrnes, the Chief Justice of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and other distinguished guests: We are here to wish Mr. Byrnes godspeed on his trip to this peace conference. The executive branch of the government is represented by the President and the Cabinet. They are all here.

The legislative branch of the government is represented by members of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives; and the courts are represented by the Chief Justice of the United States.

If that is not a wholehearted sendoff, I have never seen one. That means that the country is behind Mr. Byrnes in his efforts to get a just peace for the world, a peace founded on the Atlantic Charter and the Charter of the United Nations on which this country squarely stands, now—and from this time forward.

Good luck, Mr. Byrnes.

Byrnes's Airport Talk

The prepared text of Secretary Byrnes's statement [Mr. Byrnes changed some phrases in the text, but not the substance, and a State Department press official said it stood as his statement]:

I appreciate deeply your gathering here to bid me farewell. I know that your coming here is not a personal tribute to me, but is a token of your desire to give expression to the will of the American people to work together to make and to maintain peace.

The situation is entirely different from that that existed after World War I. Then we were badly divided. This time there is no division between the Executive and the Congress as to the making of peace. This time there is no division between the great political parties as to the making of peace.

In our efforts to make peace, Mr. Truman and I have had as our co-workers Senator Connally and Senator Vandenberg. The maintenance of peace is a prima.. task of the Security Council of the United Nations, and to that position the President has appointed a disinguished Republican, Senator Austin, of Vermont.

We are all working together, not as partisans of any political party, or of any branch of the government; we are working together as Americans. We are of one mind that America must never return to isolation. However difficult may be the paths of international co-operation, we know there can be no security in isolation.

We are deeply conscious that if we as a nation are to exert our influence on the affairs of the world, we must be united. The world cannot rely upon the co-operation of a divided America whose foreign policy is guided by temporary political expediency.

After months of preliminary effort, I am hopeful that we will be able at the end of the Paris conference, which meets on Monday, to sign the first peace treaties.

The signing of peace treaties is only a start, but a very necessary start on the road back to peace. We must always remember that the maintenance of peace is not dependent solely on the language of a treaty or a series of treaties. Peace must come from the hearts of men and from their willingness to share the blessings of peace with all their neighbors.

The effort to make peace live in the hearts of men has only begun. To that effort a united America must dedicate herself for the sake of her own people and for the sake of all mankind.

Byrnes's Radio Statement

The complete text of a statement by Secretary Byrnes, prepared before he left for Paris, to be read in a National Broadcasting Company broadcast tonight by Senator Tom Connally, Democrat of Texas:

Next Monday, at Paris, the twenty-one nations which took an active part in fighting the war against the European Axis will meet to consider treaties of peace with Italy, Finland, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania. The proposed treaties have been drafted by the four principal allied states. But the Paris conference will carefully review the proposed treaties and, after hearing the views of the exenemy states, will make recommendations to the Council of Foreign Ministers. The Council is obligated to take these recommendations into account and not to reject any of them arbitrarily in drawing up at the close of the conference the final texts of the treaties.

I know that there are many people who believe that it would have been much better if the four principal allied states did not go to the conference with agreed texts. But peace treaties that fix boundaries and dispose of colonies and territories cannot be made effective unless they do command the assent of the principal allied states.

If there is no understanding between the principal allies before the peace conference, such understandings must be worked out during the conference.

Twenty-seven years ago, at the Versailles conference, the large and the small states came together without any preliminary understanding between the large states. But the principal issues had to be fought out and decided by the council of the Big Four, and in the end I doubt whether the small states were given as much opportunity to express their views on the concrete peace proposals as will be given the small states at the forthcoming Paris conference. Unfortunately, in a world where national states jealously guard their sovereignty there is no ideal peace-making procedure.

This is my seventh trip to Europe since I became Secretary of State a year ago. The purpose of each of my journeys has been to speed the return of peace.

From more than one journey I returned with a heavy heart. But after months of persistent effort I am convinced that we are on the road back to peace.

No one is more eager than I to move more speedily along the road.

It is important to begin to withdraw occupation troops wherever the security of the world permits it. It is important to settle explosive disputes over boundaries and territory. It is important to fix the reparations bill so that the defeated enemy can begin to pay it off and can see an end to the road. It is important to get on with the business of providing more feed and houses and clothing.

Not until these things are accomplished will the people themselves begin to remember how precious peace really is and to make felt their universal determination not to commit atomic suicide. It seems to me that the hope of avoiding some new and terrible war greatly depends upon how quickly we can remove the dangerous sources of friction left in the wake of the last war.

For example, as long as the rivalry for Trieste between the Yugoslavs and the Italians continues to mount in intensity and bitterness and to undermine the unity among the larger powers, it is hard for every one to remember the basic truth that they must hang together or they will hang separately. Only in calmer days, when men are not blinded by anger and suffering, can they see what a child can see—that their interest in peace is one and indivisible.

These things demonstrate how necessary it is to restore the conditions of peace as quickly as we can. But they do not eliminate the difficulties that slow the process. Making the peace is a labor of compromise. The progress thus far is the product of compromise. There is no use to pretend that more compromises will not be necessary if we are to go the rest of the way. But the compromises we have reached and those I hope we will reach will be compromises intended to reconcile honest conflicts of opinion and not to secure selfish advantage for ourselves or others.

Whenever a great war is decisively won by allied nations, the making of peace involves an adjustment and reconciliation of the conflicting views of the victorious nations as to what the peace should be. We cannot refuse to co-operate just because we cannot write the peace exactly as we would like to write it.

This time we must not only help to make the peace, but we must help to make the peace work. This time we intend to co-operate with the other nations through the United Nations to build and develop peace.

We are determined that the Paris conference shall be the beginning and not the end of our efforts to build the peace.

17 Nations To Sign Treaties

PARIS, July 27—(AP) Top diplomats and a sprinkling of military experts from 21 nations will meet in the sprawling Luxembourg palace at 3 p.m. (9 a.m. EST) Monday to open debate on peace treaties to shape the future of 83,000,000 inhabitants of five former enemy countries.

Convoked by the United States, Russia, Britain, and France, the Paris peace conference offers 17 invited nations the chance to make recommendations—but recommendations only—on pacts with Italy, Romania, Finland, Hungary and Bulgaria.

The treaties already have been drafted by the foreign ministers of the four major powers. Among other details, the pacts would limit the former Axis satellites to armies totalling 495,000 men for all five, and would exact total reparations of more than $1,000,000,000.

Treaties Are Prepared

By comparison with the 1919 Versailles peace parley after World War One, the importance of the Paris conference is limited by two major factors:

1. Treaties already have been prepared, whereas 27 years ago 32 nations participated actively in writing the original pacts. Final treaties will not be concluded here, but by the United States, Russia, Britain and France after this conference.

2. The treaty with Germany—major European adversary of the Allies—has not been prepared and will not be discussed formally by the 1,500 delegates expected to attend. It will be written at a subsequent international conference.

Big 4 Deputies Split on How to Reveal Treaties

Russians Want to Suppress Fact of U. S. Reservation on Draft for Hungary

By The Associated Press

PARIS, July 27.—The Big Four deputy foreign ministers were in "complete disagreement" tonight on policy as to publication of the texts of the proposed peace treaties with former enemy states in Europe.

French sources said that sharply divergent views were expressed this afternoon at the deputies' second meeting of the day after all four had agreed, at a morning session, to release for publication the agreed portions of the Italian treaty before the opening of the general peace conference Monday.

Following this agreement, the deputies met again to decide their policy on the treaties with Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland. The Americans, French sources said, pressed for release of all sections of all treaties both to the press and to the official delegations from the former enemy states.

[The provisions of all of these treaty texts were disclosed by the New York Herald Tribune last Monday in dispatches from its Paris bureau.]

The British wanted to give only the agreed portions to the press and both the agreed and unagreed sections to the delegations. The Russians, the French informants said, were willing to publish nearly all of the agreed and unagreed sections, but demurred at publication of an American reservation on the Hungarian treaty.

This reservation, it was reported, applies to Article 21, which deals with reparations. The Russians wanted this article published without the reservation, thus giving the impression the Americans had agreed to it.

The Americans insisted on publishing the reservation along with the article. The French Deputy Foreign Minister tried to reconcile the various viewpoints, and, failing, the deputies adjourned until tomorrow without a clear decision.

Acting on the agreement concerning the Italian pact, the British Central Information Office distributed the agreed sections for publication at 11 p. m., Greenwich mean time Sunday at Washington London, Paris and Moscow.

Just how the split among the deputies which developed this afternoon would affect the ultimate decision on publication of the Italian text was no clear tonight. In the mean time, the American delegation, which has sought to release all sections of all treaties, was hampered in communications with Washington by sunspots which caused a trans-Atlantic radio jam. A courier with the documents missed the morning plane for the United States.

Bevin Is Sick, Attlee To Go To Paris Peace Conference

London, July 27 (AP) — Ernest Bevin, blunt, outspoken Foreign Minister, fell sick today, and his mild-mannered chief, Prime Minister Attlee, stepped into his shoes as head of the British delegation to the peace conference.

The last-minute shift, giving Attlee the foremost role in a comparatively unfamiliar field of direct across-the-table dealings, was announced by the Foreign Office, which said the hard-working Bevin was "slightly indisposed" and had been ordered to take at least a week's complete rest.

No Indication On Return

There was no immediate indication whether Bevin, who spoke—and spoke plainly—for his country in all preliminary negotiations on the peace treaties for Germany's former satellites—would resume his place after the enforced rest.

Britain, like France, whose delegation is headed by President Georges Bidault, will be represented by the head of the state, while other treaty-drafting Allied nations—the United States and Russia—are sending their Foreign Office heads, James F. Byrnes and V. M. Molotov, respectively.

Attlee, whose chief experience in direct foreign affairs negotiation until now was the Potsdam Conference shortly after his elevation to Prime Minister a year ago, is expected to leave for Paris by plane tomorrow.

Aides To Be The Same

The Foreign Office said his aides would be the same Bevin planned to take—First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, Hector McNeill, Foreign Affairs Under Secretary, and Glenvil Hall, Financial Secretary of the Treasury.

Acting as head of the Government in Attlee's absence will be his chief deputy minister, Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, Bevin's long-time rival for Labor party primacy. Attlee became party head as a compromise between them.

There was no official suggestion, however, that Bevin's withdrawal from the conference role was caused by anything except illness. His foreign policy was overwhelmingly indorsed by the Labor party's recent Bouremouth conference.

Attlee Less Forceful

There is no question that Attlee is a less forceful figure than Bevin long-time trade-union bargainer who has been as outspoken in dealing with diplomats of other countries.

Attlee is as reserved and precise in speech as Bevin is the opposite. His mild manner conceals talent for compromise, illustrated by his making Bevin and fiery Herbert Morrison pull in double harness.

Attlee presumably will take over the discussions Bevin was to hold with Byrnes on the Palestine federation plan, recommended by the Anglo-American committee of experts and accepted by the British as a basis for negotiation.

Bevin Must Rest For Week; Attlee Takes Place At Paris

London, July 27 (AP)—The British Foreign Office announced today that Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin had been ordered by his doctors to take a complete rest of at least a week and that Prime Minister Attlee would take his place at the Paris peace conference.

Bevin is at his home in London. A Foreign Office spokesman said he did not know the nature of the Foreign Secretary's illness and "I don't know whether he knows or not."

Has Had To Rest Before

The spokesman could not say whether Bevin planned to attend the peace conference after the prescribed rest.

Bevin left a year ago today for Potsdam on his first big assignment as Britain's Foreign Secretary to attend the meeting of the chiefs of state of the principal victor powers on control of Germany. Since then he has twice taken several days' rest on doctors' advice.

Attlee headed the British delegation at Potsdam. His comparatively slight first-hand acquaintance with international negotiation since then has been highlighted by his visit to the United States in connection with atomic-energy matters.

Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, will be acting Prime Minister in Attlee's absence.

The text of the Foreign Office announcement:

"The Foreign Secretary has a slight indisposition and has been ordered to take at least a week's rest by doctors.

The Other Delegates

"As Mr. Bevin is unable to go to Paris, the Prime Minister has decided to lead the British delegation to the peace conference which opens on July 29.

"Other members of the British delegation are the Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty; Mr. Glenvil Hall, financial secretary of the Treasury; and Mr. Hector McNeil, parliamentary under secretary of state for foreign affairs.

"During the Prime Minister's absence the Lord President of the Council will act for him."

Sunspots Delay Italy Treaty Text

Paris, July 27 (AP)—Sunspots which caused a trans-Atlantic communications jam handicapped plans today to release for publication a major portion of the proposed Italian treaty simultaneously in Washington, London, Paris and Moscow.

American officials in Paris said they had been unable so far to get through Washington's copy of the text to the United States. A courier with the text missed the morning plane for America.

It had been planned to release the text for publication at 11 P.M., Greenwich Mean Time (6 P.M., E.S.T.) Sunday. American officials said they still hoped to make contact with Washington before then.

The Americans were reported eager to have the texts of all five treaties, with Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland as well as Italy, released at the same time. This proposal was placed before a meeting of the Deputy Foreign Ministers this morning but a decision was delayed at the request of the Russian deputy, who wished first to confer with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, who arrived in Paris this afternoon.

Italian Pact Is Termed Only 'Draft' Of A Treaty

New York, July 27 (AP)—The Times said today in a Paris dispatch that the treaty with Italy, which may be the first topic on the agenda of the Peace Conference opening Monday in Paris, "shows the Big Four Foreign Ministers in agreement on many major points but frankly in disagreement or undecided on others."

The text of the document, the paper continues, "is decidedly a draft rather than a treaty. It is what the Foreign Ministers have finally decided to refer to the Peace Conference for its advice, which they are bound to consider but not specifically bound to follow."

Alternate Proposals

Agreement was reached by the Big Four "in general on Italy's frontiers, but alternate proposals are included, notably by the United States, for the frontiers between Italy and Yugoslavia and between Italy and the free territory of Trieste that is to be created," the Times said.

"They agree on the reparations to be paid by Italy to the Soviet Union but not on what reparations, if any, are to be paid to France, Greece, Yugoslavia, Albania and Ethiopia.

"They agreed on an international regime, but they had not yet agreed on a statute for the government of the Trieste territory and its internationalized port.

"They have agreed to postpone for a year any decision regarding the fate of the Italian colonies in North and East Africa, but the declaration that they are to make regarding the manner of settling this question remains significantly blank in the draft treaty."

Regarding the Italian colonies the Times said the draft "provides that Italy renounces all title to them. But she does not transfer this title to any other power or authority as Germany did after World War I in surrendering her colonies to the Allied powers.

"Title is simply left in suspense while those who conquered the Italian colonies and now occupy them, the British, retain them for at least a year.

On the question of reparations the "Soviet Union gets its $100,000,000, but must stretch it over seven years and forego any drain on current production during two years. Moreover, it must supply raw materials to Italy with which to make goods payable as reparations."

The draft, the dispatch said, calls for the United Nations to act in disputes in Trieste by guaranteeing its international status and even by sharing in its government.

The United States is insisting that a new economic deal in Hungary is essential to establishment of a firm peace in Europe. It has strongly protested Red Army seizures of Hungarian foodstuffs and Soviet removals of Hungarian factories as well as current industrial production, contending the result is economic chaos in the Balkan nation.

The protest, made public by the State Department last night, highlights the difficulties confronting Byrnes as he sets out today for Paris and the 21-nation conference, opening Monday, which will write peace treaties for the former enemy states of Hungary, Italy, Bulgaria, Romania and Finland.

Truman To See Byrnes

President Truman arranged to see his Secretary of State aboard his plane at Washington airport. There was more than the usual fanfare scheduled for the departure, for the White House said Byrnes's fellow Cabinet members and Chief Justice Vinson would also join in the sendoff.

Byrnes briefly reviewed some of his Paris projects at a news conference. He said that he planned to confer on Monday with the three American members of a joint [illegible] an Committ[illegible] Palestine. The aim is to fix [illegible]merican policy on the committee's proposal for partitioning Palestine between Jews and Arabs in connection with the plan for immigration of 100,000 Jews.

Troop Withdrawal

On another aspect of his Paris mission, Byrnes said that he expected American troops to be withdrawn from Italy within 90 days after the Italian peace treaty is signed.

On most major issues, he made clear, the United States is already committed to act with the other great powers—Russia, Britain and France—as a result of compromise agreements made in the recent Foreign Minister conferences. However, on issues on which no final commitment has been made the United States will have the right to fight for its own solution. This may mean conflict with Russia on several points of Balkan policy, particularly such matters as free navigation of the Danube.

Hungary Issue Held Problem For Byrnes At Peace Talks

Washington, July 27 (AP)—A sharp conflict is already shaping up for the Paris Peace Conference between Secretary of State Byrnes and Russian Foreign Minister Molotov over Soviet reparation demands on Hungary.

Poles to Follow Big Four

WARSAW, Poland, July 27 (AP)—A Foreign Ministry spokesman announced last night that Poland would support all Big Four moves at the Paris peace conference aimed at weakening Germany. He said Poland had no further territorial claims against the defeated Germans but desired that all possible safeguards be taken to prevent a resurgence of German militarism and aggression.

POUND VALUE MAY BE KEPT

Rumors Of Change Are Viewed With Skepticism

New York, July 27 (AP)—Persistent rumors here and abroad that the British pound might be revalued in terms of the dollar are viewed with extreme skepticism by responsible international bankers in New York.

Talk that such a move was contemplated by the British Government appeared with increasing frequency in New York, London and other financial centers this week following recent dollar revaluation by Canada and Sweden.

Sterling Buying Subsidies

Havy demand for sterling here, which appeared after United States approval of the British loan, gave impetus to the rumors in some quarters.

Purchases of sterling ran into [illegible]illions of dollars for several days, [illegible]rding to some estimates. This [illegible]nd has largely subsided in the [illegible]ew days.

[illegible]gh Dalton, British Chancellor [illegible]e Exchequer, interpreted this [illegible]of dollars to London as due to [illegible]reater strength of the pound [illegible]ing. Speaking in the House of Commons this week, Dalton said he did not think Government action was necessary to check the movement.

Price Change Not Seen

There has been no indication from official sources in either London or Washington that a chance in the price of sterling was contemplated in the immediate future.

New York bankers said they saw only small indications of speculative buying of sterling by American interests.

Further demand for sterling, according to foreign exchange dealers, came from U.S. concerns, who have factories or other establishments in Britain.

BRITON SUMS UP CASE ON NAZIS

Calls for Retribution and Death of Streicher.

Nuernberg, July 27 (A. P.).—British Prosecutor Sir Hartley W. Shawcross concluded his summation today against twenty-two ranking Nazis on trial on war crimes charges with a plea for retribution to these guilty men.

Winding up his eight-hour speech, which began at yesterday's session of the International Military Tribunal, Sir Hartley named each defendant, from Hermann Goering to the absent Martin Borman and then declared: "These are guilty men."

"On their fate great issues must still depend. This trial must form a milestone in the history of civilization, not only bringing retribution to these guilty men, but also that the ordinary people of the world—and I make no distinction now between friend and foe—are now determined that the individual must transcend the State."

Again and again the British prosecutor hammered home his thesis that a careful campaign of deception, treachery, intimidation, murder and blitzkreig had been planned deliberately by the men in the dock.

Says They Knew Plans.

"Every one of these men knew of these plans at one stage or another," he asserted. "Every one of them acquiesced in this technic, knowing full well what it must represent in terms of human life.

"How can any one of them now say he was not a party to common murder in its most ruthless forms?"

As he ticked off the defendants, one by one, he called the name of Julius Streicher, the Nazi's No. 1 Jew baiter, and demanded his execution.

"It is long since he has forfeited all right to live," Sir Hartley declared.

When he had finished the tribunal adjourned until Monday morning, when it will hear the summation of French prosecutor Charles Dubost, after which the Russian summation will be heard.

Nazis Wince Under Attack

The once-swaggering, confident key men in Hitler's quest for world domination winced under the British prosecutor's biting words—Joachim von Ribbentrop seemed to growl to himself, Hans Frank jerked forward in the dock, Hjalmar Schacht wore a puzzled frown, Admiral Karl Doenitz sat impassive, Goering was listless.

Sir Hartley was the second of [illegible]our Allied prosecutors to state [illegible]case, following the United [illegible]s summary laid out by Justice [illegible]rt H. Jackson, who had charged that Goering and his 21 codefendants were as guilty as Hitler because they "put a loaded gun in his eager hands."

Warsaw, July 27 (AP)—An authoritative Jewish source reported yesterday that ten Jews had been snatched from a passenger train near Lublin by an outlaw band and shot to death.

AUSTRIA PLANS APPEAL TO U. N.

Nation Seeks to Present Case Against Russia.

Vienna, July 27 (A. P.).—Austria's Government, standing definitely against Russia in a nationalization program for Austrian industry, has decided to ask [illegible]e United Nations for help in [illegible]ranteeing the nation's integ[illegible] promised at Potsdam.

[illegible]ment, having unanimous[illegible]roved nationalization of [illegible]one key industries, includ[illegible]me claimed by Russia as [illegible]n reparations, voted last [illegible]to ask the U. N. for permis[illegible] to send a delegation to its [illegible]session to present Austria's [illegible]ustria is not a member [illegible]ited Nations.

Austrian informants said the question at issue was whether the Russians would leave enough of eastern Austria to form a nation, or whether steadily increasing claims would so drain the strength of the country as to make it impossible for Austria to achieve independence and industrial recovery.

Nationalization Approved.

The unanimous vote approving nationalization came three hours after Chancellor Leopold Figl read a note from the Russians which said:

"The German properties in eastern Austria are at the disposal of the Soviet military command, and any infraction of its (the command's) orders and regulations in connection with these properties will be prosecuted vigorously by the same."

Russian claims in the area included the great Zistersdorf oil field, the Danube Shipping Company, and mining, manufacturing and banking companies—thirteen in all. The claims were based on Russia's contention that the industries were German assets subject to seizure under the Potsdam agreement.

Any bill passed by the one-House Austrian Legislature must be approved by the Four-Power Allied Control Council for Austria. If all four Powers disapprove it is null and void. If only one disapproves, the bill becomes law in sixty days.

RUSSIA FREES 2 AUSTRIANS

Legislators Arrested After Firms Were Nationalized

Vienna, July 27 (AP)—Two members of the Peoples party were arrested last night by the Russians while on their way home from the meeting at which Parliament nationalized 81 industries, including some claimed by Russia as reparations, Austrian Government sources said officially today.

The legislators were Hans Kottulinsky and Ferdinance Prirsch, both of Styria.

Austrian Government officials said they had been unable early today to learn why the men were detained and on what charge they said the men were taken to Russian headquarters at Aspern at midnight and held until early morning. They were released without explanation.

Protest To Commander

A Government protest to the Russian commander is planned.

The Parliament stood defiantly against Russia in approving the program of nationalization, for thirteen of the 81 key industries involved are claimed by Russia for reparations. Russia holds the industries, including the Zistersdorf oil fields, were German assets. Austria disputies this contention.

The Government has decided to ask the United Nations for help in guaranteeing Austria's integrity as promised at Potsdam, and decided to ask United Nations permission to send a delegation to the next session of the Assembly to present Austria's case.

Third Violation Charge

The detention of the two legislators is the third Russian violation of Austrian parliamentary immunity, Austrians charged.

They said the Russians still are holding Hans Gruber, member of the Provincial Diet of Lower Austria, arrested two weeks ago on charge of possessing arms. The Socialist party has protested.

The Austrians also have protested the arrest late yesterday of five officials of the Austrian Settlement Company on charges they had disobeyed orders of the Russian commander in Vienna.

Austrian Legislators Arrested By Russians

Vienna, July 27 (AP)—Austrian Government sources announced officially today that two members of the People's party in Parliament were arrested yesterday by the Russians while on their way home from the session which voted nationalization of 81 key industries, including 13 claimed by Russia for reparations.

The legislators, Hans Kottulinsky and Ferdinand Prirsch, both from Styria, were taken to Russian headquarters at Aspern at midnight.

30.24-4421

NIGHT

were held until morning, when they were released, Government spokesmen said.

These spokesmen said the Government had been unable to learn on what charges the deputies were arrested.

Protest Planned

It was learned officially that the Austrian Government planned to deliver a vigorous protest, probably to Col. Gen. L. V. Kurrasov, Soviet commander.

The Austrians charged that this was the third Russian violation of Austrian parliamentary immunity. They pointed out that the Soviets were still holding Hans Gruber, member of the Provincial Diet in lower Austria, who was arrested two weeks ago on a charge of possessing arms. Through Chancellor Figl, the Socialist party has protested Gruber's arrest.

Austria also protested the arrest late yesterday of five officials of the Austrian Settlement Company on charges that they had disobeyed orders of the Russian commander of Vienna. The legality of the Russian arrest order was protested on the grounds that the company's headquarters are in a section supposedly under four-power control.

U.N. Assistance Sought

The Government, standing firm on its policy of nationalization, decided to ask the United Nations for help in guaranteeing the nation's integrity under the Potsdam Agreement.

Parliament voted last night to ask the United Nations for permission to send a delegation to its next session to present Austria's case.

The unanimous vote approving nationalization came three hours after Chancellor Leopold Figl read a note from the Russians which announced the claims.

Beatings At Lichfield Were 'Routine Practice'

Bad Nauheim, Germany, July 27 (AP)—A former guard convicted of beating United States soldier-prisoners at the Army's Lichfield (England) detention camp testified today that such manhandling was a routine practice under officers whose orders were to "beat repeaters to the damned floor."

Pfc. Thomas E. Warren, 23, of Plainview, Texas, was the witness. He related his own part in numerous beatings, including some of which he was acquitted at his own trial.

Especially For Repeaters

He testified at the court-martial of Capt. Joseph A. Robertson, of Toledo, Ohio, who is accused of authorizing cruel punishments as commander of a guard company at Lichfield.

Warren testified that beating with fists and clubs "was continuous, routine practice" in the punishment of repeaters, soldiers who came back to the guardhouse for the second or third time on court-martial charges.

The former guard said that officers "told us the prisoners were no good and not to take anything off them." He added:

"They told us if they were repeaters to beat them to the damned floor. They said if any of them gave us any trouble whatsoever to use our clubs on them, not to dirty our hands."

Robertson Not Named

The witness said the guards were instructed to hide prisoners marked by beatings and to deny any such mistreatment when army inspectors came around.

Warren did not name the defendant, Robertson, as the author of any of these instructions. He said his instructions came from Lieut. Granville Cubage, of Oklahoma City, and Sergt. Judson Smith, of Cumberland, Ky., who are among the two officers and nine enlisted guards already convicted in the trials. Smith was sentenced to three years' imprisonment, Cubage was fined $250 and Warren was fined $100.

Warren said that his English bride was ill at his home in Texas and that he expected to fly to the United States tomorrow.

Funeral Delay Blamed In Army-Jewish Clash

Munich, July 27 (AP)—UNRRA and Jewish displaced persons officials said today that the halting of a funeral by United States Army guards caused the outbreak of violence at the Wolrathausen displaced persons camp Thursday night in which six displaced persons suffered bayonet scratches.

The officials said army officials had given sixteen displaced persons permission to attend the funeral of Isaac Feldberg, killed in an earlier Jewish attack on American troops at Wolfrathausen on Wednesday night.

The guards, relief and displaced persons officials said, had not been informed the sixteen Jews had permission to leave camp and attempted to halt the funeral cortege as it left the gate. Several hundred inmates then rushed the guards, cursing and spitting at them. Troops with bayonets turned back the crowd.

Soviet To Equip Czechoslovakian Army

Moscow, July 27 (AP)—A Soviet-Czechoslovak communiqué made public early today announced an accord by which the Russians will equip the Czechoslovak army on credit terms.

Negotiations were concluded at the end of a week's visit by the Czechoslovak Premier, Klement Gottwald, a Communist.

The communiqué said the negotiations were carried on in a spirit of "hearty friendship and close alliance," and that, among other things, Russia agreed to turn over to the Prague Government a huge German-built chemical plant in Czechoslovakia, and leave German machinery in other Czech factories which Russia might have claimed as reparations under the Potsdam accord.

Russia Reports 'Crooks' Hindering Her Recovery

Trade Minister Warns Those Who Cheat Consumers

MOSCOW, July 27 (AP).—Trade Minister M. Makarov said today that "robbers and crooks" should be cleaned out of Soviet trade enterprises supplying consumer goods.

Writing in the Communist party newspaper "Pravda," he said that circulation of consumer goods was up 51 per cent in the first half of 1946 as compared with the same period of 1945, but that this remained far from satisfactory.

Light industries and textile industries were slow getting started, he said, and the quality of service consumers are getting in retail establishments is not what it should be.

"People who do not deserve confidence and try to gain by cheating consumers and the state," he said, "inflict great damage on Soviet trade."

The end of all rationing in the Soviet Union next year was indicated in Makarov's reference to "the forthcoming cancellation in the autumn of 1946 of all rations for bread, flour and cereals and the cancellation of the ration system for all other goods during 1946 and 1947."

Stalin Orders Navy Day Salvos

LONDON, July 27 (AP)—Premier Stalin, in an order of the day bradcast tonight by the Moscow radio, decreed that twenty-salvo salutes be fired tomorrow from naval artillery units in Leningrad and other Russian port cities in honor of Soviet Navy Day.

Rome Palace U.S. Property

Rome, July 27 (AP)—Plazzo Margherita, one of Rome's most imposing public buildings and seat of the American Embassy, today became the property of the United States Government.

Title to the property was transferred in compensation for surplus war materials valued at $1,250,000, which had previously been delivered to the Italian Government.

Mont Blanc Tunnel Work Starts

MILAN, Italy, July 27 (AP).—An Italian - French - Swiss company has begun work on a railroad tunnel under 15,781-foot-high Mont Blanc. The tunnel which will be more than eight miles long, will start near Entreves, Italy, and end near Chamonix, France. It is to take two years to cut and will cost $11,000,000.

Franco Honors New Yorker

MADRID, July 27 (AP).—Generalissimo Francisco Franco awarded the Grand Cross of the Civil Order of Alfonso the Wise today to Archer M. Huntington of 1 East Eighty-ninth Street, New York City, founder of the Hispanic Society of America.

A decree published in the official Spanish government bulletin said the decoration was awarded to Mr. Huntington for his "merits and position."

Flandin Guilty, Pardoned

Versailles, July 27 (AP)—The High Court of Justice sentenced Pierre Etienne-Flandin, prewar French Premier, to five years of national indignity last night for collaborating with the Nazis during the occupation of France and then pardoned him because of his patriotic actions after resigning from the Vichy Government.

Limited Censorship On Sweden's Missiles

Stockholm, July 27 (AP)—A limited censorship has been imposed on information concerning unidentified missiles—believed to be flying bombs or rockets—which have been sighted over Swedish territory in recent weeks.

Authorities have banned the publication of names of localities where the missiles have been sighted and newspapers have been required to use the dateline "somewhere in Sweden," when writing about the subject.

Bulgaria Sets Vote On Keeping Monarchy

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 25 [AP—Delayed]—Parliament passed a bill today ordering a referendum September 8 on whether Bulgaria will become a republic or remain a monarchy. Another measure also was passed for election of a Grand Constituent Assembly October 27.

All five parties of the Fatherland Front Government and the three opposition parties favor a republic.

Navy Ends The Life Of North Africa Office

Algiers, July 27 (AP)—The three-and-a-half-year chapter of United States Navy activities in North Africa ended today when Capt. Horace Albert, of Annapolis, locked the naval office door.

The United States Naval force organized in North Africa in 1942 has been completely deactivated, all surplus Navy material sold and all requisitioned property returned to its owners. Only a much reduced naval air base and radio station remains at Port Lyautey, French Morocco.

LONDON, JULY 27-(AP)-THE MOSCOW RADIO PRESENTED WHAT IT TERMED A "SUFFICIENTLY CONVINCING DENIAL" LAST NIGHT OF A STATEMENT BY PRESIDENT TRUMAN THAT THE UNITED STATES--ALTHOUGH IT HAD "ROYALLY" ENTERTAINED GUESTS FROM RUSSIA--HAD BEEN UNABLE TO GET AMERICAN VISITORS TRAVEL RIGHTS ANYWHERE IN THE SOVIET UNION.

"X X X FACTS TESTIFY," SAID THE BROADCAST, QUOTING A TASS REPORT, "THAT REPRESENTATIVES OF AMERICAN SCIENCE AND CULTURE, AS WELL AS OF OTHER COUNTRIES, WERE AND ARE GIVEN FULL AND MANY-SIDED OPPORTUNITIES OF ACQUAINTING THEMSELVES WITH THE LIFE OF THE SOVIET UNION AND WITH QUESTIONS OF THE CULTURAL AND ECONOMIC STATE SYSTEM OF THE U.S.S.R. THEY ARE INTERESTED IN.

"THESE FACTS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES, BEING A SUFFICIENTLY CONVINCING DENIAL OF THE ABOVE-MENTIONED ALLEGATIONS MADE BY MR. TRUMAN," THE BROADCAST SAID.

THE COMMENT BY THE SOVIET NEWS AGENCY WAS IN RESPONSE TO A STATEMENT MADE BY PRESIDENT TRUMAN IN A LETTER TO SEN. BREWSTER (R-ME) ON MAY 27 IN WHICH THE PRESIDENT REPLIED TO A SUGGESTION MADE BY PORTLAND, ME., Y.M.C.A. DIRECTORS THAT MUTUAL RELATIONS BETWEEN THE U.S. AND RUSSIA WOULD BE STIMULATED BY EXCHANGES OF VISITS BY AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS AND STUDENTS.

(TRUMAN'S LETTER, RELEASED BY BREWSTER ON JULY 20, SAID: "WE HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO GET EITHER NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS OR PROFESSORS FROM THIS COUNTRY ANY TRAVEL RIGHTS ANYWHERE IN RUSSIA. THE MEMBERS OF OUR EMBASSY STAFF ARE NOT ALLOWED TO GO ANYWHERE WITHOUT BEING ACCOMPANIED.

("WE HAVE HAD RUSSIAN NEWSPAPERMEN AND RUSSIAN PROFESSORS AND A GREAT MANY OTHER PEOPLE OF THAT NATURE OVER HERE, AND HAVE ENTERTAINED THEM ROYALLY, BUT WE NEVER GET A RETURN ENGAGEMENT. WE CAN'T VERY WELL INVADE THE COUNTRY UNLESS THEY WANT US TO.")

TASS, THE BROADCAST DECLARED, WAS "AUTHORIZED TO STATE THAT SUCH ASSERTIONS DO NOT CORRESPOND TO THE FACTS. IT IS SUFFICIENT TO NOTE THAT IN RECENT TIMES ALONE, THE SOVIET UNION HAS BEEN VISITED BY A NUMBER OF AMERICAN PUBLIC FIGURES, PRESS REPRESENTATIVES AND PERSONS PROMINENT IN THE CULTURAL WORLD."

IT NAMED WRITER LILLIAN HELLMAN, JOHN STROM, CHAIRMAN OF THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF AGRICULTURAL PUBLISHERS; EDWIN SMITH, CHAIRMAN OF THE AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP COUNCIL; HENRY WALLACE; SCIENTISTS IRVING LANGMUIR AND HARLOW SHAPLEY AND OTHERS, INCLUDING A DELEGATION OF EDITORS.

THESE PERSONS, THE BROADCAST SAID, "ACCORDING TO THEIR DESIRES, VISITED LENINGRAD, THE CAUCASUS, THE UKRAINE, BYELO RUSSIA AND OTHER DISTRICTS OF THE SOVIET UNION."

MANY OF THESE VISITORS, THE RADIO WENT ON, "NOTED IN THEIR REPORTS IN THE PRESS AND OVER THE RADIO THAT DURING THEIR SOJOURN IN THE U.S.S.R. THEY WERE GIVEN EVERY POSSIBILITY OF FREE INTERCOURSE WITH EVERYBODY THEY WISHED TO MEET, AND UNRESTRICTED MOVEMENT IN THE U.S.S.R."

BY RICHRD A. O'REGAN

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, JULY 27-(AP)-U.S. TROOPS IN BAVARIA WERE REPORTED ALERTED TODAY TO BE WATCHFUL FOR NEW VIOLENCE INVOLVING JEWISH DISPLACED PERSONS AFTER THREE RIOTOUS INCIDENTS IN WHICH ONE JEW WAS KILLED AND 13 PERSONS WERE WOUNDED.

THE FIRST OF THE JEWISH ATTACKS WAS DIRECTED FROM THE DISPLACED PERSONS CAMP AT WOLFRATHAUSEN, 15 MILES SOUTH OF MUNICH, AGAINST GERMAN CIVILIANS WEDNESDAY NIGHT. A JEW WAS KILLED AND SIX GERMAN CIVILIANS WERE WOUNDED BEFORE AMERICAN TROOPS RESTORED ORDER.

THE SECOND AND THIRD OUTBURSTS WERE OFFICIALLY DESCRIGED AS ORGANIZED ATTACKS ON AMERICAN SOLDIERS FRIDAY NIGHT, IN WHICH SEVEN JEWS WERE WOUNDED BY AMERICAN BULLETS AND BAYONETS.

THE U.S. THIRD ARMY ANNOUNCED THAT ONE OF THESE WAS AT WOLFRATHAUSEN, WHERE JEWS "SPIT ON AND SLAPPED UNITED STATES MILITARY POLICE WHO WERE PREPARING TO LEAVE" AFTER QUELLING THE EARLIER RIOT. SIX JEWS WERE WOUNDED BEFORE THE RIOT WAS QUELLED BY TROOPS WITH FIXED BAYONETS.

THE THIRD INCIDENT WAS AT WINDSHEIM, 30 MILES WEST OF NUERNBERG. THERE, THE THIRD ARMY ANNOUNCED, AMERICAN TROOPS FIRED ON A GROUP OF ABOUT 150 JEWS WHO ATTEMPTED TO STORM AN ENLISTED MEN'S BARRACKS AND ONE OF THE JEWS WAS WOUNDED.

THE OFFICIAL REPORT SAID THE WINDSHEIM CASE DEVELOPED "WHEN AN UNARMED SOLDIER IN CHARGE OF AN ENGINEER WATER POINT WAS ATTACKED BY THREE JEWS."

"THE SOLDIER SUCCEEDED IN BEATING OFF HIS ASSAILANTS AND RAN FOR WEAPONS AND HELP," THE REPORT SAID. "HE RETURNED WITH AN OFFICER AND TWO OTHER ENLISTED MEN, ALL ARMED."

AT THE SAME TIME, THE REPORT CONTINUED, "A MOB OF SOME 150 JEWS WAS ADVANCING TOWARD THE BARRACKS BUILDING." #

BY ROMNEY WHEELER

PARIS, JULY 27-(AP)-WELL INFORMED JEWISH SOURCES SAID TODAY THAT THE IMMEDIATE ADMISSION OF 100,000 JEWS TO PALESTINE APPARENTLY WOULD BE THE PRICE FOR ANY JEWISH ACCEPTANCE OF A BRITISH-AMERICAN CABINET COMMITTEE PLAN FOR PARTITION OF THE HOLY LAND.

JEWISH POLICY WILL NOT BE DETERMINED UNTIL THE JEWISH AGENCY EXECUTIVE MEETS IN PARIS MONDAY, BUT THESE SOURCES EXPRESSED BELIEF THE FUTURE OF THE PARTITION PLAN WAS LARGELY CONTINGENT ON A PARALLEL ACCEPTANCE OF THE SPEEDY IMMIGRATION FOR 100,000 REFUGEES FROM EUROPE, AS ORIGINALLY RECOMMENDED BY THE OFFICIAL BRITISH-UNITED STATES COMMITTEE OF INQUIRY LAST APRIL 30.

JEWISH SOURCES DECLINED TO SPECULATE WHETHER THESE REFUGEES COULD BE ACCOMMODATED IN AREAS ALLOTED TO JEWS UNDER THE BRITISH-AMERICAN CABINET COMMITTEE PARTITION SCHEME, A POINT ON WHICH U.S.SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES F.BYRNES WAS SILENT LAST NIGHT WHEN HE DISCLOSED THE PLAN IN WASHINGTON, WITH THE COMMENT THAT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAD APPROVED IT.

(IN LONDON, THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE DECLINED COMMENT ON BYRNES' STATEMENT THAT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAD APPROVED THE PLAN.)

THE PLAN REPORTED BY BYRNES APPEARED TO HAVE NO CONNECTION WITH A PROPOSAL DISCLOSED YESTERDAY BY SOURCES CLOSE TO THE JEWISH AGENCY, WHICH SAID THAT INDEPENDENT TALKS BETWEEN CERTAIN JEWISH AND ARAB LEADERS HAD EVOLVED A PROVISIONAL FOUR-POINT PROGRAM BASED UPON THE CREATION OF SEPARATE JEWISH AND ARAB STATES, EACH UNDER UNITED NATIONS MANDATE.

A21 JUL 28 1946

BYRNES GAVE NO DETAILS OF THE COMMITTEE PLAN, BUT SAID IT WAS PART OF THE DETAILED SET OF PROPOSALS FOR PROJECTED ADMITTANCE OF THE 100,000 JEWS TO PALESTINE.

JEWISH CIRCLES EXPRESSED NEITHER SURPRISE NOR PESSIMISM AT PROMPT DISCLAIMERS FROM THE ARAB AGENCY IN LONDON REGARDING THE REPORTED PARIS PROPOSAL. IT HAD APPARENTLY BEEN EXPECTED THAT THE INITIAL ARAB REACTION WOULD VIOLENTLY OPPOSE ANY SUGGESTION OF PARTITION. IN FACT THERE WAS SOME OPTIMISM THAT THE ARABS MIGHT SWING OVER TO SUPPORT THE IDEA OF COMMUNAL DIVISIONS IF IT APPEARED THAT THIS WOULD LEAD TO A PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT.

JEWISH ANXIETY TO SPEED UP THE IMMIGRATION OF 100,000 REFUGEES APPEARED TO BE A FACTOR THAT IN ITSELF WOULD IMPEL THE JEWS TO ACCEPT THE PARTITION EVEN IF THE SPLIT SHOULD GIVE TERRITORIAL ADVANTAGE TO THE ARABS.

BOTH JEWS AND ARABS MEANWHILE APPEARED LIKELY TO BE FAVORABLY IMPRESSED BY THE OBVIOUS IMPLICATION THAT ACCEPTANCE OF THE PLAN FOR SEPARATE STATES UNDER UNITED NATIONS TRUSTEESHIP WOULD END BRITAIN'S MANDATE, WHICH BOTH GROUPS DISLIKE. WASHINGTON DISPATCHES, HOWEVER, INDICATED THAT CONTINUANCE OF BRITISH RULE WAS CONTEMPLATED UNDER THE BRITISH-AMERICAN PLAN.

JEWISH SOURCES SAID THEY HAD HEARD UNCONFIRMED REPORTS THAT THE PROPOSED BRITISH-AMERICAN PLAN STIPULATED THAT 15 PER CENT OF THE TOTAL LAND SHOULD GO TO THE JEWS, 45 PER CENT TO THE ARABS, AND THE REMAINDER TO SPECIAL AREAS REGARDED AS HOLY SPOTS WHICH WOULD BE INTERNATIONALLY ADMINISTERED.

IN THIS CONNECTION IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THAT THE JEWS WOULD BE WILLING TO MAKE SOME CONCESSIONS TO THE ARABS IN WHICH THE JEWS WOULD RECEIVE SOVEREIGNTY OVER CERTAIN LARGE TRACTS NOW UNINHABITED, OR SPARSELY TENANTED LAND IN RETURN FOR YIELDING OTHER AREAS.

Byrnes Asks Axis Nations Be Given Hearing at Peace Conference Opening Today

JUL 29 1946

STATE DEPT. HEAD ARRIVES IN PARIS TO START PARLEYS

R. W. HEELER

Publication of Text of Treaties with Axis Satellites Held Up.

BRITISH BLOCK MOVE

Conference to Be Held in Luxembourg Palace; Molotov on Scene.

PARIS, July 28—(AP) Secretary of State Byrnes said tonight he would urge that former enemy states, as well as any other interested nations, be given hearings at the 21-nation peace conference convening here tomorrow.

The American secretary, who arrived here today from Washington, said he felt he was bound by the foreign ministers' decision in Moscow last December which limited the peace conference talks to the 21 Allied belligerent nations. Byrnes added, however, he was convinced that no interested state should be refused a hearing.

LEHSIN

While standing by all the agreements he made with his colleagues in the recent Foreign Ministers' Council sessions in Paris, Byrnes said he reserved the right to complete freedom of action in questions on which no agreement was reached.

Treaty Drafts Held Up

Byrnes, found the deputy foreign ministers deadlocked both on treaty details and publication of treaty drafts.

Byrnes went directly into a concerence with British Prime Minister Attlee. While the principal subject under discussion was said to be the Palestine problem, it was understood from an American source that Byrnes also sought to overcome British objections to publication of the texts of the proposed treaties.

One American source said the two ministers had "made some progress" on the question of publication of the treaty texts. He added that a meeting of deputies of the foreign ministers was scheduled for noon tomorrow to continue the discussion of publication.

The source said also he "thought" the treaties might be released for publication in Wednesday morning newspapers.

The deputies argued most of Sunday afternoon on the point. The American and French delegations were understood to be ready to make public any or all parts of each treaty, but the British refused to permit publication of any proposals except those which were accepted by all four powers. The Russians announced they stood for publication of all or of nothing.

The terms of the drafts had been distributed by British sources for probable use at midnight, but publication suddenly was prohibited by order of the Deputy Foreign Ministers Council.

Some Details Known

Most of the terms of the treaties already are known, as the result of unofficial leaks, but there has been no authorization for final publication, which now probably will rest with the full peace conference opening tomorrow. Full texts, meanwhile, will go to the former enemy states involved—Finland, Italy, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary.

Byrnes last week had urged the publication of the treaties in messages to his colleagues, because the terms for the most part already had been made known to some newspaper correspondents. Up to this morning plans had called for simultaneous release in Washington, London, Paris and Moscow.

Byrnes Confers With Grady

Byrnes conferred with Henry F. Grady, State department representative who participated in the recent British-American cabinet committee talks which developed the plan for splitting Palestine into a federation of Arab and Jewish provinces.

The peace conference will convene tomorrow at 4 p. m. (10 a.m., EST) in the former Senate chamber of historic Luxembourg palace, near Paris' Latin Quarter. Perspiring workmen labored against time to finish preparations in the immense paneled chamber.

This conference will deal only with Italy and the German satellite states which waged war against members of the United Nations. It will not touch upon such major problems as the future of Germany in the European family or the control of atomic energy.

The American delegation, including Mr. and Mrs. Byrnes, Assistant Secretary of State Will Clayton and State Department Counsellor Benjamin Cohen, arrived at Orly airfield shortly after 2 p. m. Prime Minister Attlee and leaders of the British delegation arrived at 6 p.m. at Le Bourget field.

Other arrivals included Baron Van Boetzelaer van Costerhout, Netherlands foreign minister; Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations; Dr. Wang Shih-Chieh, Chinese foreign minister, and Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian Minister of External Affairs.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov arrived here yesterday, accompanied by his assistant, Andrei Vyshinsky.

Sees Hope for Peace

Evatt, who motored from Le Havre after a trip aboard the S. S. Argentina, said:

"I am a realist, but I have good hope that this conference will write a lasting peace."

Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King and the entire Canadian delegation arrived in Paris by train at 6:45 p. m.

The American, Russian, British and French foreign ministers have constructed the framework of all five treaties involved, but details remain for discussion.

One of the thorny questions, for instance, will be the matter of freedom of navigation on the Danube, Eastern Europe's great waterway, a point upon which the Western powers are in disagreement with the Soviet Union. Other questions which must be discussed include compensation for Allied nationals for property damage in Italy and the Balkans, and reparations to France, Ethiopia, Yugoslavia and Greece.

It was understood among the delegations here that there was no fundamental difference between Britain and Russia on the Finnish treaty, with regard to border revisions, reparations or the size of future armed forces for Finland.

ATTLEE CONFERS WITH BYRNES ON PALESTINE ISSUES

U. S. Believed to Be Seeking British View on Restoring Order.

NEW HOLY LAND CURBS

British Ban Fraternization of Troops with Jews After Bombing.

PARIS, July 28—(AP) U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes discussed the Palestine problem for an hour and a half with British Prime Minister Attlee tonight, but declined to make any statement concerning the talk.

The meeting took place in Attlee's headquarters in his hotel.

Byrnes, on his return, declined to offer any comment to correspondents who asked him if any recommendations were raised in the talks for solving the Palestine problem.

Informed sources believed Byrnes might have sought the British view on maintenance of order in Palestine and on possible Arab and Jewish reaction to the British-American Cabinet committee plan to divide Palestine into Arab and Jewish provinces under a Federal government.

An authoritative American source reported that Mr. Byrnes had agreed to the meeting at Mr. Attlee's request soon after both arrived for tomorrow's opening of the peace conference. Mr. Byrnes also conferred with Henry F. Grady, State Department representative who participated in the Cabinet Committee's talks that developed the plan for dividing Palestine.

Russia Opposes Danube Rule in Hungarian Pact

A. I. GOLDBERG

Rejects Inclusion of Free Navigation Clause as Affecting Other Nations

PARIS, July 28 (AP). — Freedom of navigation on the Danube was agreed upon by the Foreign Ministers of France, Great Britain and the United States as one of the conditions of the peace treaty with Hungary, it was learned here tonight, but the treaty draft contains a strong protest by Russia against consideration of the Danube question at all in the treaty.

An informed source said the Russian position was stated in a reservation clause in the proposed treaty which is to be submitted to the twenty-one nation European peace conference opening here tomorrow. The reservation clause, the source said, apparently is similar to one contained in the treaty drafts for Bulgaria and Romania.

NIGHT

After a recital of a set of regulations which would open the Danube to free commerce, a British reservation suggests that six months after the treaty is signed a Danubian conference be held to review the success with which the treaty is working.

The Russian position, however, stated in the reservation, is that the interests of Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia should be considered primarily in a solution of Danubian questions. The Russians argued, therefore, against inclusion of Danube questions in the Hungarian, Bulgarian and Romanian pacts.

The Hungarian draft treaty stipulates that Hungary could have an army of no more than 65,000 men. Her air force would have a personnel of 5,000 but would consist of no more than ninety planes, only seventy of which could be of a combat type. The treaty added that none of the planes could be of a bombing type. Six months would be allowed following the signing of the treaty for disbanding any forces in excess of the figure fixed for Hungary.

The draft treaty also called for the payment of $300,000,000 in reparations to Russia, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. The United States, however, added a reservation retaining the right to reopen the question of reparations based on a new study of Hungary's economic situation and its threat to American assets in Hungary or to world economy.

DE GAULLE URGES BRITISH-FRENCH PROTECTION PACT

Sees Need of European Entente to Offset Power of U. S., Russia.

FEARS NEW WAR

Calls for International Zone in Ruhr. Addition of Saar to France.

Paris, July 28 (AP)—Supporters of Gen. Charles de Gaulle said tonight that he was deeply concerned over what he regards as the possibility of a third world war.

So convinced is de Gaulle of this threat of a third world war, his friends said, that since his resignation as France's interim president last January he has been studying the military terrain of Europe.

Bar-le-Duc, France, July 28 (AP). Gen. Charles de Gaulle urged today rapid conclusion of a British-French alliance as the keystone of an eventual bloc of western European nations bound together for self-preservation in a world whose security he pictured as dependent upon the "future relations of America and Russia."

30.24-4427

Using some of the frankest language of his career, de Gaulle portrayed France as dwarfed between two great powers and already able to foresee the possibility of a third world war.

This could come about, the General said, if Germany is given a chance "to find again her greatness in joining her ambition with that of someone else."

Reaction To Russ-German Policy

De Gaulle's speech came on the eve of the European peace conference in Paris, and many observers said they felt it reflected the results of the recent meeting of the four-power Foreign Ministers Council. Russia's announcement of her German policy at that conference spread gloom in France and touched off comment in the Paris press on the possibility of an eventual Russo-German alliance.

"America and Russia—rich in men and resources, compact in territory, naturally protected, one by immense oceans, the other by her own expanse—are, by virtue of their size, drawn into an expansion that cloaks itself under the robes of doctrines, but which is, in the last analysis, an unfurling of power," de Gaulle told a crowd at ceremonies honoring the memory of French civilians slain by the retreating Germans in 1944.

London-Paris Entente Sought

He declared that Europe could provide the "understanding" needed when the destiny of each country and each individual depends upon the "future relations of America and Russia."

"This needed harmony," he said, "implies first an entente between London and Paris. Our country has sought that entente for a long time. . . ."

Because of the atomic bomb, he added that time presses for such a pact, but he admitted there were differences which prevented its conclusion.

The primary difference, de Gaulle said, was Germany, "particularly concerning the Ruhr," and another is "our relations with the eastern Arab states."

He urged acceptance by other powers of France's policy on Germany—international control of the Ruhr and integration into France of the Saar.

"Considering the collapse of Germany and Japan, and the weakening of Europe," de Gaulle declared, "Soviet Russia and the United States of America alone occupy a front-rank place. One might say, the world's presiding spirit, which in modern times has shifted a king of pre-eminence in turn to the Holy Roman Germanic Empire, to Spain, to France, to Britain and to the German Reich, had now decided to divide it in two. By that, a rending factor is substituted in the universe for the equilibrium of the old."

America And Russia

Expanding on his thesis of world domination by America and Russia, he quoted French historian Aexis Tocqueville:

"To obtain its end, America relies on the strength and reason of individuals, Russia concentrates in one man all the power of society. One has for its principal means freedom of action, the other, servitude. Their starting point is different, their roads are varied. But each one of them seems called, by secret design of providence, to hold in his hands one day the destiny of half the world."

De Gaulle reiterated France's intention to oppose a "centralized unified state" for Germany.

For Federalization Of Germany

Asserting that international cooperation was still mired in "quarrels of procedure" and that there were "divisions among gthe victorious powers" whose result no one could foresee, he proposed federalization of Germany.

"Let the diverse and traditional Germanic states . . . regain self-control, administer themselves, orient themselves, each one as it sees fit," de Gaulle suggested.

"Place the immense arsenal of the Ruhr under international authority, not with the object of depriving the German people of what they need, but to distribute among her and neighboring nations the coal necessary to the economic life of all of us. Make the Saar basin part of French economy. . . ."

As Poland's Western Frontier

He urged a western frontier for Poland that would give her "reasonable compensation for her losses in the East," and fixing "on the Oder and the Rhine the security limits of neighboring states of Germany."

Troops should be kept there, he indicated, until the United Nations peace machinery becomes effective.

He saluted as "just and good" United States proposals for placing the atom bomb under international control.

A month ago de Gaulle broke a long silence in telling the nation it should have a more democratic constitution. His foreign-policy speech today strengthened belief the General will "be available" in the fall when France chooses a president of the Fourth Republic.

RUMORS RISE ABOUT BEVIN

JUL 29 1946

Some Say Tired And Sick Foreign Secretary Will Quit

E CREAGH

London, July 28 (AP)—A new crop of rumors that Ernest Bevin might resign sprouted tonight as the harassed British Foreign Secretary lay tired and ill and Prime Minister Attlee took his place at the Paris Peace Conference.

Official indications of such a Cabinet shift were lacking. A Foreign Office source—reporting Bevin was feeling better—said it was "expected" the Foreign Secretary would go to Paris if he had recovered sufficiently after a week's enforced rest.

Hints That He's Fed Up

Some quarters said recent remarks and actions of Bevin, however, suggested that he is fed up with his exposed "target" post in the Cabinet, which he has said frankly he never wanted.

As recently as last Thursday Bevin defended himself in the House of Commons against charges that Britain had "sold out" Austria in giving the South Tyrol to Italy.

Bevin said rather snappishly at that time that the Paris meeting wasn't a real peace conference and expressed weariness at trying to make the Potsdam agreement work through dealing with the Russians.

There have been other indications that Bevin does not relish his much-publicized clashes with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, or the comment they provoke in this country.

Job "Strictly No Picnic"

During the Labor party's recent Bournemouth conference, the 65-year-old Foreign Secretary said his job was strictly no picnic and anybody could have it who wanted it. He looked humorously and meaningly at Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Dalton, booming-voiced himself, but as suave as Bevin is blunt, is understood to have wanted the Foreign Office when the Cabinet was formed a year ago. Bevin had expressed interest in the job that Dalton got.

A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, a political favorite of the Prime Minister and his No. 1 aide at Paris, also is mentioned as a possible successor should Bevin step down.

Health reasons alone, some members of Parliament say, could justify Bevin's resignation. Fourteen-hour days at the Foreign Office have not helped, his friend Philip J. Noel-Baker, Minister of State, said today. However, he said there was no cause for alarm over Bevin's condition. The Secretary is just tired out, Noel-Baker said.

Mrs. Bevin Takes Command

The Labor newspaper Daily Herald said Bevin was being nursed back to health by his wife at their London flat.

"Immediately she learned that her husband had collapsed in the House of Commons Thursday and had to be given oxygen, Mrs. Bevin insisted that he be taken to their own flat instead of one they sometimes use at the Foreign Office," the newspaper said.

It quoted Mrs. Bevin as saying, "my husband is still in bed really too ill even to read, but I think he is improving slowly. The doctor called only once today. He had been calling two or three times."

ZIONIST FEUD FLARES AGAIN

JUL 29 1946

'New' Organization Urges Dissolution Of Jewish Agency

E CREAGH

London, July 28 (AP)—A possible new struggle for supremacy in the Holy Land between divergent Zionist groups loomed today when a spokesman for the "New Zionist Organization" called for the dissolution of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, which he termed a "front" to obstruct realization of Jewish national aims.

At the same time, Dr. Chaim Weizman, president of the dominant World Zionist Organization and head of the Jewish Agency, attacked the British-American cabinet committee's proposal for a federated Palestine as having all the disadvantages and none of the advantages of previous partition plans.

Opposition In Palestine

In Palestine, meanwhile, it was evident that any division of the Holy Land, whether by cantonization, federalization or actual partition, would meet with violent opposition from the majority of Arabs and at least a minority of Jews. However, Jewish leaders were agreed privately that many of the Yishvu (the Jewish Palestine community) would reconcile themselves to "half a loaf."

A. Abrahamson, member of the world executive of the "New Zionist Organization," which broke from the parent group in 1935 in disagreement over demands for a Jewish national state, said in an interview that the British themselves set up the Jewish Agency as a front to obstruct Jewish national aims, and that "by attacking the agency the British have destroyed the only illusion on which they could depend for support."

A British White Paper Wednesday cited evidence which it said linked members of the agency's executive with recent violence in Palestine.

For Jewish Provincial Regime

Abrahamson called for a formation of a Jewish provisional government "with diplomatic status and immunity against high-handed action by the British authorities" in Palestine. He said the position of his group, formed when the world organization refused to make forth right demands for the Jewish national state, was that "the American Government, in our view, was put into an unfair position" in British-American negotiations in the Palestine problem.

He said the American representatives on the cabinet committee "could not investigate the Palestine situation as free agents because the cards were not in their hands, but in the hands of only one side—the British spokesman and representatives."

The negotiators put forward the plan to divide Palestine into Arab and Jewish provinces under a federal government.

Dr. Weizmann's Stand

Abrahamson said that "the general view" of his group is "that it has become clear in the past year the British Government does not intend, if it can help it, to permit immigration of the first 100,000 Jews to Palestine, as unanimously recommended by the (British-American inquiry committee) report." He charged that the British Government is "engaged in creating a number of accomplished facts which might make it appear that implementation of the report is beyond her power and out of her hands."

Dr. Weizmann, whose statement was read at a rally of the Zionist Federation of Great Britain, said "a great deal of harm" had been done by delays in the admission of the 100,000 Jews to Palestine. He attributed the delays to the British Government.

The World Zionist leader criticized the British-American cabinet committee plan for federation as having "all the disadvantages of the Peel scheme without its advantages." The Peel partition plan, adopted by a royal commission headed by Viscount Peel in 1936, was rejected both by Jews and Arabs and abandoned by the British in 1938.

Dr. Weizmann declined detailed comment on the proposal, however, saying he had no official information on it.

"Horrified" By Bombing

The Jewish leader, prevented by an attack of laryngitis from addressing the meeting in person, said he was "shocked and horrified by the unspeakable crime" of dynamiting the King David Hotel, Palestine Government and British military headquarters. The hotel was blown up last Monday in an attack authorities attributed to Jewish terrorists.

"Nothing can excuse so abominable and brutal an act," Dr. Weigmann said. He urged the Jewish community in Palestine to press "utmost efforts" to prevent further outbreaks of terrorism, and pleaded for earliest possible action by the British to settle the problem and release arrested Jewish leaders, who he said were imprisoned "without warrant or reason."

The Archbishop Speaks

In a speech at Bridlington, Dr. Cyrill Foster Garbett, Archbishop of York, said that behind the outbreaks of violence in Palestine was "the most detestable kind of lying."

He blamed "propaganda against Britain," without specifying its source, for making the Jews "look on us not as their friends but as enemies who betrayed them."

among the world's navies."

The broadcast reported observance of the day by practice sea battles and naval landings "at fortified beaches."

Laski On Delegation To Russia

London, July 28 (AP)—A four-member Labor party "friendship delegation," headed by Prof. Harold J. Laski, former party chairman, left by plane today for Moscow by invitation of the Russian Government. The group also has accepted an invitation to visit Warsaw.

British Communist Assails U.S. Atom Tests

Newcastle, England, July 28 (AP). Harry Pollitt, secretary of the British Communist Party, said tonight that the United States had been "going full steam ahead," with the atom bomb in the months preceding the Paris Peace Conference in an effort to intimidate Britain and Russia.

"Let American big business in the person of (Secretary of State James F.) Byrnes and his junior partner (British Foreign Secretary Ernest) Bevin remember," Pollitt said in a speech, "that it is the working class that has the decisive say whether there shall be peace or war. Their answer will be peace."

Stronger Soviet Army Is Urged

London, July 28 (AP)—The Moscow radio today quoted a Soviet Navy Day address by Fleet Admiral Nikolai G. Kuznetzow, in which he declared that the "constant strengthening of our military might is one of the most important tasks of the Soviet society."

The Russian Admiral, in an address in Moscow's huge Dynamo Water Stadium, said "the Soviet Union continues to pay the most serious attention to the perfection of its armed services." He read a brief order of the day by Premier Stalin congratulating the Red Navy on its achievements and ordering its ships to fire a 20-gun salute.

Kuznetzov stressed the need for "proper attention to the training of personnel" in the Navy and declared:

"The interests of our motherland demand of our naval forces their further growth and strengthening, in order that the level of their development shall not lag behind the general level of development of our armed forces and in order that they shall occupy their due place

WELSH DRIVERS PLAN BREAD RATION PROTEST

CARDIFF, Wales, July 28—(AP) Three hundred Welsh bread deliverymen voted today not to collect ration coupons for their deliveries tomorrow, as 1,500 of their Northern Irish colleagues prepared to resume deliveries after refusing to make their rounds for a week in protest against the rationing.

Action taken by the Welsh deliverymen, employes of 40 firms against Britain's week-old bread rationing set-up, was in protest against what they termed the "complexities and inconveniences" of the system.

Officials of the Bread Servers Union of Belfast reported today they were ready to recommend that the deliverymen resume work tomorrow, after announcing an agreement among the men, the Master Bakers association and the Ministry of Food. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

"How can any one of them now say he was not a party to common murder in its most ruthless forms?"

And then:

"Let it be said plainly now that these defendants are charged also as common murderers.

"That charge alone merits imposition of the supreme penalty and a joiner of this crime against peace in the indictment can add nothing to the penalty which may be imposed on these individuals."

As he ticked off the defendants, one by one, he called the name of Julius Streicher, the Nazis' No. 1 Jew baiter, and demanded his execution.

"It is long since he has forfeited all right to live," Sir Hartley declared. Streicher began mumbling to himself.

Basest Crime of All

Of Baldur Von Schirach, Nazi youth leader, Sir Hartley said:

"His perversion of children is perhaps the basest crime of all."

When Sir Hartley described von Ribbentrop as "just a plain murder," the former Nazi foreign minister threw himself forward in the dock and seemed to be growling to himself.

Hans Frank, occupation governor of Poland, nearly lost control of himself in the closing minutes of the session. When Sir Hartley quoted Goethe — "these are the mad scoundrels who did the very things that Goethe had prophesied—Frank leaned over the dock toward the British prosecutor and seemed to be snarling at him. Military police reached from behind and tapped Frank on the shoulder, and he leaned back in his chair again.

Diplomat Franz von Papen also appeared to be objecting when Sir Hartley described him as the man who felt it better "to reign in hell than serve in heaven."

Col. Gen. Alfred Gustav Jodl, Schirach, von Ribbentrop and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel sent lengthy essays to their counsel, and others in the dock sent shorter notes.

Hess, with stomach cramps, and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, with a recurrance of hernia trouble, were not in the dock. Goering devoted much of the session to reading documents and writing notes.

When Sir Hartley had finished the tribunal adjourned until Monday morning, when it will hear the Charles Dubost. The Russian summation of French Prosecutor mation will be heard later.

SHAWCROSS ASKS DEATH OF NAZIS IN 8-HOUR SPEECH

JUL 2? 1946

NUERNBERG, July 28 — (AP) British Prosecuter Sir Hartley W. Shawcross demanded yesterday the death penalty for 22 top Nazis as retribution for turning the world into a cauldron of death, persecution and horror.

Winding up his eight-hour speech, which began at the previous session of the international military tribunal, Sir Hartley named each defendant, from Hermann Goering to the absent Martin Bormann, and then declared:

"These are guilty men."

Wince Under Words

The once swaggering, confident key men in Hitler's quest for world domination winced under the British prosecutor's biting words—Joachim von Ribbentrop seemed to growl to himself, Hans Frank jerked forward in the dock, Hjalmar Schacht wore a puzzled frown, Admiral Karl Doenitz sat impassive, Goering was listless.

Sir Hartley was the second of the four Allied prosecutors to state his case, following the U. S. summary laid out by Justice Robert H. Jackson, who had charged that Goering and his 21 co-defendants were as guilty as Hitler because they "put a loaded gun in his eager hands."

In demanding the death penalty, Sir Hartley declared:

"On their fate great issues must still depend. This trial must form a milestone in the history of civilization, not only bringing retribution to these guilty men, x x x but also that the ordinary people of the world—and I make no distinction now between friend and foe—are now determined that the individual must transcend the state."

Hammers Home Thesis

Again and again the British prosecutor hammered home the thesis That a careful campaign of deception, treachery, intimidation, murder and blitzkrieg had been planned deliberately by the men in the dock.

"Everyone of these men knew of these plans at one stage or another," he asserted. "Everyone of them acquiesced in this technique, knowing full well what it must represent in terms of human life.

CZECHS MOVE GERMANS

PRAGUE, July 28 — (AP) Czech Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk disclosed today that 998,847 Germans have been moved out of Czechoslovakia into Germany since last January. Progress of the systematic expulsion of this minority was revealed as Masaryk departed for the peace conference in Paris.

Czechs Give Food For Aid

Prague, July 28 (AP)—Vaclav Majer, Food Minister, today announced that Czechoslovakia, which is receiving substantial UNRRA aid, had given 100 carloads of potatoes, 400 carloads of fresh vegetables, and 100 carloads of fruit for distribution in other European countries.

LAGUARDIA AND TITO TOUR DEVASTATED AREA

BELGRADE, July 28—(AP) Fiorello H. La Guardia, UNRRA director-general, arrived here this morning after a two-day inspection trip through Yugoslavia during which he met Premier Marshal Tito at Split.

La Guardia accompanied Tito in the marshal's special train from Split to Vrhovine, about 100 miles northwest of the port city in the Lika province mountains. Lika and Bosnia are Yugoslavia's chief deficiency areas.

From Vrhovine, La Guardia and Tito went sightseeing by auto, visiting Korenica, one of Lika's most devastated villages, now being rebuilt and renamed Tito's Korenica.

INCITERS OF POGROMS ARRESTED IN POLAND

WARSAW, July 28. — (AP) Authoritative sources said today that a number of "reactionary provocators" had been arrested in Southern and Southwestern Poland on charges of attempting to incite pogroms similar to the recent anti-semitic disorders at Kielce.

Prompt intervention of security police and militiamen was credited, the sources said, with halting spurious rumors in Czestkchow, Kalisme, Sosnowiec and Kladzo involving Jewish attacks on Polish children.

A young boy's false tale that he had been abducted by Jews led to the Kielce disorders on July 4 in which 41 persons, mostly Jews, were killed.

ORLANDO PREPARED FOR BID TO PARLEY

ROME, July 28 — (AP) Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, last survivor of the "Big Four" of Versailles, may attend the Paris peace conference if Italy is invited to send representatives.

Premier Alcide De Gasperi is ready to take 40 or 50 experts with him to Paris in the event of an invitation.

MORE PROTESTS SEEN IN TRIESTE

TRIESTE, July 28—(AP) Allied observers agreed here today that the opening of the Paris peace conference tomorrow probably would signal new trouble in the Trieste area, sore point in the Italian Yugoslav border controversy.

La Voce Libera, rightist pro-Italian newspaper, yesterday announced an impending protest strike and demonstrations all over Italy coincident with the opening of the conference, and local observers said they expected similar action here.

(A one-hour nation-wide "folded arms" strike is scheduled in Italy from 10 a.m. until noon (3 to 5 a.m. EST) tomorrow to protest the decision of the four-power foreign ministers council to internationalize Trieste and give much of disputed Venezia Giulia to Yugoslavia).

Possibilities of a renewed strike in the Trieste area shipyards, largest in Italy, also appeared to be increasing. The shipyards have been closed intermittently this month due to a combination of strikes and a lockout and are now under control of the Allied Military Government.

Communist spokesmen have charged military government officials with prohibiting workers from holding meetings or circulating their trade newspaper unless it omitted "political matter."

Four 'Freedoms of Air' Are Adopted by Franco

Names 9 Customs Airports for International Planes

MADRID, July 28 (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco has issued a decree implementing so far as Spain is concerned the four "freedoms of the air" agreed upon at the world air conference at Chicago in December, 1944, and has designated nine Spanish customs airports.

[These four freedoms were rights: to fly over a foreign country without stopping; to make non-traffic stops in a foreign country to carry homeland traffic outbound, and to carr homeland traffic inbound. The controversial "fifth freedom," on which agreement was not reached, would permit an airline to pick up traffic in one foreign country and carry it to another foreign country.]

The customs airports designated in the Franco decree were Madrid, Barcelona, Seville, Valencia, Las Palmas, Tenerife, Malaga, Tetuan and Melilla.

Spain, the decree said, by this move is demonstrating its "international solidarity" and reserves only the right to "indicate zones prohibited to aerial navigation in exceptional conditions or areas dangerous to safety of flight."

RUSSIAN HITS U. S. OVER YUGOSLAV BOATS

MOSCOW, July 28 — (AP) A Soviet writer charged today that the United States, while making a zones prohibited to aerial navigatrian government, had refused to turn back to Yugoslavia Danubian fleet captured by the Germans.

R. Moran, writing in the Soviet newspaper Izvestia, said that for two years Yugoslavia had been trying vainly to get back "its own legal property"—a Yugoslav fleet of boats taken by the Germans in their retreat from the Balkans. He said the fleet was in the hands of American authorities in the U. S. occupation zone of Germany.

"While refusing to return the boats to the peoples of Yugoslavia", the writer said, "the Americans at the same time are advertising their generosity and magnanimity in making a 'gift' of Nazi property to the Austrian government".

GANDHI LISTS PLANS FOR INDIAN FREEDOM

BOMBAY, July 28 — (AP) Mohandas K. Gandhi, outlining his conception of Indian independence in today's issue of the newspaper Harijan, said freedom must extend to the whole country, including the Indian princes' states and French and Portuguese territories.

Gandhi said he visualized a republic in every village. He continued:

"Every village has to be self-sustained and capable of managing its affairs, even to the extent of defending itself against the whole world.

"In this structure, composed of innumerable villages, there will be ever widening, never ascending circles. Life will not be a pyramid with an apex sustained by the bottom but an oceanic circle whose center will be individually always ready to perish for the circle of villages, till at last the whole becomes one life composed of individuals."

INDIA PLANS TO PAY SHARE IN WORLD BANK

NEW DELHI, India, July 28.—(AP) India will pay her first installment of $8,000,000 into the world bank in August, but the $32,000,000 November installment will be held up pending reference to the central legislative assembly or, established by that time, to the interim government.

Manu Subedar, member of the committee which the legislative assembly sent to Bretton Woods, said a majority of the committee has recommended the initial payment of two per cent of India's $400,000,000 share in the bank and also has specified conditions for the November payment. The committee's recommendation is tantamount to government action.

British Forbid Fraternizing in Palestine Area

Troops Told Jews Share in Blame for Terrorism and Must Be Punished

DAVIDSON

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, July 28.—A letter attributed to Lieutenant General Sir Evelyn Barker, British commander in Palestine, today banned fraternization by British soldiers with Palestine Jews, on the ground that the Holy Land's Jewish community "cannot be absolved of responsibility of a long series of outrages culminating with" the King David Hotel bombing last Monday.

One source said that the letter, allegedly signed by Barker on July 26, had been posted in all officers' messes. A copy shown to newsmen said that "no British soldier is to have any social intercourse with any Jew and any intercourse in way of duty should be as brief as possible and kept to the business at hand."

It decreed that officers order all ranks to observe an out-of-bounds ruling covering "all Jewish places of entertainment, cafes, restaurants, shops and private dwellings."

The letter continued by saying that "without the support, actual or passive, of the general Jewish public, the terrorist gangs who actually carry out these criminal acts would soon be unearthed, and in this measure the Jews in the country are accomplices and bear a share of the guilt."

"I am determined," the letter went on, "that they shall suffer punishment and be made aware of the contempt and loathing with which we regard their conduct. . . . I repeat that if the Jewish public really wanted to stop these crimes they could do so by active co-operation with us. . . .

"I appreciate that these measures will inflict some hardship on the troops, but I am certain that if my reasons are fully explained to them, they will understand their propriety and will be punishing the Jews in a way the race dislikes . . . by striking at their pockets and showing our contempt for them."

Meanwhile, Jewish storekeepers on Jaffa Street, one of the main Jerusalem arteries, remained in their shops today in defiance of a government security measure aimed at confiscation of the premises and demanded revocation of the order.

The order was promulgated yesterday as the military and police tightened precautions in the wake of a new wave of arrests wnich followed the bombing of the King David Hotel. Some thirty Jewish shopkeepers occupy the Jaffa Street premises, which are near the postoffice, the police administration and the district commissioner's office.

The district commissioner's order instructed the shopkeepers that the government would take over the premises as a step "necessary for maintaining services essential to the life of the community," but the owners replied they would be unable to move their stocks before the deadline—this afternoon—set by the authorities.

Jaffa Street has been under heavy police guard since last September, when the police building was bombed, and has been barricaded with barbed wire since Monday's bombing.

Eight men armed with tommyguns today held up the Cafe Kaplan, unofficial gold exchange for the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv, and took jewelry and gold valued at $20,000 from persons in the cafe. A police statement said the bandits were Jews.

Independent State, Arab Aim

The aim of all Arabs for some time, Azzam Pasha said, has been the establishment of an independent Palestine state. He added, however, the Arab state delegates had not decided what demands they would make when they meet the British officials.

He said he believed the Arab states would refuse to enter round-table discussions with British and Jews on Palestine.

"The Arab states feel that if they cannot reach an agreement with Great Britain on Palestine's future, then the matter should go to the United Nations.

BRITISH TROOPS MAP WITHDRAWAL IN EGYPT

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, July 28—(AP) The commander-in-chief in the Middle East announced today the evacuation of headquarters of British troops in Egypt from Cairo to the Suez Canal zone before the end of September as "the first stage of their withdrawal from Egypt."

General headquarters in the Middle East will make a similar move by the end of this year, the announcement said.

Arabs 'Will Not Permit Partition Of Their Baby'

Alexandria, Egypt, July 28 (AP)—Abdul Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, declared today that the Arabs—like the real mother of the Biblical story of Solomon—will not permit partitions of their baby, Palestine.

Azzam Pasha said that seven Arab states were invited to negotiate with Great Britain after they sought discussions on the ground they were the powers most concerned about Palestine.

Cites Story Of Solomon

"There is no mention of a partition scheme in this invitation to the Arab states," he added.

[Secretary of State Byrnes announced in Washington Friday that the British-American cabinet committee on Palestine had recommended a partition plan. He said the British Government had approved the plan and that the United States was considering it.]

"You know the story of Solomon," Azzam Pasha said.

"He was going to partition a baby between two women claiming to be its mother, but the real mother stopped the partition. That's the Arab position."

Representatives of five of the seven Arab states—Egypt, Syria, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Lebanon—had been invited to negotiate with British delegates to the United Nations.

CHINESE CONFEREES SET UP TRUCE ZONE

PEIPING, July 28 — (AP) The Chinese Communist and government representatives of the truce headquarters in Manchuria accepted today an American proposal to establish a 20-mile-wide no-man's-land in that troubled territory.

Executive headquarters here announced that two cease-fire inspection teams would have jurisdiction over the vacated area, which would be along the Sungari river.

Agreement by the truce representatives at Changchun, Manchurian capital, is not necessarily agreement by the rival armies in the field, and effectiveness of the move remained to be seen.

Commanders of both armies were asked to send officers to confer with the inspection teams.

The American proposal for mutual withdrawals, it was reiterated, was purely to avoid clashes and not to form any basis for eventual division of territory.

RUSSIANS BAR PRESS IN NORTHERN KOREA

SEOUL, Monday, July 29—(AP) Col. Gen. I. M. Chistiakov notified U. S. Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge today that his request for permission for the American press to visit Russian-occupied North Korea cannot be granted because of "the existing quarantine of North Korea and the limitation of movement due to increase in cholera cases in South as well as North Korea."

American newsmen have been barred from Northern Korea since Russian occupation forces took control there. Gen. Christiakov is in command of Russian forces in North Korea.

NANKING FATE CITED IN TRIAL

Professor Tells Of Slaughter When Japs Took City

Tokyo, Monday, July 29 (AP)—An American witness described to the international military tribunal today the raping, looting and murders by Japanese soldiers who captured Nanking in 1937.

Dr. Miner S. Bates, professor of history at the University of Nanking, told the court trying Japan's war leaders that he saw a whole series of shootings without provocation. To his knowledge, he said, at least 12,000 civilians were killed within the city proper.

Cut Down By Machine Guns

There was no resistance to Japanese inside the city after it fell, he added. Large groups of Chinese soldiers surrendered immediately outside Nanking, Bates said, and "there they were cut down by machine guns."

Bates told of many instances of asault and rape by Japanese on both young and aged women and said he personally prevented five cases of rape.

Earlier, G. J. Hsu, of Shanghai, manager of the Oriental Development Company, testified that in May, 1942, Japanese troops robbed and machine gunned 70 Chinese civilians on the Burma-Yunan highway.

"I bent forward just as the firing started," Hsu said. "Men on either side of me were killed and their bodies fell on me."

Hsu testified that the next day he saw the bodies of 1,000 civilians who had been shot or stabbed.

Warships Run by Atomic Energy Forecast by Admiral in 5 Years

H. BARKLEY

ABOARD U.S.S. APPALACHIAN, Bikini, July 28—(AP)—The U. S. Navy's top ship designer said today that warships run by atomic energy might put to sea within five years and their hulls would be toughened to withstand better the power of the a-bomb.

Adm. Edward L. Cochrane, construction chief of the Navy's Bureau of Ships, told a news conference that with changes in design "we can produce vessels very much more resistant to these bombs."

Cochrane's prediction of an early use of atomic energy on warships was made as he assessed the destruction caused by Thursday's underwater bomb, which sank or damaged one-fifth of the target array of 75 ships.

The Japanese battleship Nagato, with part of her main deck nearly awash, was again listed as perhaps mortally stricken. Plans were made to tow her to sea and sink her with gunfire at some undetermined time.

The former flagship of the Japanese fleet listed badly to starboard. Her superstructure tilted crazily to one side.

The target area in Bikini lagoon still was dangerously "hot" with radioactivity, making it impossible to board ships and obtain further details of the atomic havoc.

Cochrane told a news conference he was "highly gratified at the resistance the ships showed." Pointing to the thin-hulled destroyers that came through the ordeal of underwater shock, Cochrane declared dispersion apparently still applies in defense against attack.

"It is notable," he continued, "that our later ships are more resistant to these bombs than older ships.

"It is improbable that extensive and expensive alterations to ships will be attempted until we know the results of these bombs thoroughly and know what is needed."

Some Animals Recovered Alive

ABOARD THE APPALACHIAN, Bikini, Monday, July 29 (AP)—Radioactivity in Bikini Lagoon materially diminished today, but inner target ships were still too "hot" to permit boarding. Safety restrictions remained in effect and the support fleet was still anchored far away.

Some live animals were taken from two transports, both several thousand yards from the target center.

One instrument used to measure waves set up in the ocean by the atomic blast was recovered. Cmdr. Roger Revelle, oceanographer, said it showed the wave height at a point 8,100 feet from the bomb was between ten and fifteen feet. The wave was from five to eight feet high when it hit the beach three miles away.

Although the committee, in its investigation of the Erie Basin case, was primarily concerned with inordinate profits, it views the matter of shell failures and losses of life therefrom as a matter of even greater magnitude than excessive profits," the announcement said.

The committee's statement, pointing up the importance that individual members place on the disclosure in testimony that defective mortar shells killed American troops at the front by premature explosion, was made on the eve of an inquiry into means of plugging "loopholes" in the law forbidding excessive war profits.

Comptroller General Called

The committee asked Lindsay C. Warren, comptroller general, to appear tomorrow morning for a discussion of the powers of the General Accounting Office to police expenditures of the various government departments. The committee has asked the General Accounting Office to look into all phases of contract renegotiation and termination transactions with Erie basin and other companies in the combine.

Senate Group Will Press Probe of Defective Shells

Secrecy Ordered for New Army Report; May Defends Actions.

WASHINGTON, July 28 — (AP) The Senate War Investigating committee today gave a new air of high importance to an inquiry into defective mortar shells.

Clamping strict secrecy of a new Army report concerning mal-functioning of some 4.2-inch chemical explosives, a committee statement advised the public not to pass judgment on any manufacturer. It is going to keep mum pending a thorough-going investigation. It said the picture is confusing.

Because of that, the committee urged that any "condemnation of any individuals or companies, including those associated with the Erie Basin (Erie Basin Metal Products company of Elgin, Ill.) be withheld." The company is one of a munitions combine whose wartime financial dealings are under committee scrutiny.

In announcing the committee's decision to withhold the new report by Major Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, on the mortar shells, Chairman Mead (D.-N. Y.) said that there had been a conflict in testimony as to responsibility for the defects which had "given rise to considerable confusion."

"The determination of the results of these (shell) failures and their causes should not be conducted in any casual fashion, with the possible result that responsibility might be placed upon innocent persons or companies, or that the citizens of the country would be confused on a matter of such importance," the statement said.

The committee also had its hands full with other matters. After Warren's appearance it planned to call witnesses Tuesday for questioning concerning a purported payment of $2,500 to Representative Coffee (D.-Wash.) by a Tacoma, Wash., contractor through Coffee's former secretary, Paul Olson, in 1941.

Probe Garsson Statement

It dispatched investigators to learn more about a statement of Joseph Garsson, former Army captain and son of Murray Garsson, one of the promoters of the Erie Basin munitions combine, that his commanders had sought to shield him from danger. It also was looking into reports that a Detroit firm, unidentified by official sources, had attempted to obtain a war contract by paying a "broker" in Washington for influence—influence that did not result in a contract, despite an alleged payment.

Members were still awaiting an opportunity to question Representative May (D.-Ky.) as to his association with the Garsson interests. May, under committee subpoena, has been unable to appear because of a chronic heart condition, recently aggravated, his physician told the committee last week.

In Chicago Henry B. Garsson, brother of Murray and a promoter of the munitions combine, told a newsman that May, chairman of the House Military Affairs committee, did not profit from the Cumberland Lumber company of Prestonsburg, Ky., one of the firms affiliated with the Garsson interests.

He said that May "to my knowledge got not a nickel out of it (the Cumberland company) for any service performed," adding that although May "never held any office with Cumberland" he did "voluntarily supervise expenditures."

"He handled money and in effect was a fiscal agent," Garsson said.

In a recent appearance before the committee, Garsson refused to waive constitutional immunity and was excused as a witness. His brother, Murray, has declined to leave Havana, Cuba, to testify on the ground that he is physically unable to do so.

MAY SAYS MEAD WANTS TO BE HERO

Charges Senator Is Trying To "Crucify" Him

Prestonsburg, Ky., July 28 (AP)—Representative A. J. May (D., Ky.) has defended his position in the Senate war profits investigation in a letter to constituents, declaring, "I have done no wrong, my conscience is clear, and I will be vindicated in the end."

The letter, addressed "Dear Friend," disclosed by one who received a copy in the Congressman's home town here today, referred to the Senate War Investigating Committee as a "political inquisition."

"Make Himself A Hero"

May, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, charged that the chairman of the investigating committee, Senator Mead (D., N.Y.), "thinks if he can crucify me he can use that to make himself a great hero and overcome his present difficult political position and ride into the office of Governor of New York."

May, who is unopposed for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Seventh Kentucky Congressional District at the August 3 primary, asserted that pertinent testimony he has already given before the Senate committee has not been made known.

Referring to the Cumberland Lumber Company, mentioned frequently in the investigation of a midwest munitions combine, May said he "merely acted as agent for the owner, . . . and neither asked for nor received any compensation or fee for what I did."

Text Is Given

The text of the letter follows:

"Dear Friend:

"Due to the pressure of time in my heavy legislative duties, I am writing this same letter to a number of my friends. . . .

"I am sure you have heard of the smear campaign now being carried on as a result of the political 'inquisition' of what is known as the Mead Committee. All they charge me with is calling by telephone the Under Secretary of War, now Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, and some army officers, urging them to rush production of war materials, at a time when General Eisenhower was pleading for more shells to meet the bloody onslaught of the Belgian bulge.

Cites Patterson's Statement

"In his testimony before the Mead Committee, Secretary Patterson announced as 'deliberate and malicious gossip' the allegations that I had used undue pressure, but that sworn statement by the Secretary of War did not appear in the press, nor have I heard it over the radio. I have called the War Department many times in the interests of friends and constituents —a practice common among all members of Congress.

"Senator Jim Mead is a candidate for Governor of New York, and thinks if he can crucify me he can use that to make himself a great hero and overcome his present difficult political position and ride into the office of Governor of New York.

"As to the Cumberland Lumber Company, which is a land-owning company and had no war contracts, I merely acted as agent for the owner and for the purpose of securing a new enterprise in my district for the employment of men in a rural section who needed work. I neither asked for nor received any compensation or fee for what I did.

Told Them Whole Story

"Although more than a month ago I voluntarily appeared before the Mead Committee and told them the whole story, answered all questions, and was told my statement was satisfactory, they never mentioned that until I demanded they do so.

"For more than a year I have been waging a hard fight to keep the military secrets of the atomic bomb in control of the armed forces to prevent them from being given away to some foreign nation, and this smear campaign is being contributed by the Reds and Pinks that have been after me ever since the battle started. I shall fight on to the end against any such thing.

"I have done no wrong; my conscience is clear, and I will be vindicated in the end.

"Faithfully yours,

(Signed) "A. J. MAY.

SPEEDY APPROVAL FOR PRICE BOARD LIKELY IN SENATE

JUL 29 1946

Confirmation of 3-Man Decontrol Agency Expected Tomorrow.

TO ORGANIZE SOON

Time Needed for Hearings if Food Ceilings Are Reconsidered.

WASHINGTON, July 28 — (AP) Speedy Senate action on President Truman's Price Decontrol board nominations was expected today, to permit early public hearings on whether major food items should remain free of ceilings.

"We are going to have to act at once so the board can get down to work right away on the big job it has ahead of it in the little time it has," said Senator Radcliffe (D-Md), a member of the Senate Banking committee.

Declaring prospects seem "definitely good" for prompt confirmation of the three men named by Mr. Truman, Radcliffe told a reporter he believes the committee will pass on the Chief Executive's selections tomorrow and the Senate will act Tuesday or Wednesday.

Meeting requirements of the OPA revival law, the President yesterday nominated to $12,000-a-year jobs on the new board:

Roy L. Thompson, economics professor and president of the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, to serve as chairman.

George H. Mead, board chairman of the Mead Paper and Pulp company of Dayton, Ohio, and formerly an industry member of the War Labor Board.

Daniel W. Bell, former acting director of the Budget and Undersecretary of the Treausury.

Thompson is a Democrat, Mead a Republican and Bell has said he has no politics.

Praises Choice of Bell

Radcliffe described Bell as "one of the most competent men" Mr. Truman could have named.

He said that while he knew Thompson and Mead "only slightly, everything I have heard about them has been highly complimentary."

Created as the final authority on removal or restoration of price ceilings, the board's first big job will be to decide by Aug. 20 whether controls should be re-established on meats, dairy products, grains, cotton seed and soybeans, along with hundreds of items made from these commodities.

If it fails to act by that time, ceilings automatically will be restored. The board also has sole jurisdiction after Aug. 20 on whether controls should be re-invoked on eggs, poultry, petroleum and tobacco and their products.

Under the law, the board is required to hold open hearings to obtain the views of consumers and industry representatives on whether ceilings should be slapped back on meats, dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soybeans.

Radcliffe said that if Mr. Truman's nominations are confirmed by mid-week, "the board probably will need a week or so to get organized and then should be about ready to begin hearings."

Figuring the hearings will require at least a week, or to about August 14, Radcliffe acknowledged that the board is going to be hard-pressed to evaluate all the evidence and make its decision by Aug. 20.

On eggs, poultry, petroleum and tobacco, the likelihood is there will be no decision until at least Sept. 1 on whether ceilings should be re-invoked.

Except for petroleum, the law provides that the Secretary of Agriculture must rule, ahead of any recontrol decision, whether those items are scarce. If he rules that they are, permission of the board still will be required to re-impose ceilings.

On petroleum, OPA must obtain the consent of the board before controls can be restored.

New Ceilings Set

As appointment of the board took the spotlight, OPA plugged ahead with the big job of recalculating thousands of ceilings under new pricing standards set up under the revival law.

Officials predicted the first of these new and higher maximum prices will be announced this week —on autos and farm machinery.

On new cars, the agency expects the retail cost probably will go up an average of at least $100 for models in lower price brackets. This is $25 more than OPA estimated several weeks ago.

The price increase on more expensive cars "will be even more" than $100, one OPA official told a reporter privately.

Increases on autos and other "reconversion" items, including refrigerators and other household appliances, will result from provisions requiring restoration of dealers' pre-war profit margins, which OPA had reduced.

Upward revision of textile and clothing prices also is high on OPA's calendar, with some officials predicting that garment prices may be increased 15 to 20 per cent.

Meanwhile, OPA had just about cleared its docket of temporary price increases which were pending when controls lapsed July 1.

TRUMAN BATS AT LOW MARK IN CONGRESS

8 Of His Plans Adopted In Full, 8 In Part; 15 Turned Down

Washington, July 28 (AP)—The second session of the Seventy-ninth Congress has given President Truman the legislation he wanted on eight matters, met some but not all of his wishes on eight others, and rebuffed him completely on at least fifteen proposals.

The possibility—but not much likelihood—of some improvement in the President's low batting average on his requests still exists. Some Administration proposals are still officially pending. But with leaders expecting quorum trouble from now until the legislators officially quit, one objecting member could block action until half of a chamber's members showed up on the floor.

The House yesterday adopted a resolution for sine die adjournment next Friday. The Senate is expected to go along.

Requests Fulfilled

The lawmakers fulfilled the President's requests for legislation on:

1. The $3,750,000,000 British loan.
2. Domestic control of atomic energy.
3. Pay raises for Government employé.
4. Disposal of surplus merchant ships.
5. An airport construction program.
6. Continuance of the second War Powers Act, which carries authority for allocating scarce materials.
7. Organization of war surplus disposal under a single head.
8. Revisions of the GI Bill of Rights and veterans' insurance.

Fulfilled In Part

The President got part of what he recommended, in varying degree, on these matters:

1. Continuance of the OPA. Mr. Truman said the bill that finally emerged after a long fight was "far short" of what he wanted.
2. Continuance of the draft. Congress exempted 18-year-olds, against Administration wishes.
3. Provisions for jobs. A commitment for "full employment" was defeated.
4. Congressional pay raises and pensions. Congressmen voted themselves raises of $2,500 plus $2,500 expenses, instead of $10,000 raises proposed by Mr. Truman.
5. Stockpiling of strategical materials. The President said he disliked a "buy American" stipulation.
6. UNRRA funds. The Administration was not pleased with a "free press" provision.
7. Return of the United States Employment Service to the states. Congress set the date for this as November 15; the President wanted to wait until next May.
8. The emergency housing program. The Administration did not get all the subsidy funds it sought.

Proposals Rejected

These Truman proposals were killed, for this session at least—some never reached a vote, others were passed by one chamber but shelved by the other:

1. Unification of the Army and Navy.
2. Universal military training.
3. A higher minimum wage.
4. Permanent establishment of the fair-employment-practice commission.
5. Increased Federal unemployment compensation payments to states.
6. Fact-finding procedure in labor disputes. Congress did provide for this in the Case bill, containing other provisions, which the Presidnet vetoed, but rejected his pleas for fact-finding alone.
7. Compulsory health insurance.
8. Designation of the Speaker of the House to succeed to the presidency when the President and Vice President both die.
9. Repeal of the Johnson Act barring private loans to defaulting foreign governments.
10. The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway.
11. Emergency strike control legislation.
12. Creation of a Senate-House committee to study the labor situation and recommended long-range legislation.
13. Formation of a single agency to co-ordinate scientific research.
14. An addition to the White House.
15. A governmental reorganization plan. Two other reorganization plans, however, were approved.

In addition there was the fight in the Senate Naval Committee over the nomination of Edwin W. Pauley to be Under Secretary of the Navy, which led to withdrawal of Pauley's name.

SHORTAGES SEEN IN WORLD SUPPLY OF FOOD FOR YEAR

WASHINGTON, July 28 — (AP) The Agriculture department forecast today an "uncomfortably low" world food supply in the 1946-47 crop year.

In a report to the President's Emergency Famine committee, the department said crops will be larger than in the 1945-46 year but the increase will be largely offset by a sharp reduction in bread grain and other carry-overs.

The Far East was termed the "darkest spot" in the food picture with many deaths expected before the Fall rice harvest.

Wheat prospects, the report said, point to a crop almost equal to the pre-war average of 5,900,000,000 bushels, compared with last year's 5,200,000,000 bushels. A near-record crop is in prospect, it said, for North America, with increased production in Europe, North Africa and Turkey.

Crops Rise in Europe

In war-wasted Europe, the department reported crops will reach almost 90 per cent of their prewar average, compared to 80 per cent in the 1945-46 year. Though cereals are still scarce, large crops of garden vegetables have increased European food suppplies, the report said.

World crops of rice and rye, the report said, will increase over last year but remain below prewar average levels, leaving wheat as the major commodity for relief in food shortage areas.

The report gave these summaries of prospects for 1946-47:

(1) The world sugar crop will increase over last year, with the United States expected to raise its production one-fourth.

(2) Supplies of fats and oils will continue far below requirements.

(3) World supplies of meats, dairy products and eggs probably will be smaller than in the 1945-46 consumption year due to feed shortages. A record crop of feed grains is in prospect, however, in this country.

Japan Still Lags

In Japan, the report said, food production will expand but fertilizer shortages will keep it below pre-war average. Crops in the Soviet Union were reported considerably above a year ago but also under pre-war levels.

On July 1, the report said, crop conditions in this country were the best on record except for 1942, despite smaller stocks of grain and the prospect of less meat, eggs and dairy products.

The President's committee, named in February, has campaigned to enlist voluntary cooperation of all groups in relieving starvation. It also has advised with the government on administrative actions needed to speed up food exports. It was named by Mr. Truman with Chester C. Davis as chairman and Herbert Hoover as honorary chairman.

Biblical Grains Of Wheat Add 100,000 Bushels For Relief

Cleveland, July 28 (AP)—A handful of wheat grains, sowed to demonstrate a Biblical prophecy, this week will yield 100,000 bushels for world famine relief.

A harvest celebration next Thursday at the Adrian (Mich.) fairgrounds will bring to a climax the demonstration inspired six years ago by the Rev. Clifton J. Robinson, 28-year-old director of the Cleveland Bible College.

In September, 1940, Robinson, then a senior Bible student at the college, was assigned to preach one Sunday at the Tecumseh (Mich.) Friends Church.

"Except A Corn Of Wheat Fall"

His sermon was entitled "The Death Route to Life," and it's text was from the Book of John, 12:24, which reads:

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit."

A Tecumseh miller, Perry Hayden, invited the student minister to his home after the service, and ask how the text might be demonstrated.

"Why not a cubic inch of wheat, tithed and replanted for six years,"? suggested Robinson.

The miller four days later planted a cubic inch of wheat—360 kernels—on a patch of ground, measuring four by eight feet, on ground owned by Henry Ford near his home.

The first harvest was tithed, one tenth going to the church, and Hayden replanted nine-tenths of the crop on a 24-by-60 foot plot on Ford's experimental farm.

Now Covers 2,666 Acres

The third year the crop covered an acre, the fourth, sixteen acres, and last year 230 acres were planted.

This year, 266 farmers in Michigan and Northern Ohio took part in the final planting of the Biblical wheat over 2,666 acres.

It was estimated that the Biblical wheat would cover an area the size of West Virginia by 1949, the United States by 1950 and the world by 1953 if replanting were continued.

The expected 100,000-bushel yield will be distributed for world famine relief through the American Friends Service Committee. Mr. Robinson expects to leave for India as a missionary of the Friends Church soon.

CLARK JOINS COUNCIL

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP) General Mark W. Clark, commanding general of American forces in Austria, was designated by President Truman yesterday as United States high commissioner on the Allied council for Austria.

This council was provided for under the new control agreement signed June 28 by the United States, Great Britain, Russia and France.

The members may be either from military or civilian life. Clark retains his present status in the Army.

REDS, YUGOSLAVS HIT IN SPEECHES

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP) The Russian and Yugoslav governments were sharply criticized by several speakers yesterday in the House.

The series of speeches was touched off by an address of House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts.

He criticized what he termed "religious persecution" in Yugoslavia and said America "must never allow" such action to continue. He said he knows from "absolutely reliable sources" that at least 250 priests have been killed in Yugoslavia.

"America can and must, by firm governmental policies executed by our State department, aid the persecuted Yugoslavs, prevent terrorism within her boundaries, refuse to deal with tyranny," he declared.

Representative Dingell (D-Mich) said the United States ought to give the Yugoslav ambassador to this country "his walking papers."

Representative Cooley (D-NC) commented that "everyone knows Marshall Tito (head of the Yugoslav government) is nothing but a puppet of Premier Stalin of Russia.

Representative Jonkman (R-Mich) said he had received reports that a clerk of the American representative to the Yugoslav government had been imprisoned and tortured for several weeks.

Representative Jones (R-Ohio) suggested that this government recommend to the United Nations that the Yugoslav government be regarded as a threat to world peace.

WAR CRIMES TOLL FIGURED

142,076 American And Filipino Deaths So Classified

JUL 29 1946

Washington, July 28 (AP)—A new estimate that a "staggering total of 142,076 Americans and Filipinos met death as a result of war crimes was reported today by Howard C. Petersen, Assistant Secretary of War. The list still is growing.

All except 11,000 were killed in the Pacific theater. They were victims of murder, cruelty and torture, starvation and neglect, or of other assaults and mistreatment. Included were 91,184 Filipino civilians.

The estimate, based on reports from overseas theater commands and admittedly incomplete, was made by Petersen in predicting that the civil affairs division's war crimes branch would be able, with the completion of many investigations, to speed the trials of atrocity suspects.

Noting there had been some criticism of the war crimes' program because of "its slow start," Petersen said the trials were being conducted as expeditiously as possible, and added:

"It is a basic concept of American justice that the accused be given a fair trial, and to achieve this end we have to make a careful and complete investigation before we bring an accused war criminal to trial."

He said that aside from the desire of bring to justice persons who committed atrocities, it was intended to establish a precedent in international law which would place upon the individual criminal liability for violating the rules of warfare.

A breakdown of the total number of victims showed 23,039 United States armed forces victims, 27,258 members of the Philippine armed forces, 595 United States civilians, and 91,148 Filipino civilian victims. Of the latter, 80,818 were listed as murdered.

The Pacific theater reported 131,028 war-crime victims, the European theater, 10,600; China theater, 701 United States victims; India-Burma, 166, and the Mediterranean, 115. In addition, it was estimated that the Axis was responsible for at least 150 United States victims in Yugoslavia.

Air Forces To Use U.S.-Made V-2 Rockets For Altitude Tests

Washington, July 28 (AP)—Several score giant rockets, including missiles designed to reach substantially greater heights than were attained by the Nazi V-2, are to be built for the Army Air Forces to find out more what it is like in the upper atmosphere, officials disclosed today.

Current plans call for contracts with one or more aircraft manufacturers to construct 100 rockets capable of reaching altitudes ranging upward from less than 20 miles to more than 130 miles. The total cost is estimated at approximately $2,000,000 and some are expected to be ready for firing by the fall of next year.

For Scientific Purposes

These rockets, research officials said, are strictly for the scientific purpose of carrying instruments aloft to collect data on cosmic rays, along with information on such matters as atmospheric pressure and temperatures. They will not be weapons, but are to serve as pioneers for the long-range guided missiles and "space vehicles" which Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, the Air Forces research director, has predicted as likely developments of the next few years.

Congress included funds in the $184,000,000 earmarked for Air Forces research and development in the War Department's current appropriations.

As a next stage in the effort to explore the ionosphere, a whole family of experimental guided missiles with one member capable of reaching 500 miles above the earth with a 500-pound load is a gleam in the eye of Air Forces's researchers.

In the meantime, their studies are being pressed vigorously at currently practicable levels by these measures:

1. Three B-29 bombers are being modified for high-altitude flights in conjunction with the Navy.

2. A V-2, to be fired probably on August 22 at the Army Ordnance Department's White Sands (N.M.) Proving Grounds, will take aloft instruments developed by the Air Forces to be ejected and lowered by parachute. The Army hopes to reach a record altitude of about 90 miles in this attempt.

3. A B-29 "flying laboratory" is gathering data on cosmic rays for the Air Forces and the National Georgraphical Society in a series of flights in Central and South America at altitudes of 35,000 feet

Faster Than Sound

4. Initial tests with actual power and a human pilot are to start soon at Muroc Lake, Cal., with the new XS-1 experimental plane designed to exceed the speed of sound, or 760 miles an hour. The new plane, which already has flown as a glider, also is credited with being able to reach altitudes thus far possible only to the German rockets.

Its research, paralleling that of the Navy and of Army Ordinance, is being pressed under a policy statement asserting that "since the Army Air Forces is given the responsibility for defending the country in the air it must and will provide for the operation of all weapons and all vehicles operating in the air."

AGREEMENT SOUGHT ON TERMINAL PAY

WASHINGTON, July 28. — (AP) A joint committee of senators and House members will attempt to reach a final agreement tomorrow on whether discharged G.I.'s get their pay for accumulated leave in cash or five-year bonds.

Both houses have approved making the payments, and the only question is the method. The House voted for cash. The Senate approved the bond plan at the instance of Treasury and Budget officials, who said it would prevent inflation if the payments were postponed until five years after each veteran's discharge.

Although President Truman is reported to favor the bond pay-off, the plan evoked some grumbling from the House conferees. They point out that the officers, who have been eligible for paid terminal leave all along, got theirs in cash.

Some of the lawmakers fear repercussions at the polls this fall if they put the G.I. payments on the I.O.U. basis.

Meanwhile the House Appropriations committee was reported ready to set up in a deficiency appropriation bill the $2,600,000,000 fund requested by President Truman for the payments.

Veterans would receive two and a half days paid leave for each month of active service from Sept. 8, 1939. The limit would be 120 days, with the accumulative total dropping to 90 days after next Aug. 31.

Amounts of less than $50 would be paid in cash. There would also be cash payment of the "breakage" over multiples of $25 bonds. The bonds would not be transferrable, and would bear 2 1-2 per cent interest.

SHIPS PENETRATE ARCTIC OUTPOSTS

WASHINGTON, July 28, (AP)—A small contingent of Navy and Coast Guard ships has penetrated through Arctic ice fields into the Greenland harbor of Thule, only 950 miles from the North Pole and the farthest north any large ship has reached at this season of the year, the Navy department disclosed today Under command of Captain Richard H. Cruzen, who was second in command to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in his 1939-41 antarctic expedition, three ships broke through the ice fields Monday, July 22, and steamed into Thule, which is on Smith Sound above Baffin Bay.

The contingent was spearheaded by the Navy converted ice-breaker, the U.S.S. Whitewood, commanded by Lieut. Cmdr. William H. Daly, another member of the Byrd expedition. The Coast Guard ice-breaker North Wind and the naval seaplane tender U.S.S. Norton Sound followed in the Whitewood's wake.

As the ice retreats, the ships are scheduled to continue working northward in an effort to amplify existing knowledge of navigational and weather conditions in the Arctic and to provide cold weather routine training for the crews.

The Norton Sound, commanded by Capt. Alan Smith, Jr., carries two patrol planes for reconnaissance over ice fields ahead of the ships. The three ships left Boston early this month. Two small supply ships, the U.S.S, Alcona and the U.S.S, Beltrami, are enroute to join them.

Aboard are scientists and weather technicians. In addition, officers of the Canadian Navy, Army and Air Forces are participating in the cruise.

The ships are scheduled to return to Boston in October.

New York Firm Authorized To Sell U.S. War Surpluses

JUL 29 1946

Washington, July 28 (AP) — The War Assets Administration tonight announced plans to let the Walsh Construction Company, of New York city, a private firm, inventory and sell $286,000,000 worth of war surpluses.

A letter of intent has been signed authorizing the Walsh Company to dispose of construction and ship equipment and other goods at four army and navy depots, including the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The surplus will be sold at the sites—the Bellemeade General Army Depot, Bellemeade, N.J.; Veorheesville Army Subdepot, Schenectady, N.Y.; the Naval Supply Depot at Scotia, Schenectady, N.Y., and the New York Naval Shipyard, Brooklyn.

1,000 Cargo Gliders To Go

The company will be responsible for inspection, cataloguing, advertising, selling and shipping the property.

WAA announced also that 1,000 cargo gliders of the GG-4A type will be sold for $75 each in a sale starting August 15 at the Tobyhanna (Pa.) military reservation.

The gliders, suitable for airline cargo operations, were built by Waco and have a gross weight of 7,500 pounds, empty weight of 4,073 pounds. They are high-winged monoplanes.

Also slated for sales at fixed prices, on August 12 and 19, are 74 surplus liaison and personal type planes.

Planes For Two Sales

Planes available for the two sales include Beechcrafts, Stinsons, Howards, Fairchilds, Wacos, Cessnas, Grummans, Douglases, Lockheeds, and Pipers. Among them are some transports. All may be inspected after August 1, WAA said, and all are in "used condition."

The August 12 sale of 54 planes will be at storage fields in Dos Palos and Ontario, Cal.; Augusta, Ga.; Camden, S.C., and Honolulu, T.H. Priority holders will be eligible in this order: August 12, Federal Government agencies; August 13 through 27, World War II veterans; August 28, RFC for resale to small businesses; August 29, state and local governments, and, thereafter, the general public.

A war plant at Evansville, Ind., designed to build LST landing craft also was offered for sale. The 44-acre site was operated during the war by the Missouri Valley Bridge and Iron Company.

CONTROL BACK ON SYNTHETIC RUBBER USERS

Grain-Alcohol Shortage Requires Renewal Of Limits, CPA Says

Washington, July 28 (AP) — The grain-alcohol shortage forced the Government to restore today the controls over synthetic rubber which were removed just after VJ-Day.

A limitation imposed by the Civilian Production Administration prohibits tire and other manufacturers from accepting any general-purpose synthetic — the so-called "GR-S" — without prior authorization.

The CPA's rubber division will fix the amounts which may be purchased in each quarter from the Office of Rubber Reserve.

Rule For Manufacturers

After August 1 manufacturers may not keep on hand more than a 30-day supply of "GR-S," or a practicable minimum working inventory, whichever is less.

The synthetic industry is capable of producing 1,000,000 tons a year, said W. James Sears, CPA rubber director, but supplies of alcohol are insufficient to keep all plants running.

With rubber manufacturers ready to consume 1,100,000 tons in 1946 and natural rubber supplies expected to total only 260,000 tons, it is necessary to distribute synthetic supplies "as equitably as possible," he explained.

Subsidy Use Suggested By Rubber-Policy Unit

Washington, July 28 (AP)—The Federal interagency policy committee on rubber tonight declared itself in favor of Government subsidies and compulsory use of synthetic as the best way of preserving a synthetic rubber industry for national defense.

The committee noted that these were not yet recommendations for law; that legislation would be premature because the synthetic industry still may prove itself capable of survival "without artificial support."

Competitive Status May Alter

"It is quite possible that cost and quality improvements may be such as to enable synthetic rubber to compete in a free market with natural rubber after the latter is again in ample supply," the committee informed Congress and President Truman in its final report.

The body was appointed last year, under the chairmanship of William L. Batt, to draw up plans which would insure that the rubber-tired American economy would not be dependent primarily upon foreign sources for natural rubber, as it was before the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor in 1941.

Form Of Subsidy Suggested

A "promising" form of subsidy, the committee concluded, would be a bounty paid to the manufacturers of rubber goods for each pound of synthetic used in a product. This would stimulate the quest for new and expanded uses of artificial rubber.

That device, it was held, might be coupled with Government rules fixing minimum amounts of synthetic to be included in any rubber product.

"If it were necessary to make a decision today on the best method of Government support," the report stated, "the majority of the committee would lean toward a combination of both."

Certain flat recommendations, legislative and otherwise, were offered. Indorsed by John R. Steelman, reconversion director, as "highly desirable in the public interest," the major ones were:

1. That research be stimulated; and, to promote private competition in research, that existing agreements to swap information and cross-license patents among companies be ended as soon as practicable.

2. That the Government put its $75,000,000 worth of plants on the market as soon as it appears that private operators will bid for enough of them to create the core of a "strong diversified private industry"—probably by the year end.

3. That Congress "declare as essential to the national security of the United States the maintenance of a synthetic-rubber industry whose production will be continuously used."

4. That Congress create a permanent national rubber supervisory body to stand watch over the Federal support of the industry, the progress of research, the keeping of stockpiles and the recommending of further legislation to carry out the rubber policy.

This permanent body, to be made up of leaders of the Federal agencies concerned and headed by an independent chairman, should be authorized before next June 30, it was stated. On that date expires the Reconversion Act, source of the authority of the present interagency committee.

ATOMIC PLAN IS DEADLOCKED

ommission Member Says Two Reports May Result

NEW YORK, July 28—(AP)—member of the United States de egation to the United Nations A omic Energy commission declare tonight that the commission migh eventually be forced to turn in ma ority and minority reports to th U.N. Security Council and the Ge eral Assembly.

JUL 29 1946

This source, who declined use of his name, said that as the matter stands now it seemed inevitable that the Commission would make the two reports: the majority favoring the United States plan for controlling atomic energy and the minority supporting the Russian proposals.

Russia And Poland As Minority

He said that the split in the Commission likely would be 10 to 2—with Russia and Poland forming the minority.

He added that some report would be made to the Security Council in time for it to go to the General Assembly this fall.

This forecast of the result of the Commission's work came as several delegates prepared to give Russia's plan a sharp scrutiny during the coming week.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate on the Commission, last week stated plainly that Russia would have no part of the main proposals embodied in the atomic control plan submitted by the United States.

To Press For U.S. Plan

After that, the United States delegation made it clear it had no alternative proposal in mind and that it would continue to press for the adoption of the United States plan. An authorized source said then that the delegation did not consider Gromyko's declaration as Russia's final position in the question but regarded it more as an "argument" against the United States proposals.

The United States delegation has decided to let Russia carry the ball for a while in the Commission as it strives to reach a common ground. The Americans and some other delegations will examine the Russian plan in some detail.

The Russian Proposal

Russia has proposed the following:

An international convention outlawing atomic weapons.

Destruction of all atomic weapons, finished or unfinished, within three months after the convention takes effect.

States signing the convention shall within six months after its effective date enact legislation providing for severe punishment of violations of the convention.

The United States delegation is particularly interested in Gromyko's brief proposal on enforcement and punishment. The Americans say they desire to know how Gromyko's proposal can be made really effective.

Some delegates also are interested in knowing whether Russia feels that the only controls necessary are those by individual states as mentioned by Gromyko.

Three Groups Meet This Week

Three groups set up by the Atomic Energy Commission to work on control plans will be in session this week.

The legal advisory committee is scheduled to have a closed meeting at 10 A.M. Tuesday, and the scientific and technical committee will have an informal closed meeting at 11 A.M. Tuesday.

Committee No. 2 will meet at 10 A.M. Wednesday, at which time the delegates are expected to take up their questions on the Russian plan.

This week also the committee named by the United Nations Security Council to consider applications of new members will meet at 10 A.M. Wednesday at the Hunter College headquarters to organize.

Applications are on file from Albania, Outer Mongolia, Trans-Jordan and Afghanistan.

Siam is expected to apply formally soon. Sweden, Iceland and Eire have applications under various stages of consideration, but they have not as yet reached the United Nations.

SEOUL, MONDAY, JULY 29-(AP)-A DEMONSTRATION BY 2,000 PERSONS DESCRIBED BY NATIONAL POLICE DIRECTOR P.O.CHOUGH AS LEFTISTS DELAYED THE SCHEDULED OPENING TODAY OF A TRIAL OF 17 KOREANS ARRESTED ON COUNTERFEITING CHARGES. SOME OF THE 17 ACCUSED ARE COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBERS.

KOREAN MOUNTED AND FOOT POLICE DISPERSED THE CROWD OUTSIDE THE PROVINCIAL COURT HOUSE BY FIRING INTO THE AIR. APPROXIMATELY 25 OF THE DEMONSTRATORS WERE ARRESTED. TWO WERE REPORTED INJURED, NOT SERIOUSLY.

THE CROWD ENTERED THE COURT HOUSE COMPOUND AFTER A MAN WEARING A POLICEMAN'S COAT AND HAT OPENED A WALL GATE. THE CROWD FIRST MILLED AROUND THE CELL HOUSE, DEMANDING RELEASE OF THE PRISONERS; THEN SEVERAL DEMONSTRATORS ENTERED THE COURTROOM ON WHAT OFFICIALS LATER SAID WERE FAKED PASSES. THE TRIAL WAS TO HAVE BEEN OPEN TO THE PUBLIC, BUT PASSES WERE REQUIRED, OFFICIALS SAID, DUE TO INTENSE INTEREST IN THE CASE.

WHILE THE CROWD WAS BEING DISPERSED, CHOUGH AND JUSTICE DEPARTMENT AUTHORITIES SAID THAT THE TRIAL WOULD BE DELAYED INDEFINITELY PENDING RECHECKING OF ALL COURTROOM PASSES.

CHOUGH SAID HE LEARNED THAT THE DEMONSTRATION HAD BEEN PLANNED AT A SECRET MEETING OF LEFTISTS LAST NIGHT.

THE KOREAN COMMUNIST PARTY PETITIONED GENERAL HODGE LAST WEEK DEMANDING A CHANGE OF PROSECUTORS, REINVESTIGATION OF THE CASE, AMERICAN LAWYERS FOR THE ACCUSED COUNTERFEITERS, AND INVITATION OF OUTSTANDING JOURNALISTS SO THAT THE CASE MIGHT BE PUBLICIZED IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES. THE PARTY ALSO ASKED THAT DELEGATES OF THE JOINT U.S.-RUSSIAN COMMISSION ATTEND THE TRIAL.

HODGE SAID THE PART "APPARENTLY HAS A MISTAKEN CONCEPT THAT IT IS INTENDED TO MAKE THE TRIAL OF DEFENDANTS IN THIS LARGE COUNTERFEITING PLOT A TRIAL OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY.

ATOMIC

KWAJALEIN, JULY 28-(AP)-DR.WILLIAM RUBINSON, MANHATTAN DISTRICT RADIO CHEMIST, BELIEVES THERE WOULD BE MUCH LESS DANGER TO SHIPS' PERSONNEL FROM AN UNDERWATER ATOMIC BLAST THAN FROM AN AERIAL BURST.

"I'LL BET THAT ANIMALS NOT KILLED BY THE BLAST WILL SURVIVE RADIOACTIVITY," SAID RUBINSON, WHO WITNESSED THE UNDERWATER EXPLOSION FROM A SHIP AND HAS JUST SEEN THE RESULTS FROM THE AIR.

RUBINSON, A CHICAGOAN, SAID THERE WAS MUCH MORE DANGER FROM THE AERIAL BOMB THAN FROM THE UNDERWATER BOMB BECAUSE THE FORMER CARRIED A TRIPLE-THREAT--BLAST, HEAT AND GAMMA RAYS.

"A SHIP, SAY 750 YARDS AWAY, GETS A BIG UNDERWATER BANG, BUT THE HULL PROTECTS PERSONNEL FROM GAMMA RAYS," HE DECLARED. "MOST OF THE HEAT IS CONVERTED INTO STEAM.

"I DON'T BELIEVE THERE WAS A LETHAL DOSE OF GAMMA RAYS IN FALLING RADIOACTIVE VAPOR. THERE WOULD HAVE BEEN AN UNCOMFORTABLE AMOUNT, BUT IT WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN LETHAL, AND LET'S ASSUME THE SHIP COULD HAVE PULLED OUT UNDER HER OWN POWER.

PERSONNEL COULD HAVE SHOWERED IN CLEAN WATER AND WASHED OFF RADIOACTIVITY," HE ADDED. "WASHING DOWN THE DECKS WOULD HAVE CLEARED THEM OF RADIOACVITY. I'M NOT CERTAIN EVEN THAT WOULD BE NECESSARY AT 750 YARDS."

BIKINI LAGOON, JULY 28-(AP)-A TWO-HOUR TOUR OF BIKINI LAGOON TODAY SHOWED CONTINUING DANGEROUS RADIOACTIVITY ABOARD ALL BUT SEVEN SHIPS IN THE TARGET ARRAY.

AS OUR SMALL BOAT NEARED THE CENTER OF THE TARGET FLEET, THE GEIGER COUNTER RECORDED A SUDDEN INCREASE IN DANGEROUS RAYS. CAPT. GEORGE LYONS, SAFETY OFFICER FROM HUNTINGTON, W.VA., SAID, HOWEVER, THAT A PERSON COULD REMAIN UP TO FIVE HOURS IN THAT AREA.

UNTOUCHABLE HERETOFORE, THE SHIPS ARE EXPECTED TO "COOL OFF" RAPIDLY BUT SEVERAL MORE DAYS MAY ELAPSE BEFORE ALL OF THEM CAN BE BOARDED IN SAFETY.

ON THIS HOUR I SAW NONE OF THE SEVERAL HUNDRED RATS AND 50-ODD HOGS WHICH HAD BEEN PLACED ABOARD TARGETS TO GIVE A CLUE TO THE BIOLOGICAL EFFECTS OF SHOCK AND RADIOTION. BY THE TIME THEY ARE REMOVED, THEY WILL HAVE BEEN EXPOSED FOR A WEEK.

IN THE ABSENCE OF BOARDING PARTIES, THE PRINCIPAL EVIDENCE OF DAMAGE TO SHIPS WAS SIMPLE LISTING.

THE OLD JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO, BESIDES A PRONOUNCED LIST, HAD ONE FREAKISH PROOF OF THE GIGANTIC BLAST FORCE OF THE ATOM BOMB: A THREE-TON BUOY HAD BEEN HURLED ONTO HER DECK AND STUCK THERE AGAINST A BULKHEAD.

SMALL LANDING CRAFT LITTERED THE SAND OF BIKINI ISLAND. TWO HAD BEEN DRIVEN CLEAR TO THE EDGE OF THE PAKMS BUT THE TREES THEMSELVES WERE STILL STANDING AND THERE WAS NO INDICATION THAT THE BOMB-MADE WAVE ROLLED PAST THE BEACH EXCEPT AT A COUPLE OF LOW PLACES.

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN, SUNDAY, JULY 28-(AP)-THE DEADLY, LONG-LASTING EFFECTS OF ATOMIC RAIN MAY EASILY BESEEN ON THE DESTROYER HUGHES AND TRANSPORT FALLON, BEACHED ON ENYU ISLAND A FEW MILES FROM THE TARGET AREA WHERE THE UNDERWATER ATOM BOMB HIT THEM ON THURSDAY.

BOTHARE GHOST SHIPS. NOT ONE HUMAN BEING DARES BOARD THEM, ALTHOUGH IT HAS BEEN THREE DAYS SINCE THE DELUGE THROWN UP BY THE BOMB RAINED DOWN ON THEIR DECKS AND SIDES. SMALL BOATS CAN APPROACH WITHIN 100 FEET, BUT ONLY FOR THREE OR FOUR MINUTES.

THE DESTROYER IS SPLOTCHED, SPATTERED AND STREAKED FROM ITS WATERLINE UP WITH A LIGHT BLUE-GREEN FIRE-EXTINGUISHER CHEMICAL SPRAYED ON PARTS OF THE SHIP STILL "HOT" WITH X-RAYS.

THIS EERIE COLOR DEPICTS THE MAGNITUDE AND AREA OF THE X-RAYS AND PERHAPS ALPHA AND BETA RAYS FROM ATOMIC MATERIALS IN THE WATER THROWN OVER THE DESTROYER.

US OF THE CHEMICAL TO SCREEN RADIOACTIVITY IS SOMETHING NEW. IT IS AN EMERGENCY MEASURE. SALVAGE CREWS WOULD LIKE VERY MUCH TO GET ABOARD TO SEE ATOMIC DAMAGE BEFORE THE VESSEL, LYING IN SHALLOW WATER, BREAKS UP.

ASSOCIATED PRESS SCIENCE REPORTER
ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN,MONDAY,JULY 29-(AP)-WAVES PUSHED UP NEAR THE CENTER OF THE UNDERWATER ATOMIC BOMB EXPLOSION CERTAINLY REACHED 60 FEET AND PROBABLY WENT AS HIGH AS 90 FEET, THE FIRST SCIENTIFIC ESTIMATE INDICATED TODAY.

THE FIGURES WERE GIVEN BY CMDR.ROGER REVELLE OF LA JOLLA, CALIF. HE SAID NO PHOTOGRAPHS HAVE YET SHOWN THESE HIGH CENTER WAVES BECAUSE THEY WERE CONCEALED BY SPRAY.

BUT HE ADDED THAT ACCURATE MEASUREMENTS OF THE RATE AT WHICH THE WAVES DIMINISHED IN SIZE OVER THE LAST TWO AND ONE-HALF MILES OF THEIR COURSE TO BIKINI BEACH SHOWED THAT NEAR THE CENTER THEY MUST HAVE BEEN 60 FEET AND PROBABLY 90.

REVELLE SAID THAT SOMETHING--EITHER BLAST OR WAVES--MOVED THE CARRIER SARATOGA SEVERAL HUNDRED YARDS. THE SAME FORCE MOVED THE JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO SEVERAL HUNDRED YARDS. SCIENTISTS SAID THIS DISPLACEMENT PROBABLY WAS DUE TO BLAST. BOTH SHIPS DRAGGED THEIR ANCHORS WITH THEM, AND BOTH MADE THEIR LONG MOVES IN A FEW SECONDS.

REVELLE SAID WAVES NEAR THE CENTER WERE VERY DAMAGING, BUT NOT SO DAMAGING AS THE ATOMIC BLAST. THE DESTROYER HUGHES, SINCE BEACHED, HAD ITS BULKHEAD PUSHED IN BY A WAVE.

THE NAVL OFFICER ESTIMATED THAT THE WAVE WAS 90 FEET HIGH AS FAR AS 1,500 FEET FROM THE CENTER OF THE EXPLOSION. A MEASURING INSTRUMENT RECORDED 10 TO 15 FEET AT A DISTANCE IF 8,100 FEET.

THE EFFECTS OF RADIOACTIVITY ON FISH LIFE MAY NOT BE APPARENT FOR MONTHS. THE BLAST KILLED ONLY ONE PERCENT OF THE FISH IN THE LAGOON, AND SINCE THEN TWO DEAD FISH HAVE BEEN FOUND THAT MIGHT HAVE DIED FROM RAYS.

SCIENTISTS FEEL SURE THERE IS A HOLE IN THE BOTTOM OF THE LAGOON BELOW THE POINT WHERE THE BOMB WAS DETONATED. THEY THINK THIS HOLE MAY BE 50 FEET DEEP AND 2,000 FEET WIDE.

THE SOFTNESS OF THE BOTTOM, REVELLE SAID, WAS THE REASON WHY NO COLUMN OF WATER SHOT UP THOUSANDS OF FEET A FEW SECONDS AFTER THE FIRST SPOUT APPEARED. THIS SECOND SPOUT HAD BEEN PREDICTED--BUT NO ONE SAW IT.

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN,MONDAY,JULY 29-(AP)-HEADS OF THE JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF EVALUATION BOARD AND OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S CIVILIAN EVALUATION COMMISSION DISAGREED TODAY ON THE WISDOM AND NECESSITY FOR FURTHER ATOMIC BOMB EXPERIMENTS.

JUL 31 1946

SEN.HATCH (D-NM), CHAIRMAN OF THE PRESIDENTIAL COMMISSION, SAID AT A NEWS CONFERENCE THAT HE PERSONALLY SAW NO REASON FOR FUTURE ATOMIC TESTS, WITH THE POSSIBLE EXCEPTION OF THE PROPOSED DEEPWATER BLAST.

DR.KARL T.COMPTON, NOTED PHYSICIST WHO HEADS THE MILITARY'S EVALUATION BOARD, SAID A FEW MINUTES EARLIER THAT HE THOUGHT SUCH "PRACTICE MANEUVERS" WERE INVALUABLE "TO KEEP OUR MILITARY ORGANIZATION GOING."

BOTH SAID THAT NEITHER BOARD HAS REACHED ANY CONCLUSION, AS A GROUP, ABOUT GOING FORWARD WITH THE PROPOSED DEEPWATER EXPLOSION.

BOTH GROUPS WILL FORWARD THEIR PRELIMINARY REPORTS ON THURSDAY'S UNDERWATER EXPLOSION TO WASHINGTON TOMORROW, AND THEN START THEIR RETURN TRIP TO THE UNITED STATES.

THEY DECLINED TO DISCUSS THE REPORTS BEFORE THEIR RELEASE BY THE PRESIDENT AND BY THE JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF, BUT BOTH HATCH AND COMPTON SAID THERE WOULD BE NO CONCLUSIONS NOR RECOMMENDATIONS. THESE MAY BE EMBODIED IN FINAL REPORTS TO BE MADE SEVERAL WEEKS HENCE, AFTER ALL INFORMATION HAS BEEN GATHERED AND STUDIED, THEY EXPLAINED.

COMPTON TERMED THE TESTS "A REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENT IN COOPERATION" BETWEEN THE ARMED FORCES AND SCIENTISTS.

"TO KEEP OUR MILITARY ORGANIZATION GOING," HE SAID, "IT IS ADVANTAGEOUS TO HAVE PRACTICE MANEUVERS SUCH AS WE HAVE WITNESSED. I THINK SOME VALUABLE FEATURES CAME OUT OF THE TESTS.

"NEVER BEFORE HAVE THERE BEEN SUCH TEST MANEUVERS WITH SO MANY DIFFERENT GROUPS COOPERATING SO CLOSELY. THE SPIRIT WAS FINE, AND I HOPE THIS SAME SPIRIT WILL PERVADE THE RELATIONS OF THE ARMY, NAVY, AIR FORCE AND SCIENTISTS IN THE FUTURE."

HATCH OBSERVED THAT HE HAD "NEVER SEEN ANYTHING BETTER" THAN THE COOPERATION BETWEEN MILITARY AND CIVILIAN GROUPEIN THE IKINI TESTS

COOPERATION BETWEEN MILITARY AND CIVILIAN GROUPS IN THE BIKINI TESTS.

THE TRUMAN BOARD, HE SAID, WAS NO CERTAIN WHETHER IT SHOULD REACH DEFINITE CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS, AND THIS POINT WAS TO BE CLEARED UP IN WASHINGTON.

A140FX
COMPTON, REPLYING TO A NEWSMAN'S QUESTION, SAID HIS BOARD HAS GIVEN CONSIDERABLE THOUGHT TO THE QUESTION OF CONDUCTING A DEEPWATER TEST, BUT HAS REACHED NO CONCLUSIONS. HATCH LIKEWISE SAID THE PRESIDENTIAL BOARD HAS REACHED NO DECISION.

HATCH THEN WAS ASKED HOW HE FELT PERSONALLY, AND VOICED HIS OBJECTION TO FURTHER EXPERIMENTS "UNLESS THERE IS A NEED FOR A DEEPWATER TEST, ABOUT WHICH I DO NOT CARE TO MAKE ANY STATEMENT."

THE DECISION WILL BE REACHED IN WASHINGTON LATER. SOME SCIENTISTS CONTEND THAT THE PROPOSED DEEPWATER BLAST WOULD PROVE MORE DAMAGING TO A FLEET THAN THE SHALLOW SUBSURFACE TEST WHICH SANK OR DAMAGED 15 VESSELS.

THIRD NIGHT LEAD ATOMIC

ABOARD USS MT. MCKINLEY, SUNDAY, JULY 28-(AP)-THE CHIEF OF CONSTRUCTION OF THE NAVY BUREAU OF SHIPS ADDED THE CRUISERS PENSACOLA AND SALT LAKE CITY TO THE LIST OF TARGET VESSELS DAMAGED BY THURSDAY'S UNDERWATER ATOMIC BOMB--BUT REMOVED THE BATTLESHIP NEW YORK FROM THE WOUNDED LIST.

ADM. EDWARD COCHRANE ALSO PREDICTED THAT THE JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO, LISTING BADLY, "UNQUESTIONABLY WILL BE LOST."

COCHRANE SAID THE NEW YORK WAS NOT DAMAGED AT ALL. INSTEAD OF BEING DOWN AT THE STERN, AS FREQUENTLY AND OFFICIALLY REPORTED, SHE IS UP AT THE BOW, HE SAID, EXPLAINING THAT SOME WEIGHT WAS REMOVED FROM HER STERN BEFORE THE UNDERWATER TEST.

THE ADMIRAL ALSO DECLARED THAT THE BATTLESHIP NEVADA WAS NOT DAMAGED BY THE UNDERWATER BOMB, SO FAR AS WAS KNOWN. THE NEVADA HAD BEEN ADDED TO THE LIST OF SHIPS APPARENTLY DAMAGED.

THE PENSACOLA AND SALT LAKE CITY, HE SAID, ARE LISTING TO STARBOARD. THE BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIA, HE ADDED, IS ONE FOOT DOWN AT THE STERN.

COCHRANE SUGGESTED THAT ONE OF THE NAVY'S FUTURE MOVES TO MEET ATOMIC WARFARE MIGHT BE TO BUILD MORE LIGHT, FAST SHIPS, RATHER THAN GOING EXTENSIVELY INTO HEAVY CONSTRUCTION.

BIKINI LAGOON WAS STILL SO DANGEROUSLY RADIOACTIVE THAT ONLY FAST-MOVING PATROL BOATS MADE QUICK DASHES TO THE EDGES OF THE INVISIBLE RADIATION "WALLS" THAT HEMMED IN THE TARGETS.

SOME OF THE VESSELS DAMAGED SEEMED IN NO IMMEDIATE DANGER OF SINKING.

BIG POWERS HIT BY AUSTRALIAN AT PEACE PARLEY

Dr. Evatt Demands Small Nations Have Voice in Program.

DRAW UP RULES

Byrnes to Personally Represent U. S. on Important Committee.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

PARIS, July 29 — (AP) The European peace conference was jolted before it was an hour-old today with an attack against major power domination and a demand that the smaller allied nations have a stronger voice in the final formulation of world peace.

The applause for Premier Georges Bidault of France, who opened the historic conference at 4:14 p. m. (French time) with a plea for a world of reason and peace, had scarcely died in the red plush chamber of ancient Luxembourg palace when Australia's fiery minister of external affairs, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, was on his feet and hammering his fist on behalf of the small nations.

NIGHT

Outburst at Start

"The 17 invited governments have just as much right to participate in the final making of the peace as the Big Four themselves", Evatt shouted, banging his first on the table. "I don't want there to be any mistake about that".

Evatt's outburst came during a discussion on formation of the rules committee. The committee will decide how the conference is to be conducted and what vote will be necessary to make recommendations to the Big Four on the treaties to be offered Germany's former satellites—Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland.

It was clear that Evatt, who has championed the cause of the smaller nations since the San Francisco United Nations conference, was referring to the possibility that the rules committee, consisting of the leading delegates of all 21 nations, might decide that a two-thirds majority would be necessary to make a recommendation to the Big Four.

Under such a rule, six negative votes could block action by the conference. Russia and states friendly to her would be able to keep a controlling hand on the conference.

Byrnes to Represent U. S.

Obviously considering the crucial importance of the rules committee, U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will represent the United States personally on the body when it meets tomorrow morning, an American source said tonight. He added that Byrnes does not consider himself bound by the proposed rules of procedure drawn up by the four-power foreign ministers council.

The failure of Versailles seemed to hover over the conference as the 1,500 delegates gathered in the old rambling palace of Luxembourg, only a scant 15 miles from the gaudy palace where nations signed the peace which brought Mussolini, Hitler and war in its wake.

It seemed implicit in the extreme lack of interest which Parisians showed toward the meeting — a meeting convened to start a war-worn world back toward a peace-time footing.

Bidault himself appeared to sense it when he referred to Versailles in his opening address and pointed out that France was host to the victorious nations of two fearful wars in less than 30 years.

Pointing out that the conferences after the first World war did not prevent the outbreak of a still deadlier conflict less than 25 years later, Bidault said:

Reviews Peace Parley

"It is too easy to judge the men or the policies responsible for these solutions—the judgment belongs to history".

"But let me say," Bidault added, "that whatever were the mistakes and weaknesses, the profound cause of the failure was that two great powers who had taken a decided part in the conquest of arms remained on the sidelines during the solution of the peace."

Obviously referring to the United States and the Soviet Union, Bidault said that situation no longer existed and that all democratic nations now were taking a hand in the peace.

Bidault was elected provisional chairman of the conference on a motion by Byrnes, and Jacques Foughes Du Parc of the French foreign office protocol service was named temporary secretary general.

Meanwhile, an American source disclosed that Byrnes will be the first speaker tomorrow at the first session of the rules committee, where he will demand that all deliberations of the conference and its commissions be "wide open" to the press, and that the widest publicity be encouraged.

American sources said the secretary planned to ask that sessions of the rules committee also be opened to the press. Since only a simple majority is required for approval in committee, his view probably will prevail.

One controversy was settled before the conference opened. The deputy foreign ministers, meeting this morning, decided to release the texts of the proposed treaties with the Balkan states, Italy and Finland. The texts had been withheld because of British and Russian objections despite Byrnes' request they be released. Texts will be made available for publication midnight (6 p. m. EST) tomorrow.

Byrnes Writes Speech

Byrnes, meanwhile, began writing the speech he will make at the opening of tomorrow afternoon's session in response to Bidault's welcoming address.

Any other member of the conference who wishes may also speak at tomorrow's session. Registry lists were opened immediately after today's session adjourned. Speakers will appear in the order in which they register.

It was too early tonight to say just what turn the conference might take. Machinery will not go into motion until the credentials and rules committee conclude their deliberations. But with all delegations invited to speak their minds and with some of them being of a strong mind on extremely controversial subjects surprises were to be expected.

In welcoming the delegates to the conference, Bidault urged them to abolish the "plague of war". He declared that "long suffering peoples of the world today look to you", and he voiced the wish that "if we cannot get complete peace solutions, I hope that at least we will get reasonable ones".

He did not mention by name the great disputes and clashes of interests involved in making peace with the nations along the Danube river, and with the nations vitally interested in Trieste and the Italian colonies in Africa, but he acknowledged they were "immense."

Bidault said the United States, Britain, Russia and France had "searched with patience and even with passion for solutions that could be reached in common accord to constitute a basis of durable settlements". He said the French government was confident the conference would succeed in its task.

Tells of Suffering

"The long suffering of the world, the patient waiting of people, the anxiety of the weak, the immense hope of plain men of good heart is turned today toward us to ask us to set aside forever the evil omens of unhappiness forecast so often by prophets and find in mutual understanding, at the service of justice and liberty, the world delivered from the plague which becomes worse as time passes—I mean war", Bidault said.

"We have all suffered in trying to banish it. It is now time to begin to succeed. Gentlemen, I declare the peace conference open".

Just before the conference opened, the deputy foreign ministers referred to the rules committee the question of working out a formula to permit hearing claims of uninvited countries for admission to the parley.

The deputies took note of applications from Albania, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Luxembourg and Mexico for seats.

The envoys of defeated Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, and Finland were handed copies this morning of the drafts of peace treaties affecting them—treaties that will directly affect the lives of more than 80,000,000 peoples in Europe and indirectly shape the future of everyone on earth.

Meanwhile, Hungary, the gateway to the Balkans, appeared to be shaping as the principal battering point for America's efforts to secure an open door economic, if not a political, policy in Eastern Europe.

Freedom of navigation on the Danube was agreed upon by Britain, France and the United States as one of the conditions of the peace treaty with Hungary, it was learned, but the draft treaty contains a strong protest by Russia that the Danube question should be considered in the peace treaty at all.

The Russian position was stated in a reservation clause, apparently similar to one contained in draft treaties for Bulgaria and Romania.

Peace Conference Holds First Session in Paris

Bidault Calls on Delegates to Abolish War —Is Made Chairman Pro Tem. on Byrnes's Motion.

Paris, July 29 (A. P.).—The twenty-one-nation peace conference convened in the Luxembourg Palace today, more than a year after the end of the second world war in Europe, and President Bidault called upon the 1,500 delegates to abolish "the plague of war."

"The long-suffering peoples of the world today look to you," he declared in his address of welcome. "If we cannot get complete peace solutions, I hope that at least we will get reasonable ones."

Referring, apparently, to the United States and Russia, Bidault said that whatever blame could be attached to Europe's failure to keep the peace after the first world war, a "fundamental cause of that failure was that the two great Powers who had taken a decided part in the conquest of arms remained on the sidelines during the solution of peace." Concluding his slowly uttered ten-minute speech, he said simply: "The hopes of plain men are turned toward us today."

Bidault was then elected provisional chairman of the conference on the motion of Secretary of State Byrnes.

The conference convened in an atmosphere of dissension almost a quarter of an hour late, and the opening session lasted little more than an hour. Its purpose is to take up the task of writing treaties with Italy, Finland, Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania.

Even before their formal meeting the delegates were confronted by an American disclosure that Byrnes would urge that all negotiations be wide open to the press of the world. He favors a "goldfish bowl" policy, and if his proposal is turned down, an American informant said, Byrnes will propose that representatives of the various conference commissions be appointed to keep newspaper reporters informed of what goes on at closed meetings.

Bidault's address was carried to a pres. gallery jammed for the historic occasion and throughout the rambling plush building as he summoned the delegates to fashion a peace for the five nations which the Big Four Foreign Ministers—those of the United States, Britain, Russia and France—can approve.

Without referring directly to Byrnes's plea for open proceedings, Bidault remarked. "The French Government, on its part, has always maintained and ever will maintain that a free discussion is essential, one which allows all opinions to be heard. It is convinced that a fundamental rule of democracy is that a decision has no value unless it is previously debated in broad daylight by the representatives of all concerned."

Evatt Shouts Opposition.

Within a short time after the opening, another bit of dissension appeared when Dr. Herbert Evatt of Australia hammered on the table and shouted his opposition to any Big Four domination of the conference.

Discussing the formation of a Rules Committee, Evatt declared: "The seventeen invited governments have just as much right to participate in the final making of the peace as the Big Four themselves. I don't want any mistake about that."

He argued that the Rules Committee would determine the whole orangization of the conference and decide by what majority the conference could vote recommendations on treaties. Apparently hitting at Russian maneuvers at previous conferences for a rule for a two-thirds majority—which at the present conference would give six East European States a strategic advantage—Evatt forcefully declared that he wanted "no special majorities" in the conference.

The conference proceeded to appoint a rules committee of one member from each national delegation, but in deference to Evatt it was agreed that the committee meetings would be held when the General Conference was not in session.

Agree on Treaty Drafts.

An American informant said earlier that the deputy foreign ministers of the four principal Powers—Britain, the United States, France and Russia—agreed earlier today to make public tomorrow the complete texts of the treaties prepared by the Foreign Ministers Council for the five defeated Powers, Italy, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland. The drafts will be released for publication tomorrow at 7 P. M., New York time, and will be accompanied by statements from each of the four Foreign Ministers giving their attitudes on the disagreements that still exist.

Most of the terms of the treaties already have become known unofficially. The release of the full texts simultaneously in Parfis, London, Washington and Moscow had been advocated for several days by the United States and France, but the British and Russians had differed on how much of them ought to be made public at present.

It was known, however, that the proposed treaties would change the map of Europe, list the reparations which the five defeated nations must pay, and outlaw militarism.

The envoys of Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Finland were handed copies of the peace treaties affecting them this morning, and at about the same time the deputy foreign ministers referred to the rules and procedure committees the question of working out a formula to permit the hearing of claims of uninvited countries for admission to the conference. Among these countries are Albania, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Luxembourg and Mexico.

Byrnes Meets Attlee.

Secretary of State Byrnes, who arrived here yesterday, conferred with Prime Minister Attlee in an effort to break the publication deadlock. They also discussed various aspects of the Palestine problem. Attlee is here in place of Foreign Secretary Bevin, who is ill.

Byrnes disclosed that he would urge the delegates to allow former enemy States as well as all other interested nations to present their cases to the conference. He said that he felt bound by the Foreign Ministers' decision in Moscow last December to limit the peace talks to the Allied belligerent nations, but that he was convinced no country should be refused a hearing.

Byrnes said that he would stand firm on all agreements he made with his colleagues at the recent meetings of the Ministers in Paris, but that he reserved the right of complete freedom of action on questions on which no agreement was arrived at. The conference is not scheduled to consider the future of Germany or Japan, or to take up such matters as atomic energy, but an American informant said that although the Big Four were committed to confining the discussion to the five peace treaties the seventeen other nations could bring up additional subjects if they chose.

Freedom of Danube at Issue.

The question of freedom of navigation on the Danube was shaping up as one of the major issues of the conference, with the Western Powers favoring such freedom over the protest of Russia. Likewise, Hungary, gateway to the Balkans, appeared to be looming as the principal battering point for American efforts to obtain an open door economic policy in Russian-dominated Eastern Europe.

It was learned that the draft of the Hungarian treaty contains a strong protest by Russia against consideration of the question of navigation on the Danube. An informed person said that the protest was contained in a reservation clause, and that similar clauses apparently were included in treaty drafts with Bulgaria and Roumania.

The Hungarian treaty stipulates that the nation can have an army of no more than 65,000 men, it was learned, and that her air force may consist of only ninety planes and 5,000 personnel. The treaty draft calls for payment of $300,000,000 in reparations to Russia, Czecho-Slovakia and Yugoslavia, but the United States added a reservation retaining the right to reopen the reparations question if warranted by Hungary's economic situation.

Hungarians Expecting 'Our Funeral' In Treaty

Paris, July 29 (AP)—An unofficial delegation representing Hungary in Paris Peace Conference circles waited unhappily today for the bad news it felt sure was contained in the proposed peace-treaty draft for that country.

"We're here to attend our own funeral," one member of the delegation said, "and it isn't a good feeling."

The group, headed by Laszlo Farago, economics expert, has not been given a copy of the proposed Hungarian treaty, but members have a pretty good idea of what will be demanded of them—and how the western powers are split with Russia over free navigation on the Danube.

Argue Unofficially

The delegation is composed mainly of newsmen and information officials, prepared to argue unofficially outside the Council halls until Foreign Minister Janos Gyongyosi and his aides are summoned from Budapest to attend the Council sessions and hear the bad news officially.

It was Russia's announced attitude on Czechoslovakia's treatment of Hungarian nationals in Slovakia which was proving most galling to members of the group.

Russia has upheld Czechoslovakia in her announced desire to deport almost 1,000,000 Hungarians. Hungary has protested against any such deportation.

Lunches Inexpensive At Luxembourg Palace

Restaurant Serves 37½ Cent and $1 Meals at Parley

PARIS, July 29 (AP).—Frenchmen accustomed to astronomical black-market prices for unrationed meat meals were taken aback by newspaper accounts of a cut-rate 37½ cent (45-franc) meal and a $1 (125-franc) meal available for lunch today in the Luxembourg Palace restaurant.

The dollar meal consisted of tuna fish and potato salad, roast leg of mutton, string beans, green salad, fruits and a glass of wine.

The cheaper lunch was of potato salad, shoulder of lamb, string beans, fruits and a bottle of beer.

Available to all with access to the peace conference building, the lunches would cost about six times as much in a reasonable black-market restaurant outside.

JUL 31 1946

Ehrenburg at Conference

PARIS, July 29 (AP).—Ilya Ehrenburg, the Soviet Union's foremost newspaper correspondent, was a spectator today at the opening of the peace conference—but he is not "covering" it. He said he is gathering material for a book.

Bevin Much Better; May Go to Paris

Improvement Offsets Talk He Might Resign

LONDON, July 29 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, confined to his bed by illness, was reported "very much better" today. A possibility arose that he might be able soon to attend the peace conference in Paris, offsetting speculation that he might resign because of his health.

The Foreign Office said it did not know when the sixty-five-year-old Minister would be able to resume his duties, but his wife said he might be able to go to Paris by the end of this week. Prime Minister Atlee heads the British delegation in Paris in Bevin's absence.

Nmerous rumors that Bevin was tired out by the rigors of successive Foreign Ministers' conferences brought speculation of a possible revision of Attlee's cabinet.

It was said that the Prime Minister might, in an unprecedented move, push the War, Navy and Air secretaries out of the Cabinet and bring in other Ministers who would concentrate on the problems of the peace in a small, well-knit council. If such a move were made, it was believed that J. B. Hynd, who is responsible for the administration of the British zones in Germany and Austria, and John Strachey, Minister of Food, would be taken into the Prime Minister's higher council.

It appeared widely accepted here that in the event Vevin stepped down he would be succeeded by Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton.

Compassion In Judging Palestine

London, July 29 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury said tonight the bombing of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem last week "was not done by the Jews, but by some Jews." He appealed for compassion in judging the incident.

Addressing a rally of delegates to the International Conference of Christians and Jews opening here tomorrow, the Archbishop said it "is perhaps good for us that we should meet with that deed fresh in our minds."

"It enables us to see more clearly by what principles that fact must be judged and to rebuke passions which have been aroused by that deed."

"Not Of Jews As Such"

"It was a deed not of Jews as such," he said, "but of political fanatics. Political fanaticism, and the cruel deeds that go with it, are, alas, not confined to the Jews."

Dr. Chaim Weizman, president of the World Zionist Organization, spoke off the record for 40 minutes tonight to members of Parliament of all parties who met to discuss the Palestine situation.

It was decided that Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister, would be chief Government speaker in the debate on Palestine in the House of Commons Wednesday and Thursday, due to the absence of Prime Minister Attlee at the Paris peace conference and the illness of Ernest Bevin, Foreign Secretary.

Partition Belittled

Paris, July 29 (AP)—David Ben Gurion, chairman of the Jewish Agency, said today the British-American cabinet committee plan for partitioning Palestine was "hardly worth discussing," and indicated his organization would reject it.

"I should think it will be rejected," Ben Gurion said of the plan. "They expected us to reject it. An official statement will be given when we have finished."

A conference of Jewish Agency officials is scheduled to begin here Thursday.

Ben Gurion declined to say whether the Jewish Agency would offer another plan or counterproposals.

House of Commons Told Of British Approval

LONDON, July 29 — (AP) Minister of State Philip Noel-Baker formally announced in the House of Commons tonight Britain's acceptance "in principle" of a United States offer to merge the British and American occupation zones in Germany and added that France "had not agreed to come in."

Noel-Baker declared:

"This step is directed against nobody. The adoption of this measure x x x ought to make it easier to secure the reintegration of Germany into one whole."

J. B. Hynd, chief British administrative official in Germany as chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, said later the American merger terms which Britain accepted "will be conveyed to the French and the Russians because we are not departing from the quadripartite government of Germany and there is no intention on our part to establish an iron curtain down the middle of Europe so long as there is a chance of avoiding it."

Aid To Intellectuals Abroad Advocated

London, July 29 (AP)—Dean Virginia Gildersleeve, of New York's Barnard College, called today on educated women to use all their "political and ethical wisdom" to help restore the intellectuals of defeated countries to the family of nations.

She was one of several delegates who addressed the opening session of the first postwar council meeting of the International Federation of University Women.

A round-table discussion last night paved the way for today's business session.

Dr. Lise Meitner, German scientist, is scheduled to speak tomorrow on atomic discoveries.

Mrs. Esther Ankin Brunauer, of San Francisco and Washington, D.C., American delegate to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, last night said national federations should appeal to the youth of the various countries to strivt for positions in various international political organizations.

U.N. Council Seen 'Laughing Stock'

London, July 29 (AP)—Lord Cranborne, Conservative leader in the House of Lords, said today the Security Council of the United Nations had made itself "a laughing stock" by the way it handled accusations against the Franco regime in Spain.

The opposition leader said Russian policy and Russian relations with the rest of the world made up "one dominant problem facing the world."

"We all want to co-operate with Russia within the framework of the world organization but until now, there does not seem to be any basis for settlement of outstanding problems," Lord Cranborne said in the upper house.

Intervention "Not Justified"

He argued that, although "nobody approves of Franco or likes his form of government," such dislike "does not justify intervention by the United Nations."

"The Security Council has become something in the nature of a laughing stock over this question and nobody has benefited more than General Franco," Lord Cranborne said.

Germans Get More U. S. Food

BERLIN, July 29 (AP).—The American Military Government announced today that food imports from the United States to feed Germany mounted to an average of 7,200 tons daily—a gain of 800 tons—for the period of the last two weeks.

DRAGNET OUT FOR BORMANN

Hitler's Missing Deputy Reported Seen In Munich

Nuernberg, July 29 (AP)—A report that Martin Bormann is alive sent American intelligence officers today on an exhaustive house-to-house search in Munich for the missing deputy of Adolf Hitler.

The elusive Bormann, who has been tried in absentia here with 21 other top Nazis for Germany's war crimes, was reported to have been seen only a week ago riding through the streets of Munich in a car, intelligence officers reported.

A disgruntled chauffeur whom Bormann fired in an argument over stolen garden vegetables provided United States counterintelligence agents with the tip that started the new dragnet for the Nazi party chieftain.

"The Man I Saw Was Bormann"

A United States Army source said the chauffeur, Jakob Glas, long-time resident of Munich and Bormann's personal driver for years until the final year of the Hitler regime, informed American intelligence officers that he was "absolutely certain" the man he saw riding in an automobile in a Munich main street a few days ago was the missing Nazi leader.

Glas said he was dismissed after Bormann accused him of stealing vegetables from the Deputy Führer's private garden.

"I know Bormann, and the man I saw was Bormann," Glas insisted during questioning by agents who brought him to Nuernberg. Glas has been released under partial surveillance.

The chauffeur said there were others in the car with Bormann, but he was unable to identify them. Bormann, he said, was dressed in ordinary, rather shabby civilian clothing.

Seen In Berlin May 1, 1945

The last time Bormann was seen, so far as intelligence officers have been able to establish up to now, was in the bomb-torn streets of Berlin about 3 A.M., May 1, 1945. He was in the uniform of an SS officer, striding alongside a German tank with Hitler's chauffeur, Hans Erich Kempka.

Kempka disclosed this shortly after he was picked up, and later he testified at the Nuernberg trials that he saw the tank hit by a bazooka shell and thought Bormann was killed.

Ever since the day the Nazi regime crashed with the suicide of Hitler, there have been reports from all parts of Germany that Bormann was alive. He has been reported in many places, and each time intelligence agents investigated the reports, only to find there was no trace of the missing Bormann.

Linked With Atrocities

Since there was no evidence Bormann was dead, he was tried in absentia along with Goering and twenty other top-ranking Nazi leaders. During the trials, many in the group put the blame for atrocity orders on Hitler first, but they always included Bormann as either the originator or executor of the orders from the Nazi party chancellory.

Bormann's attorney, Dr. Friedrich Bergold, said all his inquiries has failed to establish that the Deputy Führer was alive.

Nevertheless, rumors continued to crop up that Bormann had managed finally to elude the Russians and had returned to Bavaria and to his old-time haunts.

Germans here who knew Bormann's habits said if he turned up anywhere, it would most likely be Munich. The mountains south of Munich are a virtual colony for the wives and families of the one-time Nazi leaders.

An army source said the chauffeur, Jakob Glas, long-time resident of Munich, informed intelligence chiefs that he was "absolutely certain" the man he saw riding in an automobile in a main street of Munich a few days ago was the missing and long-sought Bormann.

Glas was Bormann's driver for years until the final year of the Hitler regime. Then, he said, he was dismissed after Bormann accused him of stealing vegetables from the deputy Führer's private garden.

Nazi Guilt Proven, Russian Asserts

Nuernberg, July 29 (AP)—The Soviet prosecutor, Lieut. Gen. Roman Rudenko, told the international military tribunal today that nine months of trial has proved fully the guilt of 22 top Nazi defendants who, from the moment they seized power in Germany, "started the realization of their aims and utilized this power for preparation of aggressive war."

Rudenko began the prosecution's final summation after the French prosecutor, Charles Dubost, had demanded the death penalty a second time for Hermann Goering and his 21 codefendants by telling the court "you must hit hard, without pity."

Speaks Rather Rapidly

Speaking rather rapidly from a prepared text, the Soviet prosecutor declared that "for every murder, for every drop of innocent blood shed by Hitler's henchmen, the defendants are responsible; for between them and the direct perpetrators of the crimes of murder and torture there is a difference only in rank and scope of action."

Rudenko took up each defendant individually, scoring each one's part in Hitler's scheme to win world domination in a program of extermination.

He declared that Goering "participated actively in all the crimes of the Fascist gang, and for all his deeds he must be duly punished."

Tireless In Efforts

The Reichsmarshal was described as being tireless in his efforts to annihilate everybody and everything which hampered consolidation of the Fascist conspiracy.

Rudenko said that Martin Bormann, for whom a renewed search has been started by reports that he was seen in Munich last week, took an active part in realizing the aggressive plans of the Hitler government, headed the Volkssturm and "werewolves" organizations, and took a direct part in plundering the occupied countries.

Dubost, in presenting the French summation said the defendants seized the German state and turned it into a gangster state, putting at the service of their criminal plans all the executive might of the state.

Death For All 21 Nazis Urged

Nuernberg, Germany, July 29 (AP)—French Prosecutor Charles Dubost demanded today the death penalty for all the 21 ranking Germans in the dock of the war crimes tribunal.

"You must hit hard without pity," Dubost said in presenting the French prosecution summation, "that the verdict be just, that is sufficient. To be sure, there are shades in their guilt. But does it follow that the penalties must be varied if even the least guilty, as we think, deserves the death penalty?"

Russia Yet To Be Heard

Justice Robert H. Jackson and Sir Hartley Shawcross previously had summed up for the United States and Great Britain. Russia still is to be heard.

Dubost said the defendants seized the German state and converted it into a gangster nation, putting at the service of their criminal plans all the executive might of the state.

Hits "Cowardice" Defense

Speaking briefly as an introduction to Dubost, Aguste Champetier de Ribes scored the main defense plea that Hitler was supremely powerful and that the defendants were unable to act against or refuse to obey his slightest wish.

"What a poor defense," de Ribes said, "Hitler could doubtless govern their bodies but not their minds; by disobeying, they would have perhaps lost their lives but they would have at least saved their honor. Cowardice has never been an excuse nor even an extenuating circumstance."

Nuernberg Won't Pay $4.09 for Ley's Burial

NUERNBERG July 29 (AP).—The City of Nuernberg served notice today it is unwilling to bear the $4.09 cost of the funeral of Robert Ley, Nazi labor boss, who hanged himself in jail before the war-crimes trial started last November.

The city's welfare committee wrote to the international military tribunal that the bill is still unpaid and that the committee expects the court to pay it. The committee took the attitude that Ley was the responsibility of the war-crimes tribunal.

'Commandments' For Ex-Nazis

Munich, July 29 (AP)—Many thousands of former Nazi party members today are shouldering pickax and shovel to help clear away rubble in Germany's bomb-torn cities.

Disgruntled over the moodiness of his fellow-shovelers and disappointed with the sloppiness, one former Nazi decided to cheer up work squads by composing "ten commandments for rubble removers."

Work With Saluting Hand

He posted them on telegraph poles and trees in the Munich suburb of Milbertshofen. They included:

"Do not forget that the Hitler salute has been buried, thus you can work with both hands."

"Do not forget that during the past twelve years you have been taught to denounce people. Thou shalt throw this black mark overboard."

"If there is an inspection of the site it is no longer desired that you turn around and stand at attention."

Take A Big Rock

"Should a non-party member watch you at work who was known to have been a good Nazi, take a big rock and throw him (the rock) onto the wheelbarrow. The spectator undoubtedly has a clean slate."

"After work take a bath if you have the fuel to heat the water. Gas chambers and other showers are not available."

The newspaper Sueddeutsche Zeitung reported that the idea already showed results in that workers no longer idled and had discarded that sad look.

TWO OFFICERS DEFEND KILIAN

Testify They Saw No Cruelty At Lichfield Guardhouse

D. DOANE

Bad Nauheim, Germany, July 29 (AP)—Two officers who served under Col. James A. Kilian, at Lichfield, England, testified today that they observed no cruelty to American soldiers in the guardhouse there, and that they had no knowledge of any rough policy allegedly imposed by Kilian.

The first witnesses to testify in the defense of the Highland Park (Ill.) colonel, they were called after defense counsel charged that the prosecution held an alleged fatal injury to a GI prisoner over the head of other defendants in order to elicit "untrue testimony" about Kilian, and that the entire prosecution case was "maliciously fabricated."

NIGHT

Charges Made As Defense Opens

Lieut. Col. Raymond E. Ford, of Fort Pierce, Fla., made the charge in a statement opening Kilian's defense against charges that he aided, authorized and permitted cruel and unusual punishment of prisoners while commander of the 10th Reinforcement Depot, at Lichfield.

The two officers appearing in behalf of Kilian were Major Walter H. Holdridge, of Scarsdale, N.Y., and Capt. Rudolph E. Warnecke, whose address was not disclosed.

Holdridge, a former Lichfield classification officer, said Kilian "had the general reputation of being very strict and of insisting that things be done correctly, but if they were correct, then he was very good to people under him."

Former Battalion Surgeon

Warnecke, former battalion surgeon at the camp, said "Kilian did require discipline," but added, "I don't personally think his discipline exceeded regulations."

Ford, making his charges against the prosecution, said that trial witnesses were interrogated about the death of a Negro soldier soon after his release from the Lichfield guardhouse, before the trial was transferred to London.

After that, Ford said, several accused witnesses changed their testimony "on advice of defense counsel to admit mistreatment which they had previously denied."

Subsequently, Kilian was added to the list of accused in the Lichfield trials, in which nine enlisted guards have been convicted of beating prisoners and two officers were found guilty of permitting the beatings.

Without clarifying the charge, Ford said the alleged death of the Negro "has been held over the heads of the accused guards" and three accused officers, first to "elicit untrue testimony" against Kilian in the original Lichfield trials and later to "enforce" such testimony in Kilian trial.

Denying categorically that Kilian ever instituted any "be rough" policy at Lichfield, Ford charged the prosecution's entire case against Kilian was "maliciously fabricated" out of "perjured and self-serving" testimony obtained illegally in the opening London trial.

Names Officers Accused

The officers Ford accused of giving "false" and "self-serving" testimony against Kilian were Lieut. Granville Cubage, of Oklahoma City, and Capt. Joseph A. Robertson, of Toledo, Ohio.

Cubage, who was fined $250 on conviction of authorizing the beating of prisoners, testified earlier that Kilian once ordered him to "work over" a prisoner, admonishing, "Just don't break too many bones."

Robertson, being tried in an adjoining courtroom on similar charges, testified that Kilian told him to "be as rough as you like" on prisoners.

Tuberculosis Rise in Germany

FRANKFURT AM MAIN, July 29 (AP).—A 120 per cent increase in tuberculosis cases in the American occupation zone in the last five months was reported today by Lieutenant Colonel James R. Pappas, public health officer for the military government. The rate for new cases rose from 17 to 37 per 10,000 population.

LaGuardia Arrives In Vienna To See Clark

Vienna, July 29 (AP)—F. H. LaGuardia, UNRRA director, arrived today from Belgrade, where he discussed "all UNRRA questions" with Premier Marshal Tito.

"We are in complete agreement on everything," LaGuardia said. He added he had found UNRRA conditions in Yugoslavia satisfactory.

Success in Paris Talks Predicted by 'Pravda'

Ministers' Work Eases Task of Conference, Paper Says

MOSCOW, July 29 (AP).—"Pravda," in a dispatch from its special correspondent in Paris, said today that the twenty-one nations at the peace conference "have every possibility" of success in their work.

The correspondent said the peace makers doubtless will run into difficulties, but that the work completed by the Council of Foreign Ministers will make the peace conference task much easier.

"It cannot fail to be evident that the decisions already reached by the four great powers and recommended by the Council of Foreign Ministers are in the interests of all the United Nations, large and small," the dispatch said.

Continue Sifting Rubble

British soldiers continued the monumental task of sifting the rubble of the King David Hotel after blasting away part of the wrecked building in order to remove parts of the structure weakened when the east wing was dynamited by terrorists last week.

The blasting operation carried out by the soldiers was reported to have wrecked another tier of offices to which the secretariat of the Palestine Government moved after last week's bombing.

The operation scattered debris through another large section of the six-story hotel building, and a British officer said the blasting did more damage to the Y.M.C.A. building, directly across the street, than was done to it by the bombing. A number of windows in the Y.M.C.A. were smashed and some walls were damaged.

A military order was issued tonight revising the 6 P.M. to 6 A.M. curfew by excluding one small Jewish-Arab residential section.

Raiders Find Grenade

Palestine police announced tonight they had raided a Tel Aviv workshop and found a crudely constructed hand grenade, several detonator caps and a large quantity of machinery.

"It is suspected," the announcement said, "the premises were intended for large-scale manufacture of bombs."

Meanwhile, in Jerusalem it was learned from reliable sources that 30 Jewish merchants made an unsuccessful protest against official orders to evacuate their business premises in the vicinity of the District Commissioner's office, the central police department and the post office.

even some form of partition, which will give them a measure of control over their own affairs and permit immigration."

Accept "Half A Loaf"

One Jewish leader asserted that he thought a majority of the Jewish community would reconcile themselves if necessary to "half a loaf" if no other solution appeared possible.

[London dispatches quoted Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization and head of the Jewish Agency, as criticizing the plan on the ground that it had all the disadvantages and none of the advantages of a similar British plan advanced in 1936 and rejected by both Jews and Arabs.

[A. Abrahamson, an officer of the "New Zionist Organization," issued a statement in London calling for establishment of a provisional Jewish government in Palestine and demanding dissolution of the Jewish Agency on the ground it was obstructing Jewish national aims.

[In Alexandria, Abdul Rhaman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, declared the Arabs would not permit partitioning of Palestine.]

Fraternization Banned

It was reported unofficially, meanwhile, that Lieut. Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker, British commander in Palestine, had issued orders forbidding British soldiers to fraternize with Palestine Jews on the gorund that the Jewish community "cannot be absolved of responsibility for a long series of outrages" culminating in the recent King David Hotel bombing.

Issuance of the order was reported as 30 Jewish storekeepers in Jaffa street, one of Jersusalem's main thoroughfares, remained in their shops in defiance of a Government security measure aimed at confiscating the premises.

Taree Palestine members of the Jewish agency executive committee left for Paris today to participate in a Jewish agency meeting there. Three other members are still held at the Latrun detention camp.

About 1,200 of the refugees were said to be men, approximately 1,000 women and the rest children.

Red Flares Sighted

The ship's approach became known when red flares were sighted off Tel Aviv about 2 A.M. today.

Police and military forces were rushed immediately to the beach north and south of town to prevent any attempt at illegal landing.

At the same time, British aircraft and destroyers sped to the ship, intercepting it and escorting it to Haifa.

It was learned that the name given the ship by the refugees was Haganah, name of a Jewish underground organization.

Calcutta Strike On, Troops Alerted

Calcutta, July 29 (AP)—British troops were alerted to stand by for possible riots today as a one-day caled in sympahty protest strike). caled in sympathy with the postal telegraph walkout, completely paryzed this city of 4,500,000.

Tension mounted as armed civilian police patrolled the city in radio-equipped trucks. Workers paraded through the streets shouting "open the Treasury!"

There were no immediate reports of violence.

Huge Rally Slated

A huge mass meeting was scheduled to be held in the center of Calcutta. Conservative estimates placed the numbers of persons participating in the strike at 300,000, representing 250 unions.

All transportation—trolleys, taxis and rickshaws—was at a standstill. Newspapers suspended publication. Mercantile firms, banks, offices and factories shut down. Steel grills were locked in front of most shops, especially in the European section which suffered the brunt of attacks in riots last February.

Europeans Shed Neckties

Europeans who ventured on the streets wore no neckties. In the past, mobs frequently have ripped ties from Europeans during riots.

District Congress party committees posted volunteers to help prevent trouble, and also sent civilian patrol squads through the streets in automobiles flying the Congress flag.

Falkenhorst on Trial, Denies Norway Crimes

Accused of Ordering Allied Commandos' Execution

BRUNSWICK, Germany, July 29 (AP).—General Nikolaus von Falkenhorst, former German commander in Norway, went on trial for his life today, and pleaded not guilty to charges of ordering execution of captured Allied Commandos and responsibility for the death of forty British and six Norwegian prisoners of war.

Nine charges were listed against him in an indictment which made no reference to the actual invasion of Norway in April, 1940. The short, stocky, uniformed defendant made his plea in a calm, firm voice.

Colonel R. C. Halse, British prosecuting officer, told the military court of five judges—four Britons and a Norwegian that Adolf Hitler had ordered the extermination of all Commandos, and that Falkenhorst had issued an order through his chief of staff that even if any captured Commando were spared temporarily for questioning, "he shall not survive his comrades more than forty-eight hours."

Italian Protest Strike Over Treaty Ordered

Rome, July 29 (AP)—The Italian Chamber of Labor ordered a one-hour country-wide strike of protest today as newspapers printed the first reports of the Italian peace treaty draft prepared by the Foreign Ministers Council for the Paris peace conference.

On the other hand 6,000 pro-Yugoslav inhabitants of Gorizia paraded there in protest against the Foreign Ministers' decision to include that city in Italian territory. The demonstration was authorized by Allied military officials and was orderly.

"Like Plucked Eagles"

Italia Nuova's headline in Rome said "Italy will leave Luxembourg," the Paris palace where the peace conference meets, "with mutilated territory and offended rights."

Expresso said "the Italian people protest an unjust peace."

Lunedi, alone of Rome's Monday morning papers, reminded Italians that they had a share of responsibility for the war and warned that "too many are screaming like plucked eagles."

The paper advised against any "comedy" of refusing to sign the peace treaty, as has been threatened by some Italian statesmen, and suggested that the government restrict itself to a "dignified pro-

Arabs Tighten Boycott Plan

C. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, July 29 (AP)—Palestine's Arabs today launched an intensive program of non-co-operation with the Jews as a weapon against Zionism.

The program entails further tightening of the Arab boycott against Jews, which already has been extended to "severe sanctions." It also means refusal of Arabs to work with Jews on any governmental boards and entails the resignation of Arabs from associations having both Arab and Jewish membership.

At the same time, it was reliably reported, the British began "high level talks" concerning publication of a letter of Major General Sir Evelyn Barker ordering British officers to discontinue association with Jews. No details were available concerning the talks, except for a hint from an officer that an inquiry may be made into the method in which the letter, reported to have been labeled "restricted," came into the hands of correspondents.

NIGHT

Many Jews Held Ready To Okay Partitioning

Jerusalem, July 29 (AP)—Belief that many members of the Jewish community would approve a British-American proposal for partition of Palestine into Arab and Jewish provinces under a federal government was expressed by some Jewish quarters over the week end.

While there still was no official Jewish reaction to the proposal, put forward by a British-American cabinet committee in London, an unofficial source close to the political situation predicted that many Jews would welcome "any solution,

Ship With 2,500 Jews Intercepted

Jerusalem, July 29 (AP)—A ship reportedly bearing more than 2,500 illegal Jewish immigrants from Europe to Palestine was intercepted today in the eastern Mediterranean by a British naval patrol craft and escorted to Haifa.

The immigrants were not expected to disembark today.

[An Exchange Telegraph dispatch received in London from Haifa said a radio distress call had been received from a ship carrying 2,700 illegal immigrants, and that the ship had asked for an escort to Haifa.]

British Army To Quit Cairo For Suez Zone

Alexandria, Egypt, July 29 (AP)—The commander-in-chief in the Middle East announced today the evacuation of headquarters of British troops in Egypt from Cairo to the Suez Canal Zone before the end of September as "the first stage of their withdrawal from Egypt."

General headquarters in the Middle East will make a similar move by the end of this year, the announcement said.

Moslems Hit British Plan For Indian Independence

BOMBAY, July 29—(AP) The Moslem League Council of Action today withdrew its acceptance of British cabinet mission proposals for Indian independence and declared that Moslems had exhausted "all avenues for peaceful settlement" of their demands for safeguards in the writing of an Indian constitution.

In bitterly phrased instructions, the policy-forming body told the league's working committee to develop a program of "direct action" to achieve an independent Moslem state (Pakistan).

Stormy Session

Two resolutions, surprising in their bluntness, were passed by the council during a stormy session in which the proceedings repeatedly were interrupted by shouts of "sindabad!" (revolution!).

The first resolution accused the rival all India Congress party and Britain of collaborating in a breach of faith. The second, withdrawing acceptance of the cabinet mission proposals, renewed demands for the separate state and called o Moslems to surrender any title they received from the British. parade of Moslem dignitarie promptly complied by renouncin their titles.

The cabinet mission proposal calling for creation of a federate union in India and the drafting a charter by a constituent assemb elected by provincial legislatur were accepted by the Mosle league June 6.

On June 7 the proposals were a cepted by the Congress party, I dia's largest political organizatio

In a fiery speech to a cheering sembly of fezzed and turbanned f lowers, Mahomed Ali Jinnah, presi-dent of the Moslem league, declared that the league was "now engaged in a life and death struggle for its very existence."

He said events that had occurred since the league accepted the cabinet mission's proposals, however, were a "blessing in disguise," because from them Moslems had learned a "bitter lesson."

The council's decision followed a three-day round of speech making in which Moslem leaders—including Jinnah—told the council that Britain had "betrayed" the league by not insisting on adoption of the mission's inte government plan despite Congress party opposition.

Sees Independent State

Jinnah described the council's action as "historic," declaring opposition "we face two powers, one of them with machine guns behind it."

The directness of the council resolutions was somewhat of a surprise to many observers, who had expected the council would stop short of outright withdrawal of acceptance and probably submit some form of ultimatum instead.

In turning down the cabinet mission's proposals, the council adopted a resolution drafted by a working committee under Jinnah which expressed belief that "the attitude of the congress clearly is such that conditions for satisfactory working of the constitution making machinery do not exist."

A second resolution asserted that "power politics, not justice" had become uppermost in Indian affairs and that the council is "convinced that now the time has come for the Moslem nation to resort to direct action to achieve Pakistan."

It termed this the only way for the Moslems, "to get rid of British slavery and caste Hindu domination."

Sir Firoz Kahn Noon, former Indian high commissioner in London and representative of India at the San Francisco U. N. conference, was the first of a dozen holders of British titles to stride to the platform and announce renunciation of his title.

Others included Sir Ghulam Hussein Hidayatullah, premier of Sind; Sir Kwaja Nazimuddin, one of the members of the recent food delegation to the United States.

Moslems Renege On India-Plan Approval

Bombay, July 29 (AP)—The Moslem League's policy-forming council of action today withdrew its acceptance of the British Cabinet Mission's proposals for granting India independence, and in bitterly phrased instructions told the league's working committee to evolve a program of "direct action" to achieve an independent Moslem state (Pakistan).

The council of action declared in a resolution that "Moslem India has exhausted without success all avenues for peaceful settlement" of demands for safeguards in writing a constitution. It accused Britain and the Congress party of collaborating in a "breach of faith" with the league.

The second of two companion resolutions withdrawing acceptance of the British proposals and renewing demands for a separate Moslem state also called on all Moslems to surrender any titles they may have accepted from the British.

"A Bitter Lesson"

Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, told the cheering assembly that events that had occurred since the League accepted the Cabinet Mission's proposals were a "blessing in disguise," because from them Moslems had learned "a bitter lesson."

The council's decision followed a three-day round of speech making in which Moslem leaders—including Jinnah—told the council that Britain had "betrayed" the league by not insisting on adoption of the mission's interim-government plan despite Congress party opposition.

The bluntness of the resolutions was nevertheless somewhat of a surprise to many observers, who had expected that the council would stop short of outright withdrawal of acceptance and probably submit some form of ultimatum instead.

Congress Attitude Hit

In turning down the Cabinet Mission's proposals, the council adopted a resolution drafted by a working committee under Jinnah which expressed belief that "the attitude of the Congress clearly is such that conditions for satisfactory working of the constitution-making machinery do not exist."

A second resolution asserted that "power politics, not justice," had become uppermost in Indian affairs and that the council is "convinced that now the time has come for the Moslem nation to resort to direct action to achieve Pakistan."

It termed this the only way for the Moslems "to get rid of British slavery and cast Hindu domination."

Shouts of "revolution" repeatedly interrupted proceedings and all but drowned out the reading of a demand for all Moslems to renounce British titles.

Jinnah said in his speech that proved June 6 by the league and toric" and would lead to Pakistan despite the opposition of "two powers—one of them with machine guns behind it."

The British Cabinet Mission's plan for independence was approved June 6 by the League and July 7 by the Congress party, largest political organization in India and chief rival of the league. The plan calls for the creation of a federated union of India and the drafting of a charter by a constituent assembly, elected by provincial legislatures.

"Life Death Struggle"

In his speech Jinnah declared that the "league is now engaged in a struggle for life and death, for very existence."

"It is the duty of everybody who holds a responsible position in the league to stick to his post and stick whatever happens. Unity is what we need now. Having that we have nothing to fear. Then we shall establish full sovereign power."

Sir Firoz Khan Noon, former Indian high commissioner in London and representative of India at the San Francisco conference, was among the first of a dozen holders of British titles to stride to the platform and announce renunciation of his title.

Others included Sir Ghulam Hussein Hidayatullah, Premier of Sind; Sir Kwaja Nazimuddin, one of the recent food delegation to the United States.

U.S. Convoy Attacked 20 Miles From Peiping

Garrison Searches Scene Of Fight For Survivors Who May Be Hiding In Area

Peiping, Tuesday, July 30 (AP)—Marines from the Pieping garrison searched today for United States Marines missing on a North China battlefield where at least four were killed and eleven wounded in a four-hour pitched battle with Chinese Communists.

Four of the wounded were in a critical condition at the Marine Hosptial at Peiping. Marine sources said the number missing had not been determined.

Several Communist soldiers were believed killed in the surprise assault on a Marine truck convoy en route from Tientsin to Peiping.

Troops ambushed the Marine convoy Monday near Yangstun, about 20 miles east of Peiping.

Against Heavy Odds

The Marines fought against heavy odds for four hours before they were able to escape.

Marine officers refused information on the Communist attack, which followed by sixteen days the kidnapping of seven Marines by a Communist band in eastern Hopei province. The seven were released unharmed five days ago.

When survivors of the ambush reached Peiping, a patrol was dispatched to Yangtsun. At the same time, a larger patrol left Tientsin.

Four bodies found on the battlefield were brought to Peiping. Darkness prevented a thorough search.

More survivors may have escaped and hidden in the vicinity.

Communist Comment Withheld

Shanghai, Tuesday, July 30 (AP)—Chinese Communist quarters said today they would withhold comment on yesterday's Communist-United States Marine clash near Peiping until they had received their own version of the incident.

Warning By Communists

Nanking, July 29 (AP)—Chinese Communists warned the Government today that in the event of all-out civil war, Communist guerrillas were ready to shatter the Government's extended lines of communications, particularly to North China.

The Communist headquarters radio at Yenan said the Government lines of supply were "extremely vulnerable" and that Communist bands had gotten plenty of experience in demolition work during the Japanese war.

Actually, Yenan said, many Government units in the north already are isolated except by air.

Battle Reports Conflict

Both Government and Communist quarters here continued to issue contraditcory reports about fighting across the Yangtze River northeast of Nanking.

Both indicated the heaviest conflict was in a triangle defined by the cities of Kiangtu, Icheng, with Government forces controling the two former and battering at Communists in Tienchang.

Wang Ping-nan, Communist spokesman, denied pro-Government reports that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces were driving northward and westward toward Hwaiyin, Communist headquarters in north Kiangsu province.

Pro-Government dispatches said 80,000 Communist reinforcements had gone to Kiangsu from Shantung, and that 30,000 of these were trying to stave off the Government drive northward along the grand canal while 50,000 were "committed" to an offensive against Suchow, a Government stronghold.

Envoy to China Is Taken Ill

Nanking, July 29 (A. P.).—J. Leighton Stuart, United States Ambassador, was reported under a doctor's care today at the summer capital, Kuling, as a result of overfatigue from arduous travel. He was forced to cancel a dinner engagement last night as the guest of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Korean Police Fire Shots To Rout 2,000

Seoul, July 29 (AP)—Korean police fired into the air yesterday to disperse 2,000 persons whose demonstration outside the provincial courthouse delayed the trial of seventeen Koreans on counterfeiting charges.

National Police Director P. O. Chough announced the arrest of 25 persons. He said the demonstration had been planned at a secret meeting of Leftists.

Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, American commander in South Korea, said last week that the fact that some of the seventeen defendants were members of the Communist party would have no bearing on the dispensation of justice. His statement was made after the Communist party demanded a change in prosecutors and reinvestigation of the case.

MANCHURIA AGAIN JAP TRIAL SUBJECT

Chinese Data On Efforts To Gain Provinces Presented

Tokyo, Tuesday, July 30 (AP)—The prosecution in the international trial of Japan's war leaders returned today to the Manchurian phase of its case after concluding testimony on the rape of Nanking.

Elton M. Hyder, of Fort Worth, Texas, American prosecutor, introduced a Chinese Government document which said that "since 1933, Japan attempted urgently to have Hopei, Chahar and other provinces of North China under her domination."

Pushed Autonomy Demands

The document told this story:

The Japanese in North China indulged in "persistent conspiracies" to precipitate demands from North China officials for autonomy.

JUL 31 1946

JUL 31 1946

On November 25, 1935, the "Eastern Hopei Anti-Comintern Autonomous Council" proclaimed independence from the Chinese National Government.

Twenty-two districts in the North China war zone were "forcibly and unlawfully taken over by this puppet organization." Resources, industries, and customs and salt revenues in this zone "fell into Japanese hands," and the area "became a Japanese base of operation for the narcotics traffic, smuggling and instigations of bandits and traitors."

Protocal Put In Evidence

Mrs. Grace K. Llewellyn, of Washington, D.C., only woman member of the prosecution staff, next introduced a 1936 protocol of mutual assistance between Russia and the Mongolian peoples Republic. She asserted that the peoples of Asia feared the westward sweep of Japanese armies and sought to align themselves with stronger countries in defense pacts.

Earlier the tribunal was told that Japanese militarists depended upon revenue from narcotic traffic which they sponsored and protected to finance their puppet government in China.

Dr. Miner S. Bates, Professor of History at the University of Nanking, said that this situation was deplored by a spokesman for the Foreign Office when he visited Tokyo in 1939. The spokesman said that he was "terribly distressed by the extent of the use of drugs in China," Dr. Bates testified. Japanese generals said that there was no hope for improvement in the situation, the spokesman continued, "because no other source of revenue for the temporary government had been found."

Peter J. Lawless, a police official in the British service in Tientsin and Peiping, also told the court that the Japanese had fostered the use of drugs, supplied opium and depended on the revenue from the sales of drugs to finance their puppet regimes. When the defense for the twenty-seven wartime Japanese leaders being tried on war-crimes charges objected, the tribunal's president, Sir William Webb, overruled their objection, saying: "This was a type of warfare really, or preparation for it by making the Chinese drug addicts."

Scowls Vanish For Smiles at Japan War Trial

It May Be the Food, but the Manners and Clothes of Prisoners Are Fresh

TOKYO, July 29 (AP).—The shabby, scowling men who filed into court less than two months ago as Japan's major war criminal defendants have become sleek and assured while the bloody evidence mounts against them.

From former Premier Hideki Tojo, whose egg-shaped bald head dominates the prisoner's dock, to Marquis Koichi Kido, so small he barely can see over the rail before him, the prisoners have donned fresh manners and fresh clothes.

They began their fight for life on June 3 with hard faces twisted into scowls, which the Japanese long have practiced as a mask of defiance. Only the solemnity of the court saved their act from ludicrousness, for they wore patched makeshift clothing which hung from gaunt frames. They stumbled awkwardly in attempts to obey quickly military police who guarded them.

Today they have added weight and assurance. Civilian suits, mingling with plain uniforms, are clean and pressed. Beards and flowing mustaches have been trimmed.

Their scowls and stubborn silence have faded. They chat with their attorneys, scribble notes and join in the infrequent laughter rippling through the courtroom.

It seems almost as if they were spectators at an increasingly interesting drama instead of prisoners facing possible death. Newcomers to the court often confuse the prisoners with their Japanese attorneys, who are seated in front of them—and who look more worried.

The source of the prisoners' new assurance is hard to pin down. Food could be a primary cause. Or there may be a feeling that some will escape severe punishment. They may have philosophized themselves into accepting any fate and relaxed to enjoy their final moments.

Drug Revenues Financed Japs' China Puppets

Tokyo, July 29 (AP)—Japanese guns and bayonets in China were advance agents for hypodermic needles and opium pipes, Tokyo's war-crime tribunal was told today by an American professor and a British police official.

Dr. Miner S. Bates, of Newark, Ohio, a history professor at the University of Nanking, and Peter J. Lawless, an official with the British at Tientsin and Peiping, both said the invaders depended on revenue from sale of drugs to finance puppet governments.

The line of testimony drew objections from the defense but it was upheld by the international tribunal president, Sir William Webb.

Testifies To Increase

Bates, who witnessed the fall of Nanking, said that before the Japanese occupation, Nanking's drug traffic was negligible, but less than a year after the invaders arrived 6,000 ounces of opium were being sold daily. Sales of heroin were netting drug merchants the equivalent of $3,000,000 monthly, Bates said.

The witness testified that a Japanese Foreign Office narcotic expert told him of being "terribly distressed" over the increase in drug addiction in China but that Japanese generals favored the trade because "there is no better source of revenue for a puppet government."

Previous To 1935

Lawless said that invariably, when Chinese and Koreans were arrested in the British concession at Tinetsin in drug raids before 1935 they admitted they had purchased the drugs from Japanese.

Lawless, an Englishman who lived 36 years in China before internment by the Japanese, testified that there was a "noticeable increase, a great increase," in narcotics traffic at Tientsin after the Japanese Army entered that city in 1937.

Koreans, who then were treated as Japanese nationals, attempted to operate drug factories in the diplomatic section at Peiping, Lawless said. Peddlers sold drugs obtained from Japanese in dens or to poorer Chinese from hypodermic needles filled with drugs which salesmen carried on their persons.

Tokyo Production

Tokyo, July 29 (AP)—A Government spokesman affirmed today that it is the Cabinet's intention to outlaw control of production as a labor-strike weapon. It was the first official statement since the Russian member of the Allied (advisory) Council for Japan openly supported such procedure.

The spokesman, Welfare Minister Yoshishige Kawai, said the Government would continue its policy of refusing legal recognition to production control. The point has become the most disputed one in Japan's fledgling Labor Government.

General MacArthur's economic and scientific section, which includes labor affairs, recently condemned the practice of unions taking over strike-affected factories, holding it was an unwarranted interference with private property. Lieut. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, Soviet member of the Allied Council, previously advocated legalizing the practice and included the idea in a proposed labor-reform program for Japan.

M'Arthur Okays Tax On Non-Jap Nationals

Tokyo, July 29 (AP)—General MacArthur's headquarters advised the Japanese Government today that it had no objection to a plan to tax non-Japanese nationals except for occupation forces and personnel accredited to headquarters.

The majority affected would be French, German, British, Chinese and American nationals engaged in Japan since before the war.

UNRRA Aide Drowned

Yokohama, July 29 (AP)—Rolf Nugent, 45, deputy director of the UNRRA Bureau of Supply in Washington, drowned while swimming at Jamakura with a friend last Saturday. Nugent lived in New York city.

HIROSHIMA TO MARK DEATH OF 100,000

Hiroshima, July 29 (A. P.).—Citizens of this atomized city are planning a three-day program commemorating the estimated 100,000 killed on August 6, 1945, when the first atomic bomb was dropped.

The program, beginning on August 5, also will feature a "Citizens' Peace and Reconstruction rally." There will be folk dances.

On the precise anniversary of the bomb—8:15 A. M., August 6—sirens throughout the city will sound the call for a minute of silent prayer.

General Approves Life Sentence

Yokohama, Tuesday, July 30 (AP). Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger today approved a life sentence given Sergeant Unosukemantani, former Nagoya prison camp guard. He was convicted of beating Pfc. Robert L. Robinson, Square S Ranch, Meeker, Col.; Corporal James T. Fite, Montgomery, Ala.; Pfs. Charles P. Chaffin, Clinton, Ohio, and Private Morris Littman, Philadelphia.

JAP BATTLESHIP NAGATO, A-BOMB VICTIM, SINKS

By ELTON C. FAY

BIKINI, Tuesday, July 30—(AP) The Japanese battleship Nagato, mortally wounded by the underwater atomic bomb explosion July 25, sank during the night.

The Nagato, third capital ship to succumb to the blast, remained so dangerously radioactive to the end that no one could approach within 100 feet of her. The other capital ships sunk were the battleship Arkansas and the carrier Saratoga.

Lookouts aboard the U.S.S. Mt. McKinley missed the Nagato at dawn, when checking the target array from a distance of three miles. She was sighted last at dusk Monday night, careening heavily to starboard.

Atomic test officials had planned to tow the Japanese vessel to sea for destruction so as to clear the Bikini anchorage.

To Sink Small Vessels

Some smaller worthless vessels are eventually to be sunk in the lagoon. Ships that can move under their own power will go to Pearl Harbor as soon as their test instruments can be removed.

Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy, commander of the atomic task force, said the carrier Independence, which was burned and violently battered by the July 1 aerial blast, would go to Pearl Harbor. He said her crew wanted to take her all the way to the United States on her own power, just to show how much their ship could take and still function.

Seabees already were at work preparing for the third atomic bombing test, the deep explosion scheduled for some time next year, although there has been no official word from Washington that this experiment actually will be carried out. Some experts have indicated that authorities have not fully made up their minds concerning it.

Admiral Blandy said, however, that the joint chiefs of staff had given permission to keep seabees here and they were preparing to place permanent moorings in the lagoon.

From these moorings it is planned to extend three to five long cables across the atoll reefs into deep water. One vessel of each type from battleship to transport will be secured to each cable, like beads on a string. Currents and prevailing winds are depended upon to keep them strung out over deep water.

The Binkini shelf descends at a 45-degree angle, so that there is mile-deep water very close offshor.

The purpose of an explosion at such a depth would be to force most of the bomb's power into the water, creating a hammer effect against hulls. In Thursday's shallow test, at an undisclosed depth ,it was estimated that apparently fully half the force of the bomb was expended upward into the air.

Surveys Still Made

Ashore and afloat, surveys still were being made of results of the recent explosion, and Blandy said he hoped to have his main report ready in October.

There will be numerous other technical reports which will not be made public but which should constitute a sort of naval atomic encyclopedia to be studied for years in the future, he said.

Indicative of the nature of this type of work, Blandy said washing decks with salt water was the best remedy thus far found for removing radioactive deposits, but that this was only about 30 per cent effective and some other means must be found, plus protective clothing for personnel.

Capt. Stafford Warren, radiological safety officer, said laboratories already were experimenting with new washing materials but had not proceeded far enough for any disclosures.

Surveys ashore indicated Bikini Island was hit by a bomb-created wave up to nine feet high but that little damage was done.

A few of the smaller types of landing craft which were beached had been rolled over, but bigger types were in virtually unchanged positions. One tank-landing ship, which had been beached as if for a amphibious operation, was refloated by the wave.

Army rground forces equipment on the beach was soaked with salt water but not damaged to any great degree, and buildings near the beach came through in good shape.

BIKINI CEMETERY UNHARMED BY BOMBS

Bikini Island, July 29 (A. P.).—Two thatched huts and a cemetery are all that remain of the original community which the natives of Bikini left for the safety of another island, while the atomic bomb tests were conducted against target ships in the lagoon.

Last Thursday's underwater blast tore away the seaward side of the neat white fence around the cemetery and strewed floatsam over the mounds. But the graves, visited recently between tests by Bikini's King Juda, withstood the convulsive visitation.

King Juda has predicted that his people will return to Bikini once man is done with testing the atomic bomb.

War Profits Probers Given Power by Truman to Check On Individual Tax Returns

JUL 31 1946

WARREN ASSAILS SPENDING DURING 'LUSH WAR YEARS'

Comptroller General Flays Loopholes in Wartime Contracts.

HITS ARMY OFFICERS

'Fraternization' with Contractors Cited—Tells of Jobs Accepted.

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 29 — (AP) The Senate War Profits Investigating committee got power today from President Truman today to look into Federal tax returns.

This specific authority had been sought by Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the Senate committee, who explained that the committee wished to check the returns of some persons involved in the investigation of the Garssons munition combine.

Powers Curbed

The committee's power to review tax returns will be subject to certain conditions.

Under a stipulation set forth by the Secretary of the Treasury, and agreed to by the President, the committee's discussion of any individual's tax return must be done in executive session, a Treasury spokesman explained.

The President's action in granting the committee access to records of the Bureau of Internal Revenue came a few hours after Comptroller General Lindsay Warren had denounced the government's wartime spending practices.

He cited "fraternization" between Army officers and contractors and contract loopholes as among the things which cost the nation "untold millions."

"From my seat, it has looked as if everybody and his brother were out to get the government during the lush war years," he told the Senate War Investigating committee during an attack upon a "lobby" attempting, he said, to break down fiscal safeguards.

The committee called Warren for help and recommendations in its effort to tighten controls over wartime spending—outgrowth of its still-developing inquiry into the Washington influence and operations of the Garsson munitions combine.

To Call Coffee

Upon conclusion of his testimony, it recessed until 10 a. m. tomorrow when Rep. Coffee (D-Wash) will be called for a sworn explanation of a $2,500 check which he has acknowledged receiving in 1942 from a defense contractor. He has explained is was a campaign contribution.

In addition to Coffee, the committee announced that it would call these witnesses:

Former Senator Rufus C. Holman (R-Ore); Eivind Anderson, the Tacoma contractor; Richard Rushlight of Portland, Ore.; Clyde Philip of Seattle, Wash.; Charles Hall of Portland, Ore.; James McGranery, assistant to the attorney general; General Brehon Somervell (retired), Maj. E. H. Leavy and Col. Homer W. Jones.

On the eve of his appearance before the committee, Coffee issued a statement saying that he would have "two or three" witnesses present to back up his claim that the check was a campaign contribution.

The Washington legislator said that he would present testimony which Anderson, the defense contractor, gave under oath in Federal Court suits—testimony, he said, which was "in direct conflict" with his subsequent "charges."

He asserted that his aid to Anderson had been over a period of years and that the camapign contribution was the result of a series of favors, most of them unrelated to government contracts.

Late in the day President Truman authorized the committee to inspect income, excess profits and other tax returns. The authority had been asked by Chairman Mead (D-NY) with the comment that the tax files desired were those of the persons involved in the Garsson group inquiry.

The inspection will be subject to conditions set up in a treasury decision which Mr. Truman also approved today. Neither the executive order nor the White House press office disclosed what those conditions were.

On the subject of wartime government spending, Warren used language unusually blunt for the head of an executive agency. He told the committee he found no satisfaction" in saying "I told you so," but reminded that he cautioned Congress two years ago that lack of essential safeguards would cost the taxpayers a "frightful toll."

Warren Hurls Charges

In his two hours of testimony, Warren:

1. Reported Army officers accepting lucrative jobs from war producers whose government contracts they helped draft and settle while in the service and denounced the practice as "damnable."

2. Protested a Senate amendment to the G. I. terminal pay bill—now before a House-Senate conference committee—which would permit officers, on terminal leave but in private employ, to prosecute contract settlement claims against the government in offices where they worked before leaving the service.

3. Blamed a Washington lobby with War Department officers as "its chief leaders," for breaking down an 1872 statute barring government employes from prosecuting such claims until at least two years after they have left the public payroll.

4. Declared that acceptance by "some" high government officials of entertainment, including cocktail parties, hotel bills, and travel expenses, from contractors was "the rule rather than the exception."

5. Described "cost-plus" procurement contracts as "the greatest device ever invented for pumping out the treasury."

"What incentive remains to exercise the American genius for efficiency when the most far-fetched and extravagant outlays are reimbursed, dollar for dollar, upon the unchecked approval of a friend or down-right sociable contracting officer?" asked Warren.

Chairman Mead (D-NY) observed that many of Warren's protests were supported by testimony obtained during the committee's inquiry into the Garsson combine. The committee learned that high ranking Army officers attended parties given by the combine's promoters.

The comptroller general said that the general accounting office is barred by statute from checking up on war contract details unless it has specific grounds for believing their settlement contains frauds.

"The fact is," he declared, "we are bound by law, or so the courts have held, to whitewash almost any conceivable cost so approved. Thus the cost-plus contract in reality is a wide-open invitation to spend the people's money—a gate wide enough to drive a team through, and nobody but the contracting officer can stop it so long as it comes within the terms of the contract."

Tells of Jobs Taken

He turned then to the functions of the contracting officers, elaborating on his contention that it was improper for them to leave the government to go to work for contractors whose government business they handled while on duty. He told of these three cases.

1. Maj. George W. Parker, formerly contracting officer and termination contracting officer assigned to Howard Aircraft corporation, now employed as general manager of the corporation.

2. Col. Forrest W. Smith, original and termination contracting officer on contracts with the Schwitzer-Cummings company, Indianapolis, Ind., left the Ordnance department on May 25, 1945, to become manager of procurement for the company three weeks later.

3. Captain G. I. Calvert, contracting officers' representative to expedite plant clearance and disposal of termination inventories in connection with final settlements made with the Sheffield Steel corporation, Houston, Texas, left the service to become a metallurgist with the company.

In addition, Warren said, Maj. Kerrwin Hagerty, area contracting officer, Army Air Forces, participated in termination settlements at Northwestern Aeronautical corporation, and on May 15, 1946, was hired by that firm as vice president in charge of production at $700 a month.

Warren said that "every searchlight" of the general accounting office will be turned upon the contracts held by those companies.

Mead called the offer and acceptance of the jobs "an indefensible practice" and said the committee "will dig into it further."

BRITAIN ACCEPTS REICH UNITY PLAN

JUL 31 1946

Russia Expected to Reject U. S. Proposal for Economic Merger.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, July 29 — (AP) The United States and Britain took the first steps today toward economic merger of their zones in Germany, and officials here look for France to join in the plan later.

However, the officials expect Russia to reject the proposal, with the result that Eastern and Western Germany may be more or less permanently split.

British Agree

The British decision to accept "in principle" the United States proposal for economic merger was announced by the State department here and by British Minister of State Philip Noel-Baker in the House of Commons.

While Noel-Baker said France "had not agreed to come in" there was an air of confidence here that she would do so later.

The door was being held open for Russia, also, but there was not much hope that she would give up the exclusive control which she has thus far exercised over Eastern Germany.

Following the State department announcement, Maj. Gen. John H. Hilldring, assistant secretary of state in charge of occupied territories, said that the more unity the four zones of Germany can achieve the less will be the cost to the taxpayers of the occupying nations.

Even complete economic unification of the country would not mean immediate self-sufficiency, however, Hilldring said.

From Hilldring came word that American and British occupation authorities at Berlin have already started negotiations for actually putting into effect the economic unity their governments have agreed upon. Hildring said he hopes such unity will be complete and "there will be no dotted line left between the two zones."

The British decision was announced by the State department as Secretary Byrnes met with the representatives of 20 other nations in Paris in the first peace conference of World War II. Some diplomats suggested the developments concerning Germany were at least as important, with regard to European unity or disunity, as the work undertaken at Paris.

Study de Gaulle Plan

On another aspect of the division of Europe, American officials were studying the proposal put forward by General Charles de Gaulle yesterday that France and Britain join an alliance and seek the leadership of Europe to balance the United States and Russia as the world's two greatest powers.

Initial reaction was that the United States probably would not oppose any developments along that line so long as they were within the United Nations charter.

But possibly most significance was seen in the steady drift away from the idea that the United States and other Western powers can work as a team with Russia in the over-all organization of world peace. There appears to be an increasing trend toward recognition of at least two separate spheres, possibly more.

In its announcement on Britain's agreement to try economic unification of the British and American zones in Germany, the State department expressed hope "that the other occupying powers will find it possible to give an equally favorable response" to the offer made by Secretary of State Byrnes two weeks ago.

The British agreed "in principle" to the proposition, but officials disclosed that actual work on details of the merger has already started in Berlin.

Byrnes has taken the position that the United States and Britain were paying too heavily to maintain a basic economy in their zones because of the economic chaos resulting from disunity.

Third Of German Captives Fully De-Nazified

Washington, July 29 (AP)—The Army said today that about three fourths of the 378,000 German prisoners of war interned here went home at least partly re-educated into an appreciation of democracy and friendship toward the United States.

The conclusion was based on a poll of 22,153 prisoners who passed through Camp Shanks, N.Y., on their way back to Germany from camps in all parts of this country. It was designed to measure the success of army efforts to change the prisoners' Nazi attitudes and beliefs.

Third "Definitely" Anti-Nazi

Major Robert F. Richards said in a report to Brig. Gen. B. M. Bryan, provost marshal general, that:

About 33 per cent of the prisoners are now definitely anti-Nazi and pro-democratic, compared to an estimated thirteen per cent before the start of the re-education efforts.

An additional 41 per cent are "favorably inclined" toward democracy.

Some ten per cent are still militantly Nazi, and sixteen per cent, while not strictly Nazi, are not favorably disposed toward America or democracy.

Most Favor Democracy

Asked what type of government they would prefer for the future Germany, 62 per cent indicated a preference for democracy, seven per cent for communism, five per cent for a constitutional monarchy, two per cent for the social democrats and five per cent for national socialism.

1948

30.24-4443

Only six per cent were found to believe still that Germans are "supermen" and eight per cent clung to the opinion that the individual exists for the state.

Many Still Blame Jews

However, to the question, "Do you believe the Jews were the cause of Germany's troubles?" Only 33 per cent answered negatively, whereas 49 per cent replied "partly" and 8 per cent said "entirely."

The survey showed that older prisoners were more pro-democratic than the youths. Men between 26 and 30 gave the highest percentage of answers the Army deemed unfavorable.

TRUMAN APPOINTS NOURSE TO HEAD ECONOMIC BOARD

President Says 'Booms and Busts' Can Be Prevented.

POST PAYS $15,000

New Chairman Advocates Retention of Private Enterprise.

By WILLIAM R. SPEAR

WASHINGTON, July 29—(AP) President Truman expressed belief today that booms and busts can be prevented—and appointed an economist who shares that view, Edwin Griswold Nourse, to head the new Economic Advisory Council.

"Our country is capable of maintaining an economy free from the evils of both inflation and deflation," Mr. Truman declared in a statement.

"The Council will be in a position to present to the nation a clearer and more comprehensive analysis than we have ever had regarding the economic state of the nation and all factors which tend to retard prosperity."

Economic Survey

This is the board established by the act passed last February which aims to promote conditions which will provide "useful employment" for all who want to work. The three-man board, a top government agency, is to study the economy and make reports and recommendations to Congress and the President.

After a long search for qualified men who would accept the $15,000 a year posts, equal in pay to that of cabinet members, Mr. Truman last Thursday announced two of them—Leon Keyserling and John Davidson Clark. The Senate Banking committee today approved their nominations. Nourse, however, did not accept until 11 a. m. today, pending further study of what would be expected of him.

Nourse is vice president of the Brookings Institution, a research organization, and has headed its institute of economics since it was established in 1922. Now 63, he had mapped further studies in his profession of economics calculated to occupy the remainder of his useful span of life.

But he abandoned these plans to take the government post because, he said, it is "so important, and it has such potentialities of adding a new factor." That factor, as he sees it, is intelligent cooperation by management and labor with government.

Backs Private Enterprise

The first words Nourse said to an interviewer who called at his book-lined office in the Brookings Institution, half a block from the White House, were that "I am an advocate of retention of the private enterprise system." He added, however, that private enterprise must be accommodated "to the broad ends of national welfare."

To illustrate his philosophy he pulled from a shelf his latest book published by Brookings, "Price-Making in Democracy," and pointed to what he called a "blurb" on the jacket:

"How can business leaders save private enterprise?"

He made it clear that he classes union executives as well as corporation executives among the "business leaders," and that the job of making private enterprise work is primarily the responsibility of these leaders, with appropriate help from the government. He believes that both business and labor leaders are "trustees of the public interest."

Going further in this connection, he indicated that he disliked the original jobs bill with its commitment for the government to guarantee "full employment." This was the subject of a long controversy in Congress, with the President urging the original form, but the measure was modified.

Nourse termed the final act an "improvement" over the original, and its terms "excellent." He pointed to its stated purpose to "foster and promote free enterprise and the general welfare."

Asked whether he believes that "everybody has a right to a job," he replied that he "wouldn't put it in that form." He put it in the terms of the bill itself—that the government should provide the "conditions" for "useful employment."

As for public works to provide employment, he saw that question as something "that must develop out of the situation" at a given time.

He also was asked whether he would predict a depression after the current developing phase of postwar prosperity. He answered by expressing confidence that the situation can be handled so as to avoid a disastrous depression—"I think we are capable of preventing one."

"Would another depression prove a fatal blow to the private enterprise system?"

"The effects would so jeopardize the private enterprise system," he replied, "that it behooves business to make every effort to ecoperate with the government to see that we do stabilize in every way possible."

In this sense, too, he included labor leaders. He remarked that both management and labor can be "a very important constructive or destructive factor." He added that they should have "an amicable partnership," and that "it is a mistake to deal with them as if their interests were opposed."

Not a Politician

Nourse considers himself an independent in politics and has not been affiliated with any party. In fact, he remarked that he has had few chances to vote because of his shifts from the Wharton School of Finance, the University of South Dakota, the University of Arkansas and the Iowa State College, where he taught economics, and his long residence in the District of Columbia.

Nourse is a tall, slender, white-haired, handsome man who looks like Hollywood's version of a college professor. His name is pronounced "Norse."

Truman's Statement

The text of the President's statement follows:

"I have today nominated Mr. Edwin G. Nourse to be a member of the Council of Economic Advisors, provided for by the Employment Act of 1946, and propose to designate him as chairman.

"I consider that this act constitutes a distinct and vitally important new step in the history of this country. It is the function of the Council to formulate and recommend national economic policies to promote employment, production and purchasing power under free competitive enterprise.

"One of its primary functions is 'fact-finding.' It will piece together a complete and consistent picture of the economic state of the nation. The next function of the Council will be to interpret all available facts and then to present the soundest possible diagnosis as to the state of the nation's economic health.

"Our country is capable of maintaining an economy free from the evils of both inflation and deflation. With such an economy, our country can go forward to greater heights of prosperity and full employment than have yet been achieved. This policy must be predicated upon a program of fair dealing and justice to all our people.

"The Council will be in a position to present to the nation a clearer and more comprehensive analysis than we have ever had regarding the economic state of the nation and all factors which tend to retard prosperity."

HOUSING BILL DIES IN HOUSE

Measure Called For Erection Of 15,000,000 Homes

JUL 31 1946

Washington, July 29 (AP) — The Wagner-Ellender-Taft long-range housing bill—designed to spur the construction of 15,000,000 homes in ten years—was put in a congressional pigeonhole today despite White House pressure in its behalf.

Included in the measure is a provision for public construction of 125,000 dwelling units annually. Opposition pivoted on this point.

Members of the House Banking Committee pronounced the bill "dead for this session" when, meeting behind closed doors, they found it impossible to hear 40 remaining witnesses and get the measure to the House floor before Congress quits.

Given Up Hope

Chairman Spence (D., Ky.) told reporters "I think you can say we have given up hope. If Congress goes through with its plans to adjourn Friday." He said it was his opinion that if the bill had been brought to a showdown in the committee today, without full hearings, it would have been voted down.

The committee made no plans for further consideration of the measure, which was approved by the Senate on April 15.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Texas), who had told reporters earlier that the House would consider the housing bill if the committee brought it in, was asked if he considered it dead on the basis of the committee action.

"I think so," he replied.

Were Clamoring Outside

As the committee met in executive session a group of opponent witnesses, mostly representatives of private building and finance companies, were outside clamoring to be heard. Virtually all testimony presented thus far has been by proponents of the bill.

Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, filed a statement with the committee saying "the repeated cry" that the measure is essential for veterans' housing is "purely a clever propaganda phase without foundation."

Wilson Wyatt, housing administrator, contends the legislation is essential to the success of the veterans' Housing Act passed by Congress last spring. Mr. Truman sent a letter to House leaders last week asking for action as soon a practicable.

125,000 Public Units

The legislation, authorized by Senators Wagner (D., N.Y.), Ellender (D.,La.), and Taft (R., Ohio), contemplates a ten-year housing program calling for construction of 1,500,000 dwelling units a year, including 125,000 public housing units annually.

It would liberalize financing and mortgage insurance provisions of present laws and provide for large-scale research in home construction.

Proponents contend it is a "private enterprise bill." However, the National Association of Home Builders issued a booklet charging that there is concealed in the bill "a huge public housing program and an invasion of private property ownership unmatched in the history of the Federal Government." Moreover, the organization contended it would commit the Government "calculable expenditures of $6,000,000,000."

Loss Is "Severe Blow"

Mr. Wyatt declared tonight that the failure to pass the Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill now is "a severe blow" to the Veterans Emergency Housing program.

The National Housing Administration relied heavily on passage of the measure, Wyatt said in a statement, to provide rental housing for veterans in the low and middle income brackets.

"If we are to meet the goals of the emergency program as well as meet the housing problems of the nation as a whole—we must have such legislation," he added.

OPA AUTHORIZES PRICE INCREASE ON SOME CLOTHES

WASHINGTON, July 29 — (AP) OPA today authorized an immediate general increase of 11 per cent in retail ceiling prices for men's shirts, shorts and pajamas.

The agency also granted an additional increase of up to 10 per cent, on top of the 11 per cent for men's and boys' dress shirts and boys' sport shirts in lower price brackets.

These increases were granted under provisions of the old price control law which required industry earnings be maintained at the 1936-39 level.

More Boosts Coming

Additional clothing increases, estimated by some OPA officials at from 15 to 20 per cent, will be granted later under terms of the price control revival law which became effective July 25.

Today's order compensates manufacturers for increase in labor and materials costs through June 30. The previous cut-off date on these increases had been Aug. 18, 1945.

The full extra ten per cent increase authorized for men's and boys' shirt may be charged only when this would not raise prices over certain maximums established by OPA.

Prices Cited

In general these retail maximums are about $1.84 on men's dress shirts, $1.04 on one type of boys' shirts and $1.35 on another type.

OPA said the general 11 per cent increase will raise retail ceilings on a shirt now selling for $2.50, for example, to about $2.80.

OPA said today's increases result from an overall boost in the price of cotton textiles which went into effect last March.

Meanwhile, the Civilian Production administration announced that it will not authorize priorities assistance for clothing manufacturers "who deliberately create bottleneck situations."

Referring particularly to women's suit manufacturers, Herbert Rose, CPA textile chief, said some of these producers had purchased and cut up large quantities of wool fabric, although they lacked linings and other materials to finish suits.

PAC Faces Test In Tenn. Bid To Oust McKellar

Washington, July 29 (AP)—The CIO Political Action Committee runs up against its toughest Dixie test Thursday when Tennessee voters decide whether or not to renominate 77-year-old Kenneth D. McKellar for a sixth term in the Senate.

The Tennessee contest sparks a week of political action in which Alabama voters choose a Democratic nominee to complete the term of the late Senator John Bankhead; Arkansas nominates a Democratic gubernatorial candidate, and Kentucky voters pick nominees for nine House seats and the Senate chair now filled by a Republiacn, William A. Stanfill.

The Alabama and Arkansas elections are tomorrow, Kentucky's Saturday.

McKellar Has Choice Post

Most interest will be centered on Tennessee. Edward Ward Carmack is attempting to unseat McKellar in a Democratic primary where nomination usually means election in November.

McKellar, held in Washington by the failure of Congress to clean up its business, has been waging an active, if long-distance, battle to retain the choice political position he now holds as the Senate's presiding officer and unofficial Acting Vice-President. In that capacity, McKellar draws $5,000 a year more salary than his colleagues and also attends Cabinet meetings.

Taking note of the opposition, McKellar has struck back with the contention that the CIO-PAC, headed by Jack Kroll, pursues pro-Russian policies and counts "New York pinks" among its members.

Carmack has been indorsed by the CIO-PAC.

Health Defended

As an indication of the seriousness with which McKellar supporters view Carmack's bid, Senator Stewart (D., Tenn.) took the unusual course of issuing a statement asserting that his colleague's health is "strictly first class." Stewart said there had been some "loose charges" about the health of McKellar, who spent a few days in the Naval Hospital here in May.

In the same primary, Gov. Jim McCord is being opposed for renomination by former Gov. Gordon

Browning, a lieutenant colonel with the Army Civil Affairs Staff in Berlin.

The PAC also is involved in tomorrow's Alabama voting, with an indorsement of Representative John Sparkman, one of three leading candidates for the seat Senator Swift (D.) now holds by temporary appointment. Representative Frank Boykin and State Senator James A. Simpson are battling with Sparkman.

Governor Challenged

In Arkansas, Gov. Ben Laney is being challenged for renomination by former Judge James Laone and Virgil Green.

The Kentucky primary Saturday will find ailing Representative Andrew J. May, currently under fire of the Senate War Investigating Committee, renominated without opposition. Five Republicans are seeking the chance to oppose him in November, including Elmer E. Gabbard, college president, who came close to beating May two years ago.

Ships Near North Pole

Washington, July 29 (AP)—A small contingent of Navy and Coast Guard ships has penetrated through Arctic ice fields into the Greenland harbor of Thule, only 950 miles from the North Pole and the farthest north any large ship has reached at this season of the year, the Navy Department disclosed yesterday.

Under command of Capt. Richard H. Cruzen, who was second in command to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in his 1939-41 Antarctic expedition, three ships broke through the ice fields Monday, July 22, and steamed into Thule, which is on Smith Sound above Baffin Bay.

Ships Participating

The contingent was spearheaded by the Navy converted icebreaker, the U.S.S. Whitewood, commanded by Lieut. Com. William H. Daly, another member of the Byrd expedition.

The Coast Guard icebreaker North Wind and the naval seaplane tender U.S.S. Norton Sound followed in the Whitewood's wake.

As the ice retreats, the ships are scheduled to continue working northward in an effort to amplify existing knowledge of navigational and weather conditions in the Arctic and to provide cold-weather routine training for the crews.

Carries Two Planes

The Norton Sound, commanded by Capt. Alan Smith, Jr., carries two patrol planes for reconnaissance over ice fields ahead of the ships. The three ships left Boston early this month. Two small supply ships, the U.S.S. Alcona and the U.S.S. Beltrami, are en route to join them.

Aboard are scientists and weather technicians. In addition, officers of the Canadian Navy, Army and Air Forces are participating in the cruise.

The ships are scheduled to return to Boston in October.

TERMINAL PAY STAND EASED

Senators Offer 'Bonds-For-Insurance' Compromise

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Senate members came up with a "bonds-for-insurance" compromise today in another attempt to drive House conferees from their "all cash" stand on accumplated leave pay for discharged GI's.

Under the new proposal discharged veterans would receive payment in bonds, as voted by the Senate, but could take the bonds to the Veterans Administration and apply them on their regular war risk insurance or in converting their policies to other types. The House has voted for cash, the same way officers are paid for unused leave.

Immediate Use Of Allowance

A spokesman for the Senate group said the new plan would keep the terminal-leave pay funds from adding to the inflationary pressure of circulating cash at this time, and still allow the veterans to make immediate use of the allowance.

House members of the conference group agreed to think about the proposal overnight.

President Truman has asked an appropriation of $2,600,000,000 to meet the bill expected to be presented by an estimated 15,000,000 eligible men.

Truman Attends Dinner In Honor Of Barkley

Washington, July 29 (AP)—President Truman tonight attended a dinner given by Senate Democrats in honor of Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky.

It was an off-the-record affair, with no reporters or photographers invited.

Informal talks, paying tribute to Barkley's nine years of service as Senate Democratic leader were scheduled. The Kentuckian was elected to that position in 1937, ten years after he first came to the Senate. He succeeded the late Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas.

Senator Kenneth McKellar, of Tennessee, president pro tempore of the Senate, was to preside over the dinner, held at Hotel Raleigh.

NLRB CUTS STAFF

WASHINGTON, July 29—(AP) The National Labor Relations Board, now operating under a congressionally-reduced budget, today began cutting off personnel.

Between 125 and 150 field attorneys and examiners will be released, a board spokesman explained, from the approximately 800 persons on the NLRB payroll.

Fifty-three attorneys and 30 field examiners were sent notices today. Half of the attorneys will have their services terminated as of August 31, the other Sept. 30. The field examiners notified today will be let out effective Oct. 1.

Senate Bill Would Aid Evacuated Japanese

Washington, July 29 (AP)—The Senate voted today to authorize the establishment of a three-member Evacuation Claims Commission to handle the claims of Japanese evacuated from West Coast areas during the war.

It adopted an amendment by Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) to have the commission appointed by the President, instead of by the Secretary of Interior.

On a motion by Senator Langer (R., N.D.), it also broadened the bill to cover claims of persons other than of Japanese ancestry.

The measure went to the House. Ferguson previously had blocked action but withdrew his objections when amendments were accepted.

Senate Sides With Greece

Resolution Would Give Her North Epirus and Dodecanese

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The Senate adopted unanimously today a resolution favoring the award of northern Epirus, including the Dodecanese Islands in the Aegean Sea, to Greece in the European peace conference.

The resolution which has no force of law and merely expresses Senate opinion, was adopted after Chairman Tom Connally, Democrat, of Texas, of the Foreign Relations Committee observed that the award had already been agreed to by the Council of Foreign Ministers but was "not yet final."

15 Possible U.N. Sites Named

New York, July 29 (AP)—The United Nations Headquarters Commission announced today the selection of fifteen possible sites for the permanent home of the United Nations in the Westchester-Fairfield area of New York and Connecticut.

The proposed sites for the world capital range from 2 square miles to 40 square miles. After discussing each site with the people involved, the commission will cut the list down to five sites to be considered by the General Assembly at its meeting in New York this fall. These will be areas of 2, 5, 10 20 and 40 square miles each.

Towns Figuring

In New York, the towns figuring in the sites are Harrison, Rye, Cortlandt, Yorktown, Bedford, North Castle and New Castle. In Connecticut the towns concerned are Greenwich, Stamford, Ridgefield and Milton.

The commission pointed out in its announcement that the General Assembly in London last winter limited its search for a site to the Westchester-Fairfield area.

Atomic Reports

Meanwhile, the probability that the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission will be forced to make majority and minority reports was seen today as the Russian plan for controlling atomic energy went under close scrutiny of commission members.

A member of the United States delegation to the commission said the majority report favoring the United States plan, would be supported by ten delegates on the basis of the present consideration of the question of control. The minority report, he added, would be made by Russia and Poland and would favor the Russian plan for atomic-energy control.

Russia's Stand

Russia has informed the commission that she rejects the major proposals of the United States plan. Now the American delegation plans to let Russia carry the ball for a while.

The Russian plan will be up for detailed consideration at the scheduled meeting of the Commission's Committee No. 2 at 10 A.M. Wednesday.

The committee of the Security Council named to consider applications for membership in the United Nations will meet Wednesday morning at Hunter College.

100 Stay At British Consul Jobs Despite Bomb Search

New York, July 29 (AP)—The 100 employés of the British consulate remained calmly at work in the 25-story Cunard Building today as police swarmed through it in a fruitless search for a bomb an anonymous caller had said would explode "within 28 minutes."

The consulate telephone operator—Miss Gertrude Salt—told police she received the call from a smooth-voiced man at 10.15 A.M.

Police searched the building from basement to tower, inspecting packages carried by all persons entering and leaving, before acting Police Captain Thomas Hammill concluded no bomb had been planted and announced it was "just another one of those telephone calls."

"Lot Of Calls From Cranks"

John B. Robey, vice consul to John Gardner, consulate general, said: "We receive a lot of calls from cranks," but said it was the first time such a threat had been made.

Thousands of office workers in the financial district crowded the streets around the Cunard Building on lower Broadway during the noon hour as police conducted the hunt. The building superintendent estimated that about 4,000 persons work in the offices, which include the Cunard White Star Line, Ltd.; Anaconda Copper Company, Bethlehem Steel and the American Brass Company.

A mysterious telephone call preceded by two days the explosion of a time bomb in the British pavilion at the New York World's Fair on July 4, 1940. Two detectives were killed and five others injured. The case still is unsolved.

A few hours after excitement over today's incident had subsided, a second call sent a police bomb squad racing to the general post office where an Army Air Forces type fragmentation bomb container had been found in the mails.

Immersed In Oil

The cylinder, about 18 inches long and 4 inches in diameter, and weighing 23 pounds was immersed in oil for more than an hour, then opened by explosives experts.

Inside they found a parachute stuffed into an empty cartridge. Rex Criss, postal inspector, said it evidently was a war souvenir.

He said the package was addressed to M. Dorkin, 26 Grove Place, West Haven, Conn.

Atom Power Auto Derided As 'Bunk'

New York, July 29 (AP)—The arid sands of the Sahara and Greenland's icy waters may bloom through atomic energy, but automobiles won't run on it, a Government consulant predicted tonight.

Talk of "teacup" power plants for cars is "bunk," Harry A. Winne declared in a radio address.

The speaker, a General Electric Company vice president and a consultant to Secretary Byrnes's atomic -energycommittee, said that a shield, to oheavy and massive for automobiles, must surround an aomic unit to protect people from deadly radiations.

Concerning reclamation projects mentioned as within the potentialities of atomic energy, Winne said he "would rather bet on the Sahara than on Greenland."

5 Finnish Stowaways Removed From Ship

Boston, July 29 (AP)—Five Finnish youths—stowaways — ranging in age from 16 to 22, were removed from the Liberty freighter Joseph A. Brown today to the Boston immigration detention station, where six other young Finns are being held.

The young men, who stowed away at the Port of Raumo, Finland, had been manacled to their beds to prevent possible escape after the ship reached port yesterday.

Capt. Bryan Charlesworth, of Philadelphia, master of the freighter, expressed belief that some organized method was being employed to to get stowaways aboard vessels in Finnish ports. Commenting on the fact that another freighter arrived with six young men recently, he said it appeared that some system was enabling would-be stowaways to get information about American freighters.

Navy's 'Fighting Lady' Is Tied Up In Reserve

Seattle, July 29 (AP)The "Fighting Lady" has put on a new dress and retired to live with her memories, but ready to fight again if need be.

The Japanese knew the "Fighting Lady" as "Mitscher's Gray Ghost." The navy knew her as the U.S.S. Yorktown, or CV10. The men who fought on her called her the "Lucky Y." A moving picture telling of her exploits was titled "Fighting Lady."

Today the Yorktown ends a gallant career. Tied alongside a Seattle dock, her guns encased in a protective substance and her flight deck scrubbed and clean but bare of planes, the Yorktown will be inactivated and placed in reserve.

Dons Peacetime Color

She has a new dress of haze gray—a peacetime color—which replaces her dark gray war paint, but the new dress fails to hide the scar in her side left by a Japanese bomb.

The score upon score of little Japanese flags remain to tell of a glorious success in combat under Rear Admiral J. J. (Jocko) Clark, of Chelsea, Okla.; Rear Admiral R. E. Jennings, of Washington, D.C.; Rear Admiral T. S. Combs, Tallahassee, Fla., and Capt. W. F. Boone, Palo Alto, Cal.

Capt. M. E Browder, of Indianapolis, who holds the Navy Cross, has commanded the ship during the task of putting her in "moth balls."

The "Fighting Lady" has many memories. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was her sponsor as she was launched in January of 1943.

Under Admiral (then captain) Clark, she was the first carrier of her class to get into action in the Pacific offensive, beating her sister ship Essex by minutes in launching planes in strikes at Marcus Island on August 31, 1943.

Her planes were also the last to see action in the air when her flyers shot down three Japanese aircraft which appeared in the skies after the Japanese had surrendered.

In between the first and the last were attacks on Wake Island, on the Gilberts and Marshalls, on Truk, in the Marianas, on the Palau and Wolei Islands, on Hollandia, Guam, the Bonins, Yap, Philippines, Formosa, Okinawa and Japan.

Record Of Destruction

Her record includes 458 Japanese planes shot down by her planes; 14 Japanese aircraft shot down by her guns; 695 Japanese aircraft destroyed on the ground; 1,191 enemy aircraft probably destroyed and 2,358 enemy aircraft destroyed or damaged.

It includes, too, 119 enemy ships sunk; 329 enemy ships damaged; 15,184 five-inch shells fired, 167,630 40-millimeter shells fired and 472,757 20-millimeter shells fired.

And there is the other side—the 131 of her own aircraft lost to combat and 73 lost operationally.

Redeployment Schedule

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The only troopship scheduled to arrive in the United States today is the George Eastman docking at San Francisco from Okinawa with eight Army servicemen.

Ships which arrived yesterday were:

At New York

W. M. Ogden from Antwerp via Boston, nine Army.

At San Francisco

Geo. O. H. Ernst from Pearl Harbor, without passenger information; Republic from Okinawa, 1,025 Army.

At San Diego

Gen. J. C. Breckenridge from Shanghai, 2,692 Marines, 2,288 Navy.

IN THE ASSEMBLY HALL, THE TWO MEN FOUND THEMSELVES FACING EACH OTHER FROM OPPOSITE SIDES OF THE HORSESHOE SHAPED PATTERN OF SEATS. IT JUST SO HAPPENED, APPARENTLY, THAT THE SYSTEM OF SEATING THE DELEGATIONS ALPHABETICALLY PUT BYRNES ON THE EXTREME RIGHT AND MOLOTOV ON THE FAR LEFT.

BIDAULT TEXT
PARIS, JULY 29-(AP)-THE TEXT OF PREMIER BIDAULT'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS TO THE PARIS PEACE CONFERENCE: (1,200)
IN THE NAME OF THE FRENCH PEOPLE, THE GOVERNMENT OF THE REPUBLIC WHOLEHEARTEDLY WELCOMES THE DELEGATIONS OF THE ALLIED AND FRIENDLY NATIONS FOR THE FIRST LARGE CONFERENCE THAT IS TO DISCUSS THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE POST-WAR WORLD.
IT IS HAPPY TO STATE THAT ALL THE NATIONS HAVE ACCEPTED THE INVITATION THAT WAS SENT THEM IN THE NAME OF THE FOREIGN MINISTERS COUNCIL AND IT IS CONVINCED THAT THE REPRESENTATIVES OF OUR COUNTRIES WILL WORK WITH A COMMON ACCORD IN THE SPIRIT OF FRIENDLY COOPERATION ON THE IMPORTANT TASK SET BEFORE THEM.
FOR THE SECOND TIME IN LESS THAN THIRTY YEARS, IT IS IN FRANCE THAT ARE HELD THE INTERNATIONAL ASSIZES AT WHICH THE VICTORIOUS

NATIONS OF TWO TERRIBLE WARS ATTEMPTED TO ESTABLISH PEACE.

THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT APPRECIATES THE HIGH VALUE OF THE HONOR AND CONFIDENCE SHOWN IT BY ITS PARTNERS AND FRIENDS. IT KNOWS THAT THIS HONOR IS THE CONSEQUENCE OF A DESTINY THAT FOR THE SECOND TIME CARRIED FRANCE INTO THE VANGUARD OF THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONS WHICH WERE VICTORS OVER AGGRESSION AND THAT TWICE SHE HAD A LARGE PART OF THE SUFFERING AND DESTRUCTION THAT WAS THE PRICE OF THE VICTORY.

THE CONFERENCES AFTER THE 1914-1918 WAR PROPOSED TO THE WORLD SOLUTIONS WHICH DID NOT HINDER THE BREAKING OUT OF A NEW, LONGER AND MORE TERRIBLE WAR LESS THAN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AFTERWARDS. IT IS TOO EASY TO JUDGE THE MEN OR POLICIES RESPONSIBLE FOR THESE SOLUTIONS. THE JUDGMENT BELONGS TO HISTORY.

BUT LET ME SAY THAT, WHATEVER WERE THE MISTAKES AND WEAKNESSES, THE PROFOUND CAUSE OF THE FAILURE WAS THAT TWO GREAT POWERS WHO HAD TAKEN A DECIDED PART IN THE CONQUEST OF ARMS REMAINED ON THE SIDELINES DURING THE SOLUTION OF THE PEACE.

JUL 31 1946

THIS CAUSE, WITHOUT A DOUBT A DECISIVE ONE OF WEAKNESS, NO LONGER EXISTS TODAY. ALL THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONS PARTICIPATE IN THE DEBATE. THE INTERNATIONAL CONCERT EXISTS FROM NOW ON AND THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT PARTICULARLY HOPES THAT IT WILL BE PROMPTLY COMPLETED BY THE ADMISSION INTO THIS CONCERT OF THE NATIONS STILL ABSENT, NOTABLY THOSE IN EUROPE, AS SOON AS THESE NATIONS LIVE ACCORDING TO THE RULES OF LIBERTY.

THE ASSOCIATION OF PACIFIC NATIONS, ANIMATED BY THE SAME IDEAL, IS AT THE BASE OF THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION, THE FOUNDATIONS OF WHICH WERE LAID LAST YEAR AT SAN FRANCISCO AND WHICH, AMID GREAT DIFFICULTIES BUT WITH CONFIDENCE AND HOPE, BEGAN ITS FIRST YEAR OF EXISTENCE IN 1946.

IT IS TO THIS SAME ASSOCIATION OF PACIFIC NATIONS THAT THE COUNCIL OF FOREIGN MINISTERS APPEALED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE ELABORATION OF THE PEACE TREATIES.

YOU ALL KNOW, GENTLEMEN, THE PROCEDURE ADOPTED TO ASSURE THE PREPARATION AND THE DISCUSSION OF THE TREATIES TO BE CONCLUDED WITH THE EUROPEAN STATES WHICH HAVE BEEN, THROUGHOUT OR DURING PART OF THE WAR, THE ASSOCIATES OF GERMANY.

I DO NOT NEED TO RECALL TO YOU THE MEETINGS OF THE FOREIGN MINISTERS COUNCIL IN LONDON IN SEPTEMBER, 1945, IN PARIS IN MAY, AND THEN IN JUNE OF THIS YEAR, DURING WHICH WERE DRAWN UP THE DRAFTS THAT ARE SUBMITTED TO YOU TODAY.

I KNOW THAT CRITICISM HAS BEEN MADE OF THE BROAD LINES ALONG WHICH THIS PROCEDURE WAS CONCEIVED. COMPLAINTS HAVE ALSO BEEN HEARD ON THE SLOWNESS WITH WHICH OUR WORK HAS BEEN CONDUCTED AND THE DELAY THAT HAS RESULTED FROM IT FOR THE NECESSARY CONSULTATION OF THE OTHER NATIONS PRINCIPALLY INTERESTED.

JUL 31 1946

B7

AS REPRESENTATIVE OF THE GOVERNMENT THAT YOU HAVE ACCEPTED AS YOUR HOST IT IS LEAST OF ALL UP TO ME TO DEFEND THE METHODS THUS ATTACKED.

BUT, HAVING PERSONALLY AND DIRECTLY PARTICIPATED, I AM ABLE TO SAY THAT THE DIFFICULTIES ENCOUNTERED WERE IMMENSE BECAUSE THE INTERESTS AT STAKE WERE HARD TO CONCILIATE AND BECAUSE IT WAS ESSENTIAL TO RESPECT CERTAIN PRINCIPLES OF MORALS AND RECTITUDE IMPOSED ON INTERNATIONAL POLITICS AS ON THE CONDUCT OF HUMAN RELATIONS.

30.24-4447

PARIS--1ST ADD BIDAULT TEXT X X X OF HUMAN RELATIONS.

IT IS CERTAINLY NOT THE REPROACH OF PRECIPITANCE THAT CAN BE HURLED AT THOSE WHO SUBMIT TO YOUR CONSIDERATION TODAY THIS IMPORTANT CHAPTER OF THE EUROPEAN SETTLEMENT COMPOSED OF THE PEACE TREATY DRAFTS FOR ITALY, HUNGARY, BULGARIA, ROMANIA, AND FINLAND.

BUT AT LEAST THEY ARE CONSCIOUS OF HAVING SEARCHED WITH PATIENCE AND EVEN WITH PASSION FOR THE SOLUTIONS THAT COULD BE REACHED IN COMMON ACCORD TO CONSTITUTE THE BASIS OF DURABLE SETTLEMENTS.

IT IS NOT YET THE MOMENT TO SAY AS OUR DELIBERATIONS OPEN WHETHER THEY HAVE SUCCEEDED. IT IS, HOWEVER, FITTING TO RENDER THEM THE JUSTICE OF RECOGNIZING THAT THEY HAVE NEVER TRIED TO IMPOSE, WITHOUT CONSULTING OTHERS, DEFINITIVE DECISIONS.

AT THE VERY START IT WAS DECIDED THAT THESE DECISIONS SHOULD NOT BE REACHED UNTIL THE DEBATE HAD BEEN CARRIED BEFORE A LARGER AUDIENCE WHERE INTERNATIONAL PUBLIC OPINION CAN MAKE ITSELF HEARD FREELY.

IT IS FOR THAT REASON THAT THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED NATIONS WHICH EFFECTIVELY PARTICIPATED IN THE WAR WITH SUBSTANTIAL MILITARY FORCES ARE MET TODAY IN PARIS.

JUL 31 1946

COMPLETE ASSURANCES HAVE BEEN GIVEN THAT THIS CONFERENCE WOULD HOLD AS LARGE AND AS PROFOUND A DISCUSSION AS POSSIBLE AND THAT THE DEFINITIVE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE TREATY DRAFTS WOULD ONLY TAKE PLACE AFTER HAVING GIVEN YOUR RECOMMENDATIONS FULL CONSIDERATION.

IT IS IN THIS SPIRIT, GENTLEMEN, THAT THE PARIS CONFERENCE HAS MET AND I DO NOT DOUBT THAT YOU WILL APPRECIATE THE IMPORTANCE OF THE

JUL 31 1946

TASK DEMANDED OF YOU.

THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT HAS ALWAYS MAINTAINED AND MAINTAINS MORE THAN EVER THAT A FREE DISCUSSION IS ESSENTIAL TO PERMIT THE HEARING OF ALL OPINIONS. IT IS CONVINCED THAT A FUNDAMENTAL RULE OF DEMOCRACY IS THAT A DECISION IS ONLY VALID WHEN IT HAS BEEN DEBATED IN BROAD DAYLIGHT BY THE REPRESENTATIVES OF ALL INTERESTED PARTIES AND OBTAINS THE SINCERE ADHERENCE OF THOSE CALLED ON TO TAKE THE RESPONSIBILITY AND ASSUME THE CONSEQUENCES.

THE QUESTIONS SUBMITTED TO YOU CONSTITUTE ONLY PART OF THE DEFINITE PEACE SETTLEMENT AND ARE DIFFICULT AND COMPLEX. THEY PLACE AT STAKE THE VITAL INTERESTS OF A GREAT NUMBER OF EUROPEAN STATES. SOME TIMES THEY RAISE PASSIONS.

I AM CERTAIN THAT ALL OF US WILL TACKLE THE EXAMINATION WITH A DESIRE TO FIND IF NOT PERFECT SOLUTIONS AT LEAST INTELLIGENT SOLUTIONS WHICH ARE CONTRARY NEITHER TO JUSTICE NOR HONOR AND WHICH ARE CAPABLE OF PROVIDING THIS SECTION OF THE WORLD, THAT HAS SO TRAGICALLY SUFFERED, WITH THE ELEMENTS OF PEACE WHICH IT HAS SUCH AN IMPERIOUS NEED.

THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT IS CONVINCED THAT THE PARIS CONFERENCE, FULLY CONSCIOUS OF ITS RESPONSIBILITIES, WILL SUCCEED IN THE HEAVY TASK BEFORE IT.

THE LONG SUFFERING OF THE WORLD, THE PATIENT WAITING OF THE PEOPLE AND ANXIETY OF THE WEAK, THE IMMENSE HOPE OF PLAIN MEN OF GOOD HEART IS TURNED TODAY TOWARD US TO ASK US TO SET ASIDE FOREVER THE EVIL OMENS OF UNHAPPINESS FORECAST SO OFTEN BY THE PROPHETS AND TO FOUND IN MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING, AT THE SERVICE OF JUSTICE AND LIBERTY, A WORLD DELIVERED FROM THE PLAGUE WHICH BECOMES WORSE AS TIME PASSES--I MEAN WAR.

WE HAVE ALL SUFFERED IN TRYING TO BANISH IT. IT IS NOW TIME TO BEGIN TO SUCCEED.

JUL 31 1946

GENTLEMEN, I DECLARE THE PEACE CONFERENCE OPEN.

OKINAWA, JULY 23-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE NAVY TRANSPORT TAZEWELL, WHICH PUT ASHORE TROOPS DURING THE OKINAWA CAMPAIGN, RETURNED TO THE PEACEFUL ISLAND TODAY WITH THE FIRST DEPENDENTS OF AMERICAN MILITARY PERSONNEL.

JUL 31 1946

FOURTEEN WIVES AND SIX CHILDREN OF NAVY, MARINE CORPS AND COAST GUARD PERSONNEL ARRIVED. MEN FROM NAVY CAPTAINS TO STOREKEEPERS CLIMBED UP A ROPE LADDER TO GREET THEIR FAMILIES ABOARD SHIP.

THE HUSBANDS COULDN'T PROMISE THEIR WIVES ANY LUXURIES ASHORE, BUT THEY HAVE BEEN WORKING FOR WEEKS TO MAKE THINGS AS COMFORTABLE AS POSSIBLE. HOUSING INCLUDES QUONSET HUTS AND TEMPORARY BUILDINGS.

THE WIVES OF THE NAVY'S TWO SENIOR OFFICERS ON OKINAWA--CAPT. JEROME LEE ALLEN OF GROSSMONT,CALIF., COMMANDANT OF THE NAVAL BASE, AND CAPT. W.H. FERGUSON, (HOMETOWN NOT GIVEN), OPERATION OFFICER--WERE AMONG THE PASSENGERS. WITH MRS. FERGUSON WAS NINE-YEAR OLD ROBERT FERGUSON.

OTHER PASSENGERS INCLUDED: MRS. MILDREN CURRY, OMAHA, NEBR.

OTHER PASSENGERS INCLUDED: MRS. MILDRED CURRY, OMAHA, NEBR., (HUSBAND, CHIEF MACHINISTS' MATE, JOHN W.CURRY;) MRS.JOHN LENGVARSKY AND SON, JOHN MARTIN, OF OLEAN, N.Y., (HUSBAND A WARRANT BOATSWAIN); MRS.LLOYD W.STECKWINE AND DAUGHTER, CAROL, OF 2109 NORTHWEST 20TH ST., MIAMI,FLA., (HUSBAND STOREKEEPER, FIRST CLASS); MRS. NORMAN K.EDWARDS AND DAUGHTER, LESLIE, OF VISTA, CALIF., (HUSBAND A LIEUTENANT); MRS. ROLAND LEDUC, STARBRIDGE, MASS., (PER COPY, PROBABLY STOCKBRIDGE, MASS.), (HUSBAND, SHIP'S CLERK); AND MRS. JAMES K.WADSWORTH, 26 LORNE ., BOSTON, MASS., (HUSBAND, PAY CLERK.)

INCLUDED IN THE LIST:

JUL 31 1946

(THE LIST ALSO INCLUDED THE NA[ME] OF MRS. PATRICIA SCHROEDER, WIFE OF EDWARD SCHROEDER, STOREKEEPER, FIRST CLASS, BUT THE ADDRESS WAS GARBLED AND UNAVAILABLE DUE TO SLOW COMMUNICATION DIFFICULTIES WITH GUAM.)

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN, JULY 29-(AP)-ONE ADVANTAGE OF SMALL SHIPS OVER BIG ONES WHEN ATOMIC BOMBS ARE EXPLODED UNDER WATER WAS EXPLAINED TODAY BY DR. R.A. SAWYER, TECHNICAL HEAD OF THE BIKINI TESTS.

LITTLE SHIPS ESCAPE HAVING THEIR BOTTOMS STOVE IN BY THE ATOMIC BLAST BECAUSE OF THEIR SHALLOWER DRAFT. THE UNDERWATER CONCUSSION FROM THE BOMB EXPLOSION IS STRONGER AND MORE DANGEROUS FOR EVERY FOOT OF DEPTH. THIS IS DUE TO THE FACT THAT WATER PRESSURE RAPIDLY INCREASES WITH DEPTH. THEREFORE IS MUCH HEAVIER AT 20 FEET DEEP THAN AT 10.

EXAMPLES, DR. SAWYER SAID, ARE THE DESTROYER HUGHES AND THE TROOP TRANSPORT FALLON. BOTH WERE BEACHED TO KEEP THEM FROM SINKING, BUT THEY HAD REMAINED AFLOAT IN THE TARGET AREA FOR TWO DAYS WHILE THE GREAT SHIPS ARKANSAS AND SARATOGA SANK. THE HUGHES AND FALLON WERE FARTHER FROM THE BOMB THAN EITHER OF THESE BIG SHIPS--BUT THEY WERE NOT MUCH FARTHER. ALSO, THEIR POSITION HAD BEEN DECIDED ON IN THE EXPECTATION THAT, BECAUSE OF THEIR MUCH THINNER AND WEAKER BOTTOMS, THEY PROBABLY WOULD BE SUNK EVEN THERE.

THIS UNEXPECTED OUTCOME, WAS ONE REASON WHY ADM. EDWARD A. COCHRANE, CONSTRUCTION CHIEF OF THE NAVY'S BUREAU OF SHIPS, SAID YESTERDAY THAT LIGHT FAST SHIPS, MIGHT BE ONE ANSWER TO ATOMIC BOMBS.

DR. SAWYER SAID RADIOACTIVITY ON TARGET SHIPS IS COMING MAINLY FROM FISSION PRODUCTS OF THE BOMB ITSELF. FISSION PRODUCTS ARE THE SPLIT ATOMS OF PLUTONIUM. THEY ARE MANY DIFFERENT CHEMICAL ELEMENTS OF ABOUT HALF THE WEIGHT OF PLUTONIUM. ALL THESE NEWLY-FORMED ATOMS GIVE OFF VERY POWERFUL X-RAYS, AND OTHER RAYS AS WELL. THESE FISSION ATOMS EMIT RAYS FOR LONG PERIODS.

SAWYER SAID THAT THE SPLIT PLUTONIUM ATOMS FORMED ABOUT 70 PERCENT OF RADIOACTIVITY INITIALLY ON THE DECKS OF SHIPS. TODAY THE FISSION ATOMS CAUSE A STILL HIGHER PERCENTAGE OF THE RAYS.

NEVERTHELESS, SPLIT PLUTONIUM ATOM RAYS ARE DYING OUT AND INSPECTION PARTIES ARE BOARDING SOME OF THE TARGET SHIPS.

BY HOWARD W.BLAKESLEE

ASSOCIATED PRESS SCIENCE REPORTER.

BIKINI,JULY 29-(AP)-WORK ON "TEST CHARLIE," WHEN AN ATOM BOMB WILL BE DETONATED FAR DOWN IN THE DEEP SEA, ALREADY IS STARTING, VICE ADM. W.H.P.BLANDY SAID TODAY AS HE AWAITED DAMAGE REPORTS FROM A TARGET FLEET STILL DANGEROUSLY RADIOACTIVE AFTER THURSDAY'S SHALLOW BLAST.

SEABEES HAVE BEEN ASSIGNED TO PREPARE THE DEEP-SEA MOORING LINES FOR NEXT SPRING'S TENTATIVELY-PLANNED DEEP-WATER BURST.

THE DEADLY X-RAYS BARRED CLOSE INSPECTION OF INNER-CIRCLE SHIPS IN THE LAGOON AGAIN TODAY--MORE THAN FOUR DAYS AFTER THE HARBOR-DEPTH EXPLOSION. BUT LIVE ANIMALS HAVE BEEN FOUND ON AT LEAST TWO SHIPS ON THE OUTER CIRCLE.

IF IT HAD BEEN A WARTIME BLAST, ADMIRAL BLANDY EXPLAINED, CREWMEN WOULD HAVE FACED THESE RADIOACTIVE RISKS TO SAVE THEIR SHIPS AND LIVES OF THE INJURED.

HE COULD GIVE NO ESTIMATE OF THE COST OF SUCH HEROISM.

THE ADMIRAL SAID ONLY THAT IT MAY BE A WEEK BEFORE IT IS SAFE TO GO BACK ABOARD SOME OF THE SHIPS.

THE INCOMPLETE, TENTATIVE DAMAGE TOLL MEANWHILE ROSE TO 16. LATEST ADDITION WAS THE SUBMARINE DENTUDA, BEACHED WITH HER FORWARD TORPEDO ROOM FLOODED.

AS A RESULT OF THESE TESTS, ATOM-POWERED WARSHIPS WITH HULLS TOUGHENED TO WITHSTAND SUCH BOMB BLASTS MAY BE CONSTRUCTED WITHIN FIVE YEARS, PREDICTED ADM. EDWARD L. COCHRANE, CONSTRUCTION CHIEF OF THE NAVAL BUREAU OF SHIPS.

CAPT. LOGAN MCKEE, OF THE SAME BUREAU, ADDED THAT "WE HAVE A LOT OF IDEAS ON ATOMIC-POWERED SUBMARINES." NEITHER HE NOR COCHRANE WENT INTO DETAIL.

THE LATEST BOX SCORE OF THE SHALLOW-DEPTH BOMB TEST SHOWED:

SUNK: BATTLESHIP ARKANSAS, CARRIER SARATOGA, AND A YARD OILER.

DESTROYED: LANDING SHIP FROM WHICH THE BOMB WAS HUNG.

DAMAGED: BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIA, JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO, CRUISERS SALT LAKE CITY AND PENSACOLA, TRANSPORT FALLON, DESTROYER HUGHES, ONE LANDING CRAFT, THE SUBMARINE DENTUDA AND FOUR OTHERS WHICH EARLY OBSERVATIONS INDICATED HAD GONE TO THE BOTTOM: THE APOGON, SKIPJACK, SEARAVEN AND PILOTFISH.

THUS, THE SINGLE BLAST CRIPPLED A FIFTH OF THE 75 TARGET VESSELS.

THE NAGATO, LISTING BADLY AND WITH DECKS AWASH, PROBABLY WILL BE TOWED TO SEA AND SUNK BY GUNFIRE.

JUL 31 1946

BIKINI--FIRST ADD BLAKESLEE'S ATOMIC ROUNDUP- X X X BY GUNFIRE.

VINSTRUMENT MEASUREMENTS SHOWED A WAVE 10 TO 15 FEET HIGH, AT A POINT FULLY 8,100 FEET FROM THE BLAST, AND CMDR. ROGER REVELLE ESTIMATED ITS CREST ROSE TO A HEIGHT OF 60 TO 90 FEET NEAR THE CENTER OF THE INNER CIRCLE.

DR. KARL T. COMPTON, PHYSICIST WHO HEADS THE EVALUATION BOARD OF THE JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF, AND SENATOR HATCH (D., N.M.), CHAIRMAN OF THE PRESIDENT'S CIVILIAN EVALUATION COMMISSION, SAID NEITHER GROUP HAS REACHED ANY DECISION ABOUT THE DEEP WATER TEST. Q BLANDY SAID THE CHIEFS OF STAFF ALREADY HAVE AUTHORIZED KEEPING SEABEES AT BIKINI FOR THE DEEP-WATER PREPARATIONS. THEY WILL SET PERMANENT MOORINGS IN THE LAGOON. NO SHIPS WILL BE IN THE LAGOON, BUT THESE MOORINGS WILL ANCHOR THE LANDWARD END OF HEAVY CHAINS THAT WILL EXTEND OUT ACROSS THE ATOLL REEFS INTO DEEP WATER.

OUTSIDE THE REEFS, THE CORAL BOTTOM DROPS DOWN AT A 45 DEGREE ANGLE, AND REACHES A DEPTH OF A MILE ONLY A SHORT DISTANCE FROM THE ATOLL. THE CHAINS WILL HOLD WARSHIPS IN POSITION IN WATER FAR TOO DEEP FOR ANCHORS.

SHIPS, BLANDY EXPLAINED, WILL BE IN LINES. EACH LINE WILL CONTAIN ONE SHIP OF EACH PROMINENT NAVAL TYPE, SUCH AS BATTLESHIP, CARRIER, CRUISER, SUBMARINE, DESTROYER AND TRANSPORT. THE SHIPS WILL COME FROM THE PRESENT TARGET FLEET, BUT POSSIBLY NOT ALL OF THIS FLEET WILL BE USED. SOME MAY BE RETURNED TO THE UNITED STATES FOR TESTS WITH OTHER KINDS OF WEAPONS. THE CONDITION OF SUPERSTRUCTURES ON THE TEST-CHARLIE SHIPS WILL NOT BE IMPORTANT. THE TEST IS TO SHOW WHAT THEIR BOTTOMS CAN STAND WHEN MOST OF THE BOMB'S POWER GOES INTO THE WATER INSTEAD OF NEARLY HALF IN THE AIR AS IN THE SECOND TEST.

BLANDY TOLD NEWSMEN THAT SHIPS OF THIS SUMMER'S GUINEA PIG FLEET WHICH STILL WERE ABLE TO PROCEED UNDER THEIR OWN POWER WOULD RETURN TO PEARL HARBOR. THOSE THAT HAVE TO BE TOWED WILL BE TAKEN TO KWAJALEIN.

THE CARRIER INDEPENDENCE, RESEMBLING A DRUNKEN MAN WITH HIS HAT COCKED OVER ONE EAR, WILL GO TO PEARL HARBOR.

ATOMIC (200)

BIKINI, JULY 29-(AP)-SHIPS' DECKS STILL EMITTED X-RAYS IN DEADLY STRENGTH TODAY--FOUR FULL DAYS AFTER THE ATOMIC UNDER-WATER BURST.

VICE ADM. W.H.P. BLANDY, ATOM TEST CHIEF, SAID THAT IF THIS HAD HAPPENED IN WAR, THE CREWS WOULD HAVE FACED RADIOACTIVE RISKS TO SAVE SHIPS AND LIVES.

CRACKED HULLS IN THE UNDERWATER BLAST, THE ADMIRAL SAID, HAVE LET IN RADIOACTIVE WATER AND SOME PROBABLY CONTAINING SPLIT ATOMS FROM PLUTONIUM. IT HAS NOT BEEN POSSIBLE TO GO BELOW DECKS OF "HOT" SHIPS TO LEARN THE FULL SIGNIFICANCE OF THIS NEW MENACE.

BUT THOSE WHO BEACHED THE SINKING DESTROYER HUGHES PEERED BELOW DECKS AND GOT ONE LOOK AT WHAT AWAITS MEN DOWN THERE. THIS WAS A POOL OF SEA WATER WITH A SALT-ENCRUSTED RIM. X-RAYS FROM THE POOL WERE SO STRONG NO ONE WAS ALLOWED TO APPROACH THE AREA.

BLANDY SAID WASHING DOWN DECKS WITH SALT WATER IS THE BEST REMEDY FOUND SO FAR,--BUT IT HAS REMOVED ONLY ABOUT 30 PERCENT OF RADIOACTIVE DECK DEPOSITS.

MOST SERIOUS OBSTACLE IS THAT FISSION PRODUCTS OF ATOMIC EXPLOSIVES ARE NOT READILY SOLUBLE IN WATER. THEY TEND TO STICK WHERE THEY FALL. RADIOACTIVE SALT WASHES OFF EASILY BUT IT IS SELDOM MORE THAN 30 PERCENT OF TOTAL RADIOACTIVITY. AND WITH THE SALT GONE, THERE STILL IS ENOUGH LEFT FROM FISSION PRODUCTS TO GIVE MAN PERHAPS FATAL INJURY OR PERMANENT DAMAGE IF HE HAS TO FACE THIS NUCLEAR STUFF FOR AS MUCH AS ONE DAY.

THE ADMIRAL SAID HE FORESEES RADICAL CHANGES IN THE STRUCTURE OF WARSHIPS, BUT HE REFUSED TO ELABORATE.

Peace Treaty Drafts Strip Italy, Other Former Axis Satellites Of War Machines, Reshuffle Borders

JUL 31 1946

BEATEN NATIONS ASSESSED BILLIONS IN REPARATIONS

None of Hitler's Former Allies Allowed Subs, Bombing Planes.

ADMIT DISAGREEMENTS

Danube Waterway Is Still Among Major Points Under Controversy.

PARIS, July 30. — (AP) The treaty drafts prepared by the Big Four foreign ministers for submission to the Paris Peace Conference propose to strip Italy, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Finland of all but a vestige of their war machines, bill them for $1,000,000,000 in reparations and reshuffle their frontiers. The drafts were placed before the world tonight.

None of these former allies or satellites of Adolf Hitler's Germany would be allowed any submarines or bombing planes. They also would be required to guarantee fundamental human freedoms.

The treaties were prepared by the United States, Great Britain, Russia and France. These four major powers will make the final decision on ending a state of war with the five former Axis countries after the Peace Conference which opened here Monday has considered the drafts in an advisory capacity.

Several Disagreements

The 286 pages of draft treaties published here revealed the disagreements as well as the agreements of the recent sessions of the four-power foreign ministers council.

A major point of disagreement centered on the future of the Danube waterway—a question having an important bearing on the economy of all of Central Europe.

Russia flatly refused at the foreign ministers council to have the Danube question brought before the Peace Conference. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov balked at a British-United States proposal to include in the treaties for Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria a clause guaranteeing "entire equality" of navigation on the Danube to all states. Further Molotov rejected a British proposal for a conference of all "interested states" to set up a new permanent international regime for the Danube to succeed the body set up in 1921 under the Versailles treaty.

Other disagreements were on:

1—The Italian-Yugoslav frontier in which the United States asked for a more liberal deal for Italy. In connection with this question the ministers agreed to internationalize Trieste, claimed by both Italy and Yugoslavia.

2—Economic access to the Balkans in which Russia asked special privileges for neighboring countries, of which she is one, instead of equal trade provisions for all the United Nations.

3—Balkan indemnities in which Russia objected to allowing the United States, Britain and France to seize Balkan assets abroad to meet claims. Russia also proposed one-third rather than full compensation to citizens of the various United Nations for losses sustained in defeated Balkan countries.

In the political field four of the treaties provided for completion of measures suppressing fascism and anti-allied activities. Italy was exempted from this clause, and her treaty expressly recognized that she had overthrown her fascist regime. But she as well as the others was charged to maintain democracy.

Italy Loses Territory

Under the drafts Italy would suffer the greatest loss of territory.

Treaties with Germany and Japan will not be considered until the allies deem those countries ready for full self government.

Military restrictions placed on the Axis satellites relegate the armed forces of those nations to the minor role of local defense. The following limitations are imposed:

Italy—185,000 troops and 65,000 carabinieri (military police), compared with a 1939 army of 2,240,000 men and 5,175,000 trained reservists; navy devoid of submarines and composed of 67,500 tons and two old battleships, compared with a one-time fleet of 717,420 tons including 130 submarines; air force cut to 200 fighter and reconnaissance planes and 150 transport and training craft.

Romania—Army of 120,000, compared with a pre-war force of 1,800,000; air force of 150 planes and 8,000 men, compared with estimated 1939 personnel of 15,000; navy of 15,000 tons and 5,000 men; anti-aircraft artillery of 5,000 men.

Finland—34,400 troops, compared with a prewar force of 301,300; navy of 10,000 tons and personnel strength of 4,500; air force of 60 planes and 3,000 men.

Bulgaria—Land army of 55,000, compared with peak wartime force of 670,000. Anti-aircraft artillery of 1,800 men; navy of 7,250 tons manned by 3,500; air force of 90 combat type planes with personnel of 5,200.

Hungarian Army 65,000

Hungary—Army including frontier troops, anti-aircraft and river flotilla of 65,000 men, compared with 700,000 during war; air force of 90 planes manned by 5,000.

The reparations figure of $1,000,000,000 was a minimum, and may be increased.

The total amount Italy must pay, in addition to $100,000,000 to Russia, has not yet been determined. Likewise, the cost which Bulgaria must pay has not been decided. Hungary, Finland and Romania each have been assessed $300,000,000. The United States reserved the right, however, to oppose the assessment in the case of inflation-ridden Hungary.

Reshuffle Map of Europe

Reshuffling of the map of Europe was one of the major undertakings outlined, but proposed territorial changes did not approach in scope the land transfers involved in the peace treaties of World War No. 1.

The most controversial territorial change before the present Peace Conference would establish Trieste as a free territory and give Yugoslavia "all the territory east of the line known as the French line" in Italy, and a group of islands in the Adriatic.

Greece was given the Dodecanese Islands and France was awarded five thin slices of territory on the present Italian-French border.

A 1940 Axis edict awarding half of Romanian Transylvania to Hungary was nullified, and the 12,000-square-mile territory restored to Romania. A 1940 Soviet-Romanian agreement by which Bessarabia and northern Bukovina were ceded to Russia was confirmed.

The question of the Greek-Bulgarian border was left undecided.

Russia Gets Petsamo

The proposed Finnish treaty awarded Russia the Finnish province of Petsamo, on the Arctic ocean, with its ice-free port of Petsamo.

Each treaty contained a clause requiring respect for the individual liberties of citizens.

The clause for Hungary, for example, read:

"Hungary shall take all measures necessary to secure to all persons under Hungarian jurisdiction without distinction of race, sex, language or religion, enjoyment of human rights and of fundamental freedom of expression, of press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting."

Another clause bound defeated nations to "undertake not to permit in the future existence and activities" of fascist organizations.

The allies agreed to withdraw from all occupied countries under consideration, except Hungary. The Hungarian treaty gave Russia permission to maintain occupation troops to protect her communication lines to the Russian occupation zone of Austria.

The United States, voicing concern over Hungary's economic plight, said in an appended note she was reserving the right to reconsider her reparations assessment, and said that the "heavy burden of armistice requirements" had helped bring that nation to the "point of complete collapse of economy."

On the subject of demilitarization, the treaties declared that the former enemy nations "shall not possess, construct or experiment with any self-propelled or guided missiles or apparatus connected with their discharge, sea mines of non-contact type actuated by influence being manned, submarines or other submersible or specialized types of assault craft."

The proposed treaties also required cooperation "with the United Nations in order to ensure that Germany may not be able to take any action outside German territory in the direction of rearmament."

The drafts also looked toward the admission of the former enemies into the United Nations. If the treaties are concluded, the preambles said, allied powers will be able to "support" applications for United Nations membership.

American And Russian Views On Economics Show In Rifts

Paris, July 30 (AP)—The clashing differences between the United States' economy of free enterprise and Russia's state ownership of all business were sharply underlined tonight by splits between the Western Allies and the Soviet Union as revealed in the proposed peace treaties for five Nazi satellite nations.

For instance, the United States demanded that the former enemies pay in full for all damage to foreign-owned holdings in their territories as a result of the war. It also broadened its definition of "a result of the war" to include action taken by the enemy countries since hostilities ended.

That clause would cover holdings taken over by the former enemy countries most of which have built up Communist-favoring regimes.

Russia Argues For One Third

James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, won French and British backing for his restitution plan, but both countries held reservations about its wording.

Russia dissented, arguing that payment should be forced only up to one third the value of all foreign holdings.

The United States and Great Britain proposed a plan for equal rights of all the United Nations to negotiate contracts for civil air travel privileges in the defeated nations.

Russia answered that plan with a phrase which appeared two or three other times in the disputed portions of the recommended treaties: "The Union of Soviet Socialistic Republics delegation sees no reason for inclusion of this addition in the treaty."

Seeks Exceptions On Neighbors

Although all four powers agreed that members of the United Nations should get "most favored nation" treatment in making commercial contracts with the defeated countries, Russia proposed jettisoning that principle when it affected "relations with neighboring countries"—Russia itself and the eastern European countries in its orbit.

Byrnes also sought to gain repayment for Allied holdings—"through intermediate corporations"—in damaged firms owned by non-United Nations nationals. Russia also rejected that one.

The three western powers proposed that enemy holdings in United Nations countries should be subject to seizure and liquidation to pay Allied claims against the enemies. Russia, supporting the beaten associates of Germany, urged restoration of such property, to the former enemy nations.

Shows Russian Friendship

Russian economic friendship for the five former allies of Hitler also was evidenced in the Soviet stand on the former enemies' financial relations with Germany.

V. M. Molotov, Foreign Minister, argued that enemy property in Germany should be freed and that property the Germans looted from them after they deserted the Nazis should be restored.

The three western powers, however, proposed that the former satellite nations abandon all claims against Germany except for claims made before the fighting began in 1939.

Russia flatly refused at the recent Big Four foreign ministers council to have the key question of the future of the Danube waterway brought before the Paris peace conference, publication tonight of the disagreed sections of the ministers' draft treaties showed.

Despite the Russian position, however, the Danube question can be raised during the peace conference. It is a procedural issue. Hence if it is put to a vote in any of the three committees concerned with treaties for Romania, Hungary or Bulgaria, and receives the necessary majority, it may be placed on the conference agenda.

Balked At Two Proposals

There was an authoritative opinion here as to whether the point will be raised.

At the recent sessions of the Foreign Ministers Council, Molotov balked at the inclusion of a clause in the draft treaties guaranteeing "entire equality" of navigation on the Danube to all states, as proposed by Britain and the United States.

The draft treaties also showed that Molotov rejected a British proposal for a conference of all "interested states" to set up a new permanent international regime for the Danube. Molotov indicated that this should be left to separate action entirely apart from the peace conference.

The Danube was internationalized after the first World War by the Versailles Treaty of 1919.

U.S. OFFERS BORDER PLAN FOR TRIESTE

Proposes Security Council Should Name Member For Commission

Paris, July 30 (AP)—The United States proposed tonight that the United Nations Security Council be given a hand in negotiations fixing the boundaries of the free territory of Trieste.

Not yet discussed by the Council of Foreign Ministers, the suggestion was included in the draft of the Italian peace treaty submitted to the 21-nation European peace conference.

The American suggestion called for the Security Council to appoint a third member of the commissions which must define the frontiers within six months after conclusion of the peace.

Might Prevent Impasse

That might decrease the possibility of the quarreling Italian and Yugoslavian regimes reaching an impasse. If they were unable to agree, the treaty provides for an appeal to a five-man body made up of the four-power ambassadors in Rome plus another "impartial commissioner."

The American plan would retain that appellate procedure.

The undiscussed proposals, placed in the draft for possible guidance of the peace conference, also included a United States suggestion defining inch by inch the frontiers between Italy and Yugoslavia, between Italy and Trieste and between Trieste and Yugoslavia.

The American suggestions were drawn up in detail by American geographers after acceptance of the internationalization of Trieste as a compromise to break a Foreign Ministers' Council deadlock delaying the Italian treaty draft.

Slavs To Fight Italy Border Plan At Paris

Paris, July 30 (AP)—The Yugoslav delegation to the Paris Peace Conference will continue to fight against adoption of the proposed compromise boundary line between Italy and Yugoslavia "because it is unjust," a source close to the delegation said today.

He asserted the delegation maintained that 60,000 Yugoslavs and only 14,000 Italians were contained in the territory between the so-called Bidault compromise line and the "true ethnical line" advocated by Yugoslavia.

The delegation also plans to continue its campaign for "full reparations" from Italy, the source said. He quoted members of the delegation as saying that certain Allied countries "are behaving as if we were the beaten side and Italy were the victor."

Atom Bomb Ignored In Peace Treaties

PARIS, July 30 — (AP) The peace treaties proposed for the five nations which waged war on Germany's side ignored the atom bomb, which was not used in the European theater.

The authors, however, left a loophole for the bomb's eventual inclusion.

"Allied and associated powers reserve the right to amend" the list of forbidden war materials "in the light of subsequent scientific development," annexes of all five treaties said.

The annexes define the terms and cover the technical aspects of peace making.

Backed by military clauses in the treaties, the annexes generally prevent the defeated nations from arming their allowable small forces with anything but the conventional weapons known before 1939.

"Self-propelled or guided missiles or apparatus connected with their discharge" are outlawed, thus eliminating the use of the German V1 and V2 weapons.

Peace Drafts Require 286 Fine Print Pages

PARIS, July 30 (AP).—The English texts of the treaty drafts for Italy, Finland, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary take up 286 printed pages of small type.

The Italian draft covers ninety-two pages, the Romanian fifty-two, the Hungarian fifty one, the Bulgarian forty-nine and the Finnish forty-two.

The drafts were printed by the French National Printing House.

Italian Empire Slashed By Proposed Peace Plan

War Machine Junked; Must Pay 100 Million in Reparations.

PARIS, July 30 — (AP) Italy's once boasted war machine would be slashed to almost comic opera size and the Mussolini empire that threatened to rival Caesar's would be trimmed to be a thin boot by the draft of the proposed Italian peace treaty.

On these and other penalties for making war—notably the payment of $100,000,000 in reparations to Russia—the United States, Great Britain, Russia and France were agreed in the recommended treaty to be submitted to the 21-nation European peace conference.

Boundaries Left Open

But other disputed questions, such as the boundaries of the suggested free territory of Trieste, and reparations due to France, Yugoslavia, Greece and other victims of Italy's participation in the war were left open, although the United States offered its own solution to the Trieste question.

Despite Italy's service as an 11th hour co-belligerent against Germany, she suffered total eclipse as a military power under the terms of the proposed treaty, and would salvage little more of its pre-war prestige than the promise of a waterpower supply from territory lost to France.

Army Cut to 185,000

The treaty would limit Italy to an army of 185,000 men and 65,000

JUL 31 1946

carabinieri (military police). Her 1939 army had 2,240,000 men and 5,175,000 trained reservists.

In place of her "Mare Nostrum" Navy of 717,420 tons, Italy is allowed 67,500 tons, along with the old Battleships Doria and Duilio, under the proposed treaty. She is stripped completely of the more than 130 submarines she had before the war.

Italy's air force would be slashed to 200 fighter and reconnaissance planes and 150 transport and training craft.

Loses African Colonies

The treaty provides also that Italy give up title to her African territorial possessions, whose future control will be decided by the four nations represented on the Foreign Ministers' Council within a year after the proposed treaty comes into force.

France would get five thin slices of territory now on the Italian side of the two nations' border, but Italy is guaranteed access to hydro-electric power sources in the lost Alpine areas.

Yugoslavia would get "all territory east of a line known as the French line" in Italy—the line France proposed after an Allied commission surveyed the area—"as well as the commune of Zara" and a group of islands in the Trieste area of the Adriatic sea.

Dodecanese Isles to Greece

Greece would acquire the Dodecanese Islands, which British troops are to vacate within 90 days after the ratification of the treaty. Italy waives all claims against Albania and Ethiopia, as well as her commercial interests in China.

Like other former enemy nations for which draft treaties were prepared, Italy may seek membership in the United Nations upon signing the treaty.

Of Italy's disputed northeastern boundary, the 78-article treaty draft says:

"The Council of Foreign Ministers agreed that all territory east of the line known as the French line shall be ceded by Italy to Yugoslavia and the free territory of Trieste shall be constituted within the French line, bounded on the north by a line drawn from Duino to the French line."

Although the United States suggested a boundary lined in greatest detail, the treaty draft does not contain it, but proposes instead that an "exact line of the new frontiers" be drawn by boundary commissions responsible to the four major powers.

By contrast, the territory France would acquire is defined to the last kilometer—little St. Bernard Pass, Mont Cenis Plateau, Mont Thabor, Chaberton and an area lumped as upper Tinee Vesubie and Roya Valleys.

The draft provides that Italy "shall take all measures necessary to secure to all persons under Italian jurisdiction, without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion, the enjoyment of human rights, including freedom of expression, of the press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting."

Of Trieste, the draft continues:

"The integrity and independence of this free territory shall be assured by the Secretary Council of the United Nations. A special commission representing the four powers of the Foreign Ministers Council shall be immediately appointed to consult with representatives of Yugoslavia and Italy and to examine the whole subject and present preliminary suggestions to the Peace Conference. A permanent statute shall be submitted for the approval of the Security Council which will report to the General Assembly of the United Nations x x x.

"Recommendations for a provisional government and for the formation of a permanent statute shall be made by the Peace Conference of 21 nations in accordance with the procedure adopted at the Moscow conference.

"The provisional government and a permanent statute shall preserve the following general principles:

"1. A governor shall be appointed by the security council after consultation with Yugoslavia and Italy.

"2. A legislative and executive authority shall be established on democratic lines, including universal suffrage.

"3. The rights of citizens shall be protected in respect of human rights and fundamental freedoms, particularly including religion, language, press, schools and access to public services.

"4. Annual reports shall be submitted by the governor to the security council."

100 Million Reparations

The reparations section of the treaty draft provides that the Soviet Union's $100,000,000 levy—over which the United States and Great Britain have expressed the fear they will have to pay that sum indirectly—must come from Italian factory tool equipment, from Italian assets in Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary and from Current Italian industrial production.

Deliveries from current production would be waived for two years.

"Claims put forward by other powers, in particular France, Yugoslavia, Greece, Albania and Ethiopia, will be considered at the Peace Conference x x x" the draft says.

Under the draft terms, Italy would have to grant most favored nation treatment to members of the United Nations trading with her. The treaty provides that for the first 18 months the ambassadors of the four drafting powers will represent all the Allies in matters concerning the execution and interpretation of the document.

Fortifications Banned

Besides restrictions on the size and equipment of its armed forces, Italy would be forbidden to maintain fortifications at the French and Yugoslav frontiers, as well as on the islands of Pantelleria—an Allied invasion stepping stone—and Pianosa, and the Pelagian islands of Lampedusa, Lampione and Linosa. The fortifications of Sicily and Sardinia would be severely restricted.

The draft provides further that "Italy shall not possess, construct or experiment with any self-propelled or guided missiles or apparatus connected with their discharge, or any guns with a range of over 30 kilometers (18.64 miles), sea mines or non-contact types actuated by influence mechanisms, or any torpedoes capable of being manned."

In addition to the two battleships, the Italian Navy would be limited to four cruisers, four destroyers, 16 torpedo boats, 20 corvettes and no more auxiliary vessels than could be manned and maintained by 2,500 officers and men.

Surplus ships and war material would be destroyed or turned over to the Allies as provided by an unpublished annex of the treaty draft.

The Army would have no more than 200 tanks and the air force would have no bombers. German or Japanese technicians would not be allowed to be employed in the Italian aircraft industry and Italy would be forbidden possession of planes of German or Japanese design.

FINLAND'S ARMY WILL BE SLASHED TO DEFENSE SIZE

PARIS, July 30—(AP) Limitation of Finland's armed forces to small, inoffensive units designed for local defense is recommended in the Council of Foreign Ministers' draft of a peace treaty between Allied nations and Finland, Germany's partner in the war against Russia and Great Britain.

The treaty draft to be submitted to the Paris Peace Conference would limit the Finnish land army to a total strength of 34,400 personnel. The draft proposed a Finnish navy limited to a personnel strength of 4,500 and a total tonnage of 10,000, and an air force, including the naval air arm, of 60 aircraft, including reserves and personnel of 3,000.

Bombers Barred

A further restriction imposed by the treaty would forbid Finland from acquiring aircraft designed primarily as bombers with internal bomb-carrying facilities.

Designed to strip Finland of any ability to wage effective warfare, the treaty also would accord Russia a 50-year lease on Porkkala-Udd to establish a naval base and would cede outright to Russia the northernmost Finnish province of Petsamo, with its ice-free Arctic ocean port of the same name, giving the Soviet Union an opportunity to exploit Arctic ocean shipping throughout the year.

The surrender of Petsoma, on the Russian-Finnish border, is in accordance with the Russian-Finnish armistice signed Sept. 19, 1944.

The treaty draft takes into consideration the fact that Finland, the only Axis partner with which the United States was not at war, withdrew from World War II before Germany's fall.

Stating that Finland "bears her share of responsibility for this war," the treaty draft preamble voices an allied desire of "concluding a treaty of peace which will form the basis of friendly relations between them and settle questions still outstanding x x thereby enabling allied and associated powers to support Finland's application to become a member of the United Nations."

Reparations for Russia

The draft recommends that reparations, to be paid to Russia, shall not be in full, but shall be limited to $300,000,000 payable over an eight-year period beginning Sept. 19, 1955. Payment shall be in commodities—including timber products, sea-going and river craft and sundry machinery.

Many of the terms previously had been agreed to by Russia and Finland in the Soviet-Finnish armistice. The armistice provided originally that the $300,000,000 reparations would be paid in six years. Generalissimo Stalin, at Finland's request, last autumn amended the armistice provisions, allowing Finland eight years in which to pay.

Political clauses of the proposed treaty include one confirming the Russian renunication of rights to lease the Peninsula of Hango in Southern Finland and the confirmation of Finland of the 50-year Soviet lease at an annual rental of 5,000,000 Finnish marks (about $420,000) of the Porkkala-Udd site.

Demilitarize Islands

Another clause stipulates that the Aaland islands at the mouth of the gulf of Bothnia, between Sweden and Finland, shall remain demilitarized.

The defeated nation, the draft proposes, "must take all measures necessary to secure to all persons under Finnish jurisdiction, without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion, the enjoyment of human rights and of the fundamental freedoms, including freedom of expression, of the press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting."

With a wary eye toward the Germany of the future, the drafters inserted a clause pledging Finland "to cooperate fully with the United Nations in order to ensure Germany may not be able to take any action outside German territory tending towards or facilitating her rearmament."

Powers Assess Hungary 300 Million for Peace

U. S., Britain, France Split with Russia on Business Rights.

PARIS, July 30—(AP) The four leading allied powers proposed tonight to assess Hungary $300,000,000 in reparations as one price for peace.

The United States, the United Kingdom and France, however, split sharply with Russia over the rights of foreign business to operate in Hungary, which quit the war as a German satellite six months before the allied victory.

The United States also reserved the right to fight against imposing a big debt on the country, which virtually has collapsed economically in a wave of inflation.

The four major powers agreed unanimously to crush the military power of the state to impotence.

On the economic state of the country, Russia and the three western powers prepared for a peace conference duel before the 17 smaller fighting nations they summoned to help write the treaties.

In the draft of a proposed treaty with Hungary, the United States took a stand for the privileges of business men of the United Nations and won the support of the United Kingdom and France.

All four nations agreed that business firms of the United Nations should get "most favored nation" treatment in Hungary in all businesses except those which have become state monopolies, but Russia asked for special treatment for "neighboring countries."

Hungary is bounded by Russia, Romania, Yugoslavia, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Russia said it "sees no reason for inclusion" of an American-British proposal for all the United Nations to have "equality of opportunity in obtaining commercial aviation rights" in Hungary.

Russia Claims 200 Million

Russia claimed $200,000,000 worth of Hungarian commodities, with another $100,000,000 worth going to Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. But the proposed treaty's only major footnote stated that the United States "reserves the right to reopen this question at the Peace Conference."

Simultaneously the United States renewed its plea for a program designed to halt the "Economic disintegration" of Hungary where inflation already has skyrocketed one currency out of existence and made its successor worthless.

Blast Armed Forces

Hungary's armed forces, once mighty enough to contribute 700,000 men to Hitler's cause, will be shrunk to one-tenth of its pre-war size under the treaty's military provisions. Of these 70,000 men, the treaty specifies 5,000 as the maximum personnel for an airforce of 90 planes.

Another treaty clause assures the continued presence of Russian troops, already blamed by the foreign secretaries of the United States and Britain as contributing to Hungary's economic chaos. Proclaiming Russia's right to protect her communication lines to the Soviet-occupied zone of Austria, the treaty specifies that Russia may keep "such armed forces as it may need" in Hungary. Other allied forces are to be withdrawn within 90 days of the signing of the treaty.

Pre-War Frontiers

Hungary's frontiers will revert to pre-war dimensions, with Hungary returning "to Romania half of Transylvania it received in the Nazi redistribution of European territory nearly six years ago.

The United States concern over Hungary's desperate economic position is expressed in a note after this reparations clause:

"Losses caused to the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia by military operations and by occupation by Hungary of these states will be indemnified by Hungary to the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, but taking into consideration that Hungary has not only withdrawn from the war against the United Nations but has also declared war on Germany, the parties agree that compensation for the above losses will be made by Hungary not in full but only in part, namely, to the amount of 300,000,000 United States dollars payable over eight years from January 20, 1945, in commodities (machine equipment, river craft, grain, etc.), the sum to be paid to the Soviet Union to amount to 200,000,000 United States dollars, and the sum to be paid to Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia to amount to 100,000,000 United States dollars."

Can Re-Open Treaty

The text of the United States footnote:

"The United States delegation reserves the right to reopen this question at the Peace Conference. At the time of the signature of the armistice agreement with Hungary, the United States government reserved the right to reopen the question of execution of article 12 of that agreement (which deals with reparations) if in the light of later circumstances it should be found that American interests were being unwarrantably prejudiced.

"The United States government has been concerned regarding general economic conditions in Hungary, which have deteriorated and which are approaching the point of complete collapse of the economy of the country. When it appeared that this deterioration, to which the heavy burden of armistice requirements has contributed, was such as to jeopardize even minimum living standards for the people and to render them unable to play a useful part in world recovery, the United States government on March 2, 1946, proposed to the other signatories of the Crimea declaration on liberated Europe that the situation in Hungary be studied with a view to devising a program which would not only arrest economic disintegration, but also provide a framework within which the rehabilitation of that country would be possible.

"The United States government regards the economic collapse of any country as affecting American interests. It continues to believe that a study such as it has proposed should be undertaken by a commission composed of representatives of the powers concerned."

The treaty specifically forbids Hungary's new airforce to include bombers, but the 5,000 limit set on airforce personnel represents a 500-man increase over the estimated strength of Hungary's pre-war air corps. Only 70 of 90 alloted planes may be combat type aircraft.

ROMANIA TO GET TRANSYLVANIA IN PEACE PROPOSALS

PARIS, July 30 — (AP) The Big Four powers agreed unanimously tonight to return Transylvania to Romania from Hungary and charge the oil-rich German ally $300,000,000 in reparations to be paid to Russia.

The treaty draft disclosed a split with Russia and the United States dissenting from a British proposal over restoration of damage to Romania's oil industry.

The British proposed this provision in the treaty:

"The complete restoration and replacement of damaged or destroyed property belonging to United Nations nationals engaged in the petroleum industry in Romania shall receive priority over the restoration and replacement of other property in Romania," and failing this within one year, "the Romanian government undertakes to pay x x x convertible currency equivalent to the assessed value of the property."

(The British owned considerable interests in the Romanian oil fields.)

Great Britain proposed further that Romania should compensate United Nations petroleum interests for the expense of provisional repairs and should "undertake" to make the necessary alterations in the labor law to allow all employes selected by the United Nations nationals to enter Romania and exercise their respective professional skills in the petroleum industry in Romania without let or hindrance.

U. S., Russia Object

The United States and Russia, in notes incorporated in the draft, said the subject was covered in general clauses dealing with the restoration of allied property in Romania and that they saw no reason to include any special provisions for oil.

Drafts of "agreed" terms for consideration by the 21-nation peace conference disclosed that Romania like other Balkan enemy countries, will be required to cut her navy and air forces to a fraction of pre-war levels.

Army of 100,000

Figures proposed by the foreign ministers council are:

An army of 120,000 personnel (compared to an estimated 1,800,000 in 1939, including reserves); an air force of 150 planes and 8,000 personnel (compared to an estimated 1939 strength of 15,000); a navy of 15,000 tons and 5,000 personnel (compared to 3,250 personnel estimated by Jane's in 19,400); anti-aircraft artillery with 5,000 personnel.

Romania was forced by the Axis in 1940 to give Hungary more than half of Transylvania, an area totalling more than 12,000 square miles with an estimated 2,370,000 population. Under the proposed treaty the Axis-negotiated "Vienna Award" is nullified and the section, rich in minerals, farm lands and forests, will be returned to Romania.

Another article of the proposed treaty confirms the 1940 Soviet-Romanian agreement by which the U.S.S.R. was ceded Bessarabia and northern Bukovina.

The economic clauses in the proposed Romanian treaty were drawn in broad terms leaving it to the 21-nation peace conference to discuss such disputed points as the United States demand for freedom of shipping on the Danube and Russia's desire for economic concessions in the Balkans.

Under terms on which Russia, the United States, Britain and France agreed, Romania will be required to restore all the legal rights and property of United Nations Nationals. Allied and associated powers will be given the privilege of retaining any Romanian property seized "in the national interest" before Romania signed the armistice with the allies on Sept. 12, 1944, and turned against Germany.

Russia Gets Reparations

Soviet Russia is the sole beneficiary from reparations. Under the proposed treaty, the U.S.S.R. would get $300,000,000 payable over eight years from Sept. 12, 1944 in commodities such as oil, grain, timber, seagoing and river craft and machinery.

The Romanian treaty, like the drafts for other former enemy states, gives Romania an opportunity eventually to become a member of the United Nations, requires the government to guarantee its people "enjoyment of human rights and of fundamental freedoms, including the freedom of expression, of press and publicaiton, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting."

Within 90 days after the treaty becomes effective, the proposed agreement says, allied occupation troops will be withdrawn "subject to the right of the Soviet Union to keep on Romanian territory such armed forces as it may need for the maintenance of lines of communication of the Red army with the Soviet zone of occupation in Austria."

The treaty draft sets no restriction on the number of such troops.

Heads of diplomatic missions of Russia, the United States and Britain who now act as the allied control council during the occupation, would continue to function for a period not to exceed 18 months as

...ers of the ...le 35 ...des:

"For a period not to exceed 18 months from the coming into force of the present treaty, the heads of diplomatic missions in Bucharest of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom and the United States, acting in concert, will represent the allied and associated powers in dealing with the Romanian government in all matters concerning the execution and interpretation of the present treaty.

"The three heads of the missions will give the Romanian government such guidance and technical advice and clarification as may be necessary to ensure rapid and efficient compliance with the spirit and terms of the present treaty."

The lengthiest parts of the draft are the economic clauses and debate in the peace conference is expected to focus on the conflicting viewpoints of Russia and the western powers. Only the sections on which all of the Big Four agreed were made public in the proposed treaty, but discussions at two previous meetings of the Big Four ministers council disclosed wide differences.

Article 25 provides: "Romania recognizes that the Soviet Union is entitled to all German assets in Romania transferred by the control council for Germany and undertakes to take all necessary measures for facilitating such transfers."

Restore Rights of Nationals

Another economic clause provides that "Romania shall restore all the legal rights and interests in Romania of the United Nations and their nationals as they existed on June 22, 1941, and shall return all property in Romania, including ships of the United Nations and their nationals, as it now exists." A footnote states that inclusion of shipping was stipulated by the British.

Another section requires Romania to "nullify all measures, including seizures, sequestration or control, taken by it against United Nations property between June 22, 1941, and the coming into force of the present treaty."

The "Vienna Award" of the Transylvania area to Hungary on Aug. 30, 1940, was followed two weeks later by the abdication of King Carol and the rise to power of Premier Ion Antonescu.

On Oct. 19, 1940, the German occupation of Romania began under an invitation by Romania for help in "reorganizing the Romanian army."

When Germany attacked Russia on June 22, 1941, Antonescu proclaimed a "Holy war" to regain Bessarabia from the Soviet Union. Romania ceased its resistance towards Russia on Aug. 23, 1944, and entered the war against Germany.

GREEK-BULGARIAN FRONT UNSETTLED

PARIS, July 30—(AP) The proposed Bulgarian peace treaty drafted by the four-power foreign ministers leaves unanswered the questions of the Bulgarian-Greek frontier and the amount of reparations which Bulgaria must pay to Yugoslavia and Greece.

The ministers recommended that Bulgarian frontiers follow those which existed on Jan. 1, 1941, but attached a footnote recommending that the Greek-Bulgarian frontier be considered tentative "until the governments of Greece and Bulgaria have had an opportunity to present to the peace conference or to the council of foreign ministers their respective views on this subject."

First War Enemy

Bulgaria, which also fought against the Allies in the first World war, lost her Thracian territory to Greece in the treaty which ended that conflict. Some of this territory was "assigned" back to Bulgaria by the Nazis when they entered that country on March 3, 1941.

The foreign ministers recommended that Bulgaria be forced to pay only part of the losses which her military operations caused to Yugoslavia and Greece. The ministers were unable to agree, however, on the amount to be paid, and said that the final decision should be deferred pending discussion of the matter with Greece and Yugoslavia.

Bulgaria declared war on Britain and the United States Dec. 13, 1941, but stated she was neutral in the German-Russian war. Russia refused to recognize this neutrality, and declared war on Bulgaria.

The little nation of 6,700,000 populeft the side of the tottering Nazis on Sept. 5, 1944, and asked for an armistice. Two days later, she declared war on Germany.

It was in recognition of this switch to Allied ranks that the ministers recommended that her restitution to Greece and Yugoslavia be "not in full, but only in part."

Army of 55,000

The proposed treaty authorized Bulgaria to maintain a land army, including frontier troops, of 55,000 men; anti-aircraft artillery forces of 1,800 men; a navy of 3,500 men and ships with a tonnage totaling 7,250; and an airforce of 90 planes, of which not more than 70 may be combat types, and 5,200 men.

The treaty would prohibit the military training of any persons not included in the above totals, and would prohibit the manufacture of war materials in excess of those required for the limited armed forces.

The treaty draft also states that Bulgaria must obtain for all its citizens "freedom of expression, of press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting."

The United States and Britain have contended that the present Communist-dominated Bulgarian government does not represent adequately all democratic elements of the country, and have refused to recognize the government, headed by Kimon Georgiev.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes has said the United States would not conclude a peace treaty with the Bulgarian government, as now constituted.

Election Oct. 27

Yielding to pressure of opposing groups, the Bulgarian government has announced that a constituent assembly will be elected Oct. 27. A referendum will be held Nov. 8 to decide whether the country will continue as a monarchy or become a republic. A council of regency has been acting for nine-year-old King Simeon II, who succeeded to the crown on the death of his father, King Boris, in 1943.

The treaty draft provides that all forces of the Allies shall be withdrawn from Bulgaria not later than 90 days after the signing of the treaty.

PEACE TREATY TEXTS SNARLED

Paris Conference Hits Snag With Press Release.

Washington, July 30 (A. P.).—One of the most tangled of many international snares is being slowly unsnarled at the State Department today through the patient efforts of Press Officer Lincoln White. When the last kink is straightened out the department hopes to be able to reveal to the American public the full texts of the peace treaties now before the Paris conference.

But looking back on the tribulations involved, some persons seemed inclined to wonder how the great Powers could ever get together in making peace when they had so much trouble getting together on a press release.

The trouble began a week ago. At that time Secretary of State Byrnes, who had been planning for unlimited publicity on the treaty texts, proposed to Moscow, London and Paris that they be made public forthwith in the French capital. The alternative, Byrnes well knew, was that they would be allowed to dribble out in piecemeal fashion.

Toward the end of the week the British Foreign Office said, sure, why not?; the French Foreign Office said, Okay, but give them out in Washington and the other Big Four capitals as well as Paris.

Russians Silent For a Time.

The Russians maintained a stony silence for awhile; then, according to reports reaching Washington, they said that the texts should be published provided the points in disagreement were deleted.

While these negotiations about what should and should not be published were under way in Paris, the State Department arranged to get the texts from Paris by courier so they could be released here in line with French suggestion.

But somehow the courier missed his plane, or so it was said. Thus it was decided to bring in the texts by radio early on Saturday. But that was the

...of the sunspot attack, and ...atever it is that happens during such times blacked out radio across the North Atlantic for hours at a time.

At Paris, meanwhile, Russian and British officials got into a new squabble over whether the disagreed points of the text should or should not be published. Finally various release times were set—6 P. M. (Eastern standard time) Sunday—then Monday—then Tuesday.

Text in Dribbles.

Through the sunspots, White began to get the text in disjointed dribbles. Finally by late yesterday afternoon he had most of the sections dealing with the point on which the Big Four were agreed. But by that time it had been decided the full texts, disagreements and all, should be released. So White kept his staff working into last night trying to get the stuff ready for release sometime Tuesday morning.

Meanwhile the courier finally arrived with the official texts for checking against the uncertain wordage that had come in by radio. But meanwhile, too, most of the information already had dribbled out from Paris and London.

White—who hasn't had a moment's peace for days, what with worrying about the texts—wondered today:

What do they mean—"peace" treaties?

Provisions of Five Treaties Proposed to Peace Conference

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30 (AP)—Salient provisions of the five peace treaty drafts proposed to the Paris conference by the United States, Russia, Britain and France:

ITALY

1. Loses Trieste to internationalization, minor areas to Yugoslavia and minor areas to France; also the Dodecanese Islands to Greece.

2. Loses her territorial possessions in Africa—Libya, Eritrea and Somaliland, though she will continue to administer them for 12 months while the Big-4 decides their disposition.

3. Recognizes full independence of Albania and Ethiopia, and renounces her special rights in China.

4. Gives up all permanent frontier fortifications as well as fortifications on islands of Pantellaria, Lampedusa, Lampione, Linosa and Pianosa.

5. Limits navy to two battleships, four cruisers, four destroyers, 16 torpedo boats, 20 corvettes and minor vessels with total strength of 22,500 officers and men and tonnage limit of 67,500 excluding battleships.

6. Limits army (185,000) and police force (65,000) to total strength of 250,000 officers and men, not more than 200 tanks and no long-range weapons such as guided missiles or rockets.

7. Limits air force to 25,000 men, fighter and reconnaisance planes and 150 non-combat types.

8. Wins unqualified promise of withdrawal of Allied (U. S. and British) troops 90 days after treaty becomes effective.

9. Agrees to pay Russia $100,000,000 reparations, with reparations for other Allies still in disagreement.

Chief disagreement remaining over Italian treaty concerns exact boundaries for Trieste and details of permanent Trieste government.

BULGARIA

1. Agrees to maintain all political and religious freedoms and suppress fascist activities.

2. Accepts army limitation of 55,000 troops; anti-aircraft force of 1,800; navy of 3,500 with tonnage of 7,250; airforce of 90 planes (70 combat) and strength of 5,200 officers and men.

3. Wins unqualified promise that all Allied (Russian) occupation troops will be withdrawn in 90 days after treaty becomes effective.

4. Must make reparation to Yugoslavia and Greece for losses caused them during the war.

Chief points left in disagreement among the great powers over the Bugarian treaty are those concerned with economic provisions. In general, Russia, with great direct interests in Bulgaria, takes a more lenient line than the Western powers.

ROMANIA

1. Regains Transylvania from Hungary; loses Bessarabia to Russia.

2. Makes same promises as Bulgaria respecting internal freedoms and renunciation of fascism.

3. Agrees to restrict frontier defense; army of 120,000; anti-aircraft force of 5,000; navy of 5,000 men and 15,000 tons; air force of 8,000 men and 150 planes (including 100 combat types).

4. Wins conditional promise of withdrawal of Russian occupation forces, condition being that Russia may maintain forces there as needed to guard communications to Austria.

5. Agrees to pay Russia reparations of $300,000,000 in commodities. Principal points still in disagreement among the powers are those governing economic arrangements for Romania, and clauses relating to freedom of navigation on the Danube, with Russia opposing inclusion of free navigation provisions in the peace treaty.

HUNGARY

1. Agrees to revision of boundaries to pre-war lines, including return of rich Transylvania area to Romania.

2. Makes standard promises respecting internal freedoms and renunciation of fascism.

3. Agrees to army strength of 65,000 plus air force of 5,000 men and 90 planes (70 combat).

4. Wins conditional promise of Russian troop withdrawals, condition being that Russians may keep troops there to guard lines to Austria.

Chiefly in disagreement are economic clauses, including Danube navigation provisions.

Disagreement also impends over a section committing Hungary to pay $300,000,000 reparations to Russia, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. The United States has virtually served notice of intent to reopen this issue because of economic "chaos" in Hungary.

FINLAND

1. Loses province of Petsamo to Russia; confirms Soviet naval base on Hango peninsula.

2. Makes standard promises respecting internal freedoms and fascism.

3. Agrees to army of 34,000; navy of 4,500 men and 19,000 tons; air force of 3,000 men and 60 planes.

4. Agrees to pay Russia reparations in commodities totaling $300,000,000.

Mainly in disagreement still are details of commercial provisions.

Text of Draft of the Italian Treaty Gives Proposed Frontiers, Provides for Loss of Colonies

By Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29—The text of the draft of the Italian treaty follows:

PREAMBLE

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United States of America, China, France, Australia, Belgium, the White Russian Soviet Socialist Republic, Brazil, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Ethiopia, Greece, India, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Poland, the Ugrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, the Union of South Africa and Yugoslavia are hereinafter referred to as the Allied and Associated Powers of the one part and Italy of the other part:

Whereas Italy under the Fascist regime became a party to the tripartite pact with Germany and Japan, declared a war of aggression and entered into war with all the Allied and Associated Powers and with other United Nations and bears her share of responsibility for the war; and

Whereas under the pressure of military events the Fascist regime in Italy was overthrown on July 25, 1943, and Italy surrendered unconditionally and accepted the terms of the armistice signed on Sept. 3 and 29 of the same year; and

Whereas after the said armistice Italian armed forces took an active part in the war against Germany, and Italy declared war on Germany as from Oct. 13, 1943, and thereby became a co-belligerent against Germany; and

Whereas the Allied and Associated Powers and Italy are respectively desirous of concluding a treaty of peace which forms the basis of friendly relations between them and settle questions still outstanding as a result of the events hereinbefore recited, thereby enabling the Allied and Associated Powers to support Italy's application to become a member of the United Nations and also to adhere to any convention concluded under the auspices of the United Nations.

Have therefore agreed to declare the cessation of the state of war and for this purpose to conclude the present peace treaty and have accordingly appointed as their plenipotentiaries * * * who after presentation of their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed on the following provisions:

PART I. TERRITORIAL CLAUSES

Section I. Frontiers

ARTICLE I

The frontiers of Italy shall be those existing on Jan. 1, 1938, subject to the modifications set out in Articles II, III, etc.

These frontiers are traced on the maps attached to the present treaty.

ARTICLE II

The frontier between France and Italy as it existed on Jan. 1, 1938, shall be modified as follows:

1. LITTLE ST. BERNARD PASS

The frontier shall follow the watershed leaving the present frontier at a point about two kilometers N. W. of the hospice, crossing the road about one kilometer N. E. of the hospice and rejoining the present frontier about two kilometers S. E. of the hospice.

2. MONT CENIS PLATEAU

The frontier shall leave the present frontier about three kilometres N. W. of the summit of Rochemelon, cross the road about four kilometers S. E. of the hospice and rejoin the present frontier about four kilometres N. E. of Mont Dambin.

3. MONT THABOR—CHABERTON

1. In the Mont Thabor area, the frontier shall leave the present frontier about five kilometers to the east of Mont Thabor and run southeastward to rejoin the present frontier about two kilometers west of the Pointe de Charra.

II. In the Chaberton area, the frontier shall leave the present frontier about three kilometers north of Chaberton, which it skirts on the east, crosses the road about one kilometer from the present frontier, which it rejoins about two kilometers S. E. of Montgenevre.

4. UPPER TINEE, VESUBIE AND ROYA VALLEYS

The frontier shall leave the present frontier at Lunga, shall follow along the water shed by way of Mont Clapier, Col de Tenda, Mont Marguareis, whence it shall run southward by way of Mont Saccarello, Mont Vacchi, Mont Pietravecchia, Mont Lega and shall reach a point approximately 100 meters from the present frontier near Colla Pegairolle, about five kilometers to the northeast of Breil; it then shall run in a southwesterly direction, and shall rejoin the present frontier at the Pas de Strafourche, at about six kilometers—southeast of Sospel.

ARTICLE III

FRONTIER BETWEEN ITALY AND YUGOSLAVIA

1. The Council of Foreign Ministers agreed that all territory east of the line known as the French Line shall be ceded by Italy to Yugoslavia and that the Free Territory of Trieste shall be constituted within the French Line bounded on the north by a line drawn from Duino to the French Line.

2. UNITED STATES PROPOSAL

[Not yet discussed by the Council of Foreign Ministers]:

The boundary between Yugoslavia and Italy shall follow a line that extends from the junction of the boundaries of Austria, Italy and Yugoslavia as they existed on Jan. 1, 1938, southward along the boundary of 1938 between Yugoslavia and Italy to the junction of that boundary with the boundary between the Italian provinces of Friuli [Udine] and Gorizia; the line follows the boundary between the Italian provinces of Friuli and Gorizia in a southwesterly direction, passing M. Mangart [2678] Predil Pass, to M. Canin [2685];

From M. Canin, the line continues along the boundary between the Italian provinces of Friuli and Gorizia to a point approximately one-half kilometer north of the village of Mernico in the valley of the Iudrio; leaving the provincial boundary at this point, the line extends eastward to a point approximately one-half kilometer west of the village of Veroeglia di Cosbana, and thence southward between the valleys of the Quarnizzo and the Cosbana to a point approximately one kilometer southwest of the village of Eleana, leaving within Yugoslavia the road from Cosbana via Nebola to Castel Dobra;

The line then continues to the southeast, passing approximately seven-tenths of a kilometer south of the town of Vipulzano, leaving the villages of Medana and Cero di Soto within Yugoslavia;

Passing about one-half kilometer north of the town of San Floriano, the line extends to M. Sabotino [610], leaving the town of Poggion San Valentino within Yugoslavia;

The line then extends southward across the Isonzo River, leaving the town of Salcano within Yugoslavia, and passes approximately 2.2 kilometers east of the center of the city of Gorizia, leaving the highway from Salcano to Aisovissa within Yugoslavia and the town of San Petro within Italy;

From a point immediately southeast of San Prieto the line extends southwestward to a point between the town of Merna and highway No. 55 from Gorizia to Trieste, leaving the towns of Vertoiba and Merna within Yugoslavia;

Thence the line continues in a southerly direction across the Karst upland approximately one kilometer east of highway No. 55, leaving the village of Opacchiasella in Yugoslavia and the village of Iamiano Nuovo in Italy; and from a point approximately 1.3 kilometers east of Iamiano Nuovo the line follows the boundary between the Italian provinces of Gorizia and Trieste to its junction with the boundary of the free territory of Trieste approximately two kilometers northeast of the village of San Giovanni.

ARTICLE IV

FRONTIER BETWEEN ITALY AND THE FREE TERRITORY OF TRIESTE

1. The Council of Foreign Ministers agreed that all territory east of the line known as the French Line shall be ceded by Italy to Yugoslavia and that the Free Territory of Trieste shall be constituted within the French Line bounded on the north by a line drawn from Duino to the French Line.

2. UNITED STATES PROPOSAL [Not yet discussed by the Council of Foreign Ministers]:

The boundary between the Free Territory of Trieste and Italy shall follow a line that extends from a point on the boundary between the Italian Provinces of Gorizia and Trieste approximately two kilometers northwest of the village of San Giovanni, southward to a point adjacent to highway No. 14 and approximately one kilometer northwest of the junction between highways Nos. 53 and 14 from Gorizia and Monfalcone, respectively, to Trieste;

The line extends in a southerly direction to a point in the Gulf of Panzano equidistant from Punta Sdobba at the mounts of the Isonzo River and Castello Vecchio at Duino, departing from the coastline approximately two kilometers west of the town of Duino;

The line then reaches the high seas by following a line placed equidistant from the coastlines of Italy and the free territory of Trieste.

ARTICLE V

The exact line of the new frontiers laid down in Articles II, III and IV of the present treaty shall be determined on the spot by a boundary commission composed of the representatives of the two Governments concerned.

The commissions will commence their duties immediately on the coming into force of the present treaty and shall complete them as soon as possible and in any case within a period of six months.

Any questions which the commissions are unable to agree upon will be referred to the four Ambassadors acting as provided in Article LXXV for final settlement by such methods as they may determine, including, where necessary the appointment of an impartial third commissioner.

The expenses of the boundary commissions will be borne in equal charges by the two Governments concerned.

UNITED STATES PROPOSAL [Not yet discussed by the Council of Foreign Ministers]:

1. Addition to the first:

For the purposes of demarcating on the spot the boundary of the Free Territory of Trieste with Italy on the one hand and with Yugoslavia on the other hand, a third commissioner shall be appointed to the boundary commission by the Security Council of the United Nations to represent that body.

2. Revision of third:

* * * Appointment of an impartial additional commissioner.

3. Addition to the fourth paragraph:

* * * and, in regard to the commission to determine the boundary for the Free Territory of Trieste, by the two Governments concerned and by the Security Council of the United Nations.

4. Additional paragraph:

For the purpose of determining on the spot the boundaries of Italy with Yugoslavia and with the Free Territory of Trieste and of the Free Territory of Trieste with Yugoslavia, the commissioners shall be allowed to depart one-half kilometer from the line laid down in the present treaty in order to adjust the boundary to local geographical and economic conditions, except where the line follows Italian provincial boundaries and provided that no village or town of more than 500 inhabitants, no important railroads or highways, and no major power or water supply are placed under a sovereignty contrary to the delimitations laid down in the present treaty.

Section II. France [Special Clauses]

ARTICLE VI

Italy hereby cedes to France in full sovereignty the former Italian territory situated on the French side of the Franco-Italian frontier defined in Article II.

ARTICLE VII

The Italian Government undertakes to hand over to the French Government all archives, historical or administrative, prior to 1860 and which concern the territory ceded to France under the treaty of March 24, 1860, and the convention of Aug. 23, 1860.

ARTICLE VIII

The Italian Government undertakes to cooperate with the French Government in the possible establishment of a railway connection between Briancon and Modane, via Bardonneche. The necessary arrangements shall be concluded in due time between the two Governments.

The Italian Government undertakes to authorize, free of customs duty and inspection, passport and other such formalities, the passenger and freight railway traffic traveling on the connection thus established, through Italian territory from one point to another in France, in both directions; furthermore, to take all necessary measures to insure that the French trains using the said connections are allowed to pass, under the same conditions, duty free and without unjustifiable delay.

ARTICLE IX

1. Plateau of Mont Cenis.

In order to secure to Italy the same facilities as Italy enjoyed in respect to hydroelectric power and water supply from the lake of Mont Cenis before cession of the district to France, the latter shall give Italy under a bilateral agreement the technical guarantees set out in Annex 2.

2. The Tenda-Briga District.

In order that Italy should not suffer any diminution in the supplies of electric power which Italy has drawn from sources existing in the Tenda district before its cession to France, the latter shall give Italy under a bilateral agreement the technical guarantees set out in Annex 2.

Section III. Austria [Special Clauses]

ARTICLE X

Italy shall enter into or confirm arrangements with Austria to guarantee movement of passenger and freight traffic between the north and east Tyrol.

JUL 31 1946

Section IV. Yugoslavia [Special Clause]

ARTICLE XI

1. Italy hereby cedes to Yugoslavia in full sovereignty the territory situated between the new frontiers of Yugoslavia as defined in Articles III and XVI and the Italo-Yugoslav frontier as it existed on Jan. 1, 1938, as well as the commune of Zara and all islands and adjacent islets lying within the following areas:

(a) The area bounded:

On the north by the parallel of 42 degrees, 50 minutes north.

On the south by the parallel of 42 degrees, 42 minutes north.

On the east by the meridian of 17 degrees, 10 minutes east.

On the west by the meridian of 16 degrees, 25 minutes east.

(b) The area bounded:

On the north by the parallel 45 degrees, 12 minutes north.

On the south by the parallel 44 degrees, 23 minutes north.

On the west by a line joining the following points:

I. 45 degrees, 12 minutes north; 14 degrees, 17 minutes, 30 seconds east.

II. 44 degrees, 40 minutes north; 14 degrees, 9 minutes, 10 seconds east.

III. 44 degrees, 23 minutes north; 14 degrees, 18 minutes, 30 seconds east.

On the east by the islands and mainlands of Yugoslavia.

2. Italy hereby cedes to Yugoslavia in full sovereignty the Island of Pelagosa and the adjacent islets:

The Island of Pelagosa shall remain demilitarized.

Italian fishermen shall enjoy the same rights in Pelagosa and the surrounding waters as were enjoyed by Yugoslavia fishermen prior to April 6, 1941.

Kingdom an[illegible] ments shall be made for the withdrawal of foreign troops not later than ninety days from the date of the coming into force of the treaty.

Section V. Greece [Special Clause]

ARTICLE XII

Italy hereby cedes to Greece in full sovereignty the Dodecanese Islands. These islands shall be and shall remain demilitarized.

The procedure and the technical conditions governing the transfer of these islands to Greece will be determined by agreement between the Governments of the United [illegible]

Section [illegible]. Nationality and [Civic Rights in] Ceded Territories

ARTICLE XIII

1. The Italian citizens who were domiciled on June 10, 1940, in territory transferred by Italy to another state under the treaty shall, except as provided in the following paragraph, become citizens with full civil and political rights of the state to which the territory is transferred in accordance with legislation to be introduced to that effect by that state within three months of the coming into force of the treaty. Upon becoming citizens of the state concerned, they shall lose their Italian citizenship.

2. The Government of the state to which the territory is transferred shall by appropriate legislation within three months of the coming into force of the present treaty provide that all persons mentioned in Paragraph 1 over the age of 18 years [or married persons whether under or over that age] whose customary language is Italian, shall be entitled to opt for Italian citizenship within a period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty. Any person so opting shall retain Italian citizenship and shall not be considered to have acquired the citizenship of the state to which the territory is transferred.

The option of the husband shall not constitute an option on the part of the wife. Option on the part of the father, or, if the father is not alive, on the part of the mother, shall, however, automatically include all unmarried children under the age of 18 years.

3. The state to which the territory is transferred may require those who take advantage of the option to move to Italy within a year from the date when the option was exercised.

UNITED STATES PROPOSAL

4. The state to which the territory is transferred shall take all measures necessary to secure to all persons within the territory, without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion, the enjoyment of human rights and of the fundamental freedoms, including the freedom of expression, of the press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting.

PART II. POLITICAL CLAUSES

Section I. General Clauses

ARTICLE XIV

Italy shall take all measures necessary to secure to all persons under Italian [illegible]diction, without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion, the enjoyment of human rights and of the fundamental freedoms, including the freedom of expression, of the press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting.

ARTICLE XV

Italy undertakes to recognize the full force of the treaties of peace with Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland and other agreements or arrangements which have been or will be reached by the Allied and Associated Powers in respect of Austria, Germany and Japan for the restoration of peace.

Section III. Italian Colonies

ARTICLE XVII

1. Italy renounces all right and title to the Italian territorial possessions in Africa, id est, namely, Libya, Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

2. Pending their final disposal, the said possessions shall continue under their present administration.

3. The final disposal of these possessions shall be determined jointly by the Governments of the U.S.S.R., U.S.A., U.K. and France within one year of the coming into force of the present treaty, in the manner laid down in the joint declaration of * * * [date] issued by the said Governments.

Section IV. Special Interests of China

ARTICLE XVIII

Italy renounces in favor of China all benefits and privileges resulting from the provisions of the final protocol signed at Peking on Sept. 7, 1901, and all annexes, notes and documents supplementary thereto, and agrees that the said protocol, annexes, notes and documents shall be abrogated in respect of Italy. Italy likewise renounces any claim thereunder to any indemnity.

ARTICLE XIX

Italy agrees to the abrogation of the lease from the Chinese Government under which the Italian concession at Tientsin is now held, and to the transfer to the Chinese Government of any documents belonging to the archives of that concession which are still in Italian possession.

ARTICLE XX

Italy renounces in favor of China the rights accorded to Italy in relation to the international settlements at Shanghai and Amoy, and agrees said settlements shall revert to the administration and control of the Chinese Government.

JUL 31 1946

Section V. Albania

ARTICLE XXI

Italy recognizes and undertakes to respect the sovereignty and independence of the State of Albania.

ARTICLE XXII

Italy recognizes that the Island of Saseno is part of the territory of Albania and renounces all claims thereto.

ARTICLE XXIII

Italy formally renounces in favor of Albania all property [apart from normal diplomatic and consular premises], rights, interests and advantages of all kinds in Albania acquired by the Italian State, whether before or after 1939. Italy also renounces all claims to special interests or influence in Albania.

ARTICLE XXIV

Italian nationals in Albania will enjoy the same juridical status as other foreign nationals, but Italy recognizes the legality of all Albanian measures annulling or modifying concessions or special rights granted to Italian nationals, provided that such measures are taken within a year from the coming into force of this treaty.

ARTICLE XXV

Italy recognizes that all agreements and arrangements made between Italy and the authorities in Albania installed by Italy from April, 1939, to September, 1943, are null and void.

ARTICLE XXVI

Italy recognizes the legality of any measures which Albania may consider it necessary to take to confirm or give effect to the preceding provisions.

Section VI. Ethiopia

ARTICLE XXVII

Italy recognizes and undertakes to respect the sovereignty and independence of the State of Ethiopia.

ARTICLE XXVIII

Italy formally renounces in favor of Ethiopia all property [apart from normal diplomatic or consular premises], rights, interests and advantages of all kinds acquired at any time in Ethiopia by the Italian State.

Italy also renounces all claims to special interests or influence in Ethiopia.

ARTICLE XXIX

Italy recognizes the legality of all measures which the Government of Ethiopia has taken or may thereafter take in order to annul Italian measures respecting Ethiopia taken after Oct. 3, 1935, and the effects of such measures.

ARTICLE XXX

Italian nationals in Ethiopia will enjoy the same juridical status as other foreign nationals, but Italy recognizes the legality of all measures of the Ethiopian Government annulling or modifying concessions of special rights granted to Italian nationals, provided such measures are taken within a year from the coming into force of this treaty.

ARTICLE XXXI

Italy will restore all Ethiopian works of art, religious objects and objects of historical value removed from Ethiopia to Italy since Oct. 3, 1935.

Section VII. International Agreements

ARTICLE XXXII

Italy undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the League of Nations and the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Italy also undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome.

ARTICLE XXXIII

Italy hereby renounces all rights, titles and claims deriving from the mandate system, or from any undertakings given therewith, and all special rights of the Italian State in respect of any mandated territory.

ARTICLE XXXIV

Italy recognizes the provisions of the final act of Aug. 31, 1935, and of the Franco-British agreement of the same date on the Statute of Tangier, as well as all provisions which may be adopted by the signatory powers for carrying out these instruments.

ARTICLE XXXV

Italy undertakes to accept and recognizes any arrangements which may be made by the Allied and Associated Powers concerned for the modification of the Congo Basin treaties with a view to bringing them into accord with the Charter of the United Nations.

ARTICLE XXXVI

Italy hereby renounces any rights and interests she may possess by virtue of Article XVI of the Treaty of Lausanne signed on July 24, 1923.

Section VIII. Bilateral Treaties

ARTICLE XXXVII

1. Each Allied or Associated Power will notify Italy, within a period of six months of the coming into force of the present treaty, which pre-war bilateral treaties it desires to keep in force or revive. Any provisions not in conformity with the present treaty shall however be deleted from the above-mentioned treaties.

2. All treaties so notified will be registered with the Secretariat of the United Nations in accordance with Article CII of the United Nations Charter.

3. All treaties not so notified are to be regarded as abrogated.

PART III. WAR CRIMINALS

ARTICLE XXXVIII

1. Italy shall take the necessary steps to ensure the apprehension and surrender for trial of:

(A.) Persons accused of having committed, ordered, or abetted war crimes and crimes against peace and humanity;

(B.) Nationals of the Allied and Associated Powers accused of having violated their national law by treason or collaboration with the enemy during the war.

2. At the request of the United Nations Government concerned, Italy will likewise make available as witnesses persons within its jurisdiction, whose evidence is required for the trial of the persons referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article.

3. Any disagreement concerning the application of the provisions of Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article shall be referred by any of the Governments concerned to the Ambassadors in Rome of the U.S.S.R., U.K., U.S.A. and France, who will reach agreement with regard to the difficulty.

PART IV. NAVAL, MILITARY AND AIR CLAUSES

Section I. Duration

ARTICLE XXXIX

Each of the military, naval and air clauses of the present treaty will remain in force until modified in whole or in part by agreement between the Allied and Associated Powers and Italy or, after Italy becomes a member of the United Nations, by agreement between the Security Council and Italy.

JUL 31 1946

Section II. General Limitations

ARTICLE XL

(A) The system of permanent Italian fortifications and military installations along the Franco-Italian frontier, and their armament, shall be destroyed or removed.

(B) This system is deemed to comprise only artillery and infantry fortifications whether in groups or separated, pillboxes of any type, shelters, observation posts and military cableways, whatever may be their importance and actual condition of maintenance or state of construction and which are constructed of metal, masonry or concrete or excavated in the rock.

(C) The destruction or removal, mentioned in sub-paragraphs A and B is limited to a distance of twenty kilometers from any point on the frontier as defined by this treaty, and shall be completed within one year from the coming into force of this treaty.

2. Any reconstruction of the above-mentioned fortifications and installations is prohibited.

3. (a) The following construction to the east of the Franco-Italian frontier is prohibited: Permanent fortifications where weapons capable of firing into French territory or territorial waters can be emplaced; permanent military installations capable of being used to conduct or direct fire into French territory or territorial waters; and permanent supply and storage facilities emplaced solely for the use of the above-mentioned fortifications and installations.

(b) This prohibition does not include the other types of non-permanent fortifications or surface accommodations and installations which are designed to meet only requirements of an internal character and of local defense of the frontiers.

4. In a coastal area fifteen kilometers deep, stretching from the Franco-Italian frontier to the meridian of 9 degrees 30 minutes east, Italy shall not be authorized to establish any new, or to expand any existing, naval bases or permanent naval installations. This does not prohibit minor alterations in and the maintenance in good repair of existing naval installations, provided that their overall capacity will not thereby be increased.

ARTICLE XLI

1. (a) Any permanent Italian fortifications and military installations along the Italo-Yugoslav frontier, and their armaments, shall be destroyed or removed.

(b) These fortifications and installations are deemed to comprise only artillery and infantry fortifications whether in groups or separated, pillboxes of any type, shelters, observation posts and military cableways, whatever may be their importance and actual condition of maintenance or state of construction, and which are constructed of metal, masonry or concrete or excavated in the rock.

c. The destruction or removal, mentioned in subparagraph (a) and (b), is limited to a distance of twenty kilometers from any point on the frontier, as defined by this treaty, and shall be completed within one year from the coming into force of this treaty.

2. Any reconstruction of the above-mentioned fortifications and installations is prohibited.

3. (a) The following construction to the west of the Italo-Yugoslav frontier is prohibited; permanent fortifications where weapons capable of firing into Yugoslav territory or territorial waters can be emplaced; permanent military installations capable of being used to conduct or direct fire into Yugoslav territory or territorial waters; and permanent supply and storage facilities emplaced solely for the use of the above-mentioned fortifications and installations.

(b) This prohibition does not include the other types of nonpermanent fortifications or surface accommodations and installations which are designed to meet only requirements of an internal character and of local defense of the frontier.

4. In a coastal area fifteen kilometers deep, stretching from the frontier between Italy and Yugoslavia and between Italy and Free Territory of Trieste to the latitude of 44 degrees 50 minutes north, and in the islands adjacent to this coast, Italy shall not be authorized to establish any new nor to expand any existing naval base or permanent naval installations. This does not prohibit minor alterations in and the maintenance in good repair of existing naval installations and bases provided that their overall capacity shall not thereby be increased.

5. In the Apulian Peninsula east of longitude 17 degrees 45 minutes east, Italy shall not be allowed to construct any new permanent military, naval or military air installation nor to expand the existing installations. This does not prohibit minor alterations in and the maintenance in good repair of existing installations provided that their overall capacity will not thereby be increased. Accommodations for such security forces as may be required for tasks of an internal character and local defense of frontiers will, however, be permitted.

ARTICLE XLII

1. Pantelleria, the Pelagian Islands (Lampedusa, Lampione and Linosa) and Pianosa (in the Adriatic) shall be and shall remain completely demilitarized.

2. Such demilitarization shall be completed within one year of the coming into force of the present treaty.

ARTICLE XLIII

1. In Sardinia all permanent coast defense artillery and emplacements and their armaments and all naval installations which are located within a distance of thirty kilometers from French territorial waters shall be removed to the mainland of Italy or demolished within one year from the coming into force of this treaty.

2. In Sicily and Sardinia all permanent installations and equipment for the maintenance and storage of torpedoes, sea-mines and bombs shall be demolished or removed to the mainland of Italy within one year from the coming into force of this treaty.

3. No improvements to, reconstruction or extensions of existing installations or permanent fortifications in Sicily and Sardinia will be permitted; however, with the exception of the northern Sardinia area described in Paragraph 1, normal maintenance of such installations or permanent fortifications and weapons already installed in them may be carried out.

4. In Sicily and Sardania Italy shall be prohibited from constructing any naval, military and air force installation or fortification except for such accommodation for security forces as may be required for tasks of an internal character.

ARTICLE XLIV

Italy shall not posess, construct or experiment with (1) any self propelled or guided missiles or apparatus connected with their discharge, (2) any gun with a range of over thirty kilometers, (3) sea mines or non-contact types actuated by influence mechanism, (4) any torpedoes capable of being manned.

ARTICLE XLV

The acquisition of war material of German or Japanese origin or design either from inside or outside Italy, or its manufacture, is prohibited.

ARTICLE XLVI

Italy shall not manufacture or possess, either publicly or privately, any war material different in type from or exceeding in quantity that required for the forces permitted in Section III, IV and V below.

Section II. Free Territory of Trieste

ARTICLE XVI

I. The Council of Foreign Ministers agreed:

1. That all territory east of the line known as the French Line shall be ceded by Italy to Yugoslavia and that the Free Territory of Trieste shall be constituted within the French Line bounded on the north by a line drawn from Duino to the French Line.

2. The integrity and independence of this Free Territory shall be assured by the Security Council of the United Nations.

3. A special commission, representing the Four Powers of the Council, shall be immediately appointed to consult with representatives of Yugoslavia and Italy, and to examine the whole subject and present preliminary suggestions to the peace conference.

The permanent statute shall be submitted to the approval of the Security Council, which will report to the General Assembly of the United Nations in accordance with Article XIV of the United Nations Charter.

5. Recommendations for a provisional government and for the formation of a permanent statute shall be made by the peace conference of the twenty-one nations, in accordance with the procedure adopted at the Moscow conference.

6. The provisional government and the permanent statute shall preserve the following general principles:

[1] The Governor shall be appointed by the Security Council after consultation with Yugoslavia and Italy.

[2] Legislative and executive authority shall be established along democratic lines, including universal suffrage.

[3] Rights of citizens shall be protected in respect to human rights and fundamental freedoms, particularly including religion, language, the press, schools and access to public services.

[4] Annual reports shall be submitted by the Governor to the Security Council.

II. Note: The following proposals have not yet been discussed and should be considered only as suggestions of individual delegations:

A. UNITED KINGDOM PROPOSAL:

Italy renounces her sovereignty over the territory lying between the Adriatic coast and the boundaries defined in Article IV and * * * as being the boundaries between the Free Territory of Trieste and Italy and Yugoslavia respectively. This territory is hereby constituted the Free Territory of Trieste and shall be governed in accordance with the terms of the statute in Annex * * * after it has been approved by the Security Council of the United Nations. Upon such approval this statute shall be considered as an integral part of the present treaty.

B. UNITED STATES PROPOSAL:

1. Boundary between the Free Territory of Trieste and Italy.

The boundary between the Free Territory of Trieste and Italy shall follow a line that extends from a point on the boundary between the Italian Provinces of Gorizia and Trieste approximately two kilometers northeast of the village of San Giovanni, southwestward to a point adjacent to highway No. 14 and approximately one kilometer northwest of the junction between Highways Nos. 55 and 14 from Gorizia and Monfalcone, respectively, to Trieste;

The line then extends in a southerly direction to a point in the Gulf of Panzano equidistant from Punta Sdobba at the mouth of the Isonzo River and Castello Vecchio at Duino, departing from the coastline approximately two kilometers west of the town of Duino;

The line then reaches the high seas by following a line placed equidistant from the coastlines of Italy and the Free Territory of Trieste.

2. Boundary between the Free Territory of Trieste and Yugoslavia.

The boundary between the Free Territory of Trieste and Yugoslavia shall follow a line that extends from a point on the boundary between the Italian Provinces of Gorizia and Trieste, approximately two kilometers northeast of the village of San Giovanni, southeastward along this boundary to M. Lanaro [564] and thence in a southeasterly direction to M. Coccusso [667], crossing highway No. 58 from the city of Trieste to Sesana, approximately 3.3 kilometers west of the town of Sesana and leaving the village of Vegliano and Orle within Yugoslavia;

Crossing the railroad from Trieste to Cosina the line extends to M. Carso [456], and continues in a southerly direction following the boundary between the Italian Provinces of Trieste and Istria to a point approximately 0.7 kilometers southwest of the town of San Servola.

Thence the line continues southward to M. San Antonio [355] crossing the Risano River approximately 0.3 kilometers west of the village of Risano and leaving the towns of Ospo and Rosario within Yugoslavia; the line then extends to a point approximately 0.5 kilometers east of the village of Cernova, crossing the Gragogna River approximately one kilometer north of that village and leaving the villages of Bucciai and Truscola within Italy and the village of Terseco within Yugoslavia, and thence it continues in a southwesterly direction southeast of the road between the villages of Cernova and Chervoi, leaving this road approximately 0.8 kilometers east of the village of Cucciani and thence in a south-southwesterly direction passing about 0.5 kilometers east of M. St. Braico and about 0.4 kilometers west of the village of Sterna Filaria, reaching the Quieto River at a point approximately 1.6 kilometers south of the town of Castagna, passing about 0.4 kilometers west of the town of Piedmonte and about 0.5 kilometers east of the town of Castagna;

Thence the line follows the principal and improved channels of the Quieto to its mouth and extends through the Porto del Quieto to the high seas by following a line placed equidistant from the coastlines of the Free Territory of Trieste and Yugoslavia.

The United States delegation proposes the following texts as an alternative to the two paragraphs beginning "Thence the line continues southward to M. San Antonio [355] * * *" In its previous proposal for the definition of the boundary between the Free Territory of Trieste and Yugoslavia:

Following the crests of westward facing escarpments southeastward to a point approximately 0.5 kilometers east of Besovizza, the line then bears westward to a point 0.5 kilometers north of M. San Antonio [355], leaving the village of Santa Maria del Risano about 0.5 kilometers to the north of the line within Italy and the town of Covedo about 0.5 kilometers to the south of the line within Yugoslavia;

The line then continues southwestward to a point approximately 0.6 kilometers northwest of the village of Chermi, roughly paralleling and lying about 0.6 kilometers northwest of the road from Maresego through Duori and thence extends southeast to a point 0.5 kilometers east of the town of Cernova, leaving the town of Boste within Italy and the town of Truscolo within Yugoslavia;

Thence thee line continues in a southwesterly direction southeast of the road between the villages of Cernova and Chervoi, leaving this road approximately 0.8 kilometers east of the village of Cucciani and thence in a south-southwesterly direction passing about 0.5 kilometers east of M. Braico and about 0.4 kilometers west of the village of Sterna Filaria, reaching the Quieto River at a point approximately 1.6 kilometers south of the town of Caetagna, passing about 0.4 kilometers west of the town of Piedmonte and about 0.5 kilometers east of the town of Castagna.

3. Guarantees:

Italy and Yugoslavia undertake to give the Free Territory of Trieste the guarantees set out in Annex 9.

Section III. Limitations to Be Imposed Upon the Italian Navy

ARTICLE XLVII

1. The present Italian Navy shall be reduced to the following number of units:

(a) Major war vessels: Two battleships, four cruisers, four fleet destroyers, sixteen torpedo boats, twenty corvettes.

(b) Minor war and auxiliary vessels:

Such number as can be manned and maintained in full commission by a maximum of 2,500 officers and men.

2. The names of the vessels to be retained by Italy under Paragraph 1 are given in Annex 4 (a).

ARTICLE XLVIII

Italy shall effect the following disposal of excess units of the Italian Navy:

(a) The units of the Italian Navy specified in Annex 4 (b) shall be placed at the disposal of the Government of the U. S. S. R., U. K., U. S. A. and France. (b) Ships required to be transferred in compliance with subparagraph (a) above shall be fully equipped, in operational condition, including a full outfit of armament stores, and complete on-board spare parts and all necessary technical data. (c) The transfer of ships specified above shall be effected within three months of the coming into force of this treaty, except that, in the case of ships that cannot be refitted within three months, the time limit for the transfer may be extended by the four Governments.

(d) Reserve allowances of spare parts and armament stores for ships specified in Annex 4 (b) shall, as far as possible, be supplied with the ships.

The balance of reserve spare parts and armament stores shall be supplied to an extent and at dates to be decided by the four Governments, in any case within a maximum of one year after the coming into force of the present treaty.

(e) Details relating to the above transfers will be arranged by a four-power commission to be established under a separate protocol.

ARTICLE XLIX

1. Italy shall effect the following disposal of submarines and non-operational ships. Time limits specified below should be taken as commencing with the coming into force of the present treaty.

(a) Surface ships afloat not listed in Annex 4, including ships under construction afloat, shall be sunk in a depth of over fifty fathoms within six months.

(b) Ships under construction on slips shall be destroyed or scrapped for metal within six months.

(c) Submarines afloat and not listed in Annex 4 (B) shall be sunk in the open sea in a depth of over 100 fathoms within three months.

(d) Ships sunk in Italian harbors and approach channels, in obstruction of normal shipping, shall be destroyed by demolition or may be salvaged and subsequently sunk in a depth of over fifty fathoms within two years.

(e) Ships sunk in shallow Italian waters, not in obstruction of normal shipping, shall, within one year, be rendered incapable of salvage.

(f) Ships capable of reconversion, which do not come within the definition of war material and which are not listed in Annex 4, may be reconverted for civilian uses or are to be demolished within two years.

2. Italy undertakes, prior to the sinking or destruction of ships and submarines as provided for in the preceding paragraph, to salvage such equipment and spare parts as may be useful in completing the on-board and reserve allowances of spare parts and equipment to be supplied, in accordance with Article XLVIII (d), for all operational ships specified in Annex 4 (B).

ARTICLE L

1. No battleships shall be constructed or acquired by Italy.

2. No aircraft carrier, submarine or other submersible craft, MTB or specialized types of assault craft shall be constructed, acquired or employed or experimented with, by Italy.

3. The total standard displacement of the war vessels other than battleships of the Italian Navy, including ships under construction as from the date of the launching, shall not exceed 67,500.

4. Any replacement of war vessels by Italy shall be effected within the limit of tonnage given in Paragraph 3. There shall be no restriction on the replacement of auxiliary vessels.

5. Italy undertakes not to acquire or lay down any war vessels before Jan. 1, 1950, except as necessary to replace any ships accidentally lost, in which case displacement of the new ship is not to exceed by more than 10 per cent the displacement of the ship lost.

6. The terms used in this article are, so far as necessary, defined in annex 5(a).

ARTICLE LI

1. The total personnel of the Italian Navy, excluding any naval air personnel, shall not exceed 22,500 officers and men.

2. During the period of minesweeping due the war, Italy shall be authorized to employ for this purpose an additional number of officers and men not to exceed 2,500, such period to be determined by the International Control Board for Mine Clearance in European waters.

3. Permanent naval personnel in excess of that permitted under paragraph 1 shall be progressively reduced as follows, time limits being taken as commencing with the coming into force of the treaty: (a) to 27,500 within six months; (b) to 22,500 within nine months.

Two months after the completion of minesweeping by the Italian Navy the excess personnel authorized by paragraph 2 is to be disbanded or absorbed within the above numbers.

4. Personnel other than those authorized under paragraphs 1 and 2 and any naval air personnel authorized under Article LVI shall not receive any form of naval training as defined in Annex 5(b).

Section IV. Limitations to Be Imposed on the Italian Army

ARTICLE LII

1. The Italian Army, including frontier guards, shall be limited to a force of 185,000 combat service and overhead personnel and 65,000 carabinieri, though either of above elements may be varied by 10,000 as long as the total ceiling does not exceed 250,000. The organization and armament of the Italian ground forces, as well as their deployment throughout Italy, shall be designed to meet only tasks of internal character, local defense of Italian frontiers and anti-aircraft defense.

2. The armament of the Italian Army will not include more than 200 tanks, medium and heavy.

ARTICLE LIII

The Italian Army in excess of that permitted under Article LII shall be disbanded within six months of the coming into force of the present treaty.

ARTICLE LIV

Personnel other than those forming part of the Italian Army or carabinieri shall not receive any form of military training as defined in Annex 5(B).

Section V. Limitations to Be Imposed on the Italian Air Force

ARTICLE LV

1. The Italian Air Force including any naval arm shall be limited to a force of 200 fighter and reconnaissance types and 150 transport air-sea rescue training (school type) and liaison types of aircraft. These totals include reserve aircraft. All aircraft except for fighter and reconnaissance aircraft will be unarmed. Organization and armament of the Italian Air Force as well as their deployment throughout Italy will be designed to meet only tasks of an internal character, local defense of the Italian frontiers and defense against enemy air attacks.

2. Italy shall not possess or acquire any aircraft designed primarily as bombers with internal bomb-carrying facilities.

ARTICLE LVI

1. Personnel of the Italian Air Force including any naval air personnel shall be limited to a total of 25,000 effectives, which will include combat, service and overhead personnel.

2. Personnel other than those forming part of the Italian Air Force shall not receive any form of military air training as defined in Annex 5(B).

ARTICLE LVII

The Italian Air Forces in excess of that permitted under Article LVI above shall be disbanded within six months of the coming into force of the present treaty.

Section VI. Disposal of War Material [As Defined in Annex 5C]

ARTICLE LVIII

1. All Italian war material in excess of that permitted for armed forces specified in Sections III, IV and V shall be placed at disposal of the Governments of U.S.S.R., United Kingdom, United States of America and France, according to such instructions as they may give to Italy.

2. All Allied war material in excess of that permitted for the armed forces specified in Sections III, IV and V shall be placed at the disposal of the Allied or Associated Power concerned according to instructions given to Italy by the Allied or Associated Power concerned.

3. All German and Japanese war material in excess of that permitted for the armed forces specified in Sections III, IV and V and all German or Japanese drawings, including existing blueprints, prototypes, experimental models and plans, shall be placed at the disposal of the Governments of the U.S.S.R., United Kingdom, United States of America and France, in accordance with such instructions as they may give to Italy.

4. Italy shall renounce all rights to the above-mentioned material and shall comply with the provisions of this article within one year from the coming into force of this treaty, except as provided for in Articles XLVII to LI thereof.

Italy shall furnish the Governments of the U.S.S.R., the United Kingdom, the United States of America and France lists of all excess war material within six months from the coming into force of this treaty.

Section VII. Prevention of German and Japanese Rearmament

ARTICLE LIX

Italy undertakes to cooperate with the Allied and Associated Powers with a view to insuring that Germany and Japan are unable to take steps outside German and Japanese territories toward rearmament.

ARTICLE LX

Italy undertakes not to permit the employment or training in Italy of any technicians [including military or civil aviation personnel] who are or have been nationals of Germany or Japan.

ARTICLE LXI

Italy undertakes not to acquire or manufacture civil aircraft which are of German or Japanese design or which embody major assemblies of German or Japanese manufacture or design.

coming into force of the present treaty. In cases where the property has not been returned within six months of the coming into force of the treaty, application shall be made to the Italian authorities not later than twelve months from the coming into force of the treaty, except in cases in which the claimant is able to show that he could not file his application within this period.

3. The Italian Government undertakes to invalidate transfers involving property, rights and interests of any description belonging to United Nations nationals, where such transfers resulted from force or duress exerted by Axis Governments or their agencies during the war.

4. UNITED STATES PROPOSAL

(a) Where, as a result of the war, the property cannot be returned or the United Nations national has suffered a loss because

Section VIII. Prisoners of W

ARTICLE LXII

1. Italian prisoners of war shall be repatriated as soon as possible in accordance with arrangements mutually agreed upon by the individual powers detaining them and Italy.

2. All costs (including maintenance costs) incurred in moving Italian prisoners of war from their respective assembly points as chosen by the government of the Allied or Associated Powers concerned, to the point of their entry into Italian territory, shall be borne by the Italian Government.

of injury to the property, the Italian Government shall compensate the owner by the payment of a sum in lire sufficient at the date of payment to enable the recipient to purchase similar property or to make good the loss of damage suffered.

(b) Sums in lire paid by the Italian Government under this Article shall be freely usable in Italy but shall be subjected to the foreign exchange control regulations which may be in force in Italy from time to time.

(c) In cases where a corporation or association of any national-full compensation or restoration as would be due under this Article if it were a corporation or association of one of the United Nations. In cases where the corporation or association receives from the Italian Government partial compensation for the damage or loss sustained, the United Nations nationals shall be paid by the Italian Government compensation in lire in an amount equal to their respective proportionate shares of the loss or damage for which the corporation or association does not itself receive compensation from the Italian Government. For purposes of this Paragraph, the extent of interest of a United Nations national shall be determined as of June 10, 1940, or the outbreak of war between the United Nation concerned and Italy, as may be the more favorable to the United Nations national.

(d) As used in this Article, the phrase "as a result of the war" included the consequences of any action taken by the Italian Government, or any action taken by any of the belligerants, any action taken under the armistice of Sept. 3, 1943, and any action or failure to act caused by the existence of a state of war.

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

Italy recognizes the necessity for compensation for the property of United Nations and their nationals in Italy, lost or damaged during the war. In view of the fact, however, that Italy was the first of the Axis powers to break with Germany and come over to the side of the United Nations, and in the course of military operations against Germany on Italian territory, it is agreed that such compensation will be made in part to the extent of one-third of the loss and will be paid in Italian lire.

[The U. K. and French delegations approved of the United States proposal subject to reservation as to the drafting.]

5. All reasonable expenses incurred in Italy in establishing claims, including the assessment of loss or damage, shall be borne by the Italian Government.

6. United Nations nationals and their property shall be exempted from any exceptional taxes, levies or imposts, imposed on their capital assets in Italy by the Italian Government, or any Italian authority, between the date of the armistice and the coming into force of the present treaty, for the specific purpose of meeting charges arising out of the war or of meeting the costs of occupying forces or of reparations payable to any of the United Nations. Any sums which have been so paid shall be refunded.

7. The owner of the property concerned and the Italian Government may agree upon arrangements in lieu of the provisions of this Article.

8. As used in this Article: (a) United Nations nationals means individuals who are nationals of any of the United Nations or corporations or associations organized under the laws of any of the United Nations at the date of the coming into force of the present treaty, provided that they also had this status at the date of the armistice with Italy. The term United Nations nationals also includes all individuals, corporations or associations which under the laws in force in Italy during the war have been treated as enemy. (b) Owner means the United Nations national as defined in sub-Paragraph (a) who is entitled to the property in question and includes a successor of the owner, provided that the successor is also a United Nations national as defined in sub-Paragraph (a). If the successor has purchased the property in its damaged state the transferee shall retain his rights to compensation under this Article without prejudice to obligations between the transferor and the purchaser under domestic law. (c) Property means all movable or immovable property, whether tangible or intangible, including industrial, literary and artistic property, as well as all rights, estates or interests in property of any kind.

PART VII. PROPERTY RIGHTS AND INTERESTS

Section I. United Nations' Property in Italy

ARTICLE LXVIII

1. In so far as Italy has not already done so, Italy shall restore all the legal rights and interests in Italy of the United Nations and their nationals as they existed on June 10, 1940, and shall return all property in Italy of the United Nations and their nationals as it now exists.

2. The Italian Government undertakes that all property, rights and interests passing under this Article shall be restored free of all encumbrances and charges of any kind to which they may have become subject as a result of the war and without the imposition of any charges by the Italian Government in connection with their return. The Italian Government will nullify all measures, including seizures, sequestrations or control, taken by it against United Nations property between June 10, 1940, and the ity other than th[illegible] one of the United Nations has suffered a loss of its property in Italy as a result of the war, compensation in lire shall be paid by the Italian Government to United Nations nationals who have directly, or indirectly through intermediate corporations or associations of any nationality other than that of one of the United Nations, an ownership interest in the corporation or association which has suffered the loss. This compensation shall be that fractional part of the amount which would be required to enable the corporation or association to make good the loss or damage suffered, which the interest of the United Nations nationals constitutes of the totality of ownership interested in the corporation. Such compensation, however, shall not be required in case the Italian Government shall provide to the corporation or the association itself such literary or artistic property to the Italian Government or Italian nationals or to include such property in determining the amounts which may be retained under Paragraph 1 of this Article. The Government of each of the Allied and Associated Powers shall have the right to impose such limitations, conditions and restrictions on rights or interests with respect to industrial, literary and artistic property acquired prior to the coming into force of the present treaty in the territory of that Allied or Associated Power by the Government or nationals of Italy as may be deemed by the Government of the Allied and Associated Power to be necessary in the national interest.

5. The property covered by Paragraph 1 of this Article shall be deemed to include Italian property which has been subject to control by reason of a state of war existing between Italy and the Allied or Associate Power having jurisdiction over the property, but shall not include

(A) Property of the Italian Government used for consular or diplomatic purposes;

(B) Property belonging to religious bodies or private charitable institutions and used for religious or charitable purposes;

Section II. Italian Property in the Territory of Allied and Associated Powers

ARTICLE LXIX

1. Each of the Allied and Associated Powers shall have the right to seize, retain, liquidate or take any other action with respect to all property rights and interests within its territory which on the date of the coming into force of the present treaty belong to Italy or to Italian nationals, and to apply such property or the proceeds thereof to such purposes as it may desire within the limits of its claims and those of its nationals against Italy or its nationals, including debts other than claims fully satisfied under other Articles of the present treaty. All Italian property or the proceeds thereof in excess of the amount of such claims shall be returned.

2. The liquidation and disposition of Italian property shall be carried out in accordance with the law of the Allied or Associated Power concerned. The Italian owner shall have no rights with respect to such property except those which may be given by that law.

3. The Italian Government undertakes to compensate Italian nationals whose property is taken under this Article and not returned to them.

4. No obligation is created by this Article on any Allied or Associated Power to return industrial,

(C) Property of natural persons who are Italian nationals permitted to reside within the territory of the country in which the property is located or to reside elsewhere in United Nations territory other than Italian property which at any time during the war was subjected to measures not generally applicable to the property of Italian nationals resident in the same territory;

(D) Property rights arising since the resumption of trade and financial relations between Italy and the Allied and Associated Powers or arising out of transactions between Italy and the Government of any Allied or Associated Power since Sept. 3, 1943;

(E) Property in ceded territories of Italian nationals to which the provisions of Annex 3 shall apply;

(F) Property of natural persons residing in ceded territories or in the Free Territory of Trieste who do not opt for Italian nationality under this treaty, and property of corporations or associations having siege social in ceded territories or in the Free Territory of Trieste, provided that such corporations or associations are not owned or controlled by persons in Italy.

Section III. Debts

ARTICLE LXX

1. The contracting parties agree that the existence of the state of war shall not in itself be regarded as affecting the obligation to pay pecuniary debts arising out of obligations and contracts which existed and rights acquired before the existence of a state of war which became payable prior to the coming into force of the present treaty and which are due by the Government or nationals of Italy to the Government or nationals of one of the Allied and associated powers or are due by the Government or nationals of one of the Allied and associated powers to the Government or nationals of Italy.

2. Except as otherwise expressly provided in the present treaty nothing therein shall be construed as impairing debtor-creditor relationships arising out of pre-war contracts concluded either by the Government or nationals of Italy.

* * * excluding certain branches where, in accordance with the internal legislation of the country, private enterprise does not take place.

[The U. K., U. S. and French delegations propose the following alternative to the U. S. S. R. proposal: This paragraph shall not be deemed to confer on the United Nations or their nationals, rights to engage in any branch of commerce, industry, shipping or other form of business activity which under Italian law is a monopoly of the Italian State. Nevertheless, the favored nation principle shall be observed in any such cases in which foreign participation is allowed.

[Proposed further addition to this paragraph by the United States delegation supported by the United Kingdom delegation: It is further understood that this paragraph shall not apply to civil aviation, but that Italy will grant no

PART VIII. GENERAL ECONOMIC RELATIONS

JUL 31 1946

ARTICLE LXXI

Pending the conclusion of commercial treaties or agreements between Italy and the United Nations, the Italian Government shall during the eighteen months following the coming into force of the present treaty grant the following treatment to each of the United Nations which in fact reciprocally grants similar treatment in like matters to Italy:

(A) In all that concerns duties and charges on importation or exportation, the internal taxation of imported goods and all regulations pertaining thereto, the United Nations shall be granted unconditional most-favored nation treatment.

(B) In all other respects Italy shall make no arbitrary discrimination against goods originating in or destined for any territory of any of the United Nations as compared with like goods originating in or destined for any other territory of the United Nations or of any other foreign country.

(C) Natural and legal persons who are nationals of any of the United Nations shall be granted national and most favored nation treatment in all matters pertaining to commerce, industry, shipping and other forms of business activity within Italy * * *.

[The U. S. S. R. delegation proposes the following text as an integral part of Paragraph 1:

exclusive or discriminatory right to any country with regard to the operation of civil aircraft in international traffic and will afford all the United Nations equality of opportunity in obtaining international commercial aviation rights in Italian territory.

[The U. S. S. R. delegation sees no reason for the inclusion of this addition in the treaty.]

2. The foregoing undertakings by Italy shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in commercial treaties concluded by Italy before the war; and the provisions with respect to reciprocity granted by each of the United Nations shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in the commercial treaties concluded by that power.

PART IX. SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES

ARTICLE LXXII

UNITED KINGDOM PROPOSAL

Any disputes which may arise in connection with articles LXV and LXVIII—and annexes 6, 7 and 8—of the present treaty shall be referred to a conciliation commission composed of an equal number of representatives of the United Nations Government concerned and of the Italian Government. If agreement has not been reached within three months of the disputes having been referred to the conciliation commission, either Government may require the addition of a third member to the commission, and failing agreement between the two governments on the selection of this member, the President of the International Court of Justice shall be requested to make the appointment.

The decisions of the commission, as so constituted shall be taken by the same procedure as provided for decisions of the International Court itself in articles XLVIII and LV—LVII of the statute of the court—and shall be final and binding on all parties.

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

Any disputes which may arise in giving effect to the present Articles LXV and LXVIII of the present treaty shall be referred to a conciliation commission consisting of representatives of the United Nations Government concerned and of the Government of Italy appointed on an equal, footing. If within three months after the dispute has been referred to the conciliation commission no agreement has been reached, either Government may ask for the addition to the commission of a third member selected by mutual agreement the two Governments from nationals of third countries. Should the two Governments fail to agree on the selection of a third member of the commission, the Governments shall apply to the Ambassadors in Rome of the U. S. S. R., United Kingdom, United States and France, who will appoint the third member of the commission.

[Note: The United States delegation can accept either the United Kingdom proposal or the U. S. S. R. proposal provided the following sentence is added at the end of the latter: "If the Ambassadors are unable to agree within a period of one month upon the appointment of the third member, the Secretary General of the United Nations shall be requested by either party to make the appointment."

[The French delegation has the same position as the United States delegation provided Annexes 6, 7 and 8 are also covered by the article.]

PART X. MISCELLANEOUS ECONOMIC PROVISIONS

ARTICLE LXXIII

Articles XLV, XLVIII and LXXI and Annex 8 of the present treaty shall apply to the Allied and Associated Powers and to those of the United Nations which have broken diplomatic relations with Italy.

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

Save where any other procedure is specifically provided under any Article of the present treaty, disputes concerning the interpretation or execution of the treaty shall be settled by direct diplomatic negotiations; if the disputes are not settled in this way, they shall be referred to the four Ambassadors acting as provided under Article LXXV of the treaty, except that in this case the Ambassadors will not be respected by the time limit provided in that Article.

ARTICLE LXXIV

The provisions of Annexes 3, 6, 7 and 8 shall, as in the case of the other annexes, have force and effect as integral parts of the present treaty.

JUL 31 1946

PART XI. FINAL CLAUSES

ARTICLE LXXV

For a period not to exceed eighteen months from the coming into force of the present treaty, the Ambassadors in Rome of the U. S. S. R., the United Kingdom, the United States and France, acting in concert, will represent the Allied and Associated Powers in dealing with the Italian Government in all matters concerning the execution and interpretation of the present treaty.

The four Ambassadors will give the Italian Government such guidance, technical advice and clarification as may be necessary to ensure rapid and efficient compliance with the spirit and terms of the present treaty.

The Italian Government undertakes to afford the said four Ambassadors all necessary information and any assistance they may require in the fulfillment of the tasks devolving on them under the present treaty.

ARTICLE LXXVI

UNITED KINGDOM, UNITED STATES AND FRENCH PROPOSAL

Except where any other procedure is specifically provided under any Article of the present treaty, disputes concerning the interpretation or execution of the treaty shall be referred to the four Ambassadors acting as provided under Article LXXV and, if not resolved by them within a period of two months shall, at the request of any party to any dispute, be referred to the International Court of Justice. Any dispute still pending at, or arising after, the date when the Ambassadors terminate their functions under Article LXXV and which is not settled by direct diplomatic negotiations, shall equally at the request of any party to the dispute be referred to the International Court of Justice.

ARTICLE LXXVII

Any other member of the United Nations not a signatory to the present treaty which is at war with Italy may accede to the treaty and upon accession will be deemed to be an Associated Power for the purposes of the treaty.

Instruments of accession will be deposited with the Government of the French Republic and shall take effect upon deposit.

ARTICLE LXXVIII

The present treaty of which the French, English and Russian texts are authentic, shall be ratified by the Allied and Associated Powers. It shall also be ratified by Italy. It will come into force immediately upon the deposit of ratifications by France, the United Kingdom, the United States and the U.S.S.R. The instruments of ratification will, in the shortest time possible, be deposited with the Government of the French Republic.

With respect to each Allied or Associated Power whose instrument of ratification is thereafter deposited, the treaty shall come into force upon the date of deposit. The present treaty will be deposited in the archives of the French Republic, which shall furnish certified copies to each of the signatory States.

Annex 2

Guarantees in connection with Mont Cenis and Tenda—Briga [See Article IX].

Guarantees to be given by France to Italy in connection with the cession of the plateau of Mont Cenis.

1. In respect of water supplied from the Lake of Mont Cenis for hydroelectric purposes (a) France shall so control the supply of water from the Lake of Mont Cenis to the underground conduits supplying the Grand Scala, Venaus and Monpantero hydroelectric plants, as to supply for those plants such quantities of water at such rates of flow as Italy may require. (b) France shall repair and maintain in good and substantial condition and, as may be necessary shall renew all the works required for the purposes of controlling and supplying the water in accordance with paragraph (a) in so far as these works are within French territory. (c) France shall inform Italy, as and when required by Italy, of the amount of water in the Lake of Mont Cenis and of any other information pertaining thereto so as to enable Italy to determine the quantities of water and rates of flow to be supplied to the said underground conduits. (d) France shall carry out the foregoing provisions with due regard for economy and shall charge Italy the actual cost incurred in so doing.

2. In respect of electricity produced at the Grand Scala hydroelectric plant:

(A) France shall operate the Grand Scala hydroelectric plant so as to generate—subject to the control of the supply of water as provided in Guarantee 1—such quantities of electricity at such rates of output as Italy may require, after the local requirements—which shall not substantially exceed the present requirements—in the vicinity of Grand Scala within French territory have been met.

(B) France shall operate the pumping plant adjacent to the Grand Scala plant so as to pump water to the lake of Mont Cenis as and when required by Italy.

(C) France shall repair and maintain in good and substantial condition and, as may be necessary, shall renew all the works comprising the Grand Scala hydroelectric plant and pumping plant together with the transmission line and equipment from the Grand Scala plant to the Franco-Italian boundary.

(D) France shall transmit over the transmission line from Grand Scala to the Franco-Italian boundary the electricity required by Italy as aforesaid, and shall deliver that electricity to Italy at the point at which that transmission line crosses the Franco-Italian boundary into Italian territory.

(E) France shall maintain the voltage and periodicity of the electricity supplied as aforesaid at such values as Italy may reasonably require.

(F) France shall arrange with Italy for telephone communication between Grand Scala and Italy and shall communicate with Italy in order to insure that the Grand Scala plant, the pumping plant and transmission line are operated in such a manner as to comply with the foregoing guarantees.

(g) The price to be charged by France and paid by Italy for the electricity available to Italy from the Grand Scala plant—after the local requirements as aforesaid have been met—shall be the same as the price charged in France for the supply of similar quantities of hydroelectricity in French territory in the neighborhood of Mont Cenis or in other regions where conditions are comparable.

3. Duration of guarantees:

Unless otherwise agreed between France and Italy, these guarantees will remain in force in perpetuity.

4. A supervisory technical commission comprising an equal number of French and Italian members shall be established to supervise and facilitate the execution of the foregoing guarantees, which are designed to secure the same facilities as Italy enjoyed in respect of hydroelectric and water supplies from the Lake of Mont Cenis before the cession of this region to France.

Guarantees to be given by France to Italy in connection with the cession of the Tenda-Briga district to France:

1. Guarantees to insure to Italy the supply of electricity generated by the 2-16 and 2-3 period generators of the hydroelectric plant at San Dalmazzo; and the supply of electricity generated at fifty periods at the hydroelectric plants at Le Mesces, San Dalmazzo and Confine in excess of such amount thereof as may be required by France for supply to the Sospel, Menton and Nice areas until the complete reconstruction of the wrecked hydroelectric plants at Breil and Fontan, it being understood that such amount will decrease as reconstruction of these plants proceeds, will not exceed 5,000 kilowats in power and 3,000,000 kilowat hours per month and that, if no special difficulties are encountered in the reconstruction, the work should be completed not later than the end of 1947.

(a) France shall operate the said plants so as to generate—subject to such limitations as may be imposed by the amount of water available and taking into account as far as reasonably practicable the needs of the plants downstream—such quantities of electricity at such rates of output as Italy may require, first, as sixteen and two-third cycles for the Italian railways in Liguria and south Piedmont, and secondly, at fifty cycles for general purposes, after the requirements by France for Sospel, Menton and Nice, as aforesaid, and of the local requirements in the vicinity of San Dalmazzo have been met.

(b) France shall repair and maintain in good and substantial condition and, as may be necessary, shall renew all the works comprising the Le Mesce, San Dalmazzo and Confine hydroelectric plants together with the transmission lines and equipment from the Le Mesce and Confine plants to the San Dalmazzo plant and also the main transmission lines and equipment from the San Dalmazzo plants to the Franco-Italian boundary.

(C) France shall inform Italy, as and when required by Italy, the rate of flow of water at Le Mesce and Confine and of the amount of water stored at San Dalmazzo and of any other information pertaining thereto so as to enable Italy to determine her electricity requirements as indicated in paragraph (A).

(D) France shall transmit over the main transmission lines from San Dalmazzo to the Franco-Italian boundary the electricity required by Italy as aforesaid, and shall deliver that electricity to Italy at the points at which those main transmission lines cross the Franco-Italian boundary into Italian territory.

(E) France shall maintain the voltage and periodicity of the electricity supplied as aforesaid at such values as Italy may actually require.

(F) France shall arrange with Italy for telephone communications between San Dalmazzo and Italy and shall communicate with Italy in order to ensure that the said hydroelectric plants and transmission lines are operated in such a manner as to comply with the foregoing guarantees.

2. Guarantee concerning the price to be charged by France to Italy for the electricity made available to Italy under paragraph 1 above until terminated in accordance with paragraph 3 below.

The price to be charged by France and paid by Italy for the electricity made available to Italy from the Le Mesce, San Dalmazzo and Confine hydroelectric plants after the requirements by France for Sospel, Menton and Nice and the local requirements in the vicinity of San Dalmazzo have been met as provided in paragraph 1(A) shall be the same as the price charged in France for the supply of similar quantities of hydroelectricity in French territory in the neighborhood of the upper Roya valley or in other regions where conditions are comparable.

3. Guarantee of a reasonable period of time for the supply of the electricity by France to Italy.

Unless otherwise mutually agreed between France and Italy, paragraphs 1 and 2 shall remain in force until Dec. 31, 1961, and shall terminate then or on any subsequent 31st of December if either country shall have given to the other at least two years' notice in writing of its intention to terminate.

4. Guarantee of full and equitable utilization by France and Italy of the waters of the Roya and its tributaries for hydroelectric production:

(A) France shall operate the hydroelectric plants in the French territory of the Roya, taking into account as far as reasonably practicable the needs of the plants downstream. France shall inform Italy in advance of the amount of water which it is expected will be available each day, and shall furnish any other information pertaining thereto.

(B) Through bilateral negotiations, France and Italy shall develop a mutually agreeable, coordinated plan for the exploitation of the water resources of the Roya.

5. A commission or such other similar body as may be agreed shall be established to supervise the carrying out of the plan mentioned in Paragraph 4 (B) and to facilitate the execution of the guarantees contained in Paragraphs 1 to 4.

Annex 3

Economic and financial provisions relating to ceded territories.

1. [The U.S. and U.K. delegations accepted this paragraph without prejudice to any question of reparation.] The successor State shall receive, without payment, Italian State and parastatal property within the territory ceded to it under the present treaty, as well as all relevant archives concerning the territory in question.

The following are considered as State or parastatal property for the purposes of this article: movable and immovable property of the Italian State, of local authorities and of public institutions and publicly owned companies and associations, as well as movable and immovable property formerly belonging to the Fascist party or its auxiliary organizations.

2. The successor State shall make arrangements for the conversion into its own currency of Italian funds held in the ceded territory by persons continuing to reside on the said territory or juridical persons continuing to carry on business there. Full proof of the source of the funds to be converted may be required from their holders.

UNITED KINGDOM PROPOSAL

3. The successor Government shall not be required to make any contribution to the service of the Italian public debt but it shall assume the obligations of the Italian Government to holders of the Italian public debt who continue to reside in the said territory or who, being juridical persons, retain their head office or principal place of business there. Full proof of the source of such holdings may be required from the holders.

FRENCH AND U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

The State to which a territory is ceded shall be exempt from any part whatever in the payment of the Italian public debt. Nevertheless, the State to which a territory is ceded shall be liable for that part of the public debt specifically incurred for the purpose of construction of public works on the ceded territory, and shall respect all privileges guaranteeing the servicing thereof.

[The United States delegation supports the United Kingdom draft but is prepared to consider other arrangements which would be equitable.]

4. Special arrangements shall be concluded between Italy and the successor State to govern the conditions under which the obligations of Italian public or private social insurance organizations toward the inhabitants of the ceded territory and a proportionate part of the reserves accumulated by the organizations shall be transferred to similar organizations of the successor State.

5. The property, rights and interests of Italian nationals permanently resident in the ceded territories at the date of the coming into force of the treaty shall, provided they have been lawfully acquired, be respected on a basis of equality with the rights of nationals of the successor State.

The property, rights and interests within the ceded territory of other Italian nationals and also of Italian juridical persons, provided they have been lawfully acquired, shall be subject only to such legislation as may be enforced from time to time regarding the property of foreign nationals and juridical persons generally.

(The first two sub-paragraphs are accepted without prejudice to any question of reparation. The French delegation proposed that the successor State may take over, free of charge, the property, rights and interests of all Italian concessionary companies of public utility services such as water, gas, electricity and transport and that in such cases the Italian Government should pay fair compensation to the parties concerned.)

[The United States proposal, supported by the United Kingdom:

[Such property, rights and interests shall not be subject to retention or liquidation under the provisions of Article LXIX of the present treaty but shall be restored to their owners freed of any measures of this kind, or from any other measure of transfer, compulsory administration or sequestration taken between Sept. 8, 1943, and the date of the coming into force of the present treaty, in the condition in which they were before the application of the measures in question.

[The U.S.S.R. delegation does not consider this provision necessary.]

6. Persons who opt for Italian nationality and move to Italy shall be permitted, after the settlement of any debts or taxes due from them in ceded territory, to take with them their movable property and transfer their funds, provided such property and funds were lawfully acquired. No export or import duties will be imposed in connection with the moving of such property. Further, they shall be permitted to sell the movables of such property. Further, they shall be permitted to sell their movable and immovable property under the same conditions of the successor State.

The removal of property to Italy will be effected under conditions and within the limits agreed upon between Italy and the successor State.

The conditions and time periods of the transfer of the funds, including the proceeds of sales, shall likewise be agreed.

7. [The United States and U. K. proposal:

[Companies incorporated under Italian law and having siege social in the ceded territory, which wish to remove siege social to Italy, shall likewise be dealt with under the provisions of Paragraph 6 of this Article, provided that more than 50 per cent of the capital of the company is owned by persons usually resident outside the ceded territory, or by persons who have opted under this treaty to move to Italy.

[The French delegation is not opposed to the inclusion of this paragraph, under the condition that not only a majority of the capital but also the greater part of the activity of the company should lie outside the ceded territory.]

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers that there is no reason for inclusion of such a provision in the peace treaty.

8. Debts owed by persons in Italy shall not be affected by the cession. Italy and the successor State undertake to facilitate the settlement of such obligations. As used in this paragraph the term "persons" includes juridical persons.

9. [It is agreed that the question of compensation by Italy in case restoration of property is impossible should be studied in relation to other appropriate provisions of the treaty]. The property in ceded territory of the United Nations and their nationals if not already freed from Italian measures of sequestration or control, and returned to its owner, shall be returned in the condition in which it now exists.

10. French proposals supported by U.K. and United States subject to drafting: [A new agreement shall be negotiated between the Danube—Sava—Adriatica Railway Company, the Governments concerned, and the committee of bondholders of the company, in order to determine the method of applying the provisions of the Rome agreement of March 29, 1923, laying down the company's article of association, and the modifications required to adapt them to the changes which have followed on the redistribution of the lines over the territories of various States.

[This agreement shall contain all the provisions necessary to ensure satisfactory servicing of the bonds and payments of amounts in arrears.]

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers that there is no reason for the inclusion in the peace treaty of the French delegations' proposal, because a peace treaty should not contain provisions dealing with particular private companies.

11. [When a decision is reached on Italian colonies, the question has to be reconsidered.] The provisions of this annex shall not apply to the former Italian colonies.

[Note: Pending agreement on the statute of the Free Territory of Trieste, the United States delegation does not consider that this annex applies to the Free Territory of Trieste and is of the opinion that special provisions may be required.]

Annex 5 (A)

NAVAL DEFINITIONS

Standard Displacement: Standard displacement of a surface vessel is displacement of vessel complete, fully manned, engined and equipped, ready for sea, including all armament and ammunition, equipment, outfit, provisions and fresh water for crew, miscellaneous stores and implements of every description that are intended to be carried in war but without fuel or reserve feed or water on board.

Standard displacement is expressed in tons of 2,240 pounds, or 1,016 kilograms.

War Vessel: War vessel, whatever its displacement, is

(A) a vessel specifically built or adapted as a fighting unit for naval amphibious or naval air warfare;

(B) Or a vessel which has one of the following characteristics:

1. Mount a gun with caliber exceeding 4.7 inches [120 millimeters].

2. Mount more than four guns with caliber exceeding three inches [76 millimeters].

3. Is designed or fitted to launch torpedoes or lay mines.

4. Is designed or fitted to launch self-propelled or guided missiles.

5. Is designed for protection by armor plating exceeding one inch [25 millimeters].

6. Is designed or adapted primarily for operating aircraft at sea.

7. Mount more than two aircraft launching apparatus.

8. Is designed for a speed greater than twenty knots if fitted with a gun of a caliber exceeding three inches [76 millimeters].

A war vessel belonging to subcategory (A) is no longer to be considered as such after the twentieth year since the completion if all weapons are removed.

Battleship. A battleship is a war vessel other than an aircraft carrier, the standard displacement of which exceeds 10,000 tons or which carries a gun with a calibre exceeding eight inches (203 mm.)

Aircraft Carrier. An aircraft carrier is a war vessel, whatever her displacement, designed or adapted primarily for the purpose of carrying and operating aircraft.

Submarine. A submarine is a vessel designed to operate below the surface of the sea.

Specialized Types or Assault Craft. (a) All types of craft specially designed or adapted for amphibious operations; (b) all types of small craft specially designed or adapted to carry an explosive or incendiary charge for attacks on ships or harbors.

Motor Torpedoboat. A vessel of a displacement less than 200 tons capable of a speed of over twenty-five knots and of operating torpedoes.

Annex 5 (B)

Definitions of military, air and naval training.

Military training is defined as the study of and practice in use of war material specially designed or adapted for army purposes and training devices relative thereto; the study and carrying out of all drill or movements which teach or practice evolutions performed by fighting forces in battle; and the organized study of tactics, strategy and staff work.

Military air training is defined as: The study of and practice in use war material specially designed or adapted for air force purposes and training devices relative thereto; study and practice of all specialized evolutions, including formation flying performed by aircraft in accomplishment of an air-force mission and organized study of air tactics, strategy and staff work.

Naval training is defined as: The study, administration or practice in use of warships or naval establishments as well as the study or employment of all apparatus and training devices relative thereto which are used in the prosecution of naval warfare except for those which are also normally used for civilian purposes; also the teaching, practice or organized study of naval tactics, strategy and staff work, including the execution of all operations and maneuvers not required in the peaceful employment of ships.

Annex 5 (C)

Definition and list of war material.

The term "war material" as used in this treaty shall include all arms, ammunition and implements specially designed or adapted for use in war as listed below:

The Allied and Associated Powers reserve the right to amend by modification or addition the list periodically in the light of subsequent scientific development.

CATEGORY I

1. Military rifles, carbines, revolvers and pistols; barrels for these weapons and other spare parts not readily adaptable for civilian use.

2. Machine guns, military, automatic or autoloading rifles, and machine pistols; barrels for these weapons and other spare parts not readily adaptable for civilian use; machine gun mounts.

3. Guns, howitzers, mortars and cannon special to aircraft; breachless or recoilless guns and flamethrowers; barrels and other spare parts not readily adaptable for civilian use, carriages and mountings for the foregoing.

4. Rocket projectors, launching and control mechanisms for self-propelling and guided missiles; mountings for the same.

5. Self-propelling and guided missiles, projectiles, rockets, fixed ammunition and cartridges filled or unfilled for arms listed in items 1 to 4, inclusive above, and fuses, tubes or contrivances to explode or operate them. Fuses required for civilian use are not included.

6. Grenades, bombs, torpedoes, mines, depth charges and incendiary materials or charges filled or unfilled; all means for exploding or operating them. Fuses required for civilian use are not included.

7. Bayonets.

CATEGORY II

1. Armored fighting vehicles; armored trains not technically convertible to civilian use.

2. Mechanical and self-propelled carriages for any of weapons listed in Category I; special type military chassis or bodies other than those enumerated in I above.

3. Armor plate greater than three inches in thickness used for protective purposes in warfare.

CATEGORY III

1. Aiming computing devices, including predictors and plotting apparatus for fire control; direction of fire instruments; gun sights; bomb sights; fuse setters; calibration equipment for calibration guns; fire control instruments.

2. Assault bridging; assault boats; storm boats.

JUL 31 1946

3. Deceptive warfare dazzle and decoy devices.

4. Personal war equipment of a specialized nature not readily adaptable to civilian use.

CATEGORY IV

1. Warships of all kinds, including converted vessels and craft designed or intended for their attendance or support which cannot be technically reconverted for civilian use, as well as weapons, armor, ammunition, aircraft, and all other equipment, material, machines and installations not used in peacetime on ships other than warships.

2. Landing craft and amphibious vehicles or equipment of any kind; assault boats or devices of any type, as well as catapults or other apparatus for launching or throwing aircraft, rockets, propelled weapons or any other missile, instrument or device, whether manned or unmanned, guided or uncontrolled.

3. Submersible or semi-submersible ships, craft, weapons, devices or apparatus of any kind, including specially designed harbor defense booms except as required by salvage, rescue or other civilian uses, as well as all equipment, accessories, spare parts, experimental or training aids, instruments or installations as may be especially designed for the construction, testing, maintenance or housing of same.

CATEGORY V

1. Aircraft assembled or unassembled, both heavier and lighter than air, which are designed or adapted for aerial combat by use of machine guns, rockets, projectors or artillery or for carrying and dropping of bombs or which are equipped with, or which by reason of design or construction are prepared for any of the appliances referred to in paragraph 2 below.

2. Aerial gun mounts and frames, bomb racks, torpedo carriers and bomb release or torpedo release mechanisms; gun turrets and blisters.

3. Equipment especially designed for and used solely by airborne troops.

4. Catapults or launching apparatus for shipborne land or sea-based aircraft; apparatus for launching aircraft weapons.

5. Barrage balloons.

CATEGORY VI

Asphyxiating, lethal, toxic, incapacitation substances intended for war purposes or manufactured in excess of civilian requirements.

CATEGORY VII

Propellants, explosives, pyrotechnics and liquefied gases destined for the propulsion, explosion, charging, filling of or use in connection with war material, in present categories not capable of use in or manufactured in excess of civilian requirements.

CATEGORY VIII

Factory and tool equipment specially designed for the production and maintenance of the products enumerated above and not technically reconvertible to civilian uses.

Special provisions relating to certain kinds of property (A) industrial, literary and artistic property 1a, a period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty shall be accorded to Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals without extension fees or other penalty of any sort in order to enable such persons to accomplish any necessary acts for the obtaining or preserving in Italy of rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were not capable of accomplishment owing to the existence of a state of war.

(b) Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals who had duly applied in any Allied or Associated Power for patent or registration of a utility model not earlier than twelve months before the outbreak of the war with Italy or during the war, or for the registration of an industrial design or model or trade mark not earlier than six months before the outbreak of the war with Italy or during the war shall be entitled within twelve months after the coming into force of this treaty to apply for corresponding rights in Italy with a right of priority based upon the previous filing of the application in that Allied and Associated Power.

(c) Each of the Allied and Associated Powers or its nationals shall be accorded a period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty, during which they may institute proceedings against those persons who are alleged illegally to have infringed their rights in industrial, literary or artistic property between the date of the outbreak of the war and the coming into force of this treaty.

2. A period from the outbreak of the war until a date eighteen months after the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded in considering the time within which a patent should be worked or a design or trade-mark used.

3. The period from the outbreak of the war until the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded from the normal term of rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were in force in Italy at the outbreak of the war or which are recognized or established under this Annex and belonging to any of the Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals. Consequently, the normal duration of such rights shall be deemed automatically extended in Italy for a further term corresponding to the period so excluded.

4. The foregoing provisions concerning the rights of Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals shall apply equally to Italy and its nationals [but nothing in these provisions shall operate so as to give to Italy or any of its nationals greater rights than are accorded in like cases by any of the Allied or Associated Powers to any other of the United Nations].

The U. S. S. R. delegation considers it unnecessary to include the passage in brackets. The United States delegation would not agree to this Annex unless Paragraph 4 were included in its entirety.

5. Third parties in the territories of any of Allied and Associated Powers or Italy, who before the coming into force of the present treaty have bona fide acquired industrial property rights conflicting with the rights restored under this Article or with the rights obtained with priority claimed thereunder or have bona fide manufacture, use or sale the subject matter of such rights shall be permitted without any liability for the infringement to continue to exercise such rights and to continue or to resume such manufacture, use or sale which had been bona fide acquired or commenced.

In Italy such permission shall take the form of a non-exclusive license granted on terms and conditions to be mutually agreed by the parties thereto or in default of an agreement to be fixed by the conciliation commission established under Article LXXII of the treaty.

In the territories of the Allied or Associated Powers, however, bona fide third parties shall receive such protection as is accorded under similar circumstances to bona fide third parties whose rights are in conflict with those of the nationals of other Allied and Associated Powers.

6. Nothing in this Annex shall be construed to entitle Italy or its nationals to any patent or utility model rights in the territory of any of the Allied or Associated Powers with respect to inventions relating to any article listed by name in the definition of war material contained in Annex V of the present treaty made or upon which applications were filed by Italy or any of its nationals in Italy or in the territory of any other of the Axis or in any territory occupied by the Axis forces during the time when the place in question was under the control of enemy forces or authorities.

7. Italy shall extend the benefits of this Article to any United Nation other than an Allied or Associated Power which undertakes to extend to Italy the benefits accorded to Italy under this Article.

The U.S.S.R. delegation does not see the reason for the inclusion of Paragraph 7 of the present treaty.

8. Nothing in this Annex shall be understood to conflict with Articles LXVIII, LXIX and LXX of the present treaty.

Annex 6 (B) Insurance

U. K. PROPOSALS

1. The United Nations insurers shall be granted full facilities by the Italian Government to recover their former portfolios of business in Italy and they shall not be required to conform to any legislative enactments more onerous than those which were applicable to them before the outbreak of war.

2. In so far as the guarantee, deposits and reserves of United Nations insurers have been reduced by reason of payment of insurance claims arising out of the war, they shall be entitled to compensation from the Italian Government by way of reinstatement of such deposits or reserves to the amount of the claims.

3. The Italian Government undertakes that if any United Nations insurer desires to resume business in Italy and it is found that the value of any guarantee, deposit or reserves required to be held as a condition of carrying on business in Italy have been diminished by reason of the disappearance or depreciation of the securities in which they were constituted, Italy shall either

(a) Itself reconstitute the deposits or reserves, except in so far as the diminution or disappearance was caused by the payment of losses already compensated for under Paragraph 2 above; or

(b) Accept the securities at their value at the outbreak of war for the purpose of compliance with the legal requirements relating to such deposits and reserves.

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers that this subject is also covered by Article LXVIII on United Nations property in Italy and sees no reason to include any special provisions relating to insurance.

The United States delegation is not opposed in principle to the treaty provisions on special problems relating to insurance, but is unable to accept the draft as a whole.

Annex 7. Contracts, Prescriptions and Negotiable Instruments

U. K. PROPOSALS

Contracts

1. Any contract concluded between enemies shall be deemed to have been dissolved as from the time when any of the parties became an enemy, except in respect of any debt accrued or money paid or other pecuniary obligation arising out of any act done thereunder and subject to the exceptions set out in the following paragraph. Provisions of this paragraph shall be without prejudice to contracts of insurance and reinsurance, which will be subject to separate agreement. [Alternatively, a special Annex can be included.]

2. The following classes of contracts, notwithstanding the provisions of Paragraph 1, are exempted from dissolution and, without prejudice to the rights contained in Article LXIX, remain in force, subject to the application of municipal laws, orders or regulations made since the outbreak of war by any member of the United Nations and subject to the proper laws and terms of the contracts:

(a) Contracts for the transfer of estates or of movable or immovable property where the property therein has passed or delivery has been made before the parties became enemies; (b) leases or agreements for leases of land, houses or parts thereof; (c) contracts or mortgages or lien; (d) concessions of mines, quarries or deposits; (e) contracts between individuals or palities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative functions and concessions granted by States, municipalities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative functions; (f) any contract of which the execution shall be required in the general interest within six months of the date of the coming into force of the present treaty by the Government of one of the United Nations of which one of the parties to such a contract is a national, when execution of the contract thus kept alive would, owing to the alteration of particular conditions, cause one of the parties substantial prejudice, the Conciliation Commission established under Article LXXII shall be empowered to award a fair compensation to the prejudiced parties.

3. If a contract is dissolved in part under paragraph 1 the remaining provisions of that contract shall be subject to the same application of municipal laws as is provided for in Paragraph 2, continue in force if they are severable but where not severable the contract shall be deemed to have been dissolved in its entirety.

4. Nothing in the present Annex shall be deemed to invalidate transactions lawfully carried out in accordance with a contract between the enemies if it has been carried out with the authority of the government of one of the United Nations.

5. For purposes of Parts I, II and III of the present Annex, the parties to a contract shall be regarded as enemies when trading between them shall have been prohibited by or otherwise become unlawful under laws, orders or regulations to which one of these parties or the contract was subject. They shall be deemed to have become enemies from the date when such trading was prohibited or otherwise became unlawful.

PART V. WITHDRAWAL OF ALLIED FORCES

ARTICLE LXIII

1. All armed forces of the Allied and Associated Powers shall be withdrawn from Italy as soon as possible and in any case not later than ninety days from the coming into force of the present treaty.

2. All Italian goods for which compensation has not been made and which are in possession of the armed forces of the Allied and Associated Powers in Italy at the time of the coming into force of the present treaty shall be refunded to the Italian Government within the same period of ninety days or due compensation shall be made.

3. All bank and cash balances in the hands of the forces of the Allied and Associated Powers at the time of the coming into force of the present treaty which have been supplied free of cost by the Italian Government shall similarly be returned or have corresponding credit given the Italian Government.

ARTICLE LXIV

A. Reparation for the U.S.S.R.

1. Italy shall pay the Soviet Union reparation in the amount of $100,000,000 over a period of seven years from the date of the coming into force of the treaty. Deliveries from the current industrial production shall not be made during the first two years.

2. Reparations shall be made from the following courses:

(a) A share of the Italian factory and tool equipment designed for the manufacture of war implements which is not required by the permitted military establishments and is not readily susceptible of conversion to civilian purposes which is removed from Italy pursuant to Article LVIII of this treaty.

(b) Italian assets in Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary, subject to the exceptions specified in Paragraph 5 of Article LXIX.

(c) Italian current industrial production.

3. The quantities and types of goods to be delivered shall be the subject of agreements between the Italian Government and the Government of the U.S.S.R. and shall be selected and deliveries scheduled in such a way as to avoid interference with the economic reconstruction of Italy and the imposition of additional liabilities on other Allied or Associated Powers. Agreements concluded under this paragraph shall be communicated to the four Ambassadors in Rome of the U.S.S.R., U.K., U.S.A. and France.

4. The U.S.S.R. shall furnish to Italy on commercial terms the materials which are normally imported into Italy and which are needed for the production of these goods. Payments for these materials shall be made by deducting the value of the materials furnished from the value of the goods delivered to the U. S. S. R.

5. The four Ambassadors shall determine the value of the Italian assets to be transferred to the U.S.S.R.

B. Reparation for other Powers.

[Note: The claims put forward by other powers, in particular France, Yugoslavia, Greece, Albania and Ethiopia, will be considered at the peace conference together with the means whereby and the extent to which they shall be met.]

JUL 31 1946

PART VI. CLAIMS ARISING OUT OF THE WAR

Section I. Reparations

30.24-4465

JUL 31 1946

Section II. Restitution

ARTICLE LXV

1. Italy accepts the principles of the United Nations Declaration of Jan. 5, 1943, and will return property from United Nations territories.

2. The obligation to make restitution applies to all identifiable property at present in Italy which was removed by force or duress by any of the Axis Powers from the territory of any of the United Nations, irrespective of any subsequent transactions by which present holders of any such property have secured possession.

3. The Italian Government undertakes to return the property referred to in the present Article in good order and, in this connection, to bear all costs in Italy relating to labor, materials and transport.

4. The Italian Government will cooperate with the United Nations in, and will provide at its own expense all necessary facilities for, the search for and restitution of property liable to restitution under the present Article.

5. The Italian Government shall take the necessary measures to effect the return of property covered by this Article held in any third country by persons subject to Italian jurisdiction.

6. Claims for the restitution of property shall be presented to the Italian Government by the Government of the country from whose territory the property was removed, it being understood that rolling stock shall be regarded as having been removed from the territory to which it originally belonged. The period during which such claims may be presented shall be six months from the date of the coming into force of the present treaty.

7. The burden of identifying the property and of proving ownership shall rest upon the claimant Government, and the burden of proving that the property was not removed by force or duress shall rest on the Italian Government.

8. The Italian Government accepts the obligation to restore to the Government of the United Nation concerned all monetary gold looted by or wrongfully removed to Italy or to transfer to the Government of the United Nation concerned an amount of gold equal in weight and fineness to that looted or wrongfully removed. This obligation is recognized by the Italian Government to exist irrespective of any transfer or removal of gold from Italy to any other Axis power or a neutral country.

[Footnote: Paragraph 8 is agreed by the U. S. delegation subject to the question of the settlement of disputes.]

Section III. Renunciation of Claims

ARTICLE LXVI

1. Italy waives all claims of any description against the Allied and associated powers on behalf of the Italian Government or Italian nationals arising directly out of the war or out of actions taken because of the existence of a state of war in Europe after Sept. 1, 1939, whether or not the Allied or associated power was at war with Italy at the time, including the following:

(a) Claims for losses or damages sustained as a consequence of acts of force of authorities of the Allied or associated powers.

(b) Claims arising from the presence, operations, or actions of forces or authorities of the Allied or Associated Powers in Italian territory.

(c) Claims with respect to the decrees and orders of prize courts of the Allied or Associated Powers, Italy agreeing to accept as valid and binding all decrees or orders of such prize courts on or after Sept. 1, 1939, concerning Italian ships or Italian golds or the payment of costs.

(d) Claims arising out of the exercise of purported exercise of belligerent rights.

2. The provisions of this Article will bar, completely and finally, all claims of the nature referred to herein, which will be henceforward extinguished, whoever may be the parties in interest. The Italian Government agrees to make equitable compensation in lire to persons who furnished supplies or services on requisition to the forces of the Allied or Associated Powers in Italian territory and in satisfaction of noncombat damage claims against the forces of the Allied and Associated Powers arising in Italian territory.

3. Italy likewise waives all claims of the nature covered by Paragraph 1 of this Article on behalf of the Italian Government or Italian nationals against any of the United Nations which severed diplomatic relations with Italy and took action in cooperation with the Allied or Associated Powers.

4. The Italian Government will assume full responsibility for all Allied military currency issued in Italy by the Allied military authorities, including all such currency in circulation on the date of the coming into force of the present treaty.

5. The waiver of claims by Italy under Paragraph 1 of this Article includes any claims arising out of actions taken by any of the Allied or Associated Powers with respect to Italian ships between Sept. 1, 1939, and the date of the coming into force of the present treaty, as well as any claims and debts arising out of the conventions on prisoners of war now in force.

6. The provisions of the present Article shall not be deemed to affect the ownership of submarine cables which at the outbreak of the war were owned by the Italian Government or Italian nationals.

[Note: The U.S. and U.S.S.R. delegations reserve the right to propose changes with regard to the treatment in the present treaty of submarine cable after further study of the legal aspects of the subject.]

ARTICLE LXVII

Italy hereby renounces on its own behalf and on behalf of Italian nationals all claims, including debts, against Germany and German nationals outstanding on May 8, 1945, except those arising out of contracts and other obligations entered into and rights acquired, before Sept. 1, 1939. This renunciation by Italy on its own behalf shall be deemed to include not only all intergovernmental claims in respect of arrangements entered into in the course of the war, but also all claims for loss or damage arising during the war. This renunciation shall be without prejudice to any dispositions in favor of Italy or Italian nationals made by the powers in occupation of Germany.

Section II. Periods of Prescription

1. All periods of proscription or limitation of rights of action, whether they began to run before or after the outbreak of the war, shall be treated in the territory of the high contracting parties as far as regards the relations between the enemies as having been suspended for the duration of the war. They shall begin to run again at the earliest three months after the coming into force of the present treaty. This provision shall apply to the period prescribed for the presentation of interest or dividend coupons or for the presentation for repayment of securities drawn for repayment or repayable on any other ground.

2. Where on account of failure to perform any act or comply with any formality during the war, measures of execution have been taken in Italian territory to the prejudice of a national of one of the United Nations, the claim of such national shall, if the matter does not fall within the competence of the courts of one of the United Nations, be heard by the Conciliation Commission established under Article LXXII.

3. Upon application of any interested person who is a national of one of the United Nations, the Conciliation Commission shall order the restoration of rights which have been prejudiced by the measures of execution referred to in Paragraph 2 wherever such restoration is equitable and possible. If such restoration is inequitable or impossible, the Conciliation Commission may award compensation to the prejudiced party, to be paid by the Italian Government.

4. When a contract between enemies has been dissolved by reason either of the failure on the part of either party to carry out its provisions or the exercise of a right stipulated in the contract itself, the party prejudiced may apply to the Conciliation Commission for relief. The Commission will have the powers provided for in Paragraph 3.

5. The provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this Article shall apply to United Nations nationals who have been prejudiced by reason of the measures referred to above taken by Italy on invaded or occupied territory if they have not been otherwise satisfactorily compensated.

6. Italy shall compensate any third party who may be prejudiced by any restitution or restoration ordered by the Conciliation Commission under the provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this part.

7. As regards negotiable instruments, the period of three months provided under Paragraph 1 shall commence as from the date on which any exceptional regulations applied in the territories of the interested power with regard to negotiable instruments shall have definitely ceased to have force.

III. Negotiable instruments.

1. As between enemies, no negotiable instrument made before the war shall be deemed to have become invalid by reason only of the failure within the required time to present an instrument for acceptance on payment or to give notice of non-acceptance or non-payment to the drawers or endorsers or to protest the instrument, nor by reason of a failure to complete any formality during the war.

2. Where the period within which a negotiable instrument should have been presented for acceptance or for payment or within which notice of non-acceptance or non-payment should have been given to the drawer or endorser or within which the instrument should have been protested, has elapsed during the war and the party who should have presented or protested or have given notice of non-acceptance or non-payment has failed to do so during the war, a period of not less than three months from the coming into force of the present treaty shall be allowed within which presentation, notice of non-acceptance or non-payment or protest may be made.

3. If a person has either before or during the war become liable upon a negotiable instrument in accordance with an undertaking given to him by a person who has subsequently become an enemy, the latter shall remain liable to indemnify the former in respect of his liability, nothwithstanding the outbreak of war.

IV. Miscellaneous.

1. Stock exchange and commercial exchange contracts.

(A.) Rules made during the war by any recognized exchange or commercial association providing for the closure of contracts entered into before the war by an enemy are confirmed by the high contracting parties, as is also any action taken thereunder, provided:

1. That the contract was expressed to be made subject to the rules of the exchange or association in question.

2. That the rules applied to all persons concerned.

3. That the conditions attaching to the closure be fair and reasonable.

(B) The preceding paragraph shall not apply to the rules made during the occupation by the exchanges or commercial associations in the districts occupied by the enemy.

2. Under the heading of Miscellaneous Security the sale of a security held for an unpaid debt owing by an enemy shall be deemed to have been valid irrespective of notice to the owner if the creditor acted in good faith and with reasonable care and prudence and no claim by the debtor on the ground of such sale shall be admitted. This stipulation shall not apply to any sale of securities effected by an enemy during the occupation in the regions invaded or occupied by the enemy.

[Note: In view of the constitutional position of the Federal Government, the United States delegation would be unable to accept any obligations on matters covered by this Annex. The United States would not object to the inclusion of the provisions on this subject in the treaty but would wish to have a clause included making them inapplicable as between the United States and Italy.

[Note: The U. S. S. R. delegation sees no reason for the inclusion in the peace treaty of matters covered by this Annex.

[Note: The French delegation supports the United Kingdom proposal with regard to prescriptions and negotiable instruments.]

Annex 8. Prize Courts and Judgments

A. PRIZE COURTS

Each of the Allied and Associated Powers reserves the right to examine according to a procedure to be established by it, all decisions and orders of Italian prize courts involving the ownership of rights of its nationals, and to recommend to the Italian Government that revision shall be undertaken of these decisions or orders which may not be in conformity with international law.

Italy undertakes to supply copies of all documents comprising the records of these cases, including decisions taken and orders issued, and to accept all recommendations made, subsequent to the examination of said cases, and to give effect to such recommendations.

B. JUDGMENTS

The Italian Government shall take the necessary measures to enable the nationals of any of the United Nations at any time within one year after the coming into force of this treaty to submit to appropriate Italian authorities for review any judgment given by an Italian court between June 10, 1940, and the coming into force of this treaty in any proceedings in which the United Nations national was unable to make adequate presentation of his case as a plaintiff or defendant.

The Italian Government shall provide that where the United Nations national has suffered injury by reason of any such judgment, he shall be restored in the position in which he was before judgment was given or shall be afforded such relief as may be just and equitable in the circumstances. The term United Nations nationals includes corporations or associations organized or constituted under laws of any of the United Nations.

FRENCH PROPOSAL

The Italian Government undertakes to adopt appropriate measures in order that nationals of any of the United Nations may obtain during a period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty, revision of the judgments rendered by the Italian courts and tribunals between June 10, 1940, and the date of the coming into force of the present treaty, either in the absence of such nationals or on account of their inability as a result of circumstances to have defended their cause satisfactorily.

The Italian Government shall indemnify nationals of the United Nations for the prejudice caused through the initial judgment and shall award compensation if the revision of such judgment did not conclude by re-establishing them de facto in the situation where they were when the procedure was instituted.

Should disputes arise either as regards the ability of nationals of any of the United Nations to have defended their cause satisfactorily, or the adequacy of the compensation to be awarded by the Italian Government, the said dispute shall be submitted to the Conciliation Commission established under Article LXXII of the present treaty.

UNITED KINGDOM PROPOSAL

1. Judgments given by the courts of a member of the United Nations in all cases which under the present treaty they are competent to decide, shall be recognized in Italy as final and shall be enforced without it being necessary to have them declared executory.

2. If a judgment in respect of any dispute which may have arisen has been given during the war by an Italian court against a United Nations national in a case in which he was not able adequately to present his case, whether as plaintiff or defendant, the United Nations national who has suffered prejudice thereby shall be entitled to recover compensation being fixed by the Conciliation Commission under the procedure laid down in Article LXXI for the settlement of disputes.

3. At the instance of United Nations nationals and where it is possible, the Conciliation Commission may in lieu of compensation by order replace the parties in the situation which they occupied before the judgment was given by the Italian court.

4. Such compensation or replacement may likewise be obtained before the Conciliation Commission by United Nations nationals who have suffered prejudice by judicial measures taken in invaded or occupied territories if they have not been otherwise compensated.

A water supply for Gorizia and

Text of Draft Peace Treaty With Hungary

Details Political, Military and Economic Clauses vicinity.

Under a permanent concession from the Government of Yugoslavia, the commune of Gorizia shall continue to own and operate the springs and water supply installations at Fonte Fredda and Moncorona and the conduits carrying water to the consuming area. The commune of Gorizia shall operate these springs, installations and conduits in such a manner that the water systems shall continue to satisfy the needs for water of the area which has been customarily supplied by these water systems, including these communities which upon the coming into force of the present treaty will lie within the territory of Yugoslavia. Communities lying in Yugoslavia shall be supplied with such quantities of water at such rates of flow and at such reasonable rate of payment by the communities to the commune of Gorizia as shall be agreed between the commune of Gorizia and the communities in Yugoslavia. Unless otherwise agreed, the water supplies shall be allocated between users in Italy and Yugoslavia in approximately the same proportions as have been customary.

The above-mentioned water system shall be operated by the commune of Gorizia without interference by Yugoslavia, and the latter shall not require payment of taxes or charges of any kind in respect of the water systems. The commune of Gorizia shall be permitted freely to make the necessary repairs or additions to the water systems to maintain a water supply adequate to satisfy the requirements of the commune of Gorizia and of the above-mentioned communities in Yugoslavia.

B. Water supply to northwestern Istria within Free Territory of Trieste.

Yugoslavia shall continue to supply water to region of northwestern Istria within the boundaries of the Free Territory of Trieste from the spring of San Giovanni de Pinguente through the Quieto water supply system (and from the spring of Santa Maria del Risano through the Risano system). Water so supplied shall be in such amounts, not substantially exceeding those amounts which have been customarily supplied to the region and at such rates of flow as the Free Territory of Trieste may request but within the limit imposed by national conditions.

Yugoslavia shall maintain the water conduits, reservoirs, pumps, purifying systems and such other works within Yugoslav territory as may be required to fulfill this obligation. Temporay allowance must be made in respect to the foregoing [illegible] on Yugoslavia [illegible] obligations for the necessary repair of war damage to the water supply installations. The Free Territory of Trieste shall pay a reasonable price for water thus supplied, which shall represent a proportionate share based on the quantity of water consumed within that Free Territory, of the total cost of operation and maintenance of Quieto [and Risano] water supply system [or systems.] Should in the future additional supplies of water be required by the Free Territory of Trieste, Yugoslavia undertakes to examine the matter jointly with authorities of the Free Territory and by agreement to take such measures as are reasonable to meet these requirements.

C. Electricity supplies under new Italian-Yugoslav Free Territory of Trieste frontiers.

1. Yugoslavia and Italy shall maintain the existing supply of electricity to the Free Territory of Trieste furnishing to the Free Territory such quantities of electricity and such rates of output as the latter may require. The quantities furnished need not at first substantially exceed those which have been customarily supplied to the area comprised in the Free Territory but Italy and Yugoslavia shall on request of the Free Territory furnish increasing amount as the requirements of the Free Territory grow.

2. Price to be charged by Yugoslavia or by Italy and to be paid by the Free Territory of Trieste for electricity furnished to it shall be no higher than the price charged in Yugoslavia or in Italy for the supply of similar quantities of hydroelectricity from the same sources in Yugoslavia or in Italian territory.

3. Yugoslavia, Italy and the Free Territory of Trieste shall exchange information continuously concerning the flow and storage of water and the output of electricity in respect of the stations supplying the former Italian Compartimento of Venezia Giulia so that each of the three parties will be in a position to determine its requirements.

4. Yugoslavia, Italy and the Free Territory of Trieste shall maintain in good and substantial condition all of the electric plants, transmission lines, substations and other installations which are required for the continued supply of electricity to the former Italian Compartimento of Venezia Giulia.

5. Yugoslavia shall ensure that the existing and any future power installations on the Isonzo are operated so as to provide that such supplies of water as Italy may from time to time request may be diverted from Isonzo for irrigation in the region from Gorizia southwestward to the Adriatic. Yugoslavia shall be obliged to provide Italy only with such amounts of water for this purpose as do not substantially exceed past requirements.

6. Yugoslavia, Italy and the Free Territory of Trieste shall, through joint negotiation, adopt a mutually agreeable convention in conformity with the foregoing provisions for the continuing operation of the electricity system which serves the former Italian Compartimento of Venezia Giulia. This convention shall be so drawn as to allow for the possible expansion of the aforesaid electricity system by further hydroelectric developments in upper Isonzo by furnishing of additional supplies of electricity from northern Italy or by other means.

7. Under the aforesaid convention a commission or such other instrumentality as may be jointly agreed shall be established with headquarters in Trieste and with equal representation for Yugoslavia, Italy and the Free Territory of Trieste. The commission shall facilitate the execution of the provisions in Paragraphs 1 to 5 above and shall supervise and coordinate the operation and future development of the electricity system.

D. Provisions to facilitate local trade between the Free Territory of Trieste and Yugoslavia and between the Free Territory of Trieste and Italy.

Yugoslavia and the Free Territory of Trieste, and Italy and the Free Territory of Trieste shall within one month of the coming into force of the present treaty undertake negotiations to provide arrangements which shall facilitate movement across the frontiers between the Free Territory of Trieste and the adjacent areas of Yugoslavia and Italy of foodstuffs and other categories of commodities which have customarily moved between these areas in local trade. This movement may be facilitated by appropriate measures, including the exemption of such commodities up to agreed quantities or values from tariffs, customs charges and export or import taxes of any kind when such commodities are moving in local trade.

WASHINGTON, July 30—Following is the text of the draft peace treaty with Hungary:

Council of Foreign Ministers' Draft Peace Treaty With Hungary

JUL 31 1946

Agreed Articles

PREAMBLE

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom, the United States of America, Australia, the Byelo-Russian Soviet Socialist Republic, Canada, Czechoslovakia, India, New Zealand, the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, the Union of South Africa, and Yugoslavia, as the States which are at war with Hungary and actively waged war against the European enemy States with substantial military force, hereinafter called the Allied and Associated Powers, of the one part, and Hungary, of the other part:

Whereas Hungary, having become an ally of Hitlerite Germany participating on her side in the war against the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom, the United States of America and other United Nations, bears her share of responsibility for this war;

Whereas, however, Hungary on Dec. 28, 1944, broke off relations with Germany, declared war on Germany, and on Jan. 20, 1945, concluded an armistice with the Governments of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom and the United States of America, acting on behalf of all the United Nations which were at war with Hungary; and

Whereas the Allied and Associated Powers and Hungary are respectively desirous of concluding a treaty of peace, which will form the basis of friendly relations between them and settle questions still outstanding as a result of the events hereinbefore recited, thereby enabling the Allied and Associated Powers to support Hungary's application to become a member of the United Nations and also to adhere to any convention concluded under the auspices of the United Nations.

Have therefore agreed to declare the cessation of the state of war and for this purpose to conclude the present peace treaty, and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries

* * * who, after presentation of their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed on the following provisions:

PART I. FRONTIERS OF HUNGARY

ARTICLE I

1. The frontiers of Hungary with Austria and with Yugoslavia shall remain those which existed on Jan. 1, 1938.

2. The decision of the Vienna Award of Aug. 30, 1940, are declared null and void. The frontier between Hungary and Rumania existing on Jan. 1, 1938, is hereby restored.

3. The frontier between Hungary and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, from the point common to the frontier of those two States and Rumania to the point common to the frontier of those two States and Czechoslovakia, is fixed along the former frontier between Hungary and Czechoslovakia as it existed on Jan. 1, 1938.

4. The decisions of the Vienna Award of Nov. 2, 1938, are declared null and void. The frontier between Hungary and Czechoslovakia, from the point common to the frontier of those two States and Austria to the point common to the frontier of those two States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, is hereby restored as it existed on Jan. 1, 1938.

5. The frontiers described above are shown on the map annexed to the present treaty (Annex 1).

[Note: This text should be considered as tentative until the Governments of Czechoslovakia and Hungary have had an opportunity to present to the Peace Conference or to the Council of Foreign Ministers their respective views on this subject.]

PART II. POLITICAL CLAUSES

Section I.

ARTICLE II

Hungary shall take all measures necessary to secure to all persons under Hungarian jurisriction, without distinction of race, sex, language or religion, the enjoyment of human rights and of the fundamental freedoms, including freedom of expression, of press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting.

ARTICLE III

Hungary, which in accordance with the armistice agreement has taken measures to set free, irrespective of citizenship and nationality, all persons held in confinement on account of their activities in favor of the United Nations or because of their sympathies with the United Nations or because of their racial origin, and to repeal discriminatory legislation and restrictions imposed thereunder, undertakes to complete these measures and in future not to take any measures or enact any laws which would be incompatible with the objects and purposes mentioned in this Article.

ARTICLE IV

Hungary, which in accordance with the armistice agreement has taken measures for dissolving all organizations of a Fascist type on Hungarian territory whether political, military or para-military, as well as other organizations conducting propaganda hostile to the Soviet Union or any one of the other United Nations, undertakes not to permit in future the existence and activities of organizations of that nature which have as their aim denial to the peoples of their democratic rights.

ARTICLE V

1. Hungary shall take the necessary steps to ensure the apprehension and surrender for trial of:

(A) Persons accused of having committed, ordered, or abetted war crimes and crimes against peace or humanity.

(B) Nationals of the Allied and Associated Powers accused of having violated their national law by treason or collaboration with the enemy during the war.

2. At the request of the United Nations Government concerned, Hungary will likewise make available as witnesses persons within its jurisdiction, whose evidence is required for the trial of the persons referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article.

3. Any disagreement concerning the application of the provisions of Paragraphs 1 and 2 shall be referred by any of the Governments concerned to the heads of the diplomatic missions in Budap st of the U.S.S.R., UK, and U.S.A., who will reach agreement with regard to the difficulty.

Section II.

ARTICLE VI

Hungary undertakes to recognize the full force of the peace treaties concluded with Italy, Bulgaria, Rumania and Finland, and the agreements or arrangements which have been or will be reached by the Allied and Associated Powers in relation to Austria, Germany and Japan for the restoration of peace.

ARTICLE VII

The state of war between Hungary and Rumania will terminate upon the coming into force both of the present treaty and of the treaty of peace between the U.S.S.R., the United Kingdom, the United States of America, Australia, the Byelorussian S.S.R., Canada, Czechoslovakia, India, New Zealand, the Ukrainian S.S.R. and the Union of South Africa on the one part and Rumania on the other part.

ARTICLE VIII

Hungary undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the League of Nations and the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Hungary also undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome.

ARTICLE IX

1. Each Allied or Associated Power will notify Hungary, within a period of six months of the coming into force of the present treaty, which pre-war bilateral treaties it desires to keep in force or revive.

JUL 31 1946

30.24-4467

Any provisions not in conformity with the present treaty shall, however, be deleted from the abovementioned treaties.

2. All treaties so notified will be registered with the Secretariat of the United Nations in accordance with Article 102 of the United Nations Charter.

3. All treaties not so notified are to be regarded as abrogated.

posal of the Allied or Associated Power concerned according to the instructions given by that power. Excess Hungarian war material will be placed at the disposal of the governments of the U. S. S. R., U. K. and U. S. A. Hungary will renounce all rights to this material.

Allied or Associated Power concerned to the point of entry into Hungarian territory shall be borne by the Hungarian Government.

agreement, i. e. $35 for one ounce of gold. [Note: The U. S. delegation reserves the right to reopen this question at the peace conference.]

ARTICLE XXII

1. Hungary accepts the principles

PART III. MILITARY CLAUSES

Section I.

ARTICLE X

The maintenance of land and air armaments and fortifications will be closely restricted to meet tasks of an internal character and local defense of frontiers. In accordance with the foregoing, Hungary is authorized to have armed forces consisting of not more than:

(A) A land army, including frontier troops, anti-aircraft and river flotilla personnel, with a total strength of 65,000 personnel.

(B) An air force of ninety aircraft, including reserves, of which not more than seventy may be combat types of aircraft, with a total personnel strength of 5,000. Hungary shall not possess or acquire aircraft designed primarily as bombers with internal bomb-carrying facilities.

These strengths will in each case include combat, service and overhead personnel.

ARTICLE XI

The Hungarian Army and Air Force in excess of the above strength will be disbanded within six months from the coming into force of the present treaty.

ARTICLE XII

Personnel not included in the Hungarian Army and Air Force, respectively, will not receive any form of military training or military air training as defined in Annex 2.

ARTICLE XIII

Hungary shall not possess, construct or experiment with any self-propelled or guided missiles or apparatus connected with their discharge, sea-mines of non-contact types actuated by influence mechanisms, torpedoes capable of being manned, submariens or other submersible or specialized types of assault craft.

ARTICLE XIV

Hungary shall not retain, produce, otherwise acquire, or maintain facilities for the manufacture of, war material in excess of that required for the maintenance of the armed forces permitted under Article X of the present treaty.

ARTICLE XV.

1. Excess war material of Allied origin will be placed at the dis-

2. War material of German origin or design in excess of that required for the armed forces permitted under the treaty will be placed at the disposal of the Governments of the U. S. S. R., U. K. and U. S. A. Hungary will not acquire or manufacture any war material of German origin or design, or employ or train any technicians, including military and civil aviation personnel, who are or have been nationals of Germany.

3. Excess war material mentioned in Paragraphs 1 and 2 shall be handed over or destroyed within one year of the coming into force of the present treaty.

4. A definition and list of war material for the purposes of the present treaty are set out in Annex 3.

ARTICLE XVI

Hungary undertakes to cooperate fully with the United Nations in order to insure that Germany may not be able to take any action outside German territory in the direction of rearmament.

ARTICLE XVII

Hungary undertakes not to acquire or manufacture civil aircraft which are of German or Japanese design or which embody major assemblies of German or Japanese manufacture or design.

ARTICLE XVIII

Each of the military and air clauses of the present treaty will remain in force until modified in whole or in part by agreement between the Allied and Associated Powers and Hungary, or, after Hungary becomes a member of the United Nations, by agreement between the Security Council and Hungary.

Section II

LE XIX

1. Hun ...r prisoners of war shall be repatriated as soon as possible in accordance with arrangements to be agreed upon with Hungary by the individual Powers detaining them.

2. All costs, including maintenance costs, incurred in moving Hungarian prisoners of war from their respective assembly points as chosen by the Government of the

PART IV. WITHDRAWAL OF ALLIED FORCES

ARTICLE XX

Upon the coming into force of the present treaty, all Allied forces will, within a period of ninety days, be withdrawn from Hungary subject to the right of the Soviet Union to keep on Hungarian territory such armed forces as it may need for the maintenance of the lines of communication of the Red Army with the Soviet Zone of occupation in Austria. All unused Hungarian currency and all Hungarian goods in possession of the Allied forces in Hungary, acquired pursuant to Article 11 of the armistice will be returned to the Hungarian Government within the same period of ninety days. Hungary, however, undertakes to make available such maintenance and facilities as may specifically be required for the maintenance of the lines of communication with the Soviet Zone of occupation in Austria, for which due compensation will be made to the Hungarian Government.

of the United Nations declaration of Jan. 5, 1943, and will return property removed from United Nations' territories.

2. The obligation to make restitution applies to all identifiable property at present in Hungary which was removed by force or duress by any of the Axis powers from the territory of any of the United Nations, irrespective of any subsequent transactions by which the present holder of any such property has secured possession.

3. The Hungarian Government undertakes to return the property referred to in the present article in good order and, in this connection, to bear all costs in Hungary relating to labor, materials and transport.

4. The Hungarian Government will cooperate with the United Nations in, and will provide at its own expense all necessary facilities for, the search for and restitution of property liable to restitution under the present article.

PART V. REPARATION AND RESTITUTION

ARTICLE XXI

MATERIAL

Losses caused to the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia by military operations and by the occupation by Hungary of the territories of these States will be indemnified by Hungary to the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, but taking into consideration that Hungary has not only withdrawn from the war against the United Nations but has also declared war on Germany, the parties agree that compensation for the above losses will be made by Hungary not in full but only in part, namely to the amount of 300,000,000 United States dollars, payable over eight years from Jan. 20, 1945, in commodities (machine equipment, river craft, grain, etc. . . .), the sum to be paid to the Soviet Union to amount to 200,000,000 United States dollars, and the sum to be paid to Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia to amount to 100,000,000 United States dollars.

The basis for calculating the settlement provided for in this Article will be the American dollar at its gold parity on the day of the signing of the armistice

5. The Hungarian Government shall take the necessary measures to effect the return of property covered by this article held in any third country by persons subject to Hungarian jurisdiction.

6. Claims for the restitution of property shall be presented to the Hungarian Government by the Government of the country from whose territory the property was removed, it being understood that rolling stock shall be regarded as having been removed from the territory to which it originally belonged. The period during which such claims may be presented shall be six months from the date of coming into force of the present treaty.

7. The burden of identifying the property and of proving ownership shall rest on the claimant Government and the burden of proving that the property was not removed by force or duress shall rest on the Hungarian Government.

PART VI. ECONOMIC CLAUSES

ARTICLE XXIII

United Nations property (not yet agreed).

JUL 31 1946

ARTICLE XXIV

Hungary recognizes that the Soviet Union is entitled to all German assets in Hungary transferred to the Soviet Union by the Control Council for Germany and undertakes to take all necessary measures for facilitating such transfers.

ARTICLE XXV

Hungarian assets in U. N. territory (not yet agreed).

ARTICLE XXVI

Hungarian property in Germany (not yet agreed).

ARTICLE XXVII

1. The contracting parties agree that the existence of the state of war shall not, in itself, be regarded as affecting the obligation to pay pecuniary debts arising out of obligations and contracts which existed, and rights acquired, before the existence of a state of war, which became payable prior to the coming into force of this treaty, and which are due by the Government or nationals of Hungary to the Government or nationals of one of the Allied and Associated Powers or are due by the Government or nationals of one of the Allied and Associated Powers to the Government or nationals of Hungary.

2. Except as otherwise expressly provided in the present treaty, nothing therein shall be construed as impairing debtor-creditor relationship arising out of pre-war contracts concluded either by the Government or nationals of Hungary.

ARTICLE XXVIII

1. Hungary waives all claims of any description against the Allied and Associated Powers on behalf of the Hungarian Government or Hungarian nationals arising directly out of the war or out of actions taken because of the existence of a state of war in Europe after Sept. 1, 1939, whether or not the Allied or Associated Power was at war with Hungary at the time, including the following:

(A) Claims for losses or damages sustained as a consequence of acts of force or authorities of the Allied or Associated Powers.

(B) Claims arising from the presence, operations or actions of forces or authorities of the Allied or Associated Powers in Hungarian territory.

(C) Claims with respect to the decrees and orders of prize courts of the Allied or Associated Powers, Hungary agreeing to accept as valid and binding all decrees and orders of such prize courts on or after Sept. 1, 1939, concerning Hungarian ships or Hungarian goods or the payment of costs.

(D) Claims arising out of the exercise or purported exercise of belligerent rights.

2. The provisions of this article will bar, completely and finally, all claims of the nature referred to herein, which will be henceforward extinguished, whoever may be the parties in interest. The Hungarian Government agrees to make equitable compensation in local currency to persons who furnished supplies or services on requisition to thee forces of the Allied and Associated Powers in Hungarian territory and in satisfaction of non-combat damage claims against the forces of the Allied and Associated Powers arising in Hungarian territory.

3. Hungary likewise waives all claims of the nature covered by Paragraph 1 of this Article on behalf of the Hungarian Government or Hungarian nationals against any of the United Nations which severed diplomatic relations with Hungary and took action in cooperation with the Allied and Associated Powers.

4. The Hungarian Government will assume full responsibility for Allied military currency issued in Hungary by the Allied military authorities, including all such currency in circulation on the date of the coming into force of this treaty.

5. The waiver of claims by Hungary under this article includes any claims arising out of actions taken by any of the Allied and Associated Powers with respect to Hungarian ships between Sept. 1, 1939, and the date of the coming into forceof this treaty, as well as any claims and debts arising out of conventions on prisoners of war now in force.

ARTICLE XXIX

General economic relations (not yet agreed).

ARTICLE XXX

Settlement of disputes (not yet agreed).

ARTICLE XXXI

Articles XXII and XXIII and Annex 6 of this treaty shall apply to the Allied and Associated Powers and France and to those of the United Nations which have broken off diplomatic relations with Hungary.

ARTICLE XXXII

The provisions of Annexes 4, 5 and 6 shall, as in the case of the other annexes, have force and effect as integral parts of the present treaty.

ARTICLE XXXIV

For a period not to exceed eighteen months from the coming into force of the present treaty, the heads of the diplomatic missions in Budapest of the U.S.S.R, the U.K. and U.S., acting in concert, will represent the Allied and Associated Powers in dealing with the Hungarian Government in all matters concerning the execution and interpretation of the present treaty.

The three Heads of Mission will give the Hungarian Government such guidance, technical advice, and clarification as may be necessary to ensure rapid and efficient compliance with the spirit and terms of the present treaty.

The Hungarian Government undertakes to afford the said Heads of Mission all necessary information and any assistance they may require in the fulfillment of the tasks devolving on them under the present treaty.

ARTICLE XXXV

(Interpretation not yet agreed.)

ARTICLE XXXVI

Any other member of the United Nations not a signatory to the present treaty which is at war with Hungary may accede to the treaty and upon accession will be deemed to be an Associated Power for the purposes of the treaty.

Instruments of accession will be deposited with the Government of the U.S.S.R. and shall take effect upon deposit.

ARTICLE XXXVII

The present treaty, of which the Russian and English texts are authentic, shall be ratified by the Allied and Associated Powers. It shall also be ratified by Hungary. It will come into force immediately upon deposit of ratifications by the U.S.S.R., U. K. and U. S. A. The instruments of ratification will, in the shortest time possible, be deposited with the Government of the U.S.S.R.

With respect to each Allied and Associated Power whose instrument of ratification is thereafter deposited, the treaty shall come into force upon the date of deposit.

PART VII. CLAUSES RELATING TO THE DANUBE

ARTICLE XXXIII

(Not yet agreed).

PART VIII. FINAL CLAUSES

JUL 31 1946

The present treaty will be deposited in the archives of the Government of the U.S.S.R., which shall furnish certified copies to each of the signatory States.

A. Industrial, literary and artistic property (not yet agreed).

B. Insurance (not yet agreed).

Annex 5. Contracts, prescriptions and negotiable instruments (not yet agreed).

Annex 6. Judgments (not yet agreed).

Unagreed Articles, Council of Foreign Ministers' Draft Peace Treaty With Hungary

PART VI. ECONOMIC CLAUSES

ARTICLE XXIII

1. In so far as Hungary has not already done so, Hungary shall restore all the legal rights and interests in Hungary of the United Nations and their nationals as they existed on April 10, 1941, and shall return all property in Hungary of the United Nations and their nationals as it now exists.

2. The Hungarian Government undertakes that all property rights and interests passing under this article shall be restored free of all encumbrances and charges of any kind to which they may have become subject as a result of the war and without the imposition of any charges by the Hungarian Government in connection with its return. The Hungarian Government will nullify all measures, including seizures, sequestration or control, taken by it against United Nations' property between April 10, 1941, and the coming into force of the present treaty. In cases where the property has not been returned within six months of the coming into force of the treaty, applications shall be made to the Hungarian authorities not later than twelve months from the coming into force of the treaty, except in cases in which the claimant is able to show that he could not file his application within this period.

3. The Hungarian Government undertakes to invalidate transfers involving property rights and interests of any description belonging to United Nations nationals, where such transfers resulted from force or duress exerted by Axis Governments or their agencies during the war.

U. S. PROPOSAL

(A) Where, as a result of the war, the property cannot be returned or the United Nations' national has suffered a loss because of injury to the property, the Hungarian Government shall compensate the owner by the payment of a sum in local currency sufficient at the date of payment to enable the recipient to purchase similar property or to make good the loss or damages suffered.

(B) Sums in local currency paid by the Hungarian Government under this article shall be freeely usable in Hungary but shall be subject to the foreign exchange control regulations which may be in force in Hungary from time to time. The Hungarian Government agrees to accord to United Nations' nationals fair and equitable treatment with respect to the allocation of materials, and of foreign exchange required for the importation of materials for the repair or rehabilitation of their properties in Hungary, and in no event to discriminate in these respects against nationals of the United Nations as compared with Hungarian nations.

(C) In cases where a corporation or association of any nationality other than that of one of the United Nations has suffered a loss of its property in Hungary as a result of the war, compensation in local currency shall be paid by the Hungarian Government to the United Nations' nationals who have directly or indirectly through intermediate corporations or associations of any nationality other than that of one of the United Nations, an ownership interest in the corporation or association which has suffered the loss.

This compensation shall be that fractional part of the amount which would be required to enable the corporation or association to make good the loss or damage suffered, which the interest of the United Nations' nationals constitutes of the totality of ownership interests in the corporation.

Such compensation, however, shall not be required in case the Hungarian Government shall provide to the corporation or the association itself such full compensation or restoration as would be due under this Article if it were a corporation or association of one of the United Nations. In cases where the corporation or association receives from the Hungarian Government partial compensation for the damage or loss sustained, the United Nations' nationals shall be paid by the Hungarian Government compensation in local currency in an amount equal to their respective proportionate shares of the loss or damage for which the corporation or association does not itself receive compensation from the Hungarian Government.

For purposes of this paragraph, the extent of interest of a United Nations' national shall be determined as of April 10, 1941, or the outbreak of war between the United Nations concerned and Hungary, as may be the more favorable to the United Nations' national.

(D) (As used in this Article, the phrase "as a result of the war" includes the consequences of any action taken by the Hungarian Government, any action taken by any of the belligerents, any action taken under the armistice of Jan. 20, 1945, and any action or failure to act caused by the existence of a state of war.)

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

(Hungary recognizes the necessity for compensation for the property of the United Nations or their nationals in Hungary lost or damaged during the war. In view of the fact, however, that Hungary broke relations with and declared war on Germany, and in consideration of the losses sustained by Hungary in the course of military operations against Germany on Hungarian tefritory, it is agreed that such compensation will be made in part to the extent of one-third of the losses and will be paid in local currency.)

The U. K. French delegations approved the U. S. proposal subject to reservation as to the drafting.

5. All reasonable expenses incurred in Hungary in establishing claims, including the assessment of loss or damage, shall be borne by the Hungarian Government.

6. United Nations' nationals and their property shall be exempted from any exceptional taxes, levies or imposts, imposed on their capital assets in Hungary by the Hungarian Government, or any Hungarian authority between the date of the armistice and the coming into force of the present treaty for the specific purpose of meeting charges arising out of the war or of meeting the cost of occupying forces or of reparations payable to any of the United Nations. Any sums which have been so paid shall be refunded.

7. The owner of the property concerned and the Hungarian Government may agree upon arrangements in lieu of the provisions of this article.

8. As used in this article:

(a) "United Nations' nationals" means individuals who are nationals of any of the United Nations or corporations or associations organized under the laws of any of the United Nations at the date of the coming into force of the present treaty, provided that they also had this status at the date of the armistice with Hungary.

The term "United Nations' nationals" also includes all individuals, corporations or associations which under the laws in force in Hungary during the war, have been treated as enemy.

(B) "Owner" means the United Nations' national, as defined in sub-paragraph (A) above, who is entitled to the property in question, and includes a successor of the owner, provided that the successor is also a United Nations's national as defined in sub-paragraph (A). If the successor has purchased the property in its damaged state, the transferor shall retain his rights to compensation under this article, without prejudice to obligations between the transferor and the purchaser under domestic law.

(C) "Property" means all movable and immovable property, whether tangible or intangible, including industrial, literary and artistic property, as well as all rights, estates or interests in property of any kind.

9. French proposal supported by U.K. and U.S. Subject to drafting:

(A new agreement shall be negotiated between the Danube-Sava-Adriatica Railway Company, the Governments concerned, and the committee of bondholders of the company, in order to determine the method of applying the provisions of the Rome Agreement of March 29, 1923, laying down the company's articles of association, and the modifications required to adapt them to the changes which have followed on the redistribution of the lines over the territories of various States. This agreement shall contain all the provisions necessary to insure satisfactory servicing of the bonds and payments of amounts in arrears.)

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers that there is no reason for the inclusion in the peace treaty of the French delegation's proposal, because a peace treaty should not contain provisions dealing with particular private companies.

ARTICLE XXV

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL:

(The rights of the Hungarian Government and of Hungarian physical and juridical persons with regard to Hungarian property and other Hungarian assets on the territory of Allied and Associated Powers, in so far as such rights were limited in consequence of the participation of Hungary in the war on the side of Germany, shall be restored after the coming into force of the present treaty.)

U. S., U. K. AND FRENCH PROPOSAL

1. Each of the Allied and Associated Powers shall have the right to seize, retain, liquidate or take any other action with respect to all property, rights and interests within its territory which on the date of the coming into force of this treaty belong to Hungary or to Hungarian nationals, and to apply to such property or the proceeds thereof to such purposes as it may desire within the limits of its claims and those of its nationals against Hungary or its nationals, including debts, other than claims fully satisfied under other Articles of the present treaty. All Hungarian property or the proceeds thereof, in excess of the amount of such claims, shall be returned.

2. The liquidation and disposition of Hungarian property shall be carried out in accordance with the law of the Allied or Associated Power concerned. The Hungarian owner shall have no rights with respect to such property except those which may be given him by that law.

3. The Hungarian Government undertakes to compensate Hungarian nationals whose property is taken under this article and not returned to them.

4. No obligation is created by this article on any Allied or Associated Power to return industrial, literary or artistic property to the Hungarian Government or Hungarian nationals, or to include such property in determining the amount which may be retained under Paragraph 1 of this article. The Government of each of the Allied and Associated Powers shall have the right to impose such limitations, conditions and restrictions on rights or interests with respect to industrial, literary and artistic property acquired prior to the coming into force of this treaty in the territory of that Allied or Associated Power by the Government or nationals or Hungary, as may be deemed by the Government of the Allied or Associated Power to be necessary in the national interest.

5. The property covered by Paragraph 1 of this article shall be deemed to include Hungarian property which has been subject to control by reason of a state of war existing between Hungary and the Allied or Associated Power having jurisdiction over the property, but shall not include:

(A) Property of the Hungarian Government used for consular or diplomatic purposes.

(B) Property belonging to religious bodies or private charitable institutions and used for religious or charitable purposes.

(C) Property of natural persons who are Hungarian nationals permitted to reside within the territory of the country in which the property is located or to reside elsewhere in United Nations' territory, other than Hungarian property which at any time during the war was subjected to measures not generally applicable to the property of Hungarian nationals resident in the same territory.

(D) Property rights arising since the resumption of trade and financial relations between Hungary and the Allied and Associated Powers, or arising out of transactions between Hungary and the Governments of any Allied or Associated Power since Jan. 20, 1945.)

ARTICLE XXVI

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

(1. Any restrictions imposed in respect of any Hungarian property in Germany, and in other countries which participated in the war on Germany's side shall be removed after the coming into force of the present treaty. The rights of any Hungarian owners with regard to the disposal of any such property shall also be restored.

2. Hungary shall be entitled to the restitution of any identifiable property removed by force or under duress from Hungary after Jan. 20, 1945, and now located in Germany. The restitution of any Hungarian property now located in Germany shall be carried out under the direction of the military authorities of the powers in occupation of Germany.)

U. K., U. S. AND FRENCH PROPOSAL

(Hungary hereby renounces on its own behalf and on behalf of Hungarian nationals all claims, including debts, against Germany and German nationals outstanding on May 8, 1945, except those arising out of contracts and other obligations entered into, and rights acquired, before Sept. 1, 1939. This renunciation shall be deemed to include not only all inter-Governmental claims in respect of arrangements entered into in the course of the war, but also all claims for loss or damage arising during the war. This renunciation shall be without prejudice to any dispositions in favor of Hungary or Hungarian nationals made by the powers in occupation of Germany.)

ARTICLE XXIX

1. Pending the conclusion of commercial treaties or agreements between Hungary and the United Nations, the Hungarian Government shall, during the eighteen months following the coming into force of the present treaty, grant the following treatment to each of the United Nations which, in fact, reciprocally grants similar treatment in like matters to Hungary:

(A) In all that concerns duties and charges on importation and exportation, the internal taxation of imported goods and all regulations pertaining thereto, the United Nations shall be granted unconditional most-favored-nation treatment.

(B) In all other respects, to make no arbitrary discrimination against goods originating in or destined for any territory of any of the United Nations as compared with like goods originating in or destined for any other territory of the United Nations or of any other foreign country.

(C) Natural and legal persons who are nationals of any of the United Nations shall be granted national and most-favored-nation treatment in all matters pertaining to commerce, industry, shipping and other forms of business activity within Hungary.

The U.S.S.R. delegation proposes the following text as an integral part of the Paragraph:

(. . . Excluding certain branches where, in accordance with the internal legislation of the country, private enterprise does not take place.)

The U.K., U.S., and French delegations propose the following alternative to the U.S.S.R. proposal:

(This paragraph shall not be deemed to confer on the United Nations, or their nationals, rights to engage in any branch of commerce, industry, shipping or other form of business activity which under Hungarian law is a monopoly of the Hungarian State. Nevertheless, the most-favored-nation principle shall be observed in any such case in which foreign participation is allowed.)

Proposed further addition to this Paragraph by the U. S. delegation, supported by UK:

(It is further understood that this Paragraph shall not apply to civil aviation, but that Hungary will grant no exclusive or discriminatory right to any country with regard to the operation of civil aircraft in international traffic and will afford all the United Nations equality of opportunity in obtaining international commercial aviation rights in Hungarian territory.)

The U.S.S.R. delegation sees no reason for inclusion of this addition in the treaty.

2. U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL:

(The foregoing undertakings by Hungary shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in commercial treaties concluded by Hungary before the war or which relate to relations with neighboring countries applied to them; and the provisions with the reciprocity granted by each of the United Nations shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in the commercial treaties concluded by that Power.)

FRENCH, U. K. AND U. S. PROPOSAL:

(The foregoing undertakings by Hungary shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in commercial treaties concluded by Hungary before the war, and provisions with respect to reciprocity granted by each of the United Nations shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in the commercial treaties concluded by that Power.)

JUL 31 1946

30.24-4469

JUL 31 1946

ARTICLE XXX

U. K. PROPOSAL

(Any dispute which may arise in connection with Articles XXII and XXIII and Annexes 4, 5 and 6 of the present treaty shall be referred to a conciliation commission composed of an equal number of representatives of the United Nations Government concerned and of the Hungarian Government. If agreement has not been reached within three months of the dispute having been referred to the conciliation commission, either Government may require the addition of a third member to the commission, and failing agreement between the two Governments on the selection of this member, the President of the International Court of Justice shall be requested to make the appointment. The decisions of the commission, as so constituted, shall be taken by the same procedure as is provided for decisions of the International Court itself in Articles 48 and 55 to 57 of the Statute of the Court and shall be final and binding on all parties.)

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL:

(Any dispute which may arise in giving effect to Articles XXII and XXIII shall be referred to a conciliation commission composed on the principle of parity of representatives of the Government of the United Nations concerned and of the Hungarian Government. If within three months after the dispute has been referred to the conciliation commission no agreement has been reached, either Government may ask for the addition to the commission of a third member selected by mutual agreement of the two Governments from nationals of third countries. Should the two Governments fail to agree on the selection of a third member of the commission, the Governments shall apply to the three heads of the diplomatic missions of the U. S. S. R., the U. S. A. and the U. K., who will appoint the third member of the commission.)

The U. S. delegation can accept either the U. K. proposal or the U.S.S.R. proposal provided the following sentence is added at the end of the latter:

(If the three Heads of Mission are unable to agree within a period of one month upon the appointment of the third member, the Secretary General of the United Nations shall be requested by either party to make the appointment.)

The French delegation has the same position as the U. S. delegation, provided Annexes 4, 5 and 6 are covered by the Article.

PART VII. CLAUSES RELATING TO THE DANUBE

ARTICLE XXXIII

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

(1. Navigation on the Danube River, its navigable tributaries and connecting canals shall be free and open on terms of entire equality to the nationals, vessels of commerce and goods of all States.

(2. Sanitary, police and other laws and regulations applicable to the Danube River System shall be administered by Hungary in a non-discriminatory manner and shall not unreasonably impede commercial navigation.

(3. No obstacles or impediments to navigation shall be placed in the main channels of the Danube River System along the shores thereof. Hungary undertakes to remove any existing obstacles or impediment in the main channels lying within its jurisdiction or to permit such removals by any international authority which may be established for the Danube System.

(4. No tolls, dues or other charges shall be levied by Hungary except for the purpose of defraying the cost of development and maintenance of the waterway in commercially navigable condition, and no tolls, dues or other charges shall be levied with respect to navigation of any naturally navigable portion of the waterway. All tolls, dues and other charges shall be levied in such a manner as not to discriminate against nationals, vessels of commerce or goods of any State. The schedule of these charges shall be open for public inspection and shall be publicly displayed in appropriate places.

(5. In the establishment, administration and operation of any interim or permanent international regime for the Danube River System, Hungary shall enjoy a status equal to that of the other member States.

(6. Any dispute between the parties to this treaty with respect to the application or interpretation of these articles relating to the regime and conditions of navigation on the Danube River System, which cannot be resolved by negotiation, shall be submitted to a chamber of three or more judges formed by the International Court of Justice under Article 26 of this statute.)

U.K. Delegation propose to add:

(A conference of all interested States, including Hungary, will be convened within a period of six months of the coming into force of the present treaty to establish the new permanent international regime for the Danube.)

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[The question of the Danube cannot be solved by the peace treaties with Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary, since it has to be settled with the participation of the Danubian States, which include Allied states such as Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. The delegation of the U.S.S.R., therefore, proposes not to have the provisions relating to the Danube included in the peace treaties with Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary.]

ARTICLE XXXV

U. K. AND U. S. PROPOSAL:

(Except where any other procedure is specifically provided under any Article of the present Treaty, disputes concerning the interpretation or execution of the Treaty shall be referred to the three Heads of Mission acting as provided under Article XXXIV and, if not resolved by them within a period of two months, shall, at the request of any party to any dispute, be referred to the International Court of Justice. Any dispute still pending at, or arising after, the date when the Heads of Mission terminate their functions under Article XXXIV, and which is not settled by direct diplomatic negotiations, shall equally, at the request of any party to the dispute, be referred to the International Court of Justice.)

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL:

(Save where any other procedure is specifically provided under any Article of the present Treaty disputes concerning the interpretation or execution of the Treaty shall be settled by direct diplomatic negotiations and, in case the disputes are not settled in this way, they shall be referred to the three Heads of Mission acting as provided under Article XXXIV, except that in this case the Heads of Mission will not be restricted by the time-limit provided in that Article.)

Annex 1

(See Article I)

Map of the Hungarian frontiers.

Annex 2. (See Article 12) Definition of Military and Air Training

Military training is defined as: the study of and practice in the use of war material specially designed or adapted for army purposes, and training devices relative thereto; the study and carrying out of all drill or movements which teach or practice evolutions performed by fighting forces in battle; and the organized study of tactics, strategy and staff work.

Military air training is defined as: the study of and practice in the use of war material specially designed or adapated for air force purposes, and training devices relative thereto; the study and practice of all specialized evolutions, including formation flying, performed by aircraft in the accomplishment of an air force mission, and the organized study of air tactics, strategy and staff work.

Annex 3. (See Article 15) Definition and List of War Material

Definition of war material—The term "war material" as used in this Treaty shall include all arms, ammunition and implements specially designed or adapted for use in war as listed below.

The Allied and Associated Powers reserve the right to amend by modification or addition, the list, periodically, in the light of subsequent scientific development.

CATEGORY I.

(1) Military rifles, carbines, revolvers and pistols; barrels for these weapons and other spare parts not readily adaptable for civilian use.

(2) Machine guns, military automatic or autoloading rifles, and machine pistols; barrels for these weapons and other spare parts not readily adaptable for civilian use; machine guns mounts.

(3) Guns, howitzers, mortars, cannon special to aircraft; breechless or recoilless guns and flame-throwers, barrels and other spare parts not readily adaptable for civilian use; carriages and mountings for the foregoing.

(4) Rocket projectors; launching and control mechanisms for self-propelling and guided missiles; mountings for same.

(5) Self-propelling and guided missiles, projectiles, rockets, fixed ammunition and cartridges, filled or unfilled, for the arms listed in (1)-(4) inclusive above and fuses, tubes or contrivances to explode or operate them. Fuses required for civilian use are not included.

(6) Grenades, bombs, torpedoes, mines, depth charges and incendiary material or charges, filled or unfilled; all means for exploding or operating them. Fuses required for civilian use are not included.

(7) Bayonets.

CATEGORY II

(1) Armored fighting vehicles; armored trains, not technically convertible to civilian use.

(2) Mechanical and self-propelled carriages for any of the weapons listed in Category I; special type military chassis or bodies other than those enumerated in (1) above.

(3) Armor plate, greater than three inches in thickness used for protective purposes in warfare.

CATEGORY III

(1) Aiming and computing devices, including predictors and plotting apparatus, for fire control; direction of fire instruments; gun sights; bomb sights; fuse setters, calibration equipment for the calibrations of guns and fire control instruments.

(2) Assault bridging, assault boats and storm boats.

(3) Deceptive warfare, dazzle and decoy devices.

(4) Personal war equipment of a specialized nature not readily adaptable to civilian use.

CATEGORY IV

(1) Warships of all kinds, including converted vessels and craft designed or intended for their attendance or support, which cannot be technically reconverted to civilian use, as well as weapons, armor, ammunition, aircraft and all other equipment, material, machines and installations not used in peace time on ships other than warships.

(2) Landing craft and amphibious vehicles or equipment of any kind; assault boats or devices of any type as well as catapults or other apparatus for launching or throwing aircraft, rockets, propelled weapons or any other missile, instrument or device whether manned or unmanned, guided or uncontrolled.

(3) Submersible or semi-submersible ships, craft, weapons, devices or apparatus of any kind, including specially designed harbor defense booms, except as required by salvage, rescue or other civilian uses, as well as all equipment, accessories, spare parts, experimental or training aids, instruments or installations as may be especially designed for the construction, testing, maintenance or housing of the same.

CATEGORY V

(1) Aircraft, assembled or unassembled, both heavier and lighter than air, which are designed or adapted for aerial combat by the use of machine guns, rocket projectors, or artillery or for the carrying and dropping of bombs, or which are equipped with, or which by reason of design or construction are prepared for, any of the appliances referred to in Paragraph (2) below.

(2) Aerial gun mounts and frames, bomb racks, torpedo carriers and bomb release or torpedo release mechanisms; gun turrets and blisters.

(3) Equipment specially designed for and used solely by airborne troops.

(4) Catapults or launching apparatus for ship-borne, land or sea-based aircraft; apparatus for launching aircraft weapons.

(5) Barrage balloons.

CATEGORY VI

Asphyxiating, lethal, toxic, incapacitating substances intended for war purposes, or manufactured in excess of civilian requirements.

CATEGORY VII

Propellants, explosives, pyrotechnics, liquefied gases destined for the propulsion, explosion, charging, filling of, or use in connection with the war material in the present categories, not capable of civilian use or manufactured in excess of civilian requirements.

CATEGORY VIII

Factory and tool equipment specially designed for the production and maintenance of the products enumerated above and not technically reconvertible to civilian use.

Annex 4. Special Provisions Relating to Certain Kinds of Property

A. INDUSTRIAL, LITERARY AND ARTISTIC PROPERTY

(a) A period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty shall be accorded to the Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals without extension fees or other penalty of any sort in order to enable such person to accomplish all necessary acts for the obtaining or preserving in Hungary of rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were not capable of accomplishment owing to the existence of a state of war.

(b) Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals who had duly applied in any Allied or Associated Power for a patent or registration of a utility model not earlier than twelve months before the outbreak of the war with Hungary or during the war, or for the registration of an industrial design or model or trade mark not earlier than six months before the outbreak of the war with Hungary or during the war, shall be entitled within twelve months after the coming into force of this treaty to apply for corresponding rights in Hungary with a right of priority based upon the previous filing of the application in that Allied and Associated Power.

(c) Each of the Allied and Associated Powers or its nationals shall be accorded a period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty during which they may institute proceedings against those persons who are alleged illegally to have infringed their rights in industrial, literary or artistic property between the date of the outbreak of the war and the coming into force of this treaty.

2. A period from the outbreak of the war until a date eighteen months after the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded in considering the time within which a patent should be worked or a design or trade-mark used.

3. The period from the outbreak of the war until the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded from the normal term or rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were in force in Hungary at the outbreak of the war or which are recognized or established under this Annex and belonging to any of the Allied and Associated Powers, or their nationals. Consequently, the normal duration of such rights shall be deemed automatically extended in Hungary for a further term corresponding to the period so excluded.

4. The foregoing provisions concerning the rights of the Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals shall apply equally to Hungary and its nationals [but nothing in these provisions shall operate so as to give to Hungary or any of its nationals greater rights than are accorded in like cases by any of the Allied or Associated Powers to any other of the United Nations.]

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers it unnecessary to include the passage in brackets.

The U. S. delegation would not agree to this Annex unless Paragraph 4 were included in its entirety.

Third parties in the territories of any of the Allied and Associated Powers or Hungary who before the coming into force of the present Treaty have bona-fide acquired industrial property right conflicting with rights restored under this Article or with rights obtained with priority claimed thereunder, or have bona-fide manufactured, used or sold the subject-matter or such rights, shall be permitted, without any liability for infringement, to continue to exercise such rights and to continue to resume such manufacture, use or sale which had been bona-fide acquired or commenced. In Hungary, such permission shall take the form of a non-exclusive license granted on terms and conditions to be mutually agreed by the parties thereto or in default of agreement to be fixed by the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXX of the Treaty. In the territories of the Allied and Associated Powers, however, bona-fide third parties shall receive such protection as is accorded under similar circumstances to bona-fide third parties whose rights are in conflict with those of the nationals of other Allied and Associated Powers.

6. Nothing in this Annex shall be construed to entitle Hungary or its nationals to any patent or utility model rights in the territory of any of the Allied and Associated Powers with respect to inventions relating to any Article listed by name in the definition of war material contained in Annex 3 of the present Treaty made or upon which application were filed by Hungary or any of its nationals in Hungary or in the territory of any other of the Axis Powers or in any territory occupied by the Axis forces, during the time when the place in question was under the control of enemy forces or authorities.

7. [Hungary shall extend the benefits of this Article to any United Nation other than an Allied or Associated Power which undertakes to extend to Hungary the benefits, accorded to Hungary under this Article.]

The U.S.S.R. delegation does not see the reason for inclusion of Paragraph 7 in the present Treaty.

8. Nothing in this Annex shall be understood to conflict with Articles XXIII, XXV and XXVII of the present Treaty.

(B) INSURANCE

U. K. PROPOSAL

[1. United Nations insurers shall be granted full facilities by the Hungarian Government to recover their former portfolios of business in Hungary and they shall not be required to conform to any legislative enactments more onerous than those which were applicable to them before the outbreak of war.

2. In so far as the guarantee deposits and reserves of United Nations insures have been reduced by reason of the payment of insurance claims arising out of the war, they shall be entitled to compensation from the Hungarian Government by way of the reinstatement of such deposits of reserves to the amount of the claims.

3. The Hungarian Government undertakes that if any United Nations insurer desires to resume business in Hungary and it is found that the value of any guarantee deposit or reserves required to be held as a condition of carrying on business in Hungary have been diminished by reason of disappearance or depreciation of the securities in which they were constituted, Hungary shall either

(a) itself reconstitute the deposits or reserves except in so far as the diminution or disappearance was caused by payment of losses already compensated for under paragraph 2 above; or

(b) accept the securities at the value at the outbreak of war for the purpose of compliance with the legal requirements relating to such deposits and reserves.]

The U.S.S.R. Delegation considers that this subject is also covered by Article XXIII on United Nations property in Hungary and see no reason to include any special provisions relating to insurance.

The U.S. delegation is not opposed in principle to treaty provisions on special problems relating to insurance but is unable to accept the draft as a whole.

Annex 5. Contracts Prescriptions and Negotiable Instruments

U. K. PROPOSAL

1. Contracts

[1. Any contract concluded between enemies shall be deemed to have been dissolved as from the time when any of the parties became an enemy, except in resepct of any debt accrued or money paid or other pecuniary obligation arising out of any act done thereunder, the subject to the exceptions set out in the following paragraph. The provisions of this paragraph shall be without prejudice to contracts of insurance and reinsurance, which shall be subject to a separate agreement. (Alternatively a special annex can be included.)

(2. The following classes of contracts notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 1 are excepted from dissolution and without prejudice to the rights contained in Article XXV remain in force subject to the application of municipal laws, orders or regulations made since the outbreak of war by any member of the United Nations and subject to the proper law and terms of the contracts;

(a) Contracts for the transfer of estates or of movable or immovable property where the property therein has passed or delivery been made before the parties became enemies;

(b) Leases or agreements for leases of land, houses or parts thereof;

(c) Contracts of mortgages or lien;

(d) Concession of mines, quarries or deposits;

(e) Contracts between individuals or associations and states, municipalities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative functions and concessions granted by states, municipalities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative functions;

(f) Any contract of which the execution shall be required in the general interest within six months from the date of the coming into force of the present treaty by a Government of one of the United Nations of which one of the parties to such a contract is a national; when the execution of the contract thus kept alive would, owing to the alteration of particular conditions, cause one of the parties substantial prejudice, the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXX shall be empowered to award fair compensation to the prejudiced parties.

(3. If a contract is dissolved in part under Paragraph 1, the remaining provisions of that contract shall, subject to the same application of municipal laws as is provided for in Paragraph 2, continue in force if they are severable, but where they are not severable the contract shall be deemed to have been dissolved in its entirety.

(4. Nothing in the present Annex shall be deemed to invalidate the transactions lawfully carried out in accordance with a contract between enemies if it has been carried out with the authority of the Government of one of the United Nations.

(5. For the purposes of Parts I, II and III of the present Annex the parties to a contract shall be regarded as enemies when trading between them shall have been prohibited by or otherwise become unlawful under laws, orders or regulations to which one of these parties or the contract was subject. They shall be deemed to have become enemies from the date when such trading was prohibited or otherwise become unlawful.)

II. Periods of Prescription

1. All periods of prescription, or limitation of right of action, whether they began to run before or after the outbreak of war, shall be treated in the territory of the high contracting parties, as far as regards relations between enemies, as having been suspended for the duration of the war. They shall begin to run again at earliest three months after the coming into force of the present Treaty. This provision shall apply to the period prescribed for the presentation of interest or dividend coupons or for the presentation for repayment of securities drawn for repayment or repayable on any other ground.

(2. Where, on account of failure to perform any act or comply with any formality during the war, measures of execution have been taken in Hungarian territory to the prejudice of a national of one of the United Nations, the claim of such national shall, if the matter does not fall within the competence of the Courts of one of the United Nations be heard by the Conciliation Commission established under Article 30.

(3. Upon the application of any interested person who is a national of one of the United Nations, the Conciliation Commission shall order the restoration of the rights which have been prejudiced by the measures of execution referred to in Paragraph 2 wherever such restoration is equitable and possible. If such restoration is inequitable or impossible the Conciliation Commission may award compensation to the prejudiced party to be paid by the Hungarian Government.

(4. Where a contract between enemies has been dissolved by reason either of failure on the part of either party to carry out its provisions or of the exercise of a right stipulated in the contract itself the party prejudiced may apply to the Conciliation Commission for relief. The Commission will have the powers provided for in Paragraph 3.

(5. The provisions of the preceding paraprapha of this Article shall apply to the United Nations nationals who have been prejudiced by reason of measures referred to above taken by Hungary or invaded or occupied territory, if they have not been otherwise satisfactorily compensated.

(6. Hungary shall compensate any third party who may be prejudiced by any restitution or restoration ordered by the Conciliation Commission under the provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this part.

(7. As regards negotiable instruments, the period of three months provided under Paragraph 1 shall commence as from the date on which any exceptional regulations applied in the territories of the interested Power with regard to negotiable instruments shall have definitely ceased to have force.)

III. Negotiable Instruments

(1. As between enemies no negotiable instrument made before the war shall be deemed to have become invalid by reason only of failure within the required time to present the instrument for acceptance or payment or to give notice of non-acceptance or non-payment to drawers or endorsers or to protest the instrument, nor by reason of failure to complete any formality during the war.

(2. Where the period within which a negotiable instrument should have been presented for acceptance or for payment, or within which notice of non-acceptance or non-payment should have been given to the drawer or endorser, or within which the instrument should have been protested, has elapsed during the war, and the party who should have presented or protested the instrument or have given notice of non-acceptance or non-payment has failed to do so during the war, a period of not less than three months from the coming into force of the present treaty shall be allowed within which presentation, notice of non-acceptance or non-payment or protest may be made.

(3. If a person has either before or during the war become liable upon a negotiable instrument in accordance with an undertaking given to him by a person who has subsequently become an enemy, the latter shall remain liable to indemnify the former in respect of his liability notwithstanding the outbreak of war.)

IV MISCELLANEOUS

(1. Stock Exchange and Commercial Exchange Contracts.

(a) Rules made during the war by any recognized exchange or commercial association providing for the closure of contracts entered into before the war by an enemy are confirmed by the high contracting parties, as also any action taken thereunder, provided:

(I) That the contract was expressed to be made subject to the rules of the exchange or association in question;

(II) That the rules applied to all persons concerned;

(III) That the conditions attaching to the closure were fair and reasonable.

(b) The preceding paragraph shall not apply to rules made during the occupation by exchanges or commercial associations in the districts occupied by the enemy.

(2. Security.

(The sale of a security held for an unpaid debt owing by an enemy shall be deemed to have been valid irrespective of notice to the owner if the creditor acted in good faith and with reasonable care and prudence, and no claim by the debtor on the ground of such sale shall be admitted.

(This stipulation shall not apply to any sale of securities effected by an enemy during the occupation in regions invaded or occupied by the enemy.)

In view of the constitutional position of the Federal Government, the U. S. delegation would be unable to accept any obligations on the matters covered by this Annex. The United States would not object to the inclusion of provisions on these subjects in the treaty but would wish to have a clause included making them inapplicable as between the United States and Hungary.

The U.S.S.R. delegation sees no reason for inclusion in the peace treaty of the matters covered by this Annex.

The French delegation supports the U.K. proposal with regard to prescriptions and negotiable instruments.

Annex 6. Judgments

U. S. PROPOSAL SUPPORTED BY U.S.S.R.

(The Hungarian Government shall take the necessary measures to enable nationals of any of the United Nations at any time within one year after the coming into force of this treaty to submit to the appropriate Hungarian authorities for review any judgment given by a Hungarian court between April 10, 1941, and the coming into force of this treaty in any proceeding in which the United Nations national was unable to make adequate presentation of his case as plaintiff or defendant. The Hungarian Government shall provide that, where the United Nations national has suffered injury by reason of any such judgment, he shall be restored in the position in which he was before the judgment was given or shall be afforded such relief as may be just and equitable in the circumstances. The term "United Nations nationals" includes corporations or associations organized or constituted under the laws of any of the United Nations.)

FRENCH PROPOSAL

(The Hungarian Government undertakes to adopt appropriate measures in order that nationals of any of the United Nations may obtain during a period of one year from the coming into force of the present Treaty, revision of the judgments rendered by the Hungarian Courts and Tribunals between April 10, 1941, and the date of coming into force of the present Treaty, either in absence of such nationals, or on account of their inability as a result of circumstances to have defended their cause satisfactorily.

(The Hungarian Government shall indemnify nationals of the United Nations for the prejudice caused through the initial judgment and shall award compensation, if revision of such judgment did not conclude by re-establishing them de facto in the situation where they were when the procedure was instituted.

(Should dispute arise either as regards the ability of nationals of any of the United Nations to have defended their cause satisfactorily, or the adequacy of the compensation to be awarded by the Hungarian Government, the said dispute shall be submitted to the Conciliation Commission established under Article 30 of the present Treaty.)

U. K. PROPOSAL

(1. Judgments given by the Courts of a member of the United Nations in all cases which, under the present Treaty, they are competent to decide, shall be recognized in Hungary as final and shall be enforced without it being necessary to have them declared executory.

(2. If a judgment in respect of any dispute which may have arisen has been given during the war by a Hungarian Court against a United Nations national in a case in which he was not able adequately to present his case whether as plaintiff or defendant, the United Nationals national who has suffered prejudice thereby shall be entitled to recover compensation, to be fixed by the Conciliation Commission under the procedure laid down in Article 30 for settlement of disputes.

(3. At the instance of the United Nations national and where it is possible the Conciliation Commission may in lieu of compensation by order replace the parties in the situation which they occupied before the judgment was given by the Hungarian Court.

(4. Such compensation or replacement may likewise be obtained before the Conciliation Commission by United Nationals nationals who have suffered prejudice by judicial measures taken in invaded or occupied territories if they have not been otherwise compensated.)

Text of Draft Treaty on Rumania

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, July 30—The text of the draft of the Rumanian Treaty follows:

Council of Foreign Ministers' Draft Peace Treaty With Rumania

Agreed Articles

PREAMBLE

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom, the United States of America, Australia, the Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Canada, Czechoslovakia, India, New Zealand, the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic and the Union of South Africa, as the states which are at war with Rumania and actively waged war against the enemy states with substantial military force hereinafter called the Allied and Associated Powers of the one part, and Rumania, of the other part.

Whereas Rumania, having become an ally of Hitlerite Germany and participating on her side in the war against the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom, the United States of America, and other United Nations, bears her share of responsibility for this war;

Whereas, however, Rumania, on Aug. 24, 1944, entirely ceased military operations against the U.S.S.R., withdrew from the war against the United Nations, broke off relations with Germany and her satellites, and having concluded on Sept. 12, 1944, an armistice with the Governments of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom and the United States of America acting in the interests of all the United Nations, took an active part in the war against Germany, and

Whereas, the Allied and Associated Powers and Rumania are respectively desirous of concluding a treaty of peace which will form the basis of friendly relations between them and settle questions still outstanding as a result of the events hereinbefore recited, thereby enabling the Allied and Associated Powers to support Rumania's application to become a member of the United Nations and also to adhere to any convention concluded under the auspices of the United Nations;

Have therefore agreed to declare the cessation of the state of war and for this purpose to conclude the present peace treaty, and have accordingly appointed as their plenipotentiaries . . . who, after presentation of their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed on the following provisions:

PART I. FRONTIERS

ARTICLE I

The frontiers of Rumania, shown on the map annexed to the present treaty (Annex 1), shall be those which existed on Jan. 1, 1941, with the exception of the Rumanian-Hungarian frontier, which is defined in Article II of the present treaty.

The Soviet-Rumanian frontier is thus fixed in accordance with Soviet-Rumanian Agreement of June 28, 1940, and the Soviet-Czechoslovak Agreement of June 29, 1945.

ARTICLE II

The decision of the Vienna award of Aug. 30, 1940, is declared null and void. The frontier between Rumania and Hungary existing Jan. 1, 1938, is hereby restored.

PART II.

Section I. Political Clauses

ARTICLE III

Rumania shall take all measures necessary to secure to all persons under Rumanian jurisdiction, without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion, the enjoyment of human rights and the fundamental freedoms including freedom of expression, of press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting.

ARTICLE IV

Rumania, which in accordance with the Armistice Agreement, has taken measures to set free, irrespective of citizenship and nationality all persons held in confinement on account of their activities in favor of the United Nations or because of their sympathies with the United Nations, or because of their racial origin, and to repeal discriminatory legislation and restrictions imposed thereunder, undertakes to complete these measures and in future not to take any measures or enact any laws which would be incompatible with the objects and purposes mentioned in this article.

ARTICLE V

Rumania, which in accordance with the Armistice Agreement, has taken measures for dissolving all organizations of a Fascist type on Rumanian territory, whether political, military or para-military, as well as other organizations conducting propaganda hostile to the Soviet Union or to any of the other United Nations, undertakes not to permit in future the existence and activities of organizations of that nature which have as their aim denial to the people of their democratic rights.

ARTICLE VI

1. Rumania shall take the necessary steps to ensure the apprehension and surrender for trial of:

(A) Persons accused of having committed, ordered or abetted war crimes and crimes against peace or humanity;

(B) Nationals of the Allied and Associated Powers accused of having violated their national law by treason or collaboration with the enemy during the war.

2. At the request of the United Nations Governments concerned, Rumania will likewise make available as witnesses persons within its jurisdiction whose evidence is required for the trial of the persons referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article.

3. Any disagreement concerning the application of the provisions of Paragraphs 1 and 2 shall be referred by any of the Governments concerned to the Heads of the Diplomatic Missions in Bucharest of the U. S. S. R., U. K., and U. S. A., who will reach agreement with regard to the difficulty.

Section II

ARTICLE VII

Rumania undertakes to recognize the full force of the peace treaties concuded with Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland, and the agreements or arrangements which have been or will be reached by the Allied and Associatied Powers in relation to Austria, Germany and Japan for the restoration of peace.

ARTICLE VIII

The state of war between Rumania and Hungary will terminate upon the coming into force both of the present treaty of peace and the treaty of peace between the U.S.S.R., the U. K., the U. S. A., Australia, the Byelorussian S.S.R., Canada, Czechoslovakia, India, New Zealand, the Ukrainian S.S.R., the Union of South Africa and Yugoslavia, of the one part and Hungary of the other part.

ARTICLE IX

Rumania undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the League of Nations and the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Rumania also undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome.

ARTICLE X

1. Each Allied or Associated Power will notify Rumania, within a period of six months of the coming into force of the present treaty, which pre-war bilateral treaties it desires to keep in force or revive. Any provisions not in conformity with the present treaty shall, however, be deleted from the above-mentioned treaties.

2. All treaties so notified will be registered with the Secretariat of the United Nations in accordance with Article 102 of the United Nations Charter.

3. All treaties not so notified are to be regarded as abrogated.

ARTICLE XIV

Rumania shall not possess, construct or experiment with any self-propelled or guided missiles or apparatus connected with their discharge, sea mines or non-contact types actuated by influence mechanisms, torpedoes capable of being manned, submarines or other submersible craft or specialized types of assault craft.

ARTICLE XV

Rumania shall not retain, produce, otherwise acquire, or maintain facilities for the manufacture of war material in excess of that required for the maintenance of the armed forces permitted under Article XI of the present treaty.

ARTICLE XVI

1. Excess war material of Allied origin shall be placed at the disposal of the Allied or Associated Power concerned according to the instructions given by that Power. Excess Rumanian war material will be placed at the disposal of the Governments of the U.S.S.R., U.K. and U.S.A. Rumania will renounce all rights to this material.

2. War material of German origin or design in excess of that required for the armed forces permitted under the treaty will be placed at the disposal of the Governments of the U.S.S.R., U.K., and U.S.A. Rumania will not acquire or manufacture any war material of German origin or design or employ or train any technicians, including military and civil aviation personnel, who are or have been nationals of Germany.

3. Excess war material mentioned in Paragraphs 1 and 2 will be handed over or destroyed within one year from the coming into force of this treaty.

4. A definition and list of war material for the purposes of the present treaty are set out in Annex 3.

ARTICLE XVII

Rumania undertakes to cooperate fully with the United Nations in order to insure that Germany may not be able to take any action outside German territory in the direction of rearmament.

ARTICLE XVIII

Rumania undertakes not to acquire or manufacture civil aircraft which are of German or Japanese origin or which embody major assemblies of German or Japanese manufacture or design.

ARTICLE XIX

Each of the military, naval and air clauses of the present treaty will remain in force until modified in whole or in part by agreement between the Allied and Associated Powers and Rumania, or after Rumania becomes a member of the United Nations, by agreement between the Security Council and Rumania.

ARTICLE XX

1. Rumanian prisoners of war will be repatriated as soon as possible in accordance with arrangements to be agreed upon with Rumania by the individual powers detaining them.

2. All costs, including maintenance costs, incurred in moving Rumanian prisoners of war from their respective assembly points, as chosen by the Government of the Allied or Associated Power concerned to the point of entry into Rumanian territory shall be borne by the Rumanian Government.

WAR GRAVES

[Note: The U. S. delegation wishes to reserve its position with respect to an Article covering war graves until the Peace Conference.

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers such an Article unnecessary.]

PART III. NAVAL, MILITARY AND AIR CLAUSES

ARTICLE XI

The maintenance of land, sea and and air armaments and fortifications will be closely restricted to meeting tasks of an internal character and local defense of frontiers. In accordance with the foregoing, Rumania is authorized to have armed forces consisting of not more than:

(A) A land army, including frontier troops, with a total strength of 120,000 personnel.

(B) Anti-aircraft artillery with a strength of 5,000 personnel.

(C) A navy with a personnel strength of 5,000 and a total tonnage of 15,000 tons.

(D) An air force, including any naval air arm, or 150 aircraft, including reserves, of which not more than 100 may be combat types of aircraft, with a total personnel strength of 8,000. Rumania shall not possess or acquire aircraft designed primarily as bombers with internal bomb-carrying facilities.

The strengths will in each case incude combat, service and overhead personnel.

ARTICLE XII

The Rumanian Army, Air Force and Navy in excess of the above strength shall be disbanded within six months from the date of the coming into force of the present treaty.

ARTICLE XIII

Personnel not included in the Rumanian Army, Air Force and Navy, respectively, will not receive any form of military training, military air training or naval training as defined in Annex 2.

PART IV. WITHDRAWAL OF ALLIED TROOPS FROM RUMANIA

ARTICLE XXI

Upon the coming into force of the present treaty, all Allied Forces will, within a period of ninety days, be withdrawn from Rumania, subject to the right of the Soviet Union to keep on Rumanian territory such armed forces as it may need for the maintenance of the lines of communication of the Red Army with the Soviet Zone of Occupation in Austria. All unusued Rumanian currency and all Rumanian goods in possession of the Allied Forces in Rumania acquired pursuant to Article 10 of the Armistice, will be returned to the Rumanian Government within the same period of ninety days. Rumania, however, undertakes to make available such maintenance and facilities as may specifically be required for the maintenance of the lines of communication with the Soviet Zone of Occupation in Austria, for which due compensation will be made to the Rumanian Government.

JUL 31 1946

PART V. REPARATION AND RESTITUTION

ARTICLE XXII

Losses caused to the Soviet Union by military operations and by the occupation by Rumania of Soviet territory will be made good by Rumanians to the Soviet Union, but taking into consideration that Rumania has not only withdrawn from the war against the United Nations, but has declared and, in fact, waged war against Germany, it is agreed that compensation for the above losses will be made by Rumania not in full but only in part, namely to the amount of 300,000,000 United States dollars payable over eight years from Sept. 12, 1944, in commodities (oil products, grain, timber, seagoing and river craft, sundry machinery, etc.).

The basis for calculating the settlement provided for in this Article will be the United States dollar at its gold parity on the day of the signing of the Armistice Agreement, i.e., 35 dollars for one ounce of gold.

ARTICLE XXIII

1. Rumania accepts the principles of the United Nations Declaration of Jan. 5, 1943, and will return property removed from United Nations territories.

2. The obligation to make restitution applies to all identifiable property at present in Rumania which was removed by force or duress by any of the Axis Powers from the territory of any of the United Nations, irrespective of any subsequent transactions by which the present holder of any such property has secured possession.

3. The Rumanian Government and the Government entitled to restitution may conclude agreements which will replace the provisions of the present Article.

4. The Rumanian Government undertakes to return the property referred to in the present Article in good order and in this connection, to bear all costs in Rumania relating to labor, materials and transport.

5. The Rumanian Government will cooperate with the United Nations in and will provide at its own expense all necessary facilities for the search for and restitution of property liable to restitution under the present Article.

6. The Rumanian Government shall take the necessary measures to effect the return of property covered by this Article held in any third country by persons subject to Rumanian jurisdiction.

7. Claims for the restitution of property shall be presented to the Rumanian Government by the government of the country from whose territory the property was removed, it being understood that rolling stock shall be regarded as having been removed from the territory to which it originally belonged. The period during which such claims may be presented shall be six months from the date of coming into force of the present treaty.

8. The burden of identifying the property and of proving ownership shall rest on the claimant government, and the burden of proving that the property was not removed by force or duress shall rest on the Rumanian Government.

[The U. K. delegation agrees to paragraph 7 on the understanding that the question of restitution of shipping is covered in Article XXIV.]

4. U. S. PROPOSAL

[(A) Where, as a result of the war, the property cannot be returned or the United Nations national has suffered a loss because of injury to the property, the Rumanian Government shall compensate the owner by the payment of a sum in lei sufficient at the date of payment to enable the recipient to purchase similar property or to make good the loss or damage suffered.

(B) Sums in lei paid by the Rumanian Government under this Article shall be freely usable in Rumania but shall be subject to the foreign exchange control regulations which may be in force in Rumania from time to time. The Rumanian Government agrees to accord to United Nations nationals fair and equitable treatment with respect to the allocation of materials, and of foreign exchange required for the importation of materials, for the repair or rehabilitation of their properties in Rumania, and in no event to discriminate in these respects against nationals of the United Nations as compared with Rumanian nationals.

(C) In cases where a corporation or association of any nationality other than that of one of the United Nations has suffered a loss of its property in Rumania as a result of the war, compensation in lei shall be paid by the Rumanian Government to United Nations nationals who have directly, or indirectly through intermediate corporations or associations of any nationality other than that of one of the United Nations, an ownership interest in the corporation or association which has suffered the loss. This compensation shall be that fractional part of the amount which would be required to enable the corporation or association to make good the loss or damage suffered, which the interest of the United Nations' nationals constitutes of the totality of ownership interests in the corporation. Such compensation, however, shall not be required in case the Rumanian Government shall provide to the corporation or the association itself such full compensation or restoration as would be due under this article if it were a corporation or association of one of the United Nations.

In cases where the corporation or association receives from the Rumanian Government partial compensation for the damage or loss sustained, the United Nations' nationals shall be paid by the Rumanian Government compensation in lei in an amount equal to their respective proportionate shares of the loss or damage for which the corporation or association does not itself receive compensation from the Rumanian Government. For purposes of this paragraph, the extent of interest of a United Nations national shall be determined as of June 22, 1941, or the outbreak of war between the United Nation concerned and Rumania, as may be the more favorable to the United Nations national.

(D) As used in this article, the phrase "as a result of the war" included the consequences of any action taken by the Rumanian Government, any action taken by any of the belligerents, any action taken under the Armistice of Sept. 12, 1944, and any action or failure to act caused by the existence of a state of war.

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[Rumania recognizes the necessity for compensation for the property of the United Nations and their nationals in Rumania lost or damaged during the war. In view of the fact, however, tha Rumania has not only withdrawr from the war against the United Nations, but declared war on, and effectively waged war against Germany, and in consideration of the losses sustained by Rumania in the course of military operations against Germany on Rumanian territory, it is agreed that such compensation will be made in part to the extent of one-third of the losses and will be paid in Rumanian lei.)

[The U. K. and French delegations approved the U. S. proposal subject to reservation as to the drafting.]

5. All reasonable expenses incurred in Rumania in establishing claims, including the assessment of loss or damage, shall be borne by the Rumanian Government.

6. United Nations nationals and their property shall be exempted from any exceptional taxes, levies or impacts, imposed on their capital assets in Rumania by the Rumanian Government, or any Rumanian authority between the date of the Armistice and the coming into force of the present treaty for the specific purpose of meeting charges arising out of the war or of meeting the costs of occupying forces or of reparations payable to any of the United Nations. Any sums which have been so paid shall be refunded.

The owner of the property concerned and the Rumanian Government may agree upon arrangements in lieu of the provisions of this article:

As used in this Article:

(A) "United Nations' nationals" means individuals who are nationals of any of the United Nations or corporations or associations organized under the laws of any of the United Nations at the date of the coming into force of the present treaty, provided that they also had this status at the date of the Armistice with Rumania.

The term "United Nations' nationals" also includes all individuals, corporations or associations which under the laws in force in Rumania during the war, have been treated as enemy.

(B) "Owner" means the United Nations' national, as defined in subparagraph (A) above, who is entitled to the property in question, and includes a successor of the owner, provided that the successor is also a United Nations' national as defined in subparagraph (A). If the successor has purchased the property in its damaged state, the transferor shall retain his rights to compensation under this article, without prejudice to obligations between the transferor and the purchaser under domestic law.

(C) "Property" means all movable and immovable property, whether tangible or intangible, including industrial, literary and artistic property, as well as all rights, estates or interests in property of any kind.

ARTICLE XXV

Rumania recognizes that the Soviet Union is entitled to all German assets in Rumania transferred to the Soviet Union by the Control Council for Germany and undertakes to take all necessary measures for facilitating such transfers.

ARTICLE XXVI

1. Each of the Allied and Associated Powers shall have the right to seize, retain, liquidate or take any other action with respect to all property, rights and interests within its territory which on the date of coming into force of the present Treaty belong to Rumania or to Rumanian nationals, and to apply such property or the proceeds thereof to such purposes as it may desire, within the limits of its claims and those of its nationals against Rumania or its nationals, including debts, other than claims fully satisfied under other articles of the present Treaty. All Rumanian property, or the proceeds thereof, in excess of the amount of such claims, shall be returned.

2. The liquidation and disposition of Rumanian property shall be carried out in accordance with the law of the Allied or Associated Power concerned. The Rumanian owner shall have no rights with respect to such property except those which may be given him by that law.

3. The Rumanian Government undertakes to compensate Rumanian nationals whose property is taken under this article and not returned to them.

4. No obligation is created by this Article on any Allied or Associated Power to return industrial, literary or artistic property to the Rumanian Government or Rumanian nationals, or to include such property in determining the amounts which may be retained under Paragraph 1 of this article. The government of each of the Allied and Associated Powers shall have the right to impose such limitations, conditions and restrictions on rights or interests with respect to industrial, literary and artistic property acquired prior to the coming into force of the present treaty in the territory of that Allied or Associated Power by the Government or nationals of Rumania, as may be deemed by the government of the Allied or Associated Power to be necessary in the national interest.

5. The property covered by Paragraph 1 of this Article shall be deemed to include Rumanian property which has been subject to control by reason of a state of war existing between Rumania and the Allied or Associated Power having jurisdiction over the property, but shall not include:

(A) Property of the Rumanian Government used for consular or diplomatic purposes.

(B) Property belonging to religious bodies or private charitable institutions and used for religious or charitable purposes.

(C) Property of natural persons who are Rumanian nationals permitted to reside within the territory of the country in which the property is located or to reside elsewhere in United Nations' territory, other than Rumanian property which at any time during the war was subjected to measures not generally applicable to the property of Rumanian nationals existent in the same territory.

(D) Property rights arising since the resumption of trade and financial relations between Rumania and the Allied and Associated Powers, or arising out of transactions between Rumania and the Governments of any Allied or Associated Power since September 12, 1944.

ARTICLE XXVII

RUMANIAN PROPERTY IN GERMANY

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[1. Limitations imposed in respect of Rumanian property on the territory of Germany and on the territory of other countries which took part in the war on the side of Germany shall be withdrawn after the coming into force of the present Treaty. The rights of Rumanian owners with respect to the disposal of the property in question shall be restored.

2. Rumania shall have the right to restitution of identifiable property which was compulsorily or forcibly removed from Rumania after Aug. 24, 1944, and is at present in Germany.

The restitution of Rumanian property situated in the territory of Germany will be effected in accordance with the instructions of the military authorities of the powers in occupation of Germany].

U. K., U. S. AND FRENCH PROPOSAL

[Rumania hereby renounced on its own behalf and on behalf of Rumanian nationals all claims, including debts, against Germany and German nationals outstanding on May 8, 1945, except those arising out of contracts and other obligations entered into, and rights acquired, before Sept. 1, 1939. This renunciation shall be deemed to include not only all intergovernmental claims in respect of arrangements entered into in the course of the war, but also all claims for loss or damage arising during the war. This renunciation shall be without prejudice to any dispositions in favour of Rumania or Rumanian nationals made by the powers in occupation of Germany.]

ARTICLE XXVIII

1. The contracting parties agree that the existence of the state of war shall not, in itself, be regarded as affecting the obligations to pay pecuniary debts arising out of obligations and contracts which existed, and rights acquired before the existence of a state of war, which became payable prior to the coming into force of the present Treaty, and which are due by the Government or nationals of Rumania to the government or nationals of one of the Allied and Associated Powers or are due by the government or nationals of one of the allied and associated powers to the government or nationals of Rumania.

2. Except as otherwise expressly provided in the present Treaty, nothing therein shall be construed as impairing debtor-creditor relationships arising out of prewar contracts concluded either by the government or nationals of Rumania.

ARTICLE XXIX

1. Rumania waives all claims of any description against the Allied and Associated Powers on behalf of the Rumanian Government or Rumanian nationals arising directly out of the war or out of actions taken because of the existence of a state of war in Europe after Sept. 1, 1939, whether or not

PART VI. ECONOMIC CLAUSES

ARTICLE XXIV

UNITED NATIONS PROPERTY

1. Insofar as Rumania has not already done so, Rumania shall restore all the legal rights and interests in Rumania of the United Nations and their nationals as they existed on June 22, 1941, and shall return all property in Rumania, including ships of the United Nations and their nationals as it now exists.

2. The Rumanian Government undertakes that all property, rights and interests passing under agreed articles shall be restored free of all encumbrances and charges of any kind to which they may have become subject as a result of the war and without the imposition of any charges by the Rumanian Government in connection of any charges by the Rumanian Government in connection with its return. The Rumanian Government will nullify all measures, including seizures, sequestration or control, taken by it against United Nations' property between June 22, 1941, and the coming into force of the present treaty. In cases where the property has not been returned within six months of the coming into force of the treaty, application shall be made to the Rumanian authorities not later than twelve months from the coming into force of the treaty, except in cases in which the claimant is able to show that he could not file his application within this period.

3. The Rumanian Government undertakes to invalidate transfers involving property, rights and interests of any description belonging to United Nations nationals, where such transfers resulted from force or duress exerted by Axis Governments or their agencies during the war.

JUL 31 1946

JUL 31 1946 30. 24- 4473

the Allied or Associated Power was at war with Rumania at the time, including the following:

(A) Claims for losses or damages sustained as a consequence of acts of forces or authorities of the Allied or Associated Powers.

(B) Claims arising from the presence, operations or actions of forces or authorities of the Allied or Associated Powers in Rumanian territory.

(C) Claims with respect to the decrees and orders of prize courts and the Allied or Associated Powers, Rumania agreeing to accept as valid and binding all decrees and orders of such prize courts on or after Sept. 1, 1939, concerning Rumanian ships or Rumanian goods or the payment of costs.

(D) Claims arising out of the exercise or purported exercise of belligerent rights.

2. The provisions of this Article will bar, completely and finally, all claims of the nature referred to herein, which will henceforward be extinguished, whoever may be the parties in interest. The Rumanian Government agrees to make equitable compensation in lieu to persons who furnished supplies or services on requisition to the forces of the Allied and Associated Powers in Rumanian territory and in satisfaction of non-combat damage claims against the forces of Allied and Associated Powers arising in Rumanian territory.

3. Rumania likewise waives all claims of the nature covered by paragraph 1 of this article on behalf of the Rumanian Government or Rumanian nationals against any of the United Nations which severed diplomatic relations with Rumania and took action in cooperation with the Allied and Associated Powers.

4. The Rumanian Government will assume full responsibility for Allied military currency issued in Rumania by the Allied military authorities, including all such currency in circulation on the date of the coming into force of this treaty.

5. The waiver of claims by Rumania under this Article includes any claims arising out of actions taken by any of the Allied and Associated Powers with respect to Rumanian ships between Sept. 1, 1939 and the date of the coming into force of the present treaty, as well as any claims and debts arising out of conventions on prisoners of war in force.

ARTICLE XXX

GENERAL ECONOMIC RELATIONS

1. Pending the conclusion of commercial treaties or agreements between Rumania and the United Nations, the Rumanian Government shall during the eighteen months following the coming into force of the present treaty grant the following treatment to each of the United Nations which, in fact, reciprocally grants similar treatment in like matters to Rumania:

(A) In all that concerns duties and charges on importation or exportation, the internal taxation of imported goods and all regulations pertaining thereto, the United Nations shall be granted unconditional most-favored-nation treatment.

(B) In all other respects, Rumania shall make no arbitrary discrimination against goods originating in or destined for any territory of any of the United Nations as compared with like goods originating in or destined for any other territory of the United Nations or of any other foreign country.

(C) Natural and legal persons who are nationals of any of the United Nations shall be granted national and most-favored-nation treatment in all matters pertaining to commerce, industry, shipping and other forms of business activity within Rumania.

The U.S.S.R. delegation proposes the following text as an integral part of the paragraph:

[. . . excluding certain branches where, in accordance with the internal legislation of the country, private enterprise does not take place].

The U.K., U.S. and French delegations propose the following alternative to the U.S.S.R. proposal:

[This paragraph shall not be deemed to confer on the United Nations or their nationals, rights to engage in any branch of commerce, industry, shipping or other form of business activity which under Rumanian law is a monopoly of the Rumanian State. Nevertheless, the most-favored-nation principle shall be observed in any such cases in which foreign participation is allowed.]

Proposed further addition to this paragraph by the U.S. delegation supported by U.K.

[It is further understood that this paragraph shall not apply to civil aviation, but that Rumania will grant no exclusive or discriminatory right to any country with regard to the operation of civil aircraft in international traffic and will afford all the United Nations equality of opportunity in obtaining international commercial aviation rights in Rumanian territory.]

The U.S.S.R. delegation sees no reason for inclusion of this addition in the treaty.

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[The foregoing undertaking by Rumania shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in commercial treaties concluded by Rumania before the war or which relate to relations with neighboring countries applied to them; and the provisions with respect to reciprocity granted by each of the United Nations shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in the commercial treaties concluded by that power.]

FRENCH, U. K. AND U. S. PROPOSAL

[The foregoing undertakings by Rumania shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in commercial treaties concluded by Rumania before the war, and the provisions with respect to reciprocity granted by each of the United Nations shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in the commercial treaties concluded by that power.]

ARTICLE XXXI

SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES

U. K. PROPOSAL

[Any disputes which may arise in connection with Articles XXIII and XXIV (and Annexes 4, 5 and 6) of the present Treaty shall be referred to a Conciliation Commission composed of an equal number of representatives of the United Nations Government concerned and of the Rumanian Government. If agreement has not been reached within three months of the dispute having been referred to the Conciliation Commission, either Government may require the addition of a third member to the Commission, and failing agreement between the two Governments on the selection of this member, the President of the International Court of Justice shall be requested to make the appointment. The decisions of the Commission, as so constituted, shall be taken by the same procedure as is provided for decisions of the International Court itself in Articles 48 and 55-57 of the Statute of the Court and shall be final and binding on all parties.]

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[Any disputes which may arise in giving effect to the present Articles XXIII and XXIV of the present Treaty shall be referred to a Conciliation Commission consisting of an equal number of representatives of the Government of the United Nations concerned and the Government of Rumania, appointed on an equal footing. If within three months after the dispute has been referred to the Conciliation Commission no agreement has been reached, either Government may ask for the addition to the Commission of a third member, selected by mutual agreement of the two Governments from nationals of third countries. Should the two Governments fail to agree on the selection of a third member of the Commission, the Governments shall apply to the three heads of the diplomatic missions in Bucharest of the U.S.S.R., U. S. and U. K., who will appoint the third member of the Commission.]

The U.S. delegation can accept either the U.K. proposal or the U.S.S.R. proposal, provided the following sentence is added at the end of the latter:

[If the three heads of Missions are unable to agree within a period of one month upon the appointment of the third member, the Secretary General of the United Nations shall be requested by either party to make the appointment.]

The French delegation has the same position as the U.S. delegation, provided Annexes 4, 5 and 6 are covered by the article.

PART VII. CLAUSES RELATING TO THE DANUBE

JUL 31 1946

ARTICLE XXXII

Articles XXIII, XXIV and XXX and Annex 6 of this Treaty shall apply to the Allied and Associated Powers and France and to those of the United Nations which have broken off diplomatic relations with Rumania.

ARTICLE XXXIII

The provisions of Annexes 4, 5 and 6 shall, as in the case of the other annexes, have force and effect as integral parts of the present Treaty.

ARTICLE XXXIV

U. K. AND U. S. PROPOSAL

1. Navigation on the Danube River, its navigable tributaries and connecting canals, shall be free and open on terms of entire equality to the nationals, vessels of commerce and goods of all states.

2. Sanitary, police and other laws and regulations applicable to the Danube River system shall be administered by Rumania in a non-discriminatory manner and shall not unreasonably impede commercial navigation.

3. No obstacles or impediments to navigation shall be placed in the main channels of the Danube River system or along the shores thereof. Rumania undertakes to remove any existing obstacle or impediment in the main channels lying within its jurisdiction or to permit such removals by any international authority which may be established for the Ranube River system.

4. No tolls, dues or other charges shall be levied by Rumania except for the purpose of defraying the cost of development and maintenance of the waterway in a commercially navigable condition; and no tolls, dues or other charges shall be levied with respect to navigation of any naturally navigable portion of the waterway. All tolls, dues and other charges shall be levied in such a manner as not to discriminate against nationals, vessels of commerce or goods of any state. The schedule of these charges shall be open for public inspection and shall be publicly displayed in appropriate places.

5. In the establishment, administration and operation of any interim or permanent international regime for the Danube River system, Rumania shall enjoy a status equal to that of the other member states.

6. Any dispute between the parties to this treaty with respect to the application or interpretation of these articles relating to the regime and conditions of navigation on the Danube River system which cannot be resolved by negotiation, shall be submitted to a chamber of three or more judges formed by the International Court of Justice under Article 26 of its statute.

U. K. DELEGATION PROPOSES TO ADD

(A conference of all interested states, including Rumania, will be convened within a period of six months of the coming into force of the present treaty to establish the new permanent international regime for the Danube.)

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

(The question of the Danube cannot be solved by the Peace Treaties with Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary since it has to be settled with the participation of the Danubian states which include allied states, such as Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. The delegation of the U. S. S. R., therefore, proposes not to have the provisions relating to the Danube included in the Peace Treaties with Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary.)

PART VIII. Final Clauses

ARTICLE XXXV

For a period not to exceed eighteen months from the coming into force of the present treaty, the heads of the diplomatic missions in Bucharest of the U.S.S.R., the U. K. and U. S., acting in concert will represent the Allied and Associated Powers in dealing with the Rumanian Government in all matters concerning the execution and interpretation of the present treaty.

The three heads of mission will give the Rumanian Government such guidance, technical advice and clarification as may be necessary to ensure rapid and efficient compliance with the spirit and terms of the present treaty.

The Rumanian Government undertakes to afford the said three heads of mission all necessary information and any assistance they may require in the fulfillment of the tasks devolving on them under the present treaty.

ARTICLE XXXVI

Interpretation

U. K. AND U. S. PROPOSAL

(Except where any other procedure is specifically provided under any article of the present treaty, disputes concerning the interpretation or execution of the treaty shall be referred to the three heads of mission acting as provided under Article XXXV and, if not resolved by them within a period of two months, shall, at the request of any party to any dispute, be referred to the International Court of Justice.

Any dispute still pending at, or arising after, the date when the heads of mission terminate their functions under Article 35, and which is not settled by direct diplomatic negotiations, shall equally, at the request of any party to the dispute, be referred to the International Court of Justice.)

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

(Save where any other procedure is specifically provided under any article of the present Treaty, disputes concerning the interpretation or execution of the Treaty shall be settled by direct diplomatic negotiations and, in case the disputes are not settled in this way, they shall be referred to the three heads of mission acting as provided under Article XXXV, except that in this case the heads of mission will not be restricted by the time limit provided in that Article.)

ARTICLE XXXVII

Any other member of the United Nations not a signatory to the present Treaty which is at war with Rumania, may accede to the Treaty and upon accession will be deemed to be an associated power for the purposes of the Treaty.

Instruments of accession will be deposited with the government of the U.S.S.R. and shall take effect upon deposit.

ARTICLE XXXVIII

The present Treaty, of which the Russian and English texts are authentic, shall be ratified by the Allied and Associated Powers. It shall also be ratified by Rumania. It will come into force immediately upon deposit of ratifications by the U.S.S.R., U.K. and U.S.A. The instruments of ratification will, in the shortest time possible, be deposited with the Government of the U.S.S.R.

With respect to each Allied and Associated Power whose instrument o fratification is thereafter deposited, the Treaty shall come into force upon the date of deposit. The present Treaty will be deposited in the archives of the Government of the U.S.S.R., which shall furnish certified copies to each of the signatory States.

Done in the City of. . . . . , in the Russian, English and Rumanian languages.

Military training is defined as: the study of and practice in the use of war material specially designed or adapted for army purposes, and training devices relative thereto; the study and carrying out of all drill or movements which teach or practice evolutions performed by fighting forces in battle; and the organized study of tactics, strategy and staff work.

Military air training is defined as: the study of and practice in the use of war material specially designed or adapted for air force purposes, and training devices relative thereto; the study and practice of all specialized evolutions, including formation flying, performed by aircraft in the accomplishment of an air force mission, and the organized study of air tactics, strategy and staff work.

Naval training is defined as: the [illegible] study, administration or practice in the use of warships or naval establishments as well as the study of employment of all apparatus and training devices relative thereto, which are used in the prosecution of naval warfare except for these which are also normally used for civilian purposes; also the teaching, practice or organized study of naval tactics, strategy and staff work including the execution of all operations and maneuvers not required in the peaceful employment of ships.

Annex 3. (See Article XV) Definition and List of War Materials

Definition of war material

The term "war material" as used in this Treaty shall include all arms, ammunition and implements specially designed or adapted for use in war as listed below.

The Allied and Associated Powers reserve the right to amend by modification or addition, the list, periodically, in the light of subsequent scientific development.

Category 1

(1) Military rifles, carbines, revolvers and pistols; barrels for these weapons and other spare parts not readily adaptable for civilian use.

(2) Machine guns, military automatic or autoloading rifles, and machine pistols; barrels for these weapons and other spare parts not readily adaptable for civilian use; machine-gun mounts.

(3) Guns, howitzers, mortars, cannon special to aircraft; breechless or recoiless guns and flamethrowers, barrels and other spare parts not readily adaptable for civilian use; carriages and mountings for the foregoing.

(2) Assault bridging, assault boats and storm boats.

(3) Deceptive warfare, dazzle and decoy devices.

(4) Personal war equipment of a specialized nature not readily adaptable to civilian use.

Category 4

(1) Warships of all kinds, including converted vessels and craft designed or intended for their attendance or support, which cannot be technically reconverted to civilian use, as well as weapons, armour, ammunition, aircraft and all other equipment, material, machines and installations not used in peace time on ships other than warships.

(2) Landing craft and amphibious vehicles or equipment of any kind; assault boats or devices of any type as well as catapults or other apparatus for launching or throwing aircraft, rockets, propelled weapons, or any other missile, instrument or device whether manned or unmanned, guided or uncontrolled.

(3) Submersible or semi-submersible ships, craft, weapons, devices or apparatus of any kind, including specially designed harbor defense booms, except as required by salvage, rescue or other civilian cessories, spare parts, experimental uses, as well as all equipment, ac- or training aids, instruments or installations as may be especially designed for the construction, testing, maintenance or housing of the same.

Category 5

(1) Aircraft, assembled or unassembled, both heavier and lighter than air, which are designed or adapted for aerial combat by the use of machine guns, pocket projectors, or artillery or for the carrying and dropping of bombs, or which are equipped with, or which by reason of design or construction are prepared for, any of the appliances referred to in paragraph (2) below.

(2) Aerial gun mounts and frames, bomb racks, torpedo carriers and bomb release or torpedo release mechanisms; gun turrets and blisters.

(3) Equipment specially designed for and used solely by airborne troops.

(4) Catapults or launching apparatus for ship-borne, land or sea-based aircraft; apparatus for launching aircraft weapons.

(5) Barrage balloons.

Category 6

Asphyxiating, lethal, toxic, incapacitating substances intended for war purposes, or manufactured in excess of civilian requirements.

Category 7

Propellants, explosives, pyrotechnics, liquefied gases destined for the propulsion, explosion, charging, filling of, or use in connection with the war material in the present categories, not capable of civilian use or manufactured in excess of civilian requirements.

Category 8

Factory and total equipment specially designed for the production and maintenance of the products enumerated above and not technically reconvertible to civilian use.

Annex 4. Special Provisions Relating to Certain Kinds of Property

A. INDUSTRIAL, LITERARY AND ARTISTIC PROPERTY

1. (a) A period of one year from the coming into force of the present Treaty shall be accorded to the Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals without extension fees or other penalty of any sort in order to enable such persons to accomplish all necessary acts for the obtaining or preserving in Rumania of rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were not capable of accomplishment owing to the existence of a state of war.

(b) Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals who had duly applied in any Allied or Associated Power for a patent or registration of a utility model not earlier than twelve months before the outbreak of the war with Rumania or during the war, or for the registration of an industrial design or model or trademark not earlier than six months before the outbreak of the war with Rumania or during the war, shall be entitled within twelve months after the coming into force of this treaty to apply for corresponding rights in Rumania with a right of priority based upon the previous filing of the application in that Allied or Associated Power.

(c) Each of the Allied and Associated Powers or its nationals shall be accorded a period of one year from the coming into force of the treaty during which they may institute proceedings against those persons who are alleged illegally to have infringe dtheir rights in industrial, literary or artistic property between the date of the outbreak of the war and the coming into force of this treaty.

2. A period from the outbreak of the war until a date eighteen months after the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded in considering the time within which a patent should be worked or a design or trade mark used.

3. The period from the outbreak of the war until the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded from the normal term or rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were in force in Rumania at the outbreak of the war or which are recognized or established under this Annex and belonging to any of the Allied or Associated Powers, or their nationals. Consequently, the normal duration of such rights shall be deemed automatically extended in Rumania for a further term corresponding to the period so excluded.

4. The foregoing provisions concerning the rights of the Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals shall apply equally to Rumania and its nationals [but nothing in these provisions shall operate so as to give to Rumania or any of its nationals greater rights than are accorded in like cases by any of the Allied or Associated Powers to any other of the United Nations.]

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers it unnecessary to include the passage in brackets.

The U. S. delegation would not agree to this Annex unless Paragraph 4 were included in its entirety.

5. Third parties in the territories of any of the Allied and Associated Powers or Rumania who before the coming into force of the present Treaty have bona-fide acquired industrial property rights conflicting with rights restored under this Article or with rights obtained with priority claimed thereunder, or have bona-fide manufactured, used or sold the subject-matter, or such rights, shall be permitted without any liability for infringement, to continue to exercise such rights and to continue or to resume such manufacture, use or sale which has been bona-fide acquired or commenced. In Rumania, such permission shall take the form of a non-exclusive license granted on terms and conditions to be mutually agreed by the parties thereto or in default of agreement to be fixed by the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXXI of the Traety. In the territories of the Allied and Associated Powers, however, bona fide third parties shall receive such protection as is accorded under similar circumstances to bona fide third parties whose rights are in conflict with those of the nationals of other Allied and Associated Powers.

6. Nothing in this Annex shall be construed to entitle Rumania or its nationals to any patent or utility model rights in the territory of any of the Allied and Associated Powers with respect to inventions relating to any article listed by name in the definition of war material contained in Annex 3 of the present Treaty made or upon which application were filed by Rumania or in the territory of any other of the Axis Powers or in any territory occupied by the Axis forces, during the time when the place in question was under the control of enemy forces or authorities.

7. [Rumania shall extend the benefits of this Article to any United Nation other than an Allied or Associated Power which undertakes to extend to Rumania the benefits accorded to Rumania under this Article.]

The U.S.S.R. delegation does not see the reason for inclusion of Paragraph 7 in the present Treaty.

8. Nothing in this Annex shall be understood to conflict with Articles XXIV, XXVI and XXVIII.

B. INSURANCE

U. K. PROPOSAL

[1. United Nations' insurers shall be granted full facilities by the Rumanian Government to recover their former portfolios of business in Rumania and they shall not be required to conform to any legislative enactmetns more onerous than those which were applicable to them before the outbreak of war.

1. In so far as the guarantee deposits and reserves of United Nations insurers have been reduced by reason of the payment of insurance claims arising out of the war they shall be entitled to compensation from the Rumanian Government by way of the reinstatemeit of such deposits or reserves to the amount of the claims.

3. The Rumanian Government undertakes that if any United Nations' insurer desires to resume business in Rumania and it is found that the value of any guarantee deposit or reserves required to be held as a condition of carrying on business in Rumania have been diminished by reason of disappearance or depreciation of the securities in which they are constituted, Rumania shall either

(a) itself reconstitute the deposits or reserves except in so far as the diminution or disappearance was caused by payment of losses already compensated for under Paragraph 2 above; or

(b) accept the securities at the value at the outbreak of war for the purpose of compliance with the legal requirements relating to such deposits and reserves.]

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers that this subject is also covered by Article XXIV on United Nations property in Rumania and sees no reason to include any special provisions relating to insurance.

The U. S. delegation is not opposed in principle to treaty provisions on special problems relating to insurance but is unable to accept the draft as a whole.

C. SHIPPING

U. K. PROPOSAL

[I. The expression "property" includes all vessels of the United Nations, with full inventory, equipment and cargoes which were in the waters of Rumania or Rumanian territorial waters of the Danube on June 22, 1941.

Vessels falling into the following categories are regarded as belonging to a United Nation or United Nations national:

(1) If on June 22, 1941 (at the time they fell under Rumanian control), they were registered in the territory of a United Nation.

(2) If on June 22, 1941 (at the time they fell under Rumanian control) they had the rightto fly the flag of a United Nation whether or not formally registered in the territory of that Nation.

(3) If, after June 22, 1941, they were built in Rumania by, or for, or acquired by, any national of a United Nation, and registered in its territory (if liable to registration).

2. The Rumanian Government is responsible for handing over in Rumanian territorial waters the vessels of the United Nations in complete good order as they existed on June 22, 1941, within a period of one month from the coming into force of this Treaty, and to pay their compensation for the loss of use and loss of profits from June 22, 1941, up to the date of the handing over of the vessels. In the event of the Rumanian Government failing to hand over within the time limit laid down the Rumanian Government shall pay further compensation in the currency of the United Nation concerned for such further loss of use and profits up to the date of handing over of the vessels.

3. The Rumanian Government undertakes to restore the vessels in good navigable condition including the carrying out of repairs show nto be necessary by an expert survey." Up to the time of handing over all damages or defects found in the vessels are the sole responsibility of the Rumanian Government.

The Rumanian Government accepts that the return of such vessels is without prejudice to any rights or remedies provided in any other articles of this Treaty relating to the payment of compensation in respect of any acts or omissions of the Rumanian Government or its nationals.

4. Where United Nations' vessels have been lost these are to be valued at replacement cost and vessels of a similar category, delivered to the same value; if the Rumanian Government should be unable to deliver from existing vessels, the required vessels are to be constructed either in Rumanian shipyards or elsewhere, the responsibility for payment resting with the Rumanian Government.

The U. S. and French Delegations consider it desirable that the Peace Conference include in the Treaty a definition of the ships to which the Article on United Nations Property will apply but believe the other provisions proposed on this subject are unnecessary.

The U.S.S.R. Delegation considers that this subject is also covered by Article 24 on United Nations Property in Rumania and sees no reason to include any special provisions relating to shipping.

D. PETROLEUM

U. K. PROPOSAL

1. The complete restoration and replacement of damaged or destroyed property belonging to United Nations nationals engaged in the petroleum industry in Rumania shall receive priority over the restoration or replacement of other property in the petroleum industry of Rumania, and failing the complete restoration or replacement of damaged or destroyed property of United Nations nationals within a period of one year from the date of the coming into force of this Treaty, the Rumanian Government undertakes to pay to such United Nations nationals convertible currency equivalent to the assessed value of the property which the Rumanian Government failed to restore or replace.

*Repairs to be done in Rumania or if outside Rumania the cost to be to the charge of the Rumanian Government who must provide the necessary foreign exchange.

2. The Rumanian Government accepts to compensate United Nations nationals engaged in the petroleum industry in Rumania for all reasonable expenses incurred in preparation for and in execution of provisional repairs and replacements to the damaged property of United Nations' nationals, during the war and since the signing of the Armistice and until such time as complete restoration or replacement of damaged or destroyed property has been effected.

3. The Rumanian Government undertakes to repeal the Petroleum Law of July, 1942, and to re-enact the Mining Law of 1937 pending the coming into force of a new petroleum law.

4. The United Nations' nationals engaged in the petroleum industry of Rumania reserve the right to demand the revocation of any acts, deeds or titles deriving from the

JUL 31 1946

30. 24-4475

Petroleum Law of 1942 which they consider prejudicial to their interests and the Rumanian Government will implement such revocations free of cost and free of encumbrances to the United Nations' nationals.

5. The Rumanian Government shall compensate Rumanian nationals who may suffer damage through the implementation of the revocations mentioned in paragraph 4.

6. All "rights acquired" by United Nations' nationals under each and every mining law and petroleum law in Rumania shall be maintained at the request of the United Nations' nationals concerned.

7. All expenses incurred by United Nations nationals engaged in the petroleum industry of Rumania such as bank charges and interest on loans raised to facilitate on behalf of the Rumanian Government deliveries of petroleum products to the Axis Powers during the war shall be borne by the Rumanian Government.

8. In order to facilitate the rehabilitation and maintenance of the property of United Nations nationals, engaged in the petroleum industry of Rumania, the Rumanian Government undertaks to make the necessary alterations in the labor law to allow all employes selected by such United Nations nationals to enter Rumania and to exercise their respective professions in the petroleum industry of Rumania without hindrance.

The U. S. delegation considers that the problems sought to be dealth with in the draft Annex on Petroleum would, in general, be covered by the general provisions agreed on United Nations property, if those provisions made adequate provision for compensation.

The U. S. S. R. delegation considers that this subject is also covered by Article XXIV on United Nations property in Rumania and sees no reason to include any special provisions relating to petroleum.

Annex 5. Contracts, Prescriptions and Negotiable Instruments

U. K. PROPOSAL

I. CONTRACTS

(1. Any contracts concluded between enemies shall be deemed to have been dissolved as from the time when any of the parties became an enemy, except in respect of any debt accrued or money paid or other pecuniary obligation arising out of any act done thereunder, and subject to the exceptions set out in the following paragraph. The provisions of this paragraph shall be without prejudice to contracts of insurance and reinsurance, which shall be subject to a separate agreement.

(Alternatively a special annex can be included).

2. The following classes of contracts nothwithstanding the provisions of Paragraph 1 are excepted from dissolution and without prejudice to the rights contained in Article 26, remain in force subject to the application of municipal laws, orders or regulations made since the outbreak of war by any member of the United Nations and subject to the proper law and terms of the contracts;

(a) Contracts for the transfer of estates or of movable or immovable property where the property therein has passed or delivery been made before the parties became enemies;

(b) Leases or agreements for leases of land, houses or parts thereof;

(c) Contracts of mortgages or lien;

(d) Concessions of mines, quarries or deposits;

(e) Contracts between individuals or associations and states, municipalities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative functions and concessions granted by states, municipalities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative functions;

(f) Any contract of which the execution shall be required in the general interest within six months from the date of the coming into force of the present treaty by a government of one of the United Nations of which one of the parties to such a contract is a national; when the execution of the contract thus kept alive would, owing to the alteration of particular conditions, cause one of the parties substantial prejudice, the Conciliation Commission established under article 31 shall be empowered to award fair compensation to the prejudiced parties.

3. If a contract is dissolved in part under paragraph 1, the remaining provisions of that contract shall, subject to the same application of municipal laws as is provided for in paragraph 2, continue in force if they are severable, but where they are not severable the contract shall be deemed to have been dissolved in its entirety.

4. Nothing in the present annex shall be deemed to invalidate the transactions lawfully carried out in accordance with a contract between one enemy if it has been carried out with the authority of the Government of one of the United Nations.

5. For the purpose of Parts I, II and III of the present Annex, the parties to a contract shall be regarded as enemies when trading between them shall have been prohibited by or otherwise become unlawful under laws, orders or regulations to which one of these parties or the contract was subject. They shall be deemed to have become enemies from the date when such trading was prohibited or otherwise become unlawful.

II. PERIODS OF PRESCRIPTION

(1. All periods of prescription, or limitation of right of action, whether they began to run before or after the outbreak of war, shall be treated in the territory of the High contracting Parties, as far as regards relations between enemies, as having been suspended for the duration of the war. They shall begin to run again at earliest three months after the coming into force of the present Treaty. This provision shall apply to the period prescribed for the presentation of interest of or dividend coupons or for the presentation for repayment on securities drawn for repayment or repayable on any other ground.

2. Where, on account of failure to perform any act or comply with any formality during the war, measures of execution have been taken in Rumanian territory to the prejudice of a national of one of the United Nations, the claim of such national shall, if the matter does not fall within the competence of the Courts of one of the United Nations be heard by the Conciliation Commission established under article 31.

3. Upon the application of any interested person who is a national of one of the United Nations, the Conciliation Commission shall order the restoration of the rights which have been prejudiced by the measures of execution referred to in paragraph 2 wherever such restoration is equitable and possible. If such restoration is inequitable or impossible, the Conciliation Commission may award compensation to the prejudiced party to be paid by the Rumanian Government.

4. Where a contract between enemies has been dissolved by reason either of failure on the part of either party to carry out its provisions or of the exercise of a right stipulated in the contract itself the party prejudiced may apply to the Conciliation Commission for relief. The Commission will have the powers tprovided for in paragraph 3.

5. The provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this Article shall apply to the United Nations nationals who have been prejudiced by reason of measures referred above taken by Rumania or invaded or occupied territory, if they have not been otherwise satisfactorily compensated.

6. Rumania shall compensate any third party who may be prejudiced by any restitution or restoration ordered by the Conciliation Commission under the provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this part.

7. As regards negotiable instruments, the period of three months provided under paragraph 1 shall commence as from the date on which any exceptional regulations applied in the territories of the interested Power with regard to negotiable instruments shall have definitely ceased to have force.)

III. NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS

1. As between enemies no negotiable instrument made before the war shall be deemed to have become invalid by reason only of failure within the required time to present the instrument for acceptance or payment or to give notice of non-acceptance or non-payment to drawers or endorsers or to protest the instrument, nor by reason of failure to complete any formality during the war.

2. Where the period within which a negotiable instrument should have been presented for acceptance or for payment, or within which notice of non-acceptance or non-payment should have been given to the drawer or endorser, or within which the instrument should have been protested, has elapsed during the war, and the party who should have presented or protested the instrument or have given notice of non-acceptance or non-payment, has failed to do so during the war, a period of not less than three months from the coming into force of the present Treaty shall be allowed within which presentation, notice of non-aceptance or non-payment or protest may be made.

3. If a person has either before or during the war become liable upon a negotiable instrument in accordance with an undertaking given to him by a person who has subsequently become an enemy, the latter shall remain liable to indemnify the former in respect of his liability notwithstanding the outbreak of war.

IV. MISCELLANEOUS

1. Stock Exchange and Commercial Exchange Contracts.

(a) Rules made during the war by any recognized Exchange or Commercial Association providing for the closure of contracts entered into before the war by an enemy are confirmed by the High Contracting Parties, as also any action taken thereunder, provided:

(1.) That the contract was expressed to be made subject to the rules of the Exchange or Association in question;

(2.) That the rules applied to all persons concerned;

(3.) That the conditions attaching to the closure were fair and reasonable.

(b) The preceding paragraph shall not apply to rules made during the occupation by Exchanges or Commercial Associations in the districts occupied by the enemy.

2. Security.

The sale of a security held for an unpaid debt owing by an enemy shall be deemed to have been valid irrespective of notice to the owner if the creditor acted in good faith and with reasonable care and prudence, and no claim by the debtor on the ground of such sale shall be admitted.

This stipulation shall not apply to any sale of securities effected by an enemy during the occupation in regions invaded or occupied by the enemy.

*In view of the constitutional position of the Federal Government, the U. S. delegation would be unable to accept any obligations on the matters covered by this Annex. The United States would not object to the inclusion of provisions on these subjects in the treaty but would wish to have a clause included making them inapplicable as between the United State and Rumania.

The U.S.S.R. delegation sees no reason for inclusion in the peace treaty of the matters covered by this Annex.

The French delegation supports the U. K. proposal with regard to Prescriptions and negotiable instruments.

Annex 6. Prize Court and Judgments

A. PRIZE COURTS

Each of the Allied and Associated Powers reserves the right to examine, according to a precedure to be established by it, all decisions and orders of the Rumanian Prize Courts involving ownership rights of its nationals, and to recommend to the Rumanian Government that revision shall be undertaken by these decisions or orders which may not be in conformity with international law.

Rumania undertakes to supply copies of all documents comprising the records of these cases, including the decisions taken and orders issued, and to accept all recommendations made, subsequent to the examination of the said cases, and to give effect to such recommendations.

B. JUDGMENTS

U.S. proposal supported by U.S.S.R.:

(The Rumanian Government shall take the necessary measures to enable nationals of any of the United Nations at any time within one year after the coming into force of this treaty to submit to the appropriate Rumanian authorities for review any judgment given by a Rumanian Court between June 22, 1941, and the coming into force of this treaty in any proceeding in which the United Nations national was unable to make adequate presentation of his case as plaintiff or defendant. The Rumanian Government shall provide that, where the United Nations national has suffered injury by reason of any such judgment, he shall be restored in the position in which he was before the judgment was given or shall be afforded such relief as may be just and equitable in the circumstances. The term "United Nations nationals" includes corporations or associations organized or constituted under the laws of any of the United Nations.)

French proposal:

(The Rumanian Government undertakes to adopt appropriate measures in order that nationals of any of the United Nations may obtain during a period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty, revision of the judgments rendered by the Rumanian Courts and Tribunals between June 22, 1941, and the date of coming into force of the present Treaty, either in absence of such nationals, or on account of their inability as a result of circumstances to have defended their cause satisfactorily.)

The Rumanian Government shall indemnify nationals of the United Nations for the prejudice caused through the initial judgment and shall award compensation, if revision of such judgment did not conclude by re-establishing them de facto in the situation where they were when the procedure was instituted.

Should dispute arise either as regards the ability of nationals of any of the United Nations to have defended their cause satisfactorily, or the adequacy of the compensation to be awarded by the Rumanian Government, the said dispute shall be submitted to the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXXI of the present Treaty.)

U. K. PROPOSAL

1. Judgments given by the courts of a member of the United Nations in all cases which, under the present Treaty, they are competent to decide, shall be recognized in Rumania as final and shall be enforced without it being necessary to have them declared executory.

2. If a judgment in respect of any dispute which may have arisen has been given during the war by a Rumanian Court against a United Nations national in a case in which he was not able adequately to present his case whether as plaintiff or defendant, the United Nations national who has suffered prejudice thereby shall be entitled to recover compensation, to be fixed by the Conciliation Commission under [illegible] laid down in Article [illegible] or settlement of disputes.

3. At the instance of the United Nations national and where it is possible the Conciliation Commission may in lieu of compensation by order replace the parties in the situation which they occupied before the judgment was given by the Rumanian Court.

4. Such compensation or replacement may likewise be obtained before the Conciliation Commission by United Nations nationals who have suffered prejudice by judicial measures taken in invaded or occupied territories if they have not been otherwise compensated.

Text of Draft Treaty on Bulgaria

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30 — The text of the draft treaty with Bulgaria as agreed upon by the Council of Foreign Ministers Deputies and with Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania, follows:

Agreed and Unagreed Articles

PREAMBLE

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom, the United States of America, Australia, the Byelo-russian Soviet Socialist Republic, Czechoslovakia, Greece, India, New Zealand, the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, the Union of South Africa and Yugoslavia as the States which are at war with Bulgaria and actively waged war against the European enemy states with substantial military force hereinafter called the Allied and Associated Powers of the one part and Bulgaria of the other part;

Whereas Bulgaria, having become an ally of Hitlerite Germany and participating on her side in the war against the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United States of America and other United Nations, bears her share of responsibility for this war;

Whereas, however, Bulgaria having ceased military operations against the United Nations, broke off relations with Germany, and having concluded on Oct. 28, 1944, an armistice with the Governments of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom and the United States of America, acting on behalf of all the United Nations at war with Bulgaria, took an active part in the war against Germany; and

Whereas, the Allied and Associated Powers and Bulgaria are respectively desirous of concluding a treaty of peace which will form the basis of friendly relations between them and settle questions still outstanding between them as a result of the events hereinbefore recited; thereby enabling the Allied and Associated Powers to support Bulgaria's application to become a member of the United Nations and also to adhere to any convention concluded under the auspices of the United Nations; have therefore agreed to declare the cessation of the state of war and for this purpose to conclude the present peace treaty, and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries * * * who, after presentation of their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed on the following provisions:

PART I. FRONTIERS OF BULGARIA

ARTICLE I

The frontiers of Bulgaria, as shown on the map annexed to the present treaty (Annex I) shall be those which existed on Jan. 1, 1941. (This text should be considered as tentative in respect of the Greek-Bulgarian frontier, until the Governments of Greece and Bulgaria have had an opportunity to present to the Peace Conference or to the Council of Foreign Ministers their respective views on this subject.)

PART II. POLITICAL CLAUSES

Section I

ARTICLE II

Bulgaria shall take all measures necessary to secure to all persons under Bulgarian jurisdiction, without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion, the enjoyment of human rights and of the fundamental freedoms including freedom of expression, of press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting.

ARTICLE III

Bulgaria, which in accordance with the Armistice Agreement has taken measures to set free, irrespective of citizenship and nationality, all persons held in confinement on account of their activities in favor of, or because of their sympathies with, the United Nations or because of their racial origin, and to repeal discriminatory legislation and restrictions imposed thereunder, undertakes to complete these measures and in the future not to take any measures or enact any laws which would be incompatible with the objects and purposes mentioned in this article.

ARTICLE V

Bulgaria, which in accordance with the Armistice Agreement has taken measures for dissolving all organizations of a fascist type on Bulgarian territory, whether political, military or para-military as well as other organizations conducting propaganda hostile to the United Nations, undertakes not to permit in the future the existence and activities of organizations of that nature which have as their aim denial to the people of their democratic rights.

ARTICLE V

1. Bulgaria shall take the necessary steps to ensure the apprehension and surrender for trial of:

(A) Persons accused of having committed, ordered, or abetted war crimes against peace or humanity;

(B) Nationals of the Allied and Associated Powers accused of having violated their national law by treason or collaboration with the enemy during the war.

2. At the request of the United Nations Government concerned, Bulgaria will likewise make available as witnesses persons within its jurisdiction, whose evidence is required for the trial of the persons referred to in Paragraph 1.

3. Any disagreement concerning the application of the provision of Paragraph 1 and 2 shall be referred by any of the Governments concerned to the Heads of the Diplomatic Missions in Sofia of the U.S.S.R., U. K., and U. S. A. who will reach agreement with regard to the difficulty.

Secti

ARTICLE VI

Bulgaria undertakes to recognize the full force of the Peace Treaties concluded with Italy, Hungary, Rumania and Finland, and the agreements or arrangements which have been or will be reached by the Allied and Associated Powers in relation to Austria, Germany and Japan for the restoration of peace

PART III. MILITARY CLAUSES

JUL 31 1946

Section I

ARTICLE VII

1. Bulgaria undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the League of Nations and the Permanent Court of International Justice.

2. Bulgaria also undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome.

ARTICLE VIII

1. Each Allied or Associated Power will notify Bulgaria, within a period of six months of the coming into force of the present treaty, which pre-war bilateral treaties it desires to keep in force or revive. Any provisions not in conformity with the present treaty shall however be deleted from the above-mentioned treaties.

2. All treaties so notified will be registered with the Secretariat of the United Nations in accordance with Article 102 of the United Nations Charter.

3. All treaties not so notified are to be regarded as abrogated.

ARTICLE IX

The maintenance of land, sea and air armaments and fortifications will be closely restricted to meeting tasks of an internal character and local defense of frontiers.

In accordance with the foregoing, Bulgaria is authorized to have armed forces consisting of not more than:

(A) A land army, including frontier troops, with a total strength of 55,000 personnel.

(B) Anti-aircraft artillery with a strength of 1,800 personnel.

(C) A navy with a personnel strength of 3,500 and a total tonnage of 7,250.

(D) An air force, including any naval air arm, of ninety aircraft, including reserves, of which not more than seventy may be combat types of aircraft, with a total personnel strength of 5,200. Bulgaria shall not possess or acquire aircraft designed primarily as bombers with internal bomb-carrying facilities.

These strengths will in each case include combat, service and overhead personnel.

ARTICLE X

The Bulgarian Army, Air Force and Navy in excess of the above strength shall be disbanded within six months from the coming into force of the present treaty.

ARTICLE XI

Personnel not included in the Bulgarian Army, Air Force and Navy, respectively, will not receive any form of military training, military air training or naval training as defined in Annex 2.

ARTICLE XII

Bulgaria shall not possess, construct or experiment with any self-propelled or guided missiles or apparatus connected with their discharge, sea-mines or non-contact type actuated by influence mechanism, torpedoes capable of being manned, submarines or other submersible craft or specialized types of assault craft.

ARTICLE XIII

Bulgaria shall not retain, produce or otherwise acquire or maintain facilities for the manufacture of war material in excess of that required for the maintenance of the armed forces permitted under Article IX.

ARTICLE XIV

1. Excess war material of Allied origin shall be placed at the disposal of the Allied or Associated Power concerned according to the instructions given by that power. Excess Bulgarian war material will be placed at the disposal of the Governments of the U.S.S.R., U.K. and U.S.A. Bulgaria will renounce all rights to this material.

2. War material of German origin or design in excess of that required for the armed forces permitted under the treaty will be placed at the disposal of the Governments of the U.S.S.R., U.K. and U.S.A. Bulgaria will not acquire or manufacture any war material of German origin or design, or employ or train any technicians, including military and civil aviation personnel, who are or have been nationals of Germany.

3. Excess war material mentioned in Paragraphs 1 and 2 shall be handed over or destroyed within one year of the coming into force of the present treaty.

4. A definition and list of war material for the purposes of the present treaty are set out in Annex 3.

ARTIVLE XV

Bulgaria undertakes to co-operate fully with the United Nations in order to ensure that Germany may not be able to take any action outside German territory in the direction of rearmament.

ARTICLE XVI

Bulgaria undertakes not to acquire or manufacture civil aircraft which are of German or Japanese design or which embody major assemblies of German or Japanese manufacture or design.

ARTICLE XVII

Each of the military, naval and air clauses of the present treaty will remain in force until modified in whole or in part by agreement between the Allied and Associated Powers and Bulgaria or, after Bulgaria becomes a member of the United Nations, by agreement between the Security Council and Bulgaria.

Section II

ARTICLE XVIII

1. Bulgarian prisoners of war shall be repatriated as soon as possible in accordance with arrangements to be agreed upon with Bulgaria by the individual powers detaining them.

2. All costs including maintenance costs incurred in moving Bulgarian prisoners of war from their respective assembly points as chosen by the government of the Allied or Associated Power concerned to the point of entry into Bulgarian territory shall be borne by the Bulgarian Government.

3. War Graves

[NOTE.—The U. S. Delegation wishes to reserve its position with respect to an article covering war graves until the Peace Conference. The U.S.S.R. Delegation considers such an article unnecessary.]

PART IV. WITHDRAWAL OF ALLIED FORCES

ARTICLE XIX

All armed forces of the Allied and Associated Powers shall be withdrawn from Bulgaria as soon as possible and in any case not later than ninety days from the coming into force of the present treaty.

All unused Bulgarian currency and all unused Bulgarian goods in the possession of the Allied forces in Bulgaria, received in accordance with Article 15 of the Armistice Agreement of Oct. 28, 1944, concluded between the Governments of the U.S.S.R., U.K., U. S. A. and the Bulgarian Government, will be returned to the latter within the same period of ninety days.

Bulgaria, however, undertakes to provide, during the period between the coming into force of the present treaty and the final withdrawal of Allied forces, all such supplies and facilities as may be specifically required for the forces of the Allied and Associated Powers which are being withdrawn, and due compensation shall be paid to the Bulgarian Government for such supplies and facilities.

PART V. REPARATION AND RESTITUTION

ARTICLE XX

Losses caused to Yugoslavia and Greece by military operations and by the occupation by Bulgaria of the territory of those states will be indemnified by Bulgaria to Yugoslavia and Greece, but, taking into consideration that Bulgaria has not only withdrawn from the war against the United Nations, but has declared and in fact waged war against Germany, the parties agree that compensation for the above losses will be made by Bulgaria not in full but only in part, namely to the amount of ——— United States dollars payable over ——— years.

[NOTE: The Council of Foreign Ministers decided to postpone consideration of this Article until the question could be discussed with the Governments of Yugoslavia and Greece.]

ARTICLE XXI

1. Bulgaria accepts the principles of the United Nations Declaration of Jan. 5, 1943, and will return property removed from United Nations' territories.

2. The obligation to make restitution applies to all identifiable property at present in Bulgaria which was removed by force or duress by any of the Axis Powers from the territory of any of the United Nations, irrespective of any subsequent transactions by which the present holder of any such property has secured possession.

3. The Bulgarian Government undertakes to return the property referred to in the present Article in good order and, in this connection, to bear all costs in Bulgaria relating to labor, materials and transport.

4. The Bulgarian Government will cooperate with the United Nations in, and will provide at its own expense all necessary facilities for the search for and restitution of property liable to restitution under the present Article.

5. The Bulgarian Government shall take the necessary measures to effect the return of property covered by this Article held in any third country by persons subject to Bulgarian jurisdiction.

6. Claims for the restitution of property shall be presented to the Bulgarian Government by the government of the country from whose territory the property was removed, it being understood that rolling stock shall be regarded as having been removed from the territory to which it originally belonged. The period during which such claims may be presented shall be six months from the date of coming into force of the present treaty.

7. The burden of identifying the property and of proving ownership shall rest on the claimant government and the burden of proving that the property was not removed by force or duress shall rest on the Bulgarian Government.

PIRT VI. ECONOMIC CLAUSES

ARTICLE XXII

UNITED NATIONS PROPERTY

1. Insofar as Bulgaria has not already done so, Bulgaria shall restore all the legal rights and interests in Bulgaria of the United Nations and their Nationals as they existed on April 24, 1941, and shall return all property in Bulgaria of the United Nations and their Nationals as it now exists.

2. The Bulgarian Government undertakes that all property, rights and interests passing under this article shall be restored free of all encumbrances and charges of any kind to which they may have become subject as a result of the war and without the imposition of any charges by the Bulgarian Government in connection with its return. The Bulgarian Government will nullify all measures, including seizures, sequestration or control, taken by it against United Nations' property between April 24, 1941 and the coming into force of this treaty. In cases where the property has not been returned within six months of the coming into force of the treaty, application shall be made to the Bulgarian authorities not later than 12 months from the coming into force of the treaty, except in cases in which the claimant is able to show that he could not file his application within this period.

3. The Bulgarian Government undertakes to invalidate transfers involving property, rights and interests of any description belonging to United Nations Nationals, where such transfers resulted from force or duress exerted by Axis Governments or their agencies during the war.

4. U. S. PROPOSAL

(A) Where, as a result of the war, the property cannot be returned or the United Nations National has suffered a loss because of injury to the property, the Bulgarian Government shall compensate the owner by the payment of a sum in leva sufficient at the date of payment to enable the recipient to purchase similar property or to make good the loss or damage suffered.

(B) Sums in levas paid by the Bulgarian Government under this Article shall be freely usable in Bulgaria but shall be subject to the foreign exchange control regulations which may be in force in Bulgaria from time to time. The Bulgarian Government agrees to accord to United Nations Nationals fair and equitable treatment with respect to the allocation of materials, and of foreign exchange required for the importation of materials, for the repair or rehabilitation of their properties in Bulgaria, and in no event to discriminate in these respects against Nationals of the United Nations as compared with Bulgarian Nationals.

(C) In cases where a corporation or association of any nationality other than that of one of the United Nations has suffered a loss of its property in Bulgaria as a result of the war, compensation in leva shall be made by the Bulgarian Government to United Nations nationals who have directly, or indirectly through intermediate corporations or, associations of any nationality other than that of one of the United Nations, an ownership interest in the corporation or association which has suffered the loss. This compensation shall be that fractional part of the amount which would be required to enable the corporation or association to make good the loss or damage suffered which the interest of the United Nations nationals constitutes of the totality of ownership interests in the corporation. Such compensation, however, shall not be required in case the Bulgarian Government shall provide to the corporation or the association itself such full compensation of restoration as would be due under this article if it were a corporation or association of one of the United Nations. In cases where the corporation or association receives from the Bulgarian Government partial compensation for the damage or loss sustained, the United Nations nationals shall be paid by the Bulgarian Government compensation in leva in an amount equal to their respective proportionate shares of the loss or damage for which the corporation or association does not itself receive consideration from the Bulgarian Government. For purposes of this paragraph, the extent of interest of a United Nations national shall be determined as of April 24, 1941, or the outbreak of war between the United Nation concerned and Bulgaria, as may be the more favorable to the United Nations national.

(D) As used in this Article the phrase "as a result of the war" includes the consequences of any action taken by the Bulgarian Government, any action taken by any of the belligerents, any action taken under the armistice of October 28, 1944, and any action or failure to act caused by the existence of a state of war.

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[Bulgaria recognizes the need for compensation for any property of the United Nations or their nationals in Bulgaria which were lost or damaged during the war. However, in view of the fact that Bulgaria not only withdrew from the war against the United Nations but declared war on and actually waged war against Germany, and taking into consideration the losses sustained by Bulgaria in the course of military operations against Germany, it is agreed that this compensation shall be only paid in part, e.g., up to one-third of the value and that it shall be paid in Bulgarian leva.

The U. K. and French delegations approve the U.S. proposal subject to reservations as to the drafting.

5. All reasonable expenses incurred in Bulgaria in establishing claims, including the assessment of loss or damage, shall be borne by the Bulgarian Government.

6. United Nations nationals and their property shall be exempted from any exceptional taxes, levies or imposts, imposed on their capital assets in Bulgaria by the Bulgarian Government, or any Bulgarian authority between the date of the armistice and the coming into force of the treaty for the specific purpose of meeting charges arising out of the war or of meeting the costs of occupying forces or reparations payable to any of the United Nations. Any sums which have been so paid shall be refunded.

7. The owner of the property concerned and the Bulagrian Government may agree upon arrangements in lieu of the provisions of this Article.

8. As used in this Article:

(A) "United Nations nationals" means individuals who are nationals of any of the United Nations or corporations or associations organized under the laws of any of the United Nations at the date of the coming into force of this treaty, provided that they also had this status at the date of the armistice with Bulgaria.

The term "United Nations nationals" also includes all individuals, corporations or associations which under the laws in force in Bulgaria during the war, have been treated as enemy.

(B) "Owner" means the United Nations national, as defined in sub-Paragraph (A) above, who is entitled to the property in question, and includes a successor of the owner, provided that the successor is also a United Nations national as defined in sub-Paragraph (A). If the successor has purchased the property in its damaged state, the transferer shall retain his right to compensation under this article, without prejudice to obligations between the transferer and the purchaser under domestic law.

(C) "Property" means all movable or immovable property, whether tangible or intangible, including industrial, literary and artistic property, as well as all rights, estates or interests in property of any kind.

ARTICLE XXIII

Bulgaria recognizes that the Soviet Union is entitled to all German assets in Bulgaria transferred to the Soviet Union by the Control Council for Germany and undertakes to take all necessary measures for facilitating such transfers.

ARTICLE XXIV

BULGARIAN ASSETS IN UNITED NATIONS TERRITORY

U. S., U. K. AND FRENCH PROPOSAL

[1. Each of the Allied and Associated Powers shall have the right to seize, retain, liquidate or take any other action with respect to all property, rights and interests within its territory which on the date of the coming into force of this treaty belong to Bulgaria or to Bulgarian nationals, and to apply such property or the proceeds thereof to such purposes as it may desire, within the limits of its claims and those of its nationals against Bulgaria or its nationals, including debts, other than claims fully satisfied under other Articles of the present Treaty. All Bulgarian property, or the proceeds thereof, in excess of the amount of such claims, shall be returned.

2. The liquidation and disposition of Bulgarian property shall be carried out in accordance with the law of the Allied or Associated Power concerned. The Bulgarian owner shall have no rights with respect to such property except those which may be given him by that law.

3. The Bulgarian Government undertakes to compensate Bulgarian nationals whose property is taken under this Article and not returned to them.

4. No obligation is created by this Article on any Allied or Associated Power to return industrial, literary or artistic property to the Bulgarian Government or Bulgarian nationals, or to include such property in determining the amounts which may be retained under Paragraph 1 of this Article. The Government of each of the Allied and Associated Powers shall have the right to impose such limitations, conditions and restrictions on rights or interests with respect to industrial, literary and artistic property acquired prior to the coming into force of this treaty in the territory of the Allied or Associated Power by the Government or nationals of Bulgaria, as may be deemed by the Government of the Allied or Associated Power to be necessary in the national interest.

5. The property covered by Paragraph 1 of this Article shall be deemed to include Bulgarian property which has been subject to control by reason of a state of war existing between Bulgaria and the Allied or Associated Power having jurisdiction over the property, but shall not include:

(A) Property of the Bulgarian Government used for consular or diplomatic purposes.

(B) Property belonging to religious bodies or private charitable institutions and used for religious or charitable purposes.

(C) Property of natural persons who are Bulgarian nationals permitted to reside within the territory of the country in which the property is located or to reside elsewhere in United Nations territory, other than Bulgarian property which at any time during the war was subjected to measures not generally applicable to the property of Bulgarian nationals resident in the same territory.

(D) Property rights arising since the resumption of trade and financial relations between Bulgaria and the Allied and Associated Powers or rising out of transactions between Bulgaria and the governments of any Allied or Associated Powers since October 28, 1944.)

U. S. S. R. PROPOSAL

[The rights of the Bulgarian Government and of Bulgarian physical and juridical persons with regard to Bulgarian property and other Bulgarian assets on the territory of Allied and Associated Powers, insofar as such rights were limited in consequence of the participation of Bulgaria in the war on the side of Germany, shall be restored after the coming into force of the present treaty.]

ARTICLE XXV

BULGARIAN PROPERTY IN GERMANY

U. S. S.R. PROPOSAL

[1. Any restrictions imposed in respect of any Bulgarian property in Germany, and in other countries which participated in the war on Germany's side shall be removed after the coming into force of the present treaty. The rights of any Bulgarian owners with regard to the disposal of any such property shall also be restored.

2. Bulgaria shall be entitled to the restitution of any identifiable property removed by force or under duress from Bulgaria after Sept. 6, 1944, and now located in Germany.

The restitution of any Bulgarian property now located in Germany shall be carried out under the direction of the military authorities of the powers in occupation of Germany.]

U. K., U. S. AND FRENCH PROPOSAL

[Bulgaria hereby renounces on its own behalf and on behalf of Bulgarian nationals all claims, including debts, against Germany and German nationals outstanding on May 8, 1945, except those arising out of contracts and other obligations entered into, and rights acquired, before Sept. 1, 1939. This renunciation shall be deemed to include not only all inter-governmental claims in respect of arrangements entered into in the course of the war, but also all claims for loss or damage arising during the war. This renunciation shall be without prejudice to any dispositions in favor of Bulgaria or Bulgarian nationals made by the powers in occupation of Germany.]

ARTICLE XXVI

1. The contracting parties agree that the existence of the state of war shall not, in itself, be regarded as affecting the obligation to pay pecuniary debts arising out of obligations and contracts which existed, and rights acquired, before the existence of a state of war, which became payable prior to the coming into force of this treaty, and which are due by the government or nationals of Bulgaria to the government or nationals of one of the Allied and Associated Powers or are due by the government or nationals of one of the Allied and Associated Powers to the government or nationals of Bulgaria.

2. Except as otherwise expressly provided in the present Treaty, nothing therein shall be construed as impairing debtor-creditor relationships arising out of pre-war contracts, concluded either by the government or nationals of Bulgaria.

ARTICLE XXVII

1. Bulgaria waives all claims of any description against the Allied and Associated Powers on behalf of the Bulgarian Government or Bulgarian nationals arising directly out of the war or out of actions taken because of the existence of a state of war in Europe after Sept. 1, 1939, whether or not the Allied or Associated Power was at war with Bulgaria at the time, including the following:

(A) Claims for losses or damages sustained as a consequence of acts of forces or authorities of the Allied or Associated Powers.

(B) Claims arising from the presence, operations or actions of forces or authorities of the Allied or Associated Powers in Bulgarian territory.

(C) Claims with respect to the decrees and orders of prize courts of the Allied or Associated Powers, Bulgaria agreeing to accept as valid and binding all decrees and orders of such prize courts on or after Sept. 1, 1939, concerning Bulgarian ships or Bulgarian goods or the payment of costs.

(D) Claims arising out of the exercise or purported exercise of belligerent rights.

2. The provisions of this Article will bar, completely and finally, all claims of the nature referred to herein, which will be henceforward extinguished, whoever may be the parties in interest. The Bulgarian Government agrees to make equitable compensation in leva to persons who furnished supplies or services on requisition to the forces of the Allied and Associated Powers in Bulgarian territory and in satisfaction of non-combat damage claims against the forces of the Allied and Associated Powers arising in Bulgarian territory.

3. Bulgaria likewise waives all claims of the nature covered by Paragraph 1 of this Article on behalf of the Bulgarian Government or Bulgarian nationals against any of the United Nations which severed diplomatic relations with Bulgaria and took action in cooperation with the Allied and Associated Powers.

4. The waiver of claims by Bulgaria under this Article includes any claims arising out of actions taken by any of the Allied and Associated Powers with respect to Bulgarian ships between Sept. 1, 1939, and the date of the coming into force of this Treaty, as well as any claims and debts arising out of conventions on prisoners of war now in force.

ARTICLE XXVIII

GENERAL ECONOMIC RELATIONS

1. Pending the conclusion of commercial treaties or agreements between Bulgaria and the United Nations, the Bulgarian Government shall, during the eighteen months following the coming into force of the present Treaty, grant the following treatment to each of the United Nations which, in fact, reciprocally grants similar treatment in like matters to Bulgaria:

(A) In all that concerns duties and charges on importation or exportation, the internal taxation of imported goods and all regulations pertaining thereto, the United Nations shall be granted unconditional most-favored-nation treatment.

(B) In all other respects, Bulgaria shall make no arbitrary discrimination against goods originating in or destined for any territory of any of the United Nations as compared with like goods originating in or destined for any other territory of the United Nations or of any other foreign country.

(C) Natural and legal persons who are nationals of any of the United Nations shall be granted national and most-favored-nation treatment in all matters pertaining to commerce, industry, shipping and other forms of business activity within Bulgaria.

The U.S.S.R. delegation proposes the following text as an integral part of the paragraph: [. . . excluding certain branches where, in accordance with the internal legislation of the country, private enterprise does not take place].

The U. K., U. S. and French delegations propose the following alternative to the U.S.S.R. proposal: [This Paragraph shall not be deemed to confer on the United Nations, or their nationals, rights to engage in any branch of commerce, industry, shipping or other form of business activity which under Bulgarian law is a monopoly of the Bulgarian State. Nevertheless, the most-favored-nation principle shall be observed in any such cases in which foreign participation is allowed].

Proposed further addition to this paragraph by the U. S. delegation supported by U. K.: [It is further understood that this paragraph shall not apply to civil aviation, but that Bulgaria will grant no exclusive or discriminatory right to any country with regard to the operation of civil aircraft in international traffic and will afford all the United Nations equality of opportunity in obtaining international commercial aviation rights in Bulgarian territory.]

The U. S. S. R. delegation sees no reason for inclusion of this addition in the treaty.

2. U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[The foregoing undertakings by Bulgaria shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in commercial treaties concluded by Bulgaria before the war or which relate to relations with neighboring countries applied to them: and provisions with respect to reciprocity granted by each of the United Nations shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in the commercial treaties concluded by that power.]

FRENCH, U. K. AND U. S. PROPOSAL

The foregoing undertakings by Bulgaria shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in commercial treaties concluded by Bulgaria before the war, and the provisions with respect to reciprocity granted by each of the United Nations shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in the commercial treaties concluded by that power.]

ARTICLE XXIX

SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES

U. K. PROPOSAL

[Any disputes which may arise in connection with Articles XXI and XXII (and Annexes 4, 5 and 6) of the present treaty shall be referred to a conciliation commission composed of an equal number of representatives of the United Nations Government concerned and of the Bulgarian Government. If agreement has not been reached within three months of the dispute having been referred to the conciliation commission, either Government may require the addition of a third member to the commission, and failing agreement between the two governments on the selection of this member, the President of the International Court of Justice shall be requested to make the appointment. The decisions of the commission, as so constituted, shall be taken by the same procedure as is provided for decisions of the International Court and shall be final and binding on all parties.]

U. S. S.R. PROPOSAL

[Any disputes which may arise in giving effect to Articles XXI and XXII of the present treaty shall be referred to a conciliation commission consisting of an equal number of representatives of the Government of the United Nation concerned and the Government of Bulgaria, appointed on an equal footing. If within three months after the dispute has been referred to the conciliation commission no agreement has been reached, either Government may ask for the addition to the commission of a third member selected by mutual agreement of the two Governments from nationals of third countries. Should the two Governments fail to agree on the selection of a third member of the Commission, the Governments shall apply to the three Heads of diplomatic missions in Sofia of the U.S.S.R, U.S. and U.K., who will appoint the third member of the Commission.]

The U. S. delegation can accept either the U.K. Proposal or the U.S.S.R. Proposal provided the following sentence is added at the end of the latter: [If the three heads of missions are unable to agree within a period of one month upon the appointment of the third member the Secretary General of the United Nations shall be requested by either party to make the appointment.]

The French delegation has the same position as the U. S. delegation provided Annexes 4, 5 and 6 are covered by the Article.

ARTICLE XXX

Articles XXI, XXII and Annex 6 of the present treaty shall apply to the Allied and Associated Powers and France and to those of the United Nations which have broken off diplomatic relations with Bulgaria.

ARTICLE XXXI

The provisions of Annexes 4, 5 and 6 shall, as in the case of other Annexes, have force and effect as integral parts of the present treaty.

PART VII. CLAUSES RELATING TO DANUBE

ARTICLE XXXII

U. K. AND U. S. PROPOSAL:

(1. Navigation on the Danube River, its navigable tributaries and connecting canals shall be free and open on terms of entire equality to the nationals, vessels of commerce and goods of all states.

2. Sanitary, police and other laws and regulations applicable to the Danube River system shall be administered by Bulgaria in a non-discriminatory manner and shall not unreasonably impede commercial navigation.

3. No obstacles or impediments to navigation shall be placed in the main channels of the Danube River system or along the shores thereof. Bulgaria undertakes to remove any existing obstacle or impediment in the main channels lying within its jurisdiction or to permit such removals by any international authority which may be established for the Danube River system.

4. No tolls, dues or other charges shall be levied by Bulgaria except for the purpose of defraying the cost of development and maintenance of the waterway in a commercially navigable condition; and no tolls, dues or other charges shall be levied with respect to navigation of any naturally navigable portion of the waterway. All tolls, dues and other charges shall be levied in such a manner as not to discriminate against nationals, vessels or commerce or goods of any state. The schedule of these charges shall be open for public inspection and shall be publicly displayed in appropriate places.

5. in the establishment, administration and operation of any interim or permanent international regime for the Danube River system, Bulgaria shall enjoy a status equal to that of the other member states.

6. Any disputes between the parties to this treaty with respect to the application or interpretation of these articles relating to the regime and conditions of navigation on the Danube River system, which cannot be resolved by negotiation, be submitted to a chamber of three or more judges formed by the International Court of Justice under Article 26 of its Statute.)

[U. K. delegation propose to add: A Conference of all interested states, including Bulgaria, will be convened within a period of six months of the coming into force of the present treaty to establish the new permanent international regime for the Danube.]

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[The question of the Danube cannot be solved by the peace treaties with Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary, since it has to be settled with the participation of the Danubian states which include Allied states such as Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. The delegation of the U. S. S. R., therefore, proposes not to have the provisions relating to the Danube included in the peace treaties with Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary.]

PART VIII. FINAL CLAUSES

ARTICLE XXXIII

For a period not to exceed eighteen months from the coming into force of the present treaty, the heads of the diplomatic missions in Sofia of the U. S. S. R., the U. K. and U. S., acting in concert, will represent the Allied and Associated Powers in dealing with the Bulgarian Government in all matters concerning the execution and interpretation of the present treaty.

The three heads of mission will give the Bulgarian Government such guidance, technical advice and clarification as may be necessary to ensure rapid and efficient compliance with the spirit and terms of the present treaty.

The Bulgarian Government undertakes to afford the said three heads of mission all necessary information and any assistance they may require in the fulfillment of the tasks devolving on them under the present treaty.

ARTICLE XXXIV

INTERPRETATION

U. K. AND U. S. PROPOSAL

[Except where any other procedure is specifically provided under any Article of the present treaty, disputes concerning the interpretation or execution of the treaty shall be referred to the three heads of mission acting as provided under Article XXXIII and, if not resolved by them within a period of two months, shall, at the request of any party to any dispute, be referred to the International Court of Justice. Any dispute still pending at, or arising after, the date when the heads of mission terminate their functions under Article XXXIII and which is not settled by direct diplomatic negotiations, shall equally, at the request of any party to the dispute, be referred to the International Court of Justice.]

U. S. S.R. PROPOSAL

[Save where any other procedure is specifically provided under any Article of the present treaty, disputes concerning the interpretation or execution of the treaty shall be settled by direct diplomatic negotiations and, in case the disputes are not settled in this way, they shall be referred to the three heads of diplomatic missions, acting as provided under Article XXXIII, except that in this case the heads of mission will not be restricted by the time-limit provided in that article.

ARTICLE XXXV

Any other member of the United Nations not a signatory to the present treaty which is at war with Bulgaria, may accede to the treaty and upon accession will be deemed to be an Associated Power for the purposes of the treaty.

Instruments of accession will be deposited with the Government of U. S. S. R. and shall take effect upon deposit.

ARTICLE XXXVI

The present treaty of which the Russian and English texts are authentic, shall be ratified by the Allied and Associated Powers. It shall also be ratified by Bulgaria.

It will come into force immediately upon deposit of ratifications by the U. S. S. R., U. K. and U. S. A. The instruments of ratification will, in the shortest time possible, be deposited with the Government of the U. S. S. R.

With respect to each Allied and associated power whose instrument of ratification is thereafter deposited, the treaty shall come into force upon the date of deposit.

The present treaty will be deposited in the archives of the Government of the U. S. S. R., which shall furnish certified copies to each of the signatory states.

Annex 1—(See Article I) Map of the Bulgarian Frontiers

Annex 2—(See Article 11)

DEFINITION OF MILITARY, AIR AND NAVAL TRAINING

Military training is defined as: the study of and practice in the use of war material specially designed or adapted for army purposes, and training devices relative thereto; the study and carrying out of all drill or movements which teach or practice evolutions performed by fighting forces in battle; and the organized study of tactic, strategy and staff work.

Military air training is defined as: the study of and practice in the use of war material specially designed or adapted for air force purposes, and training devices relative thereto; the study and practice of all specialized evolutions, including formation flying, performed by aircraft in the accomplishment of an air force mission, and the organized study of air tactics, strategy and staff work.

Naval training is defined as: the study of administration or practice in the use of warships or naval establishments as well as the study or employment of all apparatus and training devices relative thereto, which are used in the prosecution of naval warfare except for those which are also normally used for civilian purposes; also the teaching, practice or organized study of naval tactics, strategy and staff work including the execution of all operations and maneuvers not required in the peaceful employment of ships.

Annex 3—(See Article XIV)

DEFINITION AND LIST OF WAR MATERIAL

Definition of war material—The term "war material" as used in this Treaty shall include all arms, ammunition and implements specially designed or adapted for use in war as listed below.

The Allied and Associated Powers reserve the right to amend by modification or addition, the list, periodically, in the light of subsequent scientific development.

CATEGORY I

CATEGORY VII

Propellants, explosives, pyrotechnics, liquefied gases destined for the propulsion, explosion, charging, filling of, or use in connection with the war material in the present categories, not capable of civilian use or manufactured in excess of civilian requirements.

CATEGORY VIII

Factory and tool equipment specially designed for the production and maintenance of the products enumerated above and not technically reconvertible to civilian use.

Annex 4. Special Provisions to Certain Kinds of Property

(A) Industrial, literary and artistic property.

1. (a) A period of one year from the coming into force of the present Treaty shall be accorded to the Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals without extension fees or other penalty of any sort in order to enable such persons to accomplish all necessary acts for the obtaining or preserving in Bulgaria of rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were not capable of accomplishment owing to the existence of a state of war.

(b) Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals who had duly applied in any Allied or Associated Power for a patent or registration of a utility model not earlier than twelve months before the outbreak of the war with Bulgaria or during the war, or for the registration of an industrial design or model or trade mark not earlier than six months before the outbreak of the war with Bulgaria or during the war, shall be entitled within twelve months after the coming into force of this Treaty to apply for corresponding rights in Bulgaria with a right of priority based upon the previous filing of the application in that Allied and Associated Power.

1945

JUL 31 1946 30. 24 - 4479

(c) Each of the Allied and Associated Powers or its nationals shall be accorded a period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty during which they may institute proceedings against those persons who are alleged illegally to have infringed their rights in industrial, literary or artistic property between the date of the outbreak of the war and the coming into force of this treaty.

2. A period from the outbreak of the war until a date eighteen months after the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded in considering the time within which a patent should be worked or a design or trade mark used.

3. The period from the outbreak of the war until the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded from the normal term of rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were in force in Bulgaria at the outbreak of the war or which are recognized or established under this Annex and belonging to any of the Allied and Associated Powers, or their nationals. Consequently, the normal duration of such rights shall be deemed automatically extended in Bulgaria for a further term corresponding to the period so excluded.

4. The foregoing provisions concerning the rights of the Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals shall apply equally to Bulgaria and its nationals [but nothing in these provisions shall operate so as to give to Bulgaria or any of its nationals greater rights than are accorded in like cases by any of the Allied or Associated Powers to any other of the United Nations.]

The U. S. S. R. Delegation considers it unnecessary to include the passage in brackets.

The U. S. Delegation would not agree to this Annex unless paragraph 4 were included in its entirety.

5. Third parties in the territories of any of the Allied and Associated Powers, or Bulgaria who before the coming into force of the present Treaty have bona fide acquired industrial property rights conflicting with rights restored under this Annex or with rights obtained with priority claimed thereunder, or have bona fide manufactured, used or sold the subject-matter of such rights, shall be permitted, without any liability for infringement, to continue to exercise such rights and to continue or to resume such manufacture, use or sale which had been bona fide acquired or commenced. In Bulgaria, such permission shall take the form of a non-exclusive license granted on terms and conditions to be mutually agreed by the parties thereto or in default of agreement to be fixed by the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXIX of the treaty. In the territories of the Allied and Asociated Powers, however, bona fide third parties shall receive such protection as is accorded under similar circumstances to bona fide third parties whose rights are in conflict with those of the nationals of other Allied and Associated Powers.

6. Nothing in this Annex shall be construed to entitle Bulgaria or its nationals to any patent or utility model right in the territory of any of the Allied and Associated Powers with respect to inventions relating to any article listed by name in the definition of war material contained in Annex 3 of the present treaty made or upon which application were filed by Bulgaria or any of its nationals in Bulgaria or in the territory of any other of the Axis powers or in any territory occupied by the Axis forces, during the time when the place in question was under the control of enemy forces or authorities.

7. Bulgaria shall extend the benefits of this Annex to any United Nation other than an Allied or Associated Power which undertakes to extend to Bulgaria the benefits accorded to Bulgaria under this Annex.

The U. S. S. R. Delegation does not see the reason for inclusion of paragraph 7 in this Annex of the treaty.

8. Nothing in this Annex shall be understood to conflict with Articles XXII, XXIV and XXVI of the present treaty.

B) INSURANCE

U. K. PROPOSAL

1. United Nations insurers shall be granted full facilities by the Bulgarian Government to recover their former portfolios of business in Bulgaria and they shall not be required to conform to any legislative enactments more onerous than those which were applicable to them before the outbreak of war.

2. In so far as the guarantee deposits and reserves of United Nations insurers have been reduced by reason of the payment of insurance claims arising out of the war they shall be entitled to compensation from the Bulgarian Government by way of the reinstatement of such deposits or reserves to the amount of the claims.

3. The Bulgarian Government undertakes that if any United Nations' insurer desires to resume business in Bulgaria and it is found that the value of any guarantee deposit or reserves required to be held as a condition of carrying on business in Bulgaria have been diminished by reasons of disappearance or depreciation of the securities in which they were constituted, Bulgaria shall either

(a) itself reconstitute the deposits or reserves except in so far as the diminution or disappearance was caused by payment of losses already compensated for under Paragraph 2 above; or

(b) accept the securities at the value at the outbreak of war for the purpose of compliance with the legal requirements relating to such deposits and reserves.

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers that this subject is also covered by Article XXII on United Nations property in Bulgaria and see no reason to include any special provisions relating to insurance.

The U. S. Delegation is not opposed in principal to treaty provisions on special problems relating to insurance but is unable to accept the draft as a whole.

Annex 5. Contracts, Prescriptions and Negotiable Instruments

1. CONTRACTS

1. Any contract concluded between enemies shall be deemed to have been dissolved as from the time when any of the parties became an enemy except in respect of any debt accrued or money paid or other pecuniary obligation arising out of any action done thereunder, and subject to the exceptions set out in the following paragraph. The provisions of this paragraph shall be without prejudice to contracts of insurance and reinsurance, which shall be subject to a separate agreement. (Alternatively a special annex can be included.)

2. The following classes of contracts notwithstanding the provisions of Paragraph 1 are excepted from dissolution and without prejudice to the rights contained in Article XXIV, remain in force subject to the application of municipal laws, orders or regulations made since the outbreak of war by any member of the United Nations and subject to the proper law and terms of the contracts.

(a) Contracts for the transfer of estates or of movable or immovable property where the property therein has passed or delivery been made before the parties became enemies;

(b) Leases or agreements for leases of land, houses or parts thereof;

(c) Contracts of mortgages or lien;

(d) Concessions of mines, quarries or deposits;

(e) Contracts between individuals or association and states, municipalities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative functions, and concessions granted by states, municipalities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative functions.

(f) Any contract of which the execution shall be required in the general interest within six months from the date of the coming into force of the present treaty by a government of one of the United Nations of which one of the parties to such a contract is a national; when the execution of the contract thus kept alive would owing to the alteration of particular conditions, cause one of the parties substantial prejudice, the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXIX shall be empowered to award fair compensation to the prejudiced parties.

3. If a contract is dissolved in part under Paragraph 1, the remaining provisions of that contract shall, subject to the same application of municipal laws as is provided for in Paragraph 2, continue in force, if they are severable, but where they are not severable the contract shall be deemed to have been dissolved in its entirety.

4. Nothing in the present Annex shall be deemed to invalidate the transactions lawfully carried out in accordance with a contract between enemies if it has been carried out with the authority of the Government of one of the United Nations.

5. For the purposes of Parts I, II and III of the present Annex the parties to a contract shall be regarded as enemies when trading between them shall have been prohibited by or otherwise become unlawful under laws, orders or regulations to which one of these parties or the contract was subject. They shall be deemed to have become enemies from the date when such trading was prohibited or otherwise become unlawful.

2. PERIODS OF PRESCRIPTION

1. All periods of prescription, or limitation of right of action, whether they began to run before or after the outbreak of war, shall be treated in the territory of the high contracting parties, as far as regards relations between enemies, as having been suspended for the duration of the war. They shall begin to run again at earliest three months after the coming into force of the present Treaty. This provision shall apply to the period prescribed for the presentation of interest or dividend couons or for the presentation for repayment of securities drawn for repayment or repayable on any other ground.

2. Where, on account of failure to perform any act or comply with any formality during the war, measures of execution have been taken in Bulgarian territory to the prejudice of a national of one of the United Nations, the claim of such national shall, if the matter does not fall within the competence of the Courts of one of the United Nations, be heard by the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXIX.

3. Upon the application of any interested person who is a national of one of the United Nations the Conciliation Commission shall order the restoration of the rights which have been prejudiced by the measures of execution referred to in Paragraph 2 wherever such restoration is equitable and possible. If such restoration is inequitable or impossible the Conciliation Commission may award compensation to the prejudiced party to be paid by the Bulgarian Government.

4. Where a contract between enemies has been dissolved by reason either of failure on the part of either party to carry out its provisions or of the exercise of a right stipulated in the contract itself the party prejudiced may apply to the Conciliation Commission for relief. The Commission will have the powers provided for in Paragraph 3.

5. The provisions of the preceding paragraph of this Article shall apply to United Nations nationals who have been prejudiced by reason of measures referred to above taken by Bulgaria or invaded or occupied territory, if they have not been otherwise satisfactorily compensated.

6. Bulgaria shall compensate any third party who may be prejudiced by any restitution or restoration ordered by the Conciliation Commission under the provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this Part.

7. As regards negotiable instruments, the period of three months provided under Paragraph 1 shall commence as from the date on which any exceptional regulations applied in the territories of the interested Power with regard to negotiable instruments shall have definitely ceased to have force.

3. NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS

1. As between enemies no negotiable instrument made before the war shall be deemed to have become invalid by reason only of failure within the required time to present the instrument for acceptance or payment or to give notice of non-acceptance or non-payment to drawers or endorsers or to protest the instrument, nor by reason of failure to complete any formality during the war.

2. Where the period within which a negotiable instrument should have been presented for acceptance or for payment, or within which notice of non-acceptance or non-payment should have been given to the drawer or endorser or within which the instrument should have been protested, has elapsed during the war, and the party who should have presented or protested the instrument or have given notice of non-acceptance or non-payment has failed to do so during the war, a period of not less than three months from the coming into force of the present Treaty shall be allowed within which presentation, notice of non-acceptance or non-payment or protest may be made.

3. If a person has either before or during the war become liable upon a negotiable instrument in accordance with an undertaking given to him by a person who has subsequently become an enemy, the latter shall remain liable to indemnify the former in respect of his liability notwithstanding the outbreak of war.)

4. MISCELLANEOUS

1. Stock Exchange and Commercial Exchange Contracts.

(a) Rules made during the war by any recognized Exchange or Commercial Association providing for the closure of contracts entered into before the war by an enemy are confirmed by the High Contracting Parties, as also any action taken thereunder, provided:

(I) That the contract was expressed to be made subject to the rules of the Exchange or Association in question;

(II) That the rules applied to all persons concerned;

(III) That the conditions attaching to the closure were fair and reasonable.

(b) The preceding paragraph shall not apply to rules made during the occupation by Exchanges or Commercial Associations in the districts occupied by the enemy.

2. Security.

The sale of a security held for an unpaid debt owing by an enemy shall be deemed to have been valid irrespective of notice to the owner if the creditor acted in good faith and with reasonable care and prudence, and no claim by the debtor on the ground of such sale shall be admitted.

This stipulation shall not apply to any sale of securities effected by an enemy during the occupation in regions invaded or occupied by the enemy.)

In view of the constitutional position of the Federal Government, the U. S. delegation would be unable to accept any obligations on the matters covered by this Annex. The United States would not object to the inclusion of provisions on these subjects in the Treaty but would wish to have a clause included making them inapplicable as between the United States and Bulgaria.

The U.S.S.R. delegation sees no reason for inclusion in the peace treaty of the matters covered by this Annex.

The French delegation sees no reason for inclusion in the peace treaty of the matters covered by this Annex.

The French delegation supports the U. K. proposal with regard to prescriptions and negotiable instruments.

Annex 6. Judgments

U. S. PROPOSAL SUPPORTED BY U.S.S.R.

The Bulgarian Government shall take the necessary measures to enable nationals of any of the United Nations at any time within one year after the coming into force of this Treaty to submit to the appropriate Bulgarian authorities for review any judgment given by a Bulgarian Court between April 24, 1941, and the coming into force of this treaty in any proceeding in which the United Nations national was unable to make adequate presentation of his case as plaintiff or defendent. The Bulgarian Government shall provide that, where the United Nations national has suffered injury by reason of any such judgment, he shall be restored in the position in which he was before the judgment was given or shall be afforded such relief as may be just and equitable in the circumstances. The term "United Nations nationals" includes corporations or associations organized or constituted under the laws of any of the United Nations.

FRENCH PROPOSAL:

The Bulgarian Government undertake to adopt appropriate measures in order that nationals of any of the United Nations may obtain during a period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty, revision of the judgments rendered by the Bulgarian courts and tribunals between April 24, 1941 and the date of coming into force of the present treaty, either in absence of such nationals, or on account of their inability as a result of circumstances to have defended their cause satisfactorily.

The Bulgarian Government shall indemnify nationals of the United Nations for the prejudice caused through the initial judgment and shall award compensation, if revision of such judgment did not conclude by re-establishing the de facto in the situation where they were when the procedure was instituted.

Should dispute arise either as regards the ability of nationals of any of the United Nations to have defended their cause satisfactorily, or the adequacy of the compensation to be awarded by the Bulgarian Government, the said dispute shall be submitted to the Conciliation tion Commission established under Article XXIX of the present treaty.

U. K. PROPOSAL:

1. Judgments given by the Courts of a member of the United Nations in all cases which, under the present treaty, they are competent to decide, shall be recognized in Bulgaria as final, and shall be enforced without it being necessary to have them declared executory.

2. If a judgment in respect of any dispute which may have arisen has been given during the war by a Bulgarian Court against a United Nations national in a case in which he was not able adequately to present his case whether as plaintiff or defendant, the United Nations national who has suffered prejudice thereby shall be entitled to recover compensation, to be fixed by the Conciliation Commission under the procedure laid down in Article XXIX for settlement of disputes.

3. At the instance of the United Nations national and where it is possible the Conciliation Commission may in lieu of compensation by order replace the parties in the situatio which they occupied before the judgment was given by the Bulgarian Court.

4. Such compensation or replacement may likewise be obtained before the Conciliation Commission by United Nations nationals who have suffered prejudice by judicial measures taken in invaded or occupied territories if they have not been otherwise compensated.

Text of Draft Treaty on Finland

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, July 30—The text of the draft treaty with Finland:

Council of Foreign Ministers' Draft Peace Treaty With Finland

PREAMBLE

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom, Australia, the Byelo-Russian Soviet Socialist Republic, Canada, Czechoslovakia, India, New Zealand, the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, the Union of South Africa, as the States which are at war with Finland and actively at war against the European enemy States with substantial military force, hereinafter called Allied and Associated Powers, of the one part, and Finland, of the other part:

Whereas Finland, having become an ally of Hitlerite Germany and participating on her side in the war against the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom and other United Nations, bears her share of responsibility for this war;

Whereas, however, Finland on Sept. 4, 1944, ended war against the United Nations, broke off relations with Germany and her satellites, and, having concluded on September 19, 1944, an armistice with the Governments of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United Kingdom, acting on behalf of the United Nations at war with Finland, loyally carried out the armistice terms; and

Whereas the Allied and Associated Powers and Finland are respectively desirous of concluding a treaty of peace which will form the basis of friendly relations between them and settle questions still outstanding as a result of the events hereinbefore recited; thereby enabling the Allied and Associated Powers to support Finland's application to become a member of the United Nations and also to adhere to any convention concluded under the auspices of the United Nations;

Have therefore agreed to declare the cessation of the state of war and for this purpose to conclude the present peace treaty and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries * * *, who, after presentation of their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed on the following provisions:

JUL 31 1946

PART I. TERRITORIAL CLAUSES

ARTICLE I

The frontiers of Finland, as shown on the map annexed to this treaty (Annex 1), shall be those existing on Jan. 1, 1941, except as provided in the following article:

ARTICLE II

In accordance with the armistice agreement of Sept. 19, 1944, Finland confirms the return to the Soviet Union of the province of Petsamo (Pechenga), voluntarily ceded to Finland by the Soviet State under the peace treaties of Oct. 14, 1920, and March 12, 1940. The frontiers of the province of Petsamo (Pechenga) are shown on the map annexed to this treaty (Annex 1).

PART II. POLITICAL CLAUSES

Section I

ARTICLE I

In accordance with the armistice agreement, the effect of the peace treaty between the Soviet Union and Finland concluded in Moscow on March 12, 1940, is restored subject to the replacement of Articles IV, V and VI of that treaty by Articles II and IV of the present treaty.

ARTICLE IV

1. In accordance with the armistice agreement the Soviet Union confirms the renunciation of its right to the lease of the peninsula of Hango, accorded to it by the Soviet-Finnish peace treaty of March 12, 1940, and Finland for her part confirms having granted it to the Soviet Union on the basis of a fifty-year lease at an annual rent payable by the Soviet Union of 5,000,000 Finnish marks, the use and administration of territory and waters for the establishment of a Soviet naval base in the area of Porkkala-Udd as shown on the map annexed to this treaty (Annex 1).

2. Finland confirms having secured to the Soviet Union in accordance with the armistice agreement, the use of the railways, waterways, roads and air routes necessary for the transport of personnel and freight dispatched from the Soviet Union to the naval base at Porkkala-Udd, and also confirms having granted to the Soviet Union the right of unimpeded use of all forms of communication between the U.S.S.R. and the territory leased in the area of Porkkala-Udd.

ARTICLE V

The Aaland Islands shall remain demilitarized in accordance with the situation as at present existing.

ARTICLE VI

Finland shall take all measures necessary to secure to all persons under Finnish jurisdiction without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion, the enjoyment of human rights and of the fundamental freedoms including freedom of expression, of press and publication, of religious worship, of political opinion and of public meeting.

ARTICLE VII

Finland, which in accordance with the armistice agreement has taken measures to set free, irrespective of citizenship and nationality all persons held in confinement on account of their activities in favor of the United Nations, or because of their sympathies with the United Nations or because of their racial origin, and to repeal discriminatory legislation and (restrictions?) imposed thereunder, undertakes to complete those measures and in future not to take any measures or enact any laws which would be incompatible with the objects and purposes mentioned in this article.

ARTICLE VIII

Finland, which in accordance with the armistice agreement has taken measures for dissolving all organizations of a Fascist type on Finnish territory whether political, military or para-military, as well as other organizations conducting propaganda hostile to the Soviet Union or to any of the other United Nations, undertakes not to permit in future the existence and activities of organizations of that nature, which have as their aim denial to the people of their democratic rights.

ARTICLE IX

1. Finland shall take the necessary steps to ensure the apprehension and surrender for trial of

A) Persons accused of having committeed, ordered or abetted war crimes and crimes against peace or humanity;

B) Nationals of the Allied and Associated Powers accused of having violated their national law by treeason or collaboration with the enemy during the war.

2. At the request of the United Nations government concerned Finland will likewise make available as witnesses persons within Finnish jurisdiction whose evidence is required for the conviction of the persons referred to in Paragraph 1.

3. Any disagreements concerning the application of the provisions of paragraphs 1 and 2 shall be referred by any of the governments concerned to the Ministers in Helsinki of the U.S.S.R. and (the U.K.?) who will reach agreement with regard to the difficulty.

Section III

ARTICLE X

Finland undertakes to recognize the full force of the peace treaties concluded with Italy, Roumania, Bulgaria and Hungary and of the agreements or arrangements which have been or will be reached by the Allied and associated powers in relation to Austria, Germany and Japan for the restoration of peace.

ARTICLE XI

1. Finland undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the League of Nations and the Permanent Court of International Justice.

2. Finland undertakes to accept any arrangements which have been or may be agreed for the liquidation of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome.

ARTICLE XII

1. Each Allied and associated power will notify Finland within a period of six months of the coming into force of the present treaty, which pre-war bilateral treaties it desires to keep in force or revive. Any provisions not in conformity with the present treaty shall, however, be deleted from the above-mentioned treaties.

2. All treaties so notified will be registered with the Secretariat of the United Nations in accordance with Article 102 of the United Nations Charter.

3. All treaties not so notified are to be regarded as abrogated.

PART III. MILITARY, AIR AND NAVAL CLAUSES

ARTICLE XIII

1. The maintenance of land, sea and air armaments and fortifications shall be closely restricted to those required for meeting tasks of an internal character and local defense of frontier. In accordance with this principle, Finland is authorized to have armed forces consisting of not more than

(A) A land army, including frontier troops and anti-aircraft artillery, with a total strength of 34,400 personnel.

(B) A Navy with a personnel strength of 4,500 and a total tonnage of 10,000 tons.

(C) An Air Force, including any naval air arm, of sixty aircraft, including reserves with a total personnel strength of 3,000. Finland shall not possess or acquire aircraft designed primarily as bombers with internal bomb-carrying facilities.

2. These strengths will in each case include combat, service and overhead personnel.

ARTICLE XIV

The Finnish Army, Air Force and Navy in excess of the strength specified in Article XIII above shall be disbanded within six months from the date of the coming into force of the present treaty.

ARTICLE XV

Personnel not included in the Finnish Army, Air Force and Navy respectively shall not receive any form of military training; military, air training or naval training as defined in Annex 2.

ARTICLE XVI

Finland shall not possess, construct or experiment with any self-propelled or guided missiles or apparatus connected with their discharge, sea mines of non-contact types actuated by influence mechanisms, torpedoes capable of being manner, submarines or other submersible craft or specialized types of assault craft.

ARTICLE XVII

Finland shall not retain, produce, otherwise acquire, or maintain facilities for the manufacture of war material in excess of that required for the maintenance of the armed forces permitted under Article XIII above.

ARTICLE XVIII

1. Excess war material of Allied origin shall be placed at the disposal of the Allied power concerned, according to the instructions given by that Allied power. Excess Finnish war material shall be placed at the disposal of the Governments of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United Kingdom. Finland will renounce all rights to this material.

2. War material of German origin or design in excess of that required for the armed forces permitted under this treaty will be placed at the disposal of the Governments of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United Kingdom.

3. Finland will not acquire or manufacture any war material of German origin or design, or employ or train any technicians including military and civil aviation personnel who are or have been nationals of Germany.

4. Excess war material mentioned in paragraphs 1 and 2 will be handed over or destroyed within one year from the date of the coming into force of this treaty.

5. A definition and list of war material for the purpose of the present treaty are set out in Annex 3.

ARTICLE XIX

Finland undertakes to cooperate fully with the United Nations in order to ensure that Germany may not be able to take any action outside German territory tending towards or facilitating her rearmament.

ARTICLE XX

Finland undertakes not to acquire or manufacture civil aircraft which are of German or Japanese design or which embody major assemblies of German or Japanese manufacture or design.

ARTICLE XXI

Each of the military, naval and air clauses of the present treaty will remain in force until modified in whole or in part by agreement between the Allied and associated powers and Finland, or, after Finland becomes a member of the United Nations, by agreement between the Security Council and Finland.

PART IV. REPARATION AND RESTITUTION

ARTICLE XXII

Losses caused by the Soviet Union by military operations and by the occupation by Finland of Soviet territory will be made good by Finland to the Soviet Union, but taking into consideration that Finland has not only withdrawn from the war against the United Nations but has declared war on Germany and assisted with her forces in driving German troops out of Finland, the parties agree that compensation for the above losses will be made by Finland not in full, but only in part, namely to the amount of 300,000,000 United States dollars payable over eight years as from Sept. 19, 1944, in commodities — timber products, paper, cellulose, sea-going and river craft, sundry machinery, etc.

The basis for calculation for the payment of indemnity wil be the United States dollar at its gold parity on the day of the signing of the armistice agreement, i.e., $35 for one ounce of gold.

ARTICLE XXIII

Finland, in so far as she has not yet done so, undertakes within the time limits indicated by the Government of the U. S. S. R. to return to the Soviet Union in complete good order all valuables and materials removed from its territory during the war, and belonging to state, public and cooperative organizations, enterprises, institutions or individual citizens, such as factory and works equipment, locomotives, rolling stock, tractors, motor vehicles, historic monuments, museum valuables and any other property.

Council of Foreign Ministers' Draft Peace Treaty With Finland (Agreed and Unagreed Articles Not Hereinbefore Included)

PART V. ECONOMIC CLAUSES

ARTICLE XXIV

1. In so far as Finland has not already done so, Finland shall restore all the legal rights and interests in Finland of the United Nations and their nationals as they existed on June 22, 1941, and shall return all property in Finland of the United Nations and their nationals as it now exists.

2. The Finnish Government undertakes that all property, rights and interests passing under this article shall be restored free of all encumbrances and charges of any kind to which they may have become ubject as a result of the war and without the imposition of any charges by the Finnish Government in connection with its return. The Finnish Government will nullify all measures, including seizures, sequestration or control, taken by it against United Nations' property between June 22, 1941 and the coming into force of this treaty. In cases where the property has not been returned within six months of the coming into force of the treaty, application shall be made to the Finnish authorities not later than twelve months fro mthe coming into force of the treaty, except in cases in which the claimant is able to show that he could not file his application within this period.

3. The Finnish Government undertakes to invalidate transfers involving property, rights and interests of any description belonging to United nationals, where such transfers resulted from force or duress exerted by Axis Governments or their agencies during the war.

U. K. PROPOSAL

4. [(a) Where, as a result of the war, the property cannot be returned or the United Nations national has suffered a loss because of injury to the property, the Finnish Government shall compensate the owner by the payment of a sum in Finnish marks sufficient at the date of payment to enable the recipient to purchase similar property or to make good the loss or damage suffered.

(b) Sums in Finnish marks paid by the Finnish Government under this article shall be freely usable in Finland, but shall be subject to the foreign exchange control regulations which may be in force in Finland from tim to time.

(c) In cases where a corporation or association of any nationality other than that of one of the United Nations has suffered a loss of its property in Finland as a result of the war, compensation in Finnish marks shall be made by the Finnish Government to United Nations nationals who have directly or indirectly through immediate corporations or associations of any nationality other than that of one of the United Nations, as ownership interest in the corporation or association which has suffered the loss. This compensation shall be that fractional part of the amount which would be required to enable the corporation or association to make good the loss or damage suffered which the interest of the United Nations nationals constitutes of the totality of ownership interests in the corporation. Such compensation, however, shall not be required in case the Finnish Government shall provide to the corporation or the association itself such full compensation of restoration as would be due under this Article if it were a corporation or association of one of the United Nations. In cases where the corporation or association receives from the Finnish Government partial compensation for the damage or loss sustained, the United Nations nationals shall be paid by the Finnish Government compensation in Finnish marks in an amount equal to their respective proportionate shares of the loss or damage for which the corporation or association does not itself receive compensation from the Finnish Government. For purposes of this paragraph, the extent of interest of a United Nations national shall be determined as of June 22, 1941, or the outbreak of war between the United Nation concerned and Finland, as may be the more favourable to the United Nations national.

(d) As used in this article, the phrase "as a result of the war" includes the consequences of any action taken by the Finnish Government, any action taken by any of the belligerents, any action taken under the armistice of Sept. 19, 1944, any action or failure to act caused by the existence of a state of war.]

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[Finland recognizes the necessity for compensation for the property of United Nations and their nationals in Finland, lost or damaged during the war. In view of the fact, however, that Finland not only withdrew from war against the United Nations, but declared war on Germany and concurred with her forces to throw the German troops out of Finland, it is agreed that such compensation will be made in part to the extent of one-third of the loss and will be paid in Finnish marks.]

5. All reasonable expenses incurred in Finland in establishing claims, including the assessment of loss or damage, shall be borne by the Finnish Government.

6. United Nations nationals and their property shall be exempted from any exceptional taxes, levies or imposts, imposed on their capital assets in Finland by the Finnish Government or any Finnish authority between the date of the armistice and the coming into force of the treaty for the specific purposes of meeting charges arising out of the war or of meeting the costs of occupying forces or of reparations payable to any of the United Nations. Any sums which have been so paid shall be refunded.

7. The owner of the property concerned and the Finnish Government may agree upon arrangements in lieu of the provisions of this article.

8. As used in this article:

(a) "United Nations nationals" means individuals who are nationals of any of the United Nations or corporations or associations organized under the laws of any of the United Nations at the date of the coming into force of this Treaty, provided that they also had this status at the date of the Armistice with Finland.

The term "United Nations nationals" also includes all individuals, corporations or associations which under the laws in force in Finland during the war, have been treated as one.

(b) "Owner" means the U N Nations national, as defined in sub-paragraph (a) above, who is entitled to the property in question, and includes a successor of the owner, provided that the successor is also a United Nations national as defined in sub-paragraph (a). If the successor has purchased the property in its damaged state, the transferer shall retain his rights to compensation under this article, without prejudice to obligations between the transferer and the purchaser under domestic law.

(c) "Property" means all movable or immovable property, whether tangible or intangible including industrial, literary and artistic property, as well as all rights, estates or interest in property of any kind.

ARTICLE XXV

Finland recognizes that the Soviet Union is entitled to all German assets in Finland transferred to the Soviet Union by the Control Council for Germany and undertakes to take all necessary measures for facilitating such transfers.

ARTICLE XXVI

1. In so far as any such rights were restricted on account of Finland's participation in the war on Germany's side, the rights of the Finnish Government and of any Finnish national or legal persons relating to Finnish property or other Finnish assets on Allied and Associated Powers' territory shall be restored after the coming into force of the present treaty.

2. Any restrictions imposed in respect of any Finnish property in Germany and in other countries which participated in the war on Germany's side shall be removed after the coming into force of the present treaty. The rights of any Finnish owners with regard to the disposal of any such property shall also be restored.

3. [Finland shall be entitled to the restitution of any identifiable property removed by force or duress from Finland after Sept. 19, 1944, and now located in Germany.]

The restitution of any Finnish property now located in Germany shall be carried out under the direction of the military authorities of the powers in occupation of Germany.]

The U. K. delegation propose deletion of Paragraph 3.

ARTICLE XXVII

1. Finland waives all claims of any description against the Allied and Associated Powers on behalf of the Finnish Government or Finnish nationals arising directly out of the war or out of actions taken because of the existence of a state of war in Europe after Sept. 1, 1939, whether or not the Allied or Associated Power was at war with Finland at the time, including the following:

(a) Claims for losses or damages sustained as a consequence of acts of forces or authorities of the Allied or Associated Powers.

(b) Claims arising from the presence, operations or actions of forces or authorities of the Allied or Associated Powers in Finnish territory.

(c) Claims with respect to the decrees and orders of prize courts of the Allied or Associated Powers, Finland agreeing to accept as valid and binding all decrees and orders of such prize courts on or after Sept. 1, 1939, concerning Finnish ships or Finnish goods or the payment of costs.

(d) Claims arising out of the exercise or purported exercise of belligerent rights.

2. The provisions of this article will bar, completely and finally, all claims of the nature referred to herein, which will be henceforth extinguished, whoever may be the parties in interest.

3. Finland likewise waives all claims of the nature covered by Paragraph 1 of this article on behalf of the Finnish Government or Finnish nationals against any of the United Nations which severed diplomatic relations with Finland and took action in cooperation with the Allied and Associated Powers.

4. The waiver of claims by Finland under this article includes any claims arising out of actions taken by any of the Allied and Associated Powers with respect to Finnish ships between Sept 1, 1939, and the date of the coming into force of the present treaty, as well as any claims and debts arising out of conventions on prisoners of war now in force.

ARTICLE XXVIII

1. Pending the conclusion of commercial treaties or agreements between Finland and the United Nations, the Finnish Government shall, during the eighteen months following the coming into force of the present treaty, grant the following treatment to each of the United Nations which, in fact, reciprocally grants similar treatment in like matters to Finland:—

(a) In all that concerns duties and charges on importation or exportation, the internal taxation of imported goods and all regulations pertaining thereto, the United Nations shall be granted unconditional most-favored-nation treatment.

(b) In all other respects, Finland shall make no arbitrary discrimination against goods originating in or destined for any territory of any of the United Nations as compared with like goods originating in or destined for any other territory of the United Nations or of any other foreign country.

(c) Natural and legal persons who are nationals of any of the United Nations shall be granted national and most-favored-nation treatment in all matters pertaining to commerce, industry, shipping and other forms of business activity within Finland . . .

The U.S.S.R. delegation proposes the following text as an integral part of the paragraph:

[. . . excluding certain branches where, in accordance with the internal legislation of the country, private enterprise does not take place.]

The U. K. delegation proposes the following alternative to the U.S.S.R. proposal:

[This paragraph shall not be deemed to confer on the United Nations or their nationals, rights to engage in any branch of commerce, industry, shipping or other form of business activity which under Finnish law is a monopoly of the Finnish State. Nevertheless, the most-favored-nation principle shall be observed in any such cases in which foreign participation is allowed.]

2. U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[The foregoing undertakings by Finland shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in commercial treaties concluded by Finland before the war or which relate to relations with neighboring countries applied to them; and the provisions with respect to reciprocity granted by each of the United Nations shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in the commercial treaties concluded by that power.]

U. K. PROPOSAL

[The foregoing undertakings by Finland shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in commercial treaties concluded by Finland before the war, and the provisions with respect to reciprocity granted by each of the United Nations shall be understood to be subject to the exceptions customarily included in the commercial treaties concluded by that power.]

ARTICLE XXIX

U. K. PROPOSAL

[Any disputes which may arise in connection with Articles XXIII and XXIV and Annexes 4, 5 and 6 of the present Treaty shall be referred to a Conciliation Commission composed of an equal number of representatives of the United Nations Government concerned and of the Finnish Government. If agreement has not been reached within three months of the dispute having been referred to the Conciliation Commission, either Government may require the addition of a third member to the commission, and failing agreement between the two Governments on the selection of this member, the President of the International Court of Justice shall be requested to make the appointment. The decisions of the commission, as so constituted, shall be taken by the same procedure as is provided for decisions of the International Court itself in Articles 48 and 55-57 of the Statute of the Court and shall be final and binding on all parties.]

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[Any disputes which may arise in giving effect to Article XXIV of the present Treaty shall be referred to a Conciliation Commission composed on the principle of parity of representatives of the Government of the United Nations concerned and of the Government of Finland. If within three months after the dispute has been referred to the Conciliation Commission no agreement has been reached, either Government may ask for the addition to the commission of a third member selected by mutual agreement of the two Governments from nationals of third countries. Should the two Governments fail to agree on the selection of a third member of the commission, the Governments shall apply to the ministers of the U.S.S.R. and the U.K., who shall appoint the third member of the commission.]

ARTICLE XXX

Articles XXIII, XXIV and Annex 6 of the present Treaty shall apply to the Allied and Associated Powers and France and to those of the United Nations which have broken off diplomatic relations with Finland.

ARTICLE XXXI

The provisions of Annexes 4, 5 and 6 shall, as in the case of other annexes, have force and effect as integral parts of the present treaty.

JUL 31 1946

PART VI. LEGAL CLAUSES

Annex 4. Special Provisions Relating to Certain Kinds of Property

A. INDUSTRIAL, LITERARY AND ARTISTIC PROPERTY

1. (a) A period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty shall be accorded to the Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals without extension fees or other penalty of any sort in order to enable such persons to accomplish all necessary acts for the obtaining or preserving in Finland of rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were not capable of accomplishment owing to the existence of a state of war.

(b) Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals who had duly applied in any Allied or Associated Power for a patent or registration of a utility model not earlier than twelve months before the outbreak of the war with Finland or during the war, or for the registration of an industrial design or model or trade mark not earlier than six months before the outbreak of the war with Finland or during the war, shall be entitled within twelve months after the coming into force of this treaty to apply for corresponding rights in Finland with a right of priority based upon the previous filing of the application in that Allied and Associated Power.

(c) Each of the Allied and Associated Powers or its nationals shall be accorded a period of one year from the coming into force of the present treaty during which they may institute proceedings against those persons who are alleged illegally to have infringed their rights in industrial, literary or artistic property between the date of the outbreak of the war and the coming into force of the present treaty.

2. A period from the outbreak of the war until a date eighteen months after the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded in considering the time within which a patent should be worked or a design or trade mark used.

3. The period from the outbreak of the war until the coming into force of the present treaty shall be excluded from the normal term of rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which were in force in Finland at the outbreak of the war or which are recognized or established under this annex and belonging to any of the Allied and Associated Powers, or their nationals. Consequently, the normal duration of such rights shall be deemed automatically extended in Finland for a further term corresponding to the period so excluded.

4. The foregoing provisions concerning the rights of the Allied and Associated Powers or their nationals shall apply equally to Finland and its nationals [but nothing in these provisions shall operate so as to give to Finland or any of its nationals greater rights than are accorded in like cases by any of the Allied or Associated Powers to any other of the United Nations].

The U.S.S.R. delegation considers it unnecessary to include the passage in brackets.

5. Third parties in the territorie of any of the Allied and Associate Powers or Finland who before th coming into force of the presen treaty have bona fide acquired in dustrial property rights conflictin with rights restored under thi article or with rights obtained with priority claimed thereunder, o have bona fide manufactured, use or sold the subject-matter of such rights, shall be permitted, without any liability for infringement, to continue to exercise such rights and to continue to resume such manufacture, use or sale which had been bona fide required or commenced. In Finland, such permission shall take the form of a non-exclusive license granted on terms and conditions to be mutually agreed by the parties thereto or in default of agreement to be fixed by the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXIX of the treaty. In the territories of the Allied and Associated Powers, however, bona fide third parties shall receive such protection as is accorded under similar circumstances to bona fide third parties whose rights are in conflict with those of the nationals of other Allied and Associated Powers.

6. Nothing in this annex shall be construed to entitle Finland or its nationals to any patent or utility model rights in the territory of any of the Allied and Associated Powers with respect to inventions relating to any article listed by name in the definition of war material contained in Annex 3 of the present treaty made or upon which application were filed by Finland or any of its nationals in Finland or in the territory of any other of the Axis powers or in any territory occupied by the Axis forces, during the time when the place in question was under the control of enemy forces or authorities.

7. [Finland shall extend benefits of this article to any United Nation other than an Allied or Associated Power which undertakes to extend to Finland the benefits accorded to Finland under this Article.]

The U.S.S.R. delegation does not see the reason for inclusion of Paragraph 7 in the present Treaty.

8. Nothing in this Annex shall be understood to conflict with Articles XXIV and XXVI of the present treaty.

B. INSURANCE

U. K. PROPOSAL

[1. United Nations insurers shall be granted full facilities by the Finnish Government to recover their former portfolios of business in Finland and they shall not be required to conform to any legislative enactments more onerous than those which were applicable to them before the outbreak of war.

2. In so far as the guarantee deposits and reserves of United Nations insurers have been reduced by reason of the payment of insurance claims arising out of the war they shall be entitled to compensation from the Finnish Government by way of the reinstatement of such deposits of reserves to the amount of the claim.

3. The Finnish Government undertakes that if any United Nations' insurer desires to resume business in Finland and it is found that the value of any guarantee deposit or reserves required to be held as a condition of carrying on business in Finland have been diminished by reason of disappearance or depreciation of the securities in which they were constituted, Finland shall either:

(a) itself reconstitute the deposits or reserves except in so far as the diminution or disappearance was caused by payment of losses already compensated for under Paragraph 2 above; or

(b) accept the securities at the value at the outbreak of war for the purpose of compliance with the legal requirements relating to such deposits and reserves.]

The U. S. S. R. delegation considers that this subject is also covered by Article XXIV on United Nations' property in Finland and sees no reason to include any special provisions relating to insurance.

Annex 5. Contracts, Prescriptions and Negotiable Instruments

U. K. PROPOSALS

I. CONTRACTS

[1. Any contract concluded between enemies shall be deemed to have been dissolved as from the time when any of the parties became an enemy, except in respect of any debt eccrued or money paid or other pecuniary obligation arising out of any debt done thereunder, and subject to the exceptions set out in the following paragraph. The provisions of this paragraph shall be without prejudice to contracts of insurance and reinsurance, which shall be subject to a separate agreement. (Alternatively a special annex can be included.)

JUL 31 1946

30-24-4483

2. The following class of contracts, notwithstanding the provisions of Paragraph 1, are excepted from dissolution and remain in force subject to the application of municipal laws, orders or regulations made since the outbreak of war by any member of the United Nations and subject to the proper law and terms of the contracts;

(a) Contracts for the transfer of estates or of movable or immovable property where the property therein has passed or delivery been made before the parties became enemies;

(b) Leases or agreements for leases of land, houses or parts thereof;

(c) Contracts of mortgages or lien;

(d) Concessions of mines, quarries or deposits;

(e) Contracts between individuals or associations and states, municipalities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative unctions and concessions granted by states, municipalities or other similar juridical persons charged with administrative functions;

(f) Any contract of which the execution shall be required in the general interest within six months from the date of the coming into force of the present treaty by a Government of one of the United Nations of which one of the parties to such a contract is a national; when the execution of the contract thus kept alive would, owing to the alteration of particular conditions, cause one of the parties substantial prejudice, the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXIX shall be empowered to award fair compensation to the prejudiced parties.

3. If a contract is dissolved in part under Paragraph 1, the remaining provisions of that contract all subject to the same application of municipal laws as is provided for in Paragraph 2, continue in force if they are severable, but where they are not severable the contract shall be deemed to have been dissolved in its entirety.

4. Nothing in the present annex shall be deemed to invalidate the transactions lawfully carried out in accordance with a contract between enemies if it has been carried out with the authority of the Government of one of the United Nations.

5. For the purposes of Parts I, II and III of the present annex the parties to a contract shall be regarded as enemies when trading between them shall have been prohibited by or otherwise become unlawful under laws, orders or regulations to which one of these parties or the contract was subject. They shall be deemed to have become enemies from the date when such trading was prohibited or otherwise become unlawful.]

II. PERIODS OF PRESCRIPTION

1. All periods of prescription, or limitation of right of action, whether they began to run before or after the outbreak of war, shall be treated in the territory of the high contracting parties, as far as regards relations between enemies, as having been suspended for the duration of the war. They shall begin to run again at earliest three months after the coming into force of the present treaty. This provision shall apply to the period prescribed for the presentation of interest or dividend coupons or for the presentation for repayment of securities drawn for repayment or repayable on any other ground.

2. Where, on account of failure to perform any act or comply with any formality during the war, measures of execution have been taken in Finnish territory to the prejudice of a national of one of the United Nations, the claim of such national shall if the matter does not fall within the competence of the Court of one of the United Nations be heard by the Conciliation Commission established under Article XXIX.

3. Upon the application of any interested person who is a national of one of the United Nations, the Conciliation Commission shall order the restoration of the rights which have been prejudiced by the measures of execution referred to in Paragraph 2 wherever such restoration is equitable and possible. If such restoration is inequitable or impossible the Conciliation Commission may award compensation to the prejudiced party to be paid by the Finnish Government.

4. Where a contract between enemies has been dissolved by reason either of failure on the part of either party to carry out its provisions or of the exercise of a right stipulated in the contract itself the party prejudiced may apply to the Conciliation Commission for relief. The Commission will have the powers provided for in Paragraph 3.

5. The provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this Article shall apply to the United Nations nationals who have been prejudiced by reason of measures referred to above taken by Finland on invaded or occupied territory, if they have not been otherwise satisfactorily compensated.

6. Finland shall compensate any third party who may be prejudiced by any restitution or restoration ordered by the Conciliation Commission under the provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this part.

7. As regards negotiable instruments, the period of three months provided under Paragraph 1 shall commence as from the date on which any exceptional regulations applied in the territories of the interested power with regard to negotiable instruments shall have definitely ceased to have force.

III. NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS

[1. As between enemies no negotiable instrument made before the war shall be deemed to have become invalid by reason only of failure within the required time to present the instrument for acceptance or payment or to give notice of non-acceptance or non-payment to drawers or endorsers or to protest the instrument, or by reason of failure to complete any formality during the war.

2. Where the period within which a negotiable instrument should have been presented for acceptance or for payment, or within which notice of non-acceptance or non-payment should have been given to the drawer or endorser, or within which the instrument should have been protested, has elapsed during the war, and the party who should have presented or protested the instrument or have given notice of non-acceptance or non-payment has failed to do so during the war, a period of not less than three months from the coming into force of the present treaty shall be allowed within which presentation, notice of non-acceptance or non-payment or protest may be made.

3. If a person has either before or during the war become liable upon a negotiable instrument in accordance with an undertaking given to him by a person who has subsequently become an enemy, the latter shall remain liable to indemnify the former in respect of his liability notwithstanding the outbreak of war.

IV. MISCELLANEOUS

1. Stock exchange and commercial exchange contracts.

(a) Rules made during the war by any recognized exchange or commercial association providing for the closure of contracts entered into before the war by an enemy are confirmed by the high contracting parties, as also any action taken thereunder, provided:

(i) That the contract was expressed to be made subject to the rules of the exchange or association in question;

(ii) That the rules applied to all persons concerned;

(iii) That the conditions attaching to the closure were fair and reasonable.

(b) The preceding paragraph shall not apply to rules made during the occupation by exchanges or commercial associations in the districts occupied by the enemy.

2. Security.

The sale of a security held for an unpaid debt owing by an enemy shall be deemed to have been valid irrespective of notice to the owner if the creditor acted in good faith and with reasonable care and prudence, and no claim by the debtor on the ground of such sale shall be admitted.

This stipulation shall not apply to any sale of securities effected by an enemy during the occupation in regions invaded or occupied by the enemy.]

In view of the constitutional position of the Federal Government, the U. S. delegation would be unable to accept any obligations on the matters covered by this Annex. The United States would not object to the inclusion of provisions on these subjects in the treaty, but would wish to have a clause included making them inapplicable as between the United States and Bulgaria.

The U.S.S.R. delegation sees no reason for inclusion in the peace treaty of the matters covered by this annex.

The French delegation sees no reason for inclusion in the peace treaty of the matters covered by this Annex.

The French delegation supports the U. K. proposal with regard to prescriptions and negotiable instruments.

Annex 6. Prize Courts and Judgments

A. PRIZE COURTS

Each of the Allied and Associated Powers reserves the right to examine, according to a procedure to be established by it, all decisions and orders of the Finnish prize courts involving ownership rights of its nationals, and to recommend to the Finnish Government that revision shall be undertaken by these decisions or orders, which may not be in conformity with international law.

Finland undertakes to supply copies of all documents comprising the records of these cases, including the decisions taken and orders issued, and to accept all recommendations made, subsequent to the examination of the said cases, and to give effect to such recommendations.

B. JUDGMENTS

U.S.S.R. PROPOSAL

[1. The Finnish Government shall take the necessary measures to enable nationals of any of the United Nations at any time within one year after the coming into force of this treaty to submit to the approporate Finnish authorities for review any judgment given by a Finnish court between June 22, 1941 and the coming into force of the present treaty in any proceeding in which the United Nations national was unable to make adequate presentation of his case as plaintiff or defendant. The Finnish Government shall provide that, where the United Nations national has suffered injury by reason of any such judgment, he shall be restored in the position in which he was before the judgment was given or shall be afforded such relief as may be just and equitable in the circumstances. The term "United Nations nationals" includes corporations or associations organized or constituted under the laws of any of the United Nations.]

U. K. PROPOSAL

[1. Judgments given by the courts of a member of the United Nations in all cases which, under the present treaty, they are competent to decide, shall be recognized in Finland as final, and shall be enforced without it being necessary to have them declared executory.

2. If a judgment in respect of any dispute which may have arisen has been given during the war by a Finnish court against a United Nations national in a case in which he was not able adequately to present his case whether as plaintiff or defendant, the United Nations national who has suffered prejudice thereby shall be entitled to recover compensation, to be fixed by the Conciliation Commission under the procedure laid down in Article XXIX for settlement of disputes.

3. At the instance of the United Nations national and where it is possible the Conciliation Commission may in lieu of compensation by order replace the parties in the situation which they occupied before the judgment was given by the Finnish court.

4. Such compensation or replacement may likewise be obtained before the Conciliation Commission by United Nations nationals who have suffered prejudice by judicial measures taken in invaded or occupied territories if they have not been otherwise ccmpensated.]

Byrnes Assures Small Nations Of Voice in Any Treaty Changes

PARIS, July 30—(AP) Secretary of State Byrnes, strengthening the voice of the small nations in the European Peace conference, pledged United States support tonight for any changes in the Big Four treaty drafts sought by a two-thirds vote of all 21 nations.

His declaration, plainly stating the American position against arbitrary rejection of smaller nations' recommendations for the final treaty drafts, came after the powerful rules committee approved the principle of complete publicity for all conference deliberations.

Byrnes also asserted that the United States never again would return to a policy of isolation, and declared "We do not want a peace of vengeance" that would plant "the seeds of future wars."

NIGHT

Statement Applauded

Byrnes received ringing applause, and British Prime Minister Attlee then urged that the four major powers "Should not, and indeed cannot, be unresponsive to the ideas of other nations, especially those nations who have contributed so much to victory."

The four power council of foreign ministers, which drew the treaty drafts submitted to this conference, invited the 17 other nations to express their views. The Four Powers, however, did not bind themselves to accept any revisions which might be suggested by the smaller powers.

Both Byrnes and Attlee urged strict attention by the conference to the voice of world opinion.

"The United Staes," Byrnes said, "Will stand by its agreements in the (Four-Power) council. But if the conference should by a two-thirds vote of the governments here represented make a contrary recommendation, the United States will use its influence to secure the adoption of that recommendation by the council.

"The United States," Byrnes said, those who fought in the war should make the peace."

The second day of the conference was marked by a striking display of harmony.

Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium was elected permanent chairman of the rules committee by a 13-to-7 vote after a protected argument during which the Soviet Union supported Vice-Premier Edward Kardelj of Yugoslavia.

But Britain and the United States promptly supported Kardelj for vice-chairman and he was chosen by acclamation.

A moment later Russia's delegate accepted the American plea for free access to conference sessions for the world's press. Since all 21 nations are represented on the rules committee, the full conference is expected to approve the proposal as a matter of course.

Russia's support of Byrnes' full publicity proposal came as a surprise. Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov was quoted as saying that recently there had been some "Distortion" of the Soviet attitude, and that the presence of correspondents in conference sessions might correct the situation.

Responding to the welcoming address of French President Georges Bidault, Byrnes, Attlee and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Shih-Chieh urged the delegates to seek a just peace for Europe.

Molotov was not present when Byrnes made his statement on behalf of the smaller nations, but he arrived in the chamber as the French translation was being made. He will be the first speaker tomorrow.

Byrnes, speaking in a clear, firm voice, declared that the peace treaties drafted by the four-power foreign ministers council for Italy, Finland, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary were not the treaties the United States or any other nation would have proposed if she were sole arbiter.

"But peace treaties which determine boundaries and the disposition of colonies and territories cannot be made practically effective if they are not accepted by the principal Allied states," Byrnes said.

"If the principal Allied states had not attempted to harmonize their views before this conference, I hesitate to say how many months this conference would have to go on while efforts were being made to reconcile their positions."

Byrnes said "This conference will be free not only to consider the drafts laid before them but to make such recommendations concerning the final treaties as the conference may determine."

Fear that the smaller Allies might not exert much influence on the final treaties already had been expressed by Dr. Herbert Evatt, Australian minister of external affairs.

Byrnes drew more applause when he declared that the United States never again would return to the isolation which followed the first World War.

"However difficult may be the paths of international cooperation," he said, "the United States is determined not to return to a policy of isolation.

"We must try to understand one another, even when we cannot agree with one another. We must ever accept any disagreement as final. We must work together until we can find solutions which, while not perfect, are solutions which can be defended."

Attlee, urging a peace which would remove "from the hearts of simple people the brooding fear of another war," declared that the four major powers "Cannot be irresponsible to the desires of the wider community of nations, and equally, of those nations who have made such a significant contribution to victory."

U.S. To Support 2-3 Decisions At Paris

(R HORN)

Paris, July 30 (AP)—United States Secretary of State Byrnes told the Paris Peace Conference today that the United States would stand by the conference's recommendations in event it opposes by a two thirds majority any of the peace treaties drafted by the Foreign Ministers Conference.

Byrnes spoke in the General Assembly of the conference shortly after the Rules Committee had proposed unanimously that all committee meetings and general conference sessions be thrown open to the press of the world—a step toward the Wilsonian ideal of a generation ago of "open covenants openly arrived at."

Molotov Not There

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov was not present in the hall when Byrnes made his speech, an answer to French President Bidault's opening address of yesterday. The Russian delegation, which has insisted upon unanimity of the four principal powers on recommendations to the peace conference, was headed by the Vice Foreign Minister, Andrei Vishinsky.

"The United States will stand by its agreements in the Council of Foreign Ministers," Byrnes said. "But if the conference should, by a two-thirds vote of the governments here represented, make a contrary recommendation, the United States will use its influence to secure the adoption of that recommendation by the council."

Lesson Of Good Will

Beginning his short speech with an object lesson on democracy, Byrnes said:

"Democracy cannot be imposed or taught at the point of a bayonet. As terror inspires terror, so good will ca ninspire good will."

The rules committee recommendation on freedom of the press to the peace conference was scheduled to be acted upon by the General Assembly later today. Secretary Byrnes had sponsored the move.

Adoption of the free press resolution will mean that all committee meetings, where details of various clauses in individual treaties are to be debated, can be reported fully to the world.

There are five committees in all, including the Rules Committee. The others are the Economic Commission for the Balkans, the Economic Commission for Italy, the Legal and Drafting Committee and the Credentials Committee.

In addition, there is a subcommittee for each of the five defeated nations involved in the treaties, Italy, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland.

Backed By Molotov

Byrnes led the fight for freedom of information from the first. An American source said his motion for open meetings was immediately supported by Molotov and Dr. H. V. Evatt, the Australian Minister of Foreign Affairs.

It was one of the few times the United States and Russian representatives have found themselves in immediate agreement.

The American informant quoted Molotov as saying he favored the proposal because "there has recently been some distortion of the Soviet attitude toward the publication of the texts of the draft treaties" and that some Soviet proposals had been reported inaccurately in the press.

Could Be Corrected

Molotov was quoted as saying he believed this could be corrected if newspaper reporters were permitted to attend committee meetings.

Paul Henri Spaak, of Belgium, was elected chairman of the committee, 13 to 7, over Edward Kardelj, of Yugoslavia, with one abstention. Spaak was nominated by Evatt; Kardelj, by Molotov.

However, Kardelj, Vice Premier in Premier Marshal Tito's regime, was chosen as vice chairman.

The election of Spaak came after the defeat of a compromise proposal by Jan Masaryk, Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, for a system of alternating presidencies, which was rejected, 11 to 6, with four abstentions.

JUL 31 1946

No Action On Majority

The delegates, who met around a green baize table, took no action on the explosive question of whether a simple majority or the two-thirds rule would govern further voting of the committee. A member of the British delegation said the committee did not reach the subject, which was raised originally by Evatt in the open full conference session yesterday.

Spaak came to Paris after being charged with the task of shaping a new government for Belgium. This made his position somewhat similar to that of Georges Bidault, President and Foreign Minister of France, during the four-power Foreign Ministers Conference here.

Neither Bidault nor Prime Minister Attlee of Britain, who is serving in the place of Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, sat in the committee session.

Argument On Spaak

A three-hour argument in the committee preceded the election of Spaak as chairman.

Polish and Ukrainian delegates supported Molotov's nomination on Kardelj for the chairmanship, informants said. The Soviet representative said Yugoslavia had suffered more than almost any other country during the war.

Greek and Netherlands delegates supported the Australian nomination of Spaak.

Evatt said all seventeen countries taking part in the conference with Britain, Russia, the United States and France had been invited because they had participated actively in the war. He declared, an American source said, that no one could say one country had contributed more to the total effort than another.

Compromise Rejected

The Czechoslovak Foreign Minister then proposed his compromise, suggesting two chairmen, which was defeated.

After more discussion, the source said, Byrnes told the committee: "If we don't go any faster than this, we will be here until 1948."

It was then agreed to take a secret ballot, and Spaak won.

Molotov then nominated Kardelj for vice chairman and Byrnes suggested that the Yugoslav be elected by acclamation, which was done.

Italian Comment

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Italian delegation said in an interview that the proposed treaty for Italy "practically means the economic liquidation of Italy."

"We are deeply distressed," he said. "It is evident that the two memorandums which were sent to the Foreign Ministers Conference were not even taken into consideration."

Citing the costs of occupation, items for reparations and the recall of currency issued by the Allies, he said the treaty contradicted the promises made after the Quebec Conference, when "we were told that the more Italy helped in the common Allied effort, the more consideration would be given her in the treaty."

Principal Figures To Speak

Most of the principal figures of the conference are slated to speak this afternoon at the second meeting of the conference.

Byrnes will be followed by Attlee, Molotov, Evatt and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Shih-chieh.

The Australian proposal for an equal voice for all nations, advanced yesterday by Dr. Evatt, will receive its first test when the rules and procedure commission decides whether a simple majority or a two-thirds majority will govern decisions of the conference.

Evatt's Stand

It was clear that Evatt would insist that only a simple majority be required to make recommendations to the Big Four on the drafting of the treaties.

An Australian source said Evatt was prepared to go down the line for his contention that the seventeen invited nations "have just as much right to participate in the final making of peace as the Big Four themselves."

Other members of the Australian delegation said frankly that Evatt was not so much interested in the treaties for the five Hitler satellite nations as he was in establishing the principle of equality among the Allies. They added that he was looking toward future conferences when the treaties with Germany and Japan will be written.

Publication Of Drafts

Byrnes won agreement yesterday for the publication of the complete drafts, as prepared by the Big Four, of proposed treaties with the five former enemy countries. The drafts will include clauses on which the Big Four were unable to agree, together with statements of policy on these clauses by Britain, France, the United States and Russia.

The treaties will be made available to the press today, for release at midnight (6 P.M., Eastern standard time).

Meanwhile, controversies were shaping up on four question which also caused headaches to the Big Four—navigation on the Danube River, the disposition of Italian colonies, final settlement of the Italian-Yugoslav border and Balkan

These questions will come first before special commissions dealing with individual peace treaties, and then before the conference as a whole. After the issues are decided, the conference will make its recommendations to the Big Four, which is to determine the final terms of the treaties.

U. S. SMALL NATION PROGRAM HAILED

(R E WILSON)

PARIS, July 30 — (AP) Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium, newly-elected chairman of the Peace Conference Rules committee, hailed American support for the smaller nations today as a major step forward, but added that "we must wait and see if the Big Four accept the suggestions of the other 17."

Spaak, who also is president of the United Nations General Assembly, described as a "great" utterance the speech in which Secretary of State Byrnes announced that the United States would support any revisions of big four peace treaty drafts asked by a two-thirds vote of the delegates.

NIGHT

Chief of the only delegation whose nation is without a government, Spaak divides his time between his duties in the Luxembourg palace and telephone conferences with fellow Socialist leaders in Brussels who are struggling to form a new Belgian government.

Spaak, who said Belgium's "vital interests" were not involved in this conference but in the forthcoming German peace treaty parely, termed the Trieste issue potentially the most ticklish before the delegates.

Concerning his own election to the rules committee on the nomination by Australian Minister of External Affairs H. V. Evatt, he said it had no political significance.

"I was chosen simply because of my experience at the United Nations with the technical details of committee presiding," he said.

Spaak was elected by a vote of 13 to 7 over Yugoslav vice-premier Edward Kardelj, who was Russia's candidate. Kardelj then was named vice-chairman.

The Axis conspiracy started in the effort of a few men first to gain by force ascendancy over their own people and then to extend by force their tyranny, step by step, over other peoples. Their goal, and they nearly achieved it, was to bring the whole world under their evil power and influence.

Let not us, who fought on freedom's side, forget how near the shadows we came. Let not us forget that, however great the losses and the sacrifice of our respective countries may have been, there is not a nation represented here that could alone have indefinitely held out against the Axis tyranny.

We live today as free men because we had friends and helpers in every country in the world, including brave souls in countries under Axis domination who, in freedom's cause, were willing to risk the tortures of the concentration camp.

Freedom for All

We live today as free men because the freedom we fought for was freedom not for ourselves alone but for all mankind.

After six long years of war there is nothing that the people of the world now long for so much as a return to peace.

We want our soldiers to return to their homes and their families. We want even those whose misfortune it was to be conscripted on the side of the Axis to know what peace and freedom mean.

While we must be alert to see that nazism and fascism do not again raise their ugly heads, we must give democracy a chance to grow where tyranny stamped it out. Democracy cannot be imposed or taught at the point of a bayonet. As terror inspires terror, so good-will can inspire goodwill.

JUL 31 1946

ley of the Government which I represent to work unremittingly for the restoration of conditions of peace throughout the world as rapidly as possible.

Of course, after six long years of exhaustive war it is difficult for each nation not to think that its own ideas of peace ought to prevail. When the enemy is vanquished, differences on the making of peace are bound to be differences among allies.

After World War I differences among the Allies were allowed to weaken and destroy their will to cooperate in the maintenance of peace. The United States unwisely decided to return to a policy of isolation rather than to cooperate and to improve a peace which fell short of its expectation. Other Governments also drifted into a policy of isolation or appeasement. That must not happen again.

However difficult may be the path of international cooperation, the United States is determined not to return to a policy of isolation.

We must try to understand one another, even when we cannot agree with one another. We must never accept any disagreement as final. We must work together until we can find solutions which, while not perfect, are solutions which can be defended.

Wants Views of All

I am not unaware that there has been criticism of the meetings of representatives of the larger states to prepare draft treaties in advance of this conference. At times I myself have been critical of some of our meetings and our decisions, and I have always insisted that, before the final peace terms are drawn up, the views of all the states which took an active part in the fighting must be heard and taken into account.

Text of Speeches Made in Paris by Byrnes, Attlee, Wang

PARIS, July 30 (AP)—The text of today's address by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes to the peace conference:

At long last we are assembled here to consider the first treaties of peace to be made since the military defeat of the Axis conspiracy to dominate the world by force.

It took six long years of war for free men to match and finally to master the forces arrayed to degrade and enslave them.

Because of our suffering during the war, we want an effective peace which will stand guard against the recurrence of aggression, but we do not want a peace of vengeance.

We want to plant the seeds of future peace and not the seeds of future wars.

And above all we must get back to conditions of peace without undue delay. Prolonged mass occupation of other countries after they have been effectively disarmed is not the way to get peace or any way to guard peace.

For Rapid Restoration

That is why it has been the pol-

But peace treaties which determine boundaries and the disposition of colonies and territories cannot be made practically effective if they are not accepted by the principal Allied states.

If the principal Allied states had not attempted to harmonize their views before this conference I hesitate to say how many months this conference would have to go on while efforts were being made to reconcile their positions.

We must remember that in this world where national states jealously retain their sovereignty there is as yet no way of forcing states to accept and ratify peace treaties.

It is not easy for any sizable deliberative body, be it a peace conference, a Parliament or a Congress, to function effectively without having the measures which it is to consider drafted in advance and drafted with a view to meeting the views of those whose support is deemed essential.

For Public Meetings

This conference will be free not only to consider the drafts laid before them but to make such recommendations concerning the final treaties as the conference may determine. While the Council of Foreign Ministers has suggested certain rules of procedure, the conference is free to adopt its own rules of procedure. Because I believe Governments must respect world opinion I hope the conference will accept the recommendation of its commission that all meetings of the conference committees will be public.

The very fact that the drafts which go before this conference have been prepared in advance ensures that all those present here will have an opportunity to express themselves on concrete peace proposals which are likely, in some form or other, to find their way into the final peace treaties.

After the last war the smaller states were free to express their views before the concrete peace proposals were formulated. But it took the Council of Four so long to come to an agreement on the important issues that the smaller states had little opportunity to review the actual decisions, once they were made by the Big Four.

Not Proposals of One

The drafts submitted to this conference are not the proposals which the United States would make if the United States were the sole arbiter of the peace. But neither are they the proposals which any other state which has collaborated in their drafting would make if it were the sole arbiter of the peace. The proposals, however, represent a very real effort on the part of the states which cooperated in their preparation to reach a common understanding which, in this imperfect world, is an indespensable condition to the establishment of peace.

I hope that the delegates will feel free to express the views of their respective States on the proposed treaties. No nation, large or small, can be insensitive to world opinion.

A world longing for peace will not forgive us if, in striving for perfection, we fail to obtain peace.

History will judge our efforts not by what we say here, but what we accomplish here.

Since last September I have fought to bring about this peace conference of all the states which actually waged war with substantial military force against the European Axis.

The Council of Foreign Ministers, in the drafting of the final treaties, is pledged not only to take into account the recommendations here made, but not to reject any of them arbitrarily.

The United States will stand by its agreements in the Council. But if the conference should by a two-thirds vote of the Governments here represented, make a contrary recommendation the United States will use its influence to secure the adoption of that recommendation by the Council. The United States believes that those who fought the war should make the peace.

Mr. Attlee's Address

By Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 30—The text of the address of Prime Minister Attlee at the peace conference:

Mr. President, and Fellow Delegates:

I would like, at the outset, to thank the French Government and the French people, our kind hosts, for the excellent arrangements they have made for our personal comfort and for doing our business here.

When I was last here the enemy was still fighting. Paris was then just beginning to recover. I rejoice to see the progress made since then. It is a good omen.

Sir: We are met together to take the first step in making peace. We are seeking to make a beginning in re-establishing the normal relationships between nations by bringing back into the European family circle five erring members.

They were not mainly responsible for the calamity which fell upon the world, but they have been accessories. With their support or acquiescence the Governments of these peoples joined in the attack on civilization. To a greater or lesser degree in the later stages of the struggle these peoples have sought to make atonement.

By the treaties now submitted to you, we are endeavoring to open a new chapter in the history of Europe. I believe that we must approach the problems looking forward, not backward; not dwelling so much on past failures as considering how best we can make a success of the future.

A Simple Objective

We should not be devoting ourselves to examining historical claims or the supposed interests of particular states. We should keep before our minds the simple objective of removing from hearts of the common people in all lands the brooding fear of another war and of enabling them to live together as good citizens, not only of their own states, but of Europe and the world.

In my country, as in most of yours, the Government is dealing with the very difficult task of reconstruction. Homes have been destroyed, people have had to move from their accustomed dwelling place and have had to change their occupations, while industry has been directed to war purposes. Now we are engaged in re-knitting the fabric of our national life.

But we are not trying to make our life exactly on the old pattern. Retaining the best of the past, we are weaving a new pattern.

In my view, we are engaged in a comparable task in these peace treaties. We must seek to make a Europe in which peoples will live more secure and happier lives, in which the relationship of the members of the European families will be more neighborly and friendly than ever before. This new Europe will have, I hope, the best of the old but will discard much that was evil.

Our task is limited. The major task of dealing with Germany and the German people remains, but much will depend on how and in what spirit we manage the immediate business before us.

These treaties in themselves are only contributors to the ground plan of the European peace which we want to build. The life of thecity will depend on the conduct of the inhabitants. But agreement on the plan is an essential first step.

Twice in my lifetime the world has experienced the horrors of a world war. The peoples of America, Asia, Africa and Australia have been involved. The primary cause on each occasion has arisen from the failure of the people of Europe to dwell together in amity.

It is therefore right that those who live in other continents should join with representatives of European nations to seek to make an enduring settlement.

That, after all, is our primary task. The minor gains and losses, the short term advantages of particular provisions in these treaties, are as nothing compared to the overriding interest of us all to make a peace that shall endure.

The greater part of the drafts before you have been agreed on by the four powers. They are but forward as embodying the greatest measure of agreement. Having agreed to them ourselves, we shall naturally support them at this conference, but we are anxious to hear the opinion of the seventeen other states to whose judgment they are now submitted. Criticisms, suggestions and recommendations made here must be given full consideration when the final drafts are framed.

Factors in Agreement

The remaining articles, which had not been agreed upon, will come before you and I have no doubt that the discussions here will be powerful factors in resolving difficulties and promoting agreement.

The four powers should not and, indeed, cannot be irresponsive to the desires of the wider community of nations and equally of those nations who have made such a significant contribution to victory.

Peacemakers may be blessed, but their way is hard. I think that whatever method had been adopted would have been open to criticism. The present procedure has certainly not passed unscathed, but whatever is said, before conference are definitive drafts which will serve to focus the discussions and provide a basis for our work.

I have no doubt that many will feel that the differences between the four powers have taken too long to resolve. But the main fact is that we have now found an agreement on many important matters. This in itself is a matter for rejoicing and not an occasion for criticism. For, quite frankly, without such an agreement the chances of producing acceptable peace treaties would have been remote.

I think we sometimes tend to forget that after such an unparalleled convulsion and a catastrophe as the last war the nations who did the fighting (and that includes all those in this hall) are very tired indeed. They are greatly exercised by domestic difficulties attending the aftermath of war; and for that reason we should all make quite exceptional efforts to see each other's point of view.

Stimulus Recedes

As the war recedes there also recedes the stimulus of the common danger which brought us together. The enemy is broken and humble. As states, Germany and Japan can hardly be said to count at present; but let us never forget that they are still there and that their capacity for making trouble, if there is any disunion in the Allied ranks, is still very real.

Let us not forget, either, that what brought us together was not so much the aggressor himself as the spirit behind the aggression. This spirit of militant totalitarian nationalism, the spirit that animated Hitler, Mussolini and the Japanese war lords, has not yet been altogether killed. It is a virus which still remains and the culture in which it will breed is famine, disease and social disruption.

Only by a great cooperative effort can we destroy this virus; and the putting of our hands to just peace treaties, jointly agreed by the community of nations, is only a first step on a long road.

My friends: I would like to end on this note. One of the chief characteristics of the Hitler regime was that it rejected all standards of conduct other than that dictated by its rulers. The Nuremberg trials have shown to what depth a supposedly civilized people could sink when there was no objective standard of conduct.

We are discussing these treaties freely and openly in public, with the world as our audience. We can feel here the force of world public opinion. Let us keep our ears open to it, for no nation, no ruler, can afford to disregard it.

It is indeed the essence of the democratic principles for which we stand that Governments should be responsive to the will of the people.

We are delegates from our particular countries, but collectively we are responsible to all the peoples of the world who long for peace and security. We are trustees for the unborn children of the future in all countries.

I can never forget a cartoon depicting a statesman of the Versailles treaty saying at the coiclusion:

"I seem to hear a child cry."

A baby, labeled "1939," was in the background.

That foreboding was justified. The child cried in the Second World War. Let it not cry again.

From Dr. Wang's Speech

Text of excerpts from the speech of the Chinese Foreign Minister, Dr. Wang Shih-chieh:

The calling of this conference represents the first concrete step toward the liquidation of war and the restoration of peace, for which all mankind has been longing since the collapse of Germany and Japan. Hope has been alternating with doubts as to whether a peace conference would ever be held. The fact that representatives of twenty-one nations are now sitting in this hall to discuss the peace settlements is by itself affording some relief for the world.

The Chinese delegation has come with the earnest hope that it will succeed. As you know, China was the longest in the war with a loss of millions in lives. Being convinced that peace, like war, is indivisible, she cannot but be concerned with the peace that the United Nations are making in any part of the world.

No doubt the winning of the peace is no easier than the winning of the war. The Chinese delegation firmly believes that it will be most helpful if all suggestions and proposals, no matter by which delegation they are presented, should be heard and treated with such consideration as they merit.

Moreover, we believe that complete frankness in our discussions and consequent publicity given to them will be most effective in promoting true understanding among the nations.

It would like to lay stress on two points. The first is that the victors must strictly abide by the pledges they have given and by the principles that they proclaimed during the war. In dealing with conflicting territorial claims, for instance, we must not forget the words of the Atlantic Charter nor try to restrict their application.

The other point is that the victors should not impose such terms as will only give the chance for reaction by elements in defeated countries to rise again but deprive the democratic forces of any opportunity to survive or consolidate.

Regarding the military clauses, I believe that the drafts provide adequate safeguards. As to the territorial, political and economic clauses, I believe that the drafts deserve fuller discussion. Reading the text of these draft treaties one cannot deny that many of the agreements reached have been based on compromises. If we can find ways to improve these compromises, much will be gained.

With regard to the question of the Italian colonies, it must be admitted that the issue has been left unsolved. In the view of my delegation certain fundamental principles should be accepted. One of these guiding principles should be this:

Some of those colonies should be either given immediate independence or, if that should not be feasible, should be placed under the trusteeship of the United Nations for a fixed period of time, during which preparations for independence can be completed.

The effect of such a policy would not be confined to the peoples of the territories directly concerned, but would inspire hope and confidence in the hearts of millions of people elsewhere who are awaiting early and full realization of their legitimate aspirations.

Byrnes, Molotov Far Apart

[Paris dispatches said that the alphabetical system of seating resulted in United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes sitting on the extreme right of the conference hall, and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov on the far left. The United States delegation was in the front row and the Russians in the eighth row. British representatives were in the fifth row, center.]

The broadcast, heard in London by the Soviet monitor, referred to a British-American "bloc" and said the speech of Herbert V. Evatt, Australian Minister of External Affairs, on equal rights for all 21 nations attending the conference was an "ambiguous statement."

Byrnes's Support Alleged

"Evatt's proposal was supported by Byrnes," the radio asserted.

"Evat repeated his hackneyed phrases, saying that everyone must be equal at the conference, although equality of rights of all states present is known without his saying so," the broadcast continued.

"Evatt's statement struck observers as a clumsy game, in so far as his closeness to dependence upon the main countries of the Anglo-American bloc is well known."

3-Month Peace Parley Seen by French Expert

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, July 30—It still is anybody's guess how long the Paris Peace Conference will last, but an experienced French observer said the preliminaries suggested that it would be about three months.

U.S. In Best Seats: Moscow

London, July 30 (AP)—The Moscow radio complained today that the United States had obtained the choice seats at the Paris Peace Conference, and also described the Australian proposal for equality of big and small nations attending the conference as a "clumsy game."

The radio said "it struck people" that exceptions had been made for some delegations in the seating arrangements, with the United set the length at possibly six weeks.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes was quoted by a close friend as saying before the conference began that he expected it to be finished in four weeks. However, prolonged debate over the rules committee chairmanship today led Mr. Byrnes to remark: "If we don't go any faster than this, we will be here until 1948."

Press Wireless Functions

Press wireless and agencies with direct leased wires running out of the country were allowed to function without disturbance.

Union headquarters said higher wages had been promised by the Finance Ministry but the Ministry had not followed through.

Four Soldiers Take Truman Plane Home

Paris, July 30 (A. P.).—Four United States soldiers on emergency furloughs were permitted today to fly home to the United States in President Truman's personal plane, the Sacred Cow, which brought Secretary of State Byrnes to the Paris peace conference. They were T/Sgt. John S. Burkot of Kaska, Pa.; Sgt. Chester B. Utecht of 2344 Grayling street, Detroit; Pfc. Charles Chupasko of Marysville, Pa., and Pvt. Walter J. Fischer of Hazleton, Pa.

The Air Transport Command allocated the space to the four soldiers. All are being sent home because of illness in their immediate families.

French Strike, Halt Communications

Paris, July 30 (AP)—France was in the grip of an international communication strike by 200,000 postal, telegraph and telephone workers today just as the Paris Peace Conference was getting down to business.

The workers walked out at 4 A.M. to bring pressure on the Government for higher wages. The strike appeared 100 per cent effective wherever the unions called out their members. The strike was ordered for ten hours.

Emergency Cases Handled

The strikers left workers at offices to explain why the services were not functioning, however, and to give emergency service.

Emergency services included acceptance of telegrams to or from the peace conference delegates, the Foreign Ministry, health services and in distress cases.

International communications companies also were permitted to operate their lines abroad, but they were without normal means of delivering incoming cables and radio messages inside France. Dial telephones were operating haphazardly, but some telegrams from abroad were being telephoned to the addressees.

U.S.-BRITAIN MOVE TO CONSOLIDATE ZONES IN GERMANY

(KAISCHE)

BERLIN, July 30. — (AP) The Americans and British announced today in the allied control council that they were proceeding with the economic merger of their zones of Germany and pleaded again with the French and Russians to join them to effect economic unity of all four zones.

The French said they were not yet ready to reply to the offer of Gen. Joseph T. McNarney to merge the American zone with any or all of the other zones.

Russians Doubts Plan

The Russians said flatly they "doubted the wisdom" of the American proposal and, while claiming they supported the "economic and political unity of Germany as a whole," they proposed expediting interzonal trade and transport on something less than an economic unity basis.

The British representative, Air Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas, formally advised the council of Britain's acceptance "in principle" of McNarney's offer stated here July 20. He said he had instructed his staff to "proceed with discussions with the Americans for implementation".

Sir Sholto said that Britain would continue to strive for economic unification of all Germany, as provided by the Potsdam agreement, and expressed regret that the French and Russians were not yet ready or willing to join.

The Soviet representative, Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, apparently backed into a showdown on Russia's opposition to economic unity now, claimed that the Russians were still "supporting economic and political unity of Germany as a whole" but that his government did not favor the American proposal. He said Moscow thought this proposal "unwise" and feared it would "lead to further separation of the zones."

Sokolovsky said the Russians "regretted that the American statement said nothing about the political unity of Germany." Then he asked for a quadripartite investigation of methods to increase interzonal trade and transport "within the framework of the common policy of the allies in Germany."

McNarney replied that his proposal for economic unity did not rule out political unity but added that he thought it better to start with economic unification. He said the Americans would do all in their power to promote any quadripartite action designed to facilitate interzonal trade and travel.

COMMONS HEARS OF MERGER PLAN

Britain Accepts U. S. Offer on Reich Occupation.

London, July 30 (A. P.).—Great Britain's acceptance—"in principle"—of a United States offer to merge the British and American zones of occupation on Germany was announced in the House of Commons last night by Minister of State Philip Noel-Baker, who described it as a step directed against nobody.

France, he said, had not agreed to come in. The United States State Department, in its announcement yesterday of Britain's acceptance of the merger scheme, reiterated the hope that both France and Russia would accept. Diplomats expressed belief that France would accept shortly, but that Russia would refuse to co-operate in the proposed economic unification of Germany.

"The adoption of this measure," said Noel-Baker in his formal announcement of Britain's acceptance of the merger, "ought to make it easier to secure the reintegration of Germany into one whole.

Some confusion followed his announcement, since some of the first reports, including those by Hansard's (the record of parliamentary proceedings corresponding to the Congressional Record) and the Exchange Telegraph Agency, quoted Noel-Baker as saying France "had agreed to come in."

Both corrected the statement later to make it read in the negative.

J. B. Hynd, Britain's chief administrative officer in Germany, said that the terms of the American merger proposal would "be conveyed to the French and the Russians because we are not departing from the quadripartite government of Germany and there is no intention on our part to establish an iron curtain down the middle of Europe so long as there is a chance of avoiding it."

He commented that the food situation in the British zone—where Germans currently are held to a ration of 1,050 calories daily—was "entirely unsatisfactory" and was "leading not only to listlessness among working people and to the possibility of dangerous epidemics this winter, but to the possible complete breakdown of production in our zone."

'SHOOT TO KILL' PLAN FOR YANKS IN GERMANY

BERLIN, July 30 — (AP) Col. Frank L. Howley said today that every officer and American civilian employe in his military government headquarters would be issued a pistol and "taught to shoot to kill as a measure of self-defense aganist civilian violence, should it arise."

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, U. S. commandant in Berlin, has approved the plan of "mere preparedness," he said.

"Officers will be instructed to see that their wives and children also know how to use guns," Howley said, "for occupation forces are thin, so thin that we have to use German prisoners to do some of our defense chores.

"While the Germans seem passive now, we must remember that this is the heart of Black Prussia and there will always be a small percentage of Germans who want to settle their economic and social problems by violence. x x x Riots don't follow the rules of the Geneva convention.

Russians Return Two Officers To U.S. Commander In Berlin

Berlin, Wednesday, July 31 (AP)—Russian authorities today released Capt. Harold Cobin, of New York city, and Lieut. George Wyatt, of Oklahoma City, who had vanished July 4 on an unauthorized trip into the Soviet occupation zone.

Maj. Gen. Walter A. Keating, American commander in Berlin, said emphatically that the release of the two officers did not involve any exchange of detainees.

In that respect their case differed from that of an American warrant officer and his wife who were freed by Soviet officials in return for the release by United States Army authorities of three Russians picked up in the American zone on suspicion of espionage.

Wife Waiting In Berlin

Mrs. Mary Cobin, awakened and informed that her husband was being returned, exclaimed: "It's the best news of my life. I'm going to have a big party for Harold when I see him. You know we haven't seen each other in two and a half years."

Mrs. Cobin arrived in Berlin with other American dependents after her husband had been missing for a week. She has maintained an apprehensive vigil since then.

Keating personally took delivery of Cobin and Wyatt at the Russian headquarters. He said he planned to keep the pair in his home through the early hours of the morning "because we have things to ask and to tell them."

Interviews Arranged

Later in the morning the two officers will be made available for interviews by newsmen.

Cobin and Wyatt were released after Keating said Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikow, the Soviet commander in Berlin, had informed him that the Russians had picked up the two Americans "near Berlin."

Kotikov did not say how long they had been in custody but told Keating he was acting in accordance "with our agreement that we inform each other when we pick up one another's nationals."

Previously the Russians had maintained that they had no knowledge of the whereabouts of Cobin and Wyatt, although United States Army criminal investigation agents had stoutly maintained that the pair was in the Soviet zone and claimed to have knowledge of their movements.

The two officers last were seen in the North Berlin railroad station apparently preparing to board a train for Oranienburg, north of the capital.

They were the second pair of Americans to have vanished into the Russian zone this month. Warrant Officer Samuel Harrison and his wife, Helen, of San Antonio, Texas, were held there fifteen days and were released by Soviet officials after the Americans freed three Russians who had been arrested in Berlin on suspicion of espionage.

Keating disclosed tonight that two German women who were with the Harrisons, also had been returned by the Russians.

RUSSIANS DEMAND DEATH SENTENCES FOR 22 GERMANS

G.K. THORENFELD

NUERNBERG, Germany, July 30 —(AP) The first defense witnesses for seven indicted Nazi organizations were called before the international military tribunal today after the Russian prosecution demanded the death of 22 Nazi leaders on trial for war crimes.

The Soviet Prosecutor Lt. Gen. Roman Rudenko, asserted that "such a verdict will be greeted with satisfaction by all progressive mankind." He said he considered all the charges brought against the defendants fully proved.

He assailed their defense pleas as lies, evasion and slander an demanded the death penalty "In memory of the millions of innocent human beings slaughtered by a gang of murderers."

Call Defense Witnesses

Later Karl Haufmann, gauleiter of Hamburg, and Willi Winterborn, Kreisleiter of Cloppenburg, were called as first witnesses for the Nazi party leadership corps. They testified they did not know for a long time of the activities charged against the corps.

Haufmann said gauleiters took orders directly from the Fuehrer, the Reich Council, or Deputy Fuehrer, and had no real connection with the SS Elite Corps, Gestapo, or similar organizations which also were indicted along with the Reich Cabinet and German general staff and high command.

Haufmann said gauleiters had no connection with the lynching of Allied airmen, maltreatment of inmates of concentration camps or persecution of Jews. But under cross-examination by Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, British prosecutor, Haufmann admitted that it was possible to construe Deputy Fuehrer Martin Bormann's orders to "render harmless" Allied fliers parachuting into Germany as orders to let the local populations lynch them.

Winterborn said that "Even when I knew conditions were bad, I could not, as an old party member and a long political leader, quit my post when there was a chance that, by working from within, I could make conditions better."

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief of the U.S. prosecution, told a news conference that he planned to leave tomorrow afternoon for the United States, and expected to return early in September to hear the tribunal's verdict.

Jackson Leaving Trial For Visit To U.S.

Nuernberg, July 30 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, said today he would leave for the Unietd States late tomorrow and return here "in the first days of September" for the verdict of the international military tribunal in the war-crime cases.

Thomas Dodd, executive trial counsel, and Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, deputy chief of counsel, will assume interim duties of the chief American prosecutor. Dodd will represent the United States prosecution in the trials of the accused German organizations except the high command and general staff of the German armed forces, which Taylor will prosecute. Taylor will also be in charge of all subsequent proceedings against lesser Germans who might be called to trial.

Jackson will go home by way of Paris, where Secretary of State Byrnes and other American dignitaries are attending the peace conference. He will be in Paris tomorrow night.

CLAIM NEUROTICS USED AS GUARDS AT PRISON CAMP

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, July 30—(AP) Maj. Walter H. Holdridge of Scarsdale, N. Y., testified at the trial of Col. James A. Kilian today that "Psychoneurotic" soldiers were used as guards over Americans at the Lichfield, Eng., replacement depot formerly commanded by Kilian.

Holdridge, a defense witness, said he had heard of no instances of mistreatment of soldiers in the Lichfield guardhouse until after Kilian had left the depot in January, 1945. Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., is being tried by court martial on charges of cruelty to prisoners.

Holdridge, former classification officer at the depot, said "About the only men we could keep as guards were psychoneurotics" — men suffering from emotional or mental disturbances.

Well Men at Fronts

"All the fit men we had to send back to the front, but I chose the least psychoneurotic for guards," he said.

Prosecutor Maj. Joseph S. Robertson of New York City asked "didn't you regard it as dangerous to send psychoneurotics into the guardhouse with clubs in their hands?"

"No, there are many types of 'Psychos'," Holdridge replied.

He said two guardhouse officers complained to him about the type of men they were receiving as guards, but insisted he did not remember the officers' protesting that the guards were abusing prisoners. He added that Killian spent about 10 hours a week talking to prisoners, although the guardhouse constituted only a "Relatively insignificant" part of Kilian's responsibilities at the depot.

Meanwhile in the companion trial of Capt. Joseph A. Robertson of Toledo, Ohio, Robertson's attorney charged "Improper interference."

Protest Delay of Witnesses

Col. William E. Parker, of East Hampton, Mass., protested a new delay in obtaining seven witnesses whom the military court had asked the War Department to send here from the United States.

A letter from the office of Brig. Gen. T. F. Bresnahan, continental base section commander, asked trial officers today to explain why the witnesses were required.

Insisting that the court already had ruled that the witnesses were essential, Parker said "The action of General Bresnahan constitutes an improper interference with the proceedings of this court and also indicates an accession to the wishes of some higher echelon."

He said Bresnahan must review the Lichfield trial verdicts, and declared "Such accession indicates a possible bias or prejudice on his part" which "may Constitute grounds for a challenge against the jurisdiction of this court."

The court recessed to permit preparation of a reply clarifying the need for the requested witnesses.

The attorneys for both Kilian and Robertson have asked for written testimony from six generals and 51 other witnesses. Couriers were sent today to the United States, England and Italy to secure the depositions.

SAYS NEUROTICS WERE GUARDS

Witness Testifies Fit Men Had Left Lichfield.

Bad Nauheim, Germany, July 30 (A. P.).—A defense witness for Col. James A. Kilian testified today that physhoneurotics—soldiers with mental disorders—were used as guards over American soldiers imprisoned in the Army guard house at Lichfield, England.

Major Walter H. Holdridge of Scarsdale, N. Y., former classification officer of the Lichfield reinforcement depot which Kilian once commanded, told a court martial that "about the only men we could keep as guards were psychoneurotics."

"All the fit soldiers he had to send back to the front, but I chose the least psychoneurotics for guards," he testified.

Earlier today couriers were flown to the United States, England and Italy to secure written testimony from six generals and fifty-one other witnesses in the trial of two officers, accused of cruelty at the United States Army guardhouse at Lichfield, England. Defense attorneys for Kilian and for Capt. Joseph A. Robertson of Toledo, a former company commander at Lichfield, asked for the depositions.

Defense lawyers have protested frequently that they were handicapped because many witnesses could not be brought to the trial. The military courts ordered the depositions taken from witnesses who cannot appear. Five of the witnesses are in England, one is in Italy and fifty-one are in the United States. General officers who will testify in absentia are Lieut.-Gen. John C. H. Lee, commander of United States forces in Italy; Major-Gen. Albert E. Brown, who at one time had general supervision over Lichfield; Major-Gen. Vaughn, former western base section commander; Brig.-Gen. Alexander, formerly with the Army personnel division; and Brig.-Gen. William J. Weaver and Major-Gen Everett F. Hughes.

Col. Raymond E. Ford, attorney for Kilian, said the generals would be questioned about functions of the Tenth Reinforcement Depot at Lichfield.

Stories Called False.

Kilian's lawyers opened his defense today by charging that the prosecution's case before a United States court-martial was "maliciously fabricated."

The first two defense witnesses testified late yesterday that they had observed no maltreatment of American soldier prisoners at Lichfield and had no knowledge of any rough policy which Kilian allegedly enforced.

The witnesses were Major Walter H. Holdridge of 10 Withington Road, Scarsdale, N. Y., and Capt. Rudolph E. Warnecke, whose address was not supplied. Both served at Lichfield under Kilian.

Today Ford declared that the prosecution held an alleged fatal injury to a Lichfield prisoner over the heads of other defendants in order to elicit untrue testimony about Kilian.

He contended that several witnesses, themselves under charges in connection with the treatment of prisoners at Lichfield, changed their testimony on advice of counsel after they were interrogated about the death of a Negro soldier soon after his release from Lichfield.

He said this soldier's death was held over the heads of the witnesses, first to elicit untrue testimony and later to "enforce" such testimony at Kilian's trial.

General officers who will testify in absentia are Lieut. John C. H. Lee, commander of United States forces in Italy; Maj. Gen. Albert E. Brown, who at one time had general supervision over Lichfield; Major General Vaughn, former Wetern Base Section commander; Brigadier General Alexander, formerly with the army personnel division; Brig. Gen. William J. Weaver, and Maj. Gen. Everett F. Hughes.

Col. Raymond E. Ford, attorney for Kilian, said the generals would be questioned about functions of the 10th Reinforcement Depot at Lichfield.

GI Killed In Fall From Heidelberg Bridge

Frankfurt, Germany, July 30 (AP) The United States Third Army reported tonight that Cpl. Donald R. Terrell, whose wife, Mrs. Arma E. Terrell, lives in Casey, Ill., "jumped or was pushed" from a Heidelberg Bridge at midnight July 25, falling 50 feet to his death on the railroad tracks.

FALKENHORST IN DENIALS

General Says He Had Only 'Cool' Relations With Terboven

BRUNSWICK, Germany, July 30 (AP)—Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst testified today before a military court trying him for war crimes that he maintained only "cool, correct" relations with Josef Terboven, German commissar in Norway.

Under questioning by his counsel, von Falkenhorst said the German Army maintained no liaison with Terboven's security police. He said the police and not the army were responsible for the execution of Commandos, except in one case when an officer ordered executions without the knowledge of his superiors.

ing used for the nation's relief and recovery, as required by UNRRA or being diverted.

Asked about published reports that oil from the Russian zone of Austria was being shipped elsewhere and that some had been sold in Czechoslovakia, Mr. La Guardia said, "It all must be used here."

Questioned whether the oil was being used here, he asserted that "that is the issue and I am going to find out."

Mr. La Guardia had before him a copy of the Vienna Red Army newspaper Oesterreichische Zeitung which contained an article saying that UNRRA was being used for political purposes, and reporting that there were 473,000 displaced persons in UNRRA camps in Austria.

He described bitterly the article as "a statement replete with mis information, mistaken facts and personal abuse, written with the best of intentions—to make me feel at home when I reached Vienna."

The actual number of displaced persons in UNRRA camps in Austria, he said, was 47,300.

The former New York Mayor emphasized repeatedly the belief that all armies of occupation should be taken out of Austria, which, he said, "might be able to stand on its own feet in 1948, assuming that the Government and the people were given an opportunity to work out their own salvation."

Asked whether the withdrawal of UNRRA aid might be used as an influence to hasten the withdrawal of armies, Mr. La Guardia replied:

"That is a strategic question—the decision on which would be made known only at the proper or strategic time."

The UNRRA Director General said that to date about $65,000,000 worth of Austria's total allocated $117,300,000 worth of aid had been shipped.

He added that since in all likelihood UNRRA would cease to exist on Dec. 31, 1946, "shipments to Austria will not have been completed by that time."

La Guardia Says Russians Curb UNRRA; Insists on Observer Access to Austrian Zone

VIENNA, July 30 (AP)— F. H. La Guardia, the Director General, of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, said today that observers of the relief agency had not received the right to go freely into the Russian zone of eastern Austria, but added:

"I am going to see to it that they get that right."

He said at a news conference that he was investigating to determine whether the full natural produce of eastern Austria was be-

Reds Ease Hungarian Reparations Further

Budapest, July 29 [AP—Delayed]—Prime Minister Ferenc Nagy was quoted by the press today as announcing that Russia had agreed to further reparations concessions to Hungary.

Reparations payments for 1946 were reduced from $60,000,000 to $21,800,000, the announcement said, while payments for 1947 and 1948 will be $23,000,000 and $25,000,000.

Russia has waived a $6,000,000 penalty for undelivered goods in 1945 reparations, and has agreed to accept Hungarian-owned shares in the Petrozseny coal mines in Transylvania as reparations, it also was stated.

Last April, Russia agreed to give Hungary two more years to make her payments.

POLISH REDS SCORE ENGLISH CARDINAL

Warsaw, July 30 (A. P.).—The communist-backed newspaper Glos Ludu yesterday attacked Bernard Cardinal Griffin, Archbishop of Westminster, as a representative of "the most pro-German sector of British society."

The paper asserted editorially that the Cardinal was the main protector of the forces of Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, commander of the Polish overseas army during the war, whose followers it accused of "creating banditry in Poland."

Declaring that the Cardinal had been instrumental in collecting money for the support of Anders's troops, recruited by the former Polish exiled government in London, the editorial added: "If people are daily murdered by Anders's men in Poland, this blood sticks to the well-kept hands of Cardinal Griffin—the protector of Anders in Poland."

The paper also assailed the Roman Catholic clergy in Poland for allegedly interfering with the present Warsaw regime, and warned: "If the church's representatives will not be loyal, means will be found which will cool the hottest politicizing prelates."

Tel Aviv's 22-Hour Curfew

Jerusalem, July 30 (AP)—Twenty thousand British troops, ordered to "shoot to kill" violators, clamped a 22-hour-a-day curfew on Tel Aviv today and began a systematic street-by-street hunt for terrorists responsible for recent outbreaks of violence in the Holy Land.

The entire population of 200,000 in the modern all-Jewish city was under house arrest as the troops began their vast manhunt, unprecedented in the turbulent history of Palestine. Up to 3,000 arrests were expected.

By early evening the red-bereted Tommies already had screened a large number of Jews through their dragnet and had detained 133 men and ten women for questioning.

Populace Taken By Surprise

A high ranking officer said the curfew would last three or four days, while the troops hunted down members of Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern gang, Jewish underground organizations, "and other wanted persons."

The troops swept upon the city suddenly and took the residents completely by surprise. Tiger tanks clanked and armored cars rattled through the streets at dawn, followed by the methodical beat of hobnailed boots as the soldiers began the hunt.

Suspects were routed from their beds and their homes and, clad in pajamas, housecoats and shorts, were rounded up in "company screening centers," where their identies were checked against lists furnished by Palestine police. Many were held for irregularities in their papers, or on suspicion of being underground members.

Hospital Patients Examined

Even hospitals were searched, and military doctors examined all bedridden persons.

Maj. Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commanding the operations, said the search was instigated because of outrages committed against the Palestine community in recent months and added that "by hook or by crook we must find and detain these gangs."

The troops also were believed to be searching for caches of arms and clandestine radio transmitters.

An official statement said the operation was the direct result of the bombing eight days ago of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem.

Denounced By Jewish Agency

The normally bustling metropolis became virtually a ghost city as the troops imposed the curfew, branded immediately by a Jewish Agency spokesman in Jerusalem as "a draconic measure the like of which never has been known before in Palestine."

All telephone communication between Tel Aviv and the rest of the Holy Land was halted. Hebrew newspapers did not publish. Vessels were forbidden to put to sea from Tel Aviv harbor.

Despite the sweltering heat of the coastal plain, all residents were ordered not only to remain indoors but to stay away from their windows and balconies. Even Jewish police must remain in their homes until summoned by the British.

All Curfew Passes Revoked

For only two hours daily will the curfew be lifted, and then only to afford residents opportunity to purchase necessities.

During British military operations June 29, when more than 2,500 Jews were rounded up and Jewish institutions were searched and occupied, Tel Aviv was under curfew for a day and a night. This time, however, all curfew passes, even those issued to correspondents, were revoked. About two dozen foreign correspondents from Jerusalem were taken on a conducted tour of Tel Aviv by the Army.

Lieutenant General Sir Alan Cunningham, Palestine high commissioner, said the main object was the "detention of terrorists" and that it was the direct result of "the vile and horrible crime" of the hotel bombing in which "over 100 innocent civilians lost their lives." An underground communiqué had said the Irgun Zvai Leumi did the bombing.

Linked With Jerusalem Crime

"There is clear evidence," Sir Alan declared, "of the existence of terrorists in Tel Aviv, and that some, if not all, of those who took part in the Jerusalem crime came from that town."

The rest of Palestine was quiet but tense.

Methodically, the troops at dawn began their house-to-house search, arresting Jews described officially as known or suspected members of Irgun Zvai Leumi or the Stern gang.

Those arrested, army authorities said, will be held temporarily for identification, the men at Rafa prison camp and the women at Latrun detention camp, which still holds Jewish leaders arrested in the June 29 operation. Officials did not say how long these persons would be detained, but it was indicated that those found innocent would be released as quickly as possible.

"Unprecedented In Severity"

A Jewish Agency spokesman in Jerusalem declared that the curfew imposed on all citizens of Tel Aviv and the neighborhood, comprising some 200,000 persons, is unprecedented in its severity.

"The decision to shoot at sight any person contravening the curfew order, however inadvertently, is a draconic measure the like of which has never been known before in Palestine," this spokesman said. "It can only be hoped that the troopers engaged on these operations will maintain the greatest restraint, though the recent letter of General Barker . . . can hardly be expected to serve as a moderating factor."

He referred to an alleged order to British troops by Maj. Gen. Evelyn Barker, British commander in Palestine, forbidding fraternization with Jews.

Agency's Comment On Search

"As for the search itself," the Jewish Agency spokesman continued, "if it is to serve a useful purpose it is to be hoped that it will succeed better than the military operations at the end of June in distinguishing between active terrorists, on the one hand, and the bulk of a peaceful population on the other, who are concerned solely with getting on with their daily work.

Sir Alan's statement reiterated his "earnest wish that military operations and restrictions should interfere as little as possible with the normal life of the country."

22-Hour-A-Day Curfew Fixed In Tel Aviv

Jerusalem, July 30 (AP)—British troops placed the 200,000 residents of the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv under virtual house arrest at dawn today as they opened a prolonged and deliberate roundup aimed at finding the persons who bombed the King David Hotel, in Jerusalem last week. C.L. DAVIDSON

The entire city was placed under a 22-hour-a-day curfew, with residents forbidden, under penalty of being shot on sight, to leave their homes except during an authorized two-hour period for purchasing food and other supplies.

Hotel Death Toll 87

Lieut. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British High Commissioner for the Holy Land, said the British had "clear evidence of the existence of terrorists in Tel Aviv and that some if not all of those who took part in the Jerusalem crime came from that town." Eighty-seven bodies have been recovered from the hotel and 24 persons are missing.

A high-ranking officer in Jerusalem said the world's only all-Jewish city probably would be under the rigid curfew for several days while soldiers and Palestine police carried on the steady house-to-house search, which officials predicted would result in the arrest of 2,000 to 3,000 men and women.

Believed Seeking Arms

The searchers also were believed to be seeking arms cachés and clandestine radio transmitters operated by such Jewish underground organizations as Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern gang, whose members, an army officer said, were the principal objects of the roundup.

It was the second time in a month that the city had been placed under a rigid curfew. A month ago Jewish institutions in Tel Aviv were occupied and searched and the residents of the city were held under curfew for 24 hours.

Under the terms of the present curfew the residents are not permitted to go near their windows nor on their balconies and must stay inside their homes, despite the sweltering heat on the coastal plain. The Tel Aviv beach, usually teeming with thousands seeking relief from the heat, was deserted.

All Curfew Passes Revoked

All curfew passes, such as those issued to newspaper men, were revoked, although the Army conducted a tour of the city for some two dozen foreign correspondents from Jerusalem. The imposition of the curfew meant that Palestine would be without Hebrew newspapers for some days and all telephone communication from Tel Aviv was stopped.

Roadblocks were set up at all the city's exits and no vessels of any kind were to be allowed to leave Tel Aviv's harbor during the period of the search.

"It lies with Yishuv (the Jewish community) to decide whether they will help or hinder the design of rooting out the canker, which, if it remains, can only recoil on the heads of Yishuv under whatever conditions the future may hold for them," General Cunningham said.

Palestine police announced earlier that a large quantity of machinery, a crudely constructed hand grenade and several detonator caps were seized in a raid on a Tel Aviv workshop last night.

"It is suspected," the police announcement said, "that the premises were intended for large-scale manufacture of bombs."

Hotel Blasted Again

In Jerusalem, British soldiers continued their steady task of sifting through the rubble of the bombed hotel after blasting away part of the building to remove weakened parts. A British officer said the blasting did more damage to the Y.M.C.A. building, across the street, than the first bombing of the hotel by extremists last week.

[In London, Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison was chosen as chief government speaker in the debate on Palestine, which opens in the House of Commons tomorrow. Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization, spoke—off the record—for 40 minutes last night to members of Parliament who met to discuss the situation.]

ARABS DEFIANT ON PARTITION OF PALESTINE

Concern Over Barker's Edict Rises On Eve Of Commons Debate

JUL 31 1946

London, July 30 (AP)—An alleged order by the British Palestine commander prohibiting fraternization of British personnel with Jews caused grave concern in Government circles tonight on the eve of a House of Commons debate on policy in the Holy Land.

In Cairo, meanwhile, Jamal Husseini, acting president of the Arab Higher Executive of Palestine, charged the United States with "selling Palestine in order to get Jews' votes" and declared that Arabs "will fight to the last man and woman and will seek the help of any country" to block the British-American Cabinet committee proposal for a division of Palestine on federation lines.

Husseini, en route to Alexandria to visit the Mufti of Jerusalem, spiritual leader of Palestine Arabs, urged in an interview that the Arab League muster an army "to defend Palestine in this critical moment."

Jewish Rejection Forecast

Jewish rejection of the Cabinet committee proposal was forecast in Paris by David Ben Gurion, chairman of the Jewish Agency, who said the plan was "hardly worth discussing." He said the agency, meeting in Paris this week, would turn down the proposal.

High British Government sources said the alleged letter to British officers in Palestine banning fraternization was being discussed "at Cabinet level," and that the Labor Government took a "serious view" of the remarks in the order, attributed to Maj. Gen. Evelyn Barker, British commander in Palestine.

The reported order was expected to figure prominently in tomorrow's debate, for which Prime Minister Attlee may return from the Paris conference.

Section Of Letter Emphasized

Particular concern was said to have been expressed over one section of the letter, which was quoted by news agencies as saying:

"I appreciate that these measures (nonfraternization) will inflict some hardships on the troops, but I am certain that if my reasons are fully explained to them, they will understand their propriety and will be punishing the Jews in a way the race dislikes as much as any—by striking at their pockets."

Reports from Jerusalem Sunday said the letter was posted in officers' messes, and quoted it as saying:

"I am determined that they (Jews in Palestine) shall suffer punishment and be made aware of the contempt and loathing with which we regard their conduct."

The Daily Herald branded the letter as "stupid and intemperate" and said that if Barker wrote the letter "he has demonstrated overwhelmingly his unfitness for his command."

Palestine Order Discussed By High Britons

London, July 30 (AP)—An informed source said today that the reported action of the British commander in Palestine, Lieut. Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker, forbidding troops to fraternize with Jews, was being "considered at the Cabinet level."

The Daily Herald, newspaper of the dominant British Labor party, commented that the General's action was "stupid and intemperate." Barker was reported Sunday to have said the Jewish community "cannot be absolved of responsibility for a long series of outrages" culminating in the bombing of the King David Hotel, headquarters of the Palestine Government and British Army, in which 111 persons were killed or are missing.

Taking "A Serious View"

The informant said the British Labor Government was taking "a serious view" of the Palestine commander's reported remarks. A report has been asked.

Barker was reported from Jerusalem Sunday to have had posted in officers' dining halls a letter saying:

"I am determined that they [the Palestine Jews] shall suffer punishment and be made aware of the contempt and loathing with which we regard their conduct."

The informant said particular concern had been voiced in high Government circles over a section of the letter which said:

"I appreciate that these measures [nonfraternization] will inflict some hardships on the troops, but I am certain that if my reasons are fully explained to them they will understand their propriety and will be punishing the Jews in a way the race dislikes as much as any—by striking at their pockets."

The House of Commons is expected to discuss the letter tomorrow during a debate on Palestine. Prime Minister Attlee may return from Paris for the debate.

Some of the casualties at the King David Hotel bombing were British Army personnel and some were ATS women soldiers.

The Herald said editorially that it was "obviously within the immediate discretion of the General to forbid fraternization," but declared that Barker apparently had "plunged into excited and profoundly biased political comment."

"Extreme Bitterness"

"Responsible correspondents have told us that recent outrages have caused extreme bitterness among British troops," the paper added. "That is understandable.

"But it is the duty of British senior officers on the spot to keep this bitterness within bounds—not to attempt to enlarge it into a general hatred for all Jews in Palestine and for the Jewish race."

The paper concluded that if arker had been quoted correctly "then it seems to us that he has demonstrated overwhelmingly his unfitness for his command."

Moslems Map Campaign

BOMBAY, July 30 (AP).—The Moslem League, following the withdrawal yesterday of its acceptance of the British plan for Indian independence, began arranging today for a "direct action" campaign for its goal of Pakistan, a separate Moslem state.

The league's working committee announced that a special committee will be created to devise methods for the campaign. It designated Aug. 16 as a day of Hartal (suspension of normal activities) for Moslem throughout India and for meetings at which leaders will explain political developments.

BRITAIN MAY MAKE NEW INDIAN OFFER

J.A. KELLY

Bombay, July 30 (A. P.).—Unconfirmed reports circulated here today that the British faced with rejection by the Moslem League of their latest proposals for Indian independence, planned to make still another attempt to arrange for an interim central government.

These reports said that the announcement of the new attempt would come either from London or from Viceroy Lord Wavell in New Delhi.

Postal, telegraph and telephone strikes delayed news of the reaction of Indian leaders to the Moslem League's withdrawal yesterday of its acceptance of the independence proposals.

The league's action aligns it with the Sikh minorities in refusing to participate in negotiations. The Congress party, while agreeing to enter the constituent assembly, has insisted that it is unfettered by any promises and can withdraw at any time.

What the league's reaction would be to any new proposals was not made clear, but its Council of Action insisted yesterday that its principal goal was Parkistan—creation of a separate Moslem nation in India.

Meanwhile, there was no indication of any immediate settlement of the communications strikes. Five girls were injured in Calcutta yesterday during a one-day general protest strike called in sympathy with the walkout.

9 JAPANESE ARE HANGED

Former Allied Prisoners See Singapore Executions

SINGAPORE, July 30 (AP)—Nine Japanese war criminals were hanged today at Changi Jail while a number of former Allied prisoners of war, who had testified against them, looked on.

Among those executed were Lieut. Takaoki Shinji and Lieut. Kawajiri Takeshi, nicknamed the "Frog Man" and the "Undertaker" by prisoners who testified that they had been responsible for some of the worst atrocities in Burma and Siam.

The seven others were convicted of atrocities in the Andaman Islands.

300 Heavily Armed Marines Seek Comrades Near Peiping

Peiping, July 30 (AP)—Three hundred motorized United States Marines armed with howitzers spread through a cornfield battleground near Peiping today looking for an undetermined number of comrades missing after a clash with Chinese Communists in which four Marines were killed and nineteen wounded.

The heavily armed patrol, supported by warplanes, broke out of Tientsin Monday upon the first flashed word that a 100-man truck convoy had been ambushed 35 miles southeast of Peiping and was outnumbered 3 to 1.

The relief force did not arrive, however, until the four-hour engagement was over and the convoy had escaped from the danger zone in a storm of rifle fire from Chinese in the corn rows.

Howitzers Ready "In Case"

With a dozen mobile 105-mm. howitzers ready just in case the attackers returned in force, the patrol fanned out through the countryside looking for possible survivors or wounded.

Gen. Chou En-lai, head of the Communist delegation in Nanking, asserted the clash resulted from "Marine provocation" and "the Communists have absolutely no intention of unleashing a conflict." He said the Communists had been provoked by Marine intrusions into their areas.

Marine sources in Peiping said a Marine patrol recently exchanged fire with Communist troops in the area southeast of Peiping and the Communists probably were retaliating.

Dead Not Identified

Marine sources said the four dead had yet to be identified, and that two of the nineteen were wounded so badly they may die. They were checking their lists to see how many others were unaccounted for.

Chinese sources said two of the slain Marines were officers in the leading command car who fell in the first volley that struck the convoy as it wound up the road, carrying replacements from Tientsin for the Peiping garrison.

Two Army men with the convoy, giving the first on-the-spot account of the battle, said the attackers opened up with grenades as well as rifles.

Told They Were In Danger Zone

The attack erupted "like an explosion" north of Hohsiwu, 35 miles southeast of Peiping, said Army Major Fred J. Frees, of Sioux Falls, S.D.

"We had been told by the Marines we were in a danger zone," Frees continued. "When we heard shooting, we leaped from our vehicle and dove into the fields.

"We could see them running through the corn rows. They looked like Indians on the war path."

Initial Ambush Almost Wiped Out Marines

Peiping, July 30 (AP)—Three hundred Chinese, some wearing the bluish-green uniforms of Communists, killed at least four United States Marines and wounded 19 others with automatic weapons, rifles and grenades during a violent four-hour attack on a truck convoy of 100 Leathernecks, eyewitnesses related today.

A search is being made for other Marines, believed to be still missing.

The attackers, lying in ambush in cornfields near the village of Aohsiwu, 35 miles southeast of Peiping, would have wiped out the convoy had the Marines not elected to jump back in the trucks and roar away under fire, the witnesses said.

Red Charges Provocations

[In Nanking, Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator in efforts to settle China's fratricidal strife, expressed belief that the clash resulted from Marine provocation of Communist forces during the last three weeks. He added that "Communists have absolutely no intention of unleashing a conflict."

[He said Communists have been provoked by Marine intrusions into their areas.]

Major Fred J. Frees, of Sioux Falls, S.D., who was with the convoy of replacements bound for Peiping from Tientsin, said the attack erupted "like an explosion."

"They threw everything at us during the first hour of attack except the kitchen sink," Sergt. James West, of Cincinnati, added.

Frees and West, both Army men, were convoy passengers.

Quick Action Saves Group

Major Frees, a special service officer for Peiping headquarters, said: "If the Marines had not reacted as efficiently and swiftly as they did, the convoy would have been taken in the first rush."

He declined to identify the attackers as Communists, but said he saw two dead Chinese on the road who wore "bluish green uniforms," the color of those worn by Communists.

Some of the attackers were in uniform, others in farmer clothing and some wore only shorts.

"We could see them running through the corn rows and they looked like Indians on the war-path," Frees said.

"We had been told by the Marines we were in a danger area. When we heard shooting, we leaped from our vehicle and dove into the fields.

Bullets Whistle Overhead

"Three or four hand grenades exploded less than 20 feet from us. We scrambled into a depression in the sand and all the time we were there bullets plowed into the bank or whistled over our heads."

Firing from both sides was heaviest during the first hour. After a few minutes' fighting, the Marine defenders drove off assaults and the attackers never again approached within hand grenade range although the Chinese several times attempted to close in.

"There is no doubt the attackers were really out to get the convoy," Frees said.

"The ambush was very well timed, very well prepared" and was made from both sides of the highway under cover of cornfields reaching to the road.

Marine Sent For Aid

The ambush occurred at noon. About 1.30 P.M., a Marine was sent through the encirclement to obtain aid.

"No help came," Frees said, "but we planned our escape.

"Trucks pulled out of the fighting area at full speed. Drivers held their gas pedals down to the floorboards."

Sergeant West said the trucks left the area at 5 to 10 second intervals. Then regrouped after getting out of the danger area.

"The attackers kept firing as we pulled out," Frees said. 'During the ride to Peiping, everybody helped give aid to the wounded. A jeep was sent ahead for an ambulance which met the convoy outside the city wall. Several of the men suffered from heat prostration. That was the worst part of the fight—intense heat."

Army Men Join Fighting

The two army men acknowledged they took an active part in the fighting.

The Communists also suffered losses.

Two Leatherneck officers in a command car leading the convoy of seven trucks were reported to have been killed instantly.

A Marine whose face was shot away and another whose body was peppered with bullet holes were not expected to live. Of the wounded, eight were treated and released but eleven were hospitalized.

The Marine Corps stated in a press release that "there were some casualties among the force that attacked us." The release described the assailants as "uniformed Chinese estimated to be about 300 men."

Marine sources said the dead have not been identified. Names of the men who succeeded in reaching Peiping were being checked with the list of those scheduled to go out on the convoy from Tientsin, to determine the number still missing.

The Marines said 300 Leathernecks from Tientsin, equipped with at least a dozen 105-mm. howitzers and supported by planes, were rushed to the aid of the ambushed convoy. But other sources said the clash had ended before the patrol arrived.

A Marine patrol which left Tientsin last night was unable to make a thorough search of the battle area but planned to do so before returning to Tientsin this morning.

Recent Clash Cited

Several possible reasons for the assault were given. Marines said a patrol recently exchanged fire with Communist troops in that area, killing several Chinese and the Communists near Hohsiwu probably were retaliating.

Another source said a United States Army officer recently was stopped by Communist soldiers while driving through the same area and an incident followed in which a Chinese was shot to death. That report was not confirmed.

[In Shanghai, Chinese Communist sources withheld comment on Monday's battle, saying only that they had not yet received "our own version" of the incident.

Propaganda Aim Seen

[From Shanghai, too, Spencer Moosa, Associated Press correspondent, radioed that informed observers were speculating that the incident may have been provoked by the Communists in an attempt to create public sentiment in America for immediate withdrawal of all United States forces from China.]

Reserves in the United States North China area, informed sources in Peiping report, were ordered some time ago to depart for the United States by September. Regulars eligible for discharge, who had been scheduled to leave, reportedly have been ordered to stay until the reserves have been transported.

In Shanghai, most foreign observers believe any sudden withdrawal of all American forces would increase instead of diminish the chances of all-out civil war in China.

Communists warned the Government yesterday that if full-scale war did break out, they were ready to cut Government communication lines in a strong new offensive.

There were no indications that peace negotiators were making any progress.

Seven other United States Marines were kidnapped near Chinwangtao while buying ice on July 13 and were released by Communists after being held twelve days. During that time, Communist spokesmen charged that Marine searches for the men violated Chinese sovereignty and warned that the United States must bear responsibility if such expeditions led to armed clashes.

CHINESE CONFER ON PEACE PLANS

NANKING, July 30. (AP) Rival Chinese government and Communist leaders in Manchuria concluded two conferences in Mukden today which the official Central News Agency described as promising for the cause of peace in China.

While the Government and the Communists reported fighting still raging in the northern part of strategic Kiangsu province northeast of Nanking, the tense situation in Manchuria took on a rosier tinge.

Gen. Tu Yu-ming, the government's commander in Manchuria, and Gen. Li Li-san, Communist leader who recently returned from a long stay in Moscow, met for 14 hours at two conferences.

Central News Agency asserted the two "gave the most emphatic assurances of their peaceful intentions."

General Tu, the agency added, promised that as long as the Communist troops remained in present positions "my troops will not provoke them to armed conflict."

Both stressed the desirability of opening the entire stretch of the Changchun railway, communications spinal column of Manchuria, the agency reported.

General Marahall, special U. S. envoy to China, returned from the summer capital of Kuling, but there were no developments in the deadlocked negotiations for a permanent peace for all China.

It was reported reliably that solution of the troubled situation hinged on whether Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was willing to call back the all-party political consultative council, which made a definite start toward national unity at at Chungking last January.

Shanghai Building Pillboxes, Sets Curfew

Shanghai, July 30 (AP)—Steps to safeguard Shanghai from direct assault or from an uprising from within were taken today by Government authorities, despite assurances by Communist Gen. Chou En-Lai that Chinese Reds have no intention of attacking in the direction of this city.

Pillboxes are being built on the city's outskirts, and the Government garrison commander has announced that a 1 A.M. to 5 A.M. curfew will be reimposed August 1.

2,000 Reds Switch Allegiance, Chinese Say

Tientsin, July 30 (AP)—Chinese Government sources claimed today that more than 2,000 Chinese Communist troops laid down their arms and joined Government troops Sunday near the coal mining center of Tangshan. Tangshan is 220 miles northwest of Nanking.

Yesterday, the 208th Division of the Nationalist (Government) Youth Army landed at Taku, near Tientsin, to reinforce Government armies fighting the Communists in North China. Part of the division is due today in Tientsin. The other part will proceed to Peiping.

Early Schemes Of Japanese Revealed

Tokyo, July 30 (AP)—Documents were introduced today at Tokyo's war-crime trial to prove that as early as August, 1936, the Japanese were scheming to "advance and develop the empire toward the South Seas," eradicate the "Soviet menace" to the north and "to prepare against Britain and America."

Over objections of counsel for ex-Premier Hideki Tojo and 26 others, prosecution submitted the excerpts from Japanese Foreign Ministry files. These documents also outlined a series of plots to separate North China provinces from the Government of China proper and established army participation in an economic penetration of the Asiatic mainland.

Read Only In Part

The defense complained that distorted conclusions resulted because only sections were being read.

Tribunal President Sir William Webb overruled a demand that the documents should be read in their entirety.

A Chinese Foreign Affairs Ministry document told of bribery and threats of violence against North China Government officials.

"Since 1933 Japan has attempted urgently to have Hopei, Chahar and other provinces of North China under her domination," the Chinese document related. "Repeatedly they instigated local authorities in North China to proclaim autonomy."

Butter Puzzles Japanese, They Boil It and Get Oil

One Though Importation Would Be Chips of Wood

TOKYO, July 30 (AP).—Notified that butter from abroad was to be distributed, women of a Tokyo suburb, not at all sure what butter was, showed up to get it with beer bottles, sake (rice wine) bottles or straw bags.

One expected to get oil. Another said she thought butter would be chips of wood.

One woman tried boiling it. When she saw it turn to "oil," she figured the problem was solved. She told other housewives and soon every one in the neighborhood was busy boiling butter.

Konoye's Widow Lives Quietly Now

Tokyo, July 30 (AP) — Chiyoko Konoye, widow of Prince Fumimaro Konoye, who committed suicide last December after his arrest had been ordered as a war-criminal suspect, today lives quietly in the home where the great of Japan once called daily.

Formerly there were 30 maids and menservants. Today there are none.

Konoye's younger brother, Hidemaro Konoye, symphony conductor, his wife and their two daughters have moved in with the widow Her son, Fumitaka, with the Japanese Army in Manchuria during the war, has not been heard from since Japan's surrender.

Hidemaro Konoye's wife teaches shorthand to about 30 girls at the house once weekly. She plans to open a large-scale shorthand school in September.

Japs Suspend Reich Firms

Tokyo, July 30 (AP)—The Japanese Government today suspended the business operations of 27 former German-affiliated firms, including the I. G. Farben Industrial Corporation and AGFA partnership. Assets and holdings were handed over to special custodians.

Other German affiliates listed as suspended included Karl Zeiss, Ltd., China Export Import and Bank Company and Japan Olympic Typwriter Company

30 B-29's To Fly Over Tokyo In Fete

Tokyo, July 30 (AP)—Thirty B-29 Superfortresses will revisit eleven major wartime targets as part of the Commemoration of Army Air Forces Day. They will take off from Okinawa and fly over Tokyo Thursday.

The program will include broadcasts by General MacArthur and Lieut. Gen. Ennis C. Whitehead, head of the Pacific air command.

The bombers will circle Tokyo at about 2,000 feet after passing over other bomb-ruined cities, including Hiroshima, Kobe, Osaka and Yokohama. They will be joined over the capital by planes of the 314th Composite Wing, 5th Air Force, now stationed outside Tokyo. Aerial reviews are also scheduled for Okinawa and Korea.

This will be the first mass flight of B-29's over Tokyo since they came over at the conclusion of the surrender ceremony September 2, 1945. The planes will dip wings as they pass over Doolittle softball park, in salute to Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who led the first bombing raid of Tokyo in April, 1942.

Jap Nagato Is Bikini's Third Capital-Ship Victim

Bikini, July 30 (AP)—One of Japan's two heavier prewar battleships, the battered old Nagato, slid quietly to the bottom of Bikini's lagoon before dawn today, adding her to a battelship and aircraft carrier as capital ships sunk in Thursday's underwater atomic-bomb explosion.

It was the fourth and last time the 32,720-ton battlewagon had felt the impact of American military power. Damaged by American planes in the Philippines in October, 1944, she was again pounded at Yokosuka Naval Base two months before the Japanese surrender, and took a third beating in the aerial atomic-bomb burst at Bikini on July 1.

Task Force Commander Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy added the 27,000-ton battleship New York to the apparently damaged list as he issued this revised sixteen-ship score for the Thursday shallow-water test:

SUNK—The 26,100-ton Arkansas, the 33,000-ton carrier Saratoga, the Nagato, an oil tender, and the landing ship from which the bomb was hung.

MISSING AND BELIEVED SUNK—Submarines Pilotfish and Apogon. (He omitted the submarine Searaven, at first reported missing.)

MISSING—Submarine Skipjack.

Three Beached

BEACHED TO PREVENT SINKING—Destroyer Hughes, transport Fallon, submarine Dentuda.

CAPSIZED—Tank Landing Craft 1114.

APPARENTLY DAMAGED—Battleships New York and Pennsylvania; cruisers Salt Lake City and Pensacola.

Deadly X-rays from some of the target fleet delayed complete inspections of all damage. The Nagato, for instance, was to have been towed to sea—but radioactivity had prevented salvage crews from approaching her.

FIGHTING IN LUZON

Manila, July 30 (A. P.).—The first outbreak of fighting in central Luzon since the July 22 truce was reported today by Philippine Army military police, who said that Hukbalahaps (armed peasants) had clashed with civilian guards in Nueva Ecija Province. Provincial headquarters at Cabanatuan have been notified that more than sixty guerrillas passing through the village of Utaob were challenged by civilian guards, and that a short battle ensued. No casualties were reported.

Spurning Theft Ring Leads To Death

Manila, July 30 (AP)—United States Army Headquarters announced today that George J. Sorrell, American civilian worker in the Manila Quartermaster Depot, was fatally shot July 25 for "refusing to co-operate" with a theft ring.

Officers said Sorrell signed a death-bed statement accusing a Filipino guard at the depot of shooting him. The Filipino has not been apprehended.

Sorrell, recently married here, took his army discharge in Manial. The Army did not announce his home town, pending notification of his next of kin.

COFFEE INSISTS CHECK WAS GIVEN TO AID CAMPAIGN

Denies Contractor's Statement That Money Was Paid for 'Services.'

JUL 31 1946

NOT LISTED IN TAXES

Legislator Admits He Failed to Note It in Election Report.

WASHINGTON, July 30 — (AP) Rep. Coffee (D.-Wash.) insisted under oath today that a $2,500 check from a defense contractor was a "campaign contribution" He added, in response to questions, that he had not listed it in either his income tax returns or election contribution report.

Appearing voluntarily before the Senate War Investigating committee, Coffee sharply contradicted sworn tsetimony two hours earlier by Elvind Anderson, Tacoma, Wash., contractor, that he had paid the money in 1941 for "service."

Met in House Restaurant

Anderson testified that a "verbal contract" on the payment was reached in 1941 in a conversation among himself, Coffee and Paul A. Olson, then the congressman's secretary, in a "lonesome narrow corridor beneath a winding staircase" near the House restaurant.

He related that he had lunched with Coffee and Olson, and "one or the other of them suggested that we talk to the side where there is quietness, where people were not around, where we could talk." He said he followed them to the spot beneath the "winding staircase."

"Kind of a lonesone place?" suggested Senator Ferguson (R-Mich).

"Kind of a lonesome place," agreed Anderson.

He quoted Coffee as opening the conversation there by saying that "I understand from Paul that you will pay $2,500 for us to represent you in Washington."

"Yes," the contractor testified he agreed, "I will be willing to pay $2,500 to have representation in Washington. That will be all right with me."

He told the committee that his answer appeared "gratifying to John," and quoted Coffee as saying that "if you do that, you can depend upon us to look after your interests."

Anderson said that he inquired whether it would be "all right" to send a check after he returned home and quoted Coffee as replying: "That's all right, send it to Paul."

Coffee's Version Differs

Coffee's version differed. He denied that he had lunched with Anderson but said the contractor "buttonholed me" beneath the members' staircase leading from the House floor to the street floor.

Coffee asserted that Anderson—"grateful" over assistance lent him by himself and his secretary in obtaining a million dollar contract to build a War Department hospital, and for previous aid—had offered him the contribution.

Anderson testified earlier that there had been no reference or thought about a campaign contribution in the conversation.

Coffee firmly denied that he had received the money for "service," saying that "there never was any discussion about hiring me or Olson as his Washington representative."

Anderson testified that he mailed a check for $2,500 to Olson soon after returning to Tacoma after his conversation with the secretary and Coffee.

Admits Receiving Check

Coffee acknowledged that Olson had received the check, cashed it "right away," and deposited it in one of Coffee's bank accounts.

The congressman complained that the committee's inquiry had been prompted by the Republican National committee and that allegations against him were "saturated in political bias."

Asked by Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) whether he had included the $2,500 in his 1941 income tax returns, Coffee said that he had not because it was a "campaign gift."

He told the committe that he had paid $3,000 "out of my own pocket" in his campaign for reelection in 1938, taking it from a safe deposit box, and that he had applied the $2,500 "to try to replace some of the campaign indebtedness which I had incurred in a very expensive campaign."

Not Listed in Expenses

He testified, too, that he had never included it in his campaign expenses. He told the committee that the laws of the State of Washington require candidates to file election expenses but not contributions.

"What about the Federal law?" demanded Ferguson.

Coffee said that a federal requirement for listing campaign contributions does not cover those received 30 days after the election occurs up to the period a candidate files papers to seek office again.

"Do you think that is a fair interpretation of the law?" Ferguson pressed.

"I am not responsible for any absence of a law covering that period," Coffee replied. "Maybe the law is incomplete."

Repeatedly, Ferguson and Coffee clashed on the interpretation of the law, drawing from the latter at one point an angrily muttered protest:

"This is much do about nothing."

Coffee declared his opinion was supported by South Trimble, clerk of the House. He said he had asked Trimble about the contribution, and had received an answer that he had violated neither the rules of the House nor the corrupt practices act.

Bought Bazaar Tickets

Coffee told the committee that he was "spending money all the time for campaign expenses between election." In response to questions, he cited purchase of tickets for "some church bazaar" and the cost of circulating copies of congressional speeches among his constituents.

Again and again, Coffee emphasized that his aid for Anderson was similar to that which he rendered for other constituents, that he and his staff tried to build up the reputation of "go-getters" among the voters back home.

He said that he had helped Anderson on his "problems" on several occasions before the contractor, as the low bidder, was awarded the job of building a hospital at Fort Lewis.

He reported that Anderson was "in the doghouse" with the government because he had gained a reputation among government engines as "cantankerous" and a man who sought "extras" and failed to live up to his promises.

Coffee protested that previous newspaper accounts had not made clear that reference to a "slip" of paper in correspondence about the check was terminology first used by Anderson. Coffee declared that he had used the same term because Anderson had.

"Gad gentlemen," he burst out, "if there had been anything underhanded about this deal, would I have written any letters about it? If I'd wanted to be underhanded about it, I'd have taken it (the check) and cashed it, and there wouldn't have been any letters."

Coffee told the committee that in a civil suit concerning the hospital contract Anderson had once testified under oath that he had paid "not one cent" in connection with the contract.

The congressman also said a federal judge had ruled that the testimony of Anderson was "so incredible" that it was "not acceptable."

Campaign Not Mentioned

Under Ferguson's questioning, Anderson contended that the "campaign" was not mentioned during his visit to Washington. He denied that he had paid for "influence" or had any thought of making a campaign contribution, asserting that he had sent the check to Coffee's secretary "because of the service I expected to get" from Coffee.

"Didn't you know," asked Senator Connally (D.-Tex.) "that is was a violation of the law to give him a check for services of that character?"

Anderson replied that he had not known.

He said later that his first discovery that there was anything "irregular" about the transaction came in 1944 when he was told that it was "against public policy to pay such money," adding: "I did not know it was a crime to do what I did."

It developed during his testimony that the discovery came as a result of his attempt to charge off the $2,500 as a part of the cost of the contract. That item was stricken from the costs by government negotiators, and he was required to pay personal income tax on it.

Senator Mitchell (D.-Wash.) drew from Anderson an acknowledgement that he had mailed the check after receiving a letter—following his Washington trip—from Olson, in which the former secretary referred at length to the heavy expense of running an election campaign every two years and the high cost of living in Washington.

But Anderson insisted that he did not consider the check a campaign contribution, and termed the letter "just a flowery explanation and window dressing — evidently they were living too high."

Connally remarked that "you could be indicted and, in my opinion, you ought to be indicted."

Pressed on 5-Year Sentence

Mitchell and Chairman Mead (D.-N. Y.) pressed Anderson closely and repeatedly as to why he had remained silent about the check for five years, making it public this spring after he had been defeated in a primary campaign by Olson for the mayor's chair in Tacoma.

Anderson acknowledged that he produced it then as "strategy" to "let the public judge" Olson's qualifications.

Mead declared that the contractor had "concealed" the letter for five years, and added: "You may not be an attorney, but apparently had some advice along the way, for you didn't make it public until the statute of limitations (on criminal prosecution) expired. Or you hit on it very luckily."

Anderson told the committee of telegrams he said he had received from Coffee while he was constructing the hospital. In them, Coffee referred to his "vigorous representation" with the War department in obtaining payments on work which had been held up by local inspectors.

Mitchell asked whether former Senator Rufus C. Holman (R.-Wash.) had helped Anderson on the contract. He replied in the negative, but acknowledged that he had been informed that Holman was "sitting on the secondary line of defense, ready to step in if Coffee failed."

Senator Would Shoot Defective Shell Makers

Willis Urges Firing Squad for War Profiteers

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP).—Senator Raymond Willis, Republican, of Indiana, recommended in the Senate today that persons who had furnished defective shells to the armed forces "be brought before a firing squad and executed as traitors."

The Indiana Senator, making his final speech before retiring from the Senate, asserted that revelations made before the Senate War Investigating Committee indicate "criminal turpitude in the heart of our government itself."

"The miserable machinations of men who have sought to profit by war has been eclipsed by the exposure of evidence that huge business corporations have supplied to our military forces defective shells through which scores of American boys, fighting for our republic, have been cruelly murdered," he said.

5-Year Bonds as Terminal Pay Is Agreed Upon by Conferees

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—A "bottled-in-bonds" terminal pay bill for servicemen and veterans was agreed upon today by a Senate house conference committee.

The five-year bonds in which the major portion of the payments would be made are non-negotiable, but the committee which worked out the final form of the bill provided that they could be used for payments on government life insurance.

An appropriation bill to provide $2,431,708,000 for GI furloough pay was passed by the House today and sent to the Senate. The bill also provides an additional $26,000,000 for OPA.

An estimated $2,400,000,000 would be paid to present and former service personnel in lieu of furlough time they were unable to take during service. Grants would be made on the basis of 2 1-2 days pay for each month of service since Sept. 8, 1939, with a limit of 120 days. On next Sept. 1 the carry-over limit would drop to 60 days.

The conference agreement went back to Senate and House for final approval.

Enactment of the bill would put the enlisted personnel of the armed forces on somewhat the same basis as officers, who have been enjoying paid terminal leave all along. The officers, however, get paid in cash.

The House originally voted for cash payments for enlisted men, too, but at the insistence of treasury and budget officials, the Senate wrote in a bond plan. The conference committe worked out the compromise under which the bonds, while not immediately cashable, could be used to pay premiums on national service life insurance or to convert it to permanent policies.

Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), head of the Senate conferees, conceded that the bonds-for-insurance plan held "some aspects of inflation." However, he told reporters "it also has the virtue of good habit-forming in relation to thrift and insurance."

Few Policies Converted

He observed that only 276,000 of the 5,600,000 outsanding service insurance policies have been converted to the permanent peacetime federal policies.

The bonds, bearing 2 1-2 percent interest, would be issued in $25 multiples, maturing five years after a given veteran's discharge. Amounts due under $50 would be paid in cash. So would the "breakage" in excess of $25 multiples. Thus a veteran to whom $103 was due would receive $100 in bonds and $3 in cash.

An estimated 15,000,000 veterans are expected to apply for the payments.

CLOTHING PRICES BOOSTED BY OPA

Other Increases Predicted in Canned Vegetables, Cereals, Coffee.

WASHINGTON, July 30—(AP)—Government officials tonight predicted higher price ceilings for canned vegetables, breakfast cereals, coffee and possibly bread and other bakery products.

Meanwhile OPA rolled out more price increases on clothing and laid the ground work for still more garment hikes—perhaps as much as 15 to 20 percent—under terms of the new price control law.

As a first step toward meeting these terms, the agency has agreed to increase cotton textile prices an average of 16 percent, an OPA spokesman said. Higher prices for cotton clothing will be based on these increases.

Ask Textile Increase

Industry representatives who met with OPA today had asked a flat 20 percent increase on all cotton textiles. OPA's original proposal provided for an increase of about 14 percent.

Officials who asked to remain anonymous said the government has just about decided against restoration of subsidies on coffee and three major canned vegetables,—peas, corn and tomatoes.

They said permanent elimination of these subsidies, which lapsed July 1, will raise price ceilings on these vegetables by one to two cents for the number two can.

10-Cent Coffee Jump

On coffee, officials estimated that with subsidies out of the picture retail ceilings would have to be jumped eight to 10 cents a pound. About half of this amount represents an increase which was pending at the start of this month, when OPA lapsed.

An OPA official told a reporter there is 'complete indecision" on whether the flour subsidy should be restored. He said bread prices "will not be raised" if subsidies are paid again, but that a price increase is possible if the payments are ruled out.

The flour subsidy held down retail bread prices one cent a loaf, but since price controls were revived last week OPA has made no upward adjustment of bread ceilings to compensate for absence of the subsidy.

Cent Increase on Bread

Bakery industry representatives have petitioned OPA for a one cent a loaf increase on bread and a 25 percent increase on biscuit and cracker prices.

OPA reportedly is taking the stand that a bread increase of one cent a loaf granted last month is adequate to compensate bakers in the event restoration of flour subsidies is ruled out. The agency's contention is that bread production has increased and that costs have declined.

Price increases for several types of breakfast cereals, including oatmeal, were pending when the old price control law lapsed. These increases, to be put into effect soon, will be in line with price hikes previously authorized for corn flakes, puffed wheat and puffed rice.

Ceilings on corn flakes, for example, were raised in June three cents on an 11-ounce package.

Raise Clothing Prices

As for clothing, OPA increased retail ceilings an average of eight percent on a number of men's outer wear garments, including mackinaws, leather coats and jackets, hunting and fishing clothing, heavy wool shirts and lined sports jackets made of cotton.

These increases, granted to offset higher production costs, followed price hikes yesterday of from 11 to 21 percent on shirts, shorts and pajamas.

Price Decontrol Board Sets Meeting

Washington, July 30 (AP)—The newly created price decontrol board expects to get started today on the big job outlined for it by Congress.

Roy L. Thompson, designated chairman by President Truman, planned as the first step a "get acquainted" meeting with his new colleagues, Daniel W. Bell and George H. Mead.

Thompson is president of the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans; Bell, former Under Secretary of the Treasury, is president of the American Security and Trust Company, of Washington, and Mead is board chairman of the Mead Paper and Pulp Company, of Dayton, Ohio.

Quickly Confirmed

The Senate confirmed them in $12,000-a-year jobs late yesterday.

The board is set up under the OPA Revival Act with final authority on removal and restoration of price controls.

The board is faced with this first big assignment:

A decision by August 20 whether price ceilings should be restored on meats, dairy products, grains, cotton seed, soybeans and hundreds of products made from these items.

Public Hearings

If the board fails to act by that time, ceilings automatically will be re-established.

Before any decision on this, the hearings.

The situation is a little different on eggs, poultry, tobacco, petroleum and their products, all of which are ceiling-free at present.

Controls cannot be re-established on these items prior to August 20, nor at any time thereafter unless the board consents.

An Appeal Court

In effect, the board is an appeal court. It will hear appeals on decisions of the Secretary of Agriculture in the case of foods and other farm commodities, and on decisions of the OPA in the case of nonagricultural products.

Preliminary procedure on both of these general assignments is the same. It follows this course:

Industry committees may petition the OPA or the Agriculture Department for removal of ceilings on a commodity. The proper agency then holds a hearing.

If the agency rejects the petition, in whole or part, the industry committee may appeal to the decontrol board within 30 days.

Will Hear Argument

The board is required to conduct a hearing on an appeal petition "at the earliest practicable time."

The board's decision will be final. In the event an appeal is rejected, no new petition for decontrol of the same commodity may be filed with the board for at least three months.

Before ceilings can be restored on any item, either the OPA or the Agriculture Department must obtain the written consent of the decontrol board.

Fight For OPA Fund Increase Is Opened

Washington, July 30 (AP)—The Administration went to bat today to get $26,000,000 additional for the revived OPA before Congress adjourns. The money is included in a deficiency appropriation bill.

As matters now stand, the agency has $75,000,000 to last for nine months—a sum that Representative Dirksen (R., Ill.) says was simply pulled out of "thin air."

The story Dirksen tells is this:

The OPA asked a House Appropriation subcommittee for $142,000,000 for another year's operation. The committee settled on $106,000,000 for nine months; the House approved, and the bill went to the Senate.

Was Cut To 56 Million

No OPA representatives were heard by a Senate committee, but by the time the bill came off the floor the appropriation had been cut to $56,000,000.

House and Senate committee members went into conference to adjust differences, and, said Dirksen, "We ragged around.

"Then I reached up into thin air and pulled out a figure. I said: 'Mr. Chairman, I suggest we give them $75,000,000.' And that is the figure that went up to the White House in the bill."

PREDICT RECORD FLOW OF GOODS IN SIX MONTHS

WASHINGTON, July 30. — (AP) A "Record Volume" of goods may flow to consumers in the next six months, Civilian Production administrator John D. Small forecast tonight on the strength of rapid recovery in steel and coal.

Factory output hit a new post-war peak in June, Small revealed in his quarterly report. It toppled pre-war monthly records in Washing machines, vacuum cleaners, gas ranges, electric irons and table model radios.

Some Slumps Noted

Some slumps were noted, but not enough to offset the general rise. Autos dropped 11 per cent in June from May but rose again in July; farm equipment and tires also declined in June, by three and 10 per cent respectively.

"Additional production gains were registered in July in spite of uncertainties concerning price controls and the adverse effects on production resulting from holidays and vacation periods," the CPA administrator said.

One warning note was sounded: It is probable that a "serious shortage of labor is developing" which may prove to be "an important limiting factor in production by the end of the year."

"The prospects are that business will, first, have to recruit back into the labor force large numbers of those who have left it since V-J day, and second, require that large amounts of overtime be worked if production schedules are to be met," the CPA chief predicted.

Shortage of Help

Despite the fact that 10,000,000 veterans and 50,000,000 war workers have been discharged into the labor market in the last 12 months, the industrial demand for workers has been so great that unemployment has risen only 1,600,000, and "still may be considered remarkably low," Small said.

"The demand for labor in the remaining months of 1946 will be large if, as it now appears, the country's production continues to rise," he went on.

"This demand will have to be filled from a depleted labor pool amounting to less than 4,000,000 workers."

Summarizing recovery from the springtime strikes and shutdowns, Small observed:

"The high level of employment and output and the speed with which our transportation and distributing mechanisms appear to be able to move goods from manufacturers to retail outlets should make a record volume of goods available to consumers during the rest of 1946."

Small took sharp issue with organized business groups which contend that removal or relaxation of price controls will bring a spurt of goods to remedy consumer shortages.

"Rising prices cannot be expected to bring a flood of goods into the market," Small declared. "The economy is too close to full production to allow a significant overall increase in output except through increased man-hour productivity."

Unless industry and labor learn how to boost productivity without increasing the cost of each item made, "prices will rise further," he predicted. If manufacturers try to outstrip competitors by out-bidding them for labor and materials, the result will be less production, increased costs and higher selling prices, he said.

"Both labor and management," he added, "must attempt to arrive at an equitable distribution of earnings for something like six months of full production until a flood of goods satisfies the demands of the country."

Producers of finished consumer goods showed "Commendable Restraint" during the four-week price ceiling holiday, he said, and in general have resisted the temptation to withhold goods from market in anticipation of higher prices.

A steady trend in building materials, especially lumber, was shown in June. Brick and insulating board production mounted to new postwar highs.

Lumber Shortage Severe

The lumber shortage still is severe enough, however, to hold down household furniture output, with production well below the 1941 level.

The volume of new construction rose 11 per cent in June, to $921,000,000. But Small noted that the rate of housing construction leveled off from earlier months, gaining only 10 per cent as against 24 per cent in May.

The automobile industry, still suffering from the steel, coal and railroad strikes, turned out only 142,000 cars in June, down 11,000 from May, but Detroit reports for this month have shown a marked upturn. Tire output sagged because of the synthetic rubber shortage but stayed above prewar levels with 5,200,000 castings produced.

The June record in other goods:

Refrigerators—210,000, up seven per cent from May but still 32 per cent under the prewar production.

Washington machines—493,000, up four per cent from May and 22 per cent above prewar.

Radios—1,378,000, up 16 per cent from May, which already was above prewar levels.

Vacuum cleaners—177,000, up seven per cent from May and 13 per cent over prewar.

Sewing machines—27,000, down 13 per cent from May and only about 60 per cent of the prewar level.

Electric ranges—46,000, nearly 50 per cent over May and almost at the prewar volume.

30. 24-4491

Gas ranges — 141,000, slightly above May and 11 per cent above the 1939 average.

Invasion of Southern France Decided 5-Days Before Blow

WASHINGTON, July 30 — (AP) Britain's Field Marshal Sir Henry Maitland Wilson disclosed today that the final decision for the 1944 invasion of Southern France came just five days before it struck.

With troop and supply ships already loading for the long-planned assault, the combined chiefs of staff over-ruled the idea of shifting the whole thing to Brittany in Western France. The rapid sweep in the north had brought up the possibility at the last minute that an unopposed jump-off into Brittany might be more profitable.

Wilson, then supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean, recounted in a report to the combined chiefs that their go-ahead came on Aug. 10 and that the allied assault on the Riviera was launched on Aug. 15. In two weeks the Germans were almost completely swept from Southern France.

Overruled by Eisenhower

Wilson had suggested in June a drive through Northern Italy would be more effective, the report related. But General Dwight D. Eisenhower's view ultimately prevailed that Marseilles must be taken to provide additional port capacity to support the decisive battle of France.

Wilson's report, a 20,000 word document released through the War department, sheds new light on the high-level strategic planning. Among his disclosure were:

1. Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, then American Fifth Army Commander in Italy, was Eisenhower's first choice to command the Southern France operation. Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, who since has died, later was chosen.

2. General de Gaulle and General Giraud urged that a French general command the expedition, but were overruled since the three assault divisions were American, and language and command difficulties might cause complications. The seven supporting French divisions were formed, however, into French Army "B" under General De Lattre De Tassigny.

3. Several times preparations for the invasion were cancelled right chiefly because of the demands of the Italian campaign the shortage of shipping to transport an expedition of some 250,000 men.

Backed by Marshall

4. General George C. Marshall, the U. S. chief of staff, supported Eisenhower in the continual exchange of views among Algiers, Castera, Washington and London, with the advice that between 40 and 40 divisions still in the United States would be delayed in reaching France unless Marseilles were opened.

The field marshal said Marseilles was occupied within two weeks, far ahead of schedule.

Wilson took over command of the Mediterranean theater from Eisenhower in January, 1944, and fell heir to the responsibility for the Southern France "anvil" operation for which the preliminary planning had been done.

He relinquished most of the responsibility the following Sept. 15 when General Jacob L. Devers assumed command at Lyon, France, of the Sixth Army Group, over both Patch's American Seventh army and De Lattre's French forces.

Army Expert Predicts Rocket To Moon 'Within Lifetime'

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP) Army Air Force guided missile experts said today they expected to be able to shoot a rocket to the moon within 18 months.

Inter-planetary travel, they said, is probable within 30 years.

Maj. P. C. Calhoun, head of the AAF guided missile branch, said he expected to travel to the moon and back "within my lifetime."

He said the Army did not plan to send a rocket to the moon until it could be certain that it would land safely. He said the rocket would be equipped with automatic devices to send radar signals back to earth giving information about conditions there.

Calhoun said the AAF was concentrating on the development of guided missiles to protect the United States against attack. But he reasoned that the Air Forces would be better equipped than any other agency to prepare for travel in interplanetary space.

Man's Dreams Unlimited

"Science will admit now that man has no limit except his imagination," Calhoun said. "This means that it may take some time but if man can think of it, he can achieve it."

Calhoun said it was hard to convince the public that it was on the verge of inter-planetary exploration for the same reason that men scoffed at Fulton's steamboat and "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," Jules Verne's prediction of the submarine.

"Man is approaching a new frontier of exploration and knowledge," Calhoun said. "He is about to explore the universe. He will see things and perhaps peoples beyond the powers of our imagination."

He said the immediate problem was to produce the best guided missiles possible in order to protect the nation. This requires explorations above the earth to test materials and discover conditions in this region.

May Harness Cosmic Rays

"We may harness cosmic rays for propulsion of space ships," Calhoun said. "Interplanetary travel is not as immense a problem as it may appear to the uninitiated.

"There is little resistance to a moving body outside the earth's atmosphere, and speeds of thousands of miles per hour with small amounts of power are possible in the partial vacuum of outer space."

He said the only limits to travel outside the earth's atmosphere were the amount of fuel needed to propel the space ship. Within five years the AAF expects to have a rocket that will carry men outside the earth's atmosphere and return safely.

Calhoun said the plan is to guide these rockets by remote control to their objectives. They would carry instruments, including television, to send back information. Human exploration would follow.

He said a great many questions —including mysteries about the origin of life itself—may be answered by this inter-planetary exploration

U.S.-CANADIAN AMITY IDEA FOR WORLD PEACE

WASHINGTON, July 30 — (AP) Former Secretary of State Cordell Hull declared today that many of the problems of peace-making would be solved if nations in Europe and Asia would follow the example of the United States and Canada in peaceful living.

"We want the other nations to follow our example," Hull said in a statement prepared for ceremonies at the Canadian embassy upon presentation of a medal and scroll to him by the New York Canadian Club, in recognition of his work for peace.

"If for every mile of the unseen frontier of friendship between Canada and the United States," Hull said, "we could have an identical mile along national boundaries in Europe and Asia, many of the problems that are now so difficult could be solved so easily."

He attributed Canadian-American success in peaceful living to "the fact that both countries have applied to each other the same principles of tolerance, fair dealing and respect for law which have guided us in our government as nations."

vehicle on which to test the use of atomic propulsion.

The only drawback to atomic-powered battleships, he said, was the high cost. The simplest sort of atomic power-production unit would cost about $10,000,000, he said.

Army Claims Altitude Record Of 104 Miles with V-2 Rocket

WHITE SANDS, N. M., July 30 —(AP) A new world's altitude record of 104 miles was claimed today by the Army for a German V-2 rocket fired by technicians at the White Sands Proving Ground.

Eclipsing by 20.5 miles the best previous mark, the height was announced by Col. Harold R. Turner, White Sands commandant, after more than two hours' delay caused by loss of radio contact with field stations observing the missile's flight.

The rocket descended 69 miles north of the launching platform, gouging a deep crater in the New Mexico desert.

Colonel Turner said that instruments carried in the nose came down intact and are expected to provide more information than ever before was available, about such matters as cosmetic rays, temperatures and pressure at that distance above the earth.

Colonel Turner acclaimed the result of today's firing, ninth in a series of experiments with rockets built from captured German parts, as easily the most spectacular yet achieved.

Data-gathering equipment was carried in a compartment substituted for the warhead which the Nazis

Expects Atomic-run Battleships Soon

Nuclear Physics Expert Believes They Can Become a Reality in Two to Five Years.

Baltimore, July 30 (A. P.).—Dr. Robert D. Fowler, atomic energy expert and professor of chemistry at Johns Hopkins University, predicts that atomic-powered battleships may be a reality within the next two to five years.

Vice-Admiral E. L. Cochrane, chief of the Navy Department's Bureau of Ships, was quoted yesterday in a dispatch from Bikini Atoll as saying that atomic energy would be used to propel American battleships within the next ten years.

Dr. Fowler, an early experimenter in the field of nuclear physics, said:

"It can happen a lot sooner than that. If the Navy is really serious about it, I think a battleship could be equipped with an atomic power plant within the next two to five years."

The professor said that a battleship would be the most feasible in wartime loaded with explosives to bomb London.

This section was blasted free of the rocket five and one-half minutes after the 12:36 p. m. (MST) launching by means of a time clock prepared by New Mexico School of Mines scientists here for the test. Previously a radio signal from the ground set off the blast.

A salvage crew was dispatched shortly after the point of descent was located by radar trackers and also by radio from the air. Colonel Turner said the instruments would be forwarded to Maj. Gen. Everett S. Hughes, the army's chief of ordnance, in Washington.

New Launching Aug. 8

Another launching was scheduled for Aug. 8.

Among today's observers was Brig. Gen. R. M. Lee, chief of staff of the U.S. Tactical Air Force, who during the war witnessed Nazi V-2 launchings from the air 30 miles distant and later inspected underground factories in which the Germans built the rocket weapon.

Protests On U.N. Site Choices Renewed

New York, July 30 (AP)—The United Nations ran into a new wave of protests today following publication of a list of fifteen potential sites for permanent United Nations headquarters in Westchester county, N.Y., and Fairfield county, Conn.

Several county and town officials expressed opposition to the tentative site selections immediately, without waiting for the series of meetings the United Nations Headquarters Commission is arranging to inquire into local sentiment.

Sir Angus Fletcher, chairman of the commission, has emphasized that community feeling will play an important part in the five sites finally selected for recommendation to the General Assembly in September. On the basis of early reaction, however, it appeared that he would have difficulty in finding five sites where the United Nations [illegible] be entirely welcome.

Greenwich Sentiment

There was no indication of any sharp change in sentiment in Greenwich, Conn., whose citizens voted more than two to one not to welcome the United Nations when the Westchester-Fairfield area first was mentioned last winter.

Commenting on the fact that seven of the fifteen potential sites mentioned Greenwich and two of them were wholly within the town, First Selectman Wilbur M. Peck said:

"Personally, I wish the United Nations would go somewhere else."

John D. Downing, of Yorktown, N.Y., where three of the sites are partially located, declared: "The people here are generally opposed to the United Nations settling in the town. If they choose this area, I know the people and I personally would be opposed."

"A Nice Town"

First Selectman Winthrop E. Rockwell, of Ridgefield, Conn., said: "I hope they don't come here. This is a nice New England town. It would spoil it."

One of those who favored location of United Nations headquarters in the Westchester-Fairfield area was First Selectman George T. Barrett, of Stamford, Conn.

"Sure, I'm in favor of it," he said. "I think most of the hysterical opposition has died down. If they stick to an area of from five to ten square miles, I think they will dispossess a minimum number of people. Most of the opposition will come from people with their selfish interests at heart."

ACQUITTED RUSSIAN LEAVES BY FREIGHTER

RUSSIA TOLD THE FOREIGN MINISTERS COUNCIL THAT THIS WAS HER POSITION ON THE DANUBE ISSUE:

"THE QUESTION OF THE DANUBE CANNOT BE SOLVED BY THE PEACE TREATIES WITH ROMANIA, BULGARIA AND HUNGARY SINCE IT HAS TO BE SETTLED WITH THE PARTICIPATION OF THE DANUBIAN STATES, WHICH INCLUDE ALLIED STATES SUCH AS CZECHOSLOVAKIA AND YUGOSLAVIA. THE DELEGATION OF THE UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS THEREFORE PROPOSES NOT TO HAVE THE PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE DANUBE INCLUDED IN THE PEACE TREATIES WITH ROMANIA, BULGARIA AND HUNGARY."

RUSSIA HERSELF NOW IS A DANUBIAN STATE, THROUGH ACQUISTION OF TERRITORY FROM ROMANIA. OTHERS ARE GERMANY AND AUSTRIA, TREATIES WITH WHICH ARE NOT BEING CONSIDERED AT PARIS.

BRITAIN, FRANCE AND ITALY, BUT NOT RUSSIA WERE REPRESENTED ON THE INTERNATIONAL DANUBE COMMISSION SET UP IN 1921 UNDER THE VERSAILL TREATY. THAT COMMISSION SUCCEEDED AN OLDER EUROPEAN BODY DATING BACK TO 1854.

THE BRITISH PROPOSAL FOR CREATING A SUCCESSOR TO THE 1921 COMMISSION, AS DISCLOSED IN THE DISAGREED TREATY SECTIONS, CALLED FOR "A CONFERENCE OF ALL INTERESTED STATES," INCLUDING ROMANIA, HUNGARY AND BULGARIA, WITHIN SIX MONTHS AFTER THE TREATIES BECOME EFFECTIVE, "TO ESTABLISH A NEW PERMANENT INTERNATIONAL REGIME FOR THE DANUBE."

THE JOINT UNITED STATES-BRITISH PROPOSAL WOULD PROVIDE FOR "ENTIRE EQUALITY" OF NAVIGATION FOR ALL STATES ON THE DANUBE AND ITS CANALS AND TRIBUTARIES. THE PROPOSAL ALSO WOULD CALL ON ROMANIA, HUNGARY AND BULGARIA:

TO ADMINISTER SANITARY, POLICE AND OTHER LAWS APPLICABLE TO THE RIVER IN A NON-DISCRIMINATORY FASHION.

TO REFRAIN FROM PLACING ANY OBSTACLES TO NAVIGATION AND TO REMOVE EXISTING OBSTACLES, OR ALLOW THEIR REMOVAL BY "ANY INTERNATIONAL AUTHORITY WHICH MAY BE ESTABLISHED FOR THE DANUBE SYSTEM."

NOT TO LEVY TOLLS OR OTHER CHARGES EXCEPT TO COVER LEGITIMATE COSTS OF MAINTENANCE AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE WATERWAY AND TO MAINTAIN A SCHEDULE OF CHARGES OPEN FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION.

UNDER THE PROPOSAL, ROMANIA, HUNGARY AND BULGARIA WOULD BE GUARANTEED EQUALITY OF STATUS WITH OTHER MEMBERS OF ANY PERMANENT INTERNATIONAL REGIME FOR THE DANUBE. ALSO, DISPUTES NOT SETTLED BY NEGOTIATION WOULD BE SUBMITTED TO "A CHAMBER OF THREE OR MORE JUDGES FORMED BY THE INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE UNDER ARTICLE 26 OF ITS STATUTE."

PARIS, JULY 30-(AP)-THE PROPOSAL TO MAKE THE PARIS PEACE CONFERENCE A COMPLETELY OPEN HEARING, BY GIVING NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENTS FREE ACCESS TO COMMITTEE MEETINGS AS WELL AS THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, IS ONE OF THE MOST REVOLUTIONARY STEPS IN THE HISTORY OF FORMAL DIPLOMACY.

IT MEANS DRAWING ASIDE THE VEIL SO THAT THE POLICIES AND ACTIONS OF EVERY NATION WILL BE FULLY VISIBLE TO THE REST OF THE WORLD.

IT MEANS THAT, IN THE FUTURE, PEOPLE WILL KNOW, NOT ONLY WHAT WAS DECIDED, BUT HOW AND WHY THE DECISION WAS TAKEN.

IT MEANS AN END TO FRAGMENTARY INFORMATION AND THE OPPORTUNITY FOR INTERESTED PARTIES, REPORTING SECONDHAND, TO SLANT THE NEWS IN ONE DIRECTION OF ANOTHER.

THE DIPLOMATS OF THE CONGRESS OF VIENNA, AND EVEN OF VERSAILLES, WOULD HAVE BEEN SHAKEN IN THEIR CHAIRS IF THEY HAD ATTEND THAT SESSION OF THE CONFERENCE RULES COMMITTEE WHERE THE PROPOSAL WAS FRAMED AND APPROVED TODAY WITHOUT A DISSENTING VOTE.

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION HAS BEEN A POINT IN THE POLICIES OF SECRETARY BYRNES FROM THE VERY BEGINNING.

JUL 31 1946

HE RAISED THE QUESTION AGAIN TODAY BEFORE THE RULES COMMITTEE. HE PROPOSED THAT THE CONFERENCE OPEN ITS DOORS TO REPORTERS. HE SPOKE SPECIFICALLY OF THE FIVE COMMITTEES, BUT IT CAN BE TAKEN FOR GRANTED THAT HE MEANT THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY AS WELL.

A VOTE WAS TAKEN AND NOT A SINGLE "NAY," "NON" OR EVEN A RUSSIAN "NIST" WAS VOICED.

ON THE CONTRARY, FOREIGN MINISTER V.M.MOLOTOV WAS THE FIRST TO SECOND THE MOTION. THE RUSSIANS ARE SUPPOSED TO BE THE APOSTLES OF SECRECY.

BUT MOLOTOV'S NEXT WORDS INDICATED, AND VERY STRONGLY, THAT SOVIET RUSSIA CRAVES UNDERSTANDING OF ITS POLICIES.

HE SAID, ACCORDING TO A MAN WHO WAS PRESENT, "THERE HAS RECENTLY BEEN SOME DISTORTION OF THE SOVIET ATTITUDE TOWARD THE PUBLICATION OF THE TEXTS OF THE DRAFT TREATIES." NKWSPAPER REPORTS HAVE NOT BEEN ENTIRELY ACCURATE, HE SAID.

THIS IS ENTIRELY POSSIBLE.

THE RUSSIANS GIVE NO PRESS CONFERENCES - AT LEAST TO NON-RUSSIAN CORRESPONDENTS. YOU CAN'T SEE THE INDIVIDUAL RUSSIAN DIPLOMAT OR OFFICIAL AND HEAR FROM HIM EXACTLY WHAT DID HAPPEN ON ANY GIVEN POINT, OR GET AN AUTHORITATIVE STATEMENT FROM HIM.

THE RUSSIANS ARE PLEASANT AND CORDIAL, BUT THEY NEVER SAY AOYTHING. HENCE, THE SOVIET POINT OF VIEW MAY OFTEN HAVE BEEN INACCURATELY REPORTED AND, BY CONSEQUENCE, INACCURATELY INTERPRETED.

IT IS EXACTLY THIS DANGEROUS CONDITION THAT THE PROPOSAL MADE TODAY WOULD GO FAR TO ELIMINATE.

THE MOTION MUST BE APPROVED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY. BUT FEW DELEGATES IN THE PALACE OF LUXEMBOURG, IF ANY, HAVE ANY DOUBTS THAT IT WILL BE.

TREATY TEXTS

BY JOHN M.HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, JULY 30-(AP)-ONE OF THE MOST TANGLED OF MANY INTERNATIONAL SNAFU'S IS BEING SLOWLY UNSNARLED AT THE STATE DEPARTMENT TODAY THROUGH THE PATIENT EFFORTS OF PRESS OFFICER LINCOLN WHITE.

WHEN THE LAST KINK IS STRAIGHTENED OUT THE DEPARTMENT HOPES TO BE ABLE TO REVEAL TO THE AMERICAN PUBLIC THE FULL TEXTS OF THE PEACE TREATIES NOW BEFORE THE PARIS CONFERENCE.

BUT LOOKING BACK ON THE TRIBULATIONS INVOLVED, SOME PEOPLE SEEMED INCLINED TO WONDER HOW THE GREAT POWERS COULD EVER GET TOGETH

JUL 31 1946

INCLINED TO WONDER HOW THE GREAT POWERS COULD EVER GET TOGETHER IN MAKING PEACE WHEN THEY HAD SO MUCH TROUBLE GETTING TOGETHER ON A PRESS RELEASE.

THE TROUBLE STARTED A WEEK AGO. AT THAT TIME SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES, WHO HAD BEEN PLANNING FOR UNLIMITED PUBLICITY ON THE TREATY TEXTS, PROPOSED TO MOSCOW, LONDON AND PARIS THAT THEY BE MADE PUBLIC FORTHWITH IN THE FRENCH CAPITAL. THE ALTERNATIVE, BYRNES WELL KNEW, WAS THAT THEY WOULD BE ALLOWED TO DRIBBLE OUT IN PIECEMEAL FASHION.

TOWARD THE END OF THE WEEK THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE SAID, SURE WHY NOT; THE FRENCH FOREIGN OFFICE SAID, OKAY, BUT GIVE THEM OUT IN WASHINGTON AND THE OTHER BIG FOUR CAPITALS AS WELL AS PARIS.

THE RUSSIANS MAINTAINED A STONY SILENCE FOR AWHILE THEN, ACCORDING TO REPORTS REACHING WASHINGTON, SAID THE TEXTS SHOULD BE PUBLISHED PROVIDED THE POINTS IN DISAGREEMENT WERE DELETED.

WHILE THESE NEGOTIATIONS ABOUT WHAT SHOULD AND SHOULD NOT BE PUBLISHED WERE UNDERWAY IN PARIS, THE STATE DEPARTMENT ARRANGED TO GET THE TEXTS FROM PARIS BY COURIER SO THEY COULD BE RELEASED HERE IN LINE WITH FRENCH SUGGESTION.

BUT SOMEHOW THE COURIER MISSED HIS PLANE, OR SO IT WAS SAID.

A- THUS IT WAS DECIDED TO BRING IN THE TEXTS BY RADIO EARLY SATURAY. BUT THAT WAS THE PEAK OF THE SUNSPOT ATTACK, AND WHATEVER IT IS HAT HAPPENS DURING SUCH TIMES BLACKED OUT RADIO ACROSS THE NORTH ATLANTIC FOR HOURS AT A TIME.

AT PARIS, MEANWHILE, RUSSIAN AND BRITISH OFFICIALS GOT INTO A NEW SQUABBLE OVER WHETHER THE DISAGREED POINTS OF THE TEXT SHOULD OR SHOULD NOT BE PUBLISHED. FINALLY VARIOUS RELEASE TIMES WERE SET--6 P.M. (EST) SUNDAY--THEN MONDAY--THEN TUESDAY.

THROUGH THE SUNSPOTS, WHITE BEGAN TO GET THE TEXT IN DISJOINTED DRIBBLES. FINALLY BY LATE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON HE HAD MOST OF THE SECTIONS DEALING WITH THE POINT ON WHICH THE BIG FOUR WERE AGREED.

BUT BY THAT TIME IT HAD BEEN DECIDED THE FULL TEXTS, DISAGREEMENTS AND ALL, SHOULD BE RELEASED. SO WHITE KEPT HIS STAFF WORKING INTO LAST NIGHT TRYING TO GET THE STUFF READY FOR RELEASE SOMETIME TUESDAY MORNING.

MEANWHILE THE COURIER FINALLY ARRIVED WITH THE OFFICIAL TEXTS FOR CHECKING AGAINST THE UNCERTAIN WORDAGE THAT HAD COME IN BY RADIO.

BUT MEANWHILE, TOO, MOST OF THE INFORMATION ALREADY HAD DRIBBLED OUT FROM PARIS AND LONDON.

WHITE -- WHO HASN'T HAD A MOMENT'S PEACE FOR DAYS, WHAT WITH WORRYING ABOUT THE TEXTS -- WONDERED TODAY:

WHAT DO THEY MEAN -- "PEACE" TREATIES.

WASHINGTON,JULY 30-(AP)-SENATOR TAFT (R-OHIO) PROTESTED IN THE SENATE TODAY THAT A NEW BRITISH PLAN FOR PARTITION OF PALESTINE WOULD SET UP A GHETTO IN THE NEAR EAST.

THE OHIO SENATOR TOLD HIS COLLEAGUES THE BRITISH WERE PROPOSING TO SET ASIDE 1,500 SQUARE MILES FOR THE JEWS, WITH THE REMAINING 43,000 SQUARE MILES OF PALESTINE GOING TO THE ARABS. IN THE JEWISH SECTION, TAFT SAID THERE WOULD BE LITTLE, IF ANY, HOME RULE. HE ADDED:

"THE NEW BRITISH PLAN MEANS NOT ONLY COMPLETE FRUSTRATION FOR THE JEWS OF PALESTINE, BUT DEEP DESPAIR FOR THE MILLION AND ONE HALF SURVIVING JEWS IN EUROPE, SIX MILLION OF WHOM WERE DESTROYED BY HITLER."

TAFT SPOKE IN THE SENATE SHORTLY AFTER PRESIDENT TRUMAN MET WITH HIS CABINET COMMITTEE ON THE PALESTINE QUESTION. ATTENDING WERE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY SNYDER, SECRETARY OF WAR PATTERSON AND DEAN ACHESON, ACTING SECRETARY OF STATE.

NONE WOULD DISCUSS THE CONFERENCE. ACHESON TOLD REPORTERS:

"WE ARE WORKING ON IT (THE PALESTINE PROBLEM) AND IT IS A TOUGH ONE.

MR.TRUMAN ALSO RECEIVED A GROUP OF NEW YORK CONGRESSMEN WHO URGED THAT HE INSIST UPON THE IMMIGRATION OF 100,000 JEWS INTO PALESTINE. REP.CELLER (D-NY) TOLD REPORTERS THEY REGARDED BRITISH CONDITIONS INCIDENT TO SUCH IMMIGRATION AS "IMPOSSIBLE OF ACHIEVEMENT."

TAFT SAID THAT IF THIS GOVERNMENT AGREES TO A PARTITION PLAN, "IT WILL BE MAKING THE UNITED STATES A PARTY TO THE CREATION OF A GHETTO IN THE NEAR EAST--THE VERY LAND WHERE THE JEWS WERE PROMISED AN OPPORTUNITY FOR A FREE AND INDEPENDENT NATIONAL LIFE."

HE ADDED:

"THIS NEW AND CYNICAL PLAN EVADES THE UNANIMOUS RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE ANGLO-AMERICAN COMMISSION AND, IF SUCCESSFUL, GIVES BRITAIN THE RIGHT-OF-WAY TO REPUDIATE THE PROMISE MADE IN HER MANDATE OVER PALESTINE."

THE STORY WAS THAT THE PRESIDENT IMPATIENTLY SHUT CELLER OFF WHEN THAT MR.TRUMAN RENEW HIS DEMAND FOR THE IMMEDIATE IMMIGRATION OF 100,000 EUROPEAN JEWS INTO PALESTINE.

THE STORY WAS THAT THE PRESIDENT IMPATIENTLY SHUT CELLER OFF WHEN HE TRIED TO READ A PREPARED STATEMENT, SAYING IN EFFECT "I UNDERSTAND ALL THAT," AND THAT CELLER IN TURN REPEATEDLY INTERRUPTED THE PRESIDENT WHEN HE STARTED TO SPEAK.

CELLER HIMSELF WOULD SAY ONLY THAT "MY LIPS ARE SEALED. YOU MUST ASK THE PRESIDENT."

THOSE WHO REPORTED THE INTERCHANGE WOULD NOT BE QUOTED DIRECTLY.

REP.KLEIN (D-NY) TOLD REPORTERS, HOWEVER, THAT MR.TRUMAN WAS NOT "SORE" AND THAT HE INTERRUPTED CELLER "POLITELY" TO EXPLAIN THAT HE WAS "THOROUGHLY FAMILIAR WITH THE SUBJECT."

"THERE WAS NOTHING UNFRIENDLY ABOUT THE CONFERENCE," KLEIN INSISTED.

REP.LEONARD W.HALL, THE ONLY REPUBLICAN IN THE GROUP, COMMENTED THAT "THE RECEPTION WASN'T TOO WARM FOR CELLER" AND ADDED THAT "WE'RE IN A POSITION WHERE WE CAN'T TALK." REP.MARCANTONIO (AL-NY) SAID, LIKE CELLER, "MY LIPS ARE SEALED. I AGREED NOT TO SAY ANYTHING AT ALL ABOUT IT."

NEW AGGRESSION BEING PREPARED, MOLOTOV WARNS

L. HEIZERLING

Calls on Democratic Nations to End Franco Regime in Spain.

AUG 1 1946

Byrnes Backs Russian Stand for Two-Thirds Voting Majority.

PARIS, July 31 — (AP) Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov warned the 21-nation peace conference today that "preparations for fresh acts of aggression" were under way, and declared the wartime Allies against fascism must act soon against the Franco regime in Spain"this survival bred by Hitler and Mussolini."

The Russian statesman addressed the conference soon after it became known that the United States would support the Soviet Union in its effort to establish a two-thirds voting majority as the standard for reaching decisions in this conference.

NIGHT

Speech Brings Applause

His address to a plenary session was welcomed by generous applause and climaxed a day which began with sharp debate in the Rules committee over the two-thirds rule.

The United States and the Soviet Union stood firm for the two-thirds majority in all essential substantive matters, and Secretary of State Byrnes will make a proposal to that effect to the rules committee tomorrow morning.

It will, however, carry this proviso: That in the event any substantive proposal fails to secure a two-thirds majority in the assembly, it should be sent back to the Big Four council of foreign ministers, along with the record of the vote and a request that it be given special consideration by the Big Four.

Molotov's address expressed hopes for future peace, but he struck out hard at the Spanish regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

"The time must not be too distant," he declared, "when democratic countries will be able to help the Spanish people, who groan under Franco's regime, to put an end to this survival bred by Hitler and Mussolini, which is dangerous to the cause of peace."

Speaks in Russian

Speaking in Russian, he said the nations which went to war on the side of Hitler must be punished for "crimes of their ruling circles," and added that any refusal to defend the legitimate rights of states which suffered from Fascist aggression "can only play into the hands of those who are engaged in preparation for fresh acts of aggression in pursuit of predatory and imperialistic ends."

He said that "at any rate," the interests of all freedom-loving peoples "demand that we bring to an end the fight against fascism which is the most dangerous aggressor in our time."

Apparently referring to the fact that Yugoslavia was not awarded Trieste by the Big Four council's draft of the Italian treaty, now under consideration, Molotov said "we by no means feel that the just aspirations of Allied peoples have found an adequate reflection in those drafts."

"But on the other hand," Molotov continued, "we cannot overlook the fact that at present the decisions of the council of foreign ministers are assailed by all sorts of reactionary elements who are stuffed with absurd anti-Soviet prejudice and who base their calculations on the frustration of the cooperation among the great powers. The drafts of peace treaties submitted to the conference deal a new blow to the efforts of these gentlemen."

Sees Difficulties Ahead

Australian Minister of Externa Affairs H. V. Evatt, following Molotov on the podium, predicted difficulties from the Big Four's solution of the Trieste problem.

"It is proposed," Evatt said, "t give the Security Council impor tant discretionary powers in rela tion to Trieste and under the char ter of the United Nations Organi zation any proposed decision of th Security Council may be blocke by the veto of any one permanen member of the council."

Evatt has championed the cause of smaller nations for a greater voice in the proceedings and has battled to establish the simple majority rule.

Evatt also took issue with the Big Four on the problem of the former Italian colonies, whose disposition, he contended, should rest not alone with the major powers, but "with all those countries which, like Australia and the British Dominions, have through their great losses and sacrifices in liberating such territories, earned a vital interest in their future disposal or administration."

Hits Reparation Plans

He attacked the reparations proposals before the conference as tending to assure Russia "a privileged position in the future direction of the trade and economic life of all the countries contributing reparations."

Molotov said that the views of all the 21 natfons could be expressed freely at the conference and would be "heard with due respect," and that "the view of the states which are former satellities of Germany also will be heard."

The plenary session was convened shortly after Molotov's long statement to the Rules committee in favor of a Yugoslavia resolution which would require a two-thirds rule for conference voting. Evatt and the Netherlands delegate both attacked the resolution.

Molotov contended that a simple majority rule would lead to disputes between the East and West in vote-trading maneuvers.

Byrnes' proposal gave him strong support. The American secretary's recommendation said that while the simple majority would suffice on mere questions of procedure, the two-thirds rule should apply to all questions relating to actual treaty drafts.

An American informant said Byrnes, by accepting the rules of procedure submitted to the conference by the Big Four, had committed himself to the two-thirds rule, but that his acceptance was conditioned upon the right to switch his support to any other measure which might be raised on the conference floor.

Issue Is Recent

During the Rules committee debate, Evatt made the point that, in the end, the peace treaties must be "agreed to by all of us."

"But," he said, "we are concerned with getting the view of this conference to the foreign ministers and we do not want them set aside just because they don't conform to a special majority. There was nothing whatever about the two-thirds majority in the Potsdam or Moscow declarations. That has only gone up at a very late date."

Evatt declared that "the great powers will not consider speeches or documents—only recommendations. It is a matter whether this conference has a right to be heard.

If we have to have a two-thirds majority before that is done, in my opinion there will be nothing of significance before the foreign ministers, even if a majority of the conference—falling short of two-thirds—is in favor of the recommendation."

Molotov said that a simple majority rule "would place the Anglo-Saxons at an advantage because it would form a bloc of from 12 to 13 votes. If all decisions were by simple majority, the U.S.S.R. would be sure to find itself always in the minority."

"The conference," he said, "should be interested in preventing a play on votes and should be concerned with assuring the authority of the recommendations it is going to make, and not in attempting to set off 12 countries against seven or eight countries. It should repudiate any play on votes and see to it that the prestige of the conference and the authority of its decisions should not be undermined."

British Support Seen

A spokesman for the British delegation said Prime Minister Attlee probably would have no objection to Byrnes' proposal because "we have never been particularly excited whether it was two-thirds or a simple majority."

AUG 1 1946

Molotov predicted there was every possibility the conference would end with every proposal adopted by a two-thirds vote, and recalled that both at the Versailles peace conference and at the San Francisco United Nations conference, the two-thirds rule was in force.

He disagreed with Evatt's contention that the rule would prevent recommendations from reaching the Big Four, stating that "this conference will reach recommendations that will be submitted to the council."

Byrnes' pronouncement on the two-thirds rule spread gloom in the Hungarian delegation, one Hungarian said that "against the two-thirds veto we can't expect to make any headway even in our campaign to get the Czechoslovakian deportation order modified and save our own nationals in Slovak territory."

Some quarters said the half-page torn from the text of the treaty draft for Hungary, referred to an American reservation stating that the United States reserved the right to object to Russian reparations demands and Russia's economic program for Hungary.

During the Rules committee session, Mosha Pijadi, Yugoslav delegate, appealed for the admission of Albania as the 22nd nation at the peace table, arguing that it was one of the first countries invaded by Italy and had been devastated in the war.

Before the meeting Byrnes held a half hour conference with Pietro Nenni, vice premier of Italy. No details of the conversation were made public.

Representatives of Yugoslavia, the Netherlands, New Zealand, and Norway will address tomorrow's plenary session.

Billion-dollar Reparation Bill From Soviet in Draft Treaties

MEI MOST

Proposed Compacts Laid Before Peace Conference Heavily Favor Russia on Territorial Changes Also.

AUG 1 1946

Paris, July 31 (A. P.).—Russia emerged today as the principal beneficiary of proposed peace treaties that would strip Italy, Finland and beaten Germany's Balkan satellites of military power, redraw their frontiers and charge them at least a billion dollars in reparations.

The treaty drafts, presented to the peace conference last night by the Big Four, provide for substantial territorial increases for the Soviet Union and for the payment of $900,000,000 in reparations to Russia. That about leaves Russia's domination of east Europe intact.

DAY

In certain disputed sections of the treaty drafts, however, it seemed apparent that the Western Powers intend to try to whittle down some of the Russian gains in the east, at least in economic matters. The United States and Britain want the vital Danube River opened to trade on a basis of complete equality, while Russia wants nothing said in any of the treaties about freedom of navigation on the Danube. The three western members of the Big Four also want "most favored nation" status for all Allied nations in commercial dealings with the five defeated nations, while Russia would exempt all fields closed to private enterprise and would make exceptions for neighboring States.

Bars Bombers and U-Boats.

Under the proposed treaties—which would end the state of war in Europe except for Germany and which would offer the five nations concerned an opportunity to enter the United Nations—none of the defeated countries would be allowed any bombing planes or submarines and would be required to guarantee fundamental human rights and to bar Fascist activity.

The military machines of all would be reduced to a vestige of power, and the treaty drafts direct the five beaten countries to co-operate for the purpose of insuring against any German rearmament in the future. The atomic bomb is not mentioned in the treaty drafts, but rocket bombs are set down to be outlawed.

The proposed treaties — 286 pages in length—offered a peace to Italy, Romania, France, Bulgaria, Finland and Hungary which was mild in tone and largely so in demands, except for reparations and except, also, for Italy's empire and borders. The drafts offer little vital change in the troubled status quo—except for the withdrawal of the Russian armies of occupation from the Balkans and the Anglo-American forces from Italy.

Huge Sums for Russia.

Russia alone of the major Powers would win reparations—$100,000,000 from Italy, $300,000,000 each from Finland and Romania and $200,000,000 from Hungary. To the last award, however, the United States has entered some unpublished reservations, represented by a half a page scissored out of the treaty draft. Bulgaria's reparations have not been settled, and the Italian figure is a partial one. Also Hungary would be required to pay another $100,000,000 to Yugoslavia and Czecho-Slovakia.

On the other side of the ledger, the Russians objected to clauses granting United Nations citizens full compensation for losses incurred in defeated countries and proposed instead that compensation be limited to one-third of their losses. The Soviet Union also objected to having the assets of defeated nations in United Nations countries and Germany subject to seizure to meet American, French and British claims, and asked that such assets be restored to the beaten countries.

The territorial clauses in the five drafts also held advantages for Russia. In the case of Italy, five small border slices would go to France, Eastern Venezia Giulia to Yugoslavia, and Dodecanese Islands to Greece, the African colonies would meet some undecided fate and the port of Trieste would be internationalized under United Nations supervision.

Trieste and Danzig.

The starting point for the territorial changes for Italy, as well as for Hungary, was the border line of January 1, 1938—before Munich—while for Romania, Bulgaria and Finland the changes were based on the frontiers of January 1, 1941, while the Russo-German pact was still in force.

This meant Allied confirmation of Romania's 1940 cession of Bessarabia to Russia—a cession that was withdrawn after Germany's invasion of Russia—as well as of Lower Dobruja to Bulgaria and Finland's cessions to Russia in 1939, to which now is added the ice-free Arctic Sea outlet of Petsamo Province. Further, Hungary is required to recognize Sub-Carpathian Ukrainia as Soviet territory.

As the inevitable comparisons with the treaties which ended the first world war began, the initial differences commented upon was the fact that the losers in 1946 were offered membership in the United Nations, while the losers of 1919 were at first barred from the League of Nations. But the victors this time do not engage

Molotov Urges Putting End To Franco Rule

AUG 1 1946

A. T. GOLDBERG

Paris, July 31 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, in a speech to the Paris Peace Conference today, called upon democratic countries of the world to put an end to the Franco regime of Spain.

"It is impossible to safeguard peace," said Molotov, "unless Fascism is destroyed."

The Soviet Foreign Minister spoke after an appearance before the Conference Rules Committee at which he fought to establish a two-thirds majority voting rule for the conference of 21 nations, because, he said, "if all decisions were by simple majority the U.S.S.R. would be sure to find itself always in the minority."

Support From Byrnes

He found qualified support in his fight in United States Secretary of State Byrnes, who, an American informant said, will propose tomorrow that a two thirds majority vote be necessary for approval of essential and substantive matters.

Addressing the conference, called to confer on the peace that is to be written in Europe with Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland, Molotov said:

"If we have still to deal with the question of the Fascist regime in Spain, then the time must not be too distant when democratic countries will be able to help the Spanish people who groan under Franco's regime to put an end to this survival bred by Hitler and Mussolini, which is dangerous to the cause of peace."

Making his first public official conference pronouncement, the Soviet Foreign Minister told a meeting of the rules committee. "This (a simple majority) would naturally place the Anglo-Saxons at an advantage because it would form a block of from twelve to thirteen votes."

"Assuring Authority"

Molotov expressed fear that adoption of a simple majority rule would play the west against eastern Europe.

"The conference should be interested in preventing a play on votes and should be concerned with assuring the authority of the recommendations it is going to make, and not in attempting to set off twelve countries against seven or eight countries.

"It should repudiate any play on votes and see to it that the prestige of the conference and the authority of its decisions should not be undermined."

He said there was every possibility the conference could reach its termination with every proposal adopted by a two-thirds rule.

"Is there any reason to believe that a decision reached by an 11-10 vote is better than a decision reached by a 14-7 vote?" he asked. "It would be hard to explain that."

Open To Press

Newspaper reporters of many countries, sitting in for the first time in history as peace conference observers, were in attendance as the committee plunged quickly into the troublesome question on which Molotov voiced his support of a Yugoslav proposal for a two-thirds voting rule.

Byrnes's proposal tomorrow, the American informant said, would carry the proviso that all substantive proposals which failed to secure a two-thirds majority should nevertheless be sent by the conference back to the Council of Foreign Ministers, along with the names of the countries that voted for it and with the request that the four Foreign Ministers give the measure special consideration.

Questions Of Procedure

The first sentence of his three-sentence proposal provided that a simple majority only would be needed on questions of procedure.

The second sentence called for a two-thirds majority for all questions relating to the actual treaty drafts.

The final sentence proposed sending defeated substantiative proposals to the Council of Foreign Ministers for consideration.

The Yugoslav proposal plunged the committee into spirited debate, with spokesmen for Australia and The Netherlands arguing that a simple majority should be sufficient and that the two-thirds proposal would mean Big Four domination.

Moshsa Pyade, vice president of the Yugoslav Assembly, presented the motion, and also urged that Albania be admitted as the twenty-second member of the conference.

For "Lasting Peace"

He said that a "just and lasting peace" could be effected only by near unanimity, and argued against the adoption of a simple majority rule.

While acknowledging that full unanimity was probably not possible, he declared that "only the largest possible agreement is able to assure the success of the conference and constitute a strong basis for a lasting peace."

Paul Henri Spaak, Belgian Foreign Minister who was elected president of the Rules Committee yesterday, presided over the session. Byrnes arrived a half hour late because of a conference at his hotel suite with Pietro Nenni, Italian Vice Premier. No details of this private meeting were disclosed.

The Netherlands delegation opposed the two-thirds majority rule and the rules of procedure proposed by the Big Four as "not in conformity with the sovereignty of the medium and small powers."

A Dutch spokesman proposed that the permanent chairmanship of the conference be given to France, as the host nation, instead of being rotated among the Big Four or the Big Five.

Advisory Role Seen

The spokesman, Foreign Minister Baron Boeyzalaer van Oosterhout, said the only conclusion he could reach was that the Big Four wanted to relegate "the states with lesser material resources to the role of advisers."

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian Minister of External Affairs, asserted that the role assigned the medium and small powers was "not commensurate with the sacrifices they had made in the war."

"You have got to face it," he said, "unless a recommendation goes to the Foreign Ministers after this conference, nothing will be before the Foreign Ministers. The great powers will not consider speeches or documents—only recommendations.

"Right To Be Heard"

"It is a matter whether this conference has a right to be heard," Evatt continued. "If we have to have a two-thirds majority before that is done, in my opinion, there will be nothing of significance before the Foreign Ministers, even if a majority of the conference—falling short of two thirds—is in favor of a recommendation."

Text of Molotov's Speech at the Peace Conference and Excerpts From Evatt's

AUG 1 1946

AUG 1 1946

PARIS, July 31 (AP)—The text of Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov's address to the peace conference:

Permit me on behalf of the Soviet Union to greet the peace conference and to bid the delegates of the conference success in their great and responsible work. The Soviet delegation expresses its special gratitude to the hospitable French Government and the friendly people of France.

This conference is destined to play an important part in the establishment of peace and security in Europe. It will have to express its views and make its recommendations on the draft peace treaties with Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

It may be said that the Paris Conference is called upon to perform the task of five peace conferences, which fact stresses the importance and complexity of its work.

It is a question of five countries which entered the war as Germany's allies, as Hitler's satellites, but which in the course of the war broke off with Germany, overthrew their Fascist rulers and as a rule proceeded to take an active part on the side of democratic countries in the war to win victory over Hitlerite Germany.

We all shall remember the course of the events as they developed before our eyes during the last war in Europe and this will make it easier for us to find a correct reply to the question of safeguarding a just, durable and lasting peace for the future.

Attacks on Soviet Cited

Justice demands above all that we have regard in practice for the interests of the countries that were attacked and suffered as a result of aggression. The Soviet Union, which itself was attacked from different directions and bore an exceptionally heavy burden of the invasion of the Fascist hordes of Germany as well as of Italy, Rumania, Hungary and Finland, deeply sympathizes with all the peoples who suffered from aggression.

The Soviet Union once more from this rostrum greets the peoples of the Allied countries who fought with self-denial against our common enemies and expresses its firm determination to support them in their just demands for the punishment of war criminals, the indemnification of the damage caused to them, and the establishment of a just peace. The Soviet Union cannot take a different view of its duties toward the Allies.

It must be clear to us that the attacking countries that went to war as Germany's allies should be held responsible for the crimes of their ruling circles. Aggression and invasion of foreign countries must not go unpunished if one is really anxious to prevent new aggressions and invasions. Impunity in such cases and refusal to defend the legitimate rights of the States that suffered from aggression have nothing in common with the interests of a just and lasting peace and can only play into the hands of those who are engaged in the preparation for fresh acts of aggression in pursuit of predatory and imperialistic ends.

Security a Soviet Goal

The Soviet Union is one of those countries that are steadfastly fighting for the establishment of a durable peace and security of nations. This determines the attitude of the Soviet Government in the questions relating to the peace treaties with the ex-satellites of Germany.

The U.S.S.R. is fully conscious of the fact that as a result of democratic reforms the countries that were allied to Hitlerite Germany took in the last stage of the war a new path and in certain cases rendered the Allied States considerable assistance in the struggle for the complete liquidation of the German aggressor.

It is precisely for this reason that the Soviet Union acknowledges that these States should be compensated for the damage caused to them, not in full, but in part in a definite and restricted measure.

On the other hand, the Soviet Union is opposed to all attempts to impose on the ex-satellites of Germany all sorts of outside interference in their economic life and declines such demands on these countries and such pressure on those peoples as are incompatible with their State sovereignty and national dignity.

It will be easy to see this when one becomes familiar with the texts of the armistice terms for Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland, which were fully made public immediately after their signature. Since then, on the initiative of the Soviet Government, a number of clauses laid down by the armistice agreements were lightened, which fact is to be accounted for by the desire to facilitate to these countries the transition to economic and general national revival after the war. It is also on this basis that peace treaties with those countries should be drawn up.

Involvement With Axis

It is no accident that the countries of the Fascist and semi-Fascist type proved to be the ex-satellites of Germany. The Italy of Mussolini, as we know, was a part of the Hitler Axis. Rumania and Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland found themselves in the grasp of Hitler agents who involved those States in the war against democratic countries.

The second World War was unleashed by fascism and ended only when fascism was conquered and smashed. We know now that fascism and aggression go hand in hand in our time. This explains why all the peace treaties submitted to the conference specially refer to the necessity to prevent the revival of fascism and to the necessity to consolidate the democratic foundations in the States that are ex-satellites of Germany.

In this report, peace treaties in our time substantially differ from the peace treaties concluded after the first World War, and this is quite natural.

It is natural that the declaration for liberated Europe adopted at the Crimea Conference of the leaders of the three Allied powers—Great Britain, the United States of America and the Soviet Union—laid special stress on the necessity "to destroy the last vestiges of nazism and fascism" and to enable the liberated peoples to create democratic institutions of their own choice.

It will be impossible to safeguard a durable peace and security unless the last vestiges of fascism, which provoked the second World War, have been destroyed. If, however, we have still to deal with the question of the Fascist regime in Spain, then the time must not be too distant when democratic countries will be able to help the Spanish people, who groan under Franco's regime, to put an end to this survival bred by Hitler and Mussolini, which is dangerous to the cause of peace.

'Most Dangerous' Ideology

At any rate, the interests of all freedom-loving peoples demand that we bring to an end the fight against fascism, which is the most dangerous aggressor in our time.

Five draft peace treaties are submitted to this conference. These drafts have been prepared by the Council of Foreign Ministers in conformity with the well-known special decision on this subject.

As we know the Council of Foreign Ministers was set up at the Berlin Conference last year. This decision was adopted on the initiative of the United States of America. For its part, the Soviet Government favored this suggestion from the very outset. And the Soviet Government has always held that an unswerving and punctual implementation of this decision should not be merely a formal duty of appropriate Governments, but is a decisive prerequisite of the successful work of this Council.

It is justly said that big States should not impose their will upon small countries. The case of Germany shows what threat harbors an unrestrained imperialist desire to domineer other peoples and to gain ascendancy over the world. On the other hand, democratic countries are familiar with the methods of cooperation that produced positive results both during the war and in the period subsequent to it.

The Council of Foreign Ministers was set up just so that questions might be settled not in the manner of imposing upon some states of the will of other states but in the manner of arriving at joint decisions and arrangements.

The example of the drafting of peace treaties proves to us that certain positive results have been achieved by the Council of Foreign Ministers. We can claim this though we by no means feel that the just aspirations of the Allied peoples have found an adequate reflection in those drafts.

But, on the other hand, we cannot overlook the fact that at present the decisions of the Council of Foreign Ministers are assailed by all sorts of reactionary elements who stuffed with absurd anti-Soviet prejudices and who base their calculations on the frustration of the collaboration among great powers. The draft peace treaties submitted to the conference deal a new blow to the efforts of these gentlemen.

Pacts in General Praised

It is sufficient to become familiar with the proposals contained in the draft peace treaties in order to see that the democratic countries that prepared them performed in this case a work that is in the main in keeping with the interests of countries, big and small, that are anxious to strengthen world peace and the security of nations.

The conference will be able to discuss at length all questions involved in the peace treaties. Our conference is attended by the delegations with equal rights that represent twenty-one nations. Here everyone of us has the opportunity to state his views freely and to express his agreement or disagreement with this or that part of any peace treaty. It has been assured here that any such view will be heard with due respect and that it may be of considerable value in the final consideration of the draft peace treaties.

Here the views of the States that are ex-satellites of Germany will also be heard. The Soviet delegation has no doubt that to the voice of these States too we shall listen with due attention. As a Soviet delegate, I have reason to say so because since the time they withdrew from the enemy's camp and went to war against Hitlerism and embarked upon the path of democratic and social reforms in the interest of the masses of the people the Soviet Union has come to establish friendly relations with those countries.

All this gives us grounds to hope for a genuine success of the conference in the interests of all freedom-loving peoples.

Statements by Dr. Evatt

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 31—Following are excerpts from the address by Herbert V. Evatt, Australian Minister for External Affairs, to the peace conference today. N.Y. TIMES

Our general standpoint as to the status of this conference is clear and definite. Our object has been to make this, the first peace conference, a reality and not a mere formality, to do everything possible to insure that at this meeting of twenty-one nations the peace to come is based upon the principles of justice and right and is determined by democratic methods.

The war we have fought was a people's war; we are here to advance a people's peace. We are only servants and ministers in the cause of peace and justice for all peoples.

It is universally admitted that the contribution to victory made by the peoples represented here warrant their being consulted about the making of this peace. The real question which has concerned us is whether consultation by the major powers represented the full extent of our rights or whether the active partners in the war should not also be entitled.

Australian opinion on this point of fundamental principle was never in doubt. The right of making the peace should belong to all those nations who have been partners in achieving the common victory.

It seemed at least doubtful to Australia whether the Potsdam Agreement was clear enough to guarantee to the actual belligerents the right of full participation in the peace-making process. Accordingly, I was deputed by Australia to put the case before the members of the Council of Foreign Ministers then meeting in September last.

Stresses Dominions' Support

There I urged that those countries which have made active and sustained contributions in the European sphere of the war were clearly entitled to participate in the peace making; that a fair and democratic peace could be obtained only by fair and democratic procedures and that justice in the peace settlements depended to a large extent upon the active participation of a wider group of belligerents than that of three or four or five major powers.

Australia was actively supported in its claims by all the other British Dominions and also by the smaller European countries and our claims in no way detracted from the primary and necessary leadership of the major powers. But we insisted that meantime the belligerents were entitled not merely to the right of consultation but to equal rights of actual participation in the peace making process.

Each of the twenty-one nations has equal rank and voice in this conference. We have a big job to carry out and we should proceed to its performance with the utmost dispatch. For it is absolutely clear that in these final stages of the peace-making the greatest posible weight will be attached to the deliberations and recommendations of the nations which admittedly have "actively waged war with substantial military force against the European enemy states."

Much depends upon the question of whether in practice the sponsoring powers here will follow the example of San Francisco and be prepared to hear their cobelligerents, not as suppliants or as advocates, or as mere consultants, but as general partners who have proved their worth as partners in the great struggle against our enemies. The spirit which will animate this conference is far more important than the mere literal adherence to declarations which have been made in the past.

Rejects Vindictiveness

I therefore turn to consider what are the general principles which should govern the review of the draft treaties. First, we are not justified in imposing our common will upon the defeated enemy in any spirit of more vindictiveness or caprice. Our aim is justice, looking to the future as well as to the past, for we are, in a sense, the trustees of all the United Nations, of all the ordinary men and women throughout the world who look to us to give an enduring and a just peace to them and their children. However concerned we may be in the interests of our own countries we must never lose sight of the fact that all the peoples of the world have a stake in this peace.

If we approach our task in this spirit we shall keep in mind certain fundamental principles.

First, we should adhere to our solemn undertakings in the Atlantic Charter and the United Nations Charter and try to insure that the principles set forth in these charters are given the fullest possible application in the peace treaties.

Second, we should insure that our recommendations and decisions are based on an impartial and thorough examination of all the relevant facts affecting each of the questions raised.

Third, we should be careful not to impose such unjustifiable burdens and humiliations upon the peoples of five States as will prevent the growth of genuine democratic forces or foster the resurgence of fascism.

Fourth, our main objective should be the attainment of a just and durable overall peace structure and not merely the settlement, one by one, of a series of particular and isolated claims by individual nations against their neighbors.

Territorial Provisions

The proposals and suggestions of the Australian delegation will be made from time to time in the appropriate commissions and committees. I shall only refer to some of the main questions that in our opinion, require examination and indicate briefly our provisional point of view.

First, there are the territorial provisions of the treaties. The importance of the territorial changes achieved by the war has often been exaggerated. For many people in the frontier regions of this small crowded continent, the question as to which side of a boundary they live on is really less pressing than that of how to make a reasonable living for themselves and their children. It is not surprising that many people are inclined to cry bread before borders, butter before guns.

So far as particular frontier adjustments are concerned, Australia adheres to the view we have consistently expressed in the United Nations organization that before a decision is reached there should be a thorough examination of the relevant facts in each case. No doubt the Council of Foreign Ministers has had much material placed before it. There is every reason why this conference should have access to this same material and any other new facts relevant to particular frontier changes.

I would stress the fact that we are concerned not merely with the individual proposals considered in the isolation from each other but also with the wider implications of the political and economic of changes considered as a whole.

The Australian delegation will therefore favor, where necessary, the appointment of a special fact finding committee to prepare and report on the material required by the several committees concerned with frontier provisions of the various treaties.

Italian Colonies

On the question of Italian colonies, the Australian delegation considers that the making of decisions as to the future administration of the colonies should rest not with the Foreign Ministers Council as such but with all those countries that, like Australia and other British Dominions, have, through their great losses and sacrifices in liberating such territories, earned a vital interest in their future disposal or administration.

The main principle of the proposed settlement for Trieste is similar to that submitted by Australia and New Zealand to the Council of Foreign Ministers as long ago as September last. But some of the features of the solution may prove unworkable in practice. It seems, too, we shall be brought face to face again with the further difficulty that it is proposed to give the Security Council important discretionary powers in relation to Trieste and that under the Charter of the United Nations Organization any proposed decision of the Security Council may be blocked by the veto of any one permanent member of the Council.

For these reasons it seems essential that the Trieste proposal should receive the closest scrutiny from this conference.

One overriding principle of the settlement should be to insure economic cooperation between the five countries and their neighbors.

It is our hope that all the members of the Council of Foreign Ministers will welcome a strengthening of the treaties in their economic and social aspects.

The reparations provisions of the treaties are admittedly incomplete and important questions are left unanswered. Article 64 of the draft treaty with Italy certainly gives an impression that the U. S. S. R. is to be given some degree of precedence over other claimants who suffered at Italy's hands. It may be, too, that several of the proposals would tend to assure to the U. S. S. R. a privileged position in the future direction of the trade and economic life of all the countries contributing to reparations.

The reparations provisions need precise clarification. For that purpose the conference is entitled to receive the fullest information as to all the facts and reports on reparations placed before the Council of Foreign Ministers. In the absence of that information a fair and impartial review of the treaties is obviously impossible.

Economic questions are so important that the peace treaties could usefully include provision for closer economic cooperation between the European states. Agriculture, steel, coal, hydroelectric power and all the major resources of Europe, wherever situated, should become available to all the peoples of Europe.

It again would be of practical value if all the European countries affected by the proposed treaties became members of the Food and Agricultural Organization, the International Wheat Council, the International Labor Office and other organizations designed to promote the twin objectives of full employment and higher living standards.

And so, the ultimate task before us is nothing less than the creating of the framework for a renewal of European civilization, but civilization in a "larger freedom." That is a noble enterprise.

We cannot accept the cynical view that history must of neecssity repeat itself. The fact that the war chapters of history have been repeated in the past is largely due to the lack of foresight on the part of some of those who imposed the peace. The peoples of the world look to this conference to help substantially in framing a peace based on social justice and economic betterment. Only by such a peace can freedom from fear and freedom from want be ultimately assured to the men and women and particularly to the children of this continent.

PEACE CONFEREES MAY BE IN SESSION FOR DOZEN WEEKS

AUG 1 1946

R. MORIN

PARIS, July 31—(AP)—Old-hand diplomats were predicting today that the peace conference would last for three months, and certainly the spectacle of a single committee session tended to support the estimate.

The rules committee sat for three hours today, without actually getting down to business at all.

The delegations assembled at 10 o'clock in the Salle des Conferences of Luxembourg palace.

Room Is Massive

It is a room big enough to contain two basketball games at the same time. Like the rest of the palace it glows with gilded tables and red carpeting with mirrors and murals. The long windows are surmounted with a large "N" (for Napoleon) and above them are cherubs and graceful nudes and vividly-colored scenes from history.

The vaulted roof, also covered with paintings, is so high that you can hardly see it when the light fades.

AUG 1 1946

Beneath a large glass chandelier was the conference table shaped like an ellipse, and covered with green baise.

The delegates clustered together. The chief of each, with his principal aides, was nearest the table. The lesser ranks sat behind.

As each man rose to speak, a French sailor, wearing a red-and-white striped jersey, moved around the inner circle of the table carrying a microphone. It was eminently practical because of the size of the room.

The whole setting—the size of the room, the number of people present, the heavy decorations—seemed somehow to make the whole session a very ponderous proceeding.

Militates Against Speed

It militated against speed. In such an atmosphere, any decision, however unimportant, would take time to achieve.

Nothing whatever was settled, nor even put to a vote.

Although it was an "open" session, in which everyone could discuss what he pleased, the sole topic of conversation was the long-fought issue of majorities. Should the conference decide an issue by a two-thirds majority? or should a simple majority be sufficient?

Each speech had to be delivered three times, counting the necessary translation into French, English and Russian.

At 1:30 when everybody was beginning to look at his watch, the chairman opened his mouth to suggest a recess. He saw a signal from the Yugoslav delegate.

He said, "The Yugoslavian delegate requests the floor. He assures me that his remarks will be very brief."

They were. Then came recess. Tomorrow, the ponderous scene will be repeated.

BULGARIANS OUT TO CLAIM THRACE

AUG 1 1946

Paris, July 31 (A. P.)—Vasil Kolarov, Bulgaria's No. 2 Communist and head of that country's unofficial delegation to the peace conference, said today that the delegation would claim the present Greek territory of Western Thrace. Kolarov is president of the Bulgarian National Assembly.

He said that Bulgaria would take advantage of the incomplete clause in the treaty draft providing for hearings from Greece and Bulgaria before fixing of their frontier. Western Thrace is a thin strip of Greek territory extending along the north coast of the Aegean to the Turkish border.

"Of course," he continued, "we will take advantage of this offer (in the treaty) to show how unfair is the Greek claim for a strategic frontier that would give them a wide strip of Bulgarian territory."

Bulgaria will not be satisfied, he added, with a mere corridor to the sea, but wants the whole of western Thrace. The territory, once Turkish, was included in the Bulgaria under the treaty of San Stefano in 1878, but later in the same year the Congress of Berlin took it away. It was a disputed prize in the Balkan wars and has been Greek since before the first world war.

ONLY NINE TO SIGN ALL FIVE TREATIES

AUG 1 1946

Paris, July 31 (A. P.).—Only nine of the twenty-one countries represented at the Paris peace conference will be permitted to sign all five of the peace treaties to be drafted here and one will not sign any of them. The treaties will all be discussed by all the nations present, but the individual pacts will be signed only by those formally at war with the defeated nation involved.

Therefore the only nations eligible to sign all the treaties are Britain, Australia, India, New Zealand, South Africa, Soviet Russia, Byelo-Russia, Ukrainia and Czecho-Slovakia. The United States, was never formally at war with Finland and Canada never declared herself at war with Bulgaria. Yugoslavia and Greece declared war only on their immediate Axis neighbors, which makes them eligible to sign three and two treaties, respectively. France, China and five other nations were at war with Italy alone.

Norway is not eligible to sign any of the treaties. Overwhelmed by the German blitz in 1940, she never formally declared herself at war with Italy, Finland, Hungary, Romania or Bulgaria.

La Guardia Has A Nose Smacker

AUG 1 1946

NIGHT

Paris, July 31 (AP)—Fiorello La Guardia, speaking at a news conference for the displaced persons of the world, said today the United States and Great Britain have a plan which will "smack right on the nose" those countries which have been criticizing the UNRRA program.

The former New York Mayor, now director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, said he had learned since leaving New York that Great Britain had agreed to match his (United States War Department approved) plan to "give 60 to 90 days' rations to Poles when they are returned to their country from the British and American occupation zones in Germany."

Russia recently criticized UNRRA for not taking more interest in Poles and other Eastern European peoples whom the Germans had left homeless.

Displaced persons make "a stockpile of human misery," LaGuardia said, adding that, generally, the displaced persons of every country needed care and transportation back to their homes by a definite program in which all interested countries would share. LaGuardia said he had recommended to Washington that the United States accept immigration of 120,000 displaced persons of all nationalities.

Declaring he was very much impressed with the new administration in Yugoslavia, LaGuardia said he had suggested that Yugoslav authorities go out and seek the return of displaced persons from there.

Palestine And U.S. Funds

AUG 1 1946 AUG 1 1946

BOWEN

London, July 31 (AP)—Britain announced today conditional approval of a plan to divide Palestine into four federal provinces, permit the immediate entry of 100,000 European Jews and provide American aid to finance Arab economic development.

The plan, devised by British-American experts, would create a Jewish-dominated zone, an Arab-dominated zone and two zones administered by the British-controlled central government. Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison said it might lead to a trusteeship for Palestine.

America's Role In Scheme

He declared American co-operation was essential to put the plan as a whole into effect and said the delegation of American experts had accepted it unanimously.

The plan suggests a "substantial grant" of American money for Arab economic development in Palestine and the Near East. The figure was not specified, but the British press estimated it at $800,000,000.

Each province could set its own immigration figures, and the experts said this would permit the influx of 100,000 European Jews. The Jewish province could admit Jewish immigrants, and the Arab province exclude them. The United States would be required to arrange transportation for 100,000 Jews to Palestine.

Hopes For Quick Truman O.K.

Morrison said Britain had hoped for quick acceptance of the proposals by President Truman, who this afternoon asked the American Cabinet committee in London to return for a detailed review of the whole Palestine question.

If the United States does not accept, "we shall have to reconsider the position, particularly as regards the economic and financial implications," Morrison told the House of Commons. Lord Addison, the Dominions Secretary, made a simultaneous announcement to the House of Lords.

Both warned that "the situation in Palestine will not brook delay," and said Britain, accepting the proposal as a basis for negotiation, was going ahead with plans to confer with Arabs and Jews. They appealed to Holy Land communities to consider it, for "the world is weary of this senseless strife of Jew and Arab."

Rough Outline Of Zones

Boundaries for the four zones have not yet been determined exactly, but this would be the rough outline.

1. Jewish Zone—Most of the highly developed industrial Jewish settlements, including Tel Aviv, and other areas already populated by Jews.

2. Jerusalem Zone—The ancient shrines of the Holy City and Bethlehem with their surrounding territories with both Jewish and Arab inhabitants, to be administered by the central government.

3. The Negeb or South Country—A largely uninhabited arid triangle with its apex on the Gulf of Aqaba and bounded by the Sinai Desert, Trans-Jordania and Saudi Arabia. For the time being the central government would administer this region, in which a few Jews settled under provisions of the 1940 land transfer regulations.

4. Arab Zone—The rest of the country, Morrison said this would be "almost wholly Arab in both land and population."

Protested By Jews And Arabs

Jewish and Arab leaders have protested the proposed division, and some declared Jews and Arabs would refuse to sit in conference with each other.

Earlier today, the Foreign Office announced that Saudi Arabia had accepted an invitation to a round-table conference on Palestine. It and the six other Arab League states were invited, but an informant said invitations had not been sent to Palestine Arabs and Jews because the basis of their representation had not been defined yet.

While the British High Commissioner initially would exercise the executive and legislative functions of the central overall government, Morrison said Britain intended to embody the plan "if it is found acceptable" into a trusteeship agreement for Palestine.

The Government statement said the provincial governments themselves would have the power "to limit the number and determine the qualifications of persons who might take up permanent residence in their territories."

Thus, the plan not only would permit the immediate admission to Palestine of 100,000 Jews if the Jewish province wanted them, but would leave it virtually free to determine the number of immigrants to be permitted thereafter. The British-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine had recommended immediate entry of 100,000 Jews.

Jews who would be granted immigration certificates as soon as the plan was accepted would come from Austria, Germany and Italy, the statement said, adding that "any certificates available for Jews in other countries of eastern and southeastern Europe would be issued only to orphan children."

Transportation Up To U.S.

This would eliminate largely the Jews of Poland and the Balkans.

"The United States Government," the statement said, "will be asked to undertake the sole responsibility for the sea transportation of these Jewish refugees from Europe to Palestine."

Morrison explained that "though final control over immigration would continue to rest with the central government, this control would be exercised on the basis of recommendations made by the provincial governments."

"So long as the economic absorptive capacity of the province was not exceeded," he said, "the central government would authorize the immigration desired by the provincial government. It would have no power to authorize immigration in excess of any limitations proposed by the provincial governments.

"Thus, though the government of the Arab province would have full power to exclude Jewish immigrants from its province, the Jewish province would normally be able to admit as many immigrants as its government desired."

Denounces Hotel Bombing

Morrison denounced the King David Hotel bombing in Jerusalem, and appealed to both Arabs and Jews to end "a sordid chapter in history" that has made the world "sickened by its barbarous incidents."

The new plan, Morrison said, offered both the Arab and Jewish communities "a prospect of development toward self-government of which there would be little hope in a unitary Palestine."

4-Area Palestine Plan Revealed By British

AUG 1 1946

G. WILLIAMS

London, July 31 (AP)—The British Government announced today that Anglo-American experts proposed to split Palestine into four areas and leave to a Jewish province itself the problem of deciding how many of Europe's homeless Jews might migrate to the Holy Land.

"But the implementation of the experts' plan as a whole depends upon United States co-operation," said Acting Prime Minister Herbert Morrison and Dominions Secretary Lord Addison in simultaneous announcements in the houses of Commons and Lords.

Truman, Experts To Confer

"We had hoped before the debate to receive from President Truman his acceptance," they said, "but we understand that he has decided to discuss it in detail with the United States expert delegation, who are returning to Washington for that purpose."

Britain accepted the four-area proposal for troubled, bomb-torn Palestine "as a basis for negotiation," they said.

DAY

If United States assistance in carrying out the plan is not forthcoming "we shall have to reconsider the position, particularly as regards the economic and financial implications," both declared, adding pointedly:

"The situation in Palestine will not brook delay."

Arab, Jewish Provinces

The four areas, it was announced, would include an Arab province and a Jewish province, and each "would have the power to limit the number and determine the qualification of persons who might wish to take up permanent residence in their territories."

In addition to the Jewish and Arab provinces, said Addison, the joint commission of experts proposed to establish a district of Jerusalem and a district of Begeb.

The latter section is a piece of desert land lying in southern Palestine in which Jewish migration was permitted under the 1940 Palestine land-transfer regulations.

Barker's Letter Disowned

Addison also announced that the British Government had disassociated itself from a bitter anti-fraternization letter written by Lieut. Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker to the British troops under his command in Palestine.

Barker's action has been referred to Field Marshal Montgomery, chief of the Imperial General Staff, Addison said.

Barker's letter forbade British troops to fraternize with Jews. It drew sharp criticism from the Laborite Daily Herald, which said it also "plunged into excited, profoundly biased political comment."

Advantages Outlined

Under the experts' plan, it was explained in both houses, the Jews "would be free to exercise much control on immigration into their own province and it would be open to the Arabs in their own province to admit or refuse permission to Jews to purchase land" in the Arab province.

The Arabs, the announcement said, "would be free from any fear they might have of Jewish domination and there would be safeguards for Arab minorities in the Jewish province."

Meanwhile, the Foreign Office announced that Saudi Arabia had accepted Britain's invitation to a round-table conference on Palestine.

Seven Arab League states have been invited to the talks. Saudi Arabia is the first to reply.

Projected Boundaries

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—Exact boundaries for the four zones proposed for Palestine have not yet been determined, but this would be the rough outline:

1. Jewish Zone—Most of the highly developed industrial Jewish settlements, including Tel Aviv, and other areas already populated by Jews.

2. Jerusalem Zone — Jerusalem, Bethlehem and their surrounding territories with both Jewish and Arab inhabitants, to be administered by the central government.

3. The Nageb, or South Country—A largely uninhabited arid triangle, with its apex on the Gulf of Aqaba and bounded by the Sinai Desert and trans-Jordan. For the time being the central government would administer this region, in which a few Jews have settled under provisions of the 1940 land transfer regulations.

4. Arab Zone—The rest of the country. Morrison said this would be "almost wholly Arab in both land and population."

Jewish and Arab leaders have protested the proposed division, and some have declared that they will refuse to sit in conference with each other.

Earlier today the Foreign Office announced that Saudi Arabia had accepted an invitation to a round-table conference on Palestine. It and the six other Arab League states were invited, but an informant said invitations had not been sent to Palestine Arabs and Jews because the basis of their representation had not been defined yet.

BRITAIN DISAVOWS FRATERNIZING BAN

AUG 1 1946

London, July 31 (A. P.).—The British Government today disassociated itself from a bitter anti-fraternization letter written by Lieut.-Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker to his troops in Palestine and announced that his action had been referred to Field Marshal Montgomery, Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Lord Addison, Secretary for the Dominions, announcing the Government's decision in the House of Lords, was greeted with cries of "Why?"

Barker's letter forbad British troops to fraternize with Jews. It drew sharp criticism from the Laborite Daily Herald, which said it also "plunged into excited, profoundly biased political comment."

SEES VERSAILLES ALL OVER AGAIN

London, July 31 (A. P.).—The Laborite London Daily Herald today reprinted the prophetic cartoon it published on May 17, 1919, in which the late Will Dyson predicted the failure of the Versailles Peace Conference.

The cartoon, to which Prime Minister Clement Attlee referred yesterday in his speech before the current Paris conference, depicts the 1919 Big Four—David Lloyd George, Woodrow Wilson, Georges Clemenceau and Victor Orlando—leaving the Versailles Palace, the peace treaty written, while behind a palace pillar a child bearing the label "1940 Class" is weeping. Clemenceau is saying: "Curious, I seem to hear a child crying."

Britain Apologizes To Warsaw Regime

AUG 1 1946

London, July 31 (A. P.).—Britain has apologized to Poland for the distribution by the British embassy in Warsaw of a British Broadcasting Corporation report of a Polish bishop's criticism of the present Warsaw regime, the British Office announced today.

Poland protested in June against the distribution to Polish newspapers and periodicals of a British embassy daily report based on the London radio's news broadcasts. Replying to the protest, the spokesman said, Britain expressed regret that the report on the Polish bishop's statement was inaccurate.

Marriage-To-Enemy Rules Eased By Britain

London, July 31 (AP)—Lord Nathan, war under secretary, announced today that British service men would be permitted to marry women of any occupied enemy country except Japan.

Permission to wed enemy women, however, will be limited to "cases where reasons for marriage are good and there are no security objections," Lord Nathan said.

2 YANK OFFICERS DETAINED 27 DAYS AS SPIES BY REDS

R. KASISCHKE

BERLIN, July 31—(AP) Two U. S. Army officers just released by the Russians said today they had been held for 27 days while the Soviets questioned them as suspected spies and refused to notify American authorities of their detention.

They said they were held most of the time at Soviet headquarters in Potsdam—during a time when the Russians officially told the U. S. command that they did not know where the pair was.

The officers, Capt. Harold Cobin, 53, of New York, and Lt. George Wyatt, 23, of Oklahoma City, were turned back to the American command early this morning.

Questioned Daily

They said the Russians questioned them daily and attempted to establish that they were secret agents. Once they said, they were charged officially with being spies and were required to sign statements of denial.

NIGHT

Relating their experiences to a news conference, in the presence of U. S. Army staff and intelligence officers, the two men said the Russians repeatedly refused their requests that American authorities be notified. After the two were held for a full two weeks, Cobin said "they told us they would do so 'when your identity has been established'."

On July 17 a U. S. Army public relations officer, announcing failure to locate the two officers, declared that Soviet authorities had said that "to the best of their knowledge," the men were not in the Russian zone.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, U. S. theater commander, said at the time:

"All I can say is that the Russians have told us they don't have these officers, and that when they do find them they will return them. In view of the fact that a very senior Russian commander assured me of this, I must accept it."

These assurances had been given Gen. McNarney by Soviet Marshal Vasilly Sokolovsky, but it was conceded by some American officials that there was a possibility Sokolovsky did not know at the time any uniformed Americans were being held at Potsdam. McNarney's office said the commander was awaiting a "full official report" from Berlin before any comment would be issued.

Surrendered to Major

The two officers, who vanished after an unauthorized trip into the Soviet zone on July 4, were delivered at Soviet Berlin headquarters into the custody of Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, U. S. Berlin commander, who took them to his own headquarters for questioning.

Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov Soviet Berlin commander, told Keating the officers had been picked up near Berlin, but he did not say how long they had been in custody. The Soviet commander said he was acting in conformity with "our agreement that we inform each other when we pick up one another's nationals."

Cobin, and Wyatt said they were arrested July 4 at Oranienburg, 20 miles north of Berlin. Both were in uniform and bore U. S. Army credentials, Cobin said, adding that all his own previous visits to the zone had been in the role of interpreter. Both were merely on a sightseeing tour, they said, intending to visit the former Nazi Sachsenhausen concentration camp and unaware at the time that it was being used as a camp for political prisoners by the Russians.

Cobin and Wyatt said they were removed to Potsdam the same night in a blacked out automobile, and throughout their detention were kept separated and questioned sharply. Cobin, born in Lithuania when it was part of Russia, said he was questioned entirely in Russian and was asked repeatedly about his connection with the Berlin documents center, where Nazi records are kept.

Sought Command Link

He said the Russians attempted to establish "a chain of command between Lt. Col. Hans Helm, my chief in the documents center, and Gen. Clay," and at one point "threatened that if I didn't tell them how Helm was connected with Clay, I would be sent to Russia."

Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay is the U. S. deputy military governor.

"I asked them if being sent to Russia was considered punishment, and they smiled," Cobin said, adding that the Russians also tried to establish "something against me that would give them the right to send me back to Russia because I was born in Lithuania."

Cobin said that during his interrogation Russian officers made remarks about the British "which I can't repeat in public," and quoted one officer as saying he could see the possibility of eventual Russian-American understanding, "but with the British, well—the outlook is dark."

Keating, who said the release of the two men did not entail any exchange of Russians who might be detained in the American zone, disclosed that the matter of disciplining the two officers for their unauthorized trip still was under consideration.

The American commander also said that two German women who were with the warrant officer and Mrs. Samuel L. Harrison of San Antonio, Tex., when that couple was detained in the Soviet zone recently, also had been returned by the Russians. The Harrisons were freed July 16 in return for release of three Russians who had been held in the American zone on suspicion of espionage.

Cobin was returned during the afternoon to his wife, Mary, at their billet in suburban Zehlendorf. Mrs. Cobin, who arrived in Berlin three weeks ago during her husband's detention in the Soviet zone, said his release was the best news of her life.

"You know," she said, "we haven't seen each other for two and one-half years."

2 U.S. Officers Tell Of Being Held As Spies By Russ

R. KASISCHKE AUG 1 1946

Berlin, July 31 (AP)—Capt. Harold Cobin and Lieut. George Wyatt, American officers who were released last night by the Russians, said today they had been detained in the Soviet occupation zone for 27 days on the allegation that they were spies.

The two, who vanished almost a month ago on an unauthorized trip into the Soviet zone, said they had been held for most of the 27 days at Russian headquarters in Potsdam.

DAY

The Russians had denied knowledge of their whereabouts.

A United States Army public relations officer announced July 17 that Soviet authorities said they had been unable to locate Cobin and Wyatt and that, "to the best of their knowledge, they are not being held in the Russian zone."

Assurance To McNarney

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, American commander in the European theater, reported July 21 that Marshal Vasilly Sokolovsky, his Soviet counterpart on the Allied Control Council, had assured him ten days before "that any Americans in Russian custody would be released as soon as they could be located."

"All I can say is that the Russians have told us they don't have these officers and that when they do find them they will return them," McNarney said at that time. "In view of the fact that a very senior Russian commander assured me of this, I must accept it."

Cobin and Wyatt, who related their experiences at a press conference in the presence of the United States Army staff and intelligence officers, said the Russians had treated them well but had questioned them almost daily and at great length in an attempt to ascertain whether they were secret agents.

Denied Charges

At one time they were officially charged with being spies, and signed statements denying the charges, they said.

The officers said they were arrested July 4 at Oranienburg, twenty miles north of Berlin, where they declared they went to try to visit the former Nazi concentration camp of Sachsenhausen. Both asserted they were unaware of reports that the Russians are now using that camp for political prisoners.

They said they were moved to Potsdam late the night of their arrest, all their movements while in custody being in completely blacked-out automobiles. Throughout their detention they were kept separated and were questioned separately by the Russians. Cobin, who was born in Russia, said he was questioned entirely in Russian.

Both men said they had repeatedly requested the Russians to notify American authorities of their whereabouts.

Question Of Identity

"They told us," Cobin added, "that they would do so 'when your identity has been established.'"

Cobin said he was repeatedly questioned about his connection with the Berlin documents center, where old Nazi party files and other records are kept.

"They kept trying to establish a chain of command between Lieut. Col. Hans Helm, my chief in the documents center, and General Clay (Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States deputy military governor)," Cobin declared.

"At one point they threatened that if I didn't tell them how Helm was connected with Clay I would be sent to Russia. I asked them if being sent to Russia was considered punishment, and they smiled."

Born In Lithuania

Cobin said that the Russians also "tried to establish something against me that would give them the right to send me back to Russia, because I was born in Lithuania when it was part of Russia."

Helm, who was present at the conference, declared that the Russians as well as all other occupying powers had free access to the document center on request and that the Russians had used part of the old German Army records it contains.

Cobin said that during his interrogation by Russian officers some of them made remarks about the British "which I can't repeat in public."

He quoted one Russian officer as saying:

"I can see how we Russians can come to an eventual understanding with the Americans, but with the British—well, the outlook is dark."

Expect To Be Punished

Cobin said that both he and Wyatt expected to be punished by American army authorities for taking off into the Soviet zone without leave and "without the required written permission from the Russians."

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, American commander in Berlin, into whose custody the American officers were delivered by the Russians last night, said the matter of discipline was still under consideration.

Cobin said he and Wyatt each had one bath and one shave during their confinement. He said he was unable to stomach the meals, "German economy food, consisting chiefly of black bread, potatoes and macaroni." He lost eight pounds.

"Officers' Food"

He said this was "officers' food and ordinary prisoners got only bread and watery soup."

"For the bath I finally got a leaky tub and a dirty towel. My shave was by a Red Army barber, who charged me three marks (30 cents)."

Cobin said the colonel who interrogated him once declared that the Americans "also have held Russians." This was July 20 and the colonel apparently referred to the three Russians the Americans agreed to release at that time.

Cobin, who went to the United States at the age of 23 and served in the American Army in the first World War, said he was never a member of the Communist party while living in Russia.

Sight-Seeing Trip

He denied a rumor that he went into the Soviet zone to collect material for a book about the Russians. Both he and Wyatt maintained it was a sight-seeing tour to view Sachsenhausen, "which we thought might be a museum now."

They said the Russians arrested them near the camp after they had been refused permission to enter. Both were in uniform and bearing United States Army credentials.

Cobin said his previous visits to the Russian zone were in an official capacity as an interpreter. Wyatt said he had gone only as far as Potsdam previously, on work for his engineering battalion and sight-seeing.

AMG Pledges Discretion In Destroying Nazi Books

AUG 1 1946

Berlin, July 31 (AP)—American Military Government officials predict there will be "no book bonfires and no witch hunts" in the American execution of the four-power Allied order to destroy German literature of a Fascist, militarist and anti-democratic nature.

The same discretionary policy, they said, would be followed in execution of a companion directive handed down by the Allied Control Authority's co-ordinating committee to destroy Nazi memorials and German military monuments commemorating World Wars I and II.

Maj. Gen. C. I. Adcock, deputy to Lieut. Gen. Lucius Clay, deputy military governor, as well as other officials pointed out that the orders left much to discretion of the zone military commanders.

"And you can count on it," said one official, that General (Joseph) McNary is not going to persecute a German for owning and failing to surrender a history of World War I."

Hits Talk Of Bonfire

The Americans said that, at their own and British insistence, private libraries were exempted from the search for banned books.

In the manner of monuments they pointed to a clause which states that "removal of objectionable parts will constitute effective eradication." This measure is expected to be substituted for total destruction in many cases.

"What's all this talk about book bonfires?" said one high official. "We expect a lot of copies of 'Mein Kampf' and other objectionable volumes to be surrendered. What's wrong with tossing them into the

AMG in Berlin Finds New Black Mart

BERLIN—(AP) "Stragglers" have put American Military Government wise to an extensive black market in food-ration cards.

The ordinary citizen comes promptly to the city offices in which ration cards are distributed and lines up in the course of the first five days of each month, when new cards are handed out.

"Stragglers," who appeared in tens of thousands, are men and women who apply for their new cards about the middle of the month. Food officers wondered how anybody could let 10 or more days of the month pass without feeling hunger. They found that thousands of Berliners called for their ration cards, promptly sold them in the black market for fabulous prices (one man collected $4,800 from the sale of his family's food cards) and then joined relatives in the country who had food.

'WHITEWASHES' NAZI GESTAPO

AUG 1 1946

German 'Protector' Of Denmark First Defense Witness

Nuernberg, Germany, July 31 (AP). Dr. Werner Best, German "protector" of Denmark after its invasion, attempted to give the notorious Gestapo a complete whitewashing today before the war-crimes tribunal.

Best appeared as the first defense witness in the case against the second of seven accused German organizations on trial before the international military tribunal.

Best testified he joined the secret police organization early in 1935. He asserted that the Gestapo, headed by Heinrich Himmler, was never intended for use in aggressive war and never was armed for such purposes.

Considered Orders 'Strange'

He said Gestapo operatives considered as "strange" many orders it received from "higher up" but which had to be carried out.

Best swore that on August 29, 1943, Berlin decreed that Jews were to be deported from Denmark but that he and the local command of the Gestapo sabotaged the order so well that 6,000 escaped and only 450 were deported. He asserted that not a single worker was deported from Denmark through efforts of the Gestapo.

Answering questions by Rudolf Merkel, defense counsel for the Gestapo, Best said all orders for shooting hostages in France originated in the Paris military headquarters and that the Gestapo "emphatically had no connection" with the orders.

British Introduce Documents

Earlier, the British prosecution introduced documents showing that leaders of the Leadership Corp of the Nazi party were involved directly in crimes against humanity.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, flew to Paris, en route to the United States, this afternoon. He said he would return to Nuernberg early in September for the expected verdict.

Emmy Goering Hikes In Vain to See Husband

AUG 1 1946

Nuernberg Attorneys Reject Plea to See 'My Man'

NUERNBERG, July 31 (AP). — Footsore and shabby, the once haughty Emmy Goering walked and hitchhiked to Nuernberg jail and pleaded tearfully to see the former reich marshal "just once more." She was turned down.

Mistress of Hermann Goering's once vast fortune, Emmy has lived in virtual poverty at near-by Neuhaus and has not seen her husband since he surrendered.

She walked five miles along a dusty road and begged a ride with a passing motorist for the other fifteen miles to the old courthouse and jail in downtown Nuernberg the other day. Ushered into offices of the principal prosecutors, she humbly begged to visit "my man" who is cooped in a tiny cell only a hundred yards away.

Attorneys told her it was "impossible," and that the regulations imposed the day the high Nazi defendants were segregated for trial were inviolate.

Jackson Leaves Nuernberg

Nuernberg, July 31 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States counsel on the war-crime tribunal, left by plane today for Paris on the first lap of a trip to New York. He expects to return to Nuernberg in September.

Nazi Leader Corps Charged at Trial

AUG 1 1946

Nuernberg, July 31 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Col. M. Griffith Jones, assistant British prosecutor, introduced documents before the war crimes tribunal today purporting to show that Kreisleiters and other members of the leadership corps of the Nazi party were involved directly in crimes against humanity, as charged by the prosecution.

The leadership corps now is on trial before the International Military Tribunal. Willi Wendeborn, Kreisleiter of Cloppenburg, was in the witness box during the morning, but he was questioned only briefly.

Suspends German Scout Group.

Frankfurt, July 31 (A. P.).—The United States Military Government announced today that it had suspended the Heidelberg Boy Scouts organization after its leader was found wearing an unauthorized uniform and giving militaristic titles to its 200 members.

Ride Atop Troop Train Fatal

Frankfurt, Germany, July 31 (AP). Private Lybron R. Jones, 18, of Hamilton, Ohio, was killed July 25 when his head struck a bridge while he was riding atop a troop train at Aschaffrenberg, the 3d Army announced today.

An American soldier who turned in the alarm said a flash of smoke and fire was seen and that investigators later found the firing pin from a phosphorus incendiary grenade near the spot where the fire began in an unoccupied room. The blaze was confined to this room on the top floor of the five-story structure. Officer-defendants in the Lichfield case are housed in the hotel.

Despite the distraction of the fire engines, which arrived after hand extinguishers had controlled the blaze, hearings continued without interruption in the two courts-martial trying Col. James A. Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., former Lichfield commander, and Capt. Joseph A. Robertson, of Toledo, Ohio, former commander of a Lichfield guard company. Both are charged with authorizing and aiding guardhouse cruelties.

No Cruelty, 3 Officers Say

A defense witness for Kilian, Lieut. Warren E. Hays, of Pittsburgh, testified, as did three other officers called to the stand during the day, that he had seen no cruelty to prisoners during his tour of duty at Lichfield.

Private Louis L. Kardon, of Philadelphia, a prosecution witness at Robertson's trial, testified that he saw Robertson watching a calisthenics drill in which prisoners were being clubbed.

Lichfield Trial Scene Fire Blamed On Incendiary Bomb

AUG 1 1946

Bad Nauheim, Germany, July 31 (AP)—A fire, apparently started deliberately by an incendiary bomb, broke out today in the Park Hotel—the scene for the past three months of the trials of United States Army personnel accused of cruelty to American soldier-prisoners at the Lichfield (England) guardhouse.

The blaze was extinguished before serious damage was caused.

The German manager of the hotel, once a luxurious home for wealthy vacationers in this internationally known spa, said that two German hotel employés had been picked up for questioning by counterintelligence agents. Neither the agents nor army officers would discuss the case.

Butter Made From Coal Product Of Reich Plant

By James Devlin

Witten, Germany, July 31 (AP)—A factory that makes butter from coal was one of the prizes discovered by the British in their zone of Germany.

"It is excellent butter and I doubt if anyone ever would guess it was synthetic," said one British official who sampled it.

The factory, Imhausen & Co., located in this Ruhr city, has not made butter since the end of the war, but its management hopes to resume operations in about a month.

600-Ton Monthly Output

Dr. Karl Heinz Imhausen, the young manager, said the plant normally could produce 600 tons a month at a cost less than that of natural butter. During the war, when natural butter cost 3 marks and 60 pfennigs a kilo, the synthetic product cost 1 mark and 80 pfennigs a kilo, he said.

That, he added, was without any financial help from a Nazi regime that demanded "guns instead of butter."

The synthetic butter can keep without refrigeration. Dr. Imhausen exhibited a pound manufactured before the war ended. It had not been kept under ice and had not melted. It looked and tasted like the real thing.

Description Of Process

Coal is converted into butter like this:

Coal is made into coke, coke into gas, the gas into paraffin. By a blowing process (the most difficult part of the operation), 80 to 82 tons of fatty acid can be drawn from 100 tons of paraffin. The fats are further separated by distillation under a high vacuum. Some are edible, some are not.

From there on the recipe is: Add to the pure, synthetic, edible fat 20 per cent water. Add carrot extract for vitamins and coloring. Add salt. Finally inject something called diacetyl to give the odor of butter.

This mixture is whipped up in a machine and comes out the other end like a long sausage about eight inches in diameter. That goes into another machine from which pounds of butter come out, neatly wrapped, on a conveyor belt.

Most of the fats that don't go into butter are made into soap by an affiliate, also operated by Dr. Imhausen.

The residue, unsuitable either for butter or soap, is manufactured into a basic product for plastics, a softening material for rubber, an ingredient for varnish and into alcohol.

Hit Once By Bombs

The Witten plant, built in 1938, began production in 1939, and was hit once by British bombers.

It was not severely damaged, although a tank containing 650 tons of paraffin was ignited and burned for days.

Princess Says U. S. Officer Kidnaped Her

AUG 1 1946

German Noblewoman Tells of Threats After Six Art Treasures Vanished.

Buedingen, Germany, July 31 (A. P.).—The Princess of Ysenburg and Buedingen, a descendant of one of Germany's oldest titled houses, asserted today that she had been kidnaped and threatened by an American officer who questioned her in connection with the disappearance of six world-famous art treasures from her 1,000-year-old castle.

Before the arrest, the shabbily dressed Princess claimed, "he kidnaped me in his car and threatened me by saying our property (17,000 acres of forest and meadows surrounding the castle) would be confiscated if I did not change my story." She said that she refused, and her husband, young Prince Otto of Ysenburg and Buedingen, asserted:

"I was also threatened by the officer, who visited me while I was in a civilian internee camp."

The Prince soon will face a court of his tenants on charges of being an active Nazi. Interviewed in the cold, but modernly equipped castle, where eighty-eight influential Germans share quarters in princely living rooms, libraries and terraces, the Prince and Princess asserted:

"An Army investigation board brought us before the officer last autumn. He denied any knowledge of the paintings' disappearance. An Army agent got statements from a Belgian and a French girl that they saw the paintings in the officer's house.

"The Army started a new investigation in October, and we were assured then we would be asked to testify within a few weeks. The agent conducting the new investigation has gone back to the United States, and we have not seen an investigation officer since. That was eight months ago, and the case apparently is sleeping."

The Princess said that the investigation of the paintings' disappearance was begun by Col. James C. Wood, a tactical troop commander now living at Phoenix, Ariz. Wood formerly had his field artillery command post in the castle.

Meanwhile, Army and military government authorities refused to discuss the mystery.

Meanwhile, deep mystery shrouded the missing treasures, which belonged to the Frankfurt Art Museum. Four United States agencies responsible for their recovery answered inquiries regarding the progress of a year-old investigation with: "There will be no statement."

There was unofficial speculation in Buedingen that the treasures, including Rubens's $20,000 "Pan and Nymph," had been burned. The precious paintings vanished a few days after they were transferred to Buedingen Castle by military authorities in April, 1945. A junior officer, since redeployed, was arrested and later freed, reportedly for "lack of evidence."

Italian Cabinet Calls Proposed Terms Harsh

Rome, July 31 (AP)—The Italian Cabinet declared tonight that the proposed Italian treaty presented tothe peace conference in Paris was a harsh document which "endangered the very independence of the nation."

A communiqué issued by the Cabinet after a five-hour session said the ministers were "unanimously and painfully impressed by the harshness of the document compiled without consulting the Italian Government on essential questions."

Premier Alcide De Gasperi, former Premier Ivanoe Bonomi, who headed the government during most of Italy's co-belligerency against the Germans, and Giuseppe Saragat, president of the Constituent Assembly and former Ambassador to France, were appointed delegates to the peace conference.

Cardinal Acts Against Italian Black Market

Rome, July 31 (AP)—Alfredo ardinal Schuster, archbishop of Milan, has warned black marketeers that they would be denied the sacraments of the Catholic church.

The warning, according to a Milan dispatch to Rome's Il Minuti, was contained in a letter to clergymen of the archdiocese, written by the Cardinal after the prefect of the city had asked for his co-operation in the fight against the black market.

Pope Receives Italy's President

Vatican City, July 31 (A. P.)—Pope Pius XII formally received President Enrico de Nicola of Italy today and declared that the nation, "situated between the East and the West," occupied more than ever a position of responsibility and danger. "A new era is about to arise in the history of Europe and the world," the Pontiff declared at a solemn ceremony in St. Peter's Square. The Pope said that the Italian people awaited leaders to conduct them from "the stormy and dark present to a more tranquil and luminous future."

U. S. TRUCK UNDER FIRE NEAR TRIESTE

Gorizia, July 31 (A. P.).—Unidentified persons in this uneasy zone north of Trieste fired on an American Army truck today, but the troops escaped without casualties. Patrols of the 351st Regiment searched in vain for the assailants.

The two-and-a-half-ton truck was crossing a Bailey bridge near Jogoziza, five miles west of Tarvisio, when it became the target of several bullets. One shot went through the windshield.

The attack was near the Morgan line dividing the occupation zones of the United States and Britain from those of Yukoslavia in the Italian territory at the head of the Adriatic Sea.

Earlier this month assassins ambushed an American jeep, killing a soldier and wounding two others.

12,500 Orphaned By War in Warsaw

WARSAW, Poland—(AP) — The war and long German occupation left 12,500 orphans in the ruined city of Warsaw, but most of these are getting a new start in life through the work of the famous Jean Badouen orphanage.

This institution, reopened in February, 1945, shortly after the Nazis cleared out of the capital, acts as a "clearing house" for the orphans, of whom 3,500 are crippled.

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration's mission in Poland is supplying most of the clothing and food.

Some Poles Live In Dugouts

Warka, Poland, July 31 (AP)—The war is over, but nearly a quarter of a million Poles still live in dugouts and bunkers.

That's the picture one finds around Warka, about fifty miles south of Warsaw, and in the district of Kielce, on the main Warsaw-Krakow highway.

In the Kielce district alone 146,000 people live in dirt-topped, brick-walled dugouts and hovels. Despite that, most Polish peasants appear to be glad to be back on their own soil, for many of them spent long years in Nazi concentration camps.

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, the Polish Ministries of Health and Food, the American Red Cross and Polish Red Cross are trying to bring aid to the poor families in the worst devastated areas, but the people have little to eat.

Dugout Home

Here's a peep into the brick-walled, dirt-topped dugout home of Stefan Jobiasz, in nearby Czerwonka:

Before the war he owned and farmed 40 acres of land. He had two horses, seven cows, eight pigs, scores of chickens and 20 beehives. Today he has one pig, one chicken and a horse, from UNRRA.

He and his wife, Maria, live in a single dugout room furnished with a chest, table, bed and small stove. A pot there contained their daily meal—potato soup with a little fat floating in it.

RED ORGAN LASHES U. S. 'IMPERIALISTS'

Moscow, July 31 (A. P.).—Bolshevik, journal of the policy-making Central Committee of the Communist party, asserted today that "American imperialists are solidifying themselves in the Far East and turning Japan into a colonial possession and monopoly market and estate of American capital."

The editorial asserted also that the American "imperialists" were attempting to fashion "a system of platforms for economic expansion in Europe."

"American capital is working hand in glove with English capital in attempting to set up a monopoly over the big and little States of Europe in the form of 'economic help for these countries,'" the journal charged. "This is the new adventure program of world rule by Anglo-Saxons in the post-war years."

The journal asserted that the "increased drive" for bases was a drive for "military, strategic platforms and cannot be camouflaged as attempts for security, which, as a matter of fact, is only an expression of imperialistic expansion."

Amazed by Byrnes.

Moscow, July 31 (A. P.).—Tass, the Soviet official news agency, said in a dispatch from the Paris peace conference today that many delegates believed Secretary of State Byrnes's speech yesterday was an attempt to lay the groundwork for reconsideration of a number of four-Power decisions. The speech "evoked some amazement," the agency said.

British Find Cache of Arms Under Tel Aviv Synagogue

C. DAVIDSON

Tommies Led by Chaplain Discover Guns Hidden There With English Uniforms —Land Mines Seized Elsewhere.

Tel Aviv, July 31 (A. P.).—A gun-carrying chaplain of the Church of England led British troops today to the discovery that the great synagogue of Tel Aviv sits atop a cache of arms.

The arms were found at noon on the second day of the British Army's inch-by-inch combing of this modern all-Jewish city in search of terrorists for bombing out British Army and Government Headquarters at the King David Hotel in Jerusalem, in which 111 were killed or are missing.

NIGHT

Beneath the synagogue, the most imposing religious edifice in Tel Aviv, the arms cache yielded six bundles of British military uniforms, numerous badges and insignia, a radio transmitter, a number of Sten gun frames and nine loaded revolvers.

The Rev. Harry Hyde, the chaplain leader of the raid on the synagogue, said that one revolver was "so shiny it might have been in somebody's pocket last night."

Protected Synagogue.

Chaplain Hyde of the Sixth Airborne Division's Eighth Parachute Brigade, said that he entered the synagogue "just to see that the boys looking for terrorists didn't make a mess of things in the synagogue."

"On the way in," he continued, "one of my boys happened to glance through a ventilator into the basement and saw a number of kit bags which made him suspicious. We found a locked iron door to part of the sub-basement and finally located, three blocks away, the man with the key."

Some 50,000 of the 200,000 Jews in Tel Aviv have been screened by interrogators. Arrests to noon totaled 280 men and eight women.

Eleven suspected members of the Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern gang had been taken and one other arms cache, containing 500 land mine boxes and a number of electrical detonators has been seized.

Civic Life Is Halted.

Jerusalem, July 31 (A. P.).—Civic life in the modern all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv was at a standstill today as an unprecedented manhunt by 20,000 red-bereted British Tommies went into its second day, with 3,000 arrests expected.

The 200,000 residents of Tel Aviv submitted with resignation to the roundup and the imposition of a twenty-two-hour curfew. Blaring loud speakers announced the curfew, which was backed up by Tiger tanks and parading troops.

Suspects were whisked to hastily erected barbed-wire cages, and then the men were taken to the Rafa prison camp and the women to the Latrun detention camp.

All utilities in Tel Aviv were shut down yesterday and regular communications were suspended until further notice. All traffic and most activities were at a standstill. R. A. F. engineers took over power plants.

"It's a big and extremely unpleasant task," commented Major-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commanding the operations. He added that "By hook or crook we must find and detain these gangs."

The steamship Hahayal Haivri arrived at Haifa this morning with approximately 550 illegal Jewish immigrants from Europe, including former inmates of the Belsen concentration camp.

FIND ARMS CACHE UNDER SYNAGOGUE

Vast Store of Weapons Discovered by British in Tel Aviv.

TEL AVIV, Palestine, July 31.—(AP) British troops hunting for terrorists discovered an arms cache today beneath the great Synagogue of Tel Aviv, the largest in all Palestine.

Equipment for forging government bonds and 20,000 forged £10 ($40) bonds also were found in the Jewish religious center, said a communique issued in Jerusalem.

A chaplain of the Church of England, the Rev. Harry Hyde of a British parachute brigade, accompanied the raiders. He said he went along just to see that the soldiers "didn't make a mess of things in the synagogue."

Found in Basement

The communique said weapons, ammunition including dum-dum bullets and uniforms were found in the basement of the synagogue "all mixed up with bedding and religious literature."

Royal engineers were called to the synagogue, on Allenby road in the heart of Tel Aviv, to hunt for further caches with mine detectors and automatic drills. The communique said "what appears to be a false wall in the synagogue is being investigated."

The search was watched by Maj. Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the city-wide hunt for terrorists; Lt. Col L. H. Bennett Shaw, police superintendent of the Lydda district including Tel Aviv; and the city's mayor, Israel Rokach.

The communique said the search through other sections of Tel Aviv had yielded nearly 500 bombs and grenades, five Bangalore torpedoes, a wide assortment of rifle, revolver and tommygun magazines, many uniforms and helmets and large quantities of explosives and ammunition.

Also found were "military documents of identity x x x various documents and training manuals in Hebrew."

Soldier is Killed

Without giving details, the communique also announced that "one British soldier was accidentally shot and killed during the night."

(Jerusalem officials announced that an illegal arms dump containing 30 Polish hand grenades, 69 grenade igniters and more than 3, 000 rounds of ammunition was confiscated by police in Ataroth, a Jewish settlement five miles north of Jerusalem.)

Chaplain Hyde said he had "found Company C working near the Synagogue and, as it is a place of worship, I came along to see that due formalities were observed."

"On the way in," the chaplain said, "one of my boys happened to glance through a ventilator into the basement and saw a number of kit bags, which made him suspicious. We found a locked iron door to part of the sub-basement and finally located, three blocks away, a man with the key."

Nine loaded revolvers, a number of sten gun frames, a radio transmitter, six bundles of British military uniforms and numerous badges and insignia were in the cache, in a caretaker storage room.

The chaplain said one of the revolvers was "so shiny it might have been in somebody's pocket last night."

Three Are Detained

The custodian of the iron door key and two caretakers of the synagogue were detained by police. There was no statement as to whether the rabbi or other church officials had been questioned.

The search of the synagogue was made in the second day of the British army's combing of this modern Jewish city of 200,000 for the men who bombed the British army headquarters and Palestine government secretariat at the King David hotel in Jerusalem, with a toll of 111 persons dead or missing.

Arrests totaled 466 persons. A rigid curfew kept residents indoors except for a two-hour shopping period, from 5 to 7 p. m.

Col. Shaw said "we don't believe we've caught any big fish yet, but we are only half through with the search."

Thirteen persons suspected of membership in Irgun Zvai Leumi or the Stern Gang, Jewish underground organizations, were among those held.

The only civilian casualty in the search of the whole city so far has been, paradoxically, an Arab, military officers said. He was wounded by a rifle bullet, they said, "after failing to heed a severe warning to return to his house" during widespread curfew-breaking in Tel Aviv's Oriental quarter, inhabited by Yemenite Jews and Arabs.

The military reported two mysterious explosions in the city before dawn today. There was no official explanation, but an officer said "it might have been an underground boss blowing up some of their ammunition dumps."

(Small-scale searches were carried out by police and soldiers in several districts of Jerusalem, where a curfew is in effect for the Jewish area from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m.)

REPORTS NEW MARINE CLASH

Peiping Rumor Claims Fight With Communists

Peiping, July 31 (AP)—Rumors that United States Marines and Chinese Communists had mixed in a second clash of arms on the road to Tientsin spread through Peiping today in a blackout of official information.

Marine headquarters lapsed into silence after announcing three Marines were killed and twelve were wounded Monday by "armed, uniformed Chinese" in a cornfield ambush 35 miles southeast of Peiping. Unofficial sources said a fourth Marine died of wounds.

Unable to get anything official, Peiping ground out rumors by the hour. The top one was a wholly unconfirmed story that 300 Marines, rushed from Tientsin to search for missing comrades, engaged in a "running fight" with Communists and suffered more casualties.

Headquarters Refuses Comment

Another rumor was that eight Marines were killed and nearly a score were wounded. This resembled the first wild one Monday that eleven Marines had been slain.

While Marine headquarters refused even to discuss the rumors, it was fairly evident that something was afoot along the Tientsin highway. Three patrols were seen leaving Peiping in the last two days. They were headed in the direction of the ambush scene.

A Communist spokesman declined to comment on the ambush of the Marine truck convoy. He acknowledged, however, that Communist troops were active in the area and on Sunday had seized two near-by villages.

Another Marine Clash In China Is Reported

AUG 1 1946

T. MASTERSON

Peiping, July 31 (AP)—Unofficial reports of a higher death toll and a second clash persisted today even as the Peiping Marine Garrison Headquarters, in the first official announcement, reported three Marines were killed and twelve wounded during Monday's fight with 300 armed Chinese.

The unconfirmed reports of the dead varied from four to eight, the wounded toll extended to a score and a reliable source said one Marine still was missing.

A Communist spokesman still declined either to confirm or deny that the attackers were Communists but did say Communist troops were active in the area, 35 miles southeast of Peiping, where a truck convoy of 100 Marine replacements was ambushed. The spokesman said the scene of the clash was Communist-controlled territory.

Identity Not Doubted

Reliable and informed sources said, however, there was no doubt the attackers were Communists. These sources explained that in the past when Marines clashed with Communists the Marines never officially identified the Chinese as Communists, although they unofficially did so.

When there was doubt as to identity of the Chinese, the Marines would say they were "unidentified." It, therefore, was regarded as especially significant this time that the Marines in an official announcement described the assailants as "armed, uniformed Chinese troops." Also in the past the Communists' spokesman has denied that Communists were involved.

Attack Plan Reported

[In Tientsin, the pro-Government Minkuo (Republican) Daily News said approximately 40,000 Chinese Communist troops are concentrated in eastern Hopei province, preparing to assault the port city of Chinwangtao, where United States Marines are stationed. The report lacked substantiation from any other source.]

The Marine Corps official announcement followed attempts to keep secret all information on the assault. As a result, several unconfirmed reports are circulating in Peiping and Tientsin. One is that the 300 Marines sent from Tientsin to the cornfield battle scene to search for missing men had a "running fight" with Communists and suffered casualties.

At least three Marine patrols have been seen leaving Peiping in the direction of the clash scene. Reports that Sino-American executive headquarters would send a cease-fire team into the area have not been confirmed.

Troops Are Withheld

Immediately following the attack, Government forces prepared to send troops into the area but reliable sources said executive headquarters had influenced them to abandon the mission.

These sources added that army officers feared the Marine patrol, already resuming its trip to Peiping from Tientsin, would mistake the Government troops in the darkness for Communists and engage them. Marine sources said a patrol which was ready to leave from Peiping had not been sent out for a similar reason.

The Marines' official announcement listed four seriously wounded and eight slightly. Unofficial sources said a fourth Marine died and another was in a critical condition.

China Peace Lag Laid To Offense

AUG 1 1946

Nanking, July 31 (AP)—A Chinese Government spokesman declared today it was "impossible to make any progress in peace talks" because of an "over-all Communist offensive" northeast of Nanking.

Peng Hsueh-pei, Minister of Information, told a press conference that the Communists also "continue their destructive work, the disruption of railways and the economic blockade."

[The Communists have charged that the Government itself is on the offensive in the area which embraces North Kiangsu province, a zone of great strategic value because it flanks both Nanking and Shanghai.]

Peng asserted there were 150,000 Communist troops in North Kiangsu and more reinforcements were being sent in.

Peace negotiations still idled.

The United States Ambassador, J. Leighton Stuart, recovering from illness, expected to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek at the summer capital of Kuling Thursday. Gen. George C. Marshall, special United States envoy, also may return to Kuling Thursday.

Tientsin, July 31 (A. The report lacked substantiation from any source.

SCORES KOREAN RIOTS

Seoul, July 31 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. John R. Hodge today termed Monday's left wing demonstration, which halted the scheduled counterfeiting trial of seventeen defendants, an attempt to interfere with the administration of justice through riots and organized mob action. An 18-year-old student was killed by a ricochetting police bullet during the demonstration.

Hodge, in his statement, directed that the trial continue "as a trial of individuals, even though the Communist party has by its action brought grave suspicions as to the extent of its interest in the affair." The mass demonstration by 2,000 persons, he said was "the most shameful incident in South Korea since my arrival."

Jap Domination Aims In Manchukuo Bared

AUG 1 1946

Tokyo, July 31 (AP)—Prosecuting attorneys presented documents today in the war-crime trial of 27 Japanese leaders as evidence that Japan planned to dominate Manchukuo politically, economically and socially.

These documents followed others which disclosed the attitude as early as 1923 of the Kwantung Army, the military spearhead of Japanese penetration.

"Let the people follow blindly," "wield military power if necessary," "bar existence of political parties," "place Japanese in key positions" were among recorded expressions in the documents.

Woman Prosecutor

Other documents presented by Prosecution Attorney Mrs. Grace K. Llewellyn, of Washington, D.C., to take over the communications to take over the communication business in Manchuria and institute a monarchial form of government.

In 1934, the development of Manchukuo as the "base of Japan's world-wide economic expansion" was formulated after the League of Nations condemned Japanese action in Manchuria. That condemnation resulted in Japan's withdrawal from the League.

The duplicity and cynicism with which Japan promoted her policies in Manchuria were laid bare in prosecution-introduced statements and in interrogation of former War Minister Sadao Araki, one of the 27 defendants.

Motives Might "Leak Out"

In reply to a Kwantung Army suggestion for quick Japanese official recognition of Manchukuo, he was quoted as advising care lest Japan's "motives . . . leak out."

To this testimony was added a League of Nations survey of the Sino-Japanese conflict in the Orient. The League said Japanese military moves in Manchuria "cannot be regarded as self-defense" as the Japanese claimed.

American Aid To Charities Okayed

Tokyo, July 31 (AP)—Special remittance facilities, permitting Americans to contribute to charitable institutions in Japan, have been established by the United States Government, Allied headquarters today notified the Japanese Government.

Donations will be paid in dollars to headquarters' account with the United States Treasury. The Treasury will forward information of the contribution to headquarters. Headquarters will notify the Bank of Japan to make payment in yen at the current rate of exchange to the institution for which the donation was intended out of a headquarters special account in the bank.

Actual dollar contributions will be held in the United States Treasury for use in paying for essential imports into Japan such as food. Donations come primarily from United States religious bodies seeking to rehabilitate war-destroyed church properties and expand their activities in Japan.

Tokyo Talks Seek Oriental Trade Revival

Tokyo, July 31 (AP)—Preliminary negotiations have begun for the re-establishment of controlled trade between Japan and other Oriental countries. Two foreign purchasing missions already are in Japan, Leo R. Fleming, chief of the Allied headquarters' foreign trade division, disclosed today.

One mission represents Singapore, the Malayan Union, Hong Kong, Burma, Ceylon and British North Borneo. It is headed by John Galvin, of Hong Kong. A second represents Australia and includes S. Lynch and G. V. Williams.

Oriental countries need textiles and general consumer goods, Major J. F. E. Pickelle, of the foreign trade division, said upon returning from a recent trade liaison mission to all Asiatic nations. In return for exporting such items, Japan expects to obtain needed raw materials.

Fleming said the United States Commercial Company will handle sales. Washington will give final approval on trade proposals. Goods will be exchanged directly between countries concerned and bookkeeping credits will be cleared every six months.

Government Black Mart Deals Barred

Tokyo, July 31 (AP)—Allied headquarters ordered the Japanese Government today to confine construction expenditures to the economic stabilization board's allocation of materials, thus prohibiting the Government from patronizing the black market.

The order conditioned headquarters' approval of three special account budgets to be presented to the diet totaling 41 billion yen ($2,700,000,000).

JAPANESE FAINTS WHEN SENTENCED

AUG 1 1946

Yokohama, July 31 (A. P.).—A Japanese war criminal fainted today on being sentenced to five years' imprisonment, but another who got forty years, shouted: "Very good, sir."

The fainting defendant, Capt. Yuhei Hosotani, was convicted by an Eighth Army tribunal of abusing prisoners of war at Hiroshima, where he was camp commandant. He was the first convicted Japanese to collapse since war crimes trials started in Japan. Military Police carried him, senseless, from the court room.

Yasuo Kobayshi, camp interpreter, was more nonchalant when sentenced to forty years by Lieut.-Col. Glenn I. Epperson, of Sacramento, Cal., head of the trial commission.

Three other Japanese at the same trial received sentences of one to ten years. Sixty-nine war criminals have been sentenced to date by Eighth Army tribunals in Yokohama.

Roxas Okays Manila Judge Resignation

Manila, July 31 (AP)—President Manuel Roxas today accepted the resignation of Judge Antonio Quirino of the People's Court, set up to try alleged collaborators.

Quirino had publicly announced that he did not believe Jose Laurel, president of the Philippine Government under Japanese rule, was guilty of treason as charged.

Quirino, scheduled to confer with Laurel today, is expected to become chief defense counsel in the latter's case.

Dismissal Plea Rejected

The court denied a petition to dismiss treason charges against several prominent accused collaborators, rejecting a defense contention that the new Philippine republic cannot try offenses against the former Commonwealth Government.

Senator Vicente Francisco, counsel for the accused, said he would appeal to the Philippine Supreme Court. His dismissal motion, if it should be upheld there, would free some 5,000 alleged collaborators now under indictment.

Anglo-American Proposal for Four Districts Outlined Before Parliament.

Washington, July 31 (A. P.).—President Truman directed the American Cabinet Committee in London today to return to Washington to review the whole Palestine problem in detail.

A White House statement said that the President took this step in view of the complexity of the problem, which includes American pleas for the immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine.

The President, it was said, hopes that further discussions will "alleviate the situation of the persecuted Jews in Europe" and contribute to the ultimate solution of the long-term problem of Palestine.

Text of Statement.

The text of the statement:

"The President has been considering certain recommendations of the alternates of the Cabinet committee with regard to Palestine and has decided in view of the complexity of the matter to request Ambassador Grady and his asoociates to return to Washington to discuss the whole matter with him in detail.

"The President hopes that further discussions will result in decisions which will alleviate the situation of the persecuted Jews in Europe and at the same time contribute to the ultimate solution of the long-term problem of Palestine."

The statement followed a series of conferences at the White House this week between the President and various groups interested primarily in the speedy opening of means for immigration of European Jews into Palestine.

The President went over the problem yesterday afternoon with Secretary of War Patterson, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and Dean Acheson, Acting Secretary of State. Patterson was an unscheduled visitor to the White House again today.

Grady and his group have been acting as representatives of these three departments in their negotiations at London.

STATUTE BLOCKS GRAND JURY ACTION ON COFFEE CHECK

AUG 1 1946

Law Bars Prosecution After Three Years, Probers Are Told.

RETURNS TO STAND

Congressman Insists Neither He Nor Secretary Guilty of Any Crime.

WASHINGTON, July 31 — (AP) James P. McGranery, assistant to the attorney general, told the Senate War Investigating committee today that the case of a defense contractor's $2,500 payment for representative Coffee (D-Wash) would have been laid before a grand jury but for the statute of limitations.

Meanwhile there were fresh repercussions from the committee's inquiry into the Garsson munitions combine, suspended temporarily during the Coffee hearings:

1. Senator Mitchell (D-Wash) of the committee declared in a speech for delivery on the senate floor that the military services "must take appropriate punitive measures against officers who are easy in morals and careless in administration. The military uniform, in too many instances, has been changed from a cloak of honor and duty to a cloak of inconvenience and irresponsibility."

2. Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., a major Garsson unit, acknowledged "tangible net worth" of $11,832 for its fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1943, when the War department contends it made $1,270,000 in "excessive profits." The company's statement contended, however, that the net worth figure "does not properly reflect the funds invested in and made available to petitioner by its principal stockholders." The report was filed in a U. S. tax court suit to bar the government from collecting a refund.

The payment to Coffee—which the congressman insists was a campaign contribution and which the contractor, Eivind Anderson of Tacoma, Wash., declared was for "services"—was made five years ago.

Too Late to Act

McGranery testified that the transaction first came to his attention last March but then it was too late to proceed on account of a law barring prosecutions after three years.

Otherwise, he declared, he would have submitted the evidence to a grand jury. He did not particularize as to what law might have been violated or against whom charges might have been filed.

He told the committee, however, that so far as the recipient of a campaign gift from a contractor is concerned, "you can receive one and not be guilty of anything."

But he declared there is "no question Anderson was guilty of a violation of the law" and called his affidavit "in effect the confession of a crime."

Giving the money, McGranery told the committee, was illegal whether as payment for services or as a campaign contribution, but "if paid for services rendered it might be a crime on somebody's else's part also."

Coffee on Stand

Coffee took the witness stand a second time at the end of the hearing and conceded that there was "perhaps a question of ethics" involved. But he contended that neither he nor his secretary was "guilty of any crime."

"I am not trying to exculpate myself from having done something foolish," he told the committee.

"I've made mistakes in my life, and I'm learning my lessons as I go along, and believe me, gentlemen, I have learned from this experience."

Summing up the testimony, Chairman Mead (D.-N. Y.) observed that it came down to a conflict as to whether the payment was a contribution or a payment for services.

"It occurs to me," he said, "that while this may be morally wrong under these circumstances—"

"Believe me," Coffee interrupted, "I'll never accept another one, I'll tell you that."

Then, as Mead started to complete his remarks, he added, "of this character, I mean, or anything remotely resembling it."

No Government Loss

Mead went on to say that while the transaction might have been "morally wrong," the government "didn't lose any money" because Anderson was the low bidder on the contract.

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) a former judge, and McGranery, nominated by President Truman only today to become one, held an extended discussion of the legal aspects.

Under Ferguson's questions, McGranery declared there is a "defect" in the corrupt practices act under which candidates for public office apparently cannot be compelled to list campaign contributions if they are received 30 days after an election.

Coffee has testified that he did not report the $2,500 from Olson as a campaign contribution in 1941 and that he was not required to do so by law.

As a "horseback opinion," McGranery said, however, "that if a man gave me a contribution in an off year—the year between elections—I should feel honor bound to report that contribution."

Ferguson pressed McGranery for an explanation as to why criminal proceedings could not be instituted under a statute which makes prosecution for fraud against the government possible for six years after the end of the war in cases involving war contracts.

But the attorney general's assistant said that the statute of limitation in this particular case had expired by three months when congress laid down that law in 1944.

Finds Law Repealed

Ferguson then turned to a similar law of the First World War, but learned from McGranery that it had been repealed in 1926.

Near the outset of his testimony, McGranery quoted a letter from J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, saying that in the absence of specific orders, the FBI would not investigate the case because of the statute of limitation and because the complaint appeared to be political in nature.

McGranery declared the case was called to the department's attention by Harry Cain, outgoing mayor of Tacoma and now the Republican nominee for the United States senate, just before Tacoma's municipal elections earlier this year.

Despite Hoover's reply, McGranery related, Attorney General Clark noted on the correspondence in long hand that "perhaps we should investigate this though it is barred."

McGranery said that he then conferred with Hoover and came back with the report that he and the FBI director were in agreement that such an investigation would "serve no purpose and would be persecutive in character."

In response to questions on that recommendation, McGranery said that the report on the check had come from a "disappointed candidate" who kept silent about it for five years.

This was a reference to Anderson, who was defeated in the mayoral campaign by Paul Olson, formerly Coffee's secretary. Earlier in the day, Olson testified that Anderson attempted to "blackmail" him into withdrawing from the race by threatening to make the check public. It had been drawn to Olson, who deposited it in Coffee's account.

Blackmail Tried By Anderson, Probe Told

AUG 1 1946

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Paul A. Olson, former secretary to Representative John M. Coffee (D., Wash.), told the Senate War Investigating Committee today that Eivind Anderson, Tacoma contractor, attempted to "blackmail" him into withdrawing last January as a candidate for mayor of Tacoma.

Olson testified that Anderson had told him that unless he withdrew from the primary race in which the contractor was also entered, Anderson "would use the check to injure me in some way in the March election."

The witness' reference was to a $2,500 check which Anderson gave to Olson in 1941 while the latter was serving as Coffee's secretary.

Called To Anderson's Home

Anderson has testified that the check was in payment for services he expected to receive from Coffee and Olson in connection with a defense contract. Coffee told the committee yesterday he received the money as a "campaign gift."

Olson said today that Anderson called him to his home last January 19 or 20 "ostensibly for the purpose of obtaining further aid" relative to payments which Anderson believed were due him from the War Department on a hospital-construction contract.

Talk Leads Up To Check

Anderson, Olson testified, then brought the conversation around to the check issued five years previously and asked Olson to withdraw from the race, leaving the contractor as the only candidate with a Scandinavian name in a community of voters predominantly of Scandinavian descent.

"He attempted to blackmail me into withdrawing from the mayor's race," Olson declared.

He added that he declined to withdraw, telling Anderson that "there was nothing wrong" about the payment and "if you want to use it, go ahead and shoot the works."

Says Cain Told Press

Anderson, Olson said, did not make the transaction public until a week after the primary election and a week preceding the runoff. Anderson was eliminated in the primary, running last, the witness said, while Olson lost out in the final to C. V. Fawcett.

The story of the payment, Olson continued, was given to the press and radio in a statement by retiring Mayor Harry P. Cain. Olson identified Cain as the present Washington Republican nominee for the Senate.

Cain based his statement, the witness said, on an affidavit by Anderson.

The contrary stories of Coffee and Anderson were already in the committee record.

Yesterday Anderson testified that Olson had asked him to withdraw from the race with a reminder of frequent services in his behalf while Olson was Coffee's secretary.

Anderson said that he refused to withdraw, declaring that he had "paid" for any services received from Olson, referring to the $2,500 check.

Ferguson Prods Witness

U. S. PALESTINE COMMITTEE CALLED HOME BY PRESIDENT

AUG 1 1946

Brusquely, Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) interrupted Olson's narrative twice to inquire when he was going to end the discussion of the "political angles."

"I'm not interested in the political angles," declared Ferguson. "I a minterested in getting the facts on what happened in Washington back in 1941."

Olson said that he knew that Anderson's defeat in the primary angered him, because, he said, Anderson had "boastfully told me that he had more friends that I—that I was a fool to try to beat him."

Cain's interest in the matter, Olson said, stemmed from the "fact that he feared that I would use the mayor's chair to assist the Democratic nominee later" for the United States Senate.

Says He Helped Anderson

He said that he had known Anderson's sons in college, that he had lunched with the contractor frequently, and that he considered him as a "very good friend and booster" so that the subsequent developments "came as a complete and stunning surprise."

Olson also said that he was the "star witness" for Anderson in a suit brought against him by C. C. Hall in 1944 in which he said Hall sought a $4,500 fee for helping obtain the $936,517 hospital contract in 1944. The court ruled in Anderson's favor, Olson recalled.

Anderson testified during trial of that civil action, Olson said, that "he was acquainted with at least a dozen congressmen back there in Washington" and knew that he could get their assistance without paying anything.

around the latter that members of Congress could "hardly ask questions about it."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said the committee already has decided to investigate "Mr. Wyman" and expressed belief that "some of that" will come out in the inquiry. "I think the trail of Mr. Wyman will lead us to Canada, Hawaii and other interesting places," he added.

His reference was to Col. Theodore Wyman, Jr., who was district engineer in Hawaii prior to the Pearl Harbor attack. The Pearl Harbor Investigating committee recommended that a separate investigation into Wyman's activities be made by an "appropriate committee" of Congress. This task has been placed on the agenda of the Senate committee.

Near Traitorous Conduct

Senator Mitchell charged that actions of public employes, in dealing with the Garsson munitions combine, "approached traitorous conduct."

In a speech on the Senate floor, Mitchell, a member of the War Investigating committee, said that the inquiry had raised a legitimate question about the competence of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt to hold his post as chief of Chemical Warfare Service, "let alone his moral calibre."

He declared that Albert Jacobson, until recently chief of the Chemical Warfare Service legal division, "should not be permitted to remain one hour longer in the employ of the government in the face of all the evidence which brands him as an unfaithful public servant."

ers.

Mitchell told the Senate that Waitt had "attempted to discredit" an inspector general's report showing overpayment of $1,000,00 to the Batavia Metal Products company, one of the 19 concerns in the combine.

"If General Waitt carries his responsibilities so lightly in dealing with dollars, what shall we conclude when he deals with liv — the lives of American soldiers who were killed because of defective munitions?

"General Waitt was quick to maintain that the 4.2 mortar shells produced by the Erie Basin company (another of the combine) were excellent in quality, but at the same time he did not know who produced shells which burst in the mortar barrel or at the muzzle, killing and maiming our own men."

He said that while Waitt, "in his own words, 'sweated blood' to find the answers" on what was wrong with the shells, "he did not find them, but found time to go to fancy parties, even as American boys spilled blood because somebody fell down on the job back home."

Probe of Gen. Somervell Urged on Senate Floor

AUG 1 1946

WASHINGTON, July 31. — (AP) Senator Magnuson (D-Wash) urged on the Senate floor tonight that the War Investigating committee inquire into General Brehon Somervell, wartime commander of the Army Service Forces, saying that he "squandered practically $300,000,000 of American money with supreme arrogance."

The request came shortly after Senator Mitchell (D-Wash), summing up the committee's inquiry into the Garsson munitions combine, demanded punitive measures against other army officers who, he said, "are easy in morals and careless in administration."

Based on Experience

Magnuson said that his request was based upon his experience in dealing with Somervell in connection with the Alaskan highway and Canol oil projects. He said that so much secrecy was thrown

Reviewing at length the testimony accumulated by the committee over a month of hearings, Mitchell termed the "financial manipulations" by the combine "fantastic," but added:

"Corrupt and improper as they may have been (they) do not rate so low as the conduct of government officials, some of them in military uniform, who have taken an oath to protect and preserve the government which employs them, and which has entrusted sacred public funds to their care."

Attended Wedding Party

He dealt at length on the "singular coincidence" that business "necessary in the military service" took Waitt, Maj. Gen. William N. Porter, Brig. Gen. Paul X. English and other officers on a journey which enabled them to attend a wedding party for the daughter of one of the munitions manufactur-

SHIP-SALE DEAL QUIZ IS URGED

AUG 1 1946

Plot To Defraud Government Hinted Before House Group

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Representative Jackson (D., Wash.) said today that conditions under which the Maritime Commission and the War Shipping Administration agreed to sell sixteen ships to the United States Lines and Grace Lines "merit an investigation under the conspiracy laws."

Jackson made his statement at a House Merchant Marine subcommittee hearing on the disposal of ships under the Ship Sales Act.

Representative Weichel (R., Ohio), another committee member, also commented that the transaction "looks like conspiracy to defraud the Government" and suggested the matter be placed before a Federal grand jury.

Financial Benefit Denied

John J. Miller, former chief examiner for the commission, and W. H. Skinner, commission general counsel, disputed these views. They contended the transaction had not benefited the shipping companies financially and did not represent a loss to the Government.

"Neither the United States Lines nor the Grace Lines have realized any financial benefit," Skinner said.

The transaction which the committee is inquiring into was outlined by Marvin J. Coles, committee counsel, as follows:

United States Lines offered to buy ten vessels from the Government providing the Government would requisition nine older ships. Grace offered to purchase six ships providing the Government would requisition three.

In both cases, Coles said, the Government agreed to negotiate downward the prices of the ships to be purchased by the companies, but there would be no similar adjustment in the prices to be paid by the Government through requisition.

This meant, Coles said, that the Government had in effect agreed to sell the new ships at what amounted to 50 cents on the dollar and to buy the older ships at 100 cents on the dollar.

"This mistake," Coles said, "has cost the Government about $1,000,000."

Ex-Official "Flabbergasted"

Coles said the sales and requisitions were "bookkeeping transactions" thus far and that the commission had indicated last June it would look into the matter to see if some adjustment could be made.

W. R. Gherardi, of New York formerly in charge of large-vessel procurement for the WSA, replied under questioning that he was "flabbergasted" by the transaction as outlined by Coles because he had understood that neither company would benefit from provisions of the Ship Sales Act.

This law provides for price reductions in the sale of ships but was not on the statute books when the United States Lines and Grace Lines sales first were proposed.

Miller and Skinner said the ships were requisitioned because under then-existing law a ship could not be used in trade for a new vessel unless the traded ship was at least seventeen years old.

Ships Few Years Old

The ships requisitioned, they said, were only a few years old at the time of the transaction.

The commission decided to requisition them, they said, because it was cheaper than to remove wartime additions and changes which would make them fit for normal use and to pay charter hire while the ships were undergoing such reconversion.

Skinner said the commission is checking into the transaction and will report any adjustments that are made.

Bearing Firms Are Named In Trust Suits

AUG 1 1946

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Attorney General Tom Clark announced today the filing of three civil actions charging that three American and one foreign producer of anti-friction bearings have violated the anti-trust laws.

Clark said separate suits alleging that Cartel agreements had been made to control world markets in bearings were filed in Federal Court, at Cleveland, against these American companies and what he called "their foreign conspirators":

The Timken Roller Bearing Company, of Canton, Ohio; SKF Industries, Inc., of Philadelphia, and Aktiebolaget Svenska Kullagerfabriken, of Gothenburg, Sweden, and Norma-Hoffman Bearings Corporation, of Stamford, Conn.

Says Foreign Markets Curtailed

Clark said in a statement that the complaints charge that "the cartel restrictions have had the effect of preventing the American producers from supplying, seeking and acquiring foreign markets with the consequence of reducing American bearing production and American employment of labor.

"The seriousness of these restraints is emphasized by the tremendous growth of American anti-friction bearing productive capacity during the war. Yet, with all this capacity, with the vast German competition shut down, and with the world begging for bearings, almost half of our production for sale is subject to export restraint.

"We propose to break down these restraints, make the world markets free for our bearings and put more and more men to work in our factories to produce for these markets."

Charges Outlined

Assistant Attorney General Wendell Berge, head of the anti-trust division, said in a statement:

"The complaint against Timken charges a conspiracy with British Timken, Ltd., of Birmingham, England, and Societe Anonyme Francaise Timken, of Paris, France, to divide world markets and fix prices.

"Pursuant to the agreement, the American company was forbidden to export to territory allocated to the British and French companies except at prices approximately 65 per cent higher than Timken's regular export prices.

"The effect of the conspiracy, it is further charged, has been to prevent Timken from exporting its bearings, despite the demand for lower-priced American-made bearings.

"It is specifically alleged that American automobile manufacturers and their dealers abroad have been prevented from buying United States made bearings for export and have been forced, instead, to buy British and French-made bearings at higher prices."

Allegations Against SKF

Berge said the complaint against SKF Industries and Artiebolaget Svenska Kullagerfabriken "charges complicity with Officine di Villar Perosa, a subsidiary of the Italian Fiat Company, in an arrangement prohibiting SKF Industries from selling outside the United States, even to the American Territory of Puerto Rico. In exchange, the foreign companies have agreed not to invade the United States market."

The third complaint, Berge said, "charges Norma-Hoffman with conspiring with the Hoffman Manufacturing Company, Ltd., of England. Here again, the American company has been forbidden to do business outside of American territory in exchange for the agreement of the British company to stay out of the same territory."

125 Million-Dollar Business

Berge said the complaints allege that the bearing production of the three American companies totals about $125,000,000 a year. He said the anti-friction bearings produced by the defendant companies are required in the manufacture and use of machinery and equipment.

This includes household goods such as vacuum cleaners, refrigerators, washing machines and sewing machines; farm machinery such as tractors, reapers and harvesters; automobiles, trucks, railroad locomotives and cars, textile and shoe machinery, machine tools, mills, mining machinery, power generating and transmission equipment.

Berge said the three cases "arose out of the same year-long grand jury investigation of the anti-friction bearing industry in Cleveland, which resulted in the indictment a few months ago of General Motors Corporation, SKF Industries, Inc., and others on charges of domestic price fixing."

The suits ask, Berge said, that "the cartel agreements be terminated, that the defendants and their coconspirators be divested of common interests and stockholdings, that the defendants be compelled to sell to bonafide purchasers for export until the effects of the cartels have been dissipated and that the use of trade marks to divide markets be enjoined."

BREAD PRICE JUMP OF CENT IS URGED

AUG 1 1946

OPA Also to Get Recommendation for Flour Ceiling Boost Today.

WASHINGTON, July 31 — (AP) A recommendation for a cent-a-loaf bread increase and higher flour prices will be submitted to OPA Administrator Paul Porter tomorrow, a government official said tonight.

This official, who may not be identified by name, said the recommendation is based on a tentative decision against restoration of the flour subsidy at this time.

Decontrol Board to Meet

Meanwhile, the new price decontrol board announced that it expects to begin public hearings by Aug. 12 on the question of whether price ceilings should be reestablished Aug. 21 on meats, dairy products, grains, cotton seed and soy beans.

The recommendation on bread and flour was prepared by OPA food price officials in consultation with Agriculture department representatives. The approval of both Porter and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson is required to put it into effect.

The flour subsidy lapsed July 1 and thus far there has been no compensating increase in ceilings on either flour or bread.

The subsidy was designed to hold down retail prices one-cent-a-loaf on bread and about one-cent-a-pound on wheat flour.

Officials said ceilings would be increased by at least these amounts if the subsidy is not revived with possibily a further hike on flour, to offset increases in wheat prices since ceilings on that grain lapsed July 1.

Await Outcome of Study

The tentative decision against restoration of the subsidy is contingent on the outcome of a study by OPA attorneys as to whether it may be paid again before Aug. 20 when the decontrol board will decide whether to reestablish ceilings on wheat and other grains.

Roy L. Thompson, chairman of the three-man board, announced these decisions in a statement after conferences with Paul Porter and Anderson.

The board plans to hold separate hearings on each of the five categories of commodities. Hearings are required under the new price control law.

Thompson said procedures for the hearings will be determined by next Tuesday. He added that representatives of agriculture, industry and consumer groups "will be notified immediately thereafter as to the dates of the hearings and the rules under which they will be held."

Thompson noted that under the OPA revival act, ceilings automatically will be reestablished on meats, dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soy beans, as well as hundreds of products made from these items, unless the board acts by August 20.

The chairman said that when the board has made its determinations on these items, "we will then be ready to consider the second group of specifically decontrolled commodities, petroleum, poultry, eggs and leaf tobacco."

Unles the board acts to reestablish ceilings on these commodities after Aug. 20, they will remain free from price control.

"The board," Thompson said, "will not consider the decontrol of any commodities that are not specifically decontrolled under the new law until the price administrator, in the case of non-agricultural commodities, or the secretary of agriculture in the case of agriculture commodities, have first thoroughly reviewed each case and ruled against decontrol of any commodity."

HINTS STRATEGY PROLONGED WAR

AUG 1 1946

Wilson, British Chief, Was Against Riviera Invasion.

Washington, July 31 (A. P.).—Britain's Field Marshal Lord Wilson suggested today that victory in Europe may have been delayed for months by the 1944 invasion of Southern France.

Wilson disclosed in a belated report to the Combined Chiefs of Staff that chief British military leaders vainly sponsored an alternative drive through northern Italy toward Hungary which he said offered an opportunity to defeat the Germans before the end of 1944.

The American High Command held out, however, for the original plan to invade the Continent via the French Riviera to support the main effort through Normandy.

Wilson, then Allied Supreme Comander in the Mediterranean, bowed to the decision of the Combined Chiefs, and the Southern France invasion, after repeated cancellations and deferments, was carried out to quick victory.

The Field Marshal, now Britain's senior representative at the Combined Chiefs of Staff organization in Washington, then was Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson. His 20,000-word report was published by the War Department.

In it he said the target for the Mediterranean invasion force of ten divisions was still under discussion even in the midst of preparations to sail from Italy and North Africa.

With troops actually boarding the ships, there was a sudden proposal from London to divert the expedition to the Atlantic for a landing in northern France. Then five days before the August 15 Riviera D day the final decision was made.

In his proposal to attack through the Po valley with the aim of trying to bringing about the collapse of Hungary, Wilson said he had the support of British Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, the top Allied commander in Italy, and initially of the British Chiefs of Staff.

However, the Allies had committed themselves at the 1943 Tehran Conference to the southern France campaign. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower supported this plan consistently, and Gen. George C. Marshall, American Chief of Staff, advanced the consideration which Wilson said proved to be decisive.

This was that Marseilles was needed as a port to permit the rapid transfer and support of between forty and fifty American divisions still in the United States.

The operation was a drain on the strength of Alexander's Italian campaign, and Wilson said the loss of his margin of superiority in Italy was the price which had to be paid to ensure decisive results in the French theater.

WHERRY HITS OUT AT STATE DEPARTMENT

AUG 1 1946

Says Its 'Weakness' Has Made Russia Real Menace To Peace

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Senator Wherry (R., Neb.) told the Senate today that "weakness" in the State Department had led to Russia's becoming "a real menace" to peace.

His speech drew prompt replies from Senators Connally (D., Texas) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.). Both argued that James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, should have united American support at the Paris Peace Conference.

Wherry declared:

"Russia has become a real menace to the peace and security of the world.

Turns On Byrnes Aides

"But Russia could never have reached this stage in her aggression had it not been for the weakness of the State Department policy."

Wherry contended that Under Secretary Dean Acheson is "unsuited" for his office. Also, he continued, the department and Assistant Secretary Spruille Braden have been "destroying the very roots of our good neighbor policy" and in the Far East "our policies are selling out the Chinese to the Communists."

Taking the floor immediately, Connally said that with Byrnes at the peace conference it is "most unfortunate to have a broadside attack on the State Department and its policies all down the line."

Looks For Renewed Peace

Senators Connally and Vandenberg were advisers to Byrnes at the Foreign Ministers' meeting preceding the Paris Conference.

"I wish to see the peace of the world restored," Connally said. "I want to see the United States get along with all nations, and carry out its high concepts of international duty.

"But the United States is not the only nation in the world. We can't enter a conference and dictate every act that takes place. . . .

"The United States is doing all it can to establish good will through the earth. I hope the senators will aid us, and do what they can to help promote these causes, instead of making speeches criticizing and throwing obstacles in the way.

No Advantage Of Party

"There is no advantage of party in these international problems. What benefits one American benefits all Americans."

Wherry replied that his criticism was constructive in intent.

Vandenberg said he had "no quarrel" with Wherry with regard to some of the pre-Yalta dealings, or with certain aspects of the South American situation.

But, he said, regarding the five treaties now under consideration in Paris:

"In their preparation, through difficult and trying hours, I don't know how any representative of America could have been more faithful to American ideals than the present Secretary of State."

Notes Effect On World

He said he would not want the world in general "or the Soviets in particular" to think that there is any division at home behind Secretary Byrnes.

Senator Morse (R., Ore.) likewise urged the Senate to give Byrnes "the support he needs."

Wherry declared that "there is already universal recognition of the tragic fact that instead of 'being on the road to peace' we are on the road to an atomic war."

He said it is "terrifyingly obvious" that not one world of international co-operation, but two worlds of conflicting ideologies and purposes have emerged from the war.

Sees No Progress To Peace

This points up to the "tragic fact," Wherry said, that neither inside the United Nations nor in the Foreign Ministers conference of the Big Powers "are we getting on with real peacemaking."

"The fact that Russia refuses to co-operate with the rest of the world," Wherry asserted, "does not serve as an excuse to relieve this Administration of its own responsibility for these betrayals of the rights and privileges and liberties of hundreds of millions of our fellow beings both in Europe and in Asia."

Actually, he said, Russia has only been doing in her own way what American policy makers agree to permit her to do in conformity with "secret agreements" at Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam.

Turning to Latin America, the Senator said the United States had so "grossly repudiated our agreements" that "our whole future relations with South America are gravely in danger."

Sees Factories First Target

AUG 1 1946

Senator Thomas Warns U. S. Would Be Open to Attack With Deadly Weapons.

Washington, July 31 (A. P.).—Senator Eibert D. Thomas (D.-Utah) asserted today that America and all other nations possess "biological and chemical agents of undreamed effectiveness which could bring death, disease and starvation to an entire country."

The chairman of the Senate Military Committee did not enlarge on his statement in a speech prepared for delivery before the Institute on the United States in World Affairs at the American University here.

Asserting that another war "will mean the end of western civilization," he called for "a positive military policy unless we wish to forfeit the results of our recent hard won and expensive victory."

He said that the nation should preserve its present technological and scientific leadership, insist on mobility in all armed services and co-ordinate its military strength with the United Nations.

Sees Industry Hit First.

The atomic bomb, biological warfare, rockets, far-ranging planes and other developments have made the United States subject to attack, Thomas said, and a future war "would probably start with an attack, not against a naval base like Pearl Harbor, but against major industrial cities."

The United States, he said, is faced with the necessity of maintaining a military establishment "which will be effective in the eyes of foreign nations."

"Since the speed of any aggressor attack upon us would be its most important characteristic, and since it is generally conceded that there is presently no adequate defense against this type of attack," he said, "we are forced to the conclusion that our establishment must be able to retaliate in kind, and that the fear of retaliation will be the main deterrent of aggressor nations."

The Senator urged enactment of the pending Kilgore-Magnuson bill for a National Science Foundation and reorganization of the Army and Navy "based upon unitary control of the services."

ARGENTINA URGED TO JOIN FOOD BODY

AUG 1 1946

Washington, July 31 (A. P.).—Argentina will be requested soon to decide whether to join the International Emergency Food Council, Dr. Dennis A. Fitzgerald, Secretary-General, said today. He told reporters that if Argentina decides not to join, she will lose her provisional membership on the council's nine-nation central committee and be replaced at the September meeting of the nineteen member nations.

If Argentina joins the council, she will then be obligated to turn over her surplus wheat to the world pool. Argentina is one of the "big four" wheat producing countries. The others are the United States, Canada and Australia.

Fitzgerald said the note to Argentina was drafted at a recent session of the central committee in the absence of a reply from her to its membership invitation. Refusal of Argentina to join and pool her surplus wheat would complicate the placing of the grain from this and other member countries in the needy areas abroad.

The council on June 21 took over from the Combined Food Board the job of allocating food to hunger areas around the world for the next year and a half. Only the United States, Britain and Canada were represented on the board.

U. S. AND CHILE SIGN

AUG 1 1946

Washington, July 31 (A. P.).—The United States and Chile agreed today to renew for another year a provisional commercial agreement signed by the two governments on July 30, 1945. Under the agreement Chile reduces its import duties on American products "without compensation."

A State Department announcement said that the Chilean Government had agreed to continue these concessions "in the interest of the expansion and liberalization of trade in accordance with the economic objectives of the Atlantic Charter and of the Inter-American conference on problems of war and peace held in Mexico City in the spring of 1945."

The new agreement will remain in effect another twelve months unless superceded by a more comprehensive pact between the two countries. The North American products affected by the agreement range from cotton cloth to rolled iron and steel.

SERVICE CHIEFS FIGHT PROPOSAL TO TRIM FUNDS

AUG 1 1946

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) Reconversion Director John R. Steelman's proposal to slash army and navy spending, conditionally endorsed by President Truman, is vigorously opposed by the service chiefs.

Both Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, in testimony made public tonight, told the Advisory board of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion that their budgets are at a minimum now and cannot be cut any further.

More Money Needed

Eisenhower, in fact, declared that the army will need $200,000,000 more than its present appropriation of $7,264,000,000 to cover pay increases which congress voted for soldiers and civilian employes.

30-D-445/3

The hearing was held yesterday in pursuance of Steelman's recommendation July 11 for reduced federal spending, particularly by the armed services, as an anti-inflationary measure.

Mr. Truman released the report with a statement endorsing its objectives and announced that the military programs would be reviewed to see where economies might be made.

Eisenhower told the board he is much concerned that the proposed army strength of 1,070,000 men 11 months hence may be too low.

Eisenhower noted that of the final appropriation, $800,000,000 is for occupation expenses and relief and for atomic energy purposes.

Of the remaining $6,464,000,000, he said, $5,200,000,000 is the "minimum essential for an army of this size to exist."

The rest covers research, liquidation and storage of munitions, procurement of new equipment and housing.

The army's reduction, Eisenhower said, is based on some "fairly optimistic assumptions"—that the United Nations will be strengthened, that no new major difficulties will arise in Germany and Japan despite a reduction of occupation forces, and that American troops will be withdrawn from Italy and Austria under peace settlements.

Expenditures Explained

Nimitz testified that of the $6,500,000,000 navy budget $3,000,000,000 is required for war "cleanup" purposes—cancellation of contracts, "roll up" of bases, care of surplus materials, demobilization expenses and the like.

The remaining $3,500,000,000, he declared, is "essential" for the normal functioning of the navy.

Nimitz noted that no funds are provided now to modernize the fleet in the light of lessons learned at the Bikini atomic bomb tests or of new electronic developments, or for long-range construction at overseas bases.

Strategy Bills Are Expected To Die

AUG 1 194

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Three Administration bills designed to strengthen this country's hand in world power politics and to bolster American defenses are snagged in the adjournment drive now on in Congress.

Foreign policy authorities said today that only one appears to have even the slightest chance of approval before the lawmakers close up shop for the year on Friday. The others are regarded as already dead.

Military Missions

The three measures, none of which has passed either house, would:

1. Authorize the President to send military missions anywhere in the world. This is the legislation which some State Department officials believe still has a chance even though action was blocked in the Senate earlier this week.

2. Permit the President to promote standardization of arms and equipment throughout the Western Hemisphere. The aim of this legislation is to produce uniformity of military equipment from the Arctic Circle to the Antarctic tip of South America in the interest of tighter hemisphere defense.

3. Allow the President to help train and equip a Chinese Army of 1,000,000 men, provided Gen. George C. Marshall succeeds in his efforts to unify China. Diplomatic authorities have been wondering the past few days what effect Administration failure to get this China aid bill through Congress might have on Chinese opinion in the light of Marshall's thus-far futile efforts.

Nearest To Floor Action

Administration efforts have been concentrated on the military missions bill partly because it is the nearest to floor action—committees in both chambers have okayed it—and partly because some of its provisions would cover some of the same ground as the China bill. In other words, the President could still send a training mission to China.

Beyond this is the fact that United States policy framers for the Middle East—the area of Arab tensions and Russian expansionism—have been very eager to send United States military delegations to that part of the world.

In some respects, President Truman might be able, if he chose to use his wartime emergency powers, to accomplish some of the purposes of the dying legislation.

Emergency Powers

For instance, some of his advisers contend that he has authority to dispose of surplus war materials to the Chinese to help them create a new army and that on an emergency basis he presumably could maintain a military mission there for a long time.

Others, however, take the position that this is an unreliable basis on which to build major United States policy.

The Arms Standardization Bill would have permitted a type of renewed lend-lease operation for South American countries in order to interest them in United States arms. This program, however, has never appealed to the British, who do not want to lose their arms market in South America.

EGYPTIAN PHYSICIAN TOURS NAVY HOSPITALS

WASHINGTON, July 31 AP)—The Egyptian under-secretary of state for public health, Dr. Ali Tewfik Shousha Pasha, left on a tour of naval medical activities on the East coast, the navy announced today.

He is scheduled to visit Navy hospitals at Dublin, Ga., and Pensacola, Fla., and the New London (Conn.) naval base. Plans also call for a side trip to the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

Dr. Shousha Pasha was the Egyptian delegate to the recent international health conference in New York. The navy credits him for invaluble aid and assistance to a navy research unit in Cairo which discovered a cure for cholera.

ADMIRAL MILLER RETIRES

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Rear Admiral M.B. ("Min") Miller, at 43 the navy's youngest admiral, retired today as the navy's director of public information to join Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., as a vice president in charge of public relations. Capt. Ernest M. Eller, who has been deputy director, will take over Miller's post.

4 G. I.'S FLY HOME ON TRUMAN PLANE

AUG 1 194

Washington, July 31 (A. P.).—Four G. I.'s who were granted emergency furloughs arrived today from Europe aboard President Truman's plane, Sacred Cow, which had carried Secretary of State Byrnes to the Paris Peace Conference. They were furloughed and sent back on the giant plane because of illness in their families. One, T/4 Chester B. Utecht, 19 years old, Hamtramck, Mich., failed to get home in time to see his father who died while young Utecht was en route.

The others were identified by the Army as Pfc. Charles Churasko, 19, Maizville, Tenn., First Division Field Artillery Battalion, on detached service at Nuernburg, Germany, his mother is ill; Pvt. Walter J. Fisher, 19, of Hazeltown, Pa., 343d Engineer Battalion, stationed at Bieseck, Germany. His father is ill; Tech. Sgt. John S. Gurkot, 23, of Kaska, Pa., air photographer, on detached service at Madrid, Spain, but regularly stationed at Erlangen, Germany. His father is critically ill.

After their arrival, Army Air Force officers quickly shunted them to other planes for the final laps of their journey.

Five Billion Boost In U.S. Costs Seen

AUG 1 194

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Government expenditures during the current fiscal year probably will run $4,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 higher than the $35,864,000,000 contemplated last January, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder indicated today.

Nevertheless, he said, the Administration is trying to achieve a balance between spending and income. He said that $5,000,000,000 to $6,000,000,000 had been added to the January estimates by appropriations since that time, but he also said that about $1,000,000,000 would be cut off the January spending estimate by elimination of subsidies in the revision of OPA.

The January estimate of income was $31,500,000,000 and President Truman then said a $4,300,000,000 deficit was expected in the fiscal twelve-month ending next June 30. Incomes estimates have been increased, however, as the result of high-tax collections.

U.S. Judges' Raises Okayed

Washington, July 31 (AP)—President Truman today signed legislation raising the salaries of the nation's 300 Federal judges by $5,000 a year.

The raise blankets the Federal judiciary, from district judges to the Chief Justice of the United States. Thus, Chief Justice Vinson will get $25,500 annually and the associate justices $25,000. Pay of Circuit Court judges goes up to $17,500, and that of district judges to $15,000.

'Mississippianism' Vs. Communism

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Representative Barrett (D., Pa.) declared today that "Mississippianism" is more a menace to the country than communism.

In a statement urging congressional action on the anti-lynching bill, even if it meant prolonging the session of Congress scheduled to end Friday, Barrett said:

"We have been living in constant fear of communism seeping into the United States from the East. It is my opinion that we should be even more concerned about 'Mississippianism' creeping into the North from the South.

"This is exemplified by the lynchings in the last few days, which is embittering the Negro population of the North.

"Immediate steps must be taken to prevent this inhumane and dastardly deplorable situation. Those who are responsible for the loss of the lives of the Negro people should be properly and adequately punished."

Atomic Inspection Question Exaggerated, Gromyko Says

F. CARPENTER

AUG 1 194

New York, July 31 (AP)—Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, declared today that the question of inspectors in control of atomic energy had been "greatly exaggerated in importance." He said the only real method of control is "by the co-operation of the United Nations."

NIGHT

The Soviet delegate spoke at length to members of the Committee No. 2 of the United Nations Atomic Energy Committee at a closed meeting in which he dealt with phases of Russia's proposed plan for harnessing atomic energy for peaceful purposes. His remarks were made public by the United Nations press department.

In Three-Hour Meeting

The committee in a three-hour meeting decided to ask the scientific and technical committee, another branch of the commission, to hand in a report on the question whether effective control is possible and to indicate methods by which this control could be achieved. This action was taken on the suggestion of Alexandre Parodi, French delegate.

Gromyko made it clear that Russia feels the United Nations, "and first and foremost the Security Council," should have the responsibility of enforcing the convention that Russia has proposed for controlling atomic power.

The Soviet delegate did not mention the United States plan specifically in his comments on inspections, but one of the cardinal points of the American proposal is for thorough and free right of inspection by agents of a proposed atomic development authority.

Not Reconcilable

Gromyko said the proposed inspection plan is not reconcilable with the principles of sovereignty of states.

Besides, he said "no inspection as such can guarantee peace and security."

"This idea of inspection," he added, "of atomic energy is greatly exaggerated in importance. It is a too superficial understanding of the problem of control."

Declaring that the only real method of control is "by the co-operation of the United Nations," the Russian delegate said that thus the main condition for the maintenance of international peace and security is international co-operation.

"But," he said, "the Soviet proposal goes further and provides for the signatory states (states signing the convention proposed by Russia) to enact legislation providing severe punishment for the violation of the convention."

"The Soviet proposal," he continued, "presupposes also international action and, if necessary, sanctions for violations of the convention. The Soviet proposal provides that the United Nations and, first and foremost, the Security Council shall take international action to insure the maintenance of those provisions of the Charter which deal with international peace and security and, therefore, also with the enforcement of the convention."

Apparently Refers To U.S.

Apparently, referring to the United States insistence on its plan, Gromyko said:

"We are told in the Atomic-Energy Commission that either you accept our plan or we will refuse to conclude a convention to prohibit the production and use of atomic weapons. This attitude is neither right nor lawful. Public opinion and the peoples of the world will not understand the reasons for refusing to conclude a convention as proposed by the Soviet Government."

Russia has proposed an international treaty outlawing atomic weapons, calling for the destruction of atomic bombs within three months after the convention becomes effective and for the enactment of legislation by the signatory states providing penalties for violations of the convention.

Question Of Destruction

The Australian delegate, Ralph Harry, mentioned in a statement, before Gromyko spoke, the question of how bombs should be destroyed.

Gromyko said it is clear "that destruction of the stock piles (of bombs) means destruction. The question of how this should be done technically is a secondary question. This could be discussed later. The important thing is to agree on the principle of destruction of stock piles."

Gromyko also was asked about the international measures states should take to prevent violations.

"Without doubt the Soviet Government considers that the strongest measures should be taken against violations of the convention," he said.

Further Stateemnts Welcomed

John Hancock, United States representative on the committee, told the committee that the United States delegations welcomed further statements and elaborations from the delegates. He indicated in his remarks that the United States delegation would welcome every statement with regard to the problem before the commission.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, of Canada, in a brief comment said that Gromyko recognizes "that the conclusion of the kind of convention he has proposed must be accompanied by provisions of some safeguards" and asked Gromyko to indicate "what measures he has in mind."

Soviet Atom Plan To Be Discussed

AUG 1 1946

A HARRELSON

New York, July 31 (AP)—Delegates to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission were called into session today to reopen discussion of Soviet Russia's proposal to outlaw the production and use of atomic weapons immediately.

As they prepared to meet in closed sessions of Committee No. 2, several delegates were reported ready to question Soviet Representative Andrei A. Gromyko at length on how he proposed to prevent illegal manufacture of atomic weapons.

In his plan, as outlined last week, the Soviet delegate touched only briefly on the question of controls, devoting almost all of his time to arguments in favor of outlawing the lethal bombs.

DAY

Punishment By Nations

The only control system he mentioned was a suggestion that each country adopt legislation providing for punishment of persons who violated the terms of the proposed international convention. No provisions were recommended for punishment of governments which themselves produced atomic weapons in violation of the convention.

The delegates from the United States, the Netherlands and Brazil, indicated they wanted to hear more details of what Russia had in mind. At the same time, they all made it clear that they favored a much stronger control plan than that suggested by Gromyko in his declaration.

Committee No. 2, made up of the same delegates who sit on the Atomic Commission itself, is charged with the responsibility of drafting a control plan. So far it has heard Gromyko reject the main points of the United States plan and advocate his own program.

Points Of Disagreement

Both the United States and Soviet plans agree that atomic weapons should be outlawed, but the United States wants a strong system of controls set up first, while Russia wants the banning of the weapons to be the first step.

After today's discussion of the Russian plan, the delegates were scheduled to start work trying to list the points on which there was some degree of accord. It appeared, however, that these points would be very few.

Meanwhile, two other committees of the Atomic Commission—the Legal Advisory Committee and the Scientific and Technical Committee—continued to mark time. Both held informal closed meetings yesterday, but it was generally agreed that there was little they could do until some measure of agreement was reached in Committee No. 2.

UN GROUP MEETS NO. CASTLE REBUFF

AUG 1 1946

N. Y. Town Supervisor Tells Commission Board Opposed to Home There.

NEW YORK, July 31—(AP) James D. Hopkins, town supervisor of North Castle, N. Y., told the United Nations Headquarters commission today that the town board was opposed to the location of permanent UN headquarters at North Castle.

Hopkins spoke at the first of the commission's three closed meetings held during the day at White Plains with representatives of three Westchester county towns. The commission is hearing local sentiment on the 15 potential sites it listed in Westchester and Fairfield county, Conn.

One of the three sites in the North Castle area, Hopkins said, would practically eliminate the town of North Castle by taking in 80 per cent of the town and displacing 2,500 residents. He added that another of the potential sites would include 50 per cent of the town and that the third would take over 2 1-2 square miles of the town's area.

Hopkins was given a list of 1 specific questions on local sentiment and asked to submit in writing the views he expressed today together with answers to the questions.

Representatives of the towns of Cortlandt and Rye were given the same list of questions and asked to turn in memoranda on the local sentiment in their vicinities.

Similar meetings will be held tomorrow with representatives of Poundridge and Bedford, N. Y., and Stamford and Greenwich, Conn.

Rocket Rises 104 Miles To New Mark

White Sands, N.M., July 31 (AP)—A German V-2 rocket soared 104 miles for a new world's altitude record yesterday in a test at the Army's proving grounds here.

The 14-ton guided missile, assembled from captured parts, beat by 20.5 miles the record set July 9 in the seventh of the tests. Another firing is slated for August 8.

Observers said the rocket roared smoothly aloft, disappearing behind a slight overcast in about twenty seconds. It descended 69 miles north of the launching platform.

Col. Harold R. Turner, commandant, said the rocket carried instruments in the nose which were expected to provide information never before available about cosmic rays, temperatures and pressure at altitudes above 100 miles.

NIGHT LEAD GERMAN ECONOMIC

LONDON, JULY 31-(AP)-AMERICAN AND BRITISH AUTHORITIES MAY ACHIEVE A WORKING ECONOMIC MERGER OF THEIR TWO OCCUPATION ZONES OF GERMANY WITHIN THREE OR FOUR WEEKS, A HIGH U.S.OFFICIAL SAID IN BERLIN TODAY.

A BERLIN DISPATCH REPORTED THE OFFICIAL SAID THE MERGER PLANS WERE GOING AHEAD FOLLOWING YESTERDAY'S MEETING OF THE ALLIED CONTROL COUNCIL IN WHICH THE RUSSIANS TURNED DOWN, AT LEAST TEMPORARILY, AN AMERICAN PROPOSL TO INTEGRATE THE U.S.ZONE ECONOMICALLY WITH ANY OR ALL OF THE OTHER ZONES.

THE RUSSIAN MEMBER, MARSHAL VASSILY SOKOLOVSKY, PROPOSED A FOUR-POWER COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE WHOLE QUESTION OF GERMAN ECONOMIC UNITY.

AUG 1 1946

A BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE SPOKESMAN TODAY SAID BRITAIN WAS STUDYING THIS SOVIET SUGGESTION.

THE U.S.OFFICIAL IN BERLIN SAID THE AMERICANS AND BRITISH WOULD POOL RESOURCES OF THE TWO ZONES, INCLUDING FOOD, AND EXPORTS WOULD BE ENCOURAGED TO PAY FOR IMPORTS, REDUCING THE BURDEN PLACED ON BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES.

CONFEREES, HE ADDED, HAVE AGREED TENTATIVELY TO FORM JOINT AGENCIES FOR INDUSTRY, TRADE, COMMERCE, AND FINANCE, AND JOINT AGENCIES FOR FOOD, AGRICULTURE, TRANSPORTATION AND COMMUNICATIONS PROBABLY WILL BE SET UP ALSO.

FRANCE HAS NOT YET REPLIED TO THE MERGER PROPOSAL.

A SOVIET BROADCAST DECLARED THAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE FEARED THAT THE AMERICAN MERGER PLAN WOULD ENCOURAGE AMERICAN DOMINATION AND "WIN CONSIDERABLE CONCESSIONS FOR LARGE AMERICAN MONOPOLIES." IT CHARGED THAT THE UNITED STATES WAS SEEKING "AN EXTENSIVE OPENING FOR AMERICAN GOODS EVERYWHERE," AND WAS "TRYING TO ESTABLISH ITS OWN CONTROL OVER GERMANY'S REPARATIONS DELIVERIES" IN A QUEST FOR OPEN MARKETS.

AUG 1 1946

IN MOSCOW, THE JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY ASSAILED "AMERICAN IMPERIALISTS," CHARGING THEY WERE "TURNING JAPAN INTO A COLONIAL POSSESSION AND MONOPOLY MARKET AND ESTATE OF AMERICAN CAPITAL."

30-24-4515

IT DECLARED AMERICAN AND BRITISH CAPITAL WAS TRYING TO SET UP MONOPOLY ECONOMIC INFLUENCE OVER BIG AND LITTLE STATES OF EUROPE IN THE FORM OF "ECONOMIC HELP TO THESE COUNTRIES AND TURN THEM INTO WEAPONS OF POLITICAL USE AND PRESSURE."

PARIS, JULY 31-(AP)-THE PARIS PEACE CONFERENCE'S RULES COMMITTEE BEGAN FUNCTIONING WITH NEWSMEN SITTING AS OFFICIALLY INVITED OBSERVERS TODAY AND ONLY A LITTLE CONFUSION MARKED THE HISTORIC STEP. NEVER BEFORE HAD A PEACE CONFERENCE BEEN THROWN OPEN FULLY TO NEWSPAPER REPORTERS.

AUG 1 1946

THE NEWSPAPERMEN HAD ONE COMPLAINT. THEY WERE A BIT FAR FROM THE DELEGATES THEMSELVES IN THE CONFERENCE HALL.

THERE WERE 67 REPORTERS PRESENT WHEN THE GAVEL FELL. OTHERS DRIFTED IN QUIETLY DURING THE SESSION. A DOZEN PHOTOGRAPHERS, OPERATED IN THE ROOM. THEY USED A RICKETY STEPLADDER TO MANUFACTURE A VANTAGE POINT FOR TAKING PICTURES.

THE CORRESPONDENTS WERE RESTRICTED TO ONE END OF THE HALL, WHERE THEY SAT ON GILDED CHAIRS ON THE SAME FLOOR LEVEL WITH THE DELEGATES. NINE MEMBERS OF THE GARDE REPUBLICAINE, FRANCE'S ACE POLICE FORCE, LINED THE AISLE LEADING TO THE GREEN BAIZE TABLE UP FRONT. NO AMOUNT OF ARGUING COULD GET THE CORRESPONDENTS PAST THAT THIN BLUE LINE.

BUT JEAN MARIN, WHO IS HANDLING PRESS ARRANGEMENTS, SAID HE HOPED TO GET THE CORRESPONDENTS SEATED RIGHT UP IN THE ARENA, LOOKING OVER THE SHOULDERS OF THE RULES COMMITTEE DELEGATES THEMSELVES. HE TRIED BEFORE AND WAS TURNED DOWN, BUT WILL TRY AGAIN, HE SAID.

IT WAS HARD TO SEE THE DELEGATES SEATED IN THEIR RINK CHAIRS AROUND AN OVAL TABLE, AND ONLY SLIGHTLY EASIER TO HEAR THEM.

BERLIN, JULY 31-(AP)-A HIGH AMERICAN OFFICIAL PREDICTED TODAY THAT PLANS FOR AN ECONOMIC MERGER OF THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN OCCUPATION ZONES IN GERMANY, ON WHICH REPRESENTATIVES OF THE TWO COUNTRIES NOW ARE WORKING, WOULD BRING ABOUT A WORKABLE FUSION WITHIN THREE OR FOUR WEEKS.

THE OFFICIAL SAID THAT AMERICAN AND BRITISH REPRESENTATIVES WERE PREPARING A SETUP WHICH WOULD POOL THE RESOURCES OF THE TWO ZONES--INCLUDING FOOD, AND WOULD PUSH EXPORTS TO RAISE MONEY TO PAY FOR NECESSARY IMPORTS, THUS EASING THE BURDEN ON U.S. AND BRITISH TAXPAYERS.

HE DECLARED THE CONFEREES HAD AGREED TENTATIVELY TO FORM JOINT AGENCIES FOR INDUSTRY, TRADE, COMMERCE AND FINANCE AND ADDED THAT THERE ALMOST CERTAINLY WOULD BE JOINT AGENCIES FOR FOOD, AGRICULTURE, TRANSPORTATION AND COMMUNICATIONS.

EACH OF THESE AGENCIES WILL BE COMPOSED OF GERMAN ADMINISTRATORS UNDER GERMAN MINISTERS OF STATE, WHO WILL WORK DIRECTLY UNDER A JOINT AMERICAN-BRITISH ECONOMICS BOARD. THERE WILL BE NO POLITICAL INTEGRATION OF THE ZONES.

THE RUSSIANS HAVE TURNED DOWN, AT LEAST FOR THE PRESENT, THE AMERICAN OFFER TO INTEGRATE THE U.S. ZONE ECONOMICALLY WITH ANY OR ALL THREE OF THE OTHER ZONES IN GERMANY, WHILE THE FRENCH HAVE NOT YET GIVEN A DEFINITE ANSWER.

THE SOVIET REPRESENTATIVE ON THE ALLIED CONTROL COUNCIL HAS STATED THAT HIS GOVERNMENT FEELS THAT ECONOMIC UNIFICATION SHOULD GO HAND IN HAND WITH POLITICAL UNIFICATION AND THAT IT FEARS PIECEMEAL INTEGRATION MIGHT RESULT IN DISMEMBERMENT OF GERMANY.

JERUSALEM, JULY 31-(AP)-CIVIC LIFE IN THE MODERN ALL-JEWISH CITY OF TEL AVIV WAS AT A STANDSTILL TODAY AS AN UNPRECEDENTED MANHUNT BY 20,000 RED-BERETED BRITISH TOMMIES WENT INTO ITS SECOND DAY, WITH 133 MEN AND 10 WOMEN ALREADY UNDER ARREST.

A HIGH RANKING OFFICER SAID THE ROUNDUP OF UNDERGROUND MEMBERS WANTED FOR QUESTIONING IN CONNECTION WITH THE BOMBING LAST WEEK OF THE KING DAVID HOTEL HERE AND OTHER OUTBREAKS OF VIOLENCE IN THE HOLY LAND, WOULD CONTINUE FOR TWO OR THREE MORE DAYS. UP TO 3,000 ARRESTS WERE EXPECTED.

AUG 1 1946

THE 200,000 RESIDENTS OF TEL AVIV SUBMITTED WITH RESIGNATION TO THE ROUNDUP AND THE IMPOSITION OF A 22-HOUR CURFEW. BLARING LOUD SPEAKERS ANNOUNCED THE CURFEW, WHICH WAS BACKED UP BY TIGER TANKS AND PARADING TROOPS.

BUILDING BY BUILDING, THE HOB-NAILED TOMMIES COMBED THE CITY, SEEKING PRINCIPALLY MEMBERS OF IRGUN ZVAI LEUMI AND THE STERN GANG, JEWISH UNDERGROUND ORGANIZATIONS.

SUSPECTS WERE WHISKED TO HASTILY ERECTED BARBED WIRE CAGES, AND THEN THE MEN WERE TAKEN TO RAFA PRISON CAMP AND THE WOMEN TO LATRUN DETENTION CAMP.

ALL UTILITIES IN TEL AVIV WERE SHUT DOWN YESTERDAY AND REGULAR COMMUNICATIONS WERE SUSPENDED UNTIL "FURTHER NOTIE." ALL TRAFFIC AND COMMUNICATIONS WERE SUSPENDED UNTIL "FURTHER NOTICE." ALL TRAFFIC AND MOST ACTIVITIES WERE AT A STANDSTILL. RAF ENGINEERS TOOK OVER POWER PLANTS.

"IT'S A BIG AND EXTREMELY UNPLEASANT TASK," COMMENTED MAJ.GEN. A.J.H.CASSELS, COMMANDING THE OPERATIONS. HE ADDED THAT "BY HOOK OR BY CROOK WE MUST FIND AND DETAIN THESE GANGS."

NIGHT LEAD INDIAN (270)

BY G.MILTON KELLY

BOMBAY, JULY 31-(AP)-MAHOMED ALI JINNAH, PRESIDENT OF THE ALL-INDIA MOSLEM LEAGUE, SAID TODAY THE LEAGUE HAD NOT CLOSED THE DOORS TO FURTHER NEGOTIATIONS ON INDIAN INDEPENDENCE, BUT DECLARED THAT ANY NEW STEP TOWARD SETTLEMENT MUST COME EITHER FROM THE BRITISH OR THE CONGRESS PARTY.

HE TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE THAT THE VICEROY EVEN NOW WAS SEEKING TO BRING THE CONGRESS PARTY AND OTHER FACTIONS INTO AGREEMENT ON A PLAN FOR AN INTERIM GOVERNMENT.

BUT HE CHARGED THAT THE CONGRESS PARTY, INTENT UPON ACHIEVING ITS OWN AIMS IN THE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY, WAS PREPARING A GIGANTIC CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE MOVEMENT "A THOUSAND TIMES WORSE [illegible] 1942" IF IT FAILED OF ITS OBJECTIVES IN THE ASSEMBLY.

HE CHARGED ALSO THAT MEMBERS OF THE FORMER INDIAN NATIONAL ARMY AND OTHERS WERE RECRUITING AND DRILLING FOLLOWERS OF THE CONGRESS PARTY FOR PARTICIPATION IN SUCH A PROGRAM IF THE CONGRESS PARTY DEEMED IT NECESSARY.

THUS, HE SAID, THE MOSLEM LEAGUE'S WITHDRAWAL OF ITS ACCEPTANCE OF BRITISH CABINET MISSION PROPOSALS WAS PURELY A DEFENSIVE MEASURE TAKEN FOR "SELF PRESERVATION." HE SAID HE SUMMONED THE NEWS CONFERENCE BECAUSE THE WITHDRAWAL DECISION, REACHED MONDAY BY THE LEAGUE'S COUNCIL OF ACTION, MIGHT NOT BE PROPERLY UNDERSTOOD ABROAD.

THE COUNCIL OF ACTION, POLICY MAKING BODY OF THE LEAGUE, ANNOUNCED MONDAY IT HAD EXHAUSTED ALL AVENUES FOR A PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT OF THE LEAGUE'S DEMANDS FOR SAFEGUARDS IN THE WRITING OF AN INDIAN CONSTITUTION, AND INSTRUCTED THE LEAGUE WORKING COMMITTEE TO DEVELOP A PROGRAM OF "DIRECT ACTION" TO ACHIEVE AN INDEPENDENT MOSLEM STATE (PAKISTAN).

JINNAH SAID THIS ACTION WAS NOT "A DECLARATION OF WAR AGAINST ANYONE," BUT HE DECLINED TO EXPLAIN WHAT FORM THE "DIRECT ACTION" MIGHT TAKE.

(IN LONDON, AN OFFICIAL SOURCE SAID THE BRITISH CABINET WOULD CONSIDER "THE INDIAN SITUATION AS A WHOLE" IN THE LIGHT OF THE MOSLEM LEAGUE'S REJECTION OF INDEPENDENCE PROPOSALS, AND EXPRESSED OFFICIAL DISAPPOINTMENT AT THE DEVELOPMENT.)

REJECTION WAS CONTAINED IN A "POLITELY BUT FRANKLY" WORDED MEMORANDUM APPROVED FOR DELIVERY TOMORROW TO LORD STANSGATE, ACTING HEAD OF THE BRITISH DELEGATION.

HE GAVE THIS SUMMARY OF THE SITUATION:

THE BRITISH WANT THE PRESIDENT OF A PROPOSED JOINT DEFENSE BOARD EMPOWERED TO CALL THE BOARD INTO SESSION AND DESIRE THAT THE BOARD HAVE AUTHORITY TO PERMIT THE RETURN OF BRITISH TROOPS TO EGYPT WHEN IT DECIDES THERE IS A THREAT OF WAR. THE EGYPTIANS INSIST THAT THE BOARD MEET ONLY AT THE CALL OF EITHER GOVERNMENT AND THAT EGYPT RESERVE THE RIGHT TO DECIDE WHEN BRITISH TROOPS SHALL OPERATE IN THE NILE KINGDOM.

THE BRITISH PROPOSE TO COMPLETE THE EVACUATION OF THEIR ARMED FORCES FROM EGYPT IN FIVE YEARS, WHILE THE EGYPTIANS WANT THE TIME LIMIT FIXED AT ONE YEAR.

THE BRITISH WANT TO REMOVE THE QUESTION OF SOVEREIGNTY FROM NEGOTIATIONS REGARDING THE SUDAN, NOW ADMINISTERED JOINTLY BY BRITAIN AND EGYPT.

SECOND NIGHT LEAD WAR CRIMES

AUG 1 1946

BY TOM LAMBERT

TOKYO, THURSDAY, AUG.1-(AP)-ADOCUMENT INTRODUCED TODAY IN THE TRIAL OF 27 JAPANESE CHARGED WITH WAR CRIMES SAID JAPAN'S BELIEF THAT THE UNITED STATES WOULD NOT PROTEST REMOVED THE LAST POSSIBLE BARRIER TO FORMAL RECOGNITION (BY JAPAN) OF THE SO-CALLED "INDEPENDENT STATE" HER ARMIES SET UP IN MANCHURIA.

THE DOCUMENT GAVE THE FOLLOWING VERSION OF CONVERSATIONS AT A 1932 CABINET MEETING AT WHICH FORMAL RECOGNITION OF "MANCHUKUO" AS AN "INDEPENDENT STATE...FREELY FORMED BY THE WILL OF HER OWN PEOPLE..."WAS PROCLAIMED:

WHILE EMPEROR HIROHITO LISTENED GRAVELY, SOME OF HIS MINISTERS EXPRESSED UNEASINESS OF POSSIBLE UNITED STATES REACTION TO THE RECOGNITION.

ONE COUNSELLOR REPLIED THAT AMERICAN AUTHORIES IN WASHINGTON ALREADY HAD BEEN APPROACHED INFORMALLY, AND HAD SAID THEY HAD "NOT THE SLIGHTEST INTENTION" OF PROTESTING OR OF CONVOLING A NINE-POWER CONFERENCE, "INASMUCH AS THERE WAS NO HOPE OF SUCH A CONFERENCE REACHING ANY CONCLUSION."

FIVE YEARS LATER, IN THE FALL OF 1937, ANOTHER DOCUMENT SAID, THE CABINET OUTLINED A PLAN TO ESTABLISH HEAVY INDUSTRY IN MANCHUKUO.

ITS PRODUCTS, DESTINED TO STRENGTHEN JAPAN'S WAR MACHINE, WERE TO RECEIVE PREFERENTIAL TREATMENT DESPITE MANCHUKUO'S "INDEPENDENCE," ONE PARAGRAPH OF THE SECOND DOCUMENT EXPLAINED. DISCUSSING SUCH IMPORTS, IT EXPLAINED THAT "THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT WILL NOT IN REALITY HANDLE THEM AS FOREIGN GOODS, IN RELATION TO CUSTOMS DUTIES AND OTHER THINGS."

A THIRD DOCUMENT OUTLINED THE KWANTUNG ARMY'S PLAN FOR JAPANESE CONTROL OF NEWSPAPERS AND NEWS AGENCIES IN MANCHURIA.

HIS AFFIDAVIT, READ BY THE PROSECUTION, ALSO ALLEGED THAT THE 1928 TRAIN-EXPLOSION KILLING OF THE CHINESE COMMANDER IN MANCHURIA, MARSHAL CHANG TSO-LIN, "WAS PLANNED AND BROUGHT ABOUT BY ELEMENTS OF THE KWANTUNG ARMY" WHO WERE DISSATISFIED WITH THE MILDNESS OF TOKYO POLICY.

"THERE WAS NO POPULAR MOVEMENT IN MANCHURIA FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF AN INDEPENDENT GOVERNMENT," MORISHIMA TESTIFIED. THIS MOVE TO SEPARATE FROM CHINA "WAS SPONSORED AND INSPIRED BY THE KWANTUNG ARMY."

THE MANCHURIAN PHASE OF THE TRIAL IS DRAWING TO A CLOSE, IT WAS INDICATED BY JOHN DARSEY OF WASHINGTON,D.C., SPEIAL PROSECUTOR.

STATEMEMENTS AND TESTIMONY INTRODUCED BY THE PROSECUTION WEDNESDAY POINTED UP THE DUPLICITY AND CYNICISM WITH WHICH JAPAN PROMOTED HER POLICIES IN MANCHURIA.

THESE POLICIES WERE DOMINATED BY THE ALL-POWERFUL KWANTUNG ARMY, WHICH AS FAR BACK AS 1923, DOCUMENTS SHOWED, HAD IN MIND THE COMPLETE CONTROL OF MANCHURIA.

AUG 1 1946

AN INTERROGATION OF SADAO ARAKI, ONCE WAR MINISTER AND NOW A DEFENDANT, IN REGARD TO THE KWANTUNG ARMY'S SUGGESTION FOR QUICK RECOGNITION OF MANCHUKUO BY JAPAN WAS PLACED IN THE RECORD.

IT QUOTED ARAKI AS REPLYING THAT WHILE JAPAN WAS "READY AND DETERMINED TO EFFECT RECOGNITION", HASTY ACTION SHOULD BE AVOIDED AS IT WOULD HAVE A "DELICATE BEARING ON VARIOUS CIRCLES AT HOME AND ABROAD." CARE WAS ADVISED LEST JAPAN'S "MOTIVES X X LEAK OUT," SOMETHING ARAKI DECLARED WOULD BE "EXTREMELY DISADVANTAGEOUS."

AMONG OTHER DOCUMENTS INTRODUCED TO TRACE THE ATTITUDE TOWARD MANCHURIA WAS ONE WHICH BROUGHT OUT THAT JAPAN WANTED ITS PUPPET STATE THERE AS A BASE FOR "WORLDWIDE ECONOMIC EXPANSION."
